and probably Robert, who was there slightly earlier. Perhaps he is the same as the John who married Jane Irvine and was living at Muselee in 1792. John (18th C.) married Margaret Laidlaw in Wilton Parish in 1780. Their children included Isabel (b.1782). John (18th C.) tenant farmer at Borthwickbrae according to the Horse Tax Rolls of 1790-91. He may be the same as one of the other Johns. John (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He married Jane Irvine in Roberton in 1781. Their children included Margaret (b.1792), baptised in Roberton; and Mary (b.1799), baptised in Ettrick Parish. John (18th C.) skinner in Hawick. His daughter Sarah died in 1798. John `Gover’ (d.bef. 1809) Hawick resident whose wife Betty Cunningham died in 1795. The death of his daughter Isabel is recorded in Hawick in 1809. He could be related to the later ‘Gover’. John (18th C.) resident of Weens in 1790 when his son Thomas was baptised in Hobkir Parish. Sir John of Ancrum (1757–1812) son of John, who was 3rd son of Sir John, 3rd Baronet of Ancrum. He was born at Longnewton. His father succeeded to Craigtentinnie in right of his mother, taking the additional surname of Nisbet. He became the 5th Baronet of Ancrum, succeeding his uncle Sir William. He was a Cornet with the Royal Regiment of Horse Guards, then with the Horse Grenadiers and 17th Foot. He was listed on the roll of electors for Roxburghshire in 1780. He was recorded at Ancrum on the 1785–97 Horse Tax Rolls. He subscribed to 2 copies of Burns ‘Edinburgh Edition’ in 1787. He was listed among the voters of Roxburghshire in 1788 (when described as ‘once Aide-de-camp to the late General Mackay, Commander-in-Chief, but now not employed. At present unfit for business’. In 1794 he was appointed Major-Commandant with the Roxburgh Cavalry, later being promoted to Colonel and travelling with them to Ireland. He (as well as his mother, Mrs. Scott Nisbet) paid tax for having both male and female servants in the period 1778–91, and just himself from 1792-97. He was recorded at Ancrum on the 1785–97 Horse Tax Rolls and in the period 1792–98 was taxed for owning a carriage. He was additionally taxed for having 2 non-working dogs in 1797. He was recorded as owner of an estate in Ancrum Parish valued at more than £2000 in 1788 and 1811. He was one of the founder members of the Jedforest Club in 1810, and presented them with a snuff mull, which was used at dinners long afterwards. He was recorded as a freeholder in the Michaelmas Head-Court of Jedburgh in 1811. In 1792 he married Harriet, daughter of William Graham of Gartmore. They had 2 sons and 4 daughters: Sir John, who succeeded; Sir William, who succeeded his brother; Harriet, who married George Oldmixon; Elizabeth, who married Col. de Feve-\- las; Margaret; and Lucy. He was buried in Old Greyfriars in Edinburgh. John, W.S. of Midhope (1757–1803) 3rd son of William of Woll and brother of Charles. He was apprentice to lawyer Cornelius Elliot. In 1780 he received the superiority of lands in Merton from Walter Scott of Harden, but renounced them again in 1791. He also acquired the estate of Glenormiston in Peebleshire. He was apprenticed to Cornelius Elliot of Wolfelee and became Writer to the Signet in 1784. In 1782 he married Beatrice, daughter of Thomas Caverhill. His children were: William of Teviot Bank; and James of Ellem. He could be the Edinburgh lawyer who was made an Honorary Burgess of Hawick in 1778. In 1788 he was listed among the voters of Selkirkshire, and described as being a supporter of Scott of Buccleuch, but having his ‘real vote from his father’. Lieut. John of Synton (d.1796) only son of Alexander. He is probably the John of Synton who paid the land tax in 1785 for Synton and Synton Mill. In 1788 he was recorded as owner of Satchells (valued at £200). He was Lieutenant in the 57th Regiment and died in Grenada. He left no male heirs, but had 2 surviving sisters Catherine and Helen, the first of whom inherited the Synton estate. John of Horsleyhill, see Capt. Francis James of Horsleyhill. John (1749–1824) married Elizabeth Thomson (1758–c.92) in Hawick in 1770. Their children included: Dr. William (1773–1884), surgeon who made his fortune in the West Indies; Ann (1778–1852), who married miller John White; and Elizabeth (1786–1853), who married Thomas Wemyss. John (18th C.) listed in the 1785–91 cart tax records as ‘John Scott Post’ and ‘John Scott the Post’, suggesting that he was deliverer of mail at that time. John (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was Helen Learmonth and their children included Benjamin (b.1769). John (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He may have been related to the earlier shoemaker of the same name. He is recorded as a shoemaker when his son Thomas died in 1787 and when his daughter Peggy died in 1794. He could be the John who married Elizabeth Aitkin, with children including Thomas (b.1782), Mary (b.1784), Margaret (b.1786) and Henrietta (b.1792). The witnesses in 1792 were Peter Young and Thomas Rae. John (18th C.) Scott

described as ‘analysts of Valuation Books’. He wrote an analysis of the land valuations of Selkirkshire for the Commissioners of Supply for that county in 1785 and another for Roxburghshire in 1788. These contain valuable details about how lands had changed hands between the 1643 and 1678 valuations, and then continuing through the 18th century. He may have worked in Edinburgh, but is seems fairly likely that he was associated with one of the local Scott families. He may be the same as one of the other Johns. John (18th/19th C.) farmer at Bawlie Mains, which he leased from Walter Scott of Harden in 1770 for 7 years. He is recorded as farmer there in the 1787–97 Horse Tax Rolls. He also owned 4 farm horses there in 1797. In 1811 it is recorded that he had feued the part of Lilliesleaf Common known as Stotfield and Nolt-lair from William Riddell of Camieston. It is possible he is the same as John of Synton. John (d.bef. 1787) resident of Hawick Parish. He was already deceased when the death of his wife Betty Lunn is recorded. John (d.1809) tailor in Hawick. He was brother of Walter, wright, who was already deceased in 1809. He could be the tailor whose son John died in 1777. It is possible he was the ‘John Wyndhead’ whose son Walter the tailor died in 1810. John (1749/50–1828) schoolmaster in Ancrum. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825, suggesting that he had a connection to Hawick. His son George was on the Militia list for Ancrum in about 1800. The schoolmaster at Ancrum from 1828 was also John, and hence perhaps his son. John (18th/19th C.) Schoolmaster at Lessuden. In 1792 he married Betty Oliver in Cavers Parish. It is possible he is the same man as the schoolmaster in Ancrum. John (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Hislop in Hawick Parish in 1797, according to the Horse Tax Rolls. John (18th/19th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf, recorded in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. John (18th/19th C.) tenant at Whithopec Mill (on the Borthwick), recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as owner of 2 horses. He may have been related to Adam, who farmed Whithope at the same time and George, who was referred to in 1808 when his son George died. John (b.c.1760) son of George, tenant in Falla. His grandfather was tenant at Roughheugh Mill in Hawick. He married his cousin Euphemia, daughter of Robert Scott, also miller at Roughheugh Mill. Their children were: Robert; George; John; Ann, who married D. Clarke; and Betsy. They may all have died without issue. He may be the ‘John Scott Milns’ who is recorded as owner of 3 horses in Hawick on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He is probably also the John ‘in Hawick Mill’ recorded in the 1810 inventory after the death of ‘Auld Cash’. John (18th/19th C.) from Ettrick Parish, he married Agnes Beattie in Roberton Parish in 1789. Their children included: an unnamed son (b.1798), baptised in Ettrick; and Walter (b.1802), Isabel (b.1803) and Robert (b.1806), baptised in Yarrow. In 1841 his widow is recorded at Catslacknowe, with sons Archibald and Robert. John (1766–1850) son of Robert, who farmed at Whichesters. He became tenant farmer at Boonraw. He married Euphemia Elliot (also born in 1766) and both of them died in the cholera outbreak of 1850. Their children included: Robert, who also farmed at Boonraw; George, who married Mary Thompson and had 3 children, but died of smallpox while emigrating to America; William, who became a doctor in Canada; and 3 children who died in 1809, Janet, Margaret and John. He and his wife (although her name is given as Elspeth) are recorded at East Boonraw in 1841. John (18th/19th C.) married Janet Mein in Hawick Parish in 1796. John (18th/19th C.) resident of Lethem in Southdean Parish. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. John (18th/19th C.) resident of London when he subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He is listed along with James, also of London, and it seems likely that the pair had a direct connection with Hawick. John (b.1769) 2nd son of Rev. William of Southdean and brother of Adam Scott-Elliot of Arkleton. His children included: William; Rev. Charles; Adam; Margaret; Sybil; Ann; Elizabeth; and Mary. There were apparently no grandchildren John of Whitehaugh (d.1823) 2nd cousin of Isobel and William, who had previously held the lands of Whitehaugh (although it is unclear how precisely he was related or who his parents were). He succeeded in 1759 on the death of Isobel, but was still a minor at that time. He is ‘John Scott, Esq; Whitehaugh’ on the subscription list for Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’. He was listed in 1788 (and still on the 1811 Land Tax Rolls) as owner of ‘Whitehaugh, otherways called Wester Whitehaugh; and Wester Heap, otherways called Easter Whitehaugh’, valued at £648 10s. He also sold the small piece of land called ‘Souter’s Acre’, which was later owned by Thomas Laidlaw of Silverbuthall. He paid the Horse Tax at Whitehaugh from 1785–94. In 1797 he is recorded as owner of 2 horses in the Horse Tax Rolls for Wilton; he also paid the dog tax there in the same year. He helped fund the extension to the old Wilton Kirk in 1800. About the same time he contributed to the local subscription to support the war against France. He is recorded as a vassal of Buccleuch in correspondence of the mid-18th century in the Buccleuch archives. He was listed as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1805 and in 1819 along with his son Walter. As well as the lands of Whitehaugh, he also owned the farms of Greensidehall and Broomhall. In 1767 he married Margaret (perhaps also known as Elizabeth), daughter and co-heiress of Walter of Chamberlain Newton. They had 12 children, although only 3 sons and 3 daughters survived childhood. Their children included: John (b.1768); Walter (b.1769), who succeeded; William (b.1770); Agnes (b.1772), who married Adam Stavert of Hoscote; Francis (b.1773), Major in the army, killed in the Peninsular War; James (b.1775), who succeeded Walter as the last Laird; Elizabeth, ‘Betty’ (b.1776), who was the 2nd wife of Gilbert Chisholme of that Ilk; William (b.1782); and Margaret (b.1783). John (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Agnes Scott and their children included Agnes (b.1776).

John (18th C.) recorded at Sandyhaugh in 1788 when his son Thomas was baptised in Roberton Parish. John (18th C.) resident in Wilton Parish, living at Priestrig in 1790. He married Margaret Reid and their daughter Margaret was baptised in 1790. John (b.c.1765) ploughman in Yarrow and Ashkirk Parishes. He married Helen (or ‘Nellie’) Scott and their children included: George (b.1792), who married Jean Stewart; John (b.1796), who married Christian Nichol; Margaret (b.1800), who married Robert Turnbull; Mary (b.1806), who married William Scott, thatcher and farm-worker at Synton; Walter (b.1809); and William (b.1812), who married Jane Currie. John (18th/19th C.) farmer at Mervinslaw in 1797, according to the Horse Tax Rolls. He owned 2 work horses. John (18th/19th C.) recorded at Timbersidemill on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls, where he is listed owning 2 work horses. John (18th/19th C.) farmer at Easter Essense on the 1789–97 Horse Tax Rolls. In 1797 he owned 5 farm horses and 1 saddle horse. He was additionally taxed for having 2 non-working dogs in 1797. John (18th/19th C.) recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as farmer at Ashkirk Mill. John (18th/19th C.) cooper and wheelwright in Liliesleaf, as recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. John (b.1772) possibly son of James, who was tenant at Denholmhill, where he was later tenant himself. He married Agnes, daughter of Thomas Blyth and Isabel Reid, who was born at East Middle. Their children were: Isabell (b.1802); Elizabeth, ‘Betty’ (b.1803); James (b.1805), who died in Australia; Thomas (1809–67), who may have died at sea; George (1811–96), who died in Manitoba, Canada; Agnes (b.1813); and John (b.1813). They were baptised at the Burger Kirk in Hawick. He could be the John listed at Denholm Mill on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls, when he owned 4 horses. John (b.c.1770) farmer at Langbaulk. He is recorded there in 1841, along with John and Mary, probably his children. He was probably related to William, who was about the same age and also a farmer there. John (b.c.1775) local hosiery employer, known as ‘John the Turk’. The nickname may have already been in the family, but he was known for reducing wages, having labour organisers (including James Hogg) imprisoned, etc. There is a record of him receiving help from the Board of Trustees for Manufactures for purchasing a ribbed stocking frame in 1798. His attempt to reduce the price of men’s stockings by 6 pence per dozen, through wage reductions, led to the first known strike of hosiery workers in 1817. He is listed as a manufacturer on the High Street on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory, and seems to have been at ‘Turk’s Close’, around No. 60 on the 1841 census (along with his wife Ann). He is probably the Hawick spinner of that name who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. In 1826 he received further help from the Board of Trustees for carding and spinning machinery. His house stood on the site of the Bridge Hotel. He married Ann Gledstains, last of her family in Hawick. He had a son John who died in 1819. John (18th/19th C.) recorded at Martin’s House in 1797, along with William. They were surely related to the later farmer at Martin’s House, also called John. John (18th/19th C.) son of John. He took over from his father as tenant of Hummelknowes Mill. He is probably the John recorded as tenant there on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He married a miss Deans and his children included John (also miller at Hummelknowes) and Walter (farmer at Hummelknowes). He died at Hummelknowes Mill. John (18th/19th C.) recorded in the 1788 county valuation and in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls as owner of ‘Part of Mr. Patrick Cunningham’s Lands, now called Allers Garden, which belonged to George Kerr’. This separate piece of the former lands of Rev. Cunningham was valued at £10 19s; it seems likely to have been land near the modern Allars Crescent. He is probably the same as one of the other Johns, and perhaps related to Walter, who also held part of the former Patrick Cunningham’s lands. John of Ashtrees (b.1762/3) born in Oxnam Parish, he was son of Adam and grandson of John. He was descended from the Scotts of Bournemouth. He was farmer at Woodhouse. In the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls he is recorded as tenant of ‘Woodhouse &c.’ when he owned 4 farm horses and 1 saddle horse; he also paid the dog tax at Woodhouse in 1797. He was listed as owner of Ashtrees on the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He is recorded as proprietor of ‘Ashtree, Woodhouse, Southdean’ on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory, and of ‘Ashtree, Woodhouse’ in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1851 he was ‘Landed prop.’ at Woodhouse, occupying 100 acres, with 550 acres of hill pasture and employing 7 people. In 1787 he married Isabel Rae and among their children was Adam of Tullich, Loch Carron. In 1855 his executors sold the farm of Ashtrees to his cousin, the executors of John Elliot (2nd son of his sister Helen). He may be the Scott of Riccalton recorded as owner of Middles Knowes in the Land Tax Rolls of about 1874. John (b.1787/8) born in Southdean Parish, he was a retired shepherd at Wauchope Burn in 1861, along with his wife Margaret from Jedburgh. John (b.1787/8) proprietor of Timpendean in the 19th century. He was listed there among the gentry of the Jedburgh area in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1851 he was farming 700 acres and employed 18 labourers. It is said that he and his sons were instrumental in changing the way farming was done locally, turning hill farms into half-arable farms. His wife was Agnes and their children included William (who succeeded to Timpendean) and George. John (b.1788/9) farmer at Longrow in Castleton Parish. In 1851 he was farmer of 260 acres there. His wife was Jane and their children included Archibald, Mary, Thomas, Jane, Elizabeth, Ann, Helen and John. John (b.1788/9) from Canonbie, he was an innkeeper in Newcastleton. In 1841 he was farmer at Langraw and in 1851 was farming 260 acres there (‘worked by family’). He kept the Commercial Inn in the 1860s (the same as the Liddesdale Hotel on Douglas Square). His wife was Jane G. (from Bewcastle) and their children included: Archibald (b.c.1830); Hector (1831/2–1909); Mary (b.c.1833); Thomas (b.c.1834); Jane (1836/7–1908); Elizabeth (or ‘Betty’, b.c.1836); Ann (1839/40–88); Hannah (b.c.1838); Helen (1841/2–1919); and John (1842/3–1906). Some of the family are buried in Ettleton Cemetery. John Sibbald (1789–1864) eldest son of Henry, farmer at Deloraine and Agnes Sibbald. He was tenant at Over Deloraine. In 1822 he married Christian, daughter of Alexander Scott, tenant in Ladhope. Their children were: Henry Ale, tenant in Gilmanscleuch; Alexander, tenant in Ramsaycleuch; Charles, tenant in Over Whitlaw; John, who succeeded his father in Deloraine; Arbutnott; Agnes, who married James Gibson of Shaws; and Christian, who married T. Ballantyne of Whithope. Col. John of Woll (b.1790) youngest surviving son of Charles of Woll. He was ‘of Ravenswood’ before the death of his brother Charles Balfour in 1838, and the relinquishing of Woll by his nephew Charles Scott-Plummer. He thus gained Woll in 1839, and sold the estate in 1863 to a Mr. Ainslie. He married Clementina, daughter of Edward Shaw. They had 2 daughters: Clementina, who married John Henry Durbin; and Elizabeth, who died in 1883. John of Gala (1790–1840) only son of Col. Hugh, he was 9th Laird. He became one of Sir Walter Scott’s closest friends. He was suspected of being involved in getting the Galashiels men to switch sides at the Carterhaugh Baa in 1815. He was a Commissioner of Selkirkshire in 1819. In 1820 he married Magdalen, daughter of Sir Archibald Hope of Craighall and Pinkie. Their children were: Maj. Hugh, who succeeded; Capt. Archibald (1827–70), who died without issue; Elizabeth; and Isabella. John (b.1791/2) son of John, with his mother being a Deans. He was miller at Hummelknowes Mill, like his father before him. He was recorded as miller at ‘Hubknows’ in 1851, with his brother Walter as farmer. He was still listed as miller there in Slater’s 1852 directory. He was unmarried. Sir John of Ancrum (1798–1814) son of Sir John, he was 6th Baronet, but only briefly. He was born at Athlone, while his father was serving there with the Roxburgh Cavalry. He joined the Navy and died on board H.M.S. Rhine at age 16, having succeeded his father only 2 years earlier. However, he was still listed as a Commissioner of Roxburghshire in 1819. He was succeeded by his brother William. John (b.1795) youngest son of William, farmer at Singlie, and Margaret Pott. He became a physician in Edinburgh and is referred to in glowing terms in Riddell-Carr’s ‘Border Memories’. He had one son, William Henry, also a physician, who died aged 24. John (b.c.1795) farmer at Martin’s House, where he is recorded in 1841. He is surely related to William and John, who are recorded at Martin’s House in 1707. He married Isabel Michie in Cavers Parish in 1816. They had a large family of perhaps a dozen children, including Isobel (b.1817), Mina (b.1818), William (b.1820), John (b.1822), James (b.1824), Margaret (b.1825), Mary (b.1827), Agnes (b.1828), Robert (b.1830), Adam (b.1833), Helen (b.1835), Janet (b.1837), Elizabeth (b.1839) and Jane (b.1841). He was presumably related to the William and John who were recorded as farmers there in 1797. He could be the John born to James in Cavers Parish in 1792. John (1799/1800–1872) son of a shepherd at Caulside in Liddesdale, where he was born. He worked as a shepherd in Castleton Parish, living at Mereburnhead (near Canonbie), and later feuded land in Newcastleton. He was a keen Free Kirk supporter there. In 1861 he was at 35 South Hermitage Street. He married Margaret Murray, daughter of the tenant farmer at Whisgills (probably Thomas); she died in 1861, aged 61. They had 4 sons and 2 daughters, including: John (1819–32); Archie; Thomas; David (1828/9–1911); Janet (1830–32); and Janet (again, b.1834/5). His grandsons farming at Wolfehopelee. John (b.1797/8) resident of Deanburnhaugh. He was recorded as an agricultural labourer there in 1841 and 1851, and in 1861 at Hoscote. He married Ann Henderson in 1830 and their children included Janet (b.1832), Mary (b.1834), Jane (b.1839), George (b.1842) and Francis (b.1844). John (b.c.1805) flesher on the High Street, recorded in Pigot’s 1837 directory. In 1841 he was living at about 6 High Street, along with Charlotte, possibly his sister. John (b.1805/6) from Jedburgh, he was farmer at Harwood on Teviot. He was there in 1851, farming 750 acres. He was unmarried. John of Teviot Bank and Rodono (1809–67), W.S., son of William. His grandfather was John and his great-grandfather William of Woll. He trained as a lawyer, being apprenticed to Gilbert Laurie Finlay. He became Writer to the Signet in 1832. He became a Roxburghshire J.P. and was also a member of the Jedforest Club. He succeeded to Teviot Bank and sold it in 1854 to Agnes Scott, widow of his uncle James Scott of Ellem. He purchased the lands of Riskenhope from George Pott of Dod and Chapelhope from John Gray Henderson of Abbotrule, these being on the banks of St. Mary’s. He renamed the land Rodono, after the ancient barony there, and built a mansion house, but died before it was completed. In 1863 he presented the household expense book of Mrs. Bennett of Chesters to the Museum, along with manuscripts of Rev. Hardie of Ashkirk’s sermons, a letter from Rev. Thomas Boston and a stirrup-cup used by Turnbull of Knowe. In 1850 he married Anne, 2nd daughter of Henry Singleton of Belpatrick, County Louth. They had no family. He was compiling a history of the Scotts of Woll and others when he died, entitled ‘A Genealogical Memoir of the Scotts of Thirlestane with Genealogical Notes of other Families of the Name of Scott’; three typed copies of the extensive manuscript are lodged in libraries. They are a valuable source of information gathered together on branches of the Scott family through the 14th, 15th and 16th centuries. He died in Marienbad, Czech Republic, where his widow had a church erected in his memory in 1879. His wife died in 1891. There is a portrait of him by John Watson Gordon in the collection of the Society of Writers to Her Majesty’s Signet. John (b.1806) youngest son of Charlie of the Crescent, he was uncle of Sir James A.H. Murray. His father sought a position for him with the excise, and got the support of Scott of Harden, claiming that they were distantly related. He claimed to be 2nd cousin of Lady Ogilvy, who was also called the Duchess of Airlie; this supports the family claim that his great-grandfather had married a daughter of Charles Ogilvy. He may have moved to Argyll for a while. He married Catherine Watson and their children were: Agnes, who married Richard Johnson, bank clerk in Liverpool; George, bank clerk in Edinburgh; and 3 other children who went to Australia. After his wife died he moved to Essendine, with his niece, Mrs. John Douglas, keeping house for him. John Young (1806/7–80) son of John and Janet Young. He was manager of the Hawick Gas Works at the Common Haugh from at least 1838 until 1851 and was then miller of Hawick Mill. He was still listed as manager of the gas works in Slater’s 1852 directory. He also farmed, and lived at Slitrig Crescent. He was noted for helping during the cholera outbreak of 1849. The Caledonian Mercury of 1838 reported that he ‘has now in his possession a stalk of oats fully seven feet long, bearing one hundred and ninety four ears or pickles’. He married Mina, daughter of another John Scott (b.1792) and Isabel Michie. Their children included Isabella, John Young, William, Jessie, Thomas, James, Helen and Agnes. He may also be the same ‘J.Y.’ who was on the Town Council and of whom a portrait exists. Lord John (1809–60) see John Douglas Montagu-Douglas-Scott. John of Synton (19th C.) see John Corse Scott. John (1814–56) son of Charles and Margaret Douglas, he was born in Lilliesleaf. The family emigrated to Ontario when he was about 20 years old. He became a doctor and settled in the town of Berlin, Ontario. Some of his letters back to his family in Scotland are preserved in the Scottish Record Office. He died in Kitchener, Ontario. John (19th C.) Treasurer and Secretary of Liddesdale Curling Club in the 1860s. He is probably the same as one of the Johns who lived in Newcastleton at the time. John (b.1824/5) son of Walter, farmer at Stintieknowe. He was born at Stobs Woodfoot, where his grandfather was gamekeeper. He lived at Northhouse Haugh for 11 years, then worked as a roadman, living at Castleweary for 40 years. He was a friend of Henry Scott Riddell, who lived nearby. For a while he had charge of the coach horses when Castleweary was used for changing horses. In 1845 he married Ann (1827–1909), daughter of William Fulton, Governor of Hawick Prison. They had 7 children, including Margaret Cairns (b.1846), Walter (b.1848), Isabella (b.1851), Robina Young (b.1853), William (b.1860), Ann (b.1862) and John (b.1862). His son succeeded him as roadman in Teviothead. After retirement the couple moved to Hawick, where they lived at 5 Garfield Street. In 1895 they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, receiving many gifts and in 1905 celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary. He was still tending to Dr. Hamilton’s sheep in the Wellogate in his 79th year. John ‘Johnnie the Gover’ (1828–c.1889) tweed designer in Hawick who emigrated to America. He was Cornet in 1853 and returned to Hawick for the 1881 Common Riding. He could be ‘the Gover’ who was recorded winning foot races at the Common Riding of 1862, like he had done many times in the past. He was Chairman of the Race Committee and Steward at the Races (e.g. in 1873), as well as being a Town Councillor. In 1887 he wrote an account of his early memories of the Common Riding for the Hawick Express. His nickname reportedly came from his father’s penchant for using the word ‘gover’ (meaning a stupid or aimless person). In 1861 he was an unmarried ‘Tweed Foreman’ living at 5 Teviot Crescent with his aunt Margaret Scott as his housekeeper, and also his young cousin Charlotte. He was probably the John, son of James, born in Yarrow Parish. In 1851 he was a thatcher, still living with his mother and brothers. In 1861 he was a police constable in Stow. He married Mary Irving and their children were William, Jane, Robert, John, Mary, Thomas, Walter and Margaret. He died in Innerleithen. John (1832/3–1903) mason in Newcastleton, living on South Hermitage Street in 1861. He married Margaret Inglis, who died in 1921, aged 79. Their children included: Adam (1874–1954), who was also a mason. John (b.1835/6) born in Hawick, he was a skinner in Duns in 1861. In 1860 he married Charlotte (c.1835–1925), daughter of Hawick shoemaker Adam Kersel. Their children included James (b.c.1860). John (b.1837/8) draper in Newcastleton. In 1861 he was based at about 3 Douglas Square and employing 5 men. He lived with his sister Elizabeth. John (19th C.) Song-Singer at the 1875 Common Riding, where it was said he had 20 years of experience. John Douglas see John Douglas Montagu-Douglas-Scott. John (1832/3–88) tweed finisher who lived at 18 Bourtree Place. His parents were farmer Thomas and Nancy Leithead. He married Margaret Murray, who died in 1889, aged 53. Their children included Thomas and Annie (who died at Balbriggan). John (19th C.) known as ‘Jock the Sweep’, Sheriff Officer in the 1840s. John (1836–80) well-known botanist and horticulturist, brought up in Denholm. Son of a farmer, he was orphaned at the age of 4 and brought up by an aunt. He attended Minto School under Mr. Hamilton. Encouraged by his cousin Rev. James Duncan, he won many prizes in local flower shows as a boy. He became a gardener at the Royal Botanical Gardens in Edinburgh in 1859, where he experimented with hybridization and contributed to the transactions of the Botanical Society. He corresponded with Charles Darwin, as well as the great botanist Sir J.D. Hooker. He moved to Calcutta Botanic Garden in 1864. He caught an infection in Darjeeling, and returned to Edinburgh, dying in his sister’s house at Garvald. He was said to have been extremely modest and a remarkable self-taught man. John (b.1832) son of George and Jean, he was born in Ashkirk Parish. His father worked on farms at Synton. He was a ploughman and then worked as a railway porter and lampman. His wife was Margaret, and they lived at Burnfoot, then Adderstoneshie, Upper Village and the High Street. Their daughter was Georgina. John (1836–1900) 4th son of John, tenant in Over Deloraine and Christian Scott from Ladhope. He was descended from the Scotts of Singlie. He succeeded his father as tenant at Over Deloraine, later known as West Deloraine. He was recorded as farmer there in 1868. In 1871 he married Jane, daughter of John Thomson from Catslackburn. Their children included: John (1872–1923); James Thomson (b.1874), who lived at Dinnington, Yorkshire; William (b.1876) who married Alice Watson McCaig from Galashiels and settled in Penrith; and Andrew Thomson (b.1885), who emigrated to Manitoba, Canada, and married his cousin Jean Thomson. John Henry Francis Kinnaird of Gala (1859–1935) son of Hugh, he was the 10th Laird. He was educated at Radley College, Abingdon, Oxfordshire. He was Justice of the Peace for both Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire and was Deputy Lieutenant for Selkirkshire. He died unmarried and was succeeded by his nephew Henry John Alexander. John M. (19th C.) writer of some local poetry, e.g. ‘The Nicht Afore the Morn’ in 1893. Rev. John (19th/20th C.) minister at Dalkeith West, who moved to Saughtree Kirk in 1922. He stayed until 1925, when he was translated to Anwoth, Kirkcudbright. He emitted in 1931. John Robson (19th/20th C.) farmer at Newton (probably in Bedrule Parish). John Ross (1951– ) local man who was newspaper reporter and Hawick News editor in the 1990s. He was first on Jedburgh Council, then a Hawick Councillor from 1985, as a Liberal, being Honorary Provost from 1996 until 2002, when he took over as Convenor of the Scottish Borders Council. However, he lost his seat to Mary Beck in 2003. Also a Justice of the Peace, he has had particular interest in transport matters. Joseph (18th C.) wright in Hawick. He was son of the miller, probably James. He was said to be possessor of the ‘undermost house of the Miln Port’, which was carried away by the great flood of 1767. He is probably the Joseph who married Margaret Scott in 1775 (registered in both Hawick and Wilton Parishes) and whose children included: George (b.1776); Jane (b.1783); and Joseph (b.1785). Joseph (b.c.1790–bef. 1851) gun-maker and ironmonger at the Sandbed, listed on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He is also listed as a tinsmith there. In 1837 he was listed as a blacksmith and tin-plate worker on the High Street, with ‘Joseph Scott & Sons’ also being listed as ironmongers, gun-makers and tin-plate workers on the Sandbed. On the 1841 census he was at about 21 High Street and listed as a smith. His wife and daughter were still running the ironmonger’s business in 1851. However, confusingly Slater’s 1852 directory lists among the ironmongers ‘Joseph Scott & Sons’ on Teviot Square and Jane Scott on the High Street. He married Jane Veitch, apparently in Edinburgh in 1826. Their children included: Joseph (b.1828), who probably died young; and Elizabeth (b.1830). He is probably the Joseph born to Joseph and Peggy in Wilton in 1785. Joseph (b.1799) born in Selkirk, son of James and Barbara Skirving. He was recorded in the 1851 census as a teacher of Latin, Greek and French on the Cross Wynd. In 1852 he was listed as a teacher in Punchbowl Close.
Scott

Keith Stanley Malcolm (b.1884), M.B.E., son of Joseph Rogerson and Annie Latimer. He was from from a line of Scotts who settled in Morpeth, and were descended from Gideon, 5th son of John of Woll. He inherited Kenton Hall in Northumberland from his father, but sold it and purchased Greenwood, a small farm in Cumberland. In 1923 he published his compilation of Scott family history, called ‘Scott, 1118–1923’ (reprinted in 1969). When he was almost done with his work he discovered the unfinished study by John of Rodono; he then incorporated some of this information, and lodged 3 typed copies in library collections. In 1910 he married Rosina Marguerita, daughter of Cavalier V.A. Montaldi of Forest Hall. Lady widow of Howpasley (16th/17th C.), assisted by Jean Scott of Satchells, she presided over a Council of War at Hawick Cross in April 1615, complaining that Sir James Douglas had taken lands at Howpasley, and urging a band of supporters to kill all the sheep there. About 60 sheep were slaughtered, in an act of spectacular barbarism, described as ‘sic monstruous and unhord of crewaltie, as the lyk qhuirof hes nicht bene hard amangist the wyld Irisch and savadge people’. Several of the perpetrators were subsequently hanged. She was presumably the widow of the former Laird of Howpasley, who was either Walter or his son William. Neither her first name nor her maiden name are recorded. Lawrence (15th C.) recorded in 1495 as witness to a charter for Thomas Grundistone of Kingsk, signed in Edinburgh. His name is recorded as ‘Laurentio Scot’. Lawrence of Harperrig and Clerkington (d.1637), J.P., son of Hew of Scotsloch. He was descended from a branch of the Scotts of Buccleuch who had moved to Ayrshire. Before 1592 he was apprenticed to Robert Scott of Knightspottie, Rector of Chancery, and became an advocate. He bought Harperrig in 1605. In 1609 he witnessed a charter for lands in Ashkirk Parish. In 1612 he was granted (the right of) the marriage of the young Walter Scott of Buccleuch. He later served the Earl on the commission to run his affairs while he was in Holland, his son William also being a commissioner. In 1620 he was witness to a charter for the Earl of Buccleuch for the lands of Goldielands. In 1634 he carried the coat of honour at the Earl’s funeral in Hawick, and his sons William and James also took part in the procession. He had a charter for Elliston in about 1622 and was granted the lands of Bavelaw in Edinburgh in 1628, Bonnington (in West Lothian) in 1629 and Clerkington in 1634. In 1633 he was appointed one of the ‘Tutors Testamentary’ to oversee the Earl of Buccleuch’s will. He may be the same advocate who was one of those representing a group of Scotts accused of slaughtering sheep at Howpasley in a trial of 1616. He represented the Earl of Buccleuch in 1628 when he accused a number of Hawick men of cutting down trees on his land. He married Elizabeth, daughter of William Pringle from Edinburgh. His children were: Sir William of Clerkington, who was one of the Lords of Session; James of Bonnington (in West Lothian); Lawrence of Bavelaw; Marion, who married James Scott of Vogrie, uncle to Sir John Scott of Scotstarvit; Margaret, who married William Wallace of Shewolfal; Agnes, married Patrick Kinloch; Joanna, married James Clerk; and Alison, married Peter Houston. Lawrence (13th C.) recorded as ‘Lawrence Scot’ in 1272/3 when he had a letter granting safe conduct from King Edward I so he could visit ‘the threshold of St. Andrew the Apostle’. It is unclear how he might have been related to other family members. Lawrence of Bavelaw (d.c.1670) 3rd son of Lawrence of Harperrig. He seems to be sometimes referred to as ‘Lancelot’. In 1650 he was named as one of the ‘tutors’ for the children of Francis Earl of Buccleuch in his will and also served as one of the ‘tutors testamentars’ for the will of Francis. He was a Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch 1658–59 and listed in 1661 as still owing money for the rentals for these years. He witnessed the marriage contract of Anne, Duchess of Buccleuch in 1663. He married Katherine Binning. The couple were granted the Barony of Corstophine by Oliver Cromwell. His son Lawrence of Bavelaw was served as his heir in 1670. He also had a son, Charles, who was served heir to his brother William of Bavelaw in 1691. Leticia (13th C.) recorded as surname ‘Scot’ in 1272, when she gave half a mark to have a writ ‘ad terminum’ at Westminster. Lilias (17th C.) daughter of Jean, who was sister of the last Walter of Crumhaugh (although these generations are quite uncertain). She married William Knox, servant to George, Lord Ross. She inherited parts of the Goldielands and Crumhaugh estates from her uncle Walter (along with her cousin Robert Scott of Glack). But these passed to another relative, Walter of Crumhaugh, in the early 1670s. Lilias (b.1835) daughter of Francis Napier and Janet Oliver. She married spinner Adam Murray and they emigrated to Canada, living in Ontario. They had a daughter, Jessie Murray Scott (b.1857), perhaps before they were married. They had a daughter Annie who married William Roper (son of William Roper from Massachusetts and Ann, daughter of Robert Greenwood from Hawick); their daughter Annie Roper married her father’s cousin William Maxwell, a son of Grace Maxwell, who was half-sister of Ann Greenwood. They also had a son George Stevenson Murray. Lucas (d.bef. 1270) recorded in 1242 as ‘Lucas Scot mayor of Dunwich’ in pleas in the county of Norfolk, relating to sacks of Scottish wool. He was probably related to Gerald, who was also listed. He is recorded as ‘Luke the Scotsman’ in a document from the Sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk in 1243. He is ‘Lucas le Scot’ of Dunwich in a court case in 1256 and another in 1258. He is further listed as ‘le Escot’ in a plea at Dunwich in 1258, and also as ‘les Escot’ of Dunwich in a document from Norfolk and Suffolk in 1262. His wife suffered some sort of infirmity, and there was a case against a surgeon called Reginald, whose goods they had kept when he tried to cure her; his son Richard is also mentioned. His son and heir Richard is recorded in another document in 1267/8. In 1260 he is ‘Luke the Scotsman of Dunwich’ in a case involving merchants from Hamburg. Malcolm (13th/14th C.) holder of lands in Glasgow, according to a document of about 1300. He is referred to as ‘Malcolmii dicti Scoti’. Margaret (13th C.) recorded York in 1254, when she had a writ of trespass. Margaret (15th C.) tenant of half of ‘Nethir sumake’ in Galloway in 1481, when her right was assigned to John Kennedy. Margaret (15th/16th C.) wife of John and mother of Alexander. She was a widow in 1499 when the East steading of Langhope was assigned to her and her son Alexander. And in 1501 the Middle stead was assigned to the pair. Margaret (16th C.) recorded in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter of Branholme, she was possibly a Scott. The entry states that payment is due ‘to Thomas Hendrie in Selkirk, for claithe furnese to Margaret of the Wallis’. This may have either been Woll in the Ale valley or Walls in Dryfesdale (where there were also Scotts). Margaret ‘Dame Margaret’ or ‘Lady Margaret’ nee Douglas (d.1640) daughter of David Douglas, 7th Earl of Angus. She married Sir Walter in 1568 and had the work on Branholme Castle completed after her husband’s death in 1574. Her name and initials are inscribed in the walls. In 1574 she was granted the ‘ward and non-entry’, as well as other fees due to her deceased husband, Sir Walter. She secondly married Francis Stuart, Earl of Bothwell (who was forced to flee the country and died abroad) before 1580. After this marriage she was often referred to as ‘Countess of Bothwell’. Her factor in the lands of Milsington about 1580 was James Grieve. In 1580 she complained to the Privy Council (along with James Gledstains of Cocklaw and Wat Scott of Harden) of thefts and outrages committed by the sons and nephews of Martin Elliot of Braiddlie and Lancie Armstrong of Whithaugh; this involved her farms of Harwood, Slaidhills and Whitlaw. In 1581/2 she further complained against 15 thieves, who were declared rebels. She claimed ownership of estates of her husbands, including Bellendean, which had sheep stolen from it by a band of Ellits and Armstrongs in 1582. In 1598 she is recorded in a contract with her son Sir Walter’s tenants in Kinkur (Peebleshire) receiving a ‘grassum’ of 33s 4d every 5 years during her lifetime. She lived to a great old age and is buried at Eckford. Margaret (16th/17th C.) wife of Walter of Burnfoot. She was tried at Edinburgh in 1616 for assaulting James Lethame with a heavy stone in Hawick Parish Church, and later, along with 7 accomplices, assaulting him and his wife on the High Street. Margaret ‘Maggy Fendy’ (16th/17th C.) daughter of Walter of Harden and Mary, ‘the Flower of Yarrow’. She married Gilbert Elliott of Stobs and Horsleyhill, ‘Gibbie o the Gowden Garters’ and their son William succeeded to Stobs. In 1643 she is recorded as mother of William when she was liferenter of lands in Kirkton Parish valued at £666 13s 4d. She may also have been the ‘Mar. Scott, gudewife of Horsliehill’ who owned lands in Hassendean Parish valued at £637, also in 1643. Margaret (16th/17th C.) mother-in-law of Francis of Castleside. Francis’ wife appears to have been Isobel, and so would have been her daughter. In 1639 there is a dispute in the Ashkirk Parish records between her and her son, apparently over access to the family seat in the Kirk. She claimed Francis had ‘maliciously and un reverence rackt and ruggit her from her said seat’, while he claimed she had called him ‘theif and traitour’. The precise nature of the dispute is not clear. However, she is referred to as ‘sometyme in Castleside’. The resolution was that she ‘would hear no reason’ and so was charged to appear before the Selkirk Presytery. The fact that she was referred to as ‘of Castleside’ herself suggests that she was Margaret, daughter of George of Castleside, who was served heir to her father, along with their 2 sisters Janet and Bessie, in 1632. Margaret (17th C.) owner of the lands of Broadlee in Ashkirk Parish in 1643.
Scott

She is recorded as ‘Mar. Scott for Braidlies’, valued at £160. Probably the same ‘Goodwife of braidle’ paid tax on £160 in the 1663 Land Tax Rolls. She was presumably widow of the former Laird of Broadlee. It is also possible that she was the same Margaret as the mother-in-law of Francis of Castleiside. Margaret (d.1672) daughter of William of Chamberlain Newton, and also related to the Scotts of Brieryyard. She married Thomas Elliot in Borthwickshiel and had at least 5 children, including William Elliot, 1st Laird of Borthwickbrae. She may be the ‘Mariota’, daughter of William of Chamberlain Newton, who was served heir to her father’s brother Simon in 1643. Margaret (17th C.) daughter of Robert of Whitslade. In 1647 she was served heir to her father’s lands of Ettrickhouse, Bowerhope and Dalgleish, all of which were contained in the Barony of Synton by annexation. Margaret (17th C.) one of the daughters of Robert of Alton. In 1653 she and her sisters Bessie and Agnes were served heirs to their ‘foir grandsher’ (probably great-gandfather) Robert in half of the East Mains of Hassendean. Margaret (17th C.) recorded in 1676 as ‘goodwife of Coudhouse’, i.e. wife of Scott of Coldhouse (although her husband’s name is unrecorded). James Henderson was found guilty of giving her a ‘blow foragainst the heart’. It is possible she is the same woman as Marie of Coldhouse, recorded in 1663. Margaret (17th C.) resident of ‘Crawknow’ in Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when she was listed on the Hearth Tax roll among ‘ye poor’. Margaret (17th C.) resident at Doecleuch according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. She is recorded as ‘Margrat Scott in Brugh’, suggesting that she was perhaps widow of a Scott who had farmed at nearby Brugh. Margaret (17th/18th C.) wife of James, who farmed at Borthaugh in the early 1690s. In 1696 and 1698 she herself was renting ¼ of Borthaugh and was then a widow. Her cautioners were Adam and Walter, farmers at Overhall, who were probably closely related. Margaret (17th/18th C.) recorded receiving money from Ashkirk Parish in 1727. Margaret (d.c.1782) widow who had her will proved at the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1783. Her surname is listed as ‘Scott alias Brown’ and she was from Hawick, Roxburghshire. It is unclear if she was a Scott or a Brown. Margaret ‘Cripple Meg’ (18th C.) recorded in 1781 when her daughter Margaret died in Hawick. Her nickname seems self-explanatory. It is unclear if Scott was her maiden or married name. Her daughter could be the Margaret baptised in Hawick in 1773, with no parents names given. Margaret (18th C.) housemaid at Branxholme in 1789 when she was working for Adam Ogilvie. Margaret (d.1815) daughter of Robert of Burnhead. In 1786 she married Rev. Samuel Charters of Wilton. She succeeded her brother to Burnhead following his death in 1795. She died without issue and was in turn succeeded by her cousin William Watson. Margaret ‘Peggy’ nee Anderson (b.c.1780) possibly the daughter of Michael Anderson born in Robertson Parish in 1770, she married Thomas Scott and lived at Deanburnhaugh. She lived to an old age and was said to have at least 300 descendants by the 1930s. She was described as being ‘everybody’s body. Whenever trouble or stress prevailed she was always ready to do and to dare for the sake of others’. She had at least 8 children in the period 1799–1819. In 1841 she was recorded living in Deanburnhaugh with her younger son Robert, together with James (probably her grandson) and young teacher Thomas Amos. In 1851 she was living with her son Robert, granddaughter Christian Rutherford and grand-daughter Isabella Rutherford. In 1861 she was living with her son Robert, granddaughter Isabella Miller. Margaret (1809–23) daughter of Rev. David of Castleton. She was listed among subscribers to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. Margaret Taylor (1848–1921) daughter of James, who was a carpenter from Roxburghshire, and perhaps from the area around Hawick. She grew up in Dundas, Ontario, attended the Toronto Normal School, and then taught at Pickering, Strathroy, Brantford and Ottawa. She was headmistress of the Toronto Model School and then the Toronto Presbyterian Ladies’ College. However, in 1903 she set up her own school in Toronto, which she called ‘Branksome Hall’, probably after the fictional castle of Sir Walter Scott’s ‘Lay of the Last Minstrel’, rather than the real castle of Branxholme. The name was suggested by Alexander MacMillan. She moved to Vancouver because of ill health, and died there. She was survived by brothers James and William (superintendent of emigration in Ottawa), and sisters Mrs. Conklin, Elizabeth and Jean. Maria see Mary, Countess of Bucleuch. Marie (17th C.) liferenter of Coldhouse in the 1643 county valuation, when her lands were valued at £40. Probably the same Marie was recorded as owner of lands in Hawick valued at £3. She was probably widow of the former Laird of Coldhouse (perhaps Peter, recorded being ‘of Cowdhouse’ in 1654). It is possible that she was the Marie (or Mary), sister of Robert Scott of Hartwoodmyres, who married Walter of Howford (who was connected to the Coldhouse family) in 1615. She may be the ‘goodwife of Cowdhouse’ recorded in 1676. William of Coldhouse held these same lands in 1678 and seems likely to have been her son. Marion (17th C.) daughter of William of Fingland. She married William Wilson ‘in Gulzeaneflat’. In 1662 she was served heir to her brother Walter of Hoplasley. However, Hoplasley passed shortly thereafter to Walter, son of her cousin Patrick of Taulawhill. Marion Adamson (1886–1963) daughter of Peter, founder of Pesco’s. When her father died she took over the house Norwood. She never married. Martin (15th/16th C.) recorded as ‘Martinus Scot’ in the Exchequer Rolls of 1501. Along with ‘Willelmus Unys’ he had his fine in Roxburghshire compounded. It is unclear which branch of the Scotts he came from. Mary (16th C.) called ‘the Flower of Yarrow’, popularised in the ballad of the same name. She was said to be the daughter of Philip Scott of Dryhope Tower and renowned for her beauty; in fact she was probably sister of Philip, and 2nd daughter of John of Dryhope, but presumably tales of her beauty had real foundation. In 1576 she married Walter Scott of Harden (‘Auld Wat’, the marriage contract still exists) and bore 4 sons and 6 daughters. She is there referred to as ‘Marion’, and was to be infeft in liferent in the lands of Mabonlaw as part of the contract, with Harden to pay to Dryhope 400 merks Scots. She is said to have served him his spurs when the larders were empty. Mary (1647–1661) Countess of Buccleuch, she succeeded her father, Francis, the 2nd Earl, at age 4, being served heir to all the lands and titles of the Scotts of Buccleuch, including the half Barony of Wilton, the Barony of Chamberlain Newton, the Lordship of Liddesdale, etc. She was also referred to as ‘Maria’ or ‘Marie’. Her tutors and trustees were Sir John Scott of Scotstarvit, Sir William Scott of Clerkington, Sir William Scott of Harden, Sir William Scott younger of Harden, Sir Gilbert Elliot of Stobs, Gideon Scott of Highchester, John Scott of Gorrenberry, Patrick Scott of Thirlstane, Lawrence Scott of Bavelaw and Patrick Scott of Langshaw. There were disputes between the ‘Lothian tutors’ and the ‘South Country tutors’, as well as between Gideon Scott of Highchester and John Hay, Earl of Tweeddale (her uncle), who were trying to arrange for her marriage. There was also a great power struggle between her mother, Countess of Wemyss, and the appointed trustees for control of her and her sister Anne; Oliver Cromwell was enlisted in support, affirming that the daughters should be entrusted to their mother. During her minority Dalkeith house was occupied by Gen. Monck. She had a huge fine of £15,000 imposed by Cromwell for her father’s support of Charles II, with the tutors pleading for a reduction in the amount. There were schemes to marry her to the sons of many noblemen, probably including Sir Andrew Ker of Greenhead, Lord Robert Kerr, a son of the Earl of Tweeddale, the son of Scott of Scottshall in Kent and the son of John Scott of Gorrenberry. She was in fact married in secrecy to Walter, eldest son of Sir Gideon Scott of Highchesters, when she was 11 years of age (and he was 14), although there was an attempt to annul the marriage until she was at least 12! However, Cromwell died in this period, which complicated the legal challenges, although there continued to be machinations to control her future and that of her sister. She was never in good health, being regularly attended by doctors (who probably did more harm than good), with an arm infection that refused to heal. She went to London for the curing power of the King’s touch, but the journey probably made her condition worse and then she caught measles on her return to Scotland. She died at the age of 13. The power struggles continued, with the last revision to her will giving family control to the Earls of Roxes and Wemyss, freezing out Sir Gideon of Highchester and her husband Walter of Tarras. She was succeeded by her sister Anne (or Anna) and was buried at Dalkeith. Mary (17th/18th C.) sister and heiress of John of Headshaw. In 1681 she married Patrick Porteous, Burgess of Peebles. She succeeded to the estate of Headshaw in 1691, there being no male heirs. This included Headshaw Mill and Dryden, as well as Crawknow and Clews. In 1696 she and her husband sold Headshaw to Sir Gilbert Elliot. She was involved in an ‘action of relief’ with Anna, Duchess of Buccleuch in 1713. Her daughter Henrietta married Michael Anderson of Tushielaw. She is also referred to as ‘Marie’. Mary Lillias (d.1790) eldest daughter of John of Harden. She was sometimes known as the ‘Flower of Yarrow’, like her ancestor namesake. There was a portrait of her by Allan Ramsay, which hung in Hamilton Palace (transferred to Mertoun House), painted it is said for the Duke of Hamilton who was infatuated with her, although she was attached to the 2nd son of Scott of Scottavert (who died, and she never married). She is also said to have had the song ‘Tweedside’ written about her, particularly the lines ‘What beauties does Flora disclose! How sweet are her smiles upon Tweed! Yet Mary’s still sweeter than those; Both nature and fancy exceed’. Mary ‘Floor o Rinkleburn’ (18th/19th C.) married Thomas Smith, farmer at Hartshaugh Mill. Her nickname came from her good looks, the story being that a gentleman visiting her father’s house asked for her name, and said that since there was a Mary Scott ‘Flower of Yarrow’, she should be the ‘Flower of Rinkleburn’. Her daughter Mary married Robert Purdom. She also had several other children, including Peter, Patrick, Robert, Archibald, Thomas, Andrew, Margaret and Jane.

Mary (b.1808/9) from Selkirk, she was schoolmistress at Deanburnhaugh. She is recorded there on the 1851 census. Matthew (12th/13th C.) recorded as ‘Master Matthew de Scotia’ in Paris in 1218. He was King’s Chancellor in 1228 when he was elected as Bishop of Aberdeen, although he resigned this in favour of Dunkeld. He may have died in 1230 before becoming Bishop. He may be the same Matthew as the Archdeacon of Cleveland. Matthew (13th C.) listed as ‘Mathaeus le Scot’ along with Walter and Adam from Chillingham for robbing a house in the area of Hebbum and Linewmouth. Matthew (16th/17th C.) listed among men declared as fugitives for not appearing at a court in Hawick in 1605. He was recorded as ‘Mathou Scott, called Broid of Steill’, and was probably associated with the lands of the Steele. Michael (c.1175–c.1234) sometimes called ‘the Border Wizard’. Traditionally his birth and death have been placed in the Borders, although there is no evidence for this. He was possibly Michael, who was second son of Richard, and grandson of Uchtred. He held lands in Fife and flourished in the reign of William I, and his descendants are the Scotts of Balwearie, as well as the Scotts of Ancrum. He studied in Oxford and Durham, then travelled widely around Europe, serving as court astronomer and physician (or astrologer and alchemist) to Holy Roman Emperor Frederick II. He is recorded in Toledo, Spain, in 1217 and was also in Italy. He had a licence for 2 cures in Scotland, as well as the Archbishops’cure of Cashel in Ireland, which he resigned by 1224. He had another licence to hold a cure in England and 2 in Scotland in 1225. He translated many important works from Arabic into Latin, thus reintroducing Aristotelian ideas to the western world. Legends of his supernatural powers abound (popularised in Dante, Boccaccio and Sir Walter Scott), and few hard facts are known about his life. He is supposed to have helped bring the infant Maid of Norway to claim the Scottish throne in 1290, when in his 70s, although this may have been a later Michael of Balwearie. He is also said to be buried in Melrose Abbey along with a ‘mighty book’ of necromancy, although others suggest he was buried at Home Coltrame in Cumberland. He is said to have caused the Eildons to be split into 3 and the local belief in his magical powers continued for centuries after his death. It may be that more than one man’s life is being compounded here. The Michael who held lands in Fife married Margaret, daughter of Duncan Syras of that ilk and was succeeded by his son Duncan – ‘The black spae-book from his breast he took, Impressed with many a warlock spell: And the book it was wrote by Michael Scott, Who held in awe the fiends of hell’ [JL], ‘In these far climes it was my lot To meet the wondrous Michael Scot’ [SWS] ‘And here, though history tells it not, Has crossed the wizard, Michael Scott’ [WNK] (often written ‘Scot’). J. Wood Brown wrote ‘An enquiry into the life and legends of Michael Scot’ (1897), Lynn Thorndike wrote ‘Michael Scot’ (1965) and Tom Hubbard wrote ‘Michael Scot: myth and poly-math’ (2006). Michael (13th C.) along with his wife made a grant of Gask (in Fife) to Dunkerline Abbey sometime before 1231. He is referred to as Michael Scot ‘of the Kingdom of Scotland’ when he made a grant for income from lands in Fife. He was witnessed another couple of grants from Fife in about 1230 and 1231. He could be the Michael, son of Malothen, recorded in 1231. His wife was Margaret, daughter of Duncan of Ceres and his heir was Duncan. He had another son, John. His wife was a widow in the period 1238–50 when she confirmed the grant of Gask. He was surely associated with the Balweary family, but the details are uncertain; in particular he appears to be contemporary with Michael ‘the wizard’. Sir Michael of Balwearie (13th C.) son of Duncan and probably great-grandson of the first Richard. He was knighted by Alexander II. He married the daughter and heiress of Sir Richard Balwearie, and so came into possession of Balwearie in Fife, which the family held for another 13 generations, ending with Col. Walter of Balwearie, who died in Flanders in the reign of Charles II.
He may be the Michael who paid homage to Edward I in 1291, and was succeeded by his son, also Sir Michael, who swore fealty to Edward I in 1295/6. His seal bore a chevron with 3 lion's heads, with a crescent on each side of the shield, and the words ‘S’ MICHAELIS SCOTT MILITIS’; this may be the earliest seal known for the Scott family. His wife Mary is recorded as wife of a prisoner held in England in 1296. Michael (13th C.) from Linlithgowshire, he paid homage to Edward I in 1296, and is presumably separate from Sir Michael of Balwearie. Sir Michael of Balwearie (13th/14th C.) son of Sir Michael. He is recorded at Kinghorn in 1291 and signed the Ragan Rolls of 1295/6, where he is ‘Sir Michael Scot of Fife’; his seal bore a chevron between 3 lion’s heads. He was recorded in 1294 among holders of the lands of the Earldom of Fife. He was taken prisoner at Dunbar and held at Wallingford Castle in England in 1296/7. He is listed in a ‘letters patent’ in 1297 promising to serve Edward I in France and elsewhere. His lands were restored by Edward I in 1297, along with those of ‘Duncan le Scot’, who was probably his son or grandson. He is listed on a roll of horses used by supporters of Edward I in 1298. He was on a jury in 1305 in Perthshire. He was succeeded by his son Henry, while grandson Duncan was progenitor of the Scotts of northern Scotland and a later descendant was Andrew, progenitor of the Scotts of Ancrum. Sir Michael (bef. 1320–46) 2nd Laird of Rankleburn (Buccleuch), son of Sir Richard and an Inglis of Muthockstone (although these early generations are still a little uncertain). He may have been born at Rankleburn (the first of the Scotts of Buccleuch to be born locally). He was known as a gallant warrior, who distinguished himself at Halidon Hill in 1333, and was knighted himself at Halidon Hill in 1333, and was knighted the following year. He fought in the division commanded by Archibald Douglas, Lord of Galloway, and was among the few noblemen who survived the battlefield. He also accompanied David II to the unfortunate Battle of Durham (or Neville’s Cross) where he was killed. He was succeeded by his son Robert, while his second son John is said to have been ancestor of the Scotts of Synton, Harden, Whitslade, Todrig, Raeburn, Woll, Thirlestane, etc. His daughter Jean may have married John Ainslie of Dolphinston. Nothing much else is known about him, including the name of his wife. His Christian name may have derived from the ancestor of the Scotts of Balwearie (perhaps his great-granduncle), but seems to not have been used afterwards. Michael of Aikwood (d.bef. 1541) son of Robert of Aikwood, who he succeeded about 1516. Robert of Bonnington was probably his brother. In the 1526 remission to a large number of Borderers for attacking the Earl of Arran he is recorded as ‘Maister Mychaell Scot in Aikwod’; it is unclear why he (and only he in this long list) is given the designation ‘maister’. He is probably the ‘Maister Mychaell Scot’ who was among the local men who had remission in 1527 for their part in the Battle of Skirmish Field. In 1528 he was ‘magistro Michaeli Scot de Aikwod’ when appointed as one of the Bailies for infesting David Scott in the lands of his father, Sir Walter of Bransholm. He was probably one of the witnesses to the discharge from Patrick Earl of Bothwell to Walter Scott of Bransholm in 1528/9, where he is recorded as ‘Mr. Michell Scott’ just before ‘sir John Scot, notary’. According to the Exchequer Rolls he claimed the lands of Aikwood in 1541 and was also tenant in half of Bowhill, half of Huntly and the wester side of Kershope. He had a charter for the lands of ‘Aikwood’ in 1541, along with his wife Isobel Ker and son William. William was also granted Bowhill in the same document. Witnesses included Thomas and Gilbert Scott, as well as Robert and William Scott. He was probably ancestor of the slightly later Robert of Aikwood. In the remission of 1526 Thomas, also in Aikwood, is also listed and so presumably a brother or son. Michael of Aikwood (16th C.) listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in 1590. It is unclear who he was, since the Laird of Oakwood at that time was Robert, but it is possible that the long deceased Michael was meant. Michael (17th C.) Chamberlain of the Earl of Buchanan at the time of the Earl’s death in 1633. Michael (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Christian Scott and their children included Margaret (b.1646) and Marion (b.1650). Michael (17th/18th C.) Hawick merchant. He witnessed a baptism for John Scott ‘Whiteyetts’ in 1700. In 1703 he was fined for drinking after the ringing of the 10 hour bell. He witnessed further baptisms in 1705 (along with Walter in Crumhaugh) for innkeeper William called ‘of Goldilands’ and in 1708 for smith James Scott (along with tailor George). In 1716 he was rebuked by the minister for ‘being extremely drunk laitlie in the street, and not capable to go to his dwelling house’; the minister told him he was a ‘most sad spectacle’, but not being previously guilty of drunkenness he was only admonished and told to mend his ways. He witnessed a baptism for smith Thomas Huntly in 1720. He married Margaret Gledstains, and their children, baptised in Hawick Parish, included: John (b.1700); Walter (b.1702); Robert (b.1704); Margaret (b.1705); James (b.1709); and John (again, b.1712). The witnesses in 1700 were baker John Whillans and John Scott ‘Whitesgates’, in 1702 were baker John Whillans and merchant Patrick Angus, in 1705 were John Scott of Whitesgates ‘younger’ and merchant John Forman, in 1709 were tailor William Gledstains and baxter William Hodge and in 1712 were Bailie James Burn and shoemaker Robert Porteous. Mrs. Robert (16th/17th C.) recorded in Stirches Mains on both the 1797 Horse Tax and Dog Tax Rolls. It is unclear who she may have been married to. Mrs. Robert (16th C.) wife of a Hawick man, mentioned in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. She is listed being owed money ‘for sum ordinari dwtie’, but what this duty might have been is unclear. Mungo (16th C.) Burgess in Edinburgh recorded in 1574/5, 1581 and 1584. In 1574/5 he was surety for a case involving Jedburgh Abbey. He was also cautioner (along with Alexander, also a Burgess of Edinburgh) for George of Synton when he was warded in Edinburgh Castle in 1581, and also for Walter Scott of Goldielands (along with Robert, Burgess in Edinburgh and James Gledstains of Cocklaw). There was a further caution by him and Alexander in 1581 for George of Synton and Robert of Haining ‘now in ward in Edinburgh Castle, in £1000 each’. It seems likely that he was closely related to Alexander and Robert, and probably also related to the Scotts of Goldielands and Buccleuch. Mungo (16th/17th C.) described as ‘in Castellsyd’ (i.e. Castleside) in the records of the Circuit Court of 1623 when several local men twice gave their security for his appearance. They included Andrew Allan, John Gowanlock and James Coltart in Headshaw, John Turnbull and John Campbell in Newton and Gilbert Elliot of Brugh. It is unclear whether he was related to George and Francis of Castleside. Mungo (17th C.) listed as resident at Todshaw in Wilton Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Mungo (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Mary Dryden and their children included Janet (b.1772) and Thomas (b.1774). Nelly (b.1768) and Elizabeth (b.1769) were probably also his children. Mungo (b.c.1780) hand-loom weaver in Roberton Parish. In 1841 he is listed at ‘Make Shift’ somewhere near Broadlee or Milsington. He was from out of the county and living with Jane, probably his wife. He could be the Mungo who married Jean Scott in Wilton Parish in 1813. Mungo (18th/19th C.) blacksmith at the Sandbed, recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Nell ‘Nelly the King’ (19th C.) sister of ‘Andrew the King’, and also known as a simple-minded soul. Her first could be a short form of ‘Helen’. She may have been born in 1798. Nicholas (13th C.) resident of Northumberland. He is recorded in the 1279 assize roll there when his wife Agnes had rights to the young heir of ‘Walteri super Teyssam’. He may already have been dead by this time. Another entry for the same year mentions ‘Nicholaus le Scot’. He could be the same as Nicholas ‘le Escot’ who was listed in an assize relating to lands in Newcastle in 1266; Henry ‘le Escot’ was also a pledge for him. He may be the Nicholas ‘le Escot’ who was among men sued by the Prior of Tynemouth in 1269 (with Henry and John also listed). It is unclear whether he or his wife were related to other Scotts. Ninian (15th/16th C.) listed among the many Borders men given remission in 1526 for their earlier support of the Homes in attacking the Earl of Arran. After his name appears ‘William brother’, presumably meaning his brother. It is unclear to which branch of the family he belonged, but the Christian name is not common among Scotts. Osbert (13th C.) recorded as ‘Osberto scoto’ and ‘serviens’ of Walter Oliphant, Justiciar of Lothian, when he was witness to a statement about a dispute between Walter, Bishop of Glasgow, and Jordon of Corra. This was sometime in the period 1223–42. Patrick of Reston (13th C.) referred to in a charter of the 1270s involving Coldingham Priory and the lands of Great Reston. The same gift to Coldingham is described in a charter of Robert, son of Reginald of Reston, which is some time before 1233. His sons were John and Patrick. Patrick of Reston (13th C.) son of Patrick and brother of John. He witnessed several charters involving Coldingham Priory. In the 1170s he had a claim to the lands of Great Reston, which had previously been held by his father and brother. Patrick (13th C.) merchant of Berwick recorded as ‘Patrick le Escot’ in 1276, when there was a complaint of wool being stolen from their boat on the way to Dieppe. He is ‘Patrick Scott’ in 1296 when his former house in Berwick is mentioned in another case and he was ‘Patrick Lescot’ when his former house in Berwick is mentioned in another case and he was ‘Patrick Lescot’ when to Bamburgh in 1279. It is unclear if he was related to the local Scotts. Patrick (13th/14th C.) juror in 1310 for cases involving Lindores Abbey. Patrick (15th C.) servant of James II when he was Duke of Rothesay, recorded in 1438. Patrick (15th C.) recorded in the last will of Sir David Scott of Branxholme in 1491, where he owed one merk. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Patrick (15th/16th C.) served as Chamberlain of Strathearn and Comptroller of receipts. He is recorded many times in the Exchequer Rolls around 1500–10. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Patrick (15th/16th C.) son of Adam, tenant in Harwoodhill. In 1502 he had permission for resetting Richard Armstrong, called ‘Skaw’, who had stolen 200 sheep from David Hoppringle at ‘Fechane’, with the help of Alexander Scott. Walter of Howpasley and Robert of Stirches acted as sureties, suggesting one or both were related to him. Patrick (16th/17th C.) served as a surgeon and Burgess in Hawick around 1600. His great-granddaughter Janet Scott was served heir to him in 1667; she married carrier Patrick Hardie. Patrick of Taulawhill and Thirlestane (d.1666), son of Walter of Gamescleuch and Janet Porteous (probably being named after his maternal grandfather). His father was killed by John, son of Walter of Tushielaw, part of a feud between the Thirlestane and Tushielaw branches that lasted for many years. He was a nephew of Sir Robert of Thirlestane, and also held the lands of Howpasley from his cousin Robert Scott. He was placed in charge of bringing Walter, Earl of Buccleuch’s body from London to Leith in 1633, a journey that took 15 weeks, and included being shipwrecked on the Norwegian coast. About 1634 he redeemed some of the mortgages of his cousin Sir John of Thirlestane, and had most of the lands transferred into his name. He was Chamberlain to Francis, 2nd Earl of Buccleuch for Ettrick Forest in the 1640s, as well as Eckford, Lempitlaw and Langton into the 1650s. In 1641 William Wallace made the factor’s account in his place, since he was ill. In 1641 he signed a document in Hawick with his cousin Sir John, relating to the Thirlestane estates, but with the terms unspecified. He had his cousin imprisoned on 2 occasions. Eventually he would claim permanent ownership of the Thirlestane estates, in precedence to his cousin Sir John. This was at least partly because of different allegiances in the Civil War (Sir John’s descendants would fight the succession in court a century later). In 1642 he had a decree of appraising against Sir John, relating to the lands of Bourhope. In 1643 he had a charter of the lands of Crookston and others in Peeblesshire, which he gained from his cousin John, son of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. He was cautioner for a William Scott in about 1646. He supported the Parliamentary side in the Civil War and was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire in 1643, 1644, 1646, 1648 and 1649. He also represented Selkirkshire in Parliament in 1648–49. After being fined by both Cromwell and the Royalists for taking sides, he repurchased Thirlestane from Sir William of Harden and others. In 1644 he was witness to a contract for lands at Smallholm. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He served as one of the ‘tutors testamentars’ for the will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch. In 1650 he was also named as one of the ‘tutors’ for the children of Francis in his will and served in this capacity for the young Marie, Countess of Buccleuch, being involved in a law suit in 1659 with some of her other tutors over breaking locks to her charter chests. In 1653 he was involved in the construction of the bridge over the Yarrow at Deuchar, acting as Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch. In 1653 he had a charter of the lands of Rutherford. He was fined by Cromwell in 1654 and also fined in 1662 for complicity with Cromwell! In 1661 he was listed as still owing about £8000 to the Duchess of Buccleuch for rentals in Ettrick Forest, where he had been Chamberlain. In 1663 he was appointed as a justice of the peace for Selkirkshire. He married Isabel, daughter of Sir John Murray of Blackbarony and was succeeded by his son Sir Francis. Other children were: David, who was buried at Greyfriars in Edinburgh in 1659; Walter, who held Howpasley briefly; Jean, who married Sir James Hay of Linplume; Margaret, who married Sir Alexander Bannerman of Elsick; and Mary, who married Sir William Primrose of Carrington. He may also be the Patrick whose wife Agnes had a testament in 1637. Patrick of Kirkstyle and Langshaw (17th C.) son of George of Kirkstyle and Catherine Montcrief. He was descended from the Scotts of Balwearie, through a son, Andrew of Glendoick and Kirkstyle in Perthshire; Col. Walter, last Scott of Balwearie, who died unmarried in Flanders in the reign of Charles II, sent him the seal of the Balwearie family; however, similarity of Christian names, and a statement of close kinship by Scott of Satchells suggests instead, or additionally, a relationship with the Scotts of Thirlestane. He was described as 'writer of Edinburgh' from about 1638 and through the 1640s, when he dealt with city business for the Scotts of Buccleuch, and by 1652 he was 'now of Langshaw'. He sold Kirkstyle in Perthshire and purchased Langshaw (although it is unclear if these were the lands in South Lanarkshire, or the place north of Galashiels). He may also later have acquired the lands and barony of Ancrum (although perhaps the first connection may have been through his son Sir John). He was also previously 'of Eddrington', and had a crown charter of Langshaw in 1653. In 1650 he was named as one of the 'tutors' for the children of Francis Earl of Buccleuch in his will and also served as one of the 'tutors testamentars' for the will of Francis, as well as being described as 'wryter in Edinburgh, our servitor', when he witnessed the document. He was recorded in various documents in the Melrose Regality records in the period 1657–61. He served as 'receiver general' for the Buccleuch estates in at least the period 1650–72. He was Chamberlain for the Lordship of Dalkeith in at least the period 1669–74. There were legal proceedings against his son by the Duchess of Buccleuch 1673–1704 over an embezzlement he is alleged to have committed. He may be the same Patrick described as the Earl of Buccleuch's attendant in 1636–38, and was factor in at least the period 1638–41 and 1650–56. In 1629 he married Elspeth (or Elizabeth) Simson, sister of David Simson of 'Monturpie' and they had 3 sons and 1 daughter. In 1647 he secondly married 'Cicilie Drury' (or Cicely Drury), daughter of Sir Robert Drury of Rugham, and widow of George Douglas, Doctor of Divinity; with her he had 1 more daughter. His children were: Sir John, 1st Baronet of Ancrum, who married Elizabeth Scott of Mangerston; James, who died without issue; Francis of Langshaw; Agnes, who married William Douglas of Ardet (and may be the Agnes who later married John Wilkie, merchant in Edinburgh), and was mother of Sir Robert Douglas of Glenbervie; and Cicely, who married Charles Kerr of Abbotrule in 1666, and whose daughter married John Scott of Gorreenberry. Patrick, 'lawful son of the said Patrick Scott of Langshaw' is recorded as witness to a document for Mary, Countess of Buccleuch in 1658 and in a deed of 1682, and so must have been another son. Francis of Colmslie was caution for a bond for the 'deceased Patrick Scott, writer in Edinburgh' according to a case heard in Melrose in 1683; this may well have been him. Sir Patrick of Longnewton and Ancrum (d.1734) son of Sir John (he is easy to confuse with his grandfather Patrick of Langshaw). He became an advocate in 1676 and was on the Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1678 and 1685. He was 'feir' of Ancrum in 1678 when he paid the land tax on the whole value of Longnewton Parish (valued at more than £2000). He served as Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch for Eckford in 1689–95. He was one of the 2 Parliamentary Commissioners (i.e. M.P.s.) for Roxburghshire 1685–86 and was appointed again in 1689, but replaced in 1693 for absence; this is surely related to the politics of the day. In 1690 (before he succeeded to Ancrum) and in 1704 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire. In 1692 he held the 'teinds' of the Baronie of Eckford and the 'tacks' of the lands of Lemplitlaw and 'Langtoune' (probably Longnewton) owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch. In 1694 he paid tax on 10 hearths at his house in Langnewton. He contributed £1000 to the Darien Company in 1695. He was one of the Roxburghshire heritors who petitioned Parliament in 1700. He married Anne, daughter of William Wallace of Helington. His wife was wealthy, but they had no issue. In 1680 he secondly married Margaret, daughter of William Scott of Harden. They had 2 sons and 4 daughters: Sir John, who succeeded; William, who became an advocate, marrying Anne, daughter of Capt. Benjamin Barton and secondly Elizabeth, daughter of William Ainslie of Blackhill; Christian, who married John Pringle of Whytbank; Elizabeth, who married George Douglas of Friarshaw; Anna; Jean, married David Muirhead of Linhouse and secondly James Gartshore; and Margaret, who died unmarried. Patrick, W.S. (d.1711) nephew of Hercules Scott, who was a merchant in Edinburgh. He is easy to confuse with Patrick of Langshaw and Patrick of Langnewton. He trained a lawyer, being apprenticed to Robert Innes and becoming Writer to the Signet in 1699. He married Elizabeth Marmichael. Patrick (18th C.) son of Walter, minister at Westruther. His brother Francis also served as minister at Westruther. He was mentioned in 1735 in the deposition where the widow of Robert Scott of Falnash sold her property on the Howegate to Patrick Hardie. It is unclear what his connection to the family was. Patrick (18th C.) eldest lawful son of Francis of Alton. He was 'younger of Altoun' in 1738 when he witnessed a baptism (along with Walter of Newton, who may well have been related), for Joseph Lothian and Janet Scott (who may also have been closely related). He was recorded in 1742 agreeing to his father’s sale of the lands of Alton to John Horsburgh of that Ilk. It is possible he was the Patrick who witnessed a baptism for William Lorraine in Wilton in 1733 and the Patrick who (along with Francis) witnessed a baptism in 1735 for James Beattie, resident of Borthaugh. He may be the Patrick who married Janet Gledstains in Wilton Parish in 1751. Patrick (d.bef. 1762) miller in Bedrule parish, recorded in 1762 when his daughter Janet married John Turnbull, wright, in Edinburgh. Patrick (18th/19th C.) recorded at Whitlaw on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. His name is sometimes recorded as ‘Peter’. He is listed on the 1785–94 Horse Tax Rolls at Whitlaw. He was probably the ‘Patrick Scot in Borthaugh’ described as tenant farmer in Whitlaw in the 1750s when Robert Hobkirk was Town Herd; this suggests he was directly related to other Scotts associated with Borthaugh. He may have been the Patrick, son of Robert and Agnes Elliot, born in Hawick in 1728. He seems likely to have been the Patrick who married Janet Gledstains (perhaps from the Gledstains of Whitlaw family) in Wilton Parish in 1751. Peter (16th C.) recorded being ‘of Monze’ when he was Chamberlain for Strathearn, according to the Exchequer Rolls for 1536–42. Peter (16th/17th C.) ‘son natural’ of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. In 1608 his father was caution for him, his half-brother Robert and Walter of Whitslade that they not harm Archibald of ‘Deiphop’ and his sons. In 1609 he was among the men (under Walter of Headshaw) whom his father and brother Robert and their tenants were bound not to reset. Sir Robert and the others were then fined for resetting him and the other men. This was part of the feud between the Scotts of Thirlestane and Tushielaw. Peter (d.bef. 1654) referred to as being ‘of Cowdhome’ in an act of caution of 1654, preserved in the records of Jedburgh Sheriff Court. Capt. Walter Scott (the later poet) complained against his son Robert. It seems likely that this is ‘Coldhouse’ in Wilton Parish. Peter (17th/18th C.) probably a Hawick Councillor. In 1701 he was one of those appointed to collect the ‘stent’ in the area ‘west the water’, suggesting he lived in the West-end. Peter in Whitlaw (see Patrick). Peter (18th/19th C.) recorded at Ancrum Mill in 1797, when he paid tax for having 2 non-working dogs. Peter (18th/19th C.) recorded at Clarilaw in 1835, among heads of households in Wilton Parish. Peter (1852–1925) hosiery manufacturer, born in Hawick, with residence at Norwood. He was son of George, grocer at 19 Howegate, and his brother Tom was Cornet in 1887. He started work at age 13 for Peter Laidlaw at Wilton Grove, eventually taking over the small frame shop. He founded Peter Scott & Co. in 1878, with Mr. Adamson as his partner, although it was not until 1899 that he established the ‘Pesco’ brand of underwear. The expansion of the company after that was explosive. He was Chairman of the Scottish Hosiery Association, and served on several committees during WWI. He was also President of the Hawick Hosiery Manufacturers’ Association, and a Director of the South of Scotland Manufacturers’ Mutual Insurance Co. Ltd. He bought about 6 hectares of land on Sunnyhill, at the top of Roadhead and there had the villa Norwood built for him in 1904, designed by J.P. Alison; Norwood would be owned by the family until 1964. The gatehouse Norwood Lodge was built about the same time, with the adjacent Woodgate and Langlee built in about 1907. He was also a keen bowler, acting as President of the Buccleuch Bowling Club and took part in a bowling tour of Canada in 1910. He and his brother George were also noted draughts players. He gifted the ‘Beechwood’ and ‘Norwood’ trophies, which were competed for among the local clubs. He also gifted an organ to St. George’s Kirk in 1919 in memory of his daughter Bessie. In 1876 at Wilton Dean, he married Mary, daughter of James Brydon from Castleton. Their children were: George (1879–1940), who was a director in the family firm; Esther Laidlaw (b.1880), who died young; Marion Adamson (1886–1963), who never married; Jeanie (b.1887); Bessie (1890–1917); and James Brydon (1894–1958), also a company director at Pesco’s. It is said that he was well liked in the town and proud of his ‘guitterbluid’ heritage. He died suddenly while on holiday in the south of France, and his funeral procession was one of the biggest ever to be seen in Hawick. Peter Brydon (1920–43) son of James Brydon and grandson of Peter, founder of Pesco’s. He served with the Royal Scots Fusiliers, having the rank of Lieutenant. He died while in Burma and there is a baptismal font in his memory in Denholm Kirk. Philip (15th/16th C.) recorded along with Robert and Andrew in 1494/5. The three were among men who were already fugitives when John of Deloraine was accused of ‘resetting, supplying and intercommuning’ with them. It seems reasonable to assume that they were closely related, perhaps brothers, but from which branch of the Scotts is unknown. Philip of Heap (15th/16th C.) described as ‘Philip Scot of Hoip' in 1508 when he witnessed a sasine of lands at Synton. He must have been closely related to David of Whitehaugh, recorded in 1479, and Walter of Whitehaugh, recorded in 1488. He was in turn succeeded by Walter, who gained the lands of Wester Heap in 1532. Philip (15th/16th C.) recorded as a sergeant at the Court in Jedburgh in 1502. It is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts. Philip of Headshaw (15th/16th C.) son of Walter of Headshaw, who he succeeded. He is recorded as ‘of Aidschaw’ in 1510 when his brother Thomas was convicted of being part of the murder of John Murray of Falahill. Sureties were William in Hawick, George in Goldielands, David in Whitehaugh, William in Fenwick and John of Haining, suggesting that some of them were closely related. He was on the 1517 ‘re-tour’ for Sir Walter of Branxholme. In 1519/20 he was listed as someone who could give permission to change the details of a marriage contract between the Scotts of Buccleuch and a son of the Gledstains family; he is there ‘Philip Scot of Eadschaw’. He was listed on the 1526 remission for Borders men for supporting the Hames in an attack on the Earl of Arran (with his son Walter also listed). And in 1527 he was among the Lairds, led by Walter of Branxholme, who had remission for their part in the Battle of Skirmish Field. In 1530 he was one of the Border Lairds who submitted themselves to James V to keep better order. He was succeeded by his son Walter. Philip (16th C.) tenant in Dryhope and ‘Farmynhop’ in 1541. He may be related to the later Philip of Dryhope. Philip (16th C.) tenant of Todshawhill recorded in 1549 as the first of the tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme when they complained about their farms being raided and burned by the Kers. Either he or Philip in Wiltonburn could have been father of ‘Philip’s Jock’. Philip (16th C.) tenant in Wiltonburn in 1549 when he was among the tenants of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch, who complained about the actions of Walter Ker of Cessford and others. It is possible that he was father of ‘Philip’s Jock’ recorded in the 1570s. Philip (16th C.) brother to ‘Scot of Hassendean’, as well as brother of William. In 1583/4 he was among a number of men from the area who were denounced for failing to appear to give evidence in a case against the Turnbulls of Bedrule. It is unclear who was Laird of Hassendeane at that time. Philip of Kirkhope (16th C.) son of John of Thirlestane, and younger brother of Robert, who succeeded. He was said by Scott of Satchells to have been the 1st husband of the youngest daughter of Walter Scott of Synton and Whitslade. Since she had 2 other husbands, this presumably means that he died relatively young, and is said to have had no children. Philip of Dryhope (d.bef. 1632) probably son or brother of John. He is sometimes stated as the father of Mary, ‘Flower of Yarrow’, but she was probably his sister. In 1564 he was listed as ‘Philip Scot of Drihope’ among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. He is listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in 1590. In 1591 he purchased half of Stanhope in Peeblesshire and sold it again in 1600. He purchased the lands of Glensax from Alexander Horsburgh in 1600. He is probably the Philip who was denounced as a rebel in 1592 for his part in the Falkland Raid (and Dryhope was ordered to be demolished at about the same time). In 1599 he witnessed the bonds (signed at Branxholme) between Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch and the Armstrongs and Elliots of Liddesdale. In 1610 there is a bond of caution for him and his sons Philip and William. In 1611 he gave back (presumably following repayment of a debt) the lands of Midshielis, Appletreehall, Coitlaw and Crawhill to Alexander Cranston of Mordiston. He was witness to the bond of 1612 for keeping peace on the Border and was also on the panel of ‘re-tour’ for Tweedie of Drumelzier. Additionally in 1612 he was listed among Scots and others accused of overcharging interest on loans. He is ‘recorded as ‘elder of Dryhoip’ in charters of 1618 and 1621. He married Margaret, and his eldest son was Robert, although he was succeeded in the Lairdship of Dryhope by his son Philip. Another son William was complained about in 1612 and witnessed a charter in 1618. In 1628 he resigned his half of the lands of Glensax. Note that these generations are quite confused (Keith Scott suggests there were 2 generations of Philips of Dryhope, father and son). Philip of Aikwood (16th/17th C.) probably younger brother of Andrew and son of Robert of Aikwood. He is recorded in 1627, but by 1630 the lands of Oakwood had passed to a Murray, possibly of the Elibank family. The lands of Oakwood later became part of the estates of the Scotts of Harden. Philip of Dryhope (17th C.) younger brother of Walter, the previous Laird (recorded in 1669). He may also have been brother of the Laird before, Robert, and hence a younger son of William. He was the last Laird. Philip (17th/18th C.) Chamberlain to Sir William of Harden. He is recorded in 1692–1716 as factor for the lands in Selkirkshire and in 1704 when his son Walter became an apothecary’s apprentice in Edinburgh. In the 1720 Hawick Parish records he is stated to have been lately Chamberlain to Scott of Harden. In 1720 his eldest son Walter married Sara, daughter of Walter Scott, also an apothecary in Hawick. He may be the Philip ‘in Whitmurehall’ recorded in a bond with the Scotts of Harden in 1687. He seems likely to be the Philip ‘in Oakwood’ who was one of the founding members of the ‘Honest Country Club’ in 1711. Philip (17th/18th C.) recorded being in Cogsmill in 1709 when he married Margaret Riddell in Kirkton Parish. His son John was baptised in 1710. Philip (18th C.) recorded as ‘in Todrigg’ in 1753 when he was paid by Scott of Buccleuch for acting as gamekeeper. It is unclear if he was related to the earlier Scotts of Todrig. Rachel nee Langlands (17th/18th C.) described as ‘of Wilton’, so she was probably daughter of one of the last Langlands Lairds. She married Charles Scott of Crumhaugh, probably in the mid-1680s. She had a ‘bond of provision’ from her husband in 1696. However, Charles died about a couple of years later. She is probably the same Rachel who secondly married Francis Elliot of Fenwick. Her children included Walter (who succeeded to Crumhaugh) and probably James, who was a surgeon in Hawick. Rebecca (18th C.) paid the window tax for Midshiels in 1748. She is ‘Rebeca Scott Medsheils’. It is unclear how she was related to other Scotts, but perhaps was connected to the Scotts of Crumhaugh, who sold Midshiels in about the mid-18th century. Reginald (13th C.) recorded as ‘Reginaldus le Scot’ in the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. He was involved in a case in the town of ‘Lowick’. Richard (12th C.) probably the son of Uchtred Fitz-Scott. He witnessed a charter by the Bishop of St. Andrews to Holyrood Abbey in 1158 (although the charter is now lost, and so there is no proof that he was son of Uchtred). He was succeeded by his son Richard. Another son was probably Sir Michael, ancestor of the Scotts of Balwearie. Richard (12th/13th C.) son of Richard and probably grandson of Uchtred Fitz-Scott. He married Alicia, daughter of Henry and Eschina de Molla (or Molle). He and his wife received lands in Roxburgh in the reign of Alexander II. He may thus have been the first Scott to be associated with Roxburghshire, and was referred to as Richard ‘of Molle’. Sometime between 1185 and 1215 he granted lands in Mow to Kelso Abbey; he is referred to there as ‘son of Anselm of Mow’ (so perhaps there are 2 Richard Scotts confounded here, or ‘son’ meant ‘son-in-law’). He was also referred to in charters of c.1190 for lands adjacent to his in Mow. He was succeeded by his son William. It is also possible that Almer Scott of Mow, recorded about the same time, was also related to him. Richard (12th/13th C.) recorded in a court case in London in 1220. He was caught with the stolen seal of Walter de Morton, and was ordered to be hanged for the crime. Richard (13th C.) listed in 1236 along with Walter and Robert, his brother. They were accused of attacking Enstace (Bailiff of the Abbot of ‘Burgo’), beating him, killing his horse, and imprisoning his servant. The Sheriff of Northampton was commanded to make them appear at Westminster. It is unclear how they were related to other Scotts. Richard (13th C.) listed in 1244 when the Sheriff of Huntingdon commanded him to give a knight’s fee to John Baliol. Richard (13th C.) recorded in Leicester in 1262 as ‘son of Robert Scot junior’ when he gave a mark for an assize. Richard (13th C.) recorded as ‘le Escot’ in a document relating to Northumberland in 1265. He could be the same as Richard ‘le Scot’ who was listed in 1255/6, along with his wife Margery, in a court case in Northumberland. He may also be the ‘Richard Scot, essoin’ of Roger Bertram listed in a plea in Northumberland in 1258/9. Richard (13th C.) son and heir of Lucas ‘le Escot’ of Dunwich, recorded in a document relating to Norfolk in 1267/8. In 1268/9 he was Richard ‘le Scot of Dunwich’ when he was recorded in relation to money due to the English King’s Exchequer from Dunwich in Suffolk. He was also recorded in 1271 in relation to a ship that he claimed had been owned by his father Lucas. In 1272 he accused someone at Stratford of the murder of his cousin Robert ‘le Escot’ (son of Gerald). Also in 1272 he was accused of stealing a cask of wine from someone in Dunwich and paid 20 shillings for a writ. Sir Richard (c.1265–1320) Laird of Rankillburn (synonymous with Buccleuch) and Murthlockstone (or Murdostoun) in Lanarkshire. He was probably son of William, but these early generations are quite uncertain; however, from him onwards, the genealogy of the Scotts of Buccleuch is generally considered to be secure. Capt. Walter says that he originally resided at Scotstoun in Peebleshire. He swore fealty to Edward I of England in 1296 (in the Ragman Rolls) under the name ‘Richard Le Scot de Murthoxtoun’, in the County of Lanark; 9 other people of the same surname are also recorded, with Alexander ‘de Pertheyk’ also being from Lanarkshire, and William (no designation
It has been suggested that he may have helped Scott of Satchells with his ‘True History’. His year of death is sometimes incorrectly given as 1702. Richard (17th/18th C.) said to be a younger son of George of Boonraw, and brother of Archibald, the last Laird of Boonraw. If he existed it would prove the claim that Charlie of the Crescent was descended from the Scotts of Boonraw. He was said (by James Haining) to have married a daughter of Charles ‘Ogilvy’ (although it is unclear who this might have been, perhaps a different Ogilvie). It is possible he was the Richard who (along with George) witnessed a baptism in 1721 for John Turnbull in Wester Groundistone and who (also with George) in 1724 witnessed a baptism for George in Groundistone and in 1729 (also along with George) witnessed another baptism for a different George in Groundistone. It is possible he was the Richard whose children (baptised in Wilton) included: Marion (b.1703), who may have married Alexander Purdom in Hawick in 1725; Bessy (b.1705); Janet (b.1707); and Agnes (b.1710). He may also be the Richard, married to Margaret Scott, whose children (baptised in Wilton) included: Richard (b.1717); and William (b.1720). Rev. Richard (1729–90) son of John, minister of Stenhouse. He was educated at the University of Glasgow, licensed by the Presbytery of Peebles in 1752 and ordained at Cranshaws in 1759. He was presented to Ewes Kirk by the Duke of Buccleuch in 1761 and remained there until he died. He was said to have been ‘mild and gentle in manner’, but ‘fervent in the divine service’. He was recorded on the Horse Tax Rolls of 1785 and 1787. In 1761 he married Mary Turnbull, and she died in 1796. They had 5 sons and 3 daughters, including: Janet (b.1762), who married William Irvine; James (b.1764), a merchant in New York; Hector (b.1766); John (b.1768), who died young; Anne (b.1768), a twin to John; John (again, b.1771), merchant in London; Martha (b.1774); and George (b.1778), also merchant in London. He wrote ‘Letters on the Culture of Potatoes’. Richard (18th C.) recorded in 1757 when his daughter Agnes was baptised in Hawick Parish. The mother was Mary Rutherford and ‘Forni’ was indicated beside the entry. The witnesses were Walter of Boghall (perhaps his father) and carrier Walter Purdom. Richard Edmondson ‘Dick’ (1910–1991) local artist, writer and historian. He was son of Bailie Francis, married Agnes Townsend and was father of Francis Townsend (Frank) and Elizabeth Anne (Anne). Born at 26 High Street, he left school at 14 to work for Watsons, then worked in the family painters and decorators from about 1935. During WWII he served in the Physical Training Corps, but did not enjoy his forced exile from Hawick. In the mid-1950s he became a reporter with the Hawick Express, eventually taking over as editor from John Hood. He was the anonymous writer of the ‘Betty Whutson’ column for the years 1961–83. As an artist he was responsible for hundreds of Hawick scenes, usually in watercolour, signing as ‘R.E. Scott’. He exhibited at Art Club shows regularly for decades, as well as having paintings exhibited at the Royal Scottish Academy in 1943 and 1944. And as a sign-writer his work was a familiar sight around Hawick for several decades. He was a successful sprinter with the Teviotdale Harriers in the 1930s, being club 100 yards champion in 1930, 1935, 1936 and 1937. He won the Common Riding sprint in 1930, the 120 yards handicap and 100 yard scratch race at the 1937 Lauder Common Riding on the same day, was Border 120 yards champion in 1936 and 1937 and 100 yards champion in 1937 and won a 100 yards handicap event at Clyde F.C. Sports in 1938. He was also a member of the Hawick Swimming Club, becoming Club President, Secretary and Captain. He had a 28 year connection with the Scouting movement, helping set up the first Cub troop in the late 1920s and becoming a local Cub Scout Commissioner. He was a member of the Vertish Hill Sports Committee for many years, and was also a member of the P.S.A. Choir and the Masons. He spent much of his ‘spare’ time trekking the local hills with his wife Agnes. He wrote ‘The Companion to Hawick’ (1970, revised 1981), ‘Hawick’s Honorary Burgesses Since 1734’ (1974), ‘I Saved the King: the Story of the Turnbulls’ (1977) and ‘A Hundred Years are Gane and Mair, A History of Hawick Burns Club 1878–1978’ (1978), as well as many articles for the Archaeological Society Transactions. He was Secretary, Syllabus Secretary, Transactions Editor and President of the Archaeological Society. In 1967 he became Curator of the Museum, reveling in this job, and living in the flat on the top floor of Wilton Lodge until his retirement in 1975. He was known for his modest nature and for being an enthusiastic and meticulous local historian of his day, questions being referred to him long after his retirement — ‘...So Hawick folk both young and old, never forget Dick Scott: In praises, he deserved far more than those he ever got’ [IWL]. Robert (12th C.) witness to a grant of lands in Kinross-shire to St. Andrews Priory in the 1170s. Robert (12th C.) recorded in a record of Buckinghamshire and Bedfordshire in 1189/90 as ‘Robert le Scot in Alliesbiria’. The Sheriff of those counties gave account for his lands there. Robert (13th C.) listed in a court case in 1236, along with his brother Walter, as well as Richard. They were accused of attacking a man called Eustace, killing his horse and imprisoning his servant, and the Sheriff of Northampton was directed to make sure they appeared at Westminster. Robert (13th C.) recorded as ‘le Scot’, messenger, when there was a writ in 1242 for his payment of 1 mark for his expenses by King Henry’s gift. Robert (13th C.) recorded as Robert ‘le Scot’ ‘of Hecham’ in a document of 1290 relating to the Priory of Lewes (presumably the one in Sussex). His lands may have been at Hexham. He was married to ‘Cristiana Atehallegate’. Their son John acknowledged in the document that he was ‘servus’ and ‘rusticus’ of the Prior. He could be the same as ‘Robertum Scot’ and ‘Robertus le Scot’ recorded in the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. It is unknown if he was related to other Scotts. Robert (13th C.) recorded in 1296 in a case relating to Richard of Whiteacre. This was among cases at a court of the English army held at Roxburgh. Probably the same Robert (along with William) was paid in 1307/8 for acting as messenger from Cumnock, to Ayr and then to Lanark. Robert (c.13th C.) landholder in Dumfries mentioned in an undated document of Kelso Abbey. Robert (bef. 1346–c.89) 3rd Laird of Rankilburn (Buccleuch) and also of Kirkurd and Mudiestoun. He was probably son of Sir Michael (althought these early generations are still murky). His brother John was probably the ancestor of the Scotts of Symton, Harden and Raeburn. Little is known about him, probably because this was a relatively peaceful period in Scottish history! He lived for more than 40 years after succeeding his father. He held the lands in Selkirkshire, as well as those older lands in Peeblesshire and the lands in Lanarkshire that had been acquired through marriage. It is possible that he died at the Battle of Otterburn in 1388, although there are no records to support this. He was succeeded by his son Sir Walter, who had a charter for the superiority of Kirkurd in 1389. Robert (14th C.) mentioned in 1410 as a former owner of the lands of ‘Borthwic’ and ‘Thoftcotys’ in the Borthwick valley. Since the first record of the name ‘Roberton’ was only a few years earlier, it is possible that the area was named after his house there. It is stated that the lands were conferred on Sir William ‘of Borthwic’ on resignation by him. Hence it is possible there was a connection between the first of the Borthwick family and the Scotts. He was surely related to the Scotts of Buccleuch and possibly related to the later Scotts of Roberton and Borthwick. Robert (d.1426) 5th Laird of Rankilburn (Buccleuch), he succeeded his father, the first Sir Walter Scott, who died at Homildon Hill. He is named as the superior of the lands of Kirkurd in a charter for Ladyurd in 1406. In 1406/7 he confirmed a charter, as Lord of ‘Murthoustoun’ for lands in the Barony of Kirkurd. In 1410 he is probably the Robert who resigned his lands of Borthwick and ‘Thoft Cotys’ (possible Hosocate) into the hands of Robert, Duke of Albany, so that they could be granted to Sir William of Borthwick; however, this may have been a regranting, and it is unclear how long he may have held these Borthwick lands. In 1415 he exchanged his lands of ‘wynzehope’ called Glenkerry (on the Tina Water) for lands at ‘Bellindien’ (i.e. Bellendean) with the monks of Melrose Abbey. This was with permission of his son Walter, and they kept fishing an hunting rights in their old lands. He also acquired half the lands of Branxholme from John Inglis in 1420, thereby becoming the first Scott of Branxholme. In 1426 he granted LemPLITlaw to his son Walter, shortly before he died. He is also probably the Robert ‘of Murthiar and Liston’ (probably a transcription error for ‘Muthokston’) who witnessed an undated charter whereby John Inglis of Manor and Branxholme granted ‘Kyrktoune and Toftis’ in the Barony of Hawick to his uncle Sir Simon Inglis. He was succeeded by his son Sir Walter. Other sons were probably Stephen of Castlelaw and Burrellands and Robert of Haining. His 1415 seal bore a diagonal band with 2 crescents and a star and the words ‘SIGILLUM ROBERTI SCOTT’; this is the earliest known seal for the main branch of the family. Robert (15th C.) listed as a Bailie of Hawick (along with Thomas Blair) among the witnesses to the sasine of 1452 regranting the Barony of Hawick to William Douglas of Drumlanrig. Presumably the same man is described as a Burgess (probably of Hawick) in 1454 when he was witness to a legal instrument relating to lands in Eckford, which was witnessed in a tenement of ‘John Walche, elder, in town of Hawic’. It is unclear how exactly he was related to the Scotts of Branxholme and Buccleuch, but this establishes that there were Scotts within the Burgh from its very earliest days. Robert of Todshaw (15th C.) name in an ‘instrument of obligation’ from King James III in 1463/4 for the sum of 1200 merks Scots. This was in payment equivalent to the 50 merks of money and 50 merks of land promised for the capture of John Douglas of Balveny, brother of the Earl of Douglas. He is probably the same as Robert of ‘Togehaugh’ (i.e. Todshawhaugh) who witnessed a charter for the lands of Whitchester in 1484. It seems likely that his lands were at Todshawhaugh (rather than what was later called Todshaw). Perhaps the same ‘Robertus scot in todshawhalch’ was able to ‘compone’ in 1493, along with John Turnbull in Hawick for the crime of bringing in Englishmen; his surety was the Laird of Howpsaley. Robert of Eilrig (15th C.) leased the lands of Craik from Alexander Cockburn of Ormiston in 1477 for 6 years. Cockburn also appointed him as ‘Bailie’ of those lands, with the power to holds courts etc. Robert (15th C.) recorded as customs officer in Arbroath in the period 1481-96. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Robert of Muirhouse and Whames (d.c.1505) son of Stephen. He had a sasine for the lands of ‘Murhaus’ (i.e. Murihouse near Edinburgh) in 1464. He is recorded in 1482 being sold the land of ‘Underchesters’ (probably adjacent to Highchesters) by Henry Wardlaw, at that time still Baron of Wilton. The ‘Murehouse’ was in the Barony of Crichton (now in Midlothian) and not the place near Dryfesdale in Dumfriesshire (where there was a connection in the next couple of generations), or the area near Lilliard’s Edge. He is probably the same Robert, son and heir of Stephen of Murrhouse, who witnessed a 1453 sasine at Milsington. This Stephen seems was also referred to as being of Castelaw, who was a brother of Sir Walter of Buccleuch. He is probably the Robert ‘of Dohargauch’ who repaid the loan on the lands of Dryden, Commonside and Over Harwood in 1477 (which had involved Stephen of Murrhouse 15 years earlier). It also seems likely he was related to the Howpsaley and Thirlestane branches; John of Thirlestane received the half Barony of Wilton from Henry Wardlaw in 1483. He is ‘roberti de quhamys’ in 1493 when his brother Alexander was allowed to ‘compone’ for stealing livestock. He is probably the Robert ‘in Quhomys’ recorded in the Exchequer Rolls of 1501, along with ‘Thome Howate’ had their fines remitted. His son and heir George had an instrument in 1505/6 where he claimed his father’s lands of Murrhouse. Robert of Cockerheugh (15th C.) recorded as ‘of Cockerhaucht’ when witness to a charter of 1484/5 when Sir David of Branxholme gave Whitchesters to his son Robert (of Allanhaugh). He was probably closely related to the Scotts of Hassendean. Robert of Bowerhouse (15th C.) mentioned in the Justice-naire in Jedburgh in 1494/5 when David Waugh in Bedrule and Hawick had remission for stealing sheep from him. He is recorded being ‘debourhous’, which is probably Bowerhouse, perhaps the one near Lauder. Robert of Allanhaugh and Whitchester (d.bef. 1506) 3rd son of Sir David, 7th Laird of Buccleuch. By 1471/2 he was the 2nd surviving son of Sir David (the oldest son Walter having died) when he was named in the marriage contract between his brother David and Jane Douglas; if David died, then he was to marry Jane, sister of Archibald, Earl of Angus. He may be the ‘Roberto Scot’ who witnessed the document passing Mangerton from the Armstrongs to David of Buccleuch in 1482. He received Whitchester from his father in 1483, with a charter of the lands and lordship following in 1484/5. He resigned them back to his father shortly afterwards, apparently so that Sir David could arrange the entail of his lands. Following the death of his brother David (whose son Walter would succeed to the Buccleuch titles) he became increasingly important in the running of his father’s affairs. In 1484 he was, with his father, granted the Bailiary of lands belonging to Melrose Abbey (meaning that they administered the lands financially and judicially). He is recorded as son of David of Buccleuch when he leased the Crown lands of Winterburgh in 1483. The lease continued in 1488, along with William Roger, with Sir David of Buccleuch as pledge, and continued further in 1490 and 1492. In 1487 he was procurator for his father when he resigned his lands into the hands of the King. In 1488 he and his father were thanked for their service to the King at the Battle of Blackness, with the Barony of Branhholme being re-granted and him named as second in line, after his nephew Walter (who became Lord of Branhholme and Buccleuch). Also in 1488 he leased the lands of Greenwood (probably Girnwood) and the Lyne for 19 years from Sir Thomas Turnbull. He is probably the ‘Robert Scot of Branhholme’ who is recorded in a sasine of 1490 purchasing land in Hawick from Robert Cessford. He features prominently in the last will of Sir David Scott of Branhholme in 1491/2, being given £40 and appointed as ‘tutor’ for Sir David’s heir Walter (his nephew), as well as a ‘tutor’ for William Turnbull of Minto. In 1491/2 he was ‘of Quhytchester’ when he witnessed a sasine for William Douglas of Cavers. In 1492 his nephew Walter assigned to him all the moveable goods of his father Sir David, in order to pay off debts etc. In 1493 at the Justice-naire in Jedburgh, he served as surety for: Robert, son of Gilbert Elliott; Alexander, brother of Robert of Whames; Thomas Brown in Minto; Walter of Howpales; William, son of William of Goldielands; John Melrose in Whithaugh; George Waugh in Hawick; John Davidson in Minto; and others. In 1494/5 he was Robert ‘of Quhitchester’ when he served was surety for Alexander, son of Andrew Turnbull of Dryden, John of Doloraine, David Waugh in Bedrule and Hawick, and George Fawlaw in Hawick. That same year he ‘was permitted to compound’ (i.e. pay a fine) for the slaughter of Adam Crawford and for associating with Alexander Jardine, who was a rebel; the Laird of Buccleuch was surety for him. He is recorded in the Treasurer’s accounts for 1494/5 having obtained remission from the King. He was also Robert ‘of Allanhaugh’ in 1494/5 when, along with Adam in Annelshope, he was surety for John in Erncleuch. In 1498/9 he had remission from the King for commoning with and assisting rebels and for other crimes. He was one of the men chosen to value the lands of Whithope in 1500. He is recorded in a bond of 1500, where Walter Scott of Branxholme (his nephew and superior) held his tenancy of the lands of Whitchesters until he repaid a debt to Alexander Cockburn of Ormiston Hall; however, it is possible that this was his son rather than him. He may have married Christian, sister of William Cockburn of Henderland, who was hanged as a reiver in 1530; however, this seems more likely to have been his son. His oldest son was also Robert, who held property in Hawick and farmed at Whitchesters. His grand-daughter married John Scott of Thirlestane. Other sons were Alexander, who may have been progenitor of the Scotts of Scotstarvit; and James (said to be the 3rd son), who was Provost of the Collegiate Church of Corstorphine. It is claimed that he died at an advanced age, but in that case he must have had his children late. This is because Scott of Rodono suggests he was dead by 1509, with his sons then being minors (younger than 25), so that Walter of Howpales was then the closer adult male relative to the young Walter of Buccleuch. In 1506/7 he was already deceased when his son Robert was involved in redeeming a loan with John Murray of Falhill with a tower in Hawick as collateral. He may have had this tower ‘between the bridges' built – it is possible that it was the predecessor of Drumlanrig's Tower. Robert of Haining (15th C.) possibly 3rd son of Robert, 5th Laird of Buccleuch (however, he would appear to have lived about a generation later than this). In 1463 he had a charter for the lands of ‘Grevistoun et le Gillishauich' in Peeblesshire from James Crichton of Cairns, witnessed in Edinburgh by David and Alexander, son of Sir Walter of Kirkurd (6th Laird of Buccleuch, hence perhaps his nephews). In 1464/5 he was ‘Robin Scot of the Haynig’ when he was on the panel to rule on the dispute over the lands of Kirkton Mains and the Flex. In 1476 he granted a charter for lands in Peeblesshire to his cousin Thomas Middlemas. In 1477 he sold the lands of Haining, witnesses again including David and Alexander, sons of Sir Walter of Buccleuch. The lands passed to Murray of Philiphaugh, but returned to his son John. He is recorded in a ‘letter of reversion' with David Scott of Branxholme in 1482. This involved borrowing on lands in Selkirk, with security of the lands of ‘Uverhawkischelis’, ‘Netherhawkischelis’ and ‘Quhitrig' in the Barony of Branxholme. He is probably the Robert who acted as one of the Earl of Angus' Bailies for infefting David Scott of Branxholme in the lands of Mangerton in 1482. In 1484/5 he is described as ‘Bailie in that part' in a sasine giving the lands of Mangerton to Walter Scott of Branxholme, and in the same year he is ‘in Hanyng' when he witnessed the charter giving Whitchesters to Robert Scott of Allanhaugh (with Adam listed after him, so possibly a son). In 1486 it is stated in the Exchequer Rolls that he held the Haining for life. He was appointed as one of the bailies in 1488 for the leasing of Greenwood (i.e. Girnwood) and the Lyne by Robert Scott from Sir Thomas Turnbull. He was there referred to as ‘Roberto Scot de Hanyng'. His son Robert was witness to a related document in 1488 and was also ‘junior' in 1492 when he and his mother Janet had a 3 year lease on the Haining. Either he or his son was ‘Robertum Scot de Hanyn' in 1494 on the panel for the inheritance of Synton. In 1494/5 he was recorded when he had some of his sheep stolen from Haining (with his son John also having sheep stolen). He is the ‘Robert Scot in Hanyng' listed among the many men given remission in 1504 for any part in the slaughter of Thomas Rutherford in Jedburgh Abbey. Also in 1504 he witnessed a sasine for the lands of Maxton Craig. He was succeeded by John of Haining, who is recorded in 1510 and died at Flodden. His wife's first name was Janet, but her surname is not recorded. Robert (15th C.) bequeathed 12 sheep in the last will of Sir David of Branxholme in 1491/2. He is separate from Robert of Allanhaugh, but it is unclear if he is the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert of Horsleyhill (15th C.). William Elliot of Larriston is said to have married his daughter and thereby inherited Horsleyhill. It is unclear how he may have been related to other local Scotts; the Scotts of Horsleyhill of the 17th and 18th centuries were descendants of the Scotts of Tushielaw, and so (presumably) not closely related. Robert (15th C.) first witness listed on the 1494 charter in which James of Kirkurd granted the lands of Galalaw to his son David. He is listed as being of ‘Achinstancelich’, but it is uncertain where those lands were. It seems likely he is the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (15th C.) recorded at the Justice-aire held in Selkirk in 1494/5 along with Robert Edgar. The pair were already ‘at the horn' when James Young in Eldin hope was convicted of resetting and comming with them. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (15th/16th C.) son of David, recorded at the Justice-aire held in Selkirk in 1494/5. He was surety for James Laidlaw in ‘Wynterburn’ (possibly Winterburgh) who had remission for killing his cousin John Laidlaw from Wolfehope. It is possible he was Robert, son of the Laird of Buccleuch, but that Robert was recorded being of Whitchester when he served as surety in the same year; hence it seems more likely he was son of David, younger of Buccleuch, and hence brother of Sir Walter of Buccleuch. However, he could be son of some other David with a connection to Selkirkshire. Robert (15th/16th C.) recorded along with Philip and Andrew in 1494/5. The three were among men who were already fugitives when John of Deloraine was accused of ‘resetting, supplying and intercomming' with them. It seems reasonable to assume that they were closely related, perhaps brothers, but from which branch of the Scotts is unknown. Robert (15th/16th C.) one of two men of the same name recorded in a document relating to Uddingston, in the Glasgow chartulary, listed as ‘Robertum Scot'. 2 Johns are also listed, as well as the widow of another John. They were all residents of Uddingston, and were presumably related. Robert (15th/16th C.) tenant in Langhope. He is recorded in the Exchequer Rolls for 1499, coming after Adam in Tushielaw in the list of payments made in Ettrick. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert of Hartshaw (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1499 when... his son Walter gave his consent for Middlestead of Langhope was assigned to Patrick Home. This was probably the Langhope in the Ale valley. However, it is unclear where ‘Hurschaw’ was. He may have been the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (15th/16th C.) occupier of the lands of Redford for 6 years prior to 1499, when they were let instead to the Comptroller, Patrick Home, and he had to pay the balance due. These were the 3 steadings of ‘Hindhop, Drycleuchschele, and Redefurd’ in Ettrick Forest, which may have been associated with what was later called Redfordgreen. He may be the Robert, who had payment for the ‘fermes’ of some Crown lands in Ettrick Forest in the period 1503-06. Robert (15th/16th C.) witness in 1500 to a document for Scott of Branxholme, relating to the lands of Whitchesters. He is recorded as being ‘de La Toure’, although it is unclear which tower. He may be related to Adam of Hermiston or Walter, son of James of Hassendean, who are also listed. He may be the same man as one of the other contemporary Roberts. It is possible that he is son of Robert of Whitchesters and Allanhaugh, and resided as the tower ‘between the bridges’ in Hawick, which is mentioned in a document of 1507/8. He may be related to John ‘called of the Toor’, who is recorded in 1609. Robert (15th/16th C.) tenant in Lairs who is listed in the Exchequer Rolls in 1501 among mostly local men who had their fines compounded. He is recorded as ‘Robertus Scot in Laris’. It seems likely he was related to George, who owned Lairs at that time. Robert of Deloraine (15th/16th C.) son of John of Deloraine. In 1494/5 he was recorded as elder son (‘filius senior’) of John when he served as surety for John Reid at the Justice-aire in Selkirk. He may have been tenant of Deloraine, rather than owner. Probably the same Robert ‘of Dalorrian’ was recorded in 1494/5 when he received ‘remission’ along with David Lauder for assisting the King’s rebels etc. Also in 1494/5 he was allowed to ‘compone’ for several rieving crimes (including stealing cows from Thomas Frissell, horses from Wolfope and cows from Newark), with Walter of Howpasley as surety. He could also be the ‘Robertum Scot de Ettrik’ recorded in the Exchequer Rolls of 1501 in relation to payments made to him. He was recorded in 1502 as being called ‘Bellit Robin’ when William Douglas of Cavers was fined for his non-appearance at the Jedburgh court. In 1510 it must be the same man who is ‘Belde Robin Scot’ when the Lady of Buccleuch (Elizabeth Kerr, wife of Sir Walter, the 8th Laird) was surety for him, but fined for his non-appearance; he was denounced a rebel and his goods forfeited. His nickname suggests that he was bald-headed. Robert of Aikwood (d.bef. 1516) possibly a son of the first Robert of Haining. He was the first Scott of Oakwood, and is first recorded in 1503. His children included: Michael, who succeeded; and Robert, who may have been grandfather of Simon of Bonnington. Robert (d.bef. 1532) son of Robert of the Haining. In 1486 he leased the lands ‘Weststeide de of Filchosyde’ in Ettrick Ward. He was witness to a document relating to the lease of the lands of Greenwood (i.e. Girkwood) and the Lyne in 1488. He is explicitly referred to as son of Robert of Haining (who was one of the bailies in that part for the precept associated with the same land transfer). In 1492 he is recorded as ‘Roberto Scot juniori’ when he and his mother were leased the lands of Haining. It seems that Haining was later inherited by his brother John. He may be the same man as Robert of Aikwood. Robert of Whitehaugh (15th/16th C.) recorded as ‘Robert Scot of Quhitttheff’ when witness to a sasine in 1499 for George Douglas, Master of Angus. This is probably the Whitehaugh near Hawick, although this is not certain. He was probably related to David ‘in Qhiuthauche’ who is recorded in 1510 and perhaps the David who first gained Whitehaugh in 1479. He may have been related to the Scotts of Heap and Borthwick. Robert of Burnfoot (15th/16th C.) probably 3rd (or 4th) son of James of Kirkurd, Over and Nether Newhall and Hassendean. He was referred to as ‘of Nether Newhall’ and later ‘of Burnfoot’, suggesting that these were once different names for the same estate. He is recorded in 1510/1 receiving the 2 ‘merklands’ of ‘ Dowiswod’ in the Barony of Hassendean from his brother David of Hassendean. He may have been succeeded by Adam. Robert of ‘Stirkshaws’ and Synton (d.bef. 1509) probably 2nd son of Walter of Synton and Stirkshaws (Stirches), although there are varied interpretations in these generations. He must have had a tower at Stiches, and was certainly involved in the transfer of Harden land to William ‘Boltfoot’, who is the ancestor of the Scotts of Harden. He was later the 8th Laird of Synton, making it unclear whether he was the same man as Robert ‘in Synton’, or whether there were 2 contemporary Roberts, both associated with Synton. He is probably the Robert of Stiches to whom James Newton of Dalcove sold the lands of Boonraw for 300 merks in 1481; in the associated sasine of 1487 he was described as son of Walter of Headshaw.
Scott

(further complicating the genealogy). In 1499 he is described as ‘Roberti Scot in Langloip’ when his rental entry is recorded in the Exchequer Rolls. In 1500 he was one of the men appointed to value the lands of Whithope. In 1501 he was assigned the ‘Weststeid de Gildhous, alias Dodbank’; he was described there as ‘Robert Scot [mortuus] de Stirkshaw’ (i.e., already dead, suggesting perhaps that there are 2 distinct Roberts of Stiches in this period) and the pledge was given by John, son of James Scott (probably of Kirkurd and Hassendean). He also refused the rental of Redford in 1501. In 1501/2 there is a bond with Alexander, Lord Home, in which he agreed to resign the lands of Harden on payment of £100 Scots (however, it is unclear whether this happened). In 1504/5 he bought the ‘6 merkland of Bondraw of old extent’ (i.e. Boonraw, perhaps repurchasing) from David Hoppringle, Walter Scott of Howpasley, George Hepburn and William Middlemess; these lands had formerly belonged to James Newton of Dalcove, and he had a charter for the lands in 1505. His sons were Walter of Synton, William of Harden and David. He was killed by Andrew Crossar (i.e. Crozier), for which Crossar was drawn and hanged in 1509. He was probably dead by 1507/8 when Walter of Stiches (presumably his son) is recorded, and in 1510, when Walter, son of the deceased Robert, is mentioned holding lands in Synton, in an indenture between the Erskines and Kerrs. He was certainly deceased in 1512 when his son Walter transferred Harden to his other son William. David ‘Lady’ was recorded as tenant in Stiches in the early years of the 16th century, suggesting he may have been a close relative, possibly his son. In 1526 the long list of Borders men who had remission for their attack on the Earl of Arran contains ‘Walter Scot of Syntoun, William Scot in Hardane, Daud Scot his brother’, all of whom were probably his sons. Robert (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1509 as ‘Robertum Scot de Holpaslot’ who was on the 1517 panel for Sir Walter Scott inheriting the lands of Branzholme. Robert of Haining (d. bef. 1532) son of John of Haining, who died at Flodden. He was served heir in 1514. He was succeeded by his son Thomas, who was still a minor when he died. Robert ‘Tutor of Howpasley’ (15th/16th C.) probably the 2nd or 3rd son of Alexander of Howpasley. He may be the Robert of Howpasley who in 1493 served as surety for Adam and Walter Turnbull in Hornshole and may also be the Laird of Howpasley who was surety for Robert in Todshawhaugh and John Turnbull in Hawick. However, Walter of Howpasley (presumably his brother) is also recorded as surety for several people in 1493 and 1494/5, and it appears that both men were designated as Laird of these lands at the same time. He is probably the ‘Robertum Scot de Holpaslot’ who was on the 1517 panel for Sir Walter Scott inheriting the lands of Branzholme. In 1524/5 he was ‘Tutor of Howpasley’ when he was one of the men who pledged to help the new Warden (the Earl of Angus) keep the peace. He was listed as ‘tutour to Howpaslot’ in the large number of Borderers pardoned in 1526 for an attack on the Earl of Arran (with his brother Simon also listed). In 1526 he was one of the men recorded in a protest by the superior of his lands, Douglas of Drumlanrig. He may also have been tutor to the Scotts of Buccleuch, like his brother Walter. In 1527 he was witness to the agreement ending the feud between Sir Walter of Branzholme and James Murray of Falahill. In 1527 he was among the local lairds, led by Sir Walter of Branzholme, given remission for mustering their supporters at Melrose (i.e. Skirmish Field) and Linlithgow. In 1528 he (along with other supporters of Buccleuch) was pardoned for crimes of treason and had his lands restored; this was at the instigation of Buccleuch, and the crimes referred to presumably included trying to capture the young King at Skirmish Field. He is ‘tutor of Howpaslot’ in 1528, when one of the arbitrators asked to decide on the succession to the lands of Borthaugh. He also witnessed an agreement between Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme and James Murray of Falahill in 1528. He is further recorded as witness to a discharge relating to Scott lands in 1528/9, where he is described as ‘Robert Scot, tutor of Howpaslet’ and holder of the lands of Craik. He is mentioned in the indenture of 1529 to reconcile the feuding Scotts and Kerrs. In 1530 he was the first of the Lairds of Roxburghshire listed as submitting themselves to the King’s will to keep peace on the Border. A charter of 1532/3 transfers Midshiels and Appletreehall from Janet Scott (daughter of his brother Walter) to him. This is confirmed in a royal grant of 1536, Appletreehall and Midshiels formerly being held by his father (presumably Alexander of Howpasley). Robert ‘Auld Hob o Riskenhope’ (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1557 when he paid rental on Shorthope in the Ettrick valley to the monks of Melrose. He was probably related to the Scotts of Tushielaw, Thirlestane etc. Robert of Howpasley (d.bef. 1567) son of Sir Walter of Howpasley. His uncle Robert was his ‘tutor’ for many years; he was a minor until at least 1530. In 1533 he (and presumably not his uncle), along with John of Thirlestane, entered a ‘bond of manrent’ with Malcolm, Lord Fleming (Chamberlain of Scotland). He is probably the Robert of Howpasley who had 6 particates of land within Hawick according to the 1537 Charter. He had the lands of Howpasley confirmed to him and his wife Isobel Murray in 1536, and later received the ‘non-entry’ duties of the lands for the years since the death of his father Walter. He is the Laird of ‘Howpaslot’ who was on an assize in Edinburgh in 1534. In 1535 he had a black horse stolen from his lands of ‘Wolcleuche’ by Simon Armstrong and others and his farm at Howpasley was burned by a group of Armstrongs, with 60 cattle being taken. In 1539/40 he sold the farm of ‘le cot rig’ in the Mains of Appletreehall to Janet Scott, widow of Robert ‘Elwand’; it is written that he ‘binds himself faithfully after coming to his house from Edinburgh’ to guarantee peaceful possession of the farm by Janet until he paid her the same amount back. In 1539 he was on the ‘retour’ panel for James Crichton of Cranston Rid dell. In 1541 he occupied the lands of Whithope (in Yarrow), Ladhope (in Ettrick) and ‘Aldishope’ (in Ettrick), as well as claiming the lands of Howford. In 1541 he was one of the cautioners (for the huge sum of £10,000) for John Johnstone of that Ilk. Also in 1541 he was one of the sureties for Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. An English document of 1543 describes how his farms at ‘Appiltre and Chauerbenton’ (presumably Appletreehall and Chamberlain Newton) were attacked by men from Tynedale, who took 70 head of cattle, 170 sheep, 28 horses and goods from the houses, as well as 12 prisoners. He is listed among the supporters of Sir Walter in 1547/8 when they complained about the Kerrs joining the English at Pinkie, and burning their lands. In 1549 he granted his 2 husband lands of Appletreehall to Hector, brother of David ‘Turnbull of Wauchope; his heir Walter, and other son Robert, were among the witnesses. In 1550 he gave a further charter to Hector Turnbull for the lands of Pinnacle and Broomlands. Also in 1550, he entered into a bond with Sir Walter of Branxholme and 9 other Scotts (and Elliot of Redheugh) in which they promised the Queen and Lord Governor to assist in bringing in criminals. He is recorded in 1553, along with his son Walter, when their lands of Birkenside in Berwickshire were ‘apprised’, i.e. sold to pay debts. In 1553/4 he was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. In 1557 he was fined for not appearing among other Scotts to answer for the attempted murder of Sir Peter Cranston at the Kirk of the Lowes. In 1561 he was among Border Lairds who appeared before the Queen to give names of those guilty of theft. In 1562/3 he was elder of Howpasley when, along with his son Sir Walter, the superior of the lands tried unsuccessfully to have him removed. He is probably the ‘Lard of Howpaslocht’ listed in 1564 among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. He is probably the Laird of Howpasley listed on Monipennie’s c.1594 compilation of Border lairds (even although he was long deceased by then). His wife is recorded in this charter as Isobel Murray, who was 2nd daughter of John ‘the Outlaw Murray’ of Falahill. He was succeeded by his son Sir Walter of Birkenside and Howpasley in 1578/9. His children may also have included John of Thirlestane. Robert of Allanhaugh (d.c.1557) son of Robert of Allanhaugh and Whitchesters, he held 3 ‘particrates’ of land in Hawick according to the 1537 Charter. He may be the same man as Robert ‘de La Toure’ who witnessed a charter relating to the

Scott

Scott

2558
lands of Whitchesters in 1500 (although it is possible there was another generation of Roberts). In 1507/8 he was probably the Robert, son and heir of Robert of Whitchesters who had a loan with John Murray of Falahill involving the ‘turrin edificatam burgo de Hawic inter pontes’ (i.e. the tower built in Hawick between the bridges).

If this is true, it suggests that the predecessor of Drumlanrig's Tower was built by the Scotts of Whitchesters and Allanhaugh. In 1517 he was on the panel of ‘retour’ for Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch inheriting his father’s barony of Branxholme. He was probably the Robert of ‘Allanhauche’ who, with several others, swore to help the Earl of Angus (the new Warden) keep the peace in 1524/5. He is probably also the Scott of ‘Allanshaugh’ who is recorded in a protest by Sir James Douglas of Drumlanrig in 1526. In 1527 he was among the local lairds given permission for mustering their supporters at Melrose (i.e. Skirmish Field) and Linlithgow. He is mentioned as being pardoned about 1528, along with Robert of Howpasley and William of Hassignedean, and also mentioned in the indenture of 1529 attempting to reconcile the Scotts and Kerrs. In 1530 he was listed among the 21 Roxburghshire Lairds who submitted themselves to James V to keep better order. In 1530/1 his son and heir apparent William was entered into ward in Borthwick Castle along with John, son of Walter of Synton, with sureties being Robert, Lord Maxwell and John Johnstone of that Ilk. In 1535 he was indicted for not paying to George, Lord Home 9 years of rent for the lands of Greenwood and Lyne; his brother Adam acted as surety. Also in 1535 he was tried in Jedburgh of a set of rieving crimes, specifically bringing men from Liddesdale to burn Midlem and steal from several farms near there, as well as at Croslie, Fastheugh, Yair, Town-of-Rule, Sunderlandhall, Clarilaw and elsewhere; he was found innocent of the charges. He was a witness to the 1540 resignation of the lands of Nether Harden from Simon Scott of Fenwick to William Scott of Harden. In 1541 he was accused by Sir Walter of Buccleuch of attacking his wife with a Jedburgh staff, and ‘had she not been ready, the butt end had slain her’; later that year, on Boxing Day, he drove away the cattle from Branxholme, and clearly there was a feud of some sort between the two Scotts. He may be the ‘Rob Scott of Halowathe in Tevedall’ who was recorded in an English letter as having his houses burned by men of Newcastle in 1542, and 16 of his cows taken. In 1553/4 he was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kerrs promised not to harm. In 1554/5 he is recorded in a sasine as the tutor of the young Walter Scott of Branxholme. He was one of the group of 200 Scotts and others who rode to the Kirk of the Lowes to try to kill Sir Peter Cranston in 1557, being later bound over not to harm Cranston afterwards. He may be the Robert ‘of Allanmouth’ listed as being ‘in a former age’ a ‘Pensioner’ of the house of Buccleuch by Scott of Satchells. He was served as a ‘tutor’ for Walter Scott of Buccleuch during his minority. He may be the Robert of Whitchesters who was said to have married Christian, daughter of William Cockburn of Henderland. He was succeeded by his son William, and may also have had a daughter who married John Scott of Thirlestane. In 1569 his grandson and heir was stated to be another Robert of Allanhaugh (whose son William is recorded in 1581); it therefore seems likely that the succession was this Robert, William, Robert and William again, all before 1600. Robert of Alton and Clarilaw (16th C.) eldest son of Adam of Clarilaw. He is recorded as ‘in Clarilaw’ in 1528/9 in a ‘discharge’ of fees by Patrick, Earl of Bothwell, relating to lands of several Scotts. He probably also related to the David ‘in Clarilaw’ recorded in the 1530s and 1540s. He is said to have lived to an advanced age and was succeeded in the lands of Alton by his son Adam. He is probably the Robert ‘in Clarilaw descended from the antient house of Hassandene’ who was listed by Satchells as being among the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. Probably the same man was recorded as son and heir of Adam of ‘Nethirmansion of Hassenden’ in 1550/1 when he was infested in the lands of Little Drinkstone. In 1566 presumably the same Robert is ‘in Hassendenburn’ when he had a letter of reversion in his favour from John Scott of Drinkstone for the lands of Little Drinkstone. He is recorded as Robert of Over Hassenden when he was witness to a confirming charter for the Turnbull of Hassendenbank in 1571. He is similarly recorded in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme; he had purchased some land from John Scott of Drinkstone, the money being held by Scott of Branxholme’s agent, John Watson. He was probably the Robert of Alton listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He was also a witness in 1581 to a ‘letter of slains’ in Hawick whereby Robert and James Scott forgave the Scotts of Allanhaugh and Over Southfield for the murder of their brother George. He was ‘of Altooun’ when he signed the Scott clan bond in 1589. He may be the Robert of Hassendean who was involved in a dispute with Robert Elliot of Horsleyhill in 1592 over a 2 merk land in Dowswood. Keith Scott suggests he lived to an advanced age and died about 1594, but this seems too late, and there may be 2 generations here. His son was Adam of Alton and his grandson was Robert of Alton; in 1606 Robert was served as heir to his father Adam in lands in Chamberlain Newton and to his grandfather Robert in lands in Hassendean, thus establishing the link between the 3 generations.

In 1653 Robert of Alton’s daughters Margaret, Bessie and Agnes were served ‘heirs portioners’ of Robert ‘of Easter Maines of Hasindaine’, their ‘fair grandsher’, who was probably him; hence he was great-grandfather of these 3 women. It is unclear how he was related to earlier and contemporary Scots of Hassendean, however, it is possible he was closely connected with David (who was killed about 1564). Robert (16th C.) Customar of Irvine according to the Exchequer Rolls for at least the years 1537–42. He gave in his reports with William, junior, who was surely related. He was probably also related to John, who was an official in Irvine at about the same time. Robert of Waumphrey (16th C.) recorded in ward in 1540 when he was releaed (along with Robert of Howpasley) on condition that he help keep peace on the Border, with 2 of their friends to remain in ward as pledges. He is also listed in 1547/8 among the supporters of Sir Walter of Branxholme in a bond of loyalty to the Crown, along with the Kerrs. And in 1550 he was one of 10 Scots to sign a bond with the Queen, to keep order and bring in criminals. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert (16th C.) tenant in Borthaugh who was recorded in 1549 when tenant and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme complained about their farms being burned by a group of Englishmen and Kerrs in the previous year. Robert (16th C.) possibly a son of David of Tushielaw and younger brother of Adam of Tushielaw and John of Thirlestane (although this is uncertain). He was Parish Clerk of St. Mary of the Lowes. He was described as ‘in Bowhill’ in 1557 when he was relepled for his part in the armed mob which came to the Church at St. Mary’s seeking to kill Sir Peter Cranston. His sureties were Sir John Scott, Commissary of the Archbishop of Glasgow and Robert Scott of Bonnington. Other men named include Scotts of Allanhaugh, Burnfoot, Haining, Harden, Howpasley, Synton and Thirlestane. He is probably the Robert ‘of Bowhill’ who paid rental for lands in Rodono to Melrose Abbey in 1557. He may be the Robert of Bowhill who was served heir to his brother Walter in the half stead ing of Kershope (called ‘Westsyd de Kershop’ in Et trick) in 1555. Scott of Satchells describes him as the progenitor of the Scotts of Bowhill. His son Walter was alive in 1592. He had 2 other sons: William (in Scotstaines) who was probably at the rescue of Kimmont Willie in 1596; and James. Robert of Horsleyhill (16th C.) charged by the Queen’s Advocate in 1563 with ‘Reseting of Inglismenne, and Thiftuus Steling of certane Oxin’. William of Tushielaw was fined for not producing the relevant documents. Since it appears that Horsleyhill was owned by the Ellots about this time it is unclear how he could have been Laird (perhaps this was an error of Pitcairn in ‘Scott’ for ‘Elliot’?; however, descendants of the Scotts of Tushielaw would later own Horsleyhill). Robert ‘Wait Aboot Um’ (16th C.) recorded in 1562 along with Robert ‘of Collefurd’ and John ‘callit the Clerk’. The 3 were excepted from the bond between the Scots and the Kers, but instead we to be pursued for their crimes. His name is explicitly recorded as ‘Wait About Him’, but it is unclear what this meant. Robert ‘Hob’ (d.1564) recorded in 1562 along with John ‘callit the Clerk his brother and Hob ‘Wait About Him’. He is listed as Robert ‘of Collefurd’. The 3 were excepted from the assurance given by the Scots that they would end their feud with the Kerrs, but instead these men were to be pursued (and hence presumably already convicted as thieves). They were convicted of sheep-stealing and reset and hanged, along with John ‘the Clerk’, Mark Elliot called ‘of the Hill’ and John Henderson ‘the Falser’. He is recorded as ‘callit of Colyfur’. He must be related to the William, son of Walter, who had a sasine for Colifort in 1550. Robert of Bonnington (d.be 1572) probably younger son of the first Robert of Aikwood. Sometime in the period 1514–1524 he married Katherine, daughter and heiress of John Boyle of Wanphray and Rysholm (in Ayrshire); she was widow of John Johnstone and died in 1524. He assumed the designation ‘of Wanphray and Rysholm’. In about 1540 he and Sir Walter of Buccleuch were released from ward after making promises to help keep order on the Border. In 1541 he was ‘of Wanphray’ when he claimed tenancy of the lands of Winterburgh in Ettrick. His son Robert was infelt in the lands of Rysholm in 1541, but died before 1549. He was recorded as tenant in ‘Rysholme’ in Ayrshire in 1542, when he had a sasine for those lands. He was accused of being a traitor and spy in 1545 and appears to have taken refuge at Aikwood. In 1550 he was ‘of Wamfrey’ when he witnessed an obligation by Sir Walter Scott to bring in criminals on the Border. He and his sons disposed of Wampray and Rysholm in about 1550. In 1552 he was described as ‘in Aikwode’ (i.e. Oakwood) when he and his son and heir Adam purchased both halves of the lands of Bonnington from the daughters and heirs of Martin Wylie. In 1553/4 he was listed as ‘of Wanfra’ among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. In 1557/8 he was ‘sometime of Wamfray’ when along with his son Adam they were bound by a charter to sell ‘Ryisholme’ in Ayrshire to John Hamilton of ‘Beystoun’; however, they were unable to do so, having been evicted and hence had to give rentals of Bonnington and other lands in Peebleshire to Hamilton. He is probably the same as the Robert ‘of Bonyntoune’ who was surety for some of the Scotts charged in 1557 with trying to kill Sir Peter Cranston at the Kirk of the Lowes, and who was on the panel for charging John Gledstains of Cocklaw with murder in 1561. In 1557 he was ‘of Bonytoun’ when he paid rental to Melrose Abbey for ‘Espyhoup’ and ‘Stobeclouch’. He was listed among the men who appeared before the Privy Council in a promise to end the feud between the Kers and the Scotts in 1562. He was succeeded in the lands of Bonnington by his son Adam, and he was grandfather of Simon of Bonnington (who was served heir to his grandmother, Katherine Boyle, in 1611). His other sons were Robert, who predeceased him, and an illegitimate son, also Robert, who was legitimatised in 1547. He is probably the Robert recorded in a service of heirs in 1625; William Burnet succeeded to the brother of his great-grandfather on his mother’s side, as heir to John of ‘Walkmanfield’ (in Peeblesshire), son of Robert of Bonnington, brother of Adam. Robert of Thirlstane (d.c.1576) son of John, the first recorded Laird of Thirlstane, in Ettrick valley. In 1550 he was among local lairds (including Walter of Buccleuch and Robert of Howpasley) who swore to the Queen and Lord Governor that they would help bring in criminals. In 1553 there is an assurance by Walter Kerr of Cessford not to hurt him or his family and friends (this following the murder of Sir Walter of Buccleuch in Edinburgh). In 1557 he was listed as being ‘of Schastaine’ (perhaps a transcription error) when he paid rental for ‘Craige’, ‘Ramseclouch’ and ‘Thrilistane’ to the monks of Melrose. He was also involved in 1557 with the band of about 200 Scotts and their supporters who sought out Sir Patrick Cranston at the Kirk of the Lowes as part of a feud. He was appointed one of the curators of Sir Walter of Braxholme in 1562, when he was in his minority. In 1564 he was listed among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. He was probably the ‘Gudman of Thirlstane’ on an assize of 1564 involving the murder of David of Hassendean. And in 1564/5 he was also listed as one of the 4 curators of Sir Walter of Braxholme in the bond signed with the Kerrs; he signed ‘with my hand at the pen’, indicating that he could not write). He was probably Warden-Depute of the West Borders, although no dates are known. In 1567 he was one of the cautioners for the marriage contract between Elizabeth, sister of Walter of Braxholme and Thomas, son of Walter Ker of Cessford. Also in 1567 he and Master Thomas Weston relieved Sir Walter Scott of Braxholme as surety for Archie’s Will in Gorrenberry and Sim Elliot in Dodburn. In 1568 he had a charter of feu-right for Thirlstane, Ramseycleuch, Scabbcleuch and Craighill from the Commendator of Melrose Abbey. In 1568/9 his support was mentioned as a curator of Sir Walter of Buccleuch on further bond between the Scotts and Kers. In 1569 he was on the panel of inquest for Grizel Borthwick inheriting superiority of her father’s lands in Wilton. In 1569 he (along with Sir Walter of Braxholme, Langlands of that Ilk and William, Lord Borthwick) was surety for several Eliots. He was also caution for Walter of Headshaw in 1569 and for other Borderers in 1573. In late 1573 he was charged to enter Ade Dodds and George Laidlaw, tenants in Ramseycleuch. He was curator of Walter Scott of Buccleuch, recorded in 1575, but is deceased by 1577. He is probably the Laird listed in Monipennie’s c.1594 (but put together much earlier) compilation of Border chiefs. He married Margaret Scott, who may have been daughter of ‘Wicked Wat’ (not a daughter of the 1st Lord of Buccleuch, as stated by Satchells); she was among the curators of her son Robert, complaining about the treatment he had at the hands of Simon Scott of Winterburgh, and was still living at Thirlestane in 1609. He was succeeded by his eldest son Sir Robert. Other sons were Walter of Gamescleuch and William of Fingland (who may also have had the lands of Merrylaw). Both sons are listed among those involved with the 1593 slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Drye Sands, and both were probably at the rescue of Kimmont Willie. Robert of Allanhaugh (16th C.) recorded as ‘Young Robert Scot of Alanehauch’ in 1557 when he rented the Brugh from Melrose Abbey. Probably the same Robert is described as heir to his deceased grandfather in 1569, when there was a discharge from his cousin, Sir Walter of Branhholme, for whom his grandfather acted as tutor during Sir Walter’s minority; he was also granted the non-entry of the rents and other fees associated with Whitchester, from the time of the death of the former Robert of Allanhaugh (around 1557) until he became of age. Probably the same Robert of Allanhaugh is listed in 1581 among Scots and their allies who were summoned to appear before the Privy Council; his son William is also listed. He was most likely the Robert of Allanhaugh (along with William ‘in Alanehaucht, now in Hawik’, presumably his son, and Scotts associated with Over Southfield) who were involved in the murder of Hawick resident George Scott in 1578; George’s brothers Robert and James wrote a ‘letter of slains’ in Hawick in which they forgave the assailants. In 1585 he had a bond with Sir Walter of Buccleuch, settling an old feud over the death of David, son of Adam of Allanhaugh, and Hob Dalgleish, servant of Sir Walter’s in Braidhaugh; his ‘brother germane’ Walter is also listed. He was also recorded in about 1590 among the landed men of the Borders. Papers relating to him in the period 1581–1600 are in the National Archives. It seems possible that he was son of William, but may have been the direct heir of his grandfather, the previous Robert. However, the history of this family is very unclear. Robert (16th C.) Bailie of Hawick who signed the 1569 bond against the thieves of Liddesdale, along with many inhabitants of Roxburghshire, Selkirkshire, Berwickshire and Peeblesshire. He may be the same as one of the other local Robert Scotts of the time. Robert (16th C.) recorded in 1571/2 as one of 4 inhabitants of Hawick who entered themselves to answer some kind of bond, with Sir William Ker of Caverton as cautioner. ‘Philip’s Jock’ was one of the other men and hence possibly related. In 1572/3 the same men swore allegiance to the Crown and gave assurance that they would not help or reset Sir Thomas Kerr of Ferniehirst and others, with Sir James Douglas of Drumlanrig as cautioner. Robert (16th C.) son and heir of William ‘in Hawik’, mentioned in 1557 and in 1565/6. His father had leases on lands in Hawick owned by Trinity Collegiate Church in Edinburgh (and formerly belonging to Soutra). It is possible he is the same as Robert ‘in Hawik’ recorded in 1592. Robert of Stirches (16th C.) probably son of Walter of Synton by his 2nd wife Margaret, daughter of James Riddell of that Ilk. His step-mother was a Cockburn of Ormiston, from whom the family inherited the lands of Whitslade. He was the progenitor of the Scotts of Whitslade and Stirches. He is probably the Robert, son of Walter of Synton who appeared for his father in 1561 to promise to produce ‘Hob Flesceour’, who was accused of theft in Berwick. In the same year he was listed as son to Walter of Synton among Border Lairds who appeared before the Queen to give names of those guilty of theft. He married a daughter (possibly Helen) of Rutherford of Hunthill and was succeeded by his son Walter ‘the Hawk’ (who was probably the first to be designated ‘of Whitslade’, and was served heir to his grandfather Walter in the lands of Whitslade in 1605). Scott of Satchells also says he had a son Thomas, who was 1st of Todrig, but this appears to be off by a generation. It is said that another son, also Robert, accompanied Scott of Buccleuch on the raid to rescue Kimmont Willie from Carlisle Castle in 1596. He may have been responsible for the building (or rebuilding) of the tower at Stirches. Robert of Burnfoot (16th C.) probably 2nd son of William of Harden, as stated by Scott of Satchells. He was eldest son of William with his 2nd wife, who was a Ker of Fairnilee and widow of Riddell of that Ilk. His brother was George of Todrig. His lands were Burnfoot in the Ale valley (as opposed to Burnfoot-on-Teviot). He may have been father of William of Burnfoot in Ale and hence Robert, and Walter, brothers of William. These 3 brothers were mentioned in 1612 when the sons of the Earl of Bothwell were involved in an ongoing dispute with them over land and tithes. Robert (16th C.) described as son of deceased Robert of Raesknowe in an undated marriage contract with Agnes, daughter of Sir Thomas Turnbull of Bedrule. Sir Thomas lived until 1572, and hence it must have been before this date. He was probably related to David of Raesknowe who was one of the 24 ‘pensioners’ of Buccleuch. Robert of Over Hassendean (16th C.) see Robert of Alton and Clarilaw. Robert (16th C.) mentioned in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. It is stated that ‘Robert Scottis wyf in Hawik’ was owed ‘for sum ordinar dtwie, sex pundis’, suggesting that she had provided some kind of service to the Laird (perhaps catering). Robert ‘Hob’ (16th C.) recorded in 1581 as ‘callit Glenrathane’ when, along with his brother George and Hob ‘callit Huitill’ they were accused of attacking Martin Elliot of Bradeilie’s farm at Northcroft. Their chief was Walter of Goldielands, and so they must have been relatively local. ‘Glenrathane’ is probably Glenrath in Ewesdale, rather than Glenrath south of Peebles. He is probably the ‘Hob Scott in Glenrathane’ listed among men declared as fugitives for not appearing at a court in Hawick in 1605. He was surely related to Archibald there, who was declared a fugitive in 1606. Robert ‘Hob’ (16th C.) referred to as ‘callit Huitill’ in 1581 when there was a complaint against him and 2 other Scots (Hob of ‘Glenrathane’ and his brother George) attacking Martin Elliot’s farm of Northcroft. It is unclear where ‘Huitill’ might have been. Rev. Robert (16th C.) son of Walter of ‘Hindscha’ (i.e. Headshaw) he became minister of Ashkirk in 1585/6, on the death of Daniel Chalmers. However, nothing else is recorded about him. It is possible he is actually the same man as Robert of Headshaw, unless there are 2 generations of Walter of Headshaw and he is son of the 1st (or Walter of Headshaw had 2 sons called Robert). Robert (16th C.) Burgess of Hawick recorded in 1581, brother of George and James (who was a cordiner). In 1581 he and his brother James wrote a ‘letter of slains’ in Hawick, forgiving the murderers of his brother, who were the Scotts from Allanhaugh, Over Southfield and others. He signed the document ‘wytht my hand’ (although his brother James did not). He may well be the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (16th C.) Burgess of Edinburgh. In 1581 he was a cautioner (with Mungo, Burgess of Edinburgh, as well as James Gledstains of Cocklaw) for Walter Scott of Goldielands being entered into ward in Edinburgh Castle. He was probably directly related to Mungo, as well as being a relative of the Scots of Goldielands (and hence Buccleuch). Robert of Howford (16th/17th C.) listed by Scott of Satchells as one of the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. He was also said to have been on the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. It was said that he received the lands of ‘Cawdhouse’ (presumably Coldhouse) for his service. He must have been related to the later Scotts of Coldhouse. He was probably son of Robert of Howford and was succeeded by William, probably his son. Robert of Langhope and Huntly (16th/17th C.) listed as one of the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch in Scott of Satchells doggerel verse. He is there recorded as ‘of Langup’ and having the lands of ‘Outterhunty for his service for several ages’. He was said to have been in the group that rescued Kinmont Willie in 1596. He was probably son of William ‘in Huntly’, who was 3rd son of John, younger of Synton. His brothers Walter and William were listed among supporters of Scott of Thirlestane about 1610. He was probably succeeded by his son Walter, who appears to have been succeeded by another James, who was probably a younger son. William, recorded in 1608 as brother of Walter, was probably yet another son. Robert of Shielwood (16th/17th C.) 5th son of John, younger of Synton. His sons probably included: Robert of Shielwood; and Walter of Girnwood. Robert of Haining (d.bef. 1611) son of Thomas. He is recorded in a bond of 1576/7, not to remove ‘kindly’ tenants from Elliston and in the following year lost a dispute with John, minister of Selkirk, over the possession of ‘the half town and landis of Elistoun’. Also in 1576/7 he was a witness to the payment of a fine by Sir Walter Ker of Cessford because of George Ker not marrying Sir Walter of Branxholme’s sister Janet. In 1580 he had a court case against Adam of Bonnington. He was listed among many Scots and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Eliots and Armstrongs (he may have been involved with Scott of Headshaw in the attack on the Eliots of Braidlie). He was in ward in Edinburgh Castle in 1581, along with George of Synton, when his cautioners were Mungo and Alexander, Burgess of Edinburgh. Alexander was cautioner for him when the surety was renewed. In 1585 he witnessed a bond (signed at Selkirk and Hawick) settling a feud between the Scotts of Branxholme and the Scotts of Allanhaugh. He signed a bond with other Scotts in 1589 and was listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ of 1590. In 1590 a number of Murrays were put under caution not to harm him and James Scott ‘callit Mekle Jame Eister’. In 1590/1 he was a cautioner for Walter Chisholme of that Ilk in a case brought against the Scottish Wardens and leaders on the Border, for failing to produce certain fugitives. He represented Buccleuch at a meeting of Wardens representatives at Dayholme on the Kershope Burn in 1596. Afterwards Lord Scape’s agent, Salkeld, captured Kinmont Willie, leading later to his daring rescue from Carlisle Castle. In 1599 he witnessed the bonds (signed at Branxholme) between Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch and the Armstrongs and
Scott

Elliots of Liddesdale. In the early years of the century he (along with Sir Robert of Thirlestane) acted for the interests of Sir Walter of Buccleuch while he was abroad. In 1601 he was mentioned in an English letter listing Armstrong outlaws under the Laird of Buccleuch, when he appears to have been acting as a Deputy Warden. In 1606 he was surety for Ninian Armstrong and Andrew Henderson in a murder trial. In 1608 it is said that he ‘hounded out’ John, brother of Walter of Woll and his half-brother John Turnbull, leading to them attacking some citizens in Selkirk and then being rescued from the Bailies by a gang of Scotts including his brother William; his servitors Walter and John Gledstains were also involved. His son Robert and several of his servants were alleged to have attacked Sir Andrew Ker’s lands at Selkirk Mill in 1608; his servants included Thomas Young, Francis Scott, William Elliot, Patrick Brown and William Thomson. He is probably the Robert who was named as a Commissioner for keeping peace in Selkirkshire in 1610. Some time before 1580 he married Janet, daughter of Sir Walter (9th of Buccleuch); she had previously been married to John Cranston of that Ilk, and contracted to marry George Ker, younger of Faldonside. He was succeeded by his son Robert. He also had a younger son, William, who was one of the rescuers of Kimmont Willie. Robert of Bowhill (d.bef. 1625) son of Walter of Bowhill. In 1609 he succeeded to his father Walter’s lands of North Bowhill. He is recorded in 1601 when his brothers Walter, James and William ‘in Schostanis’, together with John ‘in Quholplaw’ were tried for the murder of Archibald Napier of ‘Wowmet’ (Woolmok, near Edinburgh). And in 1602 his brother James was part of a group of Scotts who attacked lands at ‘Fechane’. His son Robert succeeded him in 1625. Perhaps the same Robert is recorded in 1594 as ‘callit of Bowden’ on the list of 180 or so men who had a ‘respite’ for killing Lord Maxwell and others at Dryfe Sands. He is probably a descendant of the Robert of Bowhill recorded in the 1550s. Robert of Burnfoot (d.1612) son of William. His lands were Burnfoot on Teviot, and he should not be confused with Robert of Burnfoot on Ale. In 1585 he succeeded his grandfather Adam in the lands of Over and Nether N ewhall. He is said to have been at the rescue of Kimmont Willie in 1596. He is listed among a large number of Scotts and others among ‘pretended tenants’ whom the Baron of Hassendea n, James Cunningham, was trying to eject from their lands in 1603. He had at least 3 sons: Adam, who succeeded; Robert, who succeeded his elder brother; and William, tenant in Burnhead. He is probably the ‘Guidman of Burnefute’ listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in about 1590. Robert (16th C.) recorded as ‘Robert Scot in Hawik’ when he was witness to an instrument of sasine for Crook in 1592. William in Hawick and Adam in Ormisten are also mentioned. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1597 among defendants in cases brought by the English Wardens involving raids by men of Liddesdale. His name is given as ‘Hobb (Robert) Scott called ‘bradowe’’. It is unclear whether his to-name was a nickname or location. Robert of Easter Groundistone (16th/17th C.) nephew to Robert of Headshaw according to Capt. Scott of Satchells when he listed him as one of the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. His grandfather was Walter of Headshaw, but it is unclear what his father’s name was (possibly Walter). Robert ‘Hob’ (16th/17th C.) listed among men of Eskdale, Ewesdale, etc., declared fugitive at a court in Peebles in 1605. He is recorded as ‘Hob Scott of the Laik’, but it is unclear where this might have been. Sir Robert of Thirlestane (c.1558–1627) son of Robert, with his mother being Margaret Scott (either daughter of ‘Wicked Wat’ of Buccleuch or Wat of Harden). He is first recorded in 1568, and Satchells claims he was born in 1566 (although he appears to have reached majority by 1581). During his minority his ‘tutor’ was his uncle Simon of Gamescleuch, while his curators were Sir John Johnstone of that Ilk, Thomas Turnbull of Bedrule and James Gledstains of Cocklaw. In 1578 he and his curators complained that his tutor ‘Sym Scot of Wintirburch’ had taken 2 horses from Thirlestane, harassed his tenants and then forcibly taken possession of the house at Thirlestane. He is said to have attended the University of St. Andrews along with the young Walter of Buccleuch (and at the same time as the young James VI), and about 1585 accompanied Walter to the site of the old Rankleburn Kirk, where they found some buried tombstones bearing the arms of Buccleuch. He was listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstron gs. In 1583/4 he is among the Border Lairds summoned by the Privy Council for advice on preserving peace in Teviotdale and Liddesdale. In 1583/4 he and Sim of Winterburgh were cautioners for John in Hundleshope. He could be the Robert ‘in
Scott

Scott

Cringillis’ who witnessed a bond in 1585 (signed at Selkirk and Hawick) settling a feud between the Scotts of Branhholme and the Scotts of Allanhaugh. In 1590 he was purchased the lands of Altrive and Corsecleuch (Selkirkshire) from Alexander Lord Home, his family having been ‘kindly tenants’ there for generations. He was also listed on the 1590 ‘Roll of the Clans’. A confirming charter of 1590 records that he purchased the lands of Crookston in Peeblesshire, on account of a messenger taking refuge there, this being part of a dispute between Cranston and Arthur Scott of Gamescleuch. He gained the lands of Kirkhope in Ettrick and the teinds of Ettrick Kirk in 1594; his eldest son and heir, Robert was also given liferent of these properties of Melrose Abbey. In 1596 he was one of the men consulted by Walter of B Buccleuch in organising the rescue of Kinmont Willie, and he accompanied Walter to London to see Elizabeth I in 1597. In 1596/7 the citizens of Peebles complained that he had led a group of Scotts to attack their lands of ‘Kaidmure’; they were all denounced as rebels for failure to appear. Along with his brother Walter he is included in a list of supporters of Scott of Buccleuch in 1599. Also in 1599 he witnessed the bonds (signed at Branhholme) between Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch and the Armstrongs and Elliot of Liddesdale. In the early years of the 1600s he and Robert of Haining acted for Sir Walter of Branhholme while he was abroad. In 1602 Gideon Murray of Elibank was surety for him in regard to charges against him by the warden of the middle marches ‘at the instance of the laird of Neutoun, Englishman’. In 1604 he sold the lands of Cruxton to William Elliot, Burgess of Peebles. In 1605 he had a bond to enter his tenants (Scotts of Hundleshope and others) for not appearing to answer charges of attacking the lands at ‘Fechane’. He was probably knighted in 1606 and in 1607 was Member of the Scottish Parliament for Selkirkshire, the first elected representative. He was involved in every local quarrel of his day, including helping organise the rescue of Kinmont Willie. He was caution for several relatives and tenants in 1608 not to harm Archibald ‘of Deiphoin’, and also caution for Sir John Murray of Philiphaugh. There was a feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw, culminating in the death of his brother Walter at the hands of John, son of Walter Scott of Tushielaw in 1609. In 1609 he and his son Robert (and several others) were bonded not to reset Walter of Headshaw and a group of other men, and were later fined for resetting the same men (including his natural son Peter and brother William). In 1609 he also complained against Armstrongs and other men who were troubling him in his lands and vowing to take his life. He witnessed a charter for Scott of Woll in 1609. In 1610 there was a bond of assurance with the Scotts of Tushielaw in order to resolve the feud. That same year he was ordered apprehended since he still had a ‘horn-ing’ for the attack on Peebles in 1596/7. Also in 1610 he and his son had a ‘wadset’ with Robert of Whitslade and another with Robert of Burnfoot and he was cautioner for the Scotts of Whitslade and Satchells that they would not harm Walter in Hawick, called Todshawhill and his associates. In 1612 there was a complaint to the Privy Council that he and his son Sir Robert had not paid former fines and should be apprehended, the Council also asked him and Walter of Tushielaw to appear to resolve the contradictory claims of each family. William Scott, younger of Harden had him and others removed from the lands of Deephope in 1615/16. In about 1620 he had a charter for Thirlestane, Ettrickhouse, Ramseycleuch and Scableuch from the Commendator of Melrose, as well as another charter for half of the lands of ‘Cringillis’. He and his son Robert were also granted the teinds of the new Kirk of Ettrick. In the years 1621–3 he was involved with financial bonds with Sir William of Harden, as well as Sir Walter of Whitslade and Walter, Earl of Buccleuch (essentially borrowing money using his lands as collateral). In 1622 he was fined for not being on the jury for the case involving Turnbulls of Belses etc. He was recorded in a disposition of 1623 to his chief the Earl of Buccleuch. Also in 1623 he was one of the representatives of Tweeddale and Selkirk on the Parliamentary Commission to discuss the export of Scottish wool. In 1624 he rented Gamescleuch from Sir William Scott of Harden. Also in 1624 his lands of Crookston were ‘apprised for debt’, and he also sold an ‘annualrent’ there. In 1625 he was one of the men who broke out of the jail in Selkirk (the others being Gavin Elliot of Brugh, George Davidson of Kames, Thomas Little of Meikledale and his servant John ‘Skailis’), breaking the walls on 2 sides, his prison bed being found to have 2 plow blades and ‘twa greit craw-irnes’; he must have been in his 60s by then! It appears that his estates were resigned to Sir William of Harden, and later inherited by his nephew Patrick of Tanlawhill, although there was dispute for the next century with the descendants of his son (with his 2nd wife) Sir John. In about 1626 he appears to have lost the lands of Thirlestane, Ramseycleuch and Scableuch (at least temporarily) to John Fisher, perhaps because of non-payment of loans to Scott of Harden. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Cranston of that Ilk sometime before 1594. In 1602 he secondly married Katherine, daughter of Sir Alexander Jardine of Applegirth. His sons were Sir Robert, Sir John and James. John was listed in the last testament of the Earl of Buccleuch in 1633 owing rental money to Mary Lyon (wife of Sir Robert of Crockston, i.e. his sister-in-law). In 1616 his daughter Grizel married Walter of Tushielaw without his permission. Other daughters were probably Jean, who married Robert of Satchells, and Susannah, who married Sir Walter of Whitslade. He may also have been the Robert who inspired the story told of a 2nd wife of Thirlestane being involved in the jealous murder of her stepson (this would be Katherine or Catherine Jardine and her stepson, Sir Robert). He is easily confused with his son, also Sir Robert (often called 'of Crockston'), who appears to have pre-deceased him in 1619. In 1621 he was served heir to his son Robert's lands of Gamescleuch, Ettrickside, Bowlorehope and the lands of the Kirk o the Lowes. In 1621 he was served heir to his son's lands of Gamescleuch, Ettrickside and the lands of the Kirk o the Lowes. His wife Catherine Jardine held lands of Davington and others 'in liferent' after his death, recorded in 1627 in a document with Walter, Earl of Buccleuch. His son John was served as his heir in 1642. Robert 'Sim’s Hob' (16th/17th C.) referred to as 'in Hawick' when he was witness to a discharge of 1605 between 'Lang Sandie' Scott and William Scott of Howpasley. His father was presumably Simon. Probably the same 'Robert Scot in Hawick, callit Symmies Habie' was recorded in 1611 when he failed to appear in court at Jedburgh; John in Brieryyards was fined for his non-appearance. Robert (16th/17th C.) brother of William of Burnfoot. George Langlands of that Ilk was cautions for him in 1610, that he not harm William in Hawick (called of Todshawhill) and his associates. His brother and several other Scotts were also involved in this dispute. He was also mentioned in 1612 as brother of William of Burnfoot on Ale (along with Walter, another brother) in the ongoing dispute with the sons of Francis, Earl of Bothwell. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert in Northhouse (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1607 when Hector Turnbull of Stonedge had a complaint against him before the Privy Council.

He may be the ‘Hob Scot’, brother to Will ‘called of Northhouse’, named along with his brother, when Gilbert Elliott of Horsleyhill (and later of Stobs) complained to the Privy Council that they attacked him in Hawick, ‘with drawn swords’; Gilbert later complained that they had not responded and requested that they should be apprehended, although it is unclear what happened next. He was ‘of Northhouse’ in 1611 when he was part of the assize at the Justice Court in Jedburgh. Robert (16th/17th C.) tenant in Nether Southfield in in 1628 when he was on a list of men accused by the Earl of Buccleuch of chopping down his trees at Todshawhaugh or Trinitylands. He may have been related to later Scotts of the Southfield area. Robert of Howshaw (16th/17th C.) said to have headed the funerary procession for Walter, Earl of Buccleuch in 1634. He rode fully armed, carrying a small banner of the Earl's colours on the point of his lance. The account comes from Chamber’s Domestic Annals of Scotland. However, it seems likely that ‘Howshaw’ is an error for some different place, since this Robert is otherwise unknown. Robert of Bowhill (16th/17th C.) son of Robert, who he succeeded in 1625. He carried the arms of Douglas of Drumlanrig in the funeral procession of the Earl of Buccleuch in Hawick in 1634. He had 2 sons, Andrew and James, both of whom succeeded to Bowhill. Robert of Satchells (16th/17th C.) probably son of James, who was 4th son of John, younger of Synton. He is said to have been involved in the rescue of Kinmount Willie in 1596. He had a charter from John, Archbishop of Glasgow for the lands of Satchells in the Barony of Lilliesleaf in 1607, and a confirming charter from the King in 1609. In 1609 he also had a charter for Dodbank in Selkirkshire, which his father James, and others before him had occupied. In 1610 Sir Robert of Thirlestane acted as caution for him, that he not harm Walter Scott in Hawick (called of Todshawhill) and his associates; he was named along with Walter of Whitslade and his son Thomas, suggesting a close link between these families at that time. He is one of the signatories of the 1612 bond to keep peace on the Border. It appears that he lost the Satchells estate, probably through a loan, and moved to a small farm in Eskdalemuir. He may have died soon afterwards, since Jean (presumably his widow) was involved with the sheep-slaughter incident of 1616 along with Lady Scott of Howpasley. His wife was probably Jean, daughter of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. He was probably the father of Capt. Walter the poet and family historian, and also William. Additional children may have included Robert, referred to as younger of Satchells in the 1620s and John, mentioned in a deed of 1655. He may be the ‘Robert Scot of Satchels’ who was among the 24 ‘pensioners’ of Buccleuch, having ‘Southinrig for his Service’, according to Capt. Walter’s pastoral. Keith Scott suggests he died about 1629 (but then Lady Satchells would not have been a widow in 1616); he also suggests there are 2 generations called Robert, so the situation is quite unclear.

Robert of Aikwood (d.1615) probably son of William. In 1564/5 he married Marion, daughter of Sir William Cranston of that Ilk. He is probably the ‘Robert of ...wod’ listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He signed the bond with the other Scotts in 1589. He witnessed a deed in 1592. He had the present tower at Oakwood built in 1602. In 1607 he was summoned before the Selkirk Presbytery, accused of perjury against the minister of Selkirk and in 1614 was cited by the minister for ‘drinking during the time of sermon’. In 1611 he was caution for Philip of Dryhope. He was witness to the bond for keeping peace on the Border in 1612. He was succeeded by his son Andrew in 1615. Philip of Aikwood (who succeeded Andrew) may have been another son.

Robert ‘Hob the Lonkie’ (16th/17th C.) Hawick resident mentioned in a murder trial of 1612, after a man apparently hung himself in the Kirk steeple in 1610. His nickname may be a transcription error for ‘Loukie’, meaning lucky or fortunate. Bailie Robert ‘Hob’ of Alton (16th/17th C.) Magistrate in Hawick. It is unclear how he was related to the other Scotts of Alton. The Robert ‘of Auldtown’ whose son Adam is listed among those implicated in the slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Dryfe Sands in 1593 may have been his direct ancestor; it is possible he was son of Adam referred to as ‘vocat de Alton’s, who was younger brother of Walter of Alton. He was Bailie in 1603, 1612 (at the same time as ‘Marion’s Hob’) and 1619, and possibly other years, since it is hard to distinguish the various Roberts. He may be the ‘Hob Scot, bailie of Hawick’, who was cautioner for Jamie Chisholme at court in Jedburgh in 1611. He was involved with the incident in 1612 in which the Bailies imposed a stent and market tax without seeking the permission of the Baron, thereby testing the legal authority of Douglas of Drumlanrig within Hawick. An extract of his sasine of 1615 is in the National Archives, this having been copied from the Protocol Book of Gilbert Watt (Hawick’s later Town Clerk). In 1620 he is recorded paying back a loan made to Thomas Rutherford, brother of John of Hunthill. He was also a ‘personne of assyse’ in the Commissioners’ Court of 1622 and 1623. He is recorded in 1627–29 claiming a debt against the Earl of Buccleuch, where he is described as ‘sometime bailie in Hawick’. ‘Robert, bailie in Hawick, called of Auldton’ is also mentioned in a dispute with William Douglas of Drumlanrig relating to a bond of 1601. The later Robert of Alton (who died around 1650) was probably his brother Walter’s son. Bailie Robert (16th/17th C.) brother of William called ‘of the Know’, with George and David also being brothers. In 1608 they were bound over not to harm Thomas Abernethy, minister of Hawick (the nature of the dispute being unclear), and he was similarly bound. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Bailies of the same name. They may also have been related to John Scott, Bailie of Selkirk, who acted as surety for them. Bailie Robert (16th/17th C.) Magistrate in 1610, along with Adam Scott, when Jock Elliot died while imprisoned in the Kirk steeple. Elliot’s wife took the Bailies and others to court for his death, but the decision was that it was a suicide. He was one of the men called to give evidence at the trial. He is probably the same as one of the other contemporary Bailie Roberts, but it is unclear which one. Sir Robert of Haining (16th/17th C.) son of Robert. In 1608 he is ‘younger of Haining’ when he was part of a group of men complained about by Sir Andrew Ker of Heiton, saying that they came to his lands of Selkirk Mill and ‘violentlie caist out the dam-heid furth thairof’. They returned with a group of Scotts, Murrays, Elliots, Gledstains, etc., threatened the millers and smashed equipment. He and James ‘Corsane’ were imprisoned, with 2 others being asked to appear later. He succeeded his father in 1611. In 1612 he was one of the witnesses called by the Privy Council in an attempt to resolve the feud between the Scotts of Tushielaw and Thirlestane. About 1625 he sold Haining, but was still known as ‘of Haining’ afterwards. He was removed from the Earl of Home’s lands at Hartwoodburn in 1622. He may be the same Sir Robert of Haining who carried the arms of Scott of Buccleuch in the Earl’s funeral procession in Hawick in 1634. He is probably the Robert of Haining who married Elizabeth, daughter of Patrick Murray of Falahill. He had at least 2 sons: Robert, who succeeded; and Walter, portioner of Guilan. Bailie Robert ‘Marion’s Hob’ or ‘Marion’s Rab’ (16th/17th C.) Magistrate in late 1612, along with ‘Hob of Alton’, when the authority of the Baron was challenged. He was also Bailie in 1622, 1623 and 1626. He served as a juror at the Commissioners’ Court of 1622 and 1623 when he was ‘laitt bailye of Hawik’. His servitor, William Johnstone, is recorded in the trial for the claimed murder of John Elliot in Hawick in 1610. He was probably one of the 2 Bailie Roberts listed among the 9 men charged with performing a valuation of the lands in the Parish of Hawick. He could be the Bailie Robert who acted as cautioner for James Henderson in ‘Catheuch’ in 1611. His mother was presumably Marion. It is possible his brother was the contemporary ‘Marion’s Geordie’. Bailie Robert (16th/17th C.) Magistrate in Hawick in 1614. He is presumably different from ‘Hob of Alton’ and ‘Marion’s Hob’, but could be the Robert ‘of Westport’ recorded in documents at the same time; the proliferation of men of the same name makes this confusing. There was also a Robert (with no nickname) who was Bailie in 1627, and a ‘laitt bailye of Hawick’ when he was a ‘personne of assyze’ acting in Dumfries Circuit Court in 1622. Robert of Salenside (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1614, along with his kinsman John Scott of Kirkhouses, when he was summoned before the Presbytery to answer for charges of murder. He must have been related to Andrew of Salenside, who is recorded in 1613 (possibly his brother or elder son, but if so he was probably dead by 1621 when Thomas of Salenside is recorded). Robert (16th/17th C.) son of Robert of Whitslade and brother of Sir Walter of Whitslade. Scott of Satchells lists him among the men who were involved in the rescue of Kimmont Willie in 1596. However, this may be muddled. Bailie Robert (16th/17th C.) Magistrate from Hawick. In 1627 he and James Gledstains were Bailies when there was a series of records with the Privy Council involving men from Hawick who had been selected to be sent to the wars in Germany; he was fined 300 merks and had to find caution for a further £1000 in order to make him produce the named men. He is surely one of the two Bailie Roberts listed in 1627 among 9 men charged with performing a valuation of the lands in the Parish of Hawick; he was one of the men who refused to accept some of the items in the valuation, presumably because of a dispute over either the Kirland, Ladyland or Trinitylands. He was probably the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert of Tushielaw (d.1632) described as ‘iciar of Tuschelaw’ and lawful son of Sir Walter of Tushielaw in a charter of 1618 in which he received lands at ‘Wairdlawrig’ in Selkirkshire from John, Lord Hay of Yester. He was the eldest son of Sir Walter of Tushielaw, brother of James and John, who were both at the rescue of Kimmont Willie. Probably the same Robert is ‘apparent of Tuischelaw’ in 1604 when he acted as bailie for a sasine of the Regality of Melrose for lands in Ettrick. In 1612 he signed the bond for keeping peace on the Border. In 1619 he was ‘of Tuscholaw’ when his brother John witnessed a bond for Thomas Turnbull in Spittal-on-Rule. In about 1620 he had a charter from the Commendator of Melrose for Glenkerry, Midgehope and Phaup. However, these must have been effectively mortgaged that time, since also in 1620 the lands of ‘Glencarie’ and Midgehope, held in ‘wadset’ from him, were given by Gilbert Elliott of Stobs to his youngest son James. He was ‘of Tuscholaw’ in 1620 when his brother John witnessed a bond between Thomas Turnbull, tenant of Spittal-on-Rule and Robert Pringle. He was succeeded by his son Walter in 1633, and he in turn was succeeded by the younger son, William of Pawdshope. Robert of Shielwood (16th/17th C.) son of Robert and brother of Walter of Girnwood. He had a charter for Shielwood in the Parish of Ashkirk in 1609. He is mentioned in various documents in the period 1606–26. He was Robert ‘in Schelliswoid’ on the 1616 jury that convicted Jock Scott ‘the Suckler’ of sheep stealing. In 1629 he was appointed as tutor to Robert and Walter, sons of his deceased brother, Walter of Girnwood. He is recorded in 1632 when his eldest son Walter leased part of the lands of Belses. He married Margaret, who re-married Robert Scott of Hartwoodmyres after his death. He was succeeded by Walter and had another son, Robert. He may have had a daughter Isobel who married Walter Scott of Burnfoot’s brother Francis. Robert (16th/17th C.) brother of Walter of Whitehaugh. In 1610 he was part of a petition, along with several local Langlands and Scotts (including his brother Walter), to have hornings lifted and penalties reduced. His cautioner was George Langlands of that Ilk, and one record seems to state that he was uncle of George (although this may be a transcription confusion). He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert of Dryhope (d.bef. 1633) probably son of William. He is recorded in 1632.
in an assignation for a bond, and in 1633 for non-payment. He appears to be already deceased in 1633 when he is mentioned in a contract over the lands of ‘Evillane’, with the consent of James Scott of Hagbrae (presumably a near relative). However, he could be the Robert ‘of Drayvpe’ who carried the arms of Hamilton of Clydesdale in the funeral procession for the Earl of Bucleuch in 1634. He was probably succeeded by his brother Walter. Robert (17th C.) had a charter for the lands of Brieryyards and Broadlee in 1637, with a confirmation in the name of Charles I. It is unclear to which branch of the family he belonged, and how he was related to the later John of Brieryyards. Sir Robert of Haining (17th C.) son of Sir Robert. Although his father had sold off the Haining estate, he still had the designation. He served with the 2nd Earl of Bucleuch in 1643. Also in 1643 he was witness for a charter granted by the Earl of Bucleuch to the Calderwoods in Edinburgh; he is there ‘Sir Robert Scott of Hayneing’. In 1650 he was one of the witnesses for the will of Francis Earl of Bucleuch. His nephew Lieut.-Col. Robert appears to be the last of the Scots of Haining. He may have died in about 1650, since in the additions to the will of Francis in 1651 200 merks yearly are allocated to his widow, Grizel Ker. Robert of Burnfoot (d.beft. 1667) 2nd son of Robert. He succeeded his elder brother Adam. He is recorded along with other tenants of Over and Nether Newhalls in a precept of warning issued by Walter, Lord Scott of Bucleuch in 1625. He is also recorded in 1638 and 1639 when he received the lands of Rottenrow in Hundalee from John Rutherford prior to marrying Anne Rutherford, daughter of John and Isobel Bennet (this was explicitly 'Burnfutt near Tiviot', rather than the one in Ale Water, which is easy to confuse in this period). He was succeeded by his son Walter. Robert of Whitslade (d.1644) eldest son of Sir Walter, from whom he succeeded in 1628. He was served heir to his father in 1633 and his grandfather Walter in 1635. In 1637 he had a decree of adjudication against John, son of Sir Robert of Thirlestane over the lands of Bourhope, followed by a decree of appraising in 1643. He signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. He represented Selkirk in Parliament in 1639–41 and was also made Parliamentary Convenor for the Selkirkshire War Committee in 1643. In 1641 he was one of the Roxburghshire heritors who signed a letter to the Privy Council relating to the raising of levies for sending troops to Ireland. He was served heir to his father Walter’s lands of ‘Schorthope’ and Ettrickhouse in 1643. In 1643 he was recorded as owner of lands in Ashkirk (valued at £245 10s), as well as Salenside (£116), Kirkhouse (£143) and Ashkirk Mill (£84). He was also listed in 1643 as owner of lands in Hassendean Parish, valued at £214 10s (which were owned by William Chisholme of Stiches by 1678) and Hermiston in Lilliesleaf Parish, valued at £130 (which were owned by William Johnstone by 1663). He married ‘Holland’s Jean’, natural daughter of Walter Scott, 1st Earl of Bucleuch. His children included: Walter, baptised in 1636; Francis, baptised in 1643; Mary; and Margaret, who in 1647 was served heir to his lands at Ettrickhouse (although these later went to her uncle Thomas), and married John Scott of Langhope. His 2 sons must have died in infancy. He died at the Battle of Marston Moor, probably fighting on the same side as Cromwell. He was succeeded by his brother Sir Walter (who died fighting against Cromwell) in 1645 and then his brother Thomas. His death is the subject of the verse in Caw’s Poetical Museum (1784), probably written by Capt. Scott of Satchells, entitled ‘Lines on the Death of Robert Scott, Esq., of Whitslade’, although in fact the contents focus more on the later death of his brother Thomas. Robert of Hassendean (d.beft. 1669) recorded in a ‘letter of apprising’ (i.e. transferring heritable lands to clear debts) of 1604, with ‘Dedrig, Easter and Wester Cappitrig’ passing to Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme and Bucleuch. He was probably a son or grandson of David of Hassendean, who was killed around 1564. He was succeeded by his son Adam in 1669, but may have died earlier. He may be the same man as Robert of Over Hassendean. He may have been the Laird listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in about 1590. And he may be the Robert of Hassendean who was said to have been in the party which rescued Kinmont Willie in 1596. Sir Robert of Crookston (d.1619) eldest son of Sir Robert of Thirlestane and his 1st wife, who was Margaret, daughter of Sir John Cranston of that Ilk (however, it is hard to separate father and son, and some accounts confound them in a single generation). He appears to have been born before 1594, when his name first appears. In that year he was eldest son and heir of Robert of Thirlestane, when they were both granted the teinds and vicarage of Ettrick Kirk for their lifetimes. Before he succeeded his father he was known as ‘of Cruixton’ or ‘Cruikstone’. He acquired Gamescleuch in 1605 and in 1607 (when he was ‘younger’ of Thirlestane) he had a charter for the lands of Bourhope (or ‘Bowerhope’) adjacent to St. Mary’s Loch. He was involved in the bond of 1609 (along with his father and several others) not to reset Walter of Headshaw and other men, and the action by Walter of Tushielaw to fine them for resetting the same men. He was knighted about 1612. His memorial stone inscribed ‘S / R S MEMENTO MORE 1619’ is in Ettrick Kirk (although it is possible this was his father’s, and the next 8 years refer to incidents in his life). His life may be the basis of the story told (first by the Ettrick Shepherd and later by Sir Bernard Burke) of a 2nd wife at Thirlestane (presumably Katherine Jardine) having her step-son murdered so that her own son could inherit the estates, but when found out her husband had her locked up for a year while his eldest son lay in state and he spent the family fortunes in lavish feasting. It is unclear what truth there is in the story, but in 1617 he married Mary Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore, and died without issue: Mary Lyon remarried to Robert Semple of Beltrees, and in 1633 was named in the will of the Earl of Buccleuch being owed money through John, ‘son and air to the said vmquhile Sir Robert of Thirlestane’ (presumably her brother-in-law). His younger brother Sir John (son of Katherine Jardine of Applegirth) did not succeed either, the titles going to their cousin Patrick of Tanlawhill who effectively purchased the Thirlestane estate. In 1621 his father, Sir Robert of Thirlestane was served heir to his lands of Gamescleuch, Ettrickside, Bowerhope and the lands of the Kirk o the Lowes; this strongly suggests that he was deceased by 1621. He is the ‘Sir Robert of Cruikstone’ who is recorded as deceased in the period 1649–77 when his brother and heir John was involved in a dispute with the Scotts of Buccleuch over lands in Eskdale. John is described as the son and heir of Sir Robert of Thirlestane in a 1632 document involving the lands of Altrieve and Corsecleuch (so he was certainly already deceased by then). He is said to have left an illegitimate son, Peter, who was living in 1609. Robert ‘Geordie’s Hobie’ (16th/17th C.) one of 3 Hawick men acquitted in 1621 of carrying hagbuts and pistols in public and using them to shoot their neighbours’ doves and fowl. Robert (16th/17th C.) illegitimate son of Arthur of Newburgh. He was listed in 1608 among relatives and tenants of Sir Robert of Thirlestane who were bound over not to harm Archibald ‘of Dephöp’ or his sons. Robert of Gilmanscleuch (16th/17th C.) son of James. He was called ‘Truth’ and was said to be one of the men who helped rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. His sons were: John, who succeeded; William; and Adam, tenant at Kinmont Willie. He is probably the Robert of Gilmanscleuch whose son Adam was served heir to his other son William in 1647. Robert of Westport (16th/17th C.) one of the ‘personnes of assyze’ representing Hawick at the Justice Court of 1622 in Dumfries as well as in Jedburgh (along with another Robert), and in 1623 (along with Robert of Alton and ‘Marion’s Hob’). It is unclear whether this is one of the other men of the same name, but he was clearly distinct from Robert of Alton and Bailie Robert, since all 3 sat on the assize at the Justice Court in Jedburgh in 1622. He may be related to later Westport Scotts, e.g. father of the Walter recorded in the 1650s and 1670s. Robert of Burnhead (d.1609) probably eldest son of John of Burnhead. He signed the Scott clan bond in 1589. He was among those listed in 1603 as men that the Baron, James Cunningham, was trying to eject from their lands. He was succeeded by his son William and had 2 other sons, one of them probably Adam (who married Bessie Langlands). Robert of Headshaw (16th/17th C.) eldest son of Walter of Headshaw, whom he succeeded before 1593. He may have been the Laird of ‘Eidshaw’ listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in about 1590. He may be the Robert of Headshaw (unless this is an error for Walter) who is recorded being held in ward in Edinburgh Castle in 1581, with Paul Doig acting as caution for the pledge of Walter Scott of Goldielands, that he would answer for the hurting of Martin Elliot of Braidlie. He is probably the Robert ‘in Headshaw’ who had a charter of Headshaw and Easter Essenside in 1593 (incorrectly transcribed as 1553) from Ludovic, Duke of Lennox. Scott of Satchells lists him among the men on the Carlisle raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. He is recorded in a series of writs of the lands of Headshaw ‘disponed’ to Andrew Hay in the period 1593–1624; his wife was Elizabeth and his son Robert. In 1609 he was caution for Sir Robert of Thirlestane in a bond for not resetting Walter of Headshaw (surely a relative, possibly his brother) and others. In 1610 he had a bond (along with Walter, fiar of Whitslade for Sir Robert of Thirlestane) not to harm Walter of Tushielaw and his sons. And in another 1610 bond he was surety for Robert ‘of Well’ for the same thing. He was also cautioner, along with Sir Walter Scott of Whitslade, for a bond involving the Hays of Smithfield in 1619. In 1620 he was Robert ‘elder, called of Heidshaw’ when he witnessed a charter of Goldielands for Walter, Earl of Buchleuch. In 1622 he had an agreement with the Countess of Home for leasing Hartwoodburn for a year, possibly longer. He is probably the Robert who purchased the estate of Whitehaugh from his sister Janet’s son Walter. He is also probably the Robert of Headshaw whose ‘brother-son’ (i.e. nephew) was Robert of Easter Groundistone, listed by Scott of Satchells as one of the ‘Pensioners’ of the house of Buchleuch. He had sons:

Robert, who appears not to have succeeded, since the estate was sold first; and Francis. Walter and James, two brothers of the younger Robert of Headshaw are recorded in 1627, and so were presumably his sons also. Robert of Bonnington (d.bef. 1624) eldest son and heir of Simon. Together with his father he had ‘liferent’ of the lands of ‘Ernescleugh’ and Singlie in 1593, confirmed in 1607. He was succeeded by his uncle John. Robert (16th/17th C.) progenitor of the Scotts of Horsleyhill, whose genealogy is given by Scott of Satchells, and called there ‘Portioner and Bailie of Hawick’. His father was William, said to be second son to Walter, Laird of ‘Midgap’, who was grandson of Adam of Tushielaw. It seems more likely that he was son of William of Midgehope, who was grandson of William of Tushielaw and great-grandson of Adam of Tushielaw. He may be the same man as one of the Bailie Roberts recorded in Hawick in the early 1600s. His son William may have been the first to be called Laird of Horsleyhill. Note there appears to be a much earlier Scott of Horsleyhill family, who are presumably not directly related. Bailie Robert (16th/17th C.) son of ‘Watis Jok’, so presumably his father was John and his grandfather Walter. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Bailies. He is recorded in a sasine of 1610, along with his wife Helen Turnbull, for a ‘tenement’ in the south side of the Kirkwynd, which had been resigned by George Turnbull, tenant in Howay, brother of Hector Turnbull of Barnhills. The land was specifically described as being between Nichol’s Croft (roughly the Village), a garden of Robert Dickson, a tenement belonging to the Hendersons and the Kirkwynd itself. Robert (17th C.) tenant at Harwood in the Rule valley. He was witness to a sasine of 1631 for the lands of Harwood and Hawthornside. Robert of Burnfoot in Ale (d.bef. 1669) son of Walter Scott of Burnfoot. He is recorded in a document of 1632 along with John, son of Sir Robert of Thirlestane, relating to the lands of Altrieve and Corsecleuch in Selkirkshire. Note that this is Burnfoot in the Ale valley (although it is easy to confuse him with the nearly contemporary Robert of Burnfoot on Teviot). He was served heir to his father in 1641. He is recorded paying £400 in Ashkirk Parish according to the 1663 Land Tax Rolls. He had at least 2 sons: Walter, who succeeded; and Francis, who married Isobel Scott, and to whom Scott of Satchells addressed one of his dedications. He is probably the Robert of Burnfoot recorded in 1666 in a list of landowners in Hassendean Parish, in the same year when his son William became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh and in 1668 when his son George became a surgeon’s apprentice there. He may be the Robert of Burnfoot recorded paying the land tax in Ashkirk Parish in 1678 (even although perhaps he was deceased by then). Robert (17th C.) described as the heir apparent of Satchells in 1622–25 when he was involved in a court action with George Scott (brother of Sir Walter of Whitslaide) over the lands of Dodbank in Ettrick. He was probably a son of Robert and brother of Capt. Walter (of family history fame), although this is not certain. Presumably the same Robert was also the ‘zunger of Satchellis’ who signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. He may be the Scott of Satchells (first name not given) listed in the inventory of the deceased Walter Earl of Buchleuch in 1633, when he was owed for rental of the lands of ‘Dodheid’. He may be the Robert of Satchells recorded in 1643 when his lands of Satchells (in Liliesleaf Parish) were valued at £200, and also his lands of ‘Cringills’ at £156. Robert of Alton (d.bef. 1653) eldest son of Walter of Alton. He was probably nephew of the ‘Hob of Alton’ who was Bailie in Hawick. He succeeded his father in about 1638, the year that he signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick. In 1643 he is recorded as owner of lands in Hassendean Parish, valued at £474; based on who owned these later, they were Alton, Knowetownhead and Tandlaw. His son William ‘younger of Altoun’ died before him. He was already deceased in 1653 when his daughters Margaret, Bessie and Agnes were served ‘heirs portioners’ to Robert of the East Mains of Hassendean, their ‘foir grandsher’ (either great-grandfather or great-great-grandfather). Presumably the lands of Alton passed to one of them, who married another Scott, since Scotts (perhaps from the Gorrenberry branch) held the lands until about 1742. It is possible he was the ‘vmquhill Robert Scott of Auldton Crofts’ (if Alton and Alton Croft were sometimes confused) mentioned. in the 1651 will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch when his eldest son (name unfortunately left blank) was granted 200 merks yearly. His wife may have been Margaret Turnbull, who was recorded as ‘relict of Alton’ in the 1663 Land Tax Rolls, when she jointly with James Scott of Whitslade paid tax on £414 for lands in Hassendean Parish. Robert of Goldielands (17th C.) Bailie of Hawick (along with William Scott) at the time of the signing of the 1638 Covenant. His name appears as ‘R. Scott’, alongside Walter of Goldielands, suggesting that he might have been a brother or son of Walter (although there may be confusion of 2 R. Scotts here); this Walter was meant to have been the last of the distinct Lairds of Goldielands. Also in 1638 (in the first main entry in the Town Book) he was recorded as being ‘callit of Goldielands’ when listed as one of the Bailies at the meeting for choosing the new Bailies and Officers; he was again chosen as a Bailie for the year 1638/9. He is probably the Robert who signed the Act of Bailies and Council of 1640 (his name appearing just after the 2 Bailies). He was elected to the Council in late 1648 and was also a Bailie in the 1640s. He may be the same as the Robert who was ‘brother natural of the said Sir Walter Scott’ in the charter of Goldielands in 1620. Another possibility is that he is the same as Robert of Glack, who inherited part of the Goldielands estate through marriage. Robert of Woll (d.1630s) eldest son of Walter of Woll. In 1617 he was appointed guardian to his half-brother and sister, George and Katherine. Probably the same Robert ‘of Well’ had a bond in 1610 (with Robert of Headshaw as surety) not to harm Walter of Tushielaw and his sons. His wife Rachel complained about his behaviour to the Privy Council several times in 1631 and 1632, where he was described as ‘some time of the Well’. He was ordered to hand over all his assets to his wife and to allow her to cohabit with him, but instead went off to England with Jean, daughter of the deceased Andrew Ker of Graden, and remained with her ‘in the filthie cryme of adulterie all the last harvest’. His wife apparently stated she would forgive him if he would return to her and their eight children, ‘quhairof foure are so young and weake that they cannot putt on thair cloathes’. Meanwhile he kept Jean Ker ‘in ane oasterlthouse’ until she had his child, and sold his house (probably not Woll) and belongings, making his wife and children ‘brought to beggary’. In 1641, after his death, he is recorded when his son James became a saddler’s apprentice in Edinburgh, as well as possibly his son Robert, who became an apothecary’s apprentice the same year. In 1643 he is ‘Robert Scot of Well’ when his son James was incarcerated in Edinburgh Tolbooth at the insistence of saddler David Brown. His wife Rachel was buried in Greyfriars, Edinburgh, in 1661. He had 4 sons: Francis, who succeeded; James, who succeeded his brother, but sold Woll; George, who was also served heir to his father; and John. Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He was married to Isobel Tudhope and their children included Agnes (b.1635) and Isobel (b.1640). Witnesses in 1640 were William Tudhope (surely a relative of his wife) and Andrew Leyden. Robert (17th C.) recorded as ‘in Grundiston’ in 1640, when Robert Deans was fined ‘for bluiding of the said Robert Scott upon the cheek and hand’. It is unclear how he was related to other local Scotts, but he could perhaps be a descendant of Robert of Easter Groundstone, who is recorded by Scott of Satchells. Robert of Braidaugh (17th C.) see Robert of Harwood. Robert of Howpasley (d.1658) probably eldest son of William of Fingland, brother of Walter, half-brother of Simon and cousin of Patrick of Tanlawhill. It is unclear exactly how he acquired Howpasley. On his death the lands passed to his brother Walter. He is buried in Greyfriars Cemetery. Robert of Carterton (17th C.) recorded in 1667 when he granted a bond (for £332 Scots) to Walter Lorraine, tenant in Greens, who was described as his ‘good brother’ (i.e. brother-in-law). His farm was in northern Dumfriesshire, but it seems likely he was related to more local Scotts, perhaps a branch with a connection to the Lorraines of Harwood. It is possible he was the Robert, married to Alison Lorraine (perhaps daughter of Edward Lorraine and Maisie Elliot), whose daughter Elspeth was baptised in Kelso in 1635. He was surely related to Francis of Carterton, who is recorded on the Committee of War for Dumfriesshire in 1644 and 1649. Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Bessie Turnbull and their children included: Bessie and Marion (b.1647); Isobel (b.1650); William (b.1651); Janet (b.1653); Walter (b.1655); and Janet (again, b.1656). Robert of Shielwood (b.1640) 2nd son of Walter. He succeeded his brother Francis. He paid tax on £260 in Ashkirk Parish according to the 1663 Land Tax Rolls. He is recorded on an inquest in 1669. He died without any children and was succeeded by his sister Marian. She married Adam Scott of Shawes. Robert of Horsleyhill (17th C.) son of William, he was descended from the Scotts of Tushielaw. He was Laird at the time Capt. Scott of Satchells wrote his Postral (and a family genealogy is given there). In 1673 he was charged by the Hawick Bailies of having ‘masterfully spuishized out of James Liddell’s house five firelocks with ane pair of bandeliers belonging to the town’; the reason for this apparent theft is not known, but Liddell was Hawick’s Procurator-fiscal, and this was a time when there were serious disputes with the Baron Bailie. Probably the same Robert of Horsleyhill gave evidence at the trial of Andrew Rutherford for the murder of James Douglas of Cavers in 1674. He was admitted as a Burgess of Hawick in 1675. In 1676 he was probably already acting as Bailie of Regality when there was a case in which the weavers complaining that 2 of their members had appealed to him, rather than obey the Bailies of Hawick. In 1678 he paid land tax on £264 for Weensland in Hawick Parish and £637 (for Horsleyhill) in Hassendean Parish. Also in 1678 he witnessed (along with Walter of Goldielands) a baptism for Walter of Harwood. In 1680 he witnessed (along with George of Boonraw) a baptism in Hawick for Robert Langlands and Isobel Scott. In a 1688 sasine he is described as ‘bailie in that part for James Duke of Buccleuch and Monmouth’. He married Isabella Scott, probably in Ashkirk Parish in 1663 (suggesting she was from one of the branches of the Scotts in that area). His children included: William, the eldest son; John (b.1670), who became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1687; Francis (b.1677), who became a surgeon-apothecary’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1696; and Marion (b.1680). Elizabeth (b.1669), Charles (b.1672), Janet (b.1681) and Patrick (b.1682), all baptised in Hawick, were probably also his children. The witnesses in 1680 were Mr. Francis (probably the minister of Hassendean) and Walter of Goldielands. He is probably the Scott of Horsleyhill whose daughter Eliza married Walter of Woll in 1694. In 1678, 1685 and 1690 he was one of the Commissioners of Supply for Roxburghshire. He leased the Trinitylands from the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1692. In 1692 he signed the agreement between Francis Gledstains of Whitlaw and the Town of Hawick, regarding planting on the edge of the Common. He was probably succeeded by his sons William and then Francis. He is probably the Robert, Laird of Horsleyhill, who married Elizabeth, daughter of William Ainslie and Christian Scott in Jedburgh in 1708. Robert (17th C.) described as ‘in Raesknowe’ when he acted as Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch in 1640–41 for rental records for Wilton, Branhholme and Whitchester, and in 1642–44 for Teviotdalehead and Eweshead. He may be the same as Robert of Harwood. Robert of Hartwoodmill (17th C.) recorded as landowner (jointly with Sir Robert Dalyell) in a 1643 valuation of Hawick Parish (this may be an error for ‘Hartwoodhill’ in Lanarkshire or ‘Hartwoodmyres’). The lands were valued at £533 6s 8d. Robert of Hartwoodmyres (d.1654) probably direct descendant of William of Hartwoodmyres, who is recorded in 1589 and 1596. It is possible there are 2 generations of Roberts here. In 1612 he complained that a group of Kers and others, amounting to about 60 men, came to his lands of Hartwoodmyres and ‘rave up and tillit over agane’ his lands, then attempted to find him with violence in mind, but he was not at home; he was unable to prove his claim to the Privy Council. Also in 1612 he was on the panel of ‘reurt’ for Tweedie of Drumelzier. He is recorded in 1615 when his sister Marie (or Mary) married Walter Scott of Howford. In 1618 he was a cautioner for Walter, son of John Scott in Newark. In 1627 he was one of the Commissioners left by the Earl of Buccleuch to administer his affairs when he left for Holland. Also in 1627 he is mentioned in an action that was brought against him and Andrew of Aikwood in Selkirk. In 1628 he was given a commission to hold a trial for 2 women accused of witchcraft. In 1633 he was appointed one of the ‘Tutors Testamentary’ to oversee the Earl of Buccleuch’s will. He was part of the funeral procession for the Earl of Buccleuch, which took place in Hawick in 1634, with him carrying the arms of Beaton of Creighe. He signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. In 1643 he witnessed a ‘supplication’ to the Privy Council. He is listed as one of the landowners in a 1643 valuation of the lands in Wilton Parish, the value being £26 13s 4d (it is unclear where these lands were, but by 1788 were owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch). He is probably the Robert of ‘Hartwoodmill’ recorded as landowner (jointly with Sir Robert Dalyell) in a 1643 valuation of Hawick Parish; the lands were valued at £533 6s 8d. In 1643 he was on the Commission of Supply for Selkirkshire (so he was M.P. for 1643–45) and in 1646, 1648 and 1649 he was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire. In 1648 he re-married Margaret, widow of Robert Scott of Shielswood (and she would later marry Sir John of Thirlestane). His eldest son was William, who was the last of Hartwoodmyres. Robert of Headshaw (17th C.) listed as one of the major landowners in a valuation of Wilton Parish in 1643, his lands being valued at £448 10s. He was probably the ‘younger of Headshaw’ who leased part of the lands of Belses in 1632. He was probably also the son of Robert of Headshaw who sold the estate of Whitehaugh to Andrew Hay in 1623. In 1627 he was ‘of Eidsshaw, younger’ when accused of being among a band of Scotts who harassed the tenant of Hartwoodburn. In 1629 he sold the family estates of Headshaw and Langhope to John of Yorkston, 2nd son of George of Synton. He was involved in a court case in 1634 with Sir William Scott of Harden and John, son of Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane, over the lands of Thirlestane. In 1638 he is ‘sumtyme of Heidschaw’ when he signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick. He is surely the Scott of Headshaw whose ‘Lands, being Wester Whitehaugh’ are recorded in 1643. He is probably the Robert of Headshaw whose daughter Jean married William Scott of Synton in 1647. Robert of Heap (17th C.) recorded as owner of teinds in Ashkirk Parish in the 1643 Roxburghshire county valuation. These consisted of the teinds of Leaphill, Woll, Castleside and Broadlee (valued at £208), Whitslade (£80) and Essenside (£60), as well as tack-duty (valued at £3 6s 8d). He is recorded as one of the heritors of Wilton Parish in 1649. Probably the same Robert was ‘of Wester Heap’ on the 1663 Land Tax Rolls for Wilton and also ‘of Heap’ when he paid tax in Ashkirk Parish. He was probably related to James of Heap, who is also recorded in the 17th century. It is possible he is the Robert, married to Margaret Scott, whose daughter Grisel was baptised in Ashkirk in 1652. Robert of Burnhead (d.1677) local landowner in the mid-to-late 1600s (it is unclear whether he was Laird or tenant at Burnhead). In 1643 he was recorded as owner of land valued at £156 in Hassendean Parish. He was also recorded in the Land Tax Rolls for Hassendean Parish in 1663, when he paid tax on £156 (presumably for Burnhead itself). He was only son of William of Burnhead and Margaret Cairncross. In 1636 he married Marian, daughter of Ragwell Bennet of Chesters, and they had 2 daughters. In 1643 he secondly married Elizabeth, daughter of Hector Turnbull of Clarilaw (through this marriage probably acquiring the lands of Clarilaw). He was succeeded by William of Burnhead, and also had at least 3 other sons: Robert of Lees; Adam; and Alexander. Robert of Phaup (d.bef. 1671) father of Adam, who became a gunsmith’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1671. Other sons were probably Col. Francis and Capt. John, who were recorded in factor’s records for Sir William Scott of Harden in 1657 and 1671, respectively. Robert of Girnwood (b.c.1615) eldest son of Walter of Girnwood. He was still a minor when his father died, with his uncle Robert of Shielwood acting as tutor to him and his brother, Walter from 1629. He was served heir to his father in 1636, presumably when he reached majority. In 1640 he married Bessie, daughter of Sir Walter of Whitslade. Robert of Borthwickbrae (17th C.) recorded in a list of ‘communicants’ of the Borthwick valley in 1650. It appears that his wife was Margaret Scott and their sons William and Walter. In 1643 and 1644 he was appointed by Parliament to the Committee of War for Selkirkshire. He was probably the last Scott of Borthwickbrae. Robert (d.bef. 1681) recorded being ‘in Hassendean’ in 1681 when his widow Helen Caldwell’s daughter Agnes was baptised in Roberton. The witnesses were John Noble and Thomas Scott. It is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts. Robert of Lees (17th C.) 2nd son of Robert, tenant in Burnhead and Elizabeth Turnbull. He appears to have been Laird of the lands that were later referred to as ‘West Lees’, near Appletreehall. He probably also held the lands of Clarilaw and was succeeded by Walter of Clarilaw, who was likely to be either his son or nephew. He was among the heritors accused of inciting the 1690 riot when the roof of Hassendean Kirk was removed to Roberton. He could be the same as the Robert living at Burnhead on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He may be the Robert in Lees whose son John was baptised in Wilton in 1705. Robert of Glack (17th C.) possibly son of the youngest sister of the last Walter Scott of Goldielands (although Keith Scott suggests he was married to a daughter of the first Sir Walter of Goldielands, but this seems at least a generation too early). He is recorded in a Hassendean Parish record of 1666, where he was one of those supporting suppression of the Parish. Probably the same individual is recorded as a heritor of Hawick Parish in 1643 (where he is described as ‘of Cloak’, with land valued at £100, which was almost certainly Fenwick) and of Wilton Parish in both 1643 (described as ‘of Lack’, with land valued at £130) and 1649 (described as ‘of Clak’); this suggests the possibility that he may be related to James ‘of Park’ (with a transcription error), recorded around the same time. Glack was an estate in Peebleshire, although he also owned the lands of Fenwick and Highchesters, and may have lived locally. Scott of Satchells lists him as one of the ‘Pensioners to the House of Buckcleugh’ and says he was given the lands of Fenwick for his service. In 1654 he transferred the lands of Fenwick, Highchesters and half of Ladyurd to Robert Scott of Harwood, but had them back 2 years later, as confirmed by the Duke and Duchess of Buckcleuch in a charter of 1668. He also paid £100 in land tax in Hawick Parish in 1663, and also in 1678 (perhaps for Fenwick), plus the land tax on lands valued at £130 in Wilton Parish (where he is recorded being ‘of Clack’, the lands probably being East Highchesters). He is easy to confuse with Robert, son of Robert of Harwood, who acquired Falnash and other lands. He also appears to have inherited part of the Goldielands estates and passed them to Walter Scott of Crumhaugh in 1674. He may be the Robert ‘in Clack’ whose widow Jean Brown married Malcolm Inglis of Manorhead in 1666. He is probably the Robert ‘Clack’ who witnessed a baptism for tailor John Wilson in 1678 and another for William of Harwood in 1680. He is probably also the Robert of Glack whose son James with Bessie Henderson (labelled ‘forn’ for fornication) was baptised in Hawick in 1680. Lieutenant-Col. Robert (17th C.) son of Walter, portioner of Guilan, and grandson of Sir Robert of Haining. He was the last member of the Scotts of Haining of whom there is any record. Robert of Harwood (d.bef. 1667) son of Walter ‘in Braidehaw’, (i.e. Broadhaugh) who was Chamberlain to the Duke of Buckleuch for upper Teviotdale and the Langholm area. The precise kinship with the Scotts of Buckleuch is uncertain. He is ‘in Braidhauch’ in 1638 when he signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick. He may be the Chamberlain to the Scotts of Buckleuch who was at Raesknowe in 1640–44. He may be the Robert of Falnash listed as the 3rd largest landowner in the 1643 valuation of Hawick Parish (with lands valued at £1400). He is described as ‘in Braidehaw’ in 1644–50 when he acted as Chamberlain to Scott of Buckleuch for the upper Teviot valley, like his father before him. He was also ‘in Braid Hauch’ in 1646, 1648 and 1649 when he was on the Committee of War for Roxburghshire. In 1651 he is ‘callit of Braidhauch’ and described as eldest lawful son of Walter of Arkleton in the will of Francis, Earl of Buckleuch, when he was granted 800 merks yearly for his lifetime. By 1652 he was referred to as ‘in Braidehauke, now of Harwoode’, and he was still Chamberlain in 1660. He is the Robert ‘of Harwoode’ who acted as Chamberlain to Scott of Buckleuch for Ettrick, St. Mary’s and Selkirk in 1657–60. A bond at the end of 1653 transfers the lands of Fenwick, Highchesters and half of Ladyurd (in Peeblesshire) to him from Robert Scott of Glack (who may have been a relative). But the lands were returned in 1656, as confirmed by the Duke and Duchess of Buckleuch in a charter of 1668. He witnessed charters for lands in Dalkeith for the Duchess of Buckleuch in 1656 and 1658. In 1661 he was listed as still owing £4600 to the Duchess of Buckleuch for rentals in Teviotdale-head. In 1662, after the Restoration, he was fined £300. In 1663 he is recorded as ‘liferenter of the lands of Dulcove’ when he renounced the burial place in the choir of the old kirk of Mertoun to Sir William Scott of Harden. And in 1663 he was involved in a libel action with Sir Gilbert Elliott of Stobs. Also in 1663 he witnessed the marriage contract of Anne, Duchess of Buckleuch, and was listed there as one of her curators. Furthermore, he is probably the ‘Braidhaugh for Harrot’ who is recorded on the Land Tax Rolls in 1663, paying £866 13s 4d. He married Beatrice (or Beatrux) Gledstains, from the family of Gledstains of that Ilk. Their children included: Walter (b.1640), who succeeded by 1672; Robert, who became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1662; Francis (b.1642) of Greenhill; John (b.1644), who probably die young; David (b.1646); William (b.1649), who became an apothecary’s apprentice in 1667, and was probably the same as the surgeon in Hawick in the late 17th century; Gideon of Falnash (b.1651), ‘Auld Falnash’, Chamberlain to the Duchess of Buckleuch; John (again, b.1652); and Agnes, who married John Scott of Woll. It is possible that Andrew (b.1656), whose mother’s name is given as ‘Bessie’ Gledstains, was also his son. The witnesses in 1651 were Patrick Hamilton and Gideon Scott. Robert (17th C.) tenant in Drinkstone. He is probably the Robert ‘of . . . stoun’ recorded in 1643 as owner of lands in Hassendean Parish valued at £66 13s 4d. He is Robert ‘of Drinkstowne’ in the Land Tax Rolls for 1663 when paid tax on £66 13s 4d. He is probably the Robert in Drinkstone whose wife Bessie’s will is recorded in 1682; they may have married in Ashkirk Parish in 1640, with children including William (b.1649), James (b.1651), Francis (b.1653), Margaret (b.1660). Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Bessie Miller and their children included: James (b.1671); Marion (b.1673); John (b.1676); William (b.1679); an unnamed son (b.1682); James (again, b.1684); and another unnamed son (b.1687). The witnesses in 1671 were James and Walter (who were probably relatives) and in 1673 were Walter of Goldielands and Robert of Tandlaw. Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1680 he was ‘in Barnknow’ (presumably the farm of Barn Knowe) when he witnessed a baptism for tailor John Wilson; a witness for Wilson 2 years earlier was Robert ‘in Barnknow’, making it possible that this was the same man. He was surely related to John, who was also recorded in Barn Knowe in 1680. Robert of Whitslade (17th C.) local landowner of the mid-to-late 1600s. He married Jean Hay in Edinburgh in 1681. He may have been the oldest son of Thomas, or his younger brother. Robert (17th C.) resident of Burnhead according to a baptismal record of 1682. He is probably related to Adam who was also in Burnhead at that time. It seems likely they are the Adam and Robert who witnessed baptisms for William (later referred to as ‘of Burnhead’) in 1686 and 1688. He married Margaret Scott and their children (baptised in Robertson Parish) included: John (b.1680); Robert (b.1682); Bessie (b.1687); and Margaret (b.1689). The witnesses in 1680 were John Scott and William Scott (who were presumably related to either him or his wife), in 1682 were William and John Scott (perhaps the same 2 men) and in 1687 were William and Adam Scott. He is probably the Robert who was resident at Burnhead on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls; he was probably related to the William who was also listed as a householder there and given the coincidence of the names, they may have both been related to the contemporary and previous Lairds of Burnhead. It is possible he is the same man as Robert of Lees. Robert (17th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He married Jean Murray and their son Robert was baptised in 1681. The witnesses were Thomas Gray and Robert Graham. Robert (17th C.) resident of Robertson Parish, when it contained Hassendean. He married Helen Dryden and their children included: Adam (b.1679); Janet (b.1681); and Christian (b.1687). The witnesses in 1681 were Robert Turnbull and James Law and in 1687 were John and Robert Noble. Robert (17th C.) fined £100 Scots in 1680 for leaving the town when the militia was in Hawick charging young men ‘for throwing of dye and drawing of balotes’. He clearly did not want to serve! He may be the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert of Bonnington (17th C.) son of John of Bonnington. He was in possession of the lands in 1670. He had a son John. He was succeeded by James, who was either his brother or son. Robert (17th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. His brother Walter was a merchant, who in 1673 was accused of striking him, apparently the result of a misunderstanding involving Thomas Brown and Robert Dickson. He is probably ‘Robert Scott, laird, shoemaker’ listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4; the ‘laird’ suggests he might have been related to Thomas and James, who had the same nickname. He is probably the cordiner of the same name listed ‘uest the water’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1679 George Hall was fined for ‘ane blood’ on his, and ordered to pay him 5 shillings Scots per day, since ‘his arms was swollen by the stockies, and he could not shear’. He was presumably a farm worker of some sort. Robert of Tandlaw (17th C.) recorded in 1666 in a list of landowners in Hassendean Parish. In 1673 he (along with Walter of Goldielands) witnessed a baptism for Robert (presumably a relative) and Bessie Miller in Hawick Parish. In 1678 he paid the land tax in Hassendean Parish. He was listed in 1682 among the heritors of the Regality of Melrose. Probably the same Robert was on the list of Hassendean heritors accused of inciting the riot of 1690. There was a warrant for his arrest along with Adam (probably a relative) and Thomas Turnbull of Knowe. He was listed on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls (for Hassendean Parish). Along with Robert in Drinkstone, he witnessed a baptism in 1698 for John Easton in Drinkstone. He was witness to the birth of a child of William in Goldielands in 1702, suggesting that they were closely related. He is probably the Robert of Tandlaw who (along with Robert in Drinkstone) witnessed a baptism for Robert of Coldhouse in 1711. He married Barbara Scott and had children baptised in Robertson Parish (actually the area of the former Hassendean Parish). He was recorded at Tandlaw in a baptismal record of 1682. He is difficult to separate from Robert in Galalaw, whose wife had the same name! His children included: Helen (b.1682); and probably Barbara (b.1685), who seems likely to be the Barbara from Tandlaw who married James Ormiston in Boonraw in 1713. Some of Adam (b.1685), Bessie (b.1685) and Charles (b.1688) may also be his children. The witnesses in 1682 were William and George Scott, who were probably related to him and his wife. The witnesses in 1687 were Robert Scott and Andrew Chisholme (perhaps the man associated with Coldhouse). Robert (17th C.) recorded in 1681 being at Galalaw. He married Barbara Scott in Roberton Parish in 1680 and their children (baptised in Roberton) included William (b.1681) and probably Margaret (b.1683), as well as some of Adam (b.1685), Bessie (b.1685) and Charles (b.1688). The witnesses in 1681 were William (perhaps his father) and George (perhaps related to his wife). Robert (17th C.) recorded in Hassendean in the 1680s, when it was part of Roberton Parish. He married Isobel Turnbull in 1682 and their children included: Bessie (b.1683); Margaret (b.1685); and George (b.1688). The witnesses in 1683 were Andrew Leyden and Walter Fowler. He could be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (d.c.1685) tenant in 'Newtoone' in 1685 when his will was recorded. He was probably one of the Scotts of Newton near Hawick. He could be the Robert who witnessed a baptism for William, resident at Newton in 1725. Robert of Falnash (17th C.) younger son of Robert of Harwood and Beatrice Gledstains. He acquired the lands of Falnash and others from Robert of Glack (with whom he is therefore easily confused). In 1689 (confirmed in 1694) he is recorded transferring his lands of Fenwick, Easter Highchesters, half of 'Ladyurd' in Kinkurdy and Nether Glack in Manor (the latter 2 in Peeblesshire) to Gideon Scott of Outerside (later 'Auld Falnash'), who was his brother. This appears to have been because he had no heirs, and was with the agreement of his wife Mary Elliot. He may be the Robert, married to Mary Elliot, whose children baptised in Hawick Parish included Adam (b.1646), Margaret (b.1647), Walter (b.1650) and Isobel (b.1653). Robert (17th C.) recorded in Roberton Parish in the 1680s, when Hassendean was part of it. He married Marion Scott and their children included: Walter (b.1683); and John (b.1686). The witnesses in 1683 were William (probably a relative) and Walter Gledstains. In 1686 the witnesses were Adam and Robert Scott, who may have been related to him and his wife. He may be the same as one of the Roberts recorded in Hassendean in the tax records of the 1690s. Robert (17th C.) shoemaker on the east side of Hawick. He is a 'cordiner' listed on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick 'eist the water' in 1694 (in distinction to the one from the west). Probably the same 'cordiner' is listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Robert (17th C.) wright in Hawick listed among those contributing to funds for the new Kirk bell in 1693/4. He married Isobel Stoddart and their son Robert was baptised in 1700. The witnesses in 1700 were Andrew Scott 'customer' and Bailie James Deans (and also listed as John Elliot and Gilbert Elliot in Nether Southfield, but that was for Robert in Newbigging). It is unclear if he was the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert (17th C.) thatcher in Hawick, on the 1693/4 subscribers' list for the new Kirk bell. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Perhaps he was the thatcher Robert whose grandchild died in 1794. Robert (17th C.) described as 'sometime saddler in Fanesh' (i.e. Falnash) in 1684 when he was on the long list of men declared as fugitives for refusing to yield to Episcopalianism. Robert (17th C.) recorded as 'flesher' in 1693 when he gave evidence to the Magistrates in a case of disorder within the Kirk. He was listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He was listed as flesher in 1694 among those on the west-side of Hawick who paid the Hearth Tax. In 1700 he witnessed (along with 'officer' Alexander) a baptism for wright Andrew, suggesting that they might all be closely related. He also witnessed a baptism in 1700 for Walter Purdom. Robert of Broadmeadows (d.1694) son of William, and grandson of William of Tushielaw. He married Agnes, daughter of Hugh Kelso. He died without issue and in 1694 his sisters Isabella (who married John Balfour of Kailzie) and Jean (who married advocate John Murray) inherited his lands. Through Isabella's son, Charles Balfour the lands passed to a granddaughter, Jean Balfour, who married William Scott of Woll. His testament is recorded in 1694. Robert (17th C.) Chamberlain to the Laird of Highchester, recorded in 1694 in a sasine for lands in Minto. In 1697 he is recorded as 'late chamberlain to Heychesters'. He was probably the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert (17th C.) resident in Ashkirk Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Robert (17th C.) resident of Castleside in Ashkirk Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He was distinct from Robert in Ashkirk. Robert (17th C.) resident of Borthaugh on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He could be the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert (17th C.) renter of a quarter of the lands of Borthaugh in 1691 and 1692 and was 'Scrivener' in 1694 when he continued to rent Borthaugh. He continued to rent 1/4 of Borthaugh in 1696 and 1698, and was still described as 'Scrivener'. He was also recorded as a 'Scriver' at Borthaugh on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls for Wilton Parish. He was presumably a lawyer, and may have been son of the James, who previously rented part of Borthaugh and was also designated ‘Scrivener’. Robert (17th C.) tenant at Potterlampert according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Robert ‘Pope’ (17th C.) merchant in Hawick listed among those contributing to funds for the new Kirk bell in 1693/4. It is unclear what his nickname might mean. He is probably the merchant on the east-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. In the 1704 baptismal record he is ‘distinctionis causa called Pope’. Perhaps the same Robert was the merchant who (along with Francis, another merchant) witnessed a baptism for carter Walter Bryson in Hawick in 1721. His children included Helen (b.1704), with witnesses Bailie James Deans and glover James Scott. Robert (17th C.) candemaker listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He is listed separately from the merchant called ‘Pope’, but may be the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (17th C.) resident of the west-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. He was called ‘Ormiston’, to distinguish him from other Roberts; however, it is unclear if he was related to James of Ormiston. Robert (17th C.) resident at Whitchesters according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He may be related to John and Walter, who were also listed there. He was recorded as a tenant in Whitchesters in 1706 when he (along with Alexander Thomson) witnessed a baptism for William Scott, who was also tenant there. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded at ‘Mayns’ in 1696 when his daughter Isabella was baptised (with no mother’s name listed). The witnesses were Adam Scott and William Riddell. Robert (17th/18th C.) leased half the farm of Newbigging from the Duchess of Buccleuch in at least the period 1690–98. He was also resident at Newbigging in Hawick Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was presumably separate from the 2 Robert Scotts (father and son) who leased Over Southfield at the same time. He was recorded at Newbigging in 1700. In 1706 he witnessed a baptism for William Cowan, herd in Southfield and in 1708 further baptisms for Thomas Turnbull, herd in Nether Southfield and for William Hood, weaver in Nether Southfield. He was still tenant of Newbigging in about 1710, as attested in evidence given regarding the state of Hawick’s Common in 1767. He married Janet Elliot and their children included: Gavin (b.1698); and Archibald (b.1700). Witnesses in 1698 were John Elliot and John Goodfellow and in 1700 were John and Gilbert Elliot, both in Southfield (who could have been related to his wife). Robert (17th C.) resident at Over Southfield in 1694, according to the Hearth Tax rolls. In the period 1690–98 half of the farm of Over Southfield was rented jointly to ‘Rot. Scott father and sone’; so there were 2 generations called Robert at that time. In 1694 there was a connection made between the rental of Over Southfield and Allanhaugh Mill. Robert (17th C.) listed at Todshawill among ‘The poor in Hawick Paroich’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Robert (17th C.) resident of Wilton, recorded at Drinkstone on the 1694 Hearth Tax records. He may be the same as the earlier Robert in Drinkstone (but this seems more likely to be the next generation). He was recorded in Drinkstone in 1696 when he witnessed a baptism (along with James) for Francis in Groundstone and in 1698 when he witnessed another for John Easton in Drinkstone. In 1700 he witnessed a baptism in Hawick Parish for James Grieve in Teinside. He is probably the Robert in Drinkstone who witnessed a baptism for Robert of Coldhouse in 1709; along with Robert of Tandlaw he witnessed a baptism for Robert of Coldhouse in 1711 and also in 1711, along with Robert of Coldhouse, he witnessed a baptism at Drinkstone. Robert (17th C.) carrier in Hawick Parish. He married Janet Boyd and their children included: Margaret (b.1686); and Robert (b.1687), who may be the carrier in Branxholme Town about 20 years later. Robert’s baptism was witnessed by John, who may have been a relative. He could be the Robert, who along with John, appears to have been listed as a carrier when witnessing a baptism for Walter Henderson in Hawick in 1680. 2 separate carriers of the same name are listed ‘eist the water’ on Hearth Tax Rolls for Hawick in 1694. One of them is listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Robert (17th C.) resident at Alton on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls for Hassendean Parish. It is unclear whether he was related to the Scotts of Alton. Robert (17th C.) recorded among the poor of Hassendean Parish in 1694, when he was at Horsleyhill. Robert (17th C.) rented 1/3 of the farm of Wiltonburn from the Duchess of Buccleuch in at least the period 1694–98. He may have been closely related to John or Bessie (widow of James Riddell), who were also renting part of Wiltonburn in 1694, and to another Riddell, widow of Thomas Mitchelson, who was renting part of the farm in 1696. His cautioner in 1698 was Robert
Scott

Scott

Scott

Miller. He may be the Robert who (along with Adam) witnessed a baptism for James in Wiltonburn in 1705. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Roberts. Robert of Hassendean (17th/18th C.) son of Adam. He is recorded in 1690 as one of the heritors accused of inciting the riot at the de-roofing of Hassendean Kirk and being arrested (along with Adam Scott and Thomas Turnbull of Knowe). He was served heir to his father Adam in 1695. In 1696 and 1704 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire. He is probably the Robert ‘of Hessindane’ who witnessed a baptism for Francis of Newton in 1705. He sold the lands of Hassendean to Anne Duchess of Buccleuch in the period 1679–1710. Robert ‘younger of Hassendean’ brought an action against Rev. Francis Scott, following his removal by the Privy Council, and this was probably his son. However, this next Robert does not appear to have succeeded, and so he himself was the last Scott of Hassendean. Nevertheless, he is probably the Robert of Hassendean who witnessed a baptism for Francis of Newton in 1709. He may be the Robert ‘elder of Hassendean’ whose son Robert is recorded in a deed of 1682. The pair may be the ‘Hassendan Elder’ and ‘Hassendan yonger’ recorded each paying for 2 hearths ‘in the netherend’ of Hassendean Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Robert (d.c.1725) carrier in Branxholme Town. Note that there was an earlier carrier of the same name, who may have been his father. The baptism of his son William, along with Margaret Turnbull (labelled ‘fornicators’) is recorded in 1705, with witnesses Robert Cook in Branxholme and Henry Orrock; he was recorded being ‘commonly called ye Duchess of Buchlhs carier in Branxholtoun’. He was recorded being in arrears for rent on part of Branxholme Town in 1711–20 (and may be related to the William, who was also on the same farm at that time). He was recorded in 1714 as a carrier at Branxholme Town, when there was a promise that he pay some of what he owed for the lease, when his son Francis was baptised in Robertson Parish, and also when he and James (smith in the same place) witnessed a baptism for the Scoons at Commonside. He was still mentioned in the rental records for Branxholme Town in 1725, but deceased in 1726, when James Sanderson took over his part of the farm. He married Agnes Armstrong in Hawick in 1706 and their children included: John (b.1707); Isobel (b.1708); Robert (b.1710); Janet (b.1712); and an unnamed son (b.1717). The witnesses in 1710 were James Craw and William Scott in Branxholme Town and in 1712 were John in Branxholme and William in Branxholme Town. He is probably the Robert in Branxholme Town whose son Francis was baptised in Robertson in 1717 (along with 3 others from the same place on that day). He may be the Robert, tenant in Branxholme Town whose son Walter was baptised in Hawick in 1720, with witnesses William Thomson in Newmill and smith James Dryden. If so, he is also the Robert in Branxholme Town who witnessed baptisms in 1720 for William Mitchellhill in Branxholme Town and James Dryden in Newmill. He could be the Robert recorded as a householder at Branxholme Park on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Robert of Falnash (d.1734) eldest son of Gideon (‘Auld Falnash’) and Mary Scott of Thirlestane. He is presumably the ‘Robert Scott, merchant, called of Falnash’, who was unanimously elected to be Cornet in 1722 (this presumably being shortly before he was married). He was Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch for Teviotdalehead 1721–27. He was mentioned as the Baron’s representative on Hawick Parish Session from 1722, and in 1723 ceased to be an Elder of Cavers to become a member of Hawick Parish Session ‘in consideration of having his chief interest and business in this parish’. He witnessed baptisms in Wilton in 1722 and 1724 for his sister Beatrix and Walter of Crumhaugh. He witnessed a baptism for John Ekron in Hawick in 1725. He may also have witnessed a baptism in Hawick for Gideon Elliot of Harwood in 1728. He was in charge of transferring the tenancy of Whitchesters to William Ogilvie in 1731. He was recorded at Crawhill in 1733. He married Violet, daughter of Thomas Rutherford of Edgerston and Susanna Riddell of Minto. Their children were: Susanna (baptised in Cavers Parish in 1723), who married Thomas Turnbull of Knowe in Minto Parish in 1755; Gideon (b.1724), baptised in Cavers Parish, who succeeded; Thomas (probably baptised in Cavers Parish in 1726), who sold Falnash to the Duke of Buccleuch in 1759, and may have been a minister of the Relief Kirk; Robert of Orchard (1731–1813), baptised in Hawick Parish; and James (1733–1818), baptised at Crawhill in Wilton Parish, who became minister in Perth. In 1735 his wife, Lady Falnash, sold her property in Hawick to Patrick Hardie, described as ‘High and Leigh, back and fore, with appurtenances, trees and lime pit, in yard called the Howegate and bounded by properties of William Lang later James Scott on east, Robert Hardy and William Leiden on west and Kings hiestreet.
on south'. It is unclear where his young family was raised after his death. The witnesses to the 1733 baptism were James of Whitfield (after whom the child might have been named) and Charles of Crumhaugh. Robert (c.1660–1752) son of Thomas of Todrig and Janet Pringle. He served for a long time in the army, being involved with the artillery in the royal army at the Battle of Sheriffmuir in 1715. He was said to be ‘a man of great simplicity of manners, and of great integrity and honour’. He was probably the Robert, ‘brother to Todrige’, whose heirs are listed among the heritors of the Regality of Melrose in 1682. In 1696 he leased Borthwickshields and Roberton from Gideon Scott of Highchester. He was a witness in 1700 to the marriage contract of his niece Jean Scott (with William Elliot of Harwood); she was daughter of his brother, Walter of Todrig. He died at the garrison in Edinburgh Castle at the age of about 92. Robert (17th/18th C.) married Margaret Graham in Wilton in 1703. Robert (17th/18th C.) recorded at Hawickshields in 1704. He married Margaret Anderson and their son James was baptised in 1704, with witnesses Simon Miller and Walter Scott, both also from Hawickshields. Robert (17th/18th C.) married Margaret Scott in 1705. Robert ‘Wyndhead’ (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick. He presumably lived at the head of the Wynd, which was probably what became Walter’s Wynd. It is therefore possible that he was connected with the Scotts of Horsleyhill. He is recorded as ‘wyndhead’ when his children were baptised in 1701, 1712 and 1715. In 1708 he gave evidence before the Hawick Kirk Session to say that William Scott (son of John ‘Cloaks’) spent time with Margaret Brydon on Common Riding night the year before, leading to an illegitimate child. He married Margaret Crozier. Their other children included: Robert (b.1701); Robert (again, b.1710); Archibald (b.1712); Walter (b.1715); and Marjorie (b.1718). The witnesses in 1712 were tailors Archibald and George Scott (who may have been related to him). He was probably related to John ‘Wyndhead’, who died before 1712. Robert (17th/18th C.) son of Walter, he was tenant in Goldielands. He was thus recorded in 1702, when his son Robert was born; this was probably the same as the Robert recorded at Goldielands a few decades later. He married Mary Scott in 1701, with his father given there as Walter; from the similarity of names, it seems likely he is descended from the Scotts of Goldielands and Crumhaugh. Robert of Harden (d.1710) son of William, succeeding from his brother Sir William in 1707. He was previously ‘of Iliston’ (or ‘Elistoun’, near Melrose), which he had inherited in 1686. He lived in Edinburgh before gaining the Harden titles. In 1709 he sold half of Kershope to William Kerr of Chatto. He married Jean, daughter of Sir Thomas Ker of Farnilee. However, he (like his brother) died without issue and was succeeded by his cousin Walter (actually first cousin, twice removed), son of Sir Gideon of Highchester. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He is recorded at ‘Mitcha’ (probably Meadshaw) in 1702 when his son Gideon was baptised. Robert (17th/18th C.) tenant in Blackcleuch near Teviothead. He was recorded in Blackcleuch in 1704, 1708 and 1716. In 1705 he witnessed a baptism for John in Blackcleuch (also called ‘Uncle John’), who may have been a relative; the other witness was John in Falnash. In 1716 he was recorded as tenant in Blackcleuch when he witnessed a baptism for William Anderson, shepherd in Blackcleuch. He could be the tenant in Falnash who witnessed a baptism for John Nichol from Commonbrae in 1720. He married Mary (or ‘Marie’) Scott in 1701 and their children included: Janet (b.1704); and Walter (b.1708). His son John was baptised in Cavers Parish in 1724. The witnesses in 1704 were Walter Elliot in Commonbrae and John Beattie ‘servant’ and in 1708 were Walter in Crumhaugh (probably owner of the lands of Blackcleuch) and Walter in Lymiecleuch. Rev. Robert (1673/4–1727) brother of William, Laird of Whitehaugh, and hence son of Walter of Whitehaugh and Headshaw. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1693 and was licensed to preach by Selkirk Presbytery in 1698. He was called to Robertson Parish in late 1699 and became minister there in 1700, remaining until his death. Because of the ruinous state of the Manse he and his family stayed in Hawick for most of that time; a record of 1715 refers to him and his family being forced to return to Hawick. The oldest existing Robertson communion token dates from 1705, during his incumbency. It is said that in 1703 he was one of the local ministers who walked out of the Synod meeting at Duns, in sympathy with the objections of Hawick’s minister Alexander Orrock. He is probably the ‘mr Rott scott’ who (along with William of Whitehaugh) witnessed a baptism for James in Whitehaugh in 1721. He was ‘minister of the Gospell att Robertoun’ in 1727 when (along with his brother William) he witnessed a baptism for James Scott and Janet.
Scott in Borthaugh. He married Janet Scott in Hawick, and their children (baptised in Roberton) were: Elizabeth (or Bessie, b.1710); Walter (b.1716); and Marion. He published ‘Twelve Sermons preached before and after the celebration of the Lord’s Supper’ (1729). He is buried at Roberton and a memorial tablet was built into the churchyard wall, erected by his brother William. Robert (17th/18th C.) son of Bailie James. In 1708 he caused a disturbance in St. Mary’s by trying to take seat in the ‘Steeple Loft’ which had been his deceased father’s, although the Council had just decreed that these front seats were reserved for the present Bailies. Along with Walter Purdom (son of another deceased Bailie) he spent 24 hours in jail. It is unclear whether he is the same as one of the other contemporary men named Robert. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He is recorded at Outerside in 1711 when his daughter Janet was baptised. There are many possibilities for children born in Roberton at about the same time who could be his. Robert (17th/18th C.) married Isablhall Hobkirk in Hawick in 1710. Perhaps the same Isabell Hobkirk married Robert Gledstains in Hawick in 1714. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident in Mossbrae in 1717 when his son Andrew was baptised in Roberton Parish. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident at Nether Tofts. In 1718 his son Simon was baptised in Kirkton Parish. Probably the same Robert was in Effledge in 1720 when his son John was baptised. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at Groundistone in 1725 (at the same time as another Robert) and Wester Groundistone in 1729. He married Isobell Hall (or perhaps Hill) in Wilton in 1719. Their children included: Margaret (b.1722); John (b.1725); Isobel (b.1727); Andrew (b.1729); William (b.1731); and Robert (b.1734); and Walter (b.1739). The witnesses in 1725 were George Scott and Walter Riddell and in 1729 were William Turnbull and Robert Scott. Robert (17th/18th C.) from Roberton Parish. He was living at Girnwood in 1718 and 1722 when his daughters Janet and Helen were baptised. He may be the same as on of the other Roberts. Robert (17th/18th C.) from Roberton Parish, he married Jean Taylor in Ashkirk in 1719. Robert (17th/18th C.) cottar in North Synton. He married Euphan Dunlop and their children included: William (b.1719); John (b.1731); and Bettie (b.1732). Robert (17th/18th C.) from Roberton Parish, he married Dorothy McVittie in Hawick in 1721. Her name is written ‘Doarthie Magvitie’. Robert (17th/18th C.) from Roberton Parish, he was at Parkhill in 1723 when his son Robert was baptised. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Borthwickbrae in 1722 when his son William was baptised. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (17th/18th C.) farmer at Skelfhill. He is listed as tenant there on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He may be the Robert recorded in Skelfhill in 1712 when he witnessed a baptism for William Scott, tenant in Fahnash (who was formerly at Skelfhill, and was probably related). In 1723 he is recorded in the Hawick Session records giving in ‘400 merks of ye poors money’. It is possible he is the ‘Old Hobby in Skelfhill’ who wrote a version of ‘The Braes of Branxholme’ and of who several other stories are told by William Scott, teacher in Burnmouth (see Auld Hobbie o Skelfhill). He is probably the Robert in Skelfhill whose son John was married in Hawick in 1700. He may be the ‘Auld Hobbie Scott in Skelfhill’ who was grandfather of Robert Scott in Skelfhill who described him in 1809; he was said to have married a daughter of John Elliot, farmer in Southfield. Robert (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. He married Margaret Martin in 1722. Their children included: Margaret (b.1723); and Helen (b.1725). The 1725 baptism was witnessed by Walter Nixon and John Scott ‘in Hawick’. Robert (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, residing at Tandlaw in 1729. He married Janet Gledstains in 1727 and their children included: Margaret (b.1729); Bessie (b.1730); and Robert (b.1734). The witnesses in 1729 were Walter Scott and William Stewart. Robert (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at Groundistone in 1729 (at the same time as another Robert); he is probably the Robert who witnessed a baptism for the other Robert in 1729. He married Bessie Harkness and their children included: William (b.1718); Walter (b.1720); James (b.1729); and Mary (b.1734). The witnesses in 1729 were George and Richard (who were probably related to him). Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Boonraw in 1729. He married Margaret Easton in 1728 and their children included: Isobel (b.1729); and Janet (b.1731). The witnesses in 1729 were James and Robert Ormiston. Dr. Robert (d.c.1757) surgeon in Hawick, possibly the last of the Scotts of Whitslade. Dr. Thomas Somerville’s ‘My Own Life and Times’ describes him as ‘the only surviving representative of the ancient family of Whitslade. He appears to have been brother of Walter, and also of John, who sold Whitslade. He was probably the 4th son of Thomas (d.c.1698), and was said to have greatly outlived his 6 brothers. It was also said that he was 14th in descent from the Lord of Buccleuch. In his old age he became quite poor, being described as ‘a gentlemanlike person in ruin, tall, meagre – the comtenance of hunger and despondency’, and is said to have survived through occasional donations of distant relatives. He was also helped by Hawick’s minister Rev. William Somerville, perhaps inspired by the assistance the Scotts of Whitslade had given to Somerville’s father, Rev. Thomas S. Somerville, when he was ousted as minister of Cavers during the Revolution and settled in Hawick. He witnessed a baptism in Hawick in 1745, for skinner John Currer. Perhaps a different Dr. Robert (or the same, but with confused details) is described as being the 4th son of William of Raeburn, and 14th in descent from Buccleuch; this Robert married Mary Flemming and their son Robert may have been a surgeon in Musselburgh, who married Elizabeth Chalmers, and whose daughter Helen apparently helped Sir Walter with the plot of Ivanhoe. He is recorded as ‘Mr. Robert Scott Whitslade Surgeon in Hawick’ when he witnessed a baptism in 1753 for a daughter of John Gledstains of Whitlaw. This suggests that he continued to be an Episcopalian throughout his life.

Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Branxholme. He married Agnes Elliot and their son Patrick was baptised in 1728. The witnesses were Walter in ‘New…’ and John in ‘Ever…’. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1720 he was at Highchesters when his daughter Helen was baptised. Robert (18th C.) resident of Whithfield. His son Walter was baptised in Roberton Parish in 1732 (apparently twice in successive weeks!). There are several other children baptised in Roberton at about the same time who could be his. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Borthwickshiel in 1732 and 1736. His children included: Janet (b.1732); and Margaret (b.1736). Robert (18th C.) servant to Rev. William Somerville in Hawick. He witnessed a baptism for shepherd Andrew Brown in 1740. Robert (d.1750) resident of Stouslie whose funeral is recorded in Wilton Parish. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert of Coldhouse (d.1772) father of Robert, minister of Innerleithen and grandfather of Alexander, friend of Lord Byron. He is probably a descendant of the earlier Robert of Howford and Coldhouse, but the identity of his father is not clear. He is recorded being ‘of Coldhouse’ in Wilton baptisms in at least 1709, 1711 and 1724. In 1708 in Wilton Parish, he married Jean, daughter of James Cunningham. His children included: James (b.1709); Margaret (b.1711); Rev. Robert (b.1714); an unnamed son (b.1717); Walter (b.1724); and Jean (b.1726). Helen (b.1726), baptised in Hawick to a couple with the same names, could also be his child. The witnesses in 1709 were William Chisholme of Parkhill, Alexander Scott, younger of Galalaw, and Robert Scott in Drinkstone. The witnesses in 1711 were Robert of Tandlaw and Robert in Drinkstone; also in 1711, along with Robert in Drinkstone, he witnessed a baptism at Drinkstone. The witnesses in 1724 were Alexander of Galalaw and Walter Cunningham (who was surely related to his wife, and may have given his name to the child). He is probably the Laird recorded in Hawick in 1739 when the bells were rung for ‘Colddehouses wife’s burell’. His death at Tandlaw is recorded in the Scots Magazine, and he was said to be ‘aged 90 and upwards’.

Robert (1688–1768) 3rd son of William in Milsington. He became tenant at Singlie in about 1712. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Henry Elliot of Lodgegill. Their children included: William, who succeeded as tenant; Henry, who farmed at Over Deloraine; Margaret, who married William Scott, farmer at Kirkhope; and Elizabeth. Robert of Gorrenberry (17th/18th C.) recorded in 1724 when his daughter Margaret married John Elliot of Whitehaugh. He must have been related to the earlier John of Gorrenberry, or perhaps to the Alton branch. However, it is possible that ‘Robert’ is an error for another Scott of Gorrenberry. Robert of Harwood (d.bef. 1744) son of Walter of Harwood and Christian Ker. He may have been the ‘Harwood’ recorded in 1721 paying money to the town for ringing the bells at the burial of his child. It is said that the family fortunes were lost through the extravagance of his mother. He sold Harwood to Henry, Duke of Buccleuch (or perhaps confirmed the earlier sale of his father) in about 1738. His widow Elizabeth Mason is recorded leasing the farms of Skelfhill and Fairnyside from the Buccleuch Estates in 1744. This is confirmed to her eldest son Robert, said to be under age in 1744: that document also states that the Duke’s tenants shall keep the privilege of casting peats. It is possible that Robert, recorded later as tenant in Skelfhill was this same son. His 5th son James eventually became farmer at Skelfhill. It is unclear whether the ‘Robert Scott of Harrot’ recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761 was his son (or an error). Robert ‘Rob’ (17th/18th C.) recorded in the Parish Records of the early 1700s setting up seats and making a ‘footgang’ at Hawick Kirk. He was thus presumably a joiner. Robert of Davington (c.1682–1764) 2nd son of Francis of Davington, and descendant of the Scotts of Thirlestane. He succeeded after the death of his father in 1706 and his older brother John about 1710. Sir Francis of Thirlestane had him and his widowed mother thrown off their farm at Cassock. About 1727 he (and his brothers Francis and William) started a legal battle to recover the estates lost by his great-grandfather during the Civil War (based on a document made out by his grandfather Sir John of Thirlestane in Hawick in 1641). This ended in 1744 and he renounced all rights to the lands to his brother Francis in 1747. He was known as ‘Robert the Laird’. He married Mary McAlpine. Their children included: James, who succeeded, and had an only son James, who died without issue; John, attorney in Canonbie, who had several children, but also failed in the male line; and William of Meikledale. Robert (1691/2–1763) agricultural labourer in southern Liddesdale and northern England. He married Christian Turnbull, who died in 1750, aged 55. Their children included: Margaret (d.1771), who died at Longcleuchside; and James (1726/7–1801), who died at Pyke. He died at Blacklin and they are buried at Ettleton. Robert (1698–1771) son of Walter of Woll and Eliza, daughter of Robert Scott of Horsleyhill. He moved to Tamnynmore in County Londonderry and was progenitor of a line of Scotts in Ulster, including proprietors of W. & C. Scott, millmen in Omagh. The family history is described in ‘The Stones that Ground the Corn, The Story of an Irish County Grain Mill, 1850–2000’, by Tony Deeson et al. Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Mary ‘Mcgahan’ and their children included Mary (b.1762) and Ann (b.1765). Robert (1699–1775) son of Walter ‘Beardie’ and grandfather of Sir Walter of Abbotsford. He received a lease of Sandyknowe from Scott of Harden. He paid the window tax there in the 1750s. He married Barbara Haliburton in 1728 and their children were: Walter (b.1729) W.S., father of the author; Thomas (b.1731), who married Anne Scott of Raeburn and secondly Jean Rutherford of Knowesouth; Janet (1733–1805), who lived in Kelso and died unmarried; Mary (b.1735), also died unmarried; Jean (b.1737) married her relative Walter Scott of Raeburn; Robert (b.1739), who lived at Rosebank, Kelso; Barbara (b.1742), who married Mr. Currie; and John (b.1749), who died young on H.M.S. Southampton. Robert of Fenwick (18th C.), called ‘Clack’. Son of Francis of Fenwick, he married Jean Scott and later Katherine Elliot of Arkleton. He may be the Robert of Clack who was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1690 (although this could have been the earlier Robert of ‘Glack’, who also owned Fenwick). In about 1710 he and several tenants neighbouring Hawick Common formed themselves into a club and ‘drunk the Magistrates of Hawick, and got liberty from the Magistrates to rest their beaots on the Common from nine in the morning to twelve mid-day’ (according to evidence given on the state of the Common in 1767). He is probably the ‘Laird of Fenick’ who paid Hawick £9 for a year’s rent of the weigh-house in 1729 (suggesting he was the Baron’s Bailie for the Town). He is probably the Robert of Fenwick who (along with Charles of Crumhaugh) in 1747 witnessed a baptism for Gideon and Rachel Scott (perhaps his daughter). He had a son, Gavin, but it is unclear who his wife might have been and if they had other children. The bells of St. Mary’s were rung in 1732 for ‘Lady Glask’s burial’, which was probably his wife. Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1726 he married Helen Dickson from Robertson Parish, the marriage taking place at Commonside. It is possible he was the tenant in Thornyhaugh who witnessed a baptism in 1738; the other witness was Walter at Commonside, raising the possibility that there was a relationship between them. It is possible he was the son of Walter in Crumhaugh and Christian Bennet, born in 1704, who is said to have been a tenant in Crumhaugh who died without issue. Robert (18th C.) tenant farmer at Whitchesters, son of David. He married Elizabeth Douglas. Their son John was tenant at Boonraw. Walter (b.1732) and James (b.1734), born in Wilton, were probably also their children. Col. Robert of Horsleyhill (b.1704) son of Francis, descendant of the Scotts of Midgehope and Tushielaw. He was also referred to as ‘Captain’. His family had extensive lands in Weensland and a town-house at the top of Walter’s Wynd. In 1734 he was made an Honorary Burgess, the first one on record. In 1742 he registered arms at the Lyon Office. He also owned lands elsewhere, and was a heritor of Morebattle Parish. In 1744 he was involved in a dispute with Andrew Chatto, minister of Morebattle and Mow over teinds. He was Hawick Bailie for 4 years until about 1758 (and easy to confuse. with the merchant of the same name who was a Bailie at a similar time). He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. He was one of the defenders in the action of 1767 brought by the Duke of Buccleuch against the Bailies of Hawick and the neighbouring landowners regarding the division of the Common. He was also one of the witnesses in the Division of the Common proceedings. He is probably the ‘Captain Scott of Weensland’ described in 1777, among those who gained part of the Common (his allocation being included as part of that of Thomas Turnbull of Fenwick). He may be the Robert Scott whose former lands in Weensland are recorded in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls as belonging to James Dickson and passing to auctioneer James Oliver by the mid-19th century. In 1746 in Edinburgh he married Agnes Douglas of Springbank, daughter of George Douglas of Friarslaw. He was succeeded by his son John. Robert (b.1704) youngest son of Walter and Christian Bennet. His father was uncle to Walter Scott of Crumhaugh, and had been described as sometimes tenant of Crumhaugh. In 1743 he received sasine of the lands of ‘Croftangry’ in Hawick, as heir to his half-brother Walter. He was also described as tenant in Crumhaugh himself. Also in 1743 he gained ‘a tenement of land and onestead of houses in Hawick’ which had been ‘deponed’ by his brother Walter in 1730; this may have been the same or different lands. He was then described as ‘multurer’. He probably died without children. Robert (18th C.) baker in Hawick. He was recorded as a ‘baxter’ in 1742 when he witnessed a baptism for shoemaker William (who may have been related) and in 1743 when he witnessed a baptism for workman Robert Corzier. He may have been father of the later Robert Scott who was also a baker. Robert (18th C.) resident at Roberton Parish. He was at Craik in 1742 when his son James was baptised. Robert (18th C.) resident at Highchesters in 1743 when his son daughter Mary was baptised in Roberton Parish in 1743. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (18th C.) recorded in 1745 being ‘at Goldielands’ when his daughter Beatrix was born, with his servant Walter Scott being a witness. He married Agnes Rutherfurd and their children included: Marjorie (b.1733); Walter (b.1735); and John (b.1737). It is unclear whether he was directly connected to the former Scotts of Goldielands, but may have been son of the earlier Robert in Goldielands, born in 1702. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton itself in 1743 when his daughter Christian was baptised in that parish. He may be the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert of Burnhead (d.1755) eldest son of William, who he probably succeeded around 1720. In 1720 he witnessed baptisms in Hawick for Walter of Crumhaugh and Beatrice Scott and for weaver Thomas Tinlin. His sister Euphiam married Thomas Watson, who was Clerk to the Regality of Hawick, and Margaret (probably another sister), married Patrick Scott and secondly James Scott, surgeon in Hawick. He was recorded living at Clarilaw in 1721, 1725 and 1727. In 1722 and 1724 he witnessed baptisms in Wilton for Walter of Crumhaugh. He served as a Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch for Eskdale in the period 1728–43. He was mentioned in 1735 in the deposition where the widow of Robert Scott of Falnash sold her property on the Howegate to Patrick Hardie. In 1719 in Wilton he married Agnes, 2nd daughter of Gideon Scott of Falnash and Mary Scott of Thirlestane. Their children were: Mary (b.1721); William (b.1723), who succeeded; Agnes (b.1725); Gideon (b.1727); Margaret, who married Rev. Samuel Charters of Wilton in 1786, and succeeded her brother; and Walter. The witnesses in 1721 were Gideon of Falnash and Walter of Crumhaugh. The witnesses in 1725 were Thomas Watson, writer in Hawick and James Scott, surgeon in Hawick (who married his sister Margaret). The 1727 is recorded being ‘to Robert Scott of Burnhead and his Lady Agnes Scott’; the witnesses were James (perhaps the surgeon) and writer Thomas Watson. Robert of Hummelknowes (18th C.) recorded in 1753 when he paid the window tax in Cavers Parish. This was for 14 windows, as William (perhaps his father) had paid in 1748. His name is written ‘Robert Scott Esqr. Humbleknowes’, the ‘Esqr.’ suggesting he was a man of some status. It is possible there is a connection with the Scotts of Burnhead, who owned Hummelknowes in the 19th century. Bailie Robert (18th C.) merchant in Hawick. He was Bailie in the 1750s and also recorded as Bailie in 1763. He was possibly the same merchant Robert who had been involved with the 1740 bond for the construction of the Teviot Bridge. He may be the merchant who witnessed a baptism for Andrew Turnbull ‘Town Post’ in 1742. He is probably the Bailie Robert who witnessed a baptism for carrier Gilbert Oliver in 1746. He is probably the merchant Robert who was married to Betty, daughter of William Aitkin (or Aitken), and whose children included: William (b.1743); George (b.1745); and
Scott

William (again, b.1747). The witnesses in 1745 were mason David Laing and merchant George Scott. He also witnessed a baptism in 1745 for miller James (who may have been a relative). Probably the same Bailie Robert witnessed a baptism in 1757 for miller Adam (who may have been related), along with merchant George. In 1767 it was described that his father-in-law, William Aitken, had liferent of a house in Hawick, for which he had the fee for his son William. He is probably the Bailie Robert whose son James died in 1777. It may have been a relative of his who was the Robert whose son Robert became a skinner’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1682.

Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1766, along with barber Francis, he witnessed a baptism for James Rae and Agnes Scott. His designation appears to be ‘Cross Keys’, suggesting he was proprietor of one of the inns of that name (perhaps the older one on the High Street). He was probably related to Francis and Agnes. He probably married Mary McGaughan, whose death in 1776 is recorded as ‘Mrs. Scott Cross keys’. Robert (d.bef. 1780) tenant of Skelfhill. He is recorded being at Skelfhill in 1766 when he witnessed a baptism for Robert Laidlaw of Fahnash. He is recorded as ‘late in Skelfhill’ in a notice to his creditors published in 1780; he had been declared bankrupt. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotos associated with Skelfhill. However, it is possible he was son of Robert of Harwood (whose wife had a connection to Skelfhill). Robert (18th C.) recorded as resident of Whitchesters in 1766. He was probably related to the earlier Robert, farmer in Whitchesters. He married Margaret Turner in 1759 and their children included: Robert (b.1760); Walter (b.1762); and John (b.1766). Witnesses in 1766 were John Hobkirk and Robert Liddell. He may be the Robert recorded in 1771 when he paid the Hawick Council for 3000 divots (presumably from Hawick Common). Rev. Robert (1714–96) born at Coldhouse (in Wilton), son of Robert. He was licensed as a minister by the Presbytery of Selkirk in 1774 and became minister at Innerleithen in 1777. In 1788 (and continued in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls) he was recorded as owner of Coldhouse and Tandlaw, with a value of £80 together. In 1781 he married Margaret (or perhaps Agnes) Chisholme (d.1817), daughter of Thomas, the Selkirk surgeon. They had 8 children: Agnes (1782–1802); Thomas Chisholme (d.1811), who died in Bengal; William Chisholme (b.1785) who probably later owned Chisholme House; Charles James (1787–1807), who died at sea; Jean (b.1789); James Robert (b.1790); Robert (b.1791); and Alexander (b.1793), who was a friend of Lord Byron. It seems that Burns met him when he passed through Innerleithen on his Borders tour in 1787. Later in the 1800s his lands of Coldhouse and Tandlaw were owned by Mrs. Mary Ann Livingstone or Finlay, who was probably a descendant. Robert ‘Rob the Laird’ (18th C.) only son of James, who was a son of Francis of Davington, and direct descendant of the Scotts of Thirlestane. He farmed at Holm (near Eskdalemuir) and then at Binks. He took the daughters of James Scott of Davington (his cousin) to court in an attempt to gain the remaining family estates. In 1786 he was imprisoned in Dumfries Tolbooth for a month for illegally resuming possession of the farm of Davington. In 1792 he drafted a genealogy of his family. He had no known children. He is mentioned in notes to the Ettrick Shepherd’s poem ‘Thirlestane, a fragment’; it is stated that he was called ‘Rob the Laird’ because he would have been Laird, and also that he referred to the murderous Lady of Thirlestane as ‘the d—d b—h’. Robert (1721/2–1807) gardener at Wells. He was listed there in 1778 and 1779, when the estate was held by William Nassau Elliot. He was still there in 1785–88 when it was owned by Gilbert Elliott. By 1791 probably the same Robert was a gardener at Weens, working for William Oliver. In 1794 he was again recorded at Wells, working for Gilbert Elliott. He married Margaret Hope, and she died in 1786, aged 77. Their children included: Elizabeth (1748/9–1824), who married John Fiddes; and Margaret (1753/4–98). They are buried in Bedrule kirkyard. Robert (18th C.) grandson of Archibald Goodfellow, his mother marrying a Scott, and his brother being William ‘the Auld Mason’. He was shepherd at Merrylaw. His parents were probably Jean Goodfellow and shepherd John. Robert (18th C.) innkeeper in Hawick recorded supplying the refreshments to a meeting relating to Wilton Kirk in 1764. He is probably the same Robert where it is said that the local Justices of the Peace would meet in the winter, when it was too cold in the Town House. Robert (1727/8–83) resident at Lanton. His son Thomas set up a memorial stone in Bedrule kirkyard to him and other members of the family. He married Jean, who died at Lantonhill in 1819, aged 86. He may be the ‘Capt. Scott’ whose lands in Lanton are recorded in the valuation rolls of the 18th century. Robert, who is recorded in 1788 as owner of the adjacent ‘part of James Henderson’s lands in Langtoun’ may have been his son. Robert (b.c.1730) younger son of Alexander, who was miller in Rulewater and later tenant at Roughheugh Mill. He took over from his father as tenant in Roughheugh Mill in Wilton. He was recorded there in a baptismal record of 1790 and on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He is recorded as owner of the ‘Cormmill of Roughheugh, acquired from Langlands’ according to the county valuation in 1788 and the Tax Rolls of 1811 (even although he may have been deceased by then). He appears to have married Ann Brown, and their children were: Alexander of Kinninghall (b.1778), who married Margaret Bell; Thomas of Little Cot, who married, but died without issue; Euphemia (or Euphemia, b.1775), who married her cousin John, brother of Alexander of Falla; and Alice (or Alison, b.1782), who married Mr. Briggs of Middlestones. He secondly married Janet Buckham and had children: Mary (b.1786); Helen (b.1788); Robert (b.1790); and William (b.1792). He may be the Robert who in 1770, along with Thomas, witnessed a baptism for clothier and dyer Thomas Turnbull, resident of Roughheugh. Robert of Orchard (1731–1813) younger son of Robert of Fahnash. He was Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch in 1758–68 for ‘Teviotdalehead’, which included Hawick, Wilton, Cavers, Teviothead and Roberton. In 1765 he applied to the Town Council to be allowed to cut turf on Hawick Moor ‘for covering part of the office houses at Branksholm’, and was allowed to do so. However, in 1766 he is probably the Duke’s Chamberlain who led a group of his tenants and farm workers to try to put their sheep and cattle onto the small pieces of land that the Town had let on the Common (in a deliberate attempt to stop encroachment by neighbouring tenants); these confrontations came close to resulting in violence. In 1767 he represented the Duke of Buccleuch at the perambulation of Hawick Common made as part of the court case for its division. On the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls he is recorded as ‘Robert Scott Esqr.’ at Orchard Cottage, when he owned 3 farm horses as well as 1 saddle horse. Also in 1797 he was listed as being of ‘Cottage’, when he was taxed for male servants. He paid the land tax at Orchard in 1811. In Wilton in 1759 he married Elizabeth, daughter of Baille Robert Howison of Orchard, and eventually became proprietor of Orchard himself (probably inheriting after the death of his nephew William Dickson in 1788). Their children were: Margaret (b.1761), who married Dr. Andrew Wilson from Kelso; Robert (b.1762), who probably died young; and Violet (b.1765), who married farmer William Bell, from whom was descended William Scott Bell of Woll. He died in Edinburgh, and is then described as ‘late of Orchard’. Robert (18th C.) carrier in Hawick Parish. He married Agnes Deans in 1752 and their children included: Isobel (b.1753); Jean (b.1756); John (b.1758); Walter (b.1760); and Agnes (b.1765). He may be the Hawick carrier listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at ‘Broadlieshiel’ (i.e. Broadleeshiel) in 1762, 1763 and 1767 and ‘Broadlie burnfoot’ in 1771. Perhaps the same Robert was at Gair in 1769. His children probably included: George (b.1762); William (b.1763); Janet (b.1765); Charles (b.1767); James (b.1768); Agnes (b.1769); and George (again, b.1771), probably the Wilton contractor, who was father of twins in 1799. He could be either the Robert who married Margaret Dickson in Roberton in 1761 or the Robert who married Mary Scott in Roberton in 1765. Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Janet Scott and their children included: Isabel (b.1764); Janet (b.1771); and Helen (b.1773). The witnesses in 1764 were John (probably a relative) and Alexander Bunyan. Robert (b.1757) Walter (b.1759) and Margaret (b.1762), baptised in Wilton Parish, could also be his children. Robert (18th C.) resident at Whithope in 1757, 1764 and 1765 when children of his were baptised in Roberton Parish. His children included Janet (b.1757), William (b.1764) and Robert (b.1765). He could be the Robert who married Mary Scott in Roberton in 1756. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Phillhopeshiel in 1765 when his daughter Jean was baptised. Robert (18th C.) baker in Hawick. He was described as ‘junior, baker’ in 1769 when he was appointed to the commission to discuss the Common with representatives of the Duke of Buccleuch. He was thus probably a member of the Council. It seems likely that his father was also Robert. Robert (1735/6–1807) shepherd at Baldhill. His wife was Betty Park (d.1798) and their children included William and Betty. The family are buried at Teviothead. Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1758 he married Christian Scott, this being recorded in Hawick and Hobkirk Parishes. Their children included: Jean (b.1758); Isabel (b.1761); William (b.1763); and Walter (b.1765). The witnesses in 1763 were William Paterson and ‘Mr’ Walter Scott (presumably a local landowner). Robert Margaret (b.c.1790) was also there, and probably his daughter. He may be the ‘R. Scott, Dovemount’ who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. Robert (18th/19th C.) farmer at Whitfield in 1797, according to the Horse Tax Rolls. He owned 3 horses at that time. Robert (18th/19th C.) farmer at ‘Kerritrig’ (i.e. Carewoodrig) in Ewesdale in 1792–97 according to the Horse Tax Rolls. He also paid the dog and clock taxes in 1797. Robert (18th/19th C.) recorded as ‘Bundle’ when his grandchild died in 1805. He is probably the same as one of the other Roberts. Robert (b.1764/5) born in Wilton Parish, he lived at Dykeneuk. In 1841 he was an agricultural labourer living at Dykeneuk, along with Isabella (probably his sister) and WilliamOrmiston. In 1851 he is listed as an unmarried retired farmer, living at Dykeneuk with a lodger, William Ormiston, and his niece Janet Ormiston. He may be the Robert listed at Drinkstone among heads of households in Wilton Parish in 1835. Robert (b.c.1765) mason who lived at Hummelmowagh, recorded on the 1841 census. He could be the Hawick mason who subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. Robert (18th/19th C.) owner of parts of Weensland according to the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He had purchased 2 parts from William Irvine and Adam Ormiston and (presumably the same Robert) had already sold part to Andrew Porteous. By about 1874 these parts were owned by manufacturer Walter Wilson and others. He is probably the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (18th/19th C.) tenant at ‘Titus foord’, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. His farm was probably the same place also known as ‘Tythehouse’ in 1821. Robert (18th/19th C.) owner of parts of Weensland according to the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He had purchased 2 parts from William Irvine and Adam Ormiston and (presumably the same Robert) had already sold part to Andrew Porteous. By about 1874 these parts were owned by manufacturer Walter Wilson and others. He is probably the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (18th/19th C.) tenant at ‘Titus foord’, listed on the 1841 census. He could be the Hawick mason who subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. Robert (18th/19th C.) owner of parts of Weensland according to the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He had purchased 2 parts from William Irvine and Adam Ormiston and (presumably the same Robert) had already sold part to Andrew Porteous. By about 1874 these parts were owned by manufacturer Walter Wilson and others. He is probably the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (18th/19th C.) tenant at ‘Titus foord’, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. His farm was probably the same place also known as ‘Tythehouse’. Robert (18th/19th C.) gardener at Middlemill on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls for Lilliesleaf Parish. Robert (1773–1844) eldest son of William, tenant of Singlie. He became tenant farmer at Todshawhaugh in 1800 (after the death of Walter Grieve of Branxholme Park). He was leasing ‘Helms’ (i.e. Whames) along with Todshawhaugh in 1802 and was listed being in arrears for Todshawhaugh in 1812. He was involved in a loan with the Jardines and Ellists of Harwood in 1823. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He married Janet Jardine of Thorlieshope. Their children included: Christian (b.1804) who married James Dickson of Chatto and Housebyres in 1827; William (b.1806), who died young; Gideon (d.c.1835), farmer at Middlemoss, who married Barbara Armstrong; Margaret (b.1810); Janet (b.1813), who also died young; Janet (b.1814); and Agnes (b.1819). One of his daughters (possibly Jessie) married William Dove, who succeeded his father-in-law as tenant of Todshawhaugh. Robert (18th/19th C.) farmer at Denholm Farm, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls, when he owned 4 horses. Note that the place he farmed was distinct from Denholm Hill and Denholm Mill farms. Robert (18th/19th C.) wright at the Sandbed. The deaths of his daughter Betty and son Walter are recorded in 1810. Robert (18th/19th C.) resident of Priesthaugh. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘ Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He was probably related to Walter, who farmed at Priesthaugh earlier and David who was there later. Robert (b.c.1783) agricultural labourer in Newcastleton, living at about 3 Langholm Street. His wife was probably Isabella, and children included Thomas, Robert, Elizabeth and Isabella. The family were working as carriers in 1851, when he was already deceased. However, he was still listed in Slater’s 1852 directory as a carrier, leaving Hawick for Newcastleton on Thursdays. Robert (18th/19th C.) recorded as ‘Ro. Scott’ at about 5 High Street on Wood’s 1824 map. He could be the same as one of the other contemporary Roberts. Robert (18th/19th C.) writer (i.e. lawyer) of the High Street, listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He is recorded at least as early as 1820. Probably the same Robert was listed as an accountant on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory. He could be the accountant listed in 1841, living on the High Street (probably No. 45) with farmer James, likely his brother; this Robert was 74 in 1861 and could be the son of William and Margaret Goodfellow born in Hawick in 1786. Robert (b.c.1780) mason in Hobkirk Parish. He was based at ‘Scaur Nook’ (near Langraw) in 1841. He is probably the mason of this name who was said to be one of the last residents of the hamlet of Unthank in Hobkirk Parish. Robert (b.1783/4) born in Hawick Parish, he was farmer at Kaimend. He married Isabella Scott in Kirkton Parish in 1807. Their children included: Mary (b.1808); Thomas (b.1810); Janet (b.1812); Archibald (b.1815); and Robert (b.1819). He was there from at least 1841, and in 1861 was farming 160 acres and employing 3 labourers. Robert ‘Robbie the Cow’ (b.1786/7) owner of a tenement at 43 High Street, living on the ground floor in the mid-19th century. The nickname was probably because he kept cows in the back of his house. His housekeeper (Barbara Anderson) was known as ‘Babbie the Cow’. In 1841 he was recorded as an accountant and living with farmer James (probably his older brother) and 2 servants, including ‘Barbary’. By 1851 he was there with only ‘Babbie’, when listed as ‘Accountant and occupier of 26 Acres of land’. By around 1860 the house was occupied by George Brown, green-grocer and was later rebuilt by Walter Paisley, ironmonger. He may be the Robert born in Hawick in 1876 to William and Margaret Goodfellow, with brothers George (b.1778), James (b.1782) and William (b.1791), as well as 2 earlier Roberts (who must have died young). He could be the grocer and meal dealer on the High Street recorded on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. Robert ‘Rob’ (1788–1872) born at Harden House, son of John and Helen Elsington. He joined the local militia when very young and enlisted in the 85th Regiment of Foot in 1809. He served in the Peninsular War under Sir Arthur Wellesly (later Duke of Wellington), seeing lots of action, and was sent to America in 1814, where he was said to be close by Gen. Ross when he fell at Baltimore. He himself was wounded at New Orleans and he was discharged in 1816, retiring as a Colour-Sergeant with a pension. He settled back in Hawick where he was landlord of the Red Lion Inn at the Sandbed (as recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory). He also worked as a stockingmaker and was a noted supporter of the strikers during the ‘Lang Stand Oot’ of 1822. He could be the stocking-maker recorded in Wilton Parish at Pathhead in 1835 and Roadside in 1840 and 1841. In 1841 he and his family were living at No. 5 Wilton Bank. He married Helen Oliver from Jedburgh. Their children were: Helen, who became Mrs. Greig; George; an unnamed child; John; Elizabeth; Gilbert; Robert (b.1827); Andrew; Agnes; Janet, who became Mrs. Dobson; Adam, who moved to Ballarat, Australia; and Mary. His son Adam erected a headstone in memory of him and his wife in Wilton Old Cemetery. Robert (b.1792/3) farmer at Castleside in Ashkirk Parish, originally from Castleton Parish. He may have been son of George and Margaret Murray. His wife was Helen, and he secondly married Anne S. In 1841 he was living at Castle-side with his wife and mother Helen. Robert (1794/5–1860) son of William, who was a gentleman’s servant, and Margaret Gray, he was a labourer who lived at Stobs Woodfoot. He was unmarried and lived with his brother William and sister Nell (i.e. Helen). He was buried in Wilton cemetery. Robert (1795/6–1855) shepherd at Lodgegill on the Tarras Water. He was listed there as an agricultural labourer in 1841. He married Margaret Scott, and she died in 1868. Their children included Margaret, Eliza, Jane, George and William. He died in Hawick. Robert (1796–1872) son of John and grandson of Robert. He was tenant farmer at East Boonraw; he was listed there on the 1841 census and still there in 1868. He married Agnes Margaret Scott, who died in 1831, following childbirth. Their children were: Janet or ‘Jeanette’ (b.1819), who married farmer Thomas Potts and lived near Hawick; Elizabeth (‘Betty’, b.1820), who married farmer Robert Miller; Margaret (1821–97), who married Gideon Harkness and emigrated to Owen Sound, Ontario; John (b.1823), who emigrated to America, but was murdered for his money by the couple he was lodging with in Wisconsin; Ellen (b.1825), who died unmarried after emigrating to stay with her brothers William and then Adam; Adam (b.1828), who married Elizabeth Anderson of the Burnfoot on Ale family and they emigrated to America, his son Thomas A. later returning to Hawick; and William (b.1830), who emigrated to settle at Pine Bluff, Wisconsin, where his brother John had been murdered, and he married Martha Rice. He later married Janet Douglas, who came from Jedburgh and died in 1888, aged 71. Their children were: Robert, who married Matha Craig and lived in Toronto; Douglas, who married Susan Ann Woodcraft from Buckinghamshire, emigrated to Canada in 1869 and worked as a contractor; Euphemia, who married farmer Walter Thompson; Agnes, who married Tom Graham from Edinburgh; Eliza, who married John Moffatt and emigrated to America; John, who married Margaret Richardson, who also emigrated to America; Walter, who lived in Manchester; George, who married Julia Frizzel and worked with his brother Douglas. Robert of Eweslees (b.1797/8) one of the founder members of the Wisp Club. He was born in Cavers Parish. He was farmer at Eweslees in 1841, in 1851 was employing 5 labourers there and by 1861 was farmer of 1700 acres, employing 2 shepherds. He was still there in 1868. His wife was Violet and their children included Barbara and Jane. Robert (b.1800/1) auctioneer and appraiser in Lilliesleaf, who also worked as a frameworker. He was on Back Road in the 1861 census. His wife was Elizabeth and their children included David, Wilhelmina K. and Elizabeth. Robert ‘Robbie’ (1800–1868) son of George of Calaburn. He was apprentice smith with Adam Legerwood at Forkins. He became a blacksmith, vet and farrier and also a local authority on cows and their diseases. He worked in Kirkton and then at Cauldmill after James Smith moved to Hawick). In 1820 he married Jessie (1799–1869), eldest daughter of Moses Renwick. In 1841 he was at Cauldmill with his wife and children Betty, Robert, Ann (or Mary Ann) and Jane. His children were: George (b.1820), Mary (b.1827), Jessy (b.1830); and Jane Grant (b.1840), who all died young; Violet (b.1822); Betty (b.1824), who became Mrs. Oliver and died in Canada; Robert ‘Young Robbie’ (b.1834), also a local vet; and Mary Ann (b.1837), who became Mrs. Fleming and died in Canada. He is buried in Cavers and Kirkton Parish Churchyard. Robert (b.1804/5) listed in 1861 as farmer of 10 acres, living at 1 Burnflat. His younger brother Gilbert (a woollen weaver) also lived there. Robert (b.c.1805) farmer at Todlaw, in Cavers Parish. He was from Jedburgh. In 1841 he was listed as a mason journeyman, but by 1851 was a farmer. He married Elizabeth Wilson. Their children included Margaret (1833–96, who married Denholm clothier Robert Turnbull), Jessie and Robert. Robert (19th C.) listed as a toy dealer on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory. Robert (b.1813/4) cabinet-maker on Buccleuch Street. His wife was Margaret (from Selkirk) and children included Susan, Robert, William, Thomas, Walter, Jane and Helen. He was probably related to Thomas and Robert Scott, recorded as wheelwrights on Buccleuch Street on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. It seems likely he was son of Thomas, joiner at the Sandbed on the 1841 directory, and brother of Thomas and Walter, who were also trainee joiners there. He may be the ‘Robert, jun.’ listed as a joiner on Ladylaw Place in Slater’s 1852 directory. By 1861 he was living at 52 Loan. Robert of Kinninghall (1817–97) son of Alexander, who farmed at Kinninghall. He was grandson of the tenant of Roughheugh Mill. He farmed at Little Cote and Kinninghall in Cavers Parish. He was at Kinninghall in 1851, when he was farmer of 200 acres, employing 7 men and in 1861 he was recorded employing 20 people there. In the 1860s he was farmer of Little Cote and also Kinninghall together. He may have later also farmed at Falnash. He was a member of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland from 1863. In 1845 in Hawick he married Mary Scott Purdom (b.c.1824), daughter of Robert Purdom, Hawick Cornet and Bailie; she was sister of Thomas Purdom, Town Clerk. Their children included: Mary (b.1845); Margaret Bell (b.1847); Alexander, who died young; Alexander (again, b.1851) of Kinninghall and later Vrench, Yetholm; Robert Purdom (b.1853), who married Kate Worth; Agnes P. (b.1855), who married Alexander Nichol; William (b.1857): Walter Purdom (b.1859), tenant in Fahash; Thomas (b.1861), who married Ada M. Fox; and Ann Isabella (or ‘Annie’, b.1864).

Robert (b.c.1820) grocer and spirit dealer at about 9 Howegate, recorded in 1841. Robert (1834–1908) son of William and Mary Scott, who lived at Synton. He was born at Langtonheight in Ashkirk Parish. In 1851 and 1861 he was a Thatcher still living at Dimpleknowe with his mother and brothers. He was a shepherd at Synton Parkhead for the last 30 years of his life. He was an office-bearer in Ashkirk United Free Church and known for exhibiting in local horticultural shows. He married Jane Scott and their children were: William (b.1866), born in Roberton; John (b.1869), born in Lilliesleaf; Anne (b.1872), born in Lilliesleaf; and Mary (b.1875), born at Synt Moss End. He died at Synton Parkhead.

Robert ‘Young Robbie’ (1834–1902) son of ‘Robbie’. He was a blacksmith and qualified veterinary surgeon, living at Cauldmill, with a practice in the Rule valley and around Hawick. He specialised in cows, like his father. He was remembered ‘as a man of few words, but of good judgement’. A story is told of how he was frustrated at a visiting couple, fawning over their newborn son, and when they said ‘What a fine heid of hair he hez’ replied ‘Hair, he’s nae mair hair than a haggis’. He married Catherine Anne Little, daughter of William, farmer at Birneyknowe and Salendyce. Their children were: Robert (b.1867), who also became a local vet; William Little (b.1868), farmer at Langrigg; Janet Thorburn (1870–1951); George (b.1871), who worked at Birmingham and Midland Pharmaceutical College; Andrew Little (1873–92); Catherine (or Kate, 1874/5–91); and James (1883/4–1938).

Robert ‘Robbie Scare a Hair’ (b.c.1848) son of grocer Thomas (‘Sly Tamnie’) he was an auctioneer in Hawick. He apparently used to attend social evenings in David Shiel’s public house on Baker Street, along with almost a dozen other Robert Scotts, all of whom had distinguishing nicknames! Robert ‘Rob o the Bent’ (19th C.) one of the men of the same name who regularly gathered in a Baker Street howf in the mid-19th century. Robert ‘Kettle Robbie’ (19th C.) another of the men of the same name who gathered in a Baker Street pub in the mid-1800s. Robert ‘Robbie Barrell’ (19th C.) another of the Robert Scotts who went to the same inn in the mid-1800s. He may be the Robert listed along with Thomas as wheelwrights on Buccleuch Street, according to Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. Robert ‘Selkirk Rob’ (19th C.) one more of the men of the same name who frequented the same pub in the mid-1800s. Robert ‘Demnum Rob’ (19th C.) another of the Robert Scotts who went to the same Baker Street pub in the mid-19th century. It is possible he is the Robert recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as a ‘heckler’ in Denholm. Robert ‘Hensmeat’ (19th C.) one more of the men of the same name who frequented David Shiel’s inn on Baker Street in the mid-1800s. He was brother of James, Governor of Hawick Poorhouse. On one occasion he is supposed to have been chairing the evening and said ‘Rob Scare a Hair will gie us a song’ when one of the other Robert Scotts appeared, to which the reply was ‘Aw’ve nae objection, but if ‘ee wull ca’ me ‘Scare a Hair’ aw’ll ca’ you by your name ‘Hensmeat’’ [JHH], from which we can assume the name was somewhat insulting. Robert (b.1827/8) carter in Newcastle, son of Robert. In 1852 he is recorded running a cart to Carlisle once a week. In 1851 he was living with his mother Isabella and siblings Thomas, Elizabeth and Isabella at about 3 Langholm Street. His was described as a ‘Feuar’s Son’ there in 1861. Robert (19th/20th C.) son of Robbie, he was a local vet, like his father and grandfather before him. He lived at Oliver Crescent. His children included: Robert, who was killed at Ypres on his 20th birthday; and Charles, the 4th generation vet. Robert V. (20th C.) Cornet in 1947. During WWII he saw service in France and was captured by the Japanese, spending several months working on the notorious ‘death railway’ in Siam. He was later on a transport ship that was sunk by U.S. bombers, and although he swam ashore, he was recaptured by the Japanese. Robin (13th C.) listed as ‘Robinus Scot de Hedon’ on the 1269 assize roll of Northumberland. It is unclear where his lands may have been or whether he was related to the later Scottish Scotts. Roger (13th C.) recorded as ‘Rogerum Scot’ on the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. His lands were mentioned in a case heard at Westmorland. Roger (16th/17th C.) described as ‘capitane of the Armetage’ in 1599 when he witnessed the bonds (signed at Branxholme) between Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch and the Armstrongs and Elliots of Liddesdale. In 1611 he was ‘captain of the Irnetage’ when he was cautioner for Will Foster in Langhaugh, as well as for John Armstrong ‘called Quhyteheid’. He was additionally fined for the non-appearance of Rowie Crozier in Harthsgarthburnside. He was also part of the assize at the Justice Court on Jedburgh in 1611. He was also ‘Capitane of the Airmetage’ when he was fined for not appearing at a trial in 1612 (relating to the apparent hanging death of John Elliot in St. Mary’s Steeple). He may have been the last such deputy keeper of Hermitage Castle. It is unclear how he was related to other contemporary Scotts.
Scott

Roland ‘Rowie of Huttikill’ (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1616 when Jock Scott ‘the Suckler’ was hanged for stealing one his sheep (and other crimes). The sheep was taken ‘furth of the Lyn beside Eilrig’. He may be the same as Rowie ‘in Vttersyde’ (i.e. Outerside), one of the pursuers of the case. It is unclear where precisely this place was located, but he was surely related to David and Alexander ‘callit Huttitill’, who are recorded at ‘Andishop’ in 1573.

Roland ‘Rowie’ (16th/17th C.) one of the ‘Persewaris’ of the 1616 case against Jock Scott ‘the Suckler’ for sheep stealing. He is recorded as being ‘in Vttersyde’ (i.e. Outerside) and his son Walter was also a pursuer. He may be the same as the man ‘callit Rowe of Huttikill’, who was one of the men whose sheep were stolen.

Simon (13th C.) recorded as ‘Simonis le Scot’ in the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. His case was heard in the town of Alnwick. He is separately recorded as ‘Simone de Scotia’. Perhaps the same man is recorded as Simonis Scot in Swynborne in a record of Edward I in 1293. It is unclear whether he was related to later Scotts.

Simon (15th C.) listed in 1463/4 among the local men who were rewarded by the King for assisting in the capture of John Douglas of Balveny. He is surely related to others who were named (John, Robert of Todshaw, etc.), but it is unclear how.

Simon (15th C.) recorded at the Justice- aire held in Selkirk in 1494/5, as being ‘in mekilhop’ (i.e. Meiklehope, perhaps the same as Meikledalehope), now ‘in …’, with the location being blank. He was indicted, but did not appear, with his surety, Richard Davidson in Meiklehope, being fined (or perhaps he was surety for Davidson).

Simon (15th C.) recorded at the Justice- aire held in Selkirk in 1494/5, when he was ‘in mychhop’, i.e. Midgehope. He served as surety for himself and was fined for non-appearance.

Simon (15th/16th C.) tenant in Eilrig listed in the Exchequer Rolls of 1501 among mostly local men who had been fined. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts.

Simon of Arkyn (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1502 when George Douglas, Master of Angus had to surrender the lands of False (in Jedforest) to Ralph Ker of Primside Loch for failing to present him at court. He had stolen 200 ‘angle-nobles’ from the English and is recorded as ‘Symonus Scot de Arkyn’. It is unclear where ‘Arkyn’ was.

Simon ‘Sym’ (15th/16th C.) recorded in the 1526 remission to a large number of Borderers for an attack on the Earl of Arran. He is listed as brother of Robert, tutor of HowPasley, making him son of Alexander of Howpasley and brother of Adam of Tushielaw (listed next in the same 1526 document). Simon of Fenwick was listed separately and so presumably not the same man.

Probably the same Simon was the first witness listed for the instrument of sasine at Fawsyde (probably in the Ettrick valley) for Janet Scott (widow of Robert ‘Elwand’) purchasing lands in Apple- treehall from Robert of HowPasley; James, William in Hartwoodsmyres and Roland are listed after him and some may have been closely related.

Simon of Fenwick (16th C.) listed as ‘Symoun Scot of Fynnik’ in 1526 among a large number of men who had remission for attacking the Earl of Arran. He is also mentioned in 1526/7 when his brother Adam was a witness to a document relating to Harden. In 1527 he was among the local lairds who submitted themselves to James V to keep better order. He is also recorded in a ‘letter of reversion’ of 1540 in which he re- signed lands of Nether Harden (described as in the Barony of Chamberlain Newton) to William Scott of Harden. A bond of the same year shows William of Harden giving him the lands of Nether Harden until George, Lord Home redeems them.

In 1550 he is listed among the 21 Rox- burghshire Lairds who submitted themselves to James V to keep better order. He is also recorded in a ‘letter of reversion’ of 1540 in which he re- signed lands of Nether Harden (described as in the Barony of Chamberlain Newton) to William Scott of Harden. A bond of the same year shows William of Harden giving him the lands of Nether Harden until George, Lord Home redeems them.

In 1561 probably the same ‘Sym Scot of Fynnik’ was among a list of men charged to appear before Queen Mary regarding the state of the Borders. He was listed as ‘Sym Scot of Fynnyk’ among the men who appeared before the Privy Council in a promise to end the feud between the Kers and the Scotts in 1562. He is probably related to William in Fenwick, who is recorded in 1510. In the 1526 remission there is a ‘Sym Scot’ listed as brother of Robert, tutor of HowPasley, suggesting that this was a different man (even although listed right beside Robert), unless there were multiple entries in the list. Simon (16th C.) recorded as ‘Syme’ along with John in about 1557. They were sons of the ‘guidman of Alanehauch’, who was probably either William or Robert, when they rented Stobicoite from Melrose Abbey. He could be the ‘Sym Scot of Alanehauch’ listed in 1561 among Border Lairds who appeared before the Queen to give names of those guilty of theft. He may well be ‘Syme Scot in Oversouthfeld’ who was named along with Robert of Allanhaugh and others in 1581, when they were forgiven for the murder of George Scott 3 years earlier. ‘Watt Scot thair, Sym Scotch thair, Jok Scot, duelland in Hawik, callit Wattis Jok’ are all listed, and seem likely to be related. He may also be the ‘umquhile Symme Scot in Southfeld’ mentioned in 1609. Simon ‘Sym’ (16th C.) recorded as resident of Over Southfield in 1581, along with ‘Syme Scot in Oversouthfield’, ‘Watt Scot thair’ and ‘Jok Scot, duelland in Hawik, callit Wattis Jok’. He was presumably related to the other men listed (e.g. he could have been son of Simon, tenant in Over Southfield), all of whom were probably related to the Scotts of Allanhaugh, who were also named in the ‘letter of slains’ for the murder of George Scott in 1578. Simon (16th C.) listed as ‘Sym Scot of Fernilli’ in about 1557, when, along with Archibald Elliot of Gorrenberry, he rented Bowanhill and ‘Grangia alias Stanyhetoun’ from Melrose Abbey. His lands may have been Fairnilee or Fernielees, or somewhere else. Simon ‘Sym wi the Spear’ of Gamescleuch and Winterburgh (d.bef. 1590) 2nd son of Sir John of Thirlestane (although some suggest he was the 4th son). He was the ‘tutor’ of his nephew Robert of Thirlestane and progenitor of the Scotts of Newburgh and Rennaldburn. He is ‘Symon Scot of Wintirburch’ in 1561/2, when he witnessed a document for Adam, son of Robert of Bonnington. He is probably the ‘Sym Scot, bruther to Robert Scot of Thirlestane’ recorded in 1562 when he promised to enter James ‘Mawar’ to the Warden, Ker of Cessford. He is recorded as ‘in Winterburgh’ in 1559 when he purchased the lands of Gamescleuch. In 1573 he was charged to enter some of his tenants in Ettrickside. In 1578 he was ‘of Wintirburch’ when Robert of Thirlestane (for whom he was ‘tutor’) complained that he had taken away 2 horses from Thirlestane, threatened the tenants, and later forcibly took possession of the house; clearly there were serious disputes between him and his charge. He was forced by the Privy Council to yield up Thirlestane house after a few months. In 1576 he was ‘Sym Scot, tutour of Thirlestane’ when listed among the cautioners for Sim Armstrong; he was cited for non-appearance as cautioner in 1578/9. In 1578 he signed the caution ‘with my hand at the len’ (meaning that he could not write). In 1583/4 he and Robert of Thirlestane were both among Border Lairds summoned for advice on how to keep peace in Teviotdale and Liddesdale; they were also caution for an agreement between John in Hundleshope and James Gledstains of Cocklaw. He was probably the William ‘of Gemmylliscleuch’ listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He may be the son of the Laird of Thirlestane who was murdered by his step-mother (although the names and suggested dates for this story are confused). He was one of the representatives of Teviotdale at the General Assembly of 1581. In 1585 he witnessed a bond (signed at Selkirk and Hawick) settling a feud between the Scotts of Brauxholme and the Scotts of Allanhaugh. He was probably succeeded by John (perhaps his elder son) and then his son Arthur. Simon (16th C.) son of Walter of Newton. He was presented to the vicarage of Hassendean in 1595 on the demission of Thomas Newbie. It is unclear whether this means he became the minister or just held part of the benefice of the Parish. His father may have been Walter of Chamberlain Newton. Simon of Dryhope (16th C.) 1st Laird. Scott of Satchells suggests he was brother of Adam of Tushielaw, while Keith Scott prefers to connect him as 3rd son of Walter of Headshaw. He was succeeded by John, father of the ‘Flower of Yarrow’, but the relationship is unclear (Keith Scott claims his sons were Philip, Simon, Andrew, Adam and Walter, but these may have been sons of John). Simon (d.bef. 1609) father of John Scott who was among several men fined in 1609 for harassing the lands of Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane. His son was ‘Jean’s John’, suggesting that his wife was Jean. He was referred to as ‘umquhile Symme Scot in Southfield’, although it is unclear if this is the Southfield near Hawick or another. Simon of Montbenger (16th/17th C.) descended from the Scotts of Dryhope. He was either son of Simon (1st Laird) or John (2nd Laird). He was succeeded by Robert, and later descendants were the Scotts of Catslackknowe. Simon (16th/17th C.) natural son of William of Fineland, who was brother of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. In 1608 he was among the relations and tenants of Sir Robert who were bonded not to harm Archibald ‘of Dehoip’. In 1609 he was among the men (including his father William, as well as Walter of Headshaw) who Sir Robert of Thistlestone and his tenants were bound not to reset. This was part of the feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw. In 1610 he was ordered to be apprehended for not signing the bond relating to the Scotts of Tushielaw. In 1616/7 he was probably the ‘Will’s Sym’ of Thistlestone who was accused of accompanying John Scott and his brothers Adam and Simon of Bonnington, when Walter Scott ‘in Essenside’ (son of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden) was murdered. Simon ‘Sym of Bonninton’ (d.bef. 1622) son of Adam of Bonnington and brother of John and Adam. He succeeded his father as Laird of Bonnington in 1607. The designation may originally have come from the lands elsewhere (e.g. near Kilmarnock), but it is clear that he possessed Bonnington in Peeblesshire, with a charter of James V as heir to his father in 1607. He signed the Scott clan bond in 1589. He is recorded in documents relating to the lands of Bonnington in 1591–1607. In 1593 he purchased ‘Ernisheuch’ and ‘Singlie’ in Ettrick Forest, confirmed in 1607. He is recorded as a witness in Selkirk in 1594. In 1594/5 he is recorded as being son of Adam, and in 1611 he is confirmed as grandson of Robert and Katherine Boyle, when he was served as heir to his grandmother. In 1596/7 he accompanied Robert of Thistlestone in an attack on the ploughmen of lands near Peebles. In 1604 he had a charter for the lands of ‘Espiehoip’ on Ettrick. In 1611 he had a court case against Carruthers of Holmends. Also in 1611 he was served heir to his grandmother Katherine Boyle. He was also one of the signatories of the bond of 1612 to keep peace on the Border and also on a ‘retour’ panel for Tweedy of Drumelzier. In 1612 ‘Simeon Scott of Bonytoun’ was ordered to appear at Melrose to answer for the ‘horrible slaughter of Walter Scott’ of Tushielaw, which may be connected with the origin of the ballad ‘The Dowie Dens of Yarrow’. In 1616–17 he was one of the men said to have accompanied his brother John when Walter Scott ‘in Essenside’ was murdered while fishing on the Ettrick, according to criminal complaints made by his wife. The 2 murders may be confused in the re-telling. In 1617 and 1618 (and perhaps covering the period 1611–29) he had a court case with Sir William Scott of Harden over the value of the lands of Bonnington and others, presumably because of a debt; in 1617 a charter of King James VI granted Bonnington to William, heir to Harden, with a value of his lands given as £4985 6s. 6d., redeemable within 7 years. His son and heir was Robert, but may have predeceased him. He had at least one daughter, Margaret, who married William, son of John Burnet of Barns (near Peebles). He was succeeded in the lands of Bonnington by his brother John, and then by William Burnet of Barns, his grandson, who inherited the lands of Bonnington in 1627. Andrew, surgeon in Edinburgh also had a claim on Bonnington in 1624 and must have been a nephew or other close relative. His brother John was served heir to his land of ‘Ernisheuche’ and Singlie in 1624. Simon ‘Syme of Newton in Hawick’ (16th/17th C.) recorded as a juror for the Commissioners’ Court of 1622. He could be the same man as the son of Walter of Newton who held the benefice of Hassendean. Probably the same Simon in Newton was served heir to his brother Walter in the lands of Easter Craik in 1618, as well as Ladhope, ‘Alterhous’ and ‘Quithihope’ in Ettrick Forest. It is unclear whether his lands were Chamberlain Newton or a different Newton. Simon (d.bef. 1643) brother of William of Chamberlain Newton. He is recorded on 1643 when Mariota Scott, daughter of his brother William, was served as his heir. He may be the same as Simon ‘of Newton’. Simon (18th/19th C.) resident of 8 Abercromby Place in Edinburgh when he subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. It seems likely that he had a direct connection with Hawick. Stephen (15th C.) recorded in the Exchequer Rolls in the 1440s and 50s. He was explicitly mentioned in 1440 in the Aberdeen area, in 1441 for work at Edinburgh Castle, for collecting the customs in Edinburgh in 1443, was paid his fee in 1444, 1445 and 1446 and received payment from Robert Moffat in Edinburgh in 1454. It is possible that he is the same as Stephen of Muirhouse and Castlelaw. Stephen of Muirhouse, Castlelaw and Burrellands (15th C.) younger son of Robert of Rankleburn and brother of Sir Walter of Buccleuch. He may be the Stephen who was witness in 1431 to the transfer of Heap from James Langlands of that Ilk to Walter Scott of Buccleuch (if so this was his brother); John Scott is also listed beside him and so possibly a close relative. He may be the Stephen appointed as a procurator by Ellen Rule of Primside in 1439 when she resigned her lands to their superior, Archibald, Earl of Douglas and probably the ‘Stephanus Scott’ who witnessed a charter for Thomas Wiley of Bonnington (in Peeblesshire) in 1442. He is probably the Stephen who witnessed a charter for the lands of Borthwicke in 1444 (with Sir Walter also a witness). In 1445 (probably, since the date of 1400 on the document is wrong) he requested an ‘instrument of transumpt’ relating to the lands of Grahamslaw in the Barony of Eckford; he was there described as brother and procurator of Sir Walter of Buccleuch and listed as ‘Stephanus Scott de Castellaw’ (there are several places of this name, so it is unclear which one this is). The Robert Scott who also signed this document may have been a close relative. In 1447 he was witness to a document relating to the ‘Cusingland’ involving Margaret Cousin, wife of Simon Routledge, and his brother Sir Walter. He obtained the Burrellands (in Eckford Parish) in 1448, after they were resigned by John Burrell; there he is transcribed ‘of le Castellaw’. In 1448 he witnessed the sasine for the lands of Birkwood and Burnflat for his brother, Sir Walter. He had a crown charter for the lands of ‘Muirhous’ in 1450; these are lands in the Barony of Crichton (somewhere near Pathhead in Midlothian, and not one of the Muirhouses elsewhere). In 1450 he also had a charter for the lands of ‘Castelcary, et de Weltoonne’ in Stirlingshire; this suggests that the ‘Weltoon’ associated with him may not have been Wilton at all, and that ‘Castelaw’ was actually ‘Castle Cary’ near Cumbernauld (adjacent to Walton farm). These lands had been forfeited by Robert Livingstone and were confirmed in 1450/1. He is probably the ‘Stephanus Scot’ who witnessed the charter exchanging Milsington with Heap in 1451. In 1453 he was listed as ‘of the Muirhouse’ when he renounced the lands of Castelcary and the Weltoone to Henry, son of Robert Livingstone of Linlithgow; it seems likely that the ‘Castelaw’ sometimes connected with his name is ‘Castelcary’ in the former Sheriffdom of Stirling (and the Hawick connection with Castle Cary in Somerset is just a coincidence). An instrument of 1454 relating to these lands is one of the first documents known to have been signed in Hawick; he may be the same ‘Stephen Scot of Muirehouse’ mentioned there, who ‘asked instruments’. He is recorded as being ‘of Muirhouse’ when he witnessed a document of the Scotts of Bucceuch in 1453 and also in a document of 1454 (one of the first documents known to have been signed in Hawick). He is probably the Stephen who witnessed a document for the Kers of Altonburn in 1454/5. He was one of Scott of Bucceuch’s Bailies in Eckford. He also had a charter of the lands of ‘Welton’, which were probably the lands of Walton adjacent to Castlecary near the modern Cumbernauld; however, the family also had a connection with Walton Parish, which is confusing. The next recorded Laird of ‘Welton’ was John, who was probably his son or grandson. His son and heir Robert witnessed the sasine for the exchange of Milsington and Wester Heap in 1453; he is recorded as Robert of Muirhouse in 1482. He witnessed a document for Sir Walter of Bucceuch in 1456. In 1462 he had a loan of 100 merks from Robert Muir of Rowallan, with the lands of Dryden, Commonside and Upper Harwood given in security. This loan was discharged by Robert of ‘Dogehauch’ in 1477, probably his same son Robert. He had a sasine for the lands of Muirhouse in 1463. Stephen (15th/16th C.) one of the ‘bailies in that part’ appointed by Patrick, Earl of Bothwell in 1504 to infeft Walter of Bucceuch in his father’s lands in Annandale. The others were Walter of Howpasley, together with William and William’s son Robert. Perhaps the same ‘Stephanus Scot’ was assigned the farm of Mount Common and steading of Deephope in 1492 and 1499 (and if so, then he was possibly related to the William who previously leased that farm); he is still recorded holding the lease of Mountcommon in 1503 and had the lease renewed in 1510, along with Deephope. Probably the same Stephen served as surety at the Justice-aire in Selkirk in 1494/5. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Stephens. Stephen (16th C.) probably younger son of John of Roberston and Walls, and brother of Walter of Robertson. In 1526 he is listed along with George as a son of John ‘in the Valys’ on the list of Borders men pardoned for their earlier attack on the Earl of Arran. He is described as ‘in Valis’ (probably ‘Walls’ in Dryfesdale, north of Lockerbie) in 1528 when he witnessed the document giving the decision over the disputed succession of the lands of Borthaugh, and in 1535 when he purchased lands at Robertson and Howcleuch from his ‘brother-german’ Walter Scott of Robertson. His son John was also named in the charter. The witnesses were Michael Scott of Aikwood, Sir William Gordon (or Brydoun), Chaplain, William Scott of Fauldshepe, Gilbert Scott and Sir Ninian ‘Bridin’, Chaplain and Notary Public. He was probably succeeded by his son John of Robertson. Stephen (16th C.) witness to a confirming charter to William Scott of the lands of Harden in 1535. He is described as ‘in Hoip’. He may also have been the Stephen who witnessed a sasine for the lands of Meikledale in 1537 (along with George Scott and several Armstrongs and Littles). He may have been related to the Scotts of Whitehaugh (and Heap) or else was the same as Stephen ‘in Valis’. Stephen (16th C.) joint owner of a particate of land (along with John Short and Janet Lidderdale) on the south side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. Perhaps the same Stephen was also listed as holder of half a partizane on the north side. He may be the same as one of the other Stephens. Stephen (16th C.) recorded in the register of the Privy Council in 1574, when he was surety for someone. It is unclear who he was. Steven (16th C.) Hawick man recorded as ‘Stevin’ in a 1558 document where he is stated as being the father of Alexander who sold land in one of the earliest known sasines relating to Hawick. It is possible he was the same man recorded owning pieces of land in the 1537 Charter. Steven (16th/17th C.) recorded in Branxholmetown in 1611 when he was part of the assize at the Justice Court on Jedburgh. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Stewart (??–??) writer of ‘East Bank Church, Hawick: Its origin and history, 1773–1923’ (1923). Susan (d.1806) daughter of the deceased ‘Docter Scott Newton’. Her death is recorded in Hawick. It is unclear who her father was and whether he was a doctor or the name was a nickname; however, she was probably part of the Scotts of Newton. Thomas (12th/13th C.) recorded as ‘Thomas de Colevilla cognomento Scot’ during the reign of King William the Lion. He was clearly of the surname ‘Coleville’, but for some reason had also gained the appellation ‘Scot’. His name appears in many charters of around 1200, most undated, and his seal bears the inscription ‘SIGILL. THOME DE COLLEVILLA SCOTTI’. In 1223 he was already deceased when the Abbey of Vaudney in Lincolnshire passed on his gift of lands in Ayrshire to Melrose Abbey. It seems unlikely that he was related to any Thomas (15th C.) listed in 1248/9 when he was the attorney of Devorguilla, wife of John Baliol. Thomas (13th C.) recorded in 1255/6 when he was imprisoned at Northampton for trespassing in King Henry’s vivarium. The 12 men in his bailliary until the King’s justices arrived. Thomas there was commanded to deliver him to Sheriff there was commanded to deliver him to Thomas (13th C.) recorded in 1261 in London. He was pardoned at the insistence of Margaret Queen of Scotland, for the murder of ‘Thomas le lung’ in London. Thomas (13th C.) listed as ‘le Escot’ in 1272, when he gave half a mark for an assize in Suffolk. Thomas (13th C.) recorded in 1273 as ‘Thomas Scot, messenger’ when he was paid by the English court for expenses transmitting letters to the King and Queen of Scotland. He may be the same as ‘Thomas Scotus’ listed on a jury in Warkworth, Northumberland in 1269 or ‘Thomam le Scot’ (and variants) listed several times on the 1279 assize rolls of Northumberland, some entries related to Alnwick Abbey. Thomas (13th C.) merchant of Newcastle recorded in 1302 as ‘Thomas Scot’, when canvas was purchased from him as part of an order of goods for Edward I’s fortress in Scotland. Thomas (14th/15th C.) Bailie of Haddington. He is recorded in the Exchequer Rolls several times in the period 1412–31. Thomas (15th C.) listed in 1463/4 among the local men who were rewarded by the King for assisting in the capture of John Douglas of Balveny. He is surely related to others who were named (John, Robert of Todshaw, Simon and ‘niger’ Walter), but it is unclear how. Thomas of Roberton (15th C.) said to have had a daughter who married George of Synton. However, there is no evidence that any such man actually existed (and hence presumably it was the daughter of a different Scott of Roberton). Thomas (15th C.) recorded having remission for the fine of a shiel in the Eaststead of Gildhouse in 1479. He may have been related to later Scotts who were associated with Gildhouse. Thomas of Bush (15th C.) recorded in 1494/5 when he and his son Adam were separately fined for non-appearance at the Justice-aire held in Selkirk. He is recorded being ‘de Bus’ and was probably an ancestor of later Scotts of Bush in Ewesdale. Thomas (15th/16th C.) brother of Andrew, the pair were tenants in ‘northsheilis’ (probably North Shielis) in Peeblesshire. In 1498 Andrew was fined for his non-appearance, but later he was allowed to ‘compone’ for the crime of mutilating James Davidson in ‘brachio’ (i.e. the arm). Thomas (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1502 as being already one of the King’s rebels, along with Gilbert Rutherford and Thomas Graham. Robert Rutherford had remission for associating with them in their involvement in the murder of Patrick Hepburn. Thomas (15th/16th C.) son of Walter of Headshaw and brother of Philip of Headshaw. In 1510 he was charged with the murder of John Murray of Falahill, with Andrew Ker of Gateshaw implicated in the same crime. Failing to appear at the Jedburgh court he was denounced as a rebel. He was represented by William in Hawick, George in Goldielands and David in Whitehaugh, who were fined for his non-appearance. The goods of William Scott in Fenwick and John Scott in Haining were used as further insurance. This suggests that all of these men were fairly closely related. Thomas ‘Tom’ (16th C.) listed as ‘Thome Scot’ among the bailies of the Sheriff of Roxburgh on the Precept of Chancery (probably in 1532) for William Scott of Hassendean retaining his properties. He may be the same as another contemporary Thomas. Thomas (16th C.) owner of 3 partícates of land on the south side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. Thomas of Pitgormo (1479-1539) 2nd son of William of Bawlor. He became a judge in 1532, in place of his father, and was made Justice Clerk in 1535, being a favourite of James V. He is recorded being of ‘Pettgorno’ in the Exchequer Rolls. He was auditor of the Exchequer in at least the years 1537 and 1538. He married Agnes Moncreiff and was succeeded by his son Thomas. Thomas (16th C.) described as a Burgess of Hawick when he was a witness to the 1540 resignation of the lands of Nether Harden from Simon Scott of Fenwick to William Scott of Harden. He is also witness to a confirmation of this in 1556, where he is described as ‘in Hawick’. Probably the same Thomas ‘in Hawick’ was on the 1553/4 panel for the inheritance of Walter Scott of Branxholme and Buccleuch as heir to his grandfather. It is possible he was related (perhaps grandfather) to Walter, ‘burges in Hawik, sonne to wmquell Thomas Scot in Hawik, zonner’, who witnessed a document in 1585. Thomas (16th C.) recorded as a servant of Sir John Kerr of Ferniehirst in 1557. It was complained that he and another servant had been beaten at the Kirklands of Bedrule by a group of Turnbuls of Bedrule and others. Thomas of Haining (16th C.) son of Robert of Haining. He was a minor when he succeeded, with his uncle Walter acting as his tutor in 1532. He is recorded as being of Haining in 1538 when he held a sasine for the lands. He is also listed in 1557 among the Scotts who descended on the Kirk of the Lowes to try to kill Sir Peter Cranston as part of some feud. He was probably related to some of the other Scotts who were in the band of about 200, from Allanhaugh, Burnfoot, Harden, Howpasley, Synton and Thirlestane. In 1561 he was (along with Walter of Synton and Nicholas Rutherford of Hundalee) cited by the Privy Council for non-appearance. Also in 1561 he was among Border Lairds who appeared before the Queen to give names of those guilty of theft. He was listed among the men who appeared before the Privy Council in a promise to end the feud between the Kers and the Scotts in 1562. In 1564/5 he was listed as one of the 4 curators of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch in the bond with the Kers, and was one of the signatories. He was on the assize of 1564 related to the murder of David Scott of Hassendean. He acted as a bailie for the Commendator of Melrose in a sasine of 1567. In 1567 he represented Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme in a marriage contract for Sir Walter’s sister Elizabeth. In 1568 he was granted the lands of Elliston by the Commendator of Melrose and was mentioned in a sasine of Crook in the same year. His son Robert was involved in a dispute over Elliston in 1576, with John, minister of Selkirk. Thomas ‘Tom the Stour’ (16th C.) recorded as ‘Thome Scot callit the Stowir’ in 1569 when he entered a pledge for himself and all the Scotts of Ewesdale (excluding those already under the pledge of Andrew Armstrong of Gingills). Later in 1569 he was recorded being held in Ravensheugh Castle as pledge for ‘Johanne Scott callit the Braid; Arche Scott of the Buss; Thome Scott of Blakhall’. He was clearly a prominent Scott of Ewesdale at that time. He is ‘called the Stowr’ in the register of the Privy Council for 1573 when he was surety for someone. He could be related to the Jock ‘Stowre of Quinscleuch’ recorded in 1598. His nickname may have referred to ‘stour’ as in a violent conflict. Thomas (16th C.) tailor in Edinburgh. He was listed in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch being owed money for an account. He could be the Thomas, Burgess of Edinburgh, who ‘undertakes surety’ according to the register of the Privy Council in 1577. Thomas of Whitehaughbrae (16th C.) possibly son of Walter of Synton and Stiches and younger brother of John of Synton and Robert of Stiches. His mother was probably Margaret Riddell. He was ancestor of the Scotts of Whitehaughbrae, although it is unclear if he owned the lands himself. His son and heir was Walter of Whitehaughbrae. Thomas (16th C.) recorded as a witness to a charter for Aberbrothick Monastery in 1546. He was probably a cleric of some sort there. Thomas ‘Jock’s Tom’ (16th C.) mentioned in the last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme in 1574. He is listed among those owed money as ‘Thome Scot callit Jok Thome’. There is a good chance he was from Hawick, based on the others he is listed alongside. He was presumably a tradesman or merchant of some sort. Thomas (16th C.) brother of ‘Wat’s Jock’, he was a Burgess in Hawick. In 1585 he was one of the witnesses to the bond in which Sir Walter of Branxholme and Robert of Allanhaugh resolved a family feud. His father was presumably Walter. Thomas ‘Tom’ (16th C.) tenant at Blackhall in the Ewes valley. In 1569 he was listed as ‘Thome Scott of Blakhall’, along with John ‘the Braid’ and Airchie ‘of the Buss’, as those men for whom Tom ‘callit the Stowir’ was held as pledge in Ravensheugh Castle. He was recorded in the 1585 remission for last crimes of men whose superior was Lord Maxwell. His son John is also listed. Another son Tom was recorded in 1611. Thomas ‘Tom’ (16th C.) recorded as being ‘Thome of the Flower’, one of the Scott chiefs of Ewesdale on Monipennie’s c.1594 compilation. He is listed along with ‘Ante the Busse’. It is unclear where his lands were, but it is possible he is the same as Tom in Blackhall. Thomas (16th/17th C.) listed by Scott of Satchells as being ‘in Wester-groundiston’ (i.e. Wester Groundistone) and among the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of the house of Buccleuch. He was said to have been the brother of William of Whitehaugh, son of Walter of Whitehaugh and descended from Scott of Buccleuch. Thomas (16th/17th C.) brother of William of Hundlehope, and tenant of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. He was a younger son of James of Hundlehope. He is probably the ‘Thomas Scot, callit Thome of Hundel- lishop’ who witnessed the bond between Sir Walter of Buccleuch and Robert of Allanhaugh in Hawick and Selkirk in 1585. In 1602 he was among a group of Scotts who attacked Adam Veitch’s lands at ‘Fechane’. Others listed were Scotts of Thirlestane, Bonnington, Gamescleuch and Bowhill. He and his brother attacked the same place again in 1603. He is recorded having 6 men well horsed at the Weapon Show of 1627 in Peeblesshire. Thomas (16th/17th C.) servitor to ‘Lord Bucleuch’ listed about 1610 among supporters of Scott of Thirlestane in their feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw. He could be the same as one of the contemporary Thomases. Thomas of Salensis (d.c.1636) possibly son of Andrew of Salensis, who was on the Carlisle Raid of 1596. In 1621 he inherited Whitehaughbrae from Walter of Whitehaughbrae, who was a near relative (son of his grandfather’s brother, hence first cousin, once removed). He had at least 2 sons: William, to whom he gave possession of Salensis during his lifetime; and Andrew, to whom he gave possession of Whitehaughbrae, also while he was still alive. He passed both properties to Sir William Scott of Harden. Thomas (16th/17th C.) referred to being ‘called of Ormestoun’ in 1610 when he was part of a group of Scotts charging Langlands and other Scotts to find caution in 1610, with the other side petitioning for the penalties to be reduced. Additionally, the Scotts of Harden, Whitslade and Satchells were also bound not to harm him and his associates and there was a similar bond in 1610 for Andrew Riddell of that Ilk and his son not to harm them. His brother Alexander was also mentioned in 1610. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Thomases. Thomas ‘Tom’ (16th/17th C.) son of Thomas in Blackhall. In 1611 some men stood as caution for him at court in Dumfries. Thomas ‘Tom’ (16th/17th C.) tenant at Nether Braidlie, although whether this is Broadlee in the Borthwick (or in Ashkirk Parish) or Braidlie on Hermitage is unclear. His son was ‘Jock the Suckler’, who was involved in the 1615 slaughter of the Laird of Drumlanrig’s sheep at Howpasley. Thomas of Todrig (d.c.1653) younger son of Walter ‘the Hawke’ of Whitslade and brother of Sir Walter, 2nd Laird of Whitslade. Note, however, that some histories give conflicting accounts of the connection between the Scotts of Whitslade and Todrig. He probably purchased the estate of Todrig from the older branch of Scotts of Todrig, perhaps around 1630. He and his wife had a charter from John Hay, Lord Yester for Todrig in 1635. He is mentioned in 1637 when his son Robert became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He died a ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. He was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire in 1643, 1644, 1646, 1648 and 1649. In the early 1650s he and his son Thomas are described as Thomas Scott elder and younger of Toderick. He married Jean Pringle (possibly a second marriage), with their ‘tocher’ to the Parson of Ancrum recorded in 1643. His children included: Thomas, who succeeded; Walter; Robert; and Janet (who may be the Janet, 2nd daughter of Scott of Todrig, who married Robert Elliot of Larriston). It seems that he is sometimes confounded with his son Thomas, who was served as his heir in 1653. Thomas of Nether Bonchester (d.1680) brother of Walter, ‘Wat o the Dykes’. He was given Nether Bonchester by his nephew William of Galalaw, after the death of his brother Walter (1st Laird), following some previous family agreement. He was involved in transactions with John Kerr of Grange in the 1630s relating to feu duties. He is recorded in a document of wadset for the lands of Appotside in 1654, when he was described as ‘bailie in that part’. In the 1663 Land Tax Rolls he paid tax on £180 for lands in Abbotrule. He had 3 sons: Walter of Nether Bonchester; George, progenitor of the Scotts of Falla; and John, who in 1684 was among those declared as fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. He also had 2 daughters: Christian; and Janet. It is possible that he died in confinement because of his Covenant principles. Thomas of Todrig (d.c.1691) eldest son of Thomas. He was served heir to his father in 1655 and is recorded as Laird by 1656. He was fined in 1662, after the Restoration, for being a Covenant supporter. He was appointed a Justice of the Peace for Selkirkshire in 1663. He paid the land tax in Ashkirk Parish in 1678, his estate being valued at £552. In 1682 he is listed in the testament of Robert Pringle of Clifton, possibly his brother-in-law. His sons Walter and William are also mentioned. He was on the Commission of Supply for Selkirkshire in 1678 and 1685 (as ‘younger’, which may indicate this was his son), and in 1690 along with Walter (presumably his son). He was probably the Laird of Todrig listed among heritors of the Regality of Melrose in 1682, along with his brother Robert. He probably married twice, having at least 3 children with his first wife, and his 2nd wife being Janet, daughter of Robert Pringle of Clifton. His children included: Walter, who succeeded; Thomas (b.1639); William of Milsington (b.1645), first of that branch; Robert (b.c.1660), who leased Borthwickshiels and Roberton from Gideon Scott of Highchester in 1696, and witnessed the 1700 marriage contract between William Elliot of Harwood and his niece Jean Scott; Marion (or Mary), who married Dr. Rutherford of Jedburgh; and Jane, who may have married a Scott of Bailielee; and possibly Ann, who died unmarried. Thomas (17th C.) tenant of Hummelknowes Mill, which would have Scotts for perhaps the next 200 years. He is mentioned as one of a large number of people accused of stealing a wallet in Hawick in 1642. It is unclear if he was directly related to John Scott, who came from the Rulewater millers and married the widow Henderson, who was tenant at Hummelknowes Mill. Thomas of Whitehaugh (17th C.) appears to be the proprietor of the estate in a list of communicants of the area in 1650. John, William and James (listed under him) may have been his adult sons or brothers. It is unclear how he may have been related to the other Scotts of Whitehaugh. ‘Leddie whithaugh’, who was taxed for 2 hearths on the west-side of Hawick in 1694, could possibly be his widow. Thomas of Whitslade (d.1671) 3rd son of Sir Walter, he succeeded in 1651, his elder brothers Robert and Sir Walter having no male heirs. In 1647 he was served heir to the lands of Whitslade, Redfordgreen, Drybleuchshire and Ettrickhouse, previously belonging to his brothers. There was a further service of heirs for him in 1655, for the lands of Whitslade, as well as Drybleuchshire, Redfordgreen, Ettrickhouse and Dalgleish, mentioned ‘feu duty and augmentation’. However, he sold the Stiches estate to Walter Chisholme about 1660, ending two centuries of ownership by the Scotts of Whitslade. He was recorded in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663 (presumably referring to an earlier period) paying £214 for Stiches and £156 for lands in Lilliesleaf Parish. He fought alongside his brother Sir Walter at Inverkeithing in 1651 and was wounded there. Like his uncles Sir Walter and Robert before him, he was Member of Parliament for Selkirk, serving 1661–63. In 1663 he was appointed as a Justice of the Peace for Selkirkshire. Also in 1663 he witnessed the marriage contract of Anne, Duchess of Buccleuch, and was listed there as one of her curators. He was probably the Scott of Whitslade who entered into a teind agreement with the curators of the Duke of Buccleuch in the late 1660s. In 1666 he was one of the ‘curators’ of Francis of Davington. In 1613 he married Janet, daughter of Walter Scott (‘Auld Wat’) of Harden. In 1655 he secondly married Janet Mitchell, who was probably a widow. He is probably also the Thomas Scott of Whitslade who married ‘Ladie Ednum’ in the Canongate Kirk in 1662. His children included: George, who became a surgeon’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1663 (but must have died before him); Walter (b.1657), who also died before him; Thomas, who succeeded; and Marie. It is said that his death was greatly lamented and inspired the verses that appeared in Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ in 1784, probably written by Capt. Walter Scott of Satchells (even although the title would make the poem seem to be about the earlier death of his brother Robert). Thomas of Wester Essensiud (17th C.) recorded as owner of Wester Essensiud in 1643, valued at £400. He was also paid tax on £540 in Ash Kirk Parish according to the 1663 Land Tax Rolls. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts, and he may be the same person as one of the other Thomas (e.g. the younger Thomas of Todrig). Thomas (17th C.) of Hawick Parish. He married Isobel ‘Cowtert’ or ‘Coutert’ (probably Coltart) and their children included: John (b.1676); Andrew (b.1678); William (b.1680); and Bessie (b.1683). The baptism witnesses in 1678 were James Deans and William Scott and in 1680 were William Scott, ‘Flex’ and John Scott in Whiteyetts. Thomas (17th C.) tailor in Hawick. In 1684 his brother Walter was among those declared fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopaliam. Thomas (17th C.) servant at Hilliesland. In 1684 he was on a list of men declared as fugitives for frequenting conventicles. Thomas (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was ‘Jenet Lytle’. Their son John was born in 1687, with witnesses Henry Scott and Robert Scott (so possibly relatives). Thomas (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish who married Jean Hislop. Their children included: Thomas (b.1687); and Marion (b.1690). The witnesses in 1690 were Thomas Wallace and Adam Hislop (who was probably related to his wife). Thomas of Synton (17th C.) recorded in 1690. However, he was not the Laird at that time, so was either tenant there or was Laird of neighbouring lands. Thomas (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He farmed on one of the farms of the Knowesouth estate. Thomas (17th C.) resident at Winningtonrig in Cavers Parish in 1694 according to the Hearth Tax rolls. He could be the Thomas ‘in Roull’ whose wife’s will, Janet Porteous, was recorded in 1685. Thomas (17th C.) recorded on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls at Borthaugh. Thomas (17th C.) listed as tenant at ‘Bridiholl’ (probably Brieryhill) in Wilton Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. In 1700 he was ‘in Bridrihole’ when he (along with smith Robert Miller) witnessed a baptism for William Riddell of Wilton Parish. Perhaps the same Thomas was one of the elders mentioned enacting business for Wilton Session in 1706. Thomas (17th C.) tenant in Bygate in Castleton Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Thomas (17th C.) resident of the east-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. Probably the same Thomas was listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Thomas ‘Laird’ (17th C.) recorded in 1687 when he was fined, along with a group of other men, for clandestinely removing their sheep from the Town’s flock, without paying the Town Herd. He leased part of the Kirklands of Hawick from the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1692. He was a resident of the west-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. He was also listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He may have been father to James ‘Laird’, whose first-born child was Thomas; however, one record suggests that James’ father was John (also called ‘Laird’), who may hence have been his brother. He may have been the Thomas who married Janet Clerk and had children: James (b.1674); John (b.1676); Walter and William (b.1678); Andrew (b.1680); Jane (b.1684); and Robert (b.1686). Thomas (17th C.) resident of the ‘netherend’ of Hassendean Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Probably the same Thomas was ‘in hastenden’ in baptismal records of 1683 and 1688. He married Isobel Waugh and their children (baptised in Roberton Parish, when it contained Hassendean) included: Robert (b.1683); and Bessie (b.1688). The witnesses in 1683 were John Noble and Patrick Dodds and in 1688 were William Waugh (who is surely related to his wife) and William Young. He is probably the Thomas who (along with John Dodds) witnessed a Roberton baptism in 1687 for Walter Turnbull. Thomas of Whitslade (d.c.1695) son of Thomas. He was probably a minor when he succeeded (as 6th Laird) in 1671, since there is a record of discharge to Sir William of Harden and his other curators in 1672. He is recorded writing to his cousin Sir Gideon Scott in 1674 about permission to cut peats. He witnessed a baptism in Hawick in 1676 for William Laing. In 1677 he was served heir to his father’s lands in Innerleithen. In 1678 he paid the land tax for the Whitslade estate (valued at £1048 10s), as well as paying for the lands of Hermiston (£156) in Lilliesleaf Parish. He is probably also the Laird of Whitslade whose lands in Selkirkshire were valued at £2168 in that year. He was a Commissioner in Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire for raising money for the King in 1678 and was on the Commission of Supply for both counties in 1685 and 1690. He is also recorded in bonds of 1682 and on a list of heritors of the Regality of Melrose for that year, as well as in a horning against all Melrose heritors in 1690. He was living at Whitslade in 1688 when he is mentioned in Capt. Walter Scot’s metrical family history. Before 1688 he married Jane, daughter of Sir John Hay of Park. They had 7 sons: Thomas, who succeeded in 1695; John, who later sold Whitslade; Walter, recorded in the 1720s in a dispute with Walter of Harden, and in 1734 when he was excommunicated; Robert (d.c.1757), a surgeon in Hawick; William, a physician in Worcester; Francis, 6th son, who became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1708; and James, who became a goldsmith’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1709. It is said that only the eldest son had any surviving children. His widow may be the ‘Lady Whitslade’ recorded in 1707 as liferenter of part of the Roxburghshire lands formerly held by the Laird of Whitslade. He is described briefly in the lines on the death of his father and uncles that appeared in Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ (1784) – ‘Of beauty grave, and courage brave; Although his years be young, There’s none on earth can parallel Old Whitslade – but his son’ [CWS]. Thomas of Chapel (17th/18th C.) paid tax on 7 hearths for himself and his tenants in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1694. He was on the Committee of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1698. He was also one of the Roxburghshire heritors who petitioned Parliament in 1700. He must have been related to the earlier Walter of Chapel. Thomas of Whitslade (d.bef. 1714) son of Thomas, he was 7th Laird. In 1695 he was served heir to his father as well as to his grandfather Thomas in the lands of ‘Phanops’ (possibly Phaup in Ettrick) in the Regality of Melrose and in 1696 was served heir to lands in Innerleithen. He was witness to the marriage contract between William Elliot of Harwood and Jean Scott of Todrig in 1700. In 1704 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Scott of Ancrum. They had 2 daughters: Elizabeth, who married William McDougall, brother of the Laird of Makerstoun; and Janet, who died unmarried. Having no male issue, he was succeeded by his younger brother John (who sold Whitslade). His widow remarried to Sir David Murray of Stewart of Ancrum. He was living at Northhouse in 1702 when he married Helen Allan. There are lots of children baptised in Cavers who could be theirs. Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident of Castleton Parish. He was at Borthwickshiel in 1710 when his daughter Janet was baptised. He may be the Thomas who married Bessie Richardson in Roberton in 1702 or the Thomas who married Isabel Scott in Roberton in 1705. Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was at West Middle in 1716 when he married Janet Scott. Perhaps the same couple were at Brieryards in Wilton Parish in 1724 when their daughter Helen was baptised; the witnesses were John Scott and William Easton. Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident of Synton Mill. He married Agnes Taylor and their children included: George (b.1714); Magdalen (b.1719); and Robert (b.1721). Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident ‘in Kirkhouses’ in Ashkirk Parish. In 1724 the Parish gave him 14s. He was probably a pauper at that time and was probably related to earlier Scotts of Kirkhouses. Thomas of Todrig (d.1753) only son of Walter of Todrig. He was the 6th and last Laird of Todrig (although he is also sometimes confounded with his son Thomas). He was educated at Glasgow University. He was ‘younger’ of Todrig in 1708 when he had a marriage contract with Mary, 2nd daughter of Robert Scott of Scotsbank. In 1713 he brought a case against several other Scotts relating to a 1669 bond of ‘Auchter Auter Struther’. He was one of the petitioners in support of the lands of Whitslade being ‘disjoined’ in 1714. He is probably the Laird of Todrig recorded in Hawick in 1732 when the town ‘litter’ was rented for his son’s funeral. In 1731 he signed the marriage contract of William Elliot of Lodgegill and Jean Elliot of Harwood. He is said to have lived too liberally, having to sell Todrig in 1746 and Wester Essendine a few years earlier. His children with Mary Scott included: Walter (b.c.1710), who was in the Horse Guards; Robert (b.1714), who died young; Thomas (b.1717); John (b.1718), possibly died at sea; William (b.1719); possibly Patrick, who also went to sea and died unmarried; Janet (1710-67), who married Mr. Howie, surgeon in Selkirk and secondly Rev. David Brown of Selkirk; and Elizabeth, who was still unmarried in 1783. He secondly married Jane, sister to John Elliot of Peel (who must have been a cousin of some sort), widow of Thomas Pringle of Kirton; they had no children together. He died in Selkirk and is buried in Ashkirk. He was the progenitor of the Scotts of Stokoe in Northumberland. Thomas (17th/18th C.) son of William ‘in Wilsington’ (presumably Milsington) who witnessed a document for the Eliots of Harwood in 1694. If the date is correct, then he would have been the eldest son, but if so must have died before his brother William, who succeeded to the tenancy of Milsington. Thomas (18th C.) married Agnes Scott in Wilton Parish in 1731. Their children, baptised in Hawick, included James (b.1732) and Margaret (b.1736). Thomas (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Wester Alemoor in 1734. He was probably related to the other Scotts who lived at Alemoor around the same time (specifically Gideon, Walter and William). His children included Walter (b.1734). Thomas of Falnash (d.1779) son of Robert, grandson of ‘Auld Falnash’ and younger brother of Gideon, from whom he succeeded to the Lairdship. He sold Falnash, along with ‘Merrynees’ (i.e. Merry Naze) and other lands to the Duke of Buccleuch in about 1760. He may be the ‘Dr. Thomas Scott of Fanash’ who kept a lark and a song thrush in cages in his parlour (according to a letter by A.C. Hall in 1831). It is also possible that he was the same man as Rev. Thomas, minister of the Relief Kirk in Auchtermuchty. Thomas of Stonedge (d.1786) probably son of William of Stonedge. He appears to have served as Chamberlain for the Duke of Buccleuch for the Liddesdale lands in 1725 (although he must have been quite young at the time). He was already referred to as ‘of Stonedge’ in 1731, when he signed the marriage contract of William Elliot of Lodgegill and Jean Elliot of Harwood, although he may not yet have succeeded to his father. He was a great improver of his lands, having dykes built and plantations laid out. He was a heritor of Hobkirk Parish, and described as ‘late of Hobbsburn’ when he lived at Grange in Edinburgh. He may also earlier have been described as ‘in Wauchope’. In 1741 he had an elaborately carved through-stone erected in Hobkirk kirkyard; this was in commemoration of Scott of Wauchope (probably his grandfather, Walter). He appears to have sold Forkins to William Elliot of Wolfelee in 1757. He was recorded as a Commissioner for both Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire in 1761. In 1767 he was recorded as tenant of Wauchope, like earlier members of his family. He was one of the Commissioners appointed in the court case regarding the division of Hawick Common in 1767. He was a lawyer who gave evidence at the trial regarding the Division of the Common and then was appointed by Lord Advocate Montgomery to make the actual Division itself. He suffered an unpleasant experience at the hands of some Hawick residents as a consequence, describing that ‘the mob were very riotous, pelted the chaise I was in with the surveyors’. However, he was also made an Honorary Burgess. He was listed as a voter in Roxburghshire in 1780. He sold Stonedge to Robert Lisle of Acton, although the sale was never completed. In 1732 he married Margaret, daughter of William Elliot, 2nd Laird of Borthwickbrae, and in 1758 purchased part of Borthwickbrae for himself. In the 1785 Land Tax Rolls it is recorded that he was liferenting about half of Borthwickbrae and the west part of Howcleuch from John Elliot of Borthwickbrae. His children included: William (b.1737). Other children baptised in Hobkirk Parish who may have been his were Margaret (b.1733), Susan (b.1734), Janet (b.1736) and Thomas (b.1736). His last will and testament is dated 1778 and he died at Grange, described as ‘late of Stonedge’. Thomas (b.1717) younger son of Thomas, last Laird of Todrig. He went to sea in 1740, received several wounds and lost an eye. Around 1750 he entered into service with the East India Company, remaining 13 or 14 years. He later lived in retirement, still being alive in 1783, but without issue. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. he was recorded at Galalaw in 1751. He married Isobel Blyth in Wilton Parish in 1741. Their children included John (b.1742), William (b.1744), John (again, b.1746), Isabel (b.1748) and Elizabeth (b.1751). In 1751 the witnesses were James Dryden and Walter Scott. Thomas (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He witnessed baptisms in 1742 for workman William Nichol, in 1745 for weaver James Roger and for carrier John Pott (along with shoemaker John). His name is given after John’s, and hence he was probably son or younger brother of John. Rev. Thomas (1722–90) son of Walter, a merchant in Leith, who was descended from the Scotts of Harden, his mother being Martha Cunningham. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1742. He was presented as minister of Cavers by William Douglas of Cavers in 1746 and ordained there in 1747. He was ‘Mr. Thos. Scott the mance’ when he paid the window tax in Cavers Parish in 1748; he paid again in 1753. He was translated to ‘Second Charge’ of South Leith in 1762 and moved to the ‘First Charge’ in 1765. In 1750 he married Helen Balfour from Pilrig, and she died in 1806. Their children were: Walter (b.1752); Marth; Janet; John, surgeon with the 10th Light Dragoons; and Thomas, minister of Newton, near Edinburgh, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Gilbert Kerr of Gateshaw. Thomas of Urlings, County Tipperary (18th C.) progenitor of the Earls of Clonmell. He is probably descended from one of the Border Scott branches. He married Rachel, daughter of Mark Prim of Johnswell. Their son John (b.1739) was Solicitor-General and Attorney-General and was created Earl of Clonmell. Rev. Thomas (1722/3–92) said to have been born in Wilton Parish, and brother of Rev. James of Jedburgh (however, this may be confusion). He was ordained as minister of the Presbyterian Church in Hexham in 1756. He turned down Colinsburgh in 1761, since he thought that the size of the congregation and travel involved would be too much. In 1763 he became 1st minister of the Relief Kirk at Auchtermuchty (the 5th such congregation). He appears to have ended as minister in 1786. He was married in 1770, although his wife’s name is unknown; she was previously married to Rev. John Warden and she died in Edinburgh in 1810. He is buried in Canongate Churchyard. He could be the son of William and Christian Hoy, born in Wilton in 1723. It is unclear if he was brother of Rev. James of Jedburgh Relief Kirk or Rev. James (licensed by Jedburgh Presbytery), minister at Perth; he may thus have been an elder son of Robert of Falnash, perhaps born at Crowhill (like James), and may be the same Thomas who sold Falnash to the Duke of Buccleuch. Thomas (18th C.) married Mary Turnbull in Wilton Parish in 1751. Their children, included: Walter (b.1752) and William (b.1754), baptised in Wilton; and Helen (b.1761), Thomas (b.1766), Mary (b.1768), baptised in Hawick. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Hep in 1751. He married Margaret Bell in Wilton Parish in 1751. Their children, included Thomas (b.1751), John (b.1753), Robert (b.1755), Isabel (b.1757), Adam (b.1760) James (b.1761), William (b.1763), George (b.1765), Elizabeth (b.1768) and Margaret (b.1771). The witnesses in 1751 were Robert and Walter Scott. Thomas (18th C.) married to Helen Renwick, their son William was baptised in Hawick Parish in 1757. In the entry he is marked ‘Buccleugh’, but it is unclear if that refers to the farm or something else. Probably the same Thomas and Helen Renwick were married in Roberton Parish in 1745. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Ewes Parish. He married Jean Veitch and their children included: Thomas (b.1743); Isobel (b.1753); Jean (b.1755); and Archibald (b.1759). The witnesses in 1759 were William Maxwell and Charles Scott (who was probably related). Thomas (18th C.) schoolmaster in Ashkirk in the 1760s and 1770s. He married Marion Elliot in 1765. Thomas of Nether Bonchester (1729–1807) eldest surviving son of Walter and brother of Rev. William of Abbotsrule and Southdean. He succeeded to Nether Bonchester in 1750, as grandson of Walter. He was said to have greatly improved the Bonchester estate, making a nursery for young trees and enclosing land. The couple of acres of best land that he set aside for growing and selling young trees was called the Nursery and the cottage there was called the Nursery House. The planting of trees also became popular with his neighbours, leading to the valley of the Rule becoming well wooded. He also farmed Maxside for a while and was factor for Robert Lisle of Stonedge. However, he later struggled financially and had to place his affairs in the hands of trustees, who were William Turnbull of Langraw, Thomas Scott in Lethem and Peter Brown in Minto. This led to the sale of the Bonchester estate in 1779, the purchaser being William Oliver of Dinlabyre. The Duke of Buccleuch is said to have sympathised with his kinsman and allowed him to live at a farm on the Bowman estate for a nominal rent. He may be the Scott of Nether Bonchester (forename not given) listed among the Commissioners for Roxburghshire in 1761. He married Hannah Burnett. His only surviving child was Dorothy (‘Dora’, b.1778), who married Dr. William Lorraine from Glasgow (although born near Canonbie, and grandson of William Lorraine from Kirkton). He also had a daughter, Nelly, who died young. He died at Bowhill at the age of 78 and is buried at Hobkirk. Thomas (1732–1823) 2nd son of Robert Scott (‘in Sandyknove’) and Barbara Haliburton. He was thus uncle of Sir Walter of Abbotsford. He gained ‘liferent’ of lands that were part of Oakwood in 1759. He also held lands at Bewlie, which he resigned to Walter Scott of Harden in 1766. He was recorded as Thomas ‘Son to Robert Scott of Sandicknow’ [sic] among the Commissioners for Selkirkshire in 1761. In 1788 he was listed among the voters in Selkirkshire. He farmed at Wolfelee, holding the tenancy until 1810, then later at Monkland, near Jedburgh. During that time he was a heritor of Hobkirk Parish. For a while the tutor to his family was James Sanson, supposed to be the inspiration for Sir Walter Scott’s character ‘Dominie Sampson’. He was a skilled performer on the Border bagpipes, and in about 1816 wrote a list of the best Border bagpipers of earlier times. He married Anne, daughter of William Scott, 4th Laird of Raeburn (or perhaps Barbara, daughter of Walter Scott of Raeburn). In 1780 he secondly married Jean, sister of Thomas Rutherford of Knowesouth. His children included: James, who died unmarried in Edinburgh; Charles, who inherited Knowesouth, and farmed at Milston; Mary; Anne; and Jean, who married Andrew Oliver of Langraw. He died at Monklaw, near Jedburgh. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Hawickshiel. He married Mary Turnbull in 1751 and their children included: Walter (b.1752); William (b.1754); Helen (b.1761); Thomas (b.1766); and Mary (b.1768). The witnesses in 1766 were Walter Laidlaw and John Ker (blacksmith in Hawick-shielis). Thomas (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Whithope in 1767 when his daughter Mary was baptised. He may be one of the Thomases who married Margaret Turnbull in 1754, Isobel Anderson in 1758 or Nelly Laidlaw in 1766. Isobel (b.1758), baptised in Roberton, may also be his child. Thomas (1735/6–1800) 4th son of Walter, tenant farmer at Girnwood. Along with his brother Walter he took over from their father as co-tenant of Girnwood. Both brothers being unmarried, the tenancy passed to their relative Walter, 2nd son of the 3rd William iners being unmarried, the tenancy passed to their father as co-tenant of Girnwood. Both brothers being unmarried, the tenancy passed to their relative Walter, 2nd son of the 3rd William in Milsington. Thomas of Peel (1737–1813) 2nd son of John of Ashtrees and Helen Oliver. He was tenant farmer in Lethem, Southdean Parish, and is recorded there as farmer in 1792 when he had a bond with the Elliots of Harwood. He was ‘in Letham’ when recorded as a trustee for Thomas of Nether Bonchester (who had to sell his lands) in about 1779. He was recorded on the Horse Tax Rolls from 1785, owning 11 horses there in 1797. He also paid the dog tax at Lethem in 1797. He was appointed as one of the trustees for Thomas Scott of Nether Bonchester when he got into financial difficulties; the trustees sold off that farm in 1779. In 1807 he bought Peel (then called Baxtonlees) from Lord Douglas. He married Esther, daughter of Thomas Turnbull (of the Hawick carpet factory), this probably being in Wilton Parish in 1777; his wife died at Lethem in 1787, aged 37. Their children included: Thomas, who inherited Peel; John of Riccalton, who later re-purchased the family lands of Ashtrees; Helen, who married Thomas Elliot, son of Elliot of Harwood; and Esther, who married John, 2nd son of James Robson of Samieston. John Robson-Scott of Newton was his direct descendant, as well as the Boog-Scotts of Peel. Thomas (18th C.) blacksmith at Unthank in Hobkirk Parish in the last quarter of the 1700s. Thomas (18th C.) described as ‘some time of Silverboothall’, he was probably son of James, farmer at Boonraw and Laird of Silverboothall. In the late 1700s he sold a small piece of the former Wilton Common to William Oliver ‘Auld cash’. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Thomases. Thomas (18th C.) gardener listed at Burnhead in 1791, when he was working for William Scott. Thomas (d.bef. 1805) weaver in Hawick. He married Christian Weir in 1771. Their children included James (b.1772), probably the millwright; and Thomas (b.1775), probably the weaver. He was a member of the Associate Congregation. His wife’s death is recorded in 1805, by which time he was already deceased. Thomas (18th C.) recorded being let the farm of Pilmuir Rig for the first time in 1778, after the Division of the Common. He may be the same as one of the other Thomases. Thomas (18th C.) farmer at Hawthornside in Hobkirk Parish according to the Horse Tax Rolls of 1788–91. He was probably related to George, who farmed there soon afterwards. Thomas (18th/19th C.) from Hawick Parish, in 1792 he married Janet Riddell in Cavers. Thomas (18th/19th C.) farmer at Northhouse, recorded on the 1792–97 Horse Tax Rolls. He was owner of 8 horses in 1797. He was additionally taxed for having 3 non-working dogs in 1797. Thomas (18th/19th C.) recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as farmer at ‘Woolie’ (i.e. Wolfelee), when he owned 6 horses. It is unclear if he is the same as one of the contemporary Thomases (but certainly Thomas at Lethem is recorded separately). Thomas (d.1808) son of Walter from Wiltonburn. He is described as a ‘hosier’ when he died in Hawick. He may be the same as one of the other Thomases. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1788 he married Helen Pott, who was from Castleton. Their children (baptised in Castleton) included: Helen (b.1789); Robert (b.1791); Helen (b.1797); James (b.1799); and Thomas (b.1801). Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident at Longnewton according to the 1790–97 Horse Tax Rolls. William was also there in 1797 and so presumably a close relative. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1783 he married Janet Elliot, who was from Hobkirk. Thomas (b.c.1765) joiner of the Sandbed, possibly son of Walter, who established a joiner’s firm there in 1750. He is presumably the Thomas listed as a joiner on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory. He married Christian (or Christina) Downie, and their children included Walter (who carried on the business) and Jane. A younger joiner Thomas, also listed at the Sandbed on the 1841 census, may have been his son, as well as Robert at an adjacent address. He is listed as wright on the Sandbed in 1808 when an unnamed cild died and in 1811 when his daughter Nelly died. Thomas (d.bef. 1822) possibly miller at Hawick Mill. The death of his wife Agnes Reid is recorded in 1822, when he was already deceased, with his designation given as ‘H. Mill’. Thomas (18th/19th C.) mason at Deanburnhaugh. He is probably the Thomas, son of Walter, who was born in Roberton Parish in 1769. He was recorded as a mason living at Borthwick Mains in 1799. In 1798 he married Margaret (or ‘Peggy’) Anderson, who lived to an old age and was said to have at least 300 descendants by the 1930s; she was probably the daughter of Michael Anderson born in Roberton Parish in 1770. She was described as being ‘everybody’s body. Whenever trouble or stress prevailed she was always ready to do and to dare for the sake of others’. Their children included: Walter (b.1799); Isabel (b.1801), who was living with her mother in 1851; William (b.1804); Beatrice (b.1806), who married James Pringle, hosiery worker in Hawick; Thomas (b.1810), probably the mason in Deanburnhaugh; Margaret (b.1812); George (b.1816); and Robert (b.1819), a labourer in Deanburnhaugh. His widow and son Robert were recorded in Deanburnhaugh on the 1841, 1851 and 1861 censuses. Thomas (b.c.1775) weaver in Hawick, probably son of weaver Thomas. He was grandfather of grocer George and great-grandfather of Peter, who founded Pesco’s. In 1841 he was living at about 6 Walter’s Wynd. His wife was Janet, and their children included George (b.c.1820) and James (b.c.1830). Thomas (1774/5–1846) joiner in Newcastleton, probably son of George. He subscribed to 2 copies of William Scott’s ‘ Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He is probably the wright listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. In 1841 he was living at about 30 South Hermitage Street. He married Mary Elliot, who died in 1806, aged 23. He secondly married Janet Elliot, who died in 1867, aged 73. His children included: George, who died in infancy; Mary; Archibald (1826/7–1904), also a joiner; Thomas; Hendry; John; and Helen. Thomas (b.1776/7) born in Robertson Parish, he was caret on Wilton Place. In 1841 he was recorded at Dowemount. His wife was Nancy (or Agnes) Leithead, and she died before 1851. Their children included: Janet (b.1813); Charles (b.1815); Robert (b.1818); Walter (b.1820); Thomas (b.1822); William (b.1824); James (b.1827); Alexander Nivison (b.1829), dyer in Melrose, named after the Robertson minister; and John Young (b.1833). Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was living at Deanburnhaugh in 1800 (at the same time as the mason of the same name). He married Janet Scott in 1797, the marriage being recorded in Robertson and Wilton Parishes. Their children (baptised in Robertson) included Mary (b.1798), David (b.1800), Walter (b.1802), Robert (b.1804) and Thomas (b.1806). Thomas (18th/19th C.) stocking-maker in Hawick. He married Isabel Miller and their children included: John (b.1805); Catherine (b.1808); and Adam (b.1812). The death of his father-in-law Charles Miller is recorded in 1816. Thomas (b.1780) farmer at Eastcote in Cavers Parish. Thomas of Peel and Newton (1781–1858) son of Thomas, 1st Laird of Peel, he was born in Southdean Parish. He was joint tenant of Lethem with his brother John. He served with the volunteer yeomanry, and turned out at the False Alarm of 1804. In 1810 he became Captain in the 1st Regiment of Roxburghshire local militia. He was still ‘younger of Peel’ when he became an original member of the Jedforest Club in 1810. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. In 1833 he bought Newton (on Teviot) from William Ogilvie of Chesters. In 1841 he is listed as ‘Ind Farmer & Landowner’ at Lethem. He left Peel to his nephew William Elliot (son of his elder sister Helen) and Newton to his nephew Thomas Robson (son of his younger sister Esther). He died (unmarried) in Edinburgh. His portrait was painted by Mr. Frain of Kelso, and depicted him in the uniform coat of the Jedforest Club. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Minto. He subscribed to Andrew Scott’s book of poetry, published in Kelso in 1811. Thomas (1782/3–1851) born in Yarrow Parish, he was shepherd at Nether Delovaine. In 1808 he was shepherd at Borthwickbrae Parkhead. In 1808 he married Rachel Grieve, who was born in Langholm; she died in 1853, aged 71. Their children (baptised in Robertson) included: William (b.1808); Helen (b.1812); Christian (b.1814); Rachel (b.1816); Joan (b.1817); Jane Atchison (b.1819); John (b.1827/8), also a shepherd. He and his wife are buried in Borthwick Waas. Thomas Chisholme (1784–1811) son of Rev. Robert of Coldhouse and Margaret Chisholme from Selkirk. He was baptised in Peebles in 1785. His brothers included William Chisholme, who probably owned Chisholme House and Alexander, who was a friend of Lord Byron. In 1802 he inherited a share in some plantations in Jamaica from his uncle, William Chisholme. In 1805 he graduated from the College of Fort William, an oriental studies academy in Calcutta, with his name at the head of those conferred with a Degree of Honour. He became Registrar of Purneah in Bengal, and died there. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Southdean Parish. In 1812 he married Mary, daughter of Adam Hobkirk. Their children were: Adam (b.1812); Thomas (b.1814); Jane (b.1816); and John (b.1823). Thomas (18th/19th C.) wheelwright on Buccleuch Street, recorded along with Robert on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. They were probably brothers or father and son. He may be the Thomas recorded as a wright on Buccleuch Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory, or part of the Thomas and Robert recorded on the High Street. He may also be the Thomas listed as a carrier’s agent on Buccleuch Street in 1837. Thomas (18th/19th C.) carter who lived at Whitrone Toll. He was listed among heads of households in 1835. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident at Lanton, son of Robert. He erected a headstone to his relations who are buried in Bedrule kirkyard. This included: his wife Mary, who died at Lantonhill in 1820, aged 40; son Robert, who died in Jedburgh in 1839, aged 29; and his father, mother and ‘brethren’. Capt. Thomas (1788–1858) born in Kirkton Parish, he was son of William, who farmed at Singlie, with his mother being Margaret Pott. He was farmer at Shielswood and Captain in the 94th Regiment of Foot. In the 1841 and 1851 censuses he is listed as a farmer and a lieutenant on half-pay. His children (with his first wife) included a son Henry and a daughter Agnes. In 1856 he married Mary Ballantyne, daughter of John and Mary Miller; she was already a widow, her first husband being John Little, and she may also have thirdly married an Elliot. Their children were Gideon and Margaret (who married Gideon Thomas Scott, Selkirk wine merchant). An obituary was written for the Hawick Advertiser by Dr. John Douglas. Thomas (1788–1848) son of Archibald and Jeany, he was born in Falstone, Northumberland. He was proprietor of the Crown Inn in Newcastle (possibly at 8 Douglas Square), according to Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. He married Isabella, daughter of John Kyle; she died in 1869, aged 74. Their children included: John (b.1817), who died in Antigua; Agnes (b.1821); Thomas (1820/1–1902), carter; William (1824–41), also died in Antigua; Robert Elliot (1827–89); Jean (b.1830); Elizabeth (b.c.1833); Archibald (1834/5–66), died on the passage back from the West Indies; and Isabel (b.c.1836). The family are buried in Etterton Cemetery. Thomas (18th/19th C.) mason in Wilton Dean. He is listed among heads of households there in 1835. Thomas (b.1794/5) farmer at Priestrig. He farmed 16 acres and employed 1 labourer. In 1841, 1851 and 1861 he was living there with his wife Christian and family. Their children included Adam, Margaret and Christian. Thomas (b.1794/5) born in Hawick Parish, he was a carrier in Liliesleaf in 1851. He was probably on the south side of Main Street. In 1852 he is listed as a grocer in Liliesleaf. His wife was Janet.

Thomas (b.c.1800) carrier at Alton in Wilton Parish. He married Isabella Hogg, and their children included: Isabella (b.1832); Helen (b.1835); Wilhelmmina (b.1837); Mary (b.1841); Margaret (b.c.1845); and Gideon (b.c.1850). Most of their children were born in Ashkirk Parish. In 1841 Isabella Lilloco was living with his family, and hence may have been his mother-in-law. In 1861 he was a widower living at Highchesters Mill Cottage in Robertson Parish. Thomas (b.c.1805) born in Glasgow, he was a teacher in Hawick. He ran a school in Buccleuch Street from about 1826, later moving to Tannage Close. He had begun by teaching at Old Northhouse, which was then a thriving village. He is recorded as a teacher at Buccleuch Street in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory and on Walter’s Wynd in the 1837 directory. It is said that he taught for a while in the Fleece Inn Ballroom. In the 1841 census he is living in the Cross Wynd, married to Isabel and with children Isabel, John and Jessie. In 1851 he was schoolmaster in Lanton. Thomas Macmillan see Macmillan-Scott. Thomas (1805/6–74) born in Canonbie, he was farmer at Demainholm in Castleton Parish. In 1851 he was farmer of 50 arable acres and 250 acres of moorland, employing 4 labourers. He married Elizabeth Graham, who died in 1851, aged 33. His children included: Mary (1843/4–90); Jane (1845/6–1901), who married John Holliday; Elizabeth; and Ann. Thomas ‘Sly Tammie’ (b.1810) son of grocer Walter and Isabella Anderson (possibly 1st wife of Walter). He trained as a shoemaker, but was later a green-grocer at 13 Howegate and used to keep a garden where the Old Parish Halls were later built. He married Mary Helm in 1836 and their children were: Walter, who co-founded Lyle & Scott’s; Margaret H.; William H., warehouseman in his brother’s firm; Charles S., wool merchant; Isabella (‘Bella’); Robert, auctioneer; John T.M., grocer and fishing tackle maker; and James. In the 1841 census he at the Sandbed, in 1851 on Buccleuch Street as a shoemaker, and by 1861 was at 1 Slitrig Bank. Thomas ‘Tammy Rusk’ (19th C.) baker at 55 High Street. His daughter Evelyn married Vernon E. Angwin. His brother was John (who married Jane Little). Thomas (b.1804/5) born in Wilton Parish, he was a farmer at Mervinslaw. He is recorded there on the 1841 and 1851 censuses, and in 1861 was farming 1200 acres there, and employing 11 people. He was still recorded at Mervinslaw in a directory of 1868. His wife was Margaret, and their children. included Walter, George, Elizabeth and Agnes. He could be related to John, who was farmer at Mervinslaw in 1797. Thomas (b.1807/8) clerk in a woollen factory according to the 1851 census. He was living at about 16 Buccleuch Street. In Slater’s 1852 directory he is listed as ‘cashier, Buccleuch Street’. In 1861 he was listed as manager of Wilton Mills, and was living in the Manager’s House there. He married Mary Oliver in 1840. Their children included: James; Elizabeth (‘Betsy’, b.1842); Thomas (b.1844); Janet (b.1846); Agnes (b.1848); and Andrew (b.1850.

He may be the Thomas, son of James and Isobel Robson born in Hawick in 1806. Thomas (b.c.1805) resident of Deanburnhaugh. In 1841 he is recorded as an agricultural labourer, and is easy to confuse with the mason of the same name, who also lived at Deanburnhaugh. He married Mina Inglis in Roberton Parish in 1830 and their children included: John (b.1831); William (b.1833); Helen (b.1834); Thomas (b.1837), ploughman in Lilliesleaf. Thomas (b.1809/10) mason in Deanburnhaugh, born in Roberton Parish, probably son of Thomas. He was living in Deanburnhaugh in 1841 and 1851, but by 1861 was at Myreslawgreen. In 1829 he married Jemima King (from Canonbie) in Roberton Parish in 1829, and their children included: Thomas (b.1830); James (b.1831); Margaret (b.1833); William (b.1835); Walter (b.1837); Barbara (b.1840); Isabella (b.1842); Mary (b.1844); Beatrice (b.c.1846); Wilhelmina (or Mina, b.1848); and Robert (b.1852.

Thomas (1815–1879) eldest son of Charles, farmer at Milsington, who was a cousin of Sir Walter Scott. His mother was Esther Elliot. He took over the tenancy from his father and farmed at Milsington from 1854 until his death. In 1861 he was recorded as farmer of 1000 acres there. In 1856 he married Marion (or Mary), daughter of Henry Scott, farmer at Stelshaw. Their children included: Charles (b.1857/8), who purchased the farm of Milsington; James (b.1841), who moved to Canada; Henry, moved to the U.S.A.; Thomas of Croftheads (b.1867), who married Elizabeth Minto; William; and Mary, who married John Tullie, Highchesters. Thomas (1820/1–1902) carter in Newcastle. He is listed on the 1851 and 1861 censuses on Langholm Street. He married Jane Mitchellhill, who died in 1911, aged 88. Their children included: Robert (b.c.1848); Margaret (b.c.1854); Mary (1854/5–7); Thomas (b.c.1857); Mary (1858/9–63); and William (1861–9). He was probably son of Newcastle born innkeeper Thomas, who is buried in an adjacent plot in Ettleton Cemetery. Thomas (1824/5–89) 3rd son of Liddesdale farmer John. He was a shepherd, starting out at Hartsgarth with his uncle Mr. Murray, then moving to Westshiels. After marrying he lived at the Pietsnest (on Hyndlee) and then Westshiels again, where he died. He married Christian, younger daughter of Robert Armstrong (and sister of his brother’s wife); she died at Wolfehopelee in 1909, aged 78. His children John, Robert and Mary became tenants of Wolfehopelee. His children included: Thomas (d.1876); Mary Anderson (1863–4/1933), who died at Hawick; and John (1859/60–1936), who died at Priesthaugh; Robert (1866/7–1953), who died at Flint Cottage, Denholm. Thomas (19th C.) farmer recorded at Langhope in Ashkirk Parish in 1868. Thomas ‘Scotia’ (1802–1906) son of George, grocer on the Howegate. His grandfather and great-grandfather before him had been West-enders. He was a traveller with his brother’s firm Pesco’s. He spent some time in Ontario, Canada, where in 1883 he helped establish an annual Common Riding celebration in the Galt/Guelph area, being the first secretary of the organising committee. He was Cornet in 1887, the year that the Ceremonial Committee was appointed. He married Margaret Elliot (1870–1914), daughter of John Robert Brough. Their children were: George Douglas (1899–1984), who married Ella Christie in 1933; Elliot B. (b.1901), who died young; Laura Isabel (1902–96), who married George M. Clunie; Thomas (1904–93); and Peter Adamson (1905–85). He suffered from tuberculosis and took his family to South Africa for his health; however, he died there. Thomas A. (1853–1926) son of Adam and grandson of Robert, farmer at Boonraw. He was born at Burnfoot on the Ale Water. He studied medicine at the University of Iowa and Rush Medical Center. He worked in Illinois and Oregon and then as a surgeon on boats that travelled in many parts of the world. He retired in 1921 and moved back to his homeland, where he married Margaret, daughter of oil extractor Archibald Johnstone Donaldson in 1922, this being his 4th marriage. He died in Hawick. Thomas ‘Tom’ (1854–1927) watercolour painter, born in Selkirk. He studied at the Royal Institution and Royal Scottish Academy in Edinburgh and had many commissions from wealthy Border tweed manufacturers. He lived at Earlston and Bowden and settled at Leslie Cottage in Philiphaugh. Known for his powerful landscapes, he also illustrated many Border books. including Craig and Laing’s ‘The Hawick Tradition of 1514’ (1898) and ‘Branxholme Castle and the Land of the Scotts’ (1901), and was commissioned to paint ‘Return to Hawick from Hornshole, 1514’. He was a guest at the 1890 Common Riding and was the first guest at the Callants’ Club annual dinner in 1906. He read a paper on stone implements to the Archaeological Society in 1906 and donated a collection of his archaeological finds to the Museum, which now has more than a dozen of his paintings, including ‘Hawick Motte 1898’. In all, he exhibited 167 paintings at the Royal Scottish Academy. There is a bronze bust of him, by Thomas Clapperton, in Selkirk. A book ‘Lest we Forget’, about his Hawick connections, was written by M.H. Coltman in 1991. The museum in Drumlanrig’s Tower has a Tom Scott room, containing several of his paintings.

Thomas (1862/3–1918) builder in Newcastle. He married Marion Elliot, who died in 1949, aged 78. Their children included: John (1894/5–1916), who died of wounds in France; and James, who died in infancy. They are buried in Ettlelon Cemetery. Thomas (19th/20th C.) tenant in Redheugh, along with his brother James. In 1918 he and his brother purchased the farm from Anna Mary Elliot. His brother was killed by a bull in 1936 and in 1946 he sold Redheugh to Sir Gilbert Elliott of Stobs. Uchtred (11th/12th C.) earliest known ancestor of the local Scotts, see Uchtred Fitz-Scott. Walter (12th C.) recorded as ‘Walterus Scot’ several times in the chartulary of Arbroath during the reign of King William. His son was granted the lands of Allardyce. Walter (12th/13th C.) recorded as ‘Walterus Scotus’ sometime around 1200 when he was granted the lands of Allardyce in Kincardineshire. There is some suggestion that his decedents took the surname Allardyce, and that he is therefore unrelated to other Scotts. Walter (12th/13th C.) recorded as Walterus ‘Scottus’ in 1216 when he was commanded to deliver his ship to Gilbert Campion. This was at Tewkesbury. Walter (13th C.) listed in a court case in 1236, along with his brother Robert, as well as Richard. They were accused of attacking a man called Eustace, killing his horse and imprisoning his servant, and the Sheriff of Northampton was directed to make sure they appeared at Westminster. Walter (13th C.) guarantor for an agreement made at Ancrum in 1253 by Sir Walter de Moray. It is unclear if he is the same as any of the other early Walters. Walter (13th C.) recorded in 1254 as ‘de Escote’ in a document of Henry III relating to lands in Bedfordshire. Walter (d.c.1263) sergeant of the King’s Chapel, probably at Hereford. He was given a penny a day by the King, to be drawn by the Sheriff of Hereford. In 1263 his wife Edith and their children were granted the same penny a day for their lives. Walter (13th C.) listed as being ‘of Wyteby’ in 1265 when he gave half a mark to have an assize in Yorkshire. Walter (13th C.) gave half a mark to have an assize in Sommerset in 1270. Walter (13th C.) listed as ‘le Escot of Welfedene’ in the Patent Rolls of Henry III in 1270/1. He is recorded several times in the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. He is ‘Walterus Schot de Wiltedden’, ‘Walterum Skot de Weltened’ and variants. It is unclear where these lands were, but presumably on the English side. He could be the same Walter recorded among a set of pleas of the English army made at Berwick in 1296; this particularly involved a dispute with Matilda of Blackburnshire over trespass and a coat. Walter (13th C.) holder of lands in Peeblesshire (or perhaps Lanarkshire, this is not entirely clear) who signed the Ragman Rolls in 1296. He is recorded as ‘Wautier Lescot’. It is possible that he was son of William and brother of Richard of Rankleburn and Murthockstone (who also swore fealty to Edward I). There is some suggestion that he was the elder brother, although the chiefdom of the family passed through Richard, so perhaps he had no heirs. The lands he held may have included Kirkurd, which were certainly later owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch. He may have been the first of his family to have the name ‘Walter’. He may be the same ‘Waltero Scot’ who witnessed a charter relating to Soutra Hospital in about 1280. It is also possible he was descended from Adam, whose name was associated with lands in Peeblesshire in the early 1200s. Walter (13th C.) signatory of the Ragman Rolls in 1296, who came from Edinburgh (although it is unclear if he is distinct from the man from Peeblesshire, or whether this is a duplicate entry). He was recorded as ‘Wautier Scot tenant le Euesqe de Seint Andreu, del counte de Edeneburgh’ (i.e. the Bishop of St. Andrews’ tenant in Edinburgh). His seal bore a h awk on a wrist, together with a cres cent and star in fields and the name ‘S’WALTERI SCOTT’. The cres cent and star indicate a close relationship with the Scott chiefs. Walter ‘the Ratton’ (d.c.1400) said to have been grandson of John ‘the Lame ter’, and son of a Chamberlain to the Archbishop of Glasgow (although there is some confusion between father and son). Alternatively he was a younger son of Sir Michael of Rankilburn. He was probably the 1st Laird of Synton, although accounts differ, and information about these generations is very uncertain. His nickname came from his temper and small size. In about 1389 he settled at Burnfoot in the Ale valley and became the first (new) Laird of Synton. He married a Shortreed of Headshaw. His children probably included: George, who succeeded to Synton; John of Headshaw; Walter of Ashkirk; and William of Glack. He died during the reign of Robert III. Sir Walter (d.1402) 4th Laird of Rankilburn (Buccleuch), Murdostoun and Kirkurd, son of Robert. He was the first of a huge number of Sir Walters who would come later. He was said to be a brave man who performed many actions in service of the Crown. He had a charter of 1389 for superiority of the lands of Kirkurd. He may be the Walter who had an indenture in 1391 with Hugh Fotheringham for the lands of Caverton, made at Borthwick. In 1398 he was among the barons who were bound to keep peace on the Border and he was appointed as ‘borowis for the Erlis boundis of Douglas of the mydil marche’ (thus the first of his family associated with the Wardenship of the Marches). His wife’s name is not known, and his only known child is Robert, who succeeded him. He was killed at the Battle of Homildon Hill, serving in the army of Archibald, Earl of Douglas. Walter of Ashkirk (14th/15th C.) younger son of Walter, 1st Laird of Synton. However, these generations are very uncertain, and nothing else is known about him. He was probably ancestor of the James recorded in Ashkirk in 1502 and 1526. Sir Walter of Buccleuch (d.c.1468) eldest son of Robert, he was 6th (and last) Laird of Murtlockstone (or Murdostoun) and the first to be described as ‘of Buccleuch’. He was also sometimes still described as ‘of Kirkurd’. He was mentioned as son and heir of Robert in 1415, when his father swapped lands of Glenkerry for Bellendean with Melrose Abbey. In 1426 he is described as son and heir of Robert of ‘Murtherstoun’ when he was granted the lands of Lempitlaw in the regality of Sprouston. He was probably the Walter on the ‘retour’ for the lands of Caverton in 1429/30. In 1431 he had a ‘transumpt’ made of the charter of 1420 in which his father was granted half the lands of Brauxholme. He obtained lands of Heap in Wilton from James Langlands in 1431, a public instrument to that effect being signed at St. Mary’s Kirk; he swapped these lands for Millsington in 1451 at Wilton Kirk (with a confirming deed in 1453). He witnessed a confirming charter for lands in Primside in 1432. In 1434 he was ‘lord of Morthouystoun’ in a document relating to Ladyurd. He was knighted by James II in 1437, and also granted a charter for lands in Eckford in 1439 (confirmed in 1450), apparently for capturing Gilbert of Rutherford. He is recorded in a document as Lord of ‘Morthouystoun’ in 1434, and was still presiding over the Baron Court of Kirkurd in 1455. He witnessed several charters granted by James II in the 1430s to 1450s. In the 1430s he gained lands at Grahamslaw from William Crichton of that Ilk (who is described as his relative, and was clearly a close political ally). In 1438 he was on the ‘retour of inquest’ for Ker of Altonburn. In 1443 he witnessed a charter for William Cranston of Crailing. He witnessed a charter for Borthwickshiel in 1444 and a lease for related lands in 1445. In 1446 he exchanged the family’s Lanarkshire property (Murthockston) for the rest of Brauxholme, with Thomas Inglis; in response to Inglis’ complaint about English incursions on Brauxholme, he supposedly remarked that ‘the Cumberland cattle were as good as those of Teviotdale’. He thereby acquired Toshawhill, Toshawhaugh, Goldielands, Whitlaw, Whitrig and part of Over Harwood. In 1446 he was witness to a charter for Ker of Altonburn and in 1446/7 was on a ‘retour’ panel for Ker of Altonburn. In 1447 he bought the ‘Cousinlands’ (to the north of Branxholme) from Margaret Cousin, wife of Simon Routledge and mother of Robert Scott (hence probably a relative). He witnessed a charter for Stephen of Castlelaw (his brother) in 1448. In 1449/50, with the consent of his eldest son David, he renounced his superiority over the lands of Lochurd and Kirkurd to the chaplains of the prebend of Kirkurd (then part of the Collegiate Church of Dalkeith). In 1450 he was on the panel for the ‘retour’ of William Douglas for the Barony of Hawick. During the reign of James II he was one of the conservators of truces with England. He was a conservator of truces with England in 1449, 1451, 1453, 1457 and 1459, and he was one of the signatories of the Border laws document drawn up in 1449. In 1451 he exchanged the lands of Heap for those of Millsington with John of Langlands. He was on an assize for the Douglasses in Dumfries in 1451/2. In 1452 he witnessed the document creating the Barony of Kilmours for Alexander Cunningham; this was done while part of the expedition into England, led by James II. In 1453 he was granted the fees of the men of Teviotdale according to the Exchequer Rolls. In 1454/5 he witnessed a document for the Kers of Altonburn. In 1455 he led a group of Borderers against the remnants of the army raised to revenge the murder of William Douglas by the King, the battle taking place at Arkinholm. Thereby he was granted ‘Quhylester’ (Whitchester) in the Barony of Hawick (forfeited by John St. Michael), as well as lands in Selkirkshire. In 1456 he was on the panel that acquitted Andrew Ker of Altonburn of helping the English burn lands around Jedburgh. In 1457 he witnessed the document appointing Andrew Ker of Cessford as Bailie of the Lordship of Jedforest. In 1458/9 he obtained lands at Abington, Phareholm and Glendonanrig, which had previously belonged to the Douglasses. Along with his son Sir David he was also granted part of Langholm. In 1458 he had a charter for Glendowran and other lands in Lanarkshire (which may have been held by a cadet branch for another 3 centuries). He is recorded as Master Ranger of Ettrick ward from at least 1455 and was probably the ‘Sir Walter of Kirkurd’ listed as Master Ranger in 1467 when he had the farm of Eldin hope for his fee; he remained in this position until 1468. In 1461 (as superior of Branxholme) he transferred the lands of ‘Kirkton and Toftis’ to Katherine Inglis. His sons David and Alexander witnessed a charter in Edinburgh in 1463. Also in 1463 he resigned his lands to the King, so that they could be regranted; this included Branxholme, Lanton, Lempitlaw, Eilrig, Rankleburn, Eckford, Kirkurd and Whitchesters. Branxholme was then erected into a Barony; this was for services rendered to King James III and his father James II, particularly against James of Douglas. In 1463/4 he was given a discharge for sureties that he was liable to pay to the King’s officers, on account of helping to expel James Douglas. And in 1463/4 he witnessed the document where the King rewarded a number of local men for the capture of John Douglas of Balveny. He was also present in Parliament in Edinburgh in 1464. In 1464/5 he was on the panel for the inheritance of the lands of Cavers and Sheriffship of Roxburgh. Also in 1464/5 he witness the document giving a reward to Robert Scott of Todshaw and other local men for the capture of John Douglas of Balveny. He was also on the panel that decided on the disputed lands of Kirkton Mains and Flex in 1464/5. He married Margaret, daughter of Peter Cockburn of Henderland, and appears to have had at least 3 sons (although things are still confused in these generations): David, who succeeded; James of Kirkurd and Hassende an, ancestor of the Scotts of Hassende an, Burnfoot and Burnhead (although there is some suggestion that he was not a full brother of David); and Sir Alexander of Abington and Howpasley, ancestor of the Scotts of Thirlestane, Howpasley, Horsleyhill, Gilman scleuch, Newburgh and Tushielaw. It seems feasible that John of Thirlestane, who gained the half Barony of Wilton in 1483, was another son. His seal bore a diagonal band with 2 crescents and a star, and the words ‘S’ WALTERI SCOT DE BUKCLUCH’. Walter (d.1471) eldest son of Sir David of Branxholme and Buccleuch. In 1465 he was contracted to marry Katherine, daughter of John Lindsay of Covington, involving the lands of Kirkurd. However, it is unclear that the marriage ever happened. In 1469/70, along with his father, he was made Keeper of Hermitage Castle by Archibald Douglas ‘Bell the Cat’. However, he did not live much longer, predeceasing his father and dying without issue. He is mentioned in 1470 in a charter for lands in the Hermitage valley; he is there described as son and heir of David of Buccleuch. In June 1471 he was gifted the relief of the lands of West Lilliesleaf and Whitton. By the following year David (his brother) was the heir (although he may be the Walter who was witness, along with David of Buccleuch, to a saisine for the lands of Borthwickshields in May 1471). Walter of Fenwick (15th C.) witness to a notorial instrument relating to the lands of Whitchesters in 1456, possibly relating to a’retour’ witnessed a few years earlier. Probably the same Walter of Fenwick is recorded as witness in 1484/5 to a charter where Sir David of Branxholme gave Whitchesters to his son Robert (of Allanhaugh). In 1488 he was one of the bailies appointed for the precept in 1488 in which Sir Thomas Turnbull leased Greenwood and Lyne to Robert Scott, and also witnessed the same document. He may have been ancestor of later Scotts of Fenwick. Walter 3rd Laird of Synton (15th C.) probably son of George. He is said to have married a daughter of Scott of Hassende an during the reign of James II; however, it is unclear which Scott of Hassende an is intended. His children were John and Walter, both of whom succeeded. Walter 5th Laird of Synton (d.c.1643), younger son of Walter and brother of John the 4th Laird. He married a daughter of Sir John Johnstone of that Ilk and his sons included George, who succeeded. He is said to have died near the beginning of the reign of James III, but James IV is more likely. Walter (15th C.) listed among the local men who were rewarded by the King in 1463/4 for helping to capture John Douglas of Balveny. He is recorded as ‘niger Walterus
Scott

Scott, presumably a reference to a swarthy complexion. He is surely related to some of the other Scotts mentioned (John, Robert of Todshaw, Simon and Thomas), but it is unclear how. He could be the same as one of the other contemporary Walters. Walter (15th C.) held a sasine for the lands of 'Wester Lynmeris' in Lanarkshire in 1478. It is unclear if he was the same as one of the other Walters. Walter of Whitehaugh (15th C.) recorded in the 1488 Charter for the Barony of Branxholme. He was listed among the heirs of Sir David of Buccleuch, the last to be explicitly related, suggesting he may have been a nephew of Sir David perhaps. He must have been related to David of Whitehaugh who is recorded in 1479, John in Whitehaugh, listed in 1501, and Philip of Heap, mentioned in 1508. Walter of Heap (15th C.) member of the panel or the inheritance of Branxholme and Buccleuch by Walter, grandson of Sir David in 1492. He was also 'Walterum Scot de Hep' in 1494 on the panel for the inheritance of Synton. He may be the same as Walter of Whitehaugh. Walter of Tushielaw (15th/16th C.) see Sir Walter of Howpasley. Sir Walter of Howpasley (d.1513) eldest son of Sir Alexander of Howpasley and Abington. His brothers were Robert (who probably started the Scotts of Thirlestane); William, Abbot of Melrose; Adam; and probably David of Tushielaw. In 1478 (possibly an error) he was ordered to pay William Inglis for the lands of Meiklehope in an arrangement involving his deceased father Alexander. He was witness to a transfer of land between Robert Scott of Haining and David Scott of Branxholme in 1482. He may be the Walter who acted as one of the Earl of Angus’ Bailies for infesting David Scott of Branxholme in the lands of Mangerton in 1482. In 1484 there was a claim by Jane Douglas (widow of David Scott, younger of Buccleuch) for 8 years’ rent of lands detained by him. He was mentioned in a charter of the Barony of Branxholme in 1488, clearly stated there to be son of the deceased Alexander. In 1491/2 he was one of the executors of the will of David of Buccleuch. He was appointed as tutor to young Walter (‘Wicked Wat’) of Buccleuch by Walter the 8th Laird and handled his affairs during his minority. In 1487–90 he was Master Ranger of Ettrick (and stated to be son of Alexander), when assigned the lands of Auldshope. In 1488 (probably just after the death of his father) and in the period 1484–90 these lands were said to be in the hands of him and his mother, Lady Joan Douglas; the lease was extended until 1496. In 1488 he was also leased the lands of Tushielaw, with David of Buccleuch as pledge. In 1493 he was surety for William Grahamlaw at Haunsedean Kirk (however, Robert of Howpasley also served as surety in 1493, and was probably his brother). He was also allowed to pay a fine for his crimes of bringing William Scott, called ‘Gyde’, William’s brother John (it is unclear whether they were related to him) and other ‘Traitors of Levyn’ to raid the lands of Harehead, as well as resetting Henry Scott and others. In 1494/5 he was surety for Adam ‘in Auldinnischop’ (probably his brother), Robert of Deloraine, David son of James in Haunsedean, Adam Turnbull in Hornshole, William Dickson in Ladhope, Thomas Lauder of Todrig and Andrew Dickson in Buccleuch. Also in 1494/5 he is probably the Walter recorded being ‘of Tushielaw’ (since these lands were also held by his family) when he was surety for David Turnbull, son of the Laird of Whithope. He was additionally listed in 1494/5 as owner (along with Walter Turnbull of Howpasley) of sheep that were stolen from Stonelie by the Grahamslaws of Newton. It is unclear if he or Walter of Buccleuch was the Walter listed as Ranger for Ettrick in 1494–6 (with John as Deputy Ranger). It is unclear when he ended his position as Custodian for the Ward of Ettrick, since it is difficult to separate him from Walter of Buccleuch (his cousin’s son), who held a similar role around 1500. In 1499 he was assigned the lands of ‘Laudehop’ (presumably Ladhope on the Yarrow), with the pledge being the Laird of Buccleuch: he also acted as pledge for Walter of Buccleuch in some other lands. He may also be the Walter of Tushielaw who was ‘coronator principalis de Ettrick’ according to the Exchequer Rolls of 1501, when he was liable for the fines of David Scott, Adam Scott and James Laidlaw; it was stated that since he had no means within the Sheriffdom of Selkirk, the charge was to be transmitted to the Sheriff of Peebles. He was also listed as ‘Walterus Scot de Howpaslot’ in the Exchequer Rolls of 1501, among mostly local men whose fines were compounded. He had a ‘letter of reversion’ for the lands of Appletreehall with Alexander Lord Home in 1502. Also in 1502 he served as surety (along with Robert of Stiches) for Patrick, son of Adam ‘in Hardwodhill’; also mentioned is Alexander Scott, who may have been related. In the same year he was surety for Adam Turnbull in Hornshole. In 1504 he was one of the 'Bailies in that part' appointed by Patrick, Earl of Bothwell to infest Walter of Buccleuch in lands in Annandale. In 1504/5, along with David Hoppingle, George Hepburn and William Middlemas, he held lands at Boonraw, which were sold to Robert Scott of Stirches. In 1506/7 he was ‘tutoure to the Larde of Bukleuch’ (the young Walter, who had just succeeded) when he gave in his tutory accounts. In 1507 he had a charter for the lands of Ladhope in Ettrick Forest. He was still ‘tutor’ in 1509, when he was said to be the closest male relative. In 1509 he was on the panel for ruling on the inheritance of the Barony of Cavers by James Douglas. In 1510 he was fined along with 35 others of ‘destroying the Woods of Ettrick-Forest’. Also in 1510 he was recorded in a pledge by Margaret, wife of James Scott in Falside. He was recorded as part of an assize in Edinburgh in early 1513. He married a daughter of Elliot of Larriston. The gift of wardship of his lands and marriage (meaning the financial gains from the contract etc.) of his daughter went to James Lundie in 1517. His daughter and heiress (at least for some lands) was Janet, who married Thomas MacDowell, and transferred Midshiel and Appletreehall to her uncle Robert in 1532/3. He was succeeded by his son Robert. He died at Flodden. Walter (15th C.) name of 2 men recorded in the last will of Sir David Scott of Braxholme in 1491/2, in addition to Walter of Howpasley. ‘Waltero Scote’ was left 3 sheep and ‘magno Waltero Scot’ was left 20 shillings. Walter of Whitchester (15th C.) recorded in the 1493 Justice-aire held in Jedburgh when he was surety for Thomas Brown in Minto. It may be that this is an error for Robert of Whitchester. Sir Walter (1470s–1504) 8th Laird of Buccleuch, grandson of Sir David, who he succeeded in 1492, his father David having died first. He was the only child of David and Jane Douglas, daughter of the Earl of Angus. He must have been the Walter of Braxholme receiving the lands of Mangerton in a sasine of 1484/5 (with George Fairniewlaw as notary). In his grandfather’s last testament he was granted £40 and 11 oxen and made a ‘tutor’ of William Turnbull of Minto. In 1492 he succeeded to the lands of Braxholme, Whitchesters, Lempitlaw, Eilrig, Rankleburn, Milsington and Kirkurd. However, he received sasine of half of Braxholme, together with Eckford and Langton only in 1500, the lands having been held in ward by the Crown for 7 years; this suggests he only reached majority in this year. He was still superior of the Barony of Kirkurd (Peeblesshire) recorded in sasines of 1493 and 1495. In 1494 he was on the panel for Alexander Erskine inheriting Synton and the office of Sheriff of Selkirk. In 1494/5 he acted as surety at Jedburgh Justice-aire for George Young, who had been captured at Minto. In 1494 he obtained a decree from the Lords of Council regarding the earlier plunder of his grandfather’s lands and house at Buccleuch. He may be the Walter who leased the lands of Whitshiels (near Langholm) in 1494. He is probably the ‘Walteri Scot’ who was made custodian of the Ward of Ettrick in at least the period 1496–98 (although there may be confusion with Walter of Howpasley); in 1496 he was liable for the fines of Adam Scott and others and he was given the rental of ‘Aldanehop’ for his fee as Ranger of Ettrick Ward. In 1499 he was tenant of Deloraine and ‘Warldishop’. In 1500 he was infested in the lands of Grahamslaw by the Earl of Bothwel, and also his uncle Robert of Allanhaugh resigned Whitchesters into his hands as security for a loan. He was granted the lands of Whithope (in the Barony of Hawick) in a charter of 1502. Also in 1502 he was fined for non-appearance at the Justice-aire held in Jedburgh, failing to ‘give suit’ for his lands of Braxholme, Lanton and Eckford. Additionally he was surety for William Dalgleish in Braidhaugh. His name was mentioned in connection with negotiations for the marriage of King James IV with Margaret, daughter of Henry VII of England in 1502/3, and he witnessed the indentment of Queen Margaret in the lands of the Forest at Galashiels in 1503. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Walter Ker of Cessford, who was widow of Philip Rutherford, younger of that Ilk. She long outlived him, being burnt within Catslack tower by Lord Grey and an English raiding party (supported by the Kers) in 1547. He was succeeded by his son Sir Walter (‘Wicked Wat’). A 2nd son was William of Whithope. He was said to have been one of the few nobles to escape from Flodden, but this seems more likely to have been his son, Sir Walter. His widow and son are recorded being assigned the lease of Deloraine and Warleshope in 1504; she had livery of these farms in 1510. Walter of Synton (d.c.1500) probably son of George, he is usually referred to as being the 7th of Synton. However, there is sometimes confusion with his grandson, Walter. He is mentioned in family writs in 1487 and flourished during the reign of James IV. Some early family histories say he married a daughter of Cockburn of Hernderland and secondly a daughter of James Riddell of that Ilk, but this seems to be incorrect. His son was Robert of Stirches and later of Synton (however, the relationship between the Scotts of Synton, Stirches and Headshaw are confused in these generations). Walter (15th/16th C.) son of James of Hassendean (probably the same as James of Kirkurd) who witnessed a document for the Scotts of Branxholme in 1500. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Walters. Walter (15th/16th C.) son of Robert of Hartshaw. In 1499 he gave his consent for Middlestead of Langhope to be assigned to Patrick Home. This was probably the Langhope in the Alc valley. However, it is unclear where ‘Hartschaw’ was (perhaps an error for Headshaw). Probably the same Walter was feued the east steading of Langhope in 1510, and was the son and heir of Robert who feued the west steading of Gildhouse (also called Dodbank) in the same year. Walter of Headshaw (d.beft. 1510) probably descendant (perhaps son) of John of Headshaw, son of Walter of Synton. In 1583/4 he was on a list of Borderers ordered by the Privy Council to render their houses for the King’s use He is recorded as ‘of Eidschaw’ when witness to a sasine of 1484/5 for lands of Mangerton going to the Scotts of Branxholme. In 1484 he was ‘Walter Scot de Eidschau’ when he was one of the men directed by the Earl of Angus to infest Robert Elliot of Redheugh in some lands. In 1484/5 he also witnessed a document relating to Whitchesters. His son David leased lands in the Ettrick valley in 1486. In 1487 his son Robert bought the lands of Boonraw from James Newton of Dalcove, and he was one of the witnesses to the sasine (this Robert appears to be the same as Robert of Stirches). In 1493 he was ‘of Eidschau’ when he was allowed to ‘compone; for being associated with ‘the thieves and traitors of Leven’. In 1493 and 1494/5 his son Robert was surety for Hector Launder, brother of the Laird of Todrig. He is listed in the Exchequer Rolls in 1501 among mostly local men whose fines were compounded. He may be the same Walter of Headshaw recorded in 1502 when he had a remission for stealing 8 oxen and 4 horses from Robert Launder. John Scott of ‘Valis’ acted as surety (and hence may have been a close relative). Also in 1502 his son Walter had remission for stealing sheep from farms at Yair, Selkirk, Cauldshiel and Broadmeadows, with James in Ashkirk and Robert of Stirches acting as sureties. In 1502 he and Walter in Synton (his son) were sureties for John in Walls. Thomas, brother of Philip of Headshaw is recorded in 1510, so surely his descendants. His sons may have been: Philip, his heir; David; Simon of Dryhope; Robert; Walter; and Thomas. Walter (15th/16th C.) described as son of Walter ‘of Eidschaw’ (i.e. Headshaw) in 1502. He had remission for several thefts, specifically stealing 80 sheep from William Ker at Yair, 60 sheep from Robert Brown and John Turnbull at Selkirk, 60 sheep from the Abbot of Kelso and Ralph Ker at Cauldshiel (this incident perhaps also involving Adam Turnbull in Hornshole and Chamberlain Newton) and 80 sheep from Ralph Ker at Broadmeadows (this probably also involving Adam Turnbull, as well as David ‘the Lady’ in Stirches). James Scott in Ashkirk and Robert Scott in Stirches acted as sureties. His daughter may have been the Janet who married Walter of Whitehaugh. The Walter in Headshaw who was recorded in 1533 is probably his nephew. Walter (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1502 being ‘in le newhalburnhed’. Along with Thomas Brown in Cavers he was surety for George Turnbull in Weens (who was one of the men charged with the murder of Robert Oliver at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh). He was presumably tenant at Burnhead, but it is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts of Burnhead or Over Newhall. Walter (15th/16th C.) son of Adam. Along with his father he is recorded in the Exchequer Rolls of 1512 relating to earlier payments for ‘fermes’ of their steadings in Ettrick Forest. He may have been son of Adam who was son of Sir Alexander of Abington and Howpasley. Walter (15th/16th C.) had the ‘fermes’ of Shaws and Berrybush remitted to him in 1513. He may be the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (15th/16th C.) listed on the 1526 remission for Borderers involved in attacking the Earl of Arran. He is recorded as being ‘in the Hauched’, which may be Haughhead near where the Boonraw Burn joins the Teviot or the Haughhead in Eckford Parish. His sons William and Adam are also listed. Walter (15th/16th C.) probably son of Walter ‘the Ratton’. He is described as ‘in Askirk’ when part of an inquest at Jedburgh in 1533 regarding lands at Longnewton. He was probably the Walter, son of James of Ashkirk, who was listed in the remission given in 1526 to a large number of Borderers for attacking the Earl of Arran. He was probably also related to the John of Ashkirk who was killed in 1526. He was listed in 1532 among the witnesses to a public declaration made in Selkirk by William Scott in Headshaw. Sir Walter ‘Wicked Wat’ (1499/1500–1552) 9th Laird of Buceleuch and Branxholm, son of Sir Walter, whom he succeeded in 1504, with a reinfetment of his lands. in 1516 and a ‘retour’ in 1517. In 1508 he had a charter of Branxholme and Kirkurd. His ‘tutor’ when he was a minor was Walter of Howpasley. In 1512 he was feudal the lands of Deloraine, Warlehope and Eldinhowe, along with his mother Elizabeth Ker. He was probably made a knight on the eve of Flodden and is said to have been one of the few Scots noblemen to have escaped the battle. Throughout most of his life there was conflict with the Douglases and the Kers of Cessford, as well as many Border raids. In 1515/6 he and his mother Elizabeth had a ‘notorial transmutp of papal indulgences’ seeking a condessor to absolve them from all crimes and sins. In 1519 and again in 1524 (confirmed in 1525) he was appointed Bailie of lands belonging to Melrose Abbey, including Ringwoodfield, but also ‘Melroseland’, Ettrick, Rodono, Eskdalemuir and East Teviotdale; this was said to be for the ‘divers dilligent labours and travails’ that he and his family and friends had done towards the Abbey, and the appointment was hereditary afterwards. In the 1524 charter he was assigned the farms of Northhouse and Thirlestane for his fee. In 1523 he and his wife Elizabeth Carmichael had a regrant of the family charter of the Barony of Eckford. In 1524 he was imprisoned in Edinburgh over a dispute with the Queen-Dowager over lands in Ettrick Forest, but he managed to escape. Later in 1524 he was part of an unsuccessful coup in Edinburgh, along with the Earls of Angus and Lennox and others. In July 1525 there was also remission to a group containing him (and William, Master of Glencairn) for a breach of peace and crime committed in Edinburgh, upon condition that they submit to punishment by the King, and that they help in ‘repressing of murmurs among the people and among strangers’; on the back of this document is an obligation to them for ‘the slauchtir of Duchemen, etc.’. In 1525 he was part of a bond among Border Barons to assist the Earl of Angus in keeping the peace. In 1526 he was pardoned (as leader of a large number of Borderers) for his role in gathering ‘in feir of weir’ in Edinburgh and then attempting to capture the Earl of Arran at Stirling (the events probably taking place a couple of years earlier). Also in 1526 he led a group of Scotts, Elliots and their followers to try to capture the young James V from the control of the Earl of Angus at Skirmish Field, near Melrose. This battle against Angus and his local supporters (the Kers and Homes) led to the loss of many men, and also the death of Ker of Cessford, which fuelled the later feud with the Kerrs. He was exiled for this act, but had remission along with several other Scotts and Turnbulls in 1527. He was fully pardoned in 1527/8 (probably because the young King had encouraged him in the attack at Skirmish Field) and was made Principal Cupbearer to the King, as well as Warden of the western part of the Middle March. In 1528 he was charged, by the King and his Lords who were at Jedburgh and Melrose, to show his support to the King; he came ‘in ane ledderin cote and ane blak bonet on his heid’ ready to obey the King’s commands. And in 1529 there was also royal ratification of an Act of Parliament stating that he had come to Melrose specifically at the request of the King and so was innocent of treason. In 1527 he had an agreement with James Murray of Falahill to end the feud between the Scotts and Murrays. In 1528 he was ‘oversman’ to the arbitrators chosen to decide on the succession to the lands of Borthaugh. Also in 1528 he had a discharge from the King for paying the non-entry fees for the Lordship of Bedrule; he also had the right to arrange the marriage of the heir of Bedrule. He infested his son and heir David in all of his lands in 1528. In 1528/9 he had a ‘discharge’ from Patrick, Earl of Bothwell, for his wardship and related fees and ‘non-entry’ fees associated with several local Scotts. In 1529 he also received Angus’s former Lordship of Jedforest. About the same time he also had remission for ‘breaking ward’ from Blackness Castle. In 1530 he came ‘in the King’s will’ for the murder of John, Lord Flemming, and was fined for not entering 6 men for the same crime. Shortly after the raid on Border thieves, which James V arranged in 1530, he slew the ‘verrie crewall Thief’ Robert Johnstone ‘to gratifie the King’, but this led to a feud with the Johnstones. In 1531 he was entered in ward in Borthwick Castle (for unspecified crimes), his surety being Sir James Hamilton. In 1532 there was remission for Simon Armstrong and Clement Crozier for the ‘tresonabil taking of Walter Scot of Branzhelm, knycht, in cumpany with Inglismen, and tresonabil inbringing of thaim within the realme’. In 1532 he was one of the local men appointed by the King to a commission to capture some Croziers, Elliots and Forresters for raiding Teviotdale. Also in 1532 he is probably the Sir Walter who, along with Robert, made a public complaint in Selkirk about John Hepburn ‘pretended rec- tor of Hawyk’ who had claimed teinds from them and then acted to have them excommunicated. In 1532 the Earl of Northumberland burned Branxholme Tower and he made a retaliatory raid into England, laying waste Northumberland as far as the River Beamish, with a force of 3,000 men. In 1534 the King discharged him of the bond he had made for the good behaviour of Adam and Gavin Turnbull. His charter for the lands of Westhouses and Easter Mains of Hassendean was revoked by the King in 1535, as well as his charter of the superiority of the lands of Harden. This was for supposedly helping Lord Dacre burn Denholm and Cavers in 1535, for which he was briefly imprisoned; his estates were only restored in 1542/3 (as ratified by Queen Mary in 1545). In 1538 he was accused of ‘intromitting’ over lands in Jedforest that had previously belonged to Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus. In the Exchequer Rolls of 1540 there are records of payments made to the ‘King’s shepherds’ in his lands of parts of Ringwoodfield, Broadlee, Philhope, Bellendean, Buccleuch and Eskdalemoor; this was presumably since he had temporarily forfeited these lands to the Crown. In 1540 the he was in ward when the King gave him permission to pursue legal actions, particularly against Janet, daughter of Walter of Howpasley. Around 1540 he (along with Robert of Waunmphrey) was released on condition that he help keep peace on the Border, with 2 of their friends to remain in ward as pledges; he also agreed to take on the rule of Eskdale, Ewesdale and Wauchopedale if Lord Maxwell did not take it, and also to assist Lord Bothwell at Hermitage. In 1540/1 several other noblemen served as caution for him when he was prisoner in Edinburgh Castle. Then in 1541 he appeared in Elgin as instructed by the King and was ordered to stay north of the Spey and later to remain within Dumbarton. Also in that year he raised an action against Scott of Allanhaugh (who must have been a close relative) for attacking his wife with a Jedburgh staff. Furthermore he was accused of being responsible for the death of Englishman Jenkin Pott, along with Dand Ker. In 1542 he was also accused of stealing the King’s own sheep from the lands of Melrose Abbey; presumably such activity led to his later nickname ‘Wicked Wat’. Also in 1542 there was a letter summoning him to appear before the King. Another letter of 1542/3 certifies that his livestock and goods, which had been held by the Captain of Crawford are to be returned to him. Also in 1542/3 a letter from Mary, Queen of Scots, entitles him to speak and deal with Englishmen; this is confirmed in 1547, with permission for him to ‘intercommune with the Protector, army, and council of England’. In 1543 he was made hereditary Keeper of Newark Castle (through the patronage of Cardinal Beaton, who was related to his 3rd wife). In 1543 he signed the ‘Secret Bond’ with Cardinal Beaton, resisting English plans for the infant Queen Mary (to marry Prince Edward of England). He led large Scots contingents at Ancrum Moor in 1544 and Pinkie in 1547. It is said that it was his suggestion that the Scots fight on foot at Ancrum Moor, this leading the English to imagine they were abandoning the battle and thus to mount a disastrous attack. However, he was also imprisoned twice in Edinburgh for opposing Margaret. In 1544 the Abbot of Newbattle gave 100 merks for 19 years to him and his son William for the ‘grete plesouris and steid done and to be done’ for defending the abbey’s lands and steadings from ‘thieves and broken men’. In 1544 he was granted lands in Ettrick Forest (including ‘Gawlayschellis’, and in 1546/7 was granted the tower at Hassendean (and other lands) by Melrose Abbey. In 1545 a Parliamentary decree put him at the head of 125 of the 500 horsemen who were mustered in Teviotdale. Also in 1545 he was among lairds in Teviotdale who signed a bond to settle feuds. In 1547 he aroused the enmity of the Kers of Cessford, who instigated Lord Grey to lead a raiding party, which burned and pillaged Hawick, Selkirk and his lands in the valleys of the Ale, Yarrow, Ettrick, Teviot, Slitrig and Borthwick, as well as killing his mother in Catslack Tower. In 1547/8 he was involved in a bond of loyalty to the Crown along with the Kers. In 1548/9 he was granted the lands of Easter Craik, which had been forfeited by John Cockburn of Ormiston; this was for service defending the kingdom against the English and ‘for the great losses and burning of his lands’. In 1548 he had a letter from Mary of Guise (the Queen Dowager) supporting him in all endeavours, in return for his ‘band of manrent’. Also in 1548 he received ward of the lands belonging to Turnbull of Minto, until the heir was of lawful age. In 1549 he was (re)appointed Provost of Selkirk. In 1549 he petitioned the Lords of Council for the right to post summonses at the market crosses of Jedburgh, Selkirk, Peebles, Haddington, Hawick and Melrose for Walter Ker of Cessford, John Kerr of Ferniehirst and others who had helped the English in the spoliation of the Borders, and also of attacking his lands at Newark, within Ettrick Forest and in the Borthwick valley. He was made Warden of (half of) the Middle Marches in 1550 (between Minto Craig and Craik Cross) and also Warden and Justiciar of Liddesdale in 1550/1, with permission to hold courts and in pursuing fugitives ‘burn their dwellings, and put their families to fire and sword’. In 1550 John, Archbishop of St. Andrews had a bond of maintenance with him, in response to his bond of manrent. In 1551 there were letters from the Queen, to be proclaimed at market crosses, in support of his work as Warden, and an Act of the Privy Council brought by him for the same purpose, laying down rules that were expected also to be imposed by the English War- dens. Also in 1551 he signed the ‘Auld Band of Roxburgh’, his name appearing first. In 1551/2 there is a ‘letter of inhibition’ by him against Walter Ker of Cessford and others to prevent them disposing of property to avoid paying his claimed damages. In the middle of 1552 he had a letter excusing him of attendance at inquests etc., on account of his duties as Warden and since he was ‘now past the dait of lx zeris’. He was slain on Edinburgh High Street by Ker supporters and is buried at St. Mary’s in Hawick. The gravestone of his natural son, Sir Walter of Goldielands, eulogises thus: ‘the valiant Laird of Bycklevch yat vas slane crevelie be ye Kerris in Edinburgh within ye nicht being vnaccvmpanet vith his friends or servandis onlie except tva of his dependeris attending on him not respecting nor svspecting thair intivre: This happinit in September the 53 zeir of his age ye zeir of God 155(2)’. He married 3 times and had several children, including: Sir David, who died unmarried; Sir William of Kirkurd, who died just a few months before him, but whose son Walter succeeded; Walter; David of Stobicote; John; Grizel, who married William, 7th Lord Borthwick, and later John Cairncross of Colmslie; Dorothy; Janet, who married John Cranston of Cranston, and later Robert Scott of Haining; Margaret, who probably married Robert Scott of Thirlestane; and Christian. One of his illegitimate sons was Sir Walter of Goldielands. Another daughter may have been Jean, who married Robert Elliot of Redheugh and later Gavin Elliott of Stobs. In 1519/20 he entered into a marriage contract to marry his daughter Janet, (or failing her, another daughter, Christian, or any other woman he named!) to John, son of James Gledstains of Cocklaw; however, it is unclear who married Gledstains in the end. The contract also stated that if Cocklaw was inherited in the female line, then the heir should marry his son John. In 1551 he was appointed ‘tutor-dative’ to his nephew and heir Walter, son of David. But he was succeeded by his grandson, Sir Walter (so there is some confusion here). His first wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Bartholomew Carmichael of that Ilk; she died before 1530, after giving him his eldest 2 sons. In 1530/1 he secondly married Janet, daughter of Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst, sister of one of his bitter enemies, and widow of George Turnbull of Bedrule. This marriage ended soon after in divorce, with no children. His third wife was Janet, daughter of John Betoun (or Beaton) of Creich; she was the model for the ‘La- dye’ of the ‘Lay of the Last Minstrel’ and survived her husband by 16 years. Her sister also married Sir Walter’s son Sir William (‘Whitecloak’) – ‘Bards long shall tell How Lord Walter fell! When startled burghers fled, afar, The furies of the Bor- der war, When the streets of high Dunedin Saw lances gleam, and falchions reddn And heard the slogan’s deadly yell { Then the chief of Brank- some fell! [SWS]. Walter (16th C.) listed as being ‘in the Hanyng’ in the 1526 pardon that a large number of Borderers had for attacking the Earl of Arran. He is there listed between William and George, tenants of Phaup, who may have been related. He is also listed as ‘in Haining’ when part of an inquest in Jedburgh in 1533. He was probably the younger son of John of Haining, who died at Flodden, and who acted as ‘tutor’ to his nephew Thomas in the 1530s. Perhaps the same Walter in Haining occupied the Crown lands of Haining and Hyndhope in 1541. Walter of Robertson (16th C.) probably son of John of Robertson, who was mentioned several times in the 1520s. He is recorded in 1535 in a charter executed at Selkirk in which he sold Robertson and Howcleuch to his ‘brother- german’ Stephen ‘in Valis’ (probably ‘Walls’ in Dryfesdale, north of Lockerbie) and Stephen’s son John. He probably had no children of his own. Walter (16th C.) listed as being ‘in Edschawe’ in the Selkirk Protocol Books in 1532 when he declared that John Riddell of that Ilk and William Scott of Harden were his arbiters in his dispute with Elizabeth Murray. He is also described as ‘in Etschaw’ in 1533 when he was part of a panel at a Jedburgh inquest for a dispute over the lands of Longnewton. In 1541 he is recorded being ‘in Ed- schaw’ and occupying the lands of Hartwoodburn. He was probably a descendant of the earlier Wal- ter of Headshaw. He may be the Walter, son of Walter of Headshaw who had a remission in 1502 for stealing sheep from Yair, Selkirk, Cauldshiels and Broadmeadows. Or he could be that Wal- ter’s nephew, who is recorded in the 1560s. Wal- ter (16th C.) 2nd son of George of Borthaugh, by his 2nd wife, and younger brother of John (who had a different mother). There was a dispute in 1528 over the succession to the estates of Borthaugh, Commside, Dryden and ‘the Wallis in Drynsdale’ (probably the place now called ‘St. Michael’s Walls’, in Dryfesdale near Lockerbie), because his father swore on his deathbed that he never had dispensation to marry his 1st wife, who was his cousin. The panel ruled in favour of his brother John, but gave him the ‘40s land of the Quhonis, and 40s land of Woltoun Greyne’, along with a 10-shilling land in ‘sum uthir peciable and proffatable place’. These were probably ‘Whames’ and somewhere around ‘Wiltonburn’ perhaps. Walter (16th C.) baker in Edinburgh. In 1541 he was tenant in ‘Kirksteid of Farmyn’-‘Whames’ and somewhere around ‘Wiltonburn’ perhaps. Walter ‘Wat’ of Synton and Stiches (d.c.1561) eldest son of Robert of Stiches and Synton. His brothers were William and probably David. He was known as ‘Watty Fire-the-Braes’. He is referred to as the 9th Laird of Synton, but there appears to be much confusion with his grandfather, Walter. There is also confusion over precisely who was the first Scott of Harden, but it may have been this Walter (or his father Robert, or brother William). He is probably the ‘Walteri Scott de Styrokswaw’ whose brother William was a witness to the 1507/8 document relating to the tower in Hawick ‘between the bridges’ for the Scotts of Whitchesters. He may be the Walter of Synton who was on the panel for Adam Hepburn inheriting the lands of Alemoor in 1509. He is probably the Walter, son of the deceased Robert, who is recorded owning a 5 merk land in Synton in 1510 (in an indenture for neighbouring lands between the Erskines and Kerrs). He transferred the lands of Harden to his brother William, according to a sasine of 1512, as confirmed in a charter of 1535 (except apparently for one acre of land at the eastern side). In 1517 he was on the panel of ‘retour’ for Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. In 1519/20 he was listed as someone who could give permission to change the details of a marriage contract between the Scotts of Buccleuch and the Gedestains. He was probably the Walter of Synton who appeared before the Lords at Edinburgh in 1524/5 to swear an oath to keep the peace in support of the Earl of Angus, who was Warden, and the Walter ‘of Syntoun’ who was listed on the pardon of 1526 for a large number of Borderers who had attacked the Earl of Arran. Additionally he was named in the letter of treason, nominally written by King James V, for his role in the Skirmish at Melrose, led by Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. However, in 1527 he was among the local lairds given remission for mustering their supporters at Melrose (i.e. Skirmish Field) and Linlithgow. Also in 1527 he witnessed the agreement ending the feud between Sir Walter of Branxholme and James Murray of Faulhill. He was part of the arbitration panel to decide on the dispute succession of the lands of Borthaugh in 1528. He was also probably the ‘Walter Scot in Syntone’ recorded in a discharge of ‘non-entry’ in 1528/9 between the Earl of Bothwell and several local Scotts; there he was holder of the lands of Boonraw and Outersiderig, as well as Alemoor. He was mentioned in the indenture of 1529 to attempt to end the feud between the Scotts and the Kerrs, and also mentioned in 1535 in the valuation for lands of the Archbishop of St. Andrews. He was witness to a charter of 1540 in which Simon Scott of Fenwick resigned lands of Nether Harden to William Scott of Harden. He may be the Walter ‘in Syntoun’ recorded in 1541 as tenant of half of the lands of Huntle, as well as Whitehaugh Brae, Langhope and Dodbank (in Ettrick). In 1547/8 he was one of the supporters of Sir Walter of Branxholme when they had a bond, along with the Kerrs, who had sided with the English at Pinkie and burned Hawick, etc. In 1550 he was one of 10 Scotts who signed a bond with the Queen, to keep good order and deliver up criminals. Also in 1550 he was one of the 2 curators for James Crichton of Cranston Riddell (step-son of Sir Walter of Branxholme). In 1551 he was surety for Robert Ormiston of New Hall (later of Old Melrose) and Robert’s nephew James Ormiston of that Ilk. In 1553/4 he was listed (transcribed ‘of Lyntoun’) among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kerrs promised not to harm. In 1561 he was (along with Thomas of Haining and Nicholas Rutherford of Hundle) cited by the Privy Council for non-appearance; his son Robert appeared in his place and promised to produce ‘Hob Flescheour’, who was accused of theft in Berwick. He married Marjorie, daughter of William Cockburn of Henderland, and secondly married a Riddell (perhaps Margaret, daughter of James of that Ilk). In some early histories it is claimed that he (or his son perhaps) married a Riddell who was his father’s second wife’s younger sister. It was probably his son John who was entered in ward in Borthwick Castle in 1530/1, along with William, son of Robert in Allanhaugh. His eldest son John (by his first marriage) probably predeceased
Scott

Scott

him. Robert, a son to his 2nd wife, was probably the progenitor of the Scotts of Whitslade and Stirches, while a 3rd son, Thomas, was probably ancestor of the Whitaughbrae branch. His son Walter (although this could be an error for his grandson) is recorded in 1561 when he entered Sandy Fletcher for crimes against an Englishman. Scott of Satchells also suggests other sons (William of Huntly and James of Satchells), but these seem unclear. His 8 daughters were said by Scott of Satchells to have married (in order): the Laird of Black Ormiston; Langlands of that Ilk (possibly James if this was the mid-1500s); the Laird of ‘Tofturnbull’ (although it is unclear where this is, perhaps a Turnbull of Tofts); the Laird of ‘Ailmour’ (presumably Alemoor, although it is unclear who this could be); the Laird of Fulnash’ (presumably an Elliot); the Laird of ‘Chapel-Middelmiss’ (possibly William Middlemas of Chapel in Lilliesleaf Parish); a daughter who is missed out; and the youngest who firstly married Philip Scott of Kirkhope (brother of Robert of Thirlestane), secondly Walter Scott of Woll (and not William, as stated in one source, although it is still unclear who this was) and thirdly Alexander Chisholm of Parkhill (who did in fact exist in the late 16th century). He may have been referred to as ‘Auld Synton’, and is supposed to have died at the age of 90. It is suggested that he gave up the lands of Synton (although not the designation) to his eldest son John, and then lived himself at Whitslade, which he inherited through his first wife. His 2nd wife died at Whitslade in 1585. Walter of Stirches (16th C.) recorded as ‘Walter Scot of Styrkschaw’ in 1528/9 when he was a witness to a discharge of Patrick, Earl of Bothwell, related to several local Scotts. Walter of Synton is mentioned there, showing that they were not the same man (which is confusing). Walter (15th/16th C.) successor to Philip of Whitehaugh (and Heap). He succeeded to Wester Heap in 1532. He married Janet, daughter of Walter Scott of Headshaw. His sons were: William, who died unmarried; and Walter, who sold the estate to his uncle Robert of Headshaw. Walter ‘Wat’ (d.bef. 1550) recorded as being called ‘of teviddaile’ in 1550 when his son took sasine for the lands of Colifort in the Slitrig valley. It is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts. Walter (16th C.) tenant of Todshawhaugh, recorded in 1549 when tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Braxholme complained about their farms being burned by a group of Englishmen and Kers in the previous year. He was probably related to William ‘callit Wille of Todshawhauch’ who was a resident of Whames at the same time. Walter (16th C.) listed among people who were owed money by William Scott, younger of Braxholme, when he died in 1552. He is listed as ‘Waltero Scot in Hawick’. He may be related to some of the near contemporary men who were ‘in Hawick’. Walter of Dryhope (16th C.) recorded in 1573 when, along with Sir Walter of Birkinside (and Howpasley), they were to enter into ward in Edinburgh a man from Laidhope. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts, but may be the same as a contemporary Walter. Sir Walter ‘Wat’ of Goldielands (1531/2-1596) natural son of ‘Wicked Wat’, to an unknown mother. It is said that his father built the tower at Goldielands for him, but if so this must have been shortly before his murder in 1552. He led the Scotts during the minority of the heir to Buccleuch (possibly for an extended period, since there was no heir of age for more than 30 of the subsequent years). He must thus have been powerful and important locally, so it is odd that so little is known about him. He is probably the ‘Walter Scot sone natu-the behaviour of ‘Branxholme’s men dwelling in Teviotdaill’. In 1580 he was the Bailie of Buccleuch who raised a party to follow those who had raided the Gladstains’ farm at Meikle Whitlaw; he was wounded and captured along with about 40 others, when they were set upon by a large group of Armstrongs and Elliots on their return through Liddesdale. He had to arrange to pay Lance Armstrong, Laird of Whithaugh, for their release. But he, James Gladstais of Cocklaw and Robert Elliot of Redheugh complained to the Privy Council, and the attackers were all denounced as rebels. In 1580/1 he was referred to as ‘baillie, and appoitit to answer for the landis and tennentis of the Lard of Bukcleuch’. Also in 1581 he was among a list of Border Lairds who denounced their bonds with Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus. In 1581 he promised to the King to answer for the behaviour of the men dwelling on Walter Scott of Buccleuch’s lands and in particular was also directed in 1581 to find caution for Walter of Headshaw and associates, who had failed to appear. However, that same year he was among a large group denounced as rebels for failing to present men to answer their rieving crimes. He was entered into ward in Edinburgh Castle in 1581, with his cautioners being Robert and Mungo, Burgesses of Edinburgh, along with James Gladstais of Cocklaw, the amount being £2000. Later Paul Doig of Coldoch was his cautioner in case he should ‘brek the assurance’ for crimes committed by the Scotts on Dand Elliot of Braidlie by Robert of Headshaw and others. Additionally in 1581 he was allied with James Gladstais of Cocklaw and Robert Elliot of Redheugh when they had a set of complaints made against them to the Privy Council by Martin of Braidlie, Simon Armstrong of Mangerton and Lance Armstrong of Whithaugh; he was clearly acting as chief of the Scotts at that time. He was denounced as a rebel in 1583 for non-appearance, when he was recorded as ‘chamberlain of Atrik Forrest’. He was ‘Wat Scot of Goldielandis’ among the Border Lairds summoned to appear before the Privy Council in 1583/4. About the same time he led the signatories on a bond of support for the Warden of the Middle Marches, Sir Thomas Ferniehirst. He witnessed the 1586 marriage contract between Margaret Ker and Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. He was appointed as a Parliamentary Commissioner for Roxburghshire in about 1588. He had a ‘Band of Association’ in 1589 with about 50 men of his clan; this proscribed any Scotts from taking land from each other, transgressions going before a panel of 5 of their number, a similar rule even applying of he himself encroached upon any of his kinsmen’s possessions. About 1590 he was listed among a large number of landed men in the Borders. In 1592 he was instructed (along with Gideon Murray) to demolish Harden and Dryhope, because of Walter of Harden’s involvement in the Falkland Raid. In 1594 he is described as ‘cosin and deputie’ to Sir Walter of Branxholme in an indenture that he had with his English counterpart, servant of Lord Scrope. His son was also Walter and was probably present at the rescue of Kimmont Willie; however, some have suggested that this was him, but being about the age of 64 at the time it seems improbable. He died later in the same year that the rescue of Kimmont Willie took place. He was buried in the vaults at St. Mary’s, and his tombstone was removed in 1863 for preservation in the Museum; his tombstone is headed ‘Valter Scot his Genealogie’ and he is recorded as ‘Valter Scot of Govdilandis’, son of ‘Sir Valter Scot the valiant Laird of Bvcklevch yat vs slane crevelie be ye Kerris in Edinburgh’. A second stone, cut in high relief records ‘HIS QVALITIES’, namely ‘Heir lyis bvrit visdome & virthines Heir lyis bvreit trevth & honestie Heir lyis bvreit fridome & gentres Heir lyis bvreit pietie & diligence Glorie be to God for althings’. Both stones were stencilled after discovery by Sir James Murray. Another stone bears his arms, with the Buccleuch arms crossed by the bar of illegitimacy. The name of his wife is not known. He was succeeded by his son Walter. He may also have had an illegitimate son, Charles of Crumhaugh, as well as a daughter who married Robert of Glack (but this may have been a later generation). A record of 1620 records Robert, ‘brother natural’ to Sir Walter of Goldielandis (his son), showing that he had another son, Robert – ‘The laird Watt did weil indeed, His friends stude stoutly by himself . . . ’[CPM]. Walter (d.c.1553) son of David and nephew of Sir Walter of Buccleuch, to whom he was heir (although this seems confusing). His uncle was appointed as his tutor in 1551, but died the following year. Assuming there isn’t simply an error, he must have died about the same time, since his cousin, also Walter, son of Sir William of Kirkurd, succeeded to the Buccleuch titles. Walter (d.c.1555) recorded in 1555 when his brother Robert of Bowhill was served heir to his half steadying called ‘Westyde de Kershop’ in Ettrick. If Robert of Bowhill was son of David of Tushielaw, then he must have been also. Walter of Harden (d.c.1563) possibly son of William `Boltfoot', 1st Laird of Harden. However, it is unclear if there really is an extra Walter between 'Boltfoot' and 'Auld Wat o Harden'. If he existed, he only lived for a couple of years beyond his father. Satchells suggests that he married a Riddell, daughter of his step-mother. His sons were Walter, ‘Auld Wat o Harden’ and William ‘in the Mott’. Walter (16th C.) recorded as ‘in Hassindene’ in 1564 when his son James was one of the men tried (along with Elliots of Horsleyhill and others) for the murder of David of Hassendean. Sir Walter (1548/9–74) 10th Laird of Buccleuch, succeeded his grandfather in 1553/4, his father Sir William of Kirkurd (‘Whitecloak’) having died first. His ‘retour’ of 1553/4 as heir to his deceased grandfather Sir Walter, mentions an impediment to his inheritance on account of the enmity of the Sheriffs of Roxburghshire and Peeblesshire towards his kinsmen and friends. In 1554/5 it is recorded in a sasine that his tutor was Robert Scott of Allanhaugh. He is stated in one charter as achieving his majority in 1561. He signed a bond with the Kers in 1564/5, attempting to end the family feud (it contains the names of many of his supporters and retainers of the time, including Sir Walter of Goldielands, who appeared personally); it is promised the Scotts and Kers will ‘leif in perite amité, lufe, and Cristiane nychtburheid’, and marriages are arranged between his sister Janet and Thomas, son of Sir Walter Ker of Cessford, as well as his father’s sister Janet with George, son of Andrew Kerr of Faldonside. However, another feud erupted with the Elliots in 1564, perhaps sparked by the murder of David of Hassendean. This led to raids into Elliot lands in Liddesdale and counter-raids on his lands in Teviotdale, including the burning of Hawick in 1565. In one such raid he and his men slew 7 Elliots and Croziers, while some of those from Liddesdale raided the Hawick area, killing one man and stealing cattle. In 1565/6 he was made Captain of Newark Castle. He was a devoted supporter of Mary Queen of Scots, raiding England with Kerr of Ferniehirst, expecting the Regent Moray to have been assassinated. In retaliation the Earl of Sussex and Lord Scrope blew up Branxholme and laid waste the lands around Hawick. In 1568/9 he signed another contract with the Kers relating to the murder of his grandfather; this time Sir Andrew Kerr of Hirsel, James Kerr of Corbet, Walter Hogg and their kin agreed to come to the church of Melrose to apologise, and the grandson of Sir Andrew was to marry Elizabeth Murray, his sister. His armorial seal of 1568 is the first to show supporters, in this case 2 bucks. In 1569 he signed the bond for suppressing thieves on the Border and in that same year was served heir to his uncle David in Roxburghshire Sheriff Court. In early 1569 he apparently (according at a case before the Lords of Council 4 years later) despoiled some of what was left of Melrose Abbey, carrying away a great deal of the ‘stanis tymmer leid irne and glas of the said kirk’; he sold it to some burgesses of Selkirk, Dame Isabel Ker of Cessford and others, but claimed he was preserving the Abbey from the English army and promised to spend the same money to repair it. Also in 1569 he was obliged to enter someone in court in Dumfries. Additionally in 1569 he was found liable for the sureties for the Elliots of Falnash, Gorrenberry and Dodburn, who had not appeared, with his lands and goods to be held if he did not pay. He brought a ‘letter of inhibition’ against the teinds of the Kirks of Cavers and Hassendean in 1570, suggesting some local dispute. Also in 1570 he signed a bond on behalf of his kin, friends, etc., for keeping the peace on the Border. He had Branxholme Castle rebuilt in 1571. He was a principal leader in the 1571 raid on Stirling to seize the Regent Lennox, where he was captured and was for a while imprisoned in Castle Doune. In 1573 he was re-appointed as Captain, Constable and Keeper of Newark Castle and as Bailie and Chamberlain of the Lordship of Ettrick Forest. Also in 1573 he served as surety for some Borderers and signed the ‘Band of Roxburgh’. He was responsible for paying an English ‘bill’ of £3600 Scots after Ralph Ker broke ward in England. In 1574 he was witness to a discharge between Cranston of that Ilk and Douglas of Cavers relating to the lands of Denholm. At a very young age (in 1567/8) he was contracted to marry Margaret, daughter of David Douglas, 7th Earl of Angus. She continued the rebuilding of Branxholme after his death, later married Francis Stewart, Earl of Bothwell and died in 1640. His children included: Sir Walter, who became 1st Lord of Buccleuch; Margaret, who was executor of his will (and was said to have married Robert Scott of Thirlestane, but this would appear to be confusion with her great aunt); and Mary, who married William Elliot of Larriston. He was only 25 years old when he died. His ‘testament’ describes the numbers of sheep and cattle he owned on his various farms, as well as mentioning several Hawick residents, and is an invaluable record. of details of local farming and business life 4½ centuries ago. Walter (16th C.) recorded as witness to an instrument of sasine in 1569 for the lands of Crook; he is 'Walter Scot there', meaning he resided near Crook. It is possible he is connected with the nearly contemporary Scotts in Orchard. Walter of Headshaw (d.bef. 1593) probably son of Philip. He may be the Walter, son of Philip of Headshaw who is listed on the 1526 remission for Borders men for supporting the Homes in an attack on the Earl of Arran; if so he must have been quite young at the time. He is probably the Walter 'of Edschaw' who is among a group of Scotts who signed a bond with the Queen in 1550 to keep order and hand over criminals. In 1553/4 he was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. He was listed among the men who appeared before the Privy Council in a promise to end the feud between the Kers and the Scotts in 1562. He is recorded as of 'Edschaw' in a panel of 1564 to hear the case involving Scotts and Elliot's accused of killing David Scott of Hassendean. Also in 1564 he is probably the 'Guidman of Edschaw' who was listed among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. In 1569 Robert of Thistlestone was caution for him. Also in 1569 he was on the panel of inquest for Grizel Borthwick inheriting superiority of her father's lands in Wilton. His son William was warded in 1571 and was also recorded swearing allegiance to the Crown and Regent in 1572/3, with James Langlands of that Ilk as surety. In 1573 he served as surety for several Borderers. In 1581 he was accused of leading a group who attacked 2 sons of Martin Elliot of Braedie as they rode past Headshaw, cutting off the hand of one, and seriously injuring the other. He was among a long list of Scotts summoned to appear before the Privy Council in 1581, but failed to do so the first time, with Walter of Goldielands then ordered to find caution for him. Also in 1581 he and Dickson of Ormiston acted as cautioners for the Irvings of Bonshaw (and could not write his name on the document); this was discharged in 1582. In 1583/4 he and his brother William were among some Borderers denounced for failing to appear before the Privy Council. His servants John Johnston and John Thomson are also listed in a citation in 1583/4. In 1585 he witnessed a bond (signed at Selkirk and Hawick) settling a feud between the Scotts of Brauxholme and the Scotts of Allanhaugh. He is probably the Walter who married a daughter of Sir William 'White-cloak' of Kirkurd. He had 2 sons: Robert, his heir; and another, possibly Walter, who was father of Robert of East Groundstone. Walter (16th C.) recorded as 'in Bellhauch' when he was one of 32 men to sign the 1569 bond for suppression of Border thieves. His name occurs between Gledstains of Cocklaw and Scott of Tushielaw, so he was probably local. Walter (16th C.) Hawick resident described as 'gled Wattie Scot' in the will of Sir Walter of Buccleuch in 1574. He was owed £18 by Sir Walter's estate and listed along with many merchants and others. Walter of Hassendean (16th C.) listed in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. He probably served as factor or similar, along with several other men whose fees were exactly the same. He may be the same as the tenant in Hassendean recorded in 1564. Walter of Syntoun (d.bef. 1589) son of John, he succeeded his grandfather Walter. He was recorded (along with his brothers Robert, William and James) as the 'young Laird of Syntoune' in 1557 when he was involved in an attack by the Scotts on the church of St. Mary of the Lowes. He could be the Walter, recorded as 'sone to Wat Scot of Syntoun' (even although he was grandson) in 1561. Either he or his grandfather was the Walter listed among the men who appeared before the Privy Council in a promise to end the feud between the Kers and the Scotts in 1562. In 1564 he was listed among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. There is some uncertainty in these generations. He married Christian Riddell of that Ilk, and died without an heir. However, it appears he was succeeded by his brother George (although Scott of Satchells suggests that George was his son, which seems unlikely). His heir George is recorded as 'in Syntoun' in 1570. Walter, son of Walter of 'Syntoun' was witness to a sasine in Melrose in 1574. His grandson Walter was served heir to his lands of Whitslade in 1605. Sir Walter of Birkenside and Howpasley (d.c.1580) eldest son of Robert of Howpasley. He witnessed a charter in 1549 in which his father granted his lands of Appletreehall to the Turnbulls, also witnessed by his brother Robert. He is recorded as younger of Howpasley in 1562/3. In 1569 he was on the panel of inquest for Grizel Borthwick inheriting superiority of her father's lands in Wilton. Also in 1569 he appeared in Hawick before the Warden and Sir Walter of Brauxholme, serving as surety for 23 tenants in Outersiderig, that they would answer to the laws of the Lord Regent. In 1571/2 he signed the bond.
to act against Borders thieves. According to the register of the Privy Council he served as surety in 1571, 1573 and 1576 and was warded in 1571. In 1574 he was on the retours for Walter Scott of Bruxholme as heir to his great-uncle David Scott and his great-grandfather Sir Walter Scott. Also in 1574 there was a ‘reversion’ with him for the mill of Easter Burnfoot, with William of Harden and James of Whitslade. His father appears to have died before 1567, but he did not succeed to Howpsaw until 1578/9 and also held the lands of Birkenside in Berwickshire. He was in turn succeeded by his son Walter in 1580, although Walter did not become infeft until 1588. Another son may have been on the raid to rescue Kimmont Willie in 1596. Sir Walter ‘Watt’ of Tushielaw (d.c.1618) eldest son of William of Tushielaw. In 1563/4 he and his father were ordered to replace the sheep that they had stolen from the lands of Bailielee, belonging to Dand Elliot. He signed the bond for suppressing the Border thieves in 1569 and was witness to the last testament of Sir Walter of Bruxholme in 1574. In 1573 he is referred to as being ‘in Hartwoodmyris’ (and son of William of Tushielaw) when he was present at the court of Edinburgh, as well as Littles from Midhope; it is unclear if he was related to the later Scotts of Hartwoodmyres. In 1574 he was one of the noblemen appointed to resolve the dispute between the Johnstones and Maxwells. In 1578 he was ‘younger of Tushielaw’ when he was pledge for ‘Archie Kene’ Elliot. In 1578/9 he was among 22 Border Lairds who did not appear before the Privy Council when summoned. However, he later swore to the Council that he had entered into ward ‘Archie Kene’ Elliot. Also in 1578/9 there was a complaint by Patrick Murray of Falahill, that he and his accomplices had illegally taken over the lands of ‘Skaddoneis’ (perhaps ‘Scaddow Rig’). Additionally, tenants in Gattonside complained that he and his supporters (including his brother James and his son Walter, as well as James, William and Dand in Selkirk) attacked the farm at Gattonside, breaking barns and stealing corn; failing to appear before the Privy Council, he was denounced as a rebel. He was still recorded as being ‘in Hartwoodmyryes’ at that time. In 1579/80 he was accused of being involved in an ‘intrigue’ with Grizel Scott, wife of William, Lord Borthwick (and daughter of Sir Walter Scott of Bruxholme); this was also claimed to be ‘incest’, suggesting that he had married another daughter of Sir Walter. In 1581 he was still ‘younger, of Tuschelaw’ among a large group denounced as rebels for failing to present men to answer their rieving crimes. Also in 1581 he witnessed a ‘letter of slains’ in Hawick whereby Robert and James Scott forgave the Scotts of Allanhaugh and Over Southfield for the murder of their brother George. He was among the Border Lairds summoned to appear before the Privy Council in 1583/4. In 1584 he was a cautioner for a number of men (from around Heriot). He resigned his lands to Walter Scott of Bruxholme in 1588 (presumably to grant a new charter). He is mentioned in 1589 when his servant Robert Elliot in ‘Borthuikbra’ refused to restore 2 mares and a horse that had been stolen. Also in 1589 he and his brother James signed a bond with other Scotts to settle differences amongst themselves. He is listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in 1590. He gained Gamescleuch in 1591. In 1592 he had a charter, ratified by Parliament, for the lands of Tushielaw, including Coom Law and Gamil-shengh, making it clear that other claims on the lands were to be disallowed. He is listed in 1594 among those implicated in the slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Dryle Sands. His sons Robert, James and John are also listed. In 1601 he is ‘the Goodman of Tushellaw’ listed among men of an assize to decide cases brought by the March Wardens. In 1603 he witnessed a ‘bond of manrent’ between Francis Armstrong of Kimmont and Sir James Johnstone of that Ilk. In 1607 he was ‘gudman of Tuschelaw’ when he was witness for a report of the bailie court of the Regality of Melrose; his son John was also witness. In 1607 he was also paid bolls of malt by the tenants of Lessuden. Additionally in 1607 he was the first named in a long list of men charged with trying to stop James Maxwell and Robert Douglas taking possession of the Debatable Lands. In 1609 there is a court case involving him and his eldest son Robert with Alexander, Earl of Home over the lands of Cacrabank; there it is stated his wife was Elizabeth Gledstains. Also in 1609 he brought an action against Sir Robert of Thirlestane and his tenants for resetting Walter of Headshaw and others; this was related to the feud with the Scotts of Thirlestane, which had resulted in the death of Walter of Gamescleuch (brother of Sir Robert of Thirlestane) at the sword of his son John. In 1610 Robert of Headshaw, and Walter, fiar of Whitslade (for Sir Robert of Thirlestane) had a bond for not harming him or his sons Robert and James. Additionally Andrew Riddell of that Ilk and his son John had a similar bond. Also in 1610 there was a complaint against his servant Martin Johnstone, claiming that he and another man raided the farm of Nether ‘Liverhay’. In 1611 he complained that Francis Armstrong of Kinmont was occupying his lands of Mumbiehirst. In 1612 the Privy Council also asked him and Sir Robert of Thirlestane to resolve the contradictory claims of each family. He was one of the signers of the bond of 1612 to keep peace in the Borders, which his son Robert also signed. In 1614 his son John had remission from the King for the death of Walter of Gamescleuch, and had his ex-communication lifted in 1615. However, in 1616 he ran off with Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane’s daughter, Grizel, marrying her at Bellingham. The Presbytery records show that the couple were to appear to confess their sin, with the Laird of Thirlestane to be absent that day. It has been suggested that he was killed a few months later by a group of Scotts (including Simon of Bonnington), but this appears to be confusion with the murder of Walter, tenant in Essenside (a younger son of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden). He is recorded as still alive in 1617 and is also mentioned in a charter of 1618 when his lawful son Robert received lands at ‘Wairdlawrig’ in Selkirkshire from John Lord Hay of Yester. He married Elizabeth, daughter of a Gledstains of Cocklaw. His son Robert was ‘of Tuschoaw’ in 1619, suggesting he was deceased by then. His son and heir William is recorded in a ‘letter of inhibition’ with Walter, Earl of Buccleuch in 1619 (but this may be an error). He is probably the Walter of Tushielaw to whom the reversion of half of Glenkerry and Midgehope were resigned by Gilbert Elliott of Stobs in 1620 (although he may have been deceased by then). It is suggested in some accounts that he was succeeded by another Walter, however he was most likely succeeded by his eldest son Robert (unless 2 generations of Walters are compounded). His other sons were: James of Boyken and Glenrath; and John of Mackersway, who killed Walter of Gamescleuch. Both James and John took part in the rescue of Kinmont Willie. Walter (16th C.) recorded as ‘in Todrig’ when he witnessed a charter for lands in Rulewater in 1568. It is unclear how he might have been related to other local Scotts, unless he was Walter, son and heir of the Laird at that time, George of Todrig. Walter ‘Wat’ of Eldinhope (16th C.) recorded in the register of the Privy Council in 1576 when he relieved a surety. He appears as ‘Watt Scott of Eldinghope’. It seems likely that he is the same as one of the other contemporary Walters, probably related to the Scotts of Buccleuch (who held these lands). Walter ‘Wat’ (16th C.) recorded as resident of Over Southfield in 1581, along with ‘Syme Scot in Oversouthfield’, ‘Syme Scot thair’ and ‘Jok Scot, duelland in Hawik, callit Wattis Jok’. He was presumably related to the other men listed, all of whom were probably related to the Scotts of Allanhaugh, who were also named in the ‘letter of slains’ for the murder of George Scott in 1578. Walter (16th C.) Burgess of Hawick, recorded as ‘sonne to wmuqhell Thomas Scot in Hawick, zonger’ in 1585 when he was one of the witnesses to the bond in which Sir Walter of Branxholme and Robert of Allanhaugh resolved a family feud. It seems that his father was Thomas, and probably also his gradfather. Walter of Howpasley (16th C.) probably son of Sir Walter of Birkenside and grandson of Robert of Howpasley. He succeeded his father in 1580, but was probably then a minor, since he did not become ‘infeft’ until 1588, when he also succeeded to the lands of Midshiels and Appletreehall (which had been ‘in the King’s hands’ for more than 7 years). He was probably the Laird of ‘Howpaslot’ listed among the Borderers summoned to appear before the Privy Council in 1583/4. He was probably Laird of ‘Howpaisslott’ when the ‘Roll of the Clans’ was drawn up around 1590. He may have had a brother who was at the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. He may have been father of William and/or the husband of ‘Lady Howpasley’ who was involved in the slaughter of sheep in 1616. He is recorded in 1591 as the possessor of the lands of ‘Gallowlaw’ in the Barony of Hassendean, charged by the Baron, James Cunningham, to produce charters for these lands. He was probably succeeded by William, who may have been the last of the direct line of Scotts of Howpasley. Walter of Stirches (16th C.) listed among landed men of the Borders in about 1590. Walter of Chamberlain Newton, Walter of Harden and the Laird of Synton are all listed separately, showing that he was distinct from all of them; however, it is unclear what his relationship was with other nearly contemporary Lairds. He is probably also the Walter of Stirkhaws who along with William of Hartwoodmyres was under caution in 1593, with Gideon Murray as surety. It is possible he was Walter, younger of Synton (son of George). Walter of Catslack (16th C.) signatory of the Scott clan bond in 1589. It is unclear how he may have been related to the later
Scott

Scotts of Catslack, perhaps he was father of William. Walter of Synton (d.1608) eldest son of George of Synton. His brother George became a saddler’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1610. His brother John was involved in a sasine with Robert of Satchells in 1609. In 1603 he was on the list of ‘pretended tenants’ ordered to leave their lands by James Cunningham, then Baron of Hassendean. In 1605 he redeemed 500 merks on these lands of Outersiderig with William Elliot of Falnah. He is ‘Waltir Scot called ‘Old Walter’ in Synetone’ in 1608 when he was listed as part of a group of Scotts and their followers who rescued 2 of their kin from imprisonment by the Bailies of Selkirk.

In 1610 (apparently after his death) he was part of a petition, along with several local Langlands and Scotts, to have horphins lifted and penalties reduced; he is there referred to as ‘Old Wattie’. George Langlands of that Ilk acted as caitioner for him and several other Scotts in this dispute against the Scotts of Todshawhaugh and Ormiston. His son George was served heir to his lands of Outersiderig and Boorraw in 1610. He married Isobel, daughter of Douglas of Whittinghame (probably William, 3rd of Whittinghame, or perhaps Sir Archibald his son). Their children were: George, who succeeded; Anne, said to have married Capt. Gledstains of Whitlaw (possibly John); Capt. Archibald, who probably died unmarried; Elspeth; and Christian. His daughters are mentioned in his last testament. It may have been his widow who was summoned by the Presbytery in 1615 ‘for abusing the minister, Mr. Alex. Hog, publicly, by words and countenance, on Sabbath, betwixt the sermons, in the audience of the congregation’. She was probably also the ‘gudewife of Sintoun’ who received communion at both Has­sendean and Lilliesleaf Kirks in 1615, rather than her own church at Ashkirk, resulting in rebuke for both ministers. It is unclear what the nature of this dispute was, but presumably a doctrinal difference with her minister (Alexander Hogg).

Walter of Deephope (16th/17th C.). Said to have been on the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Walter of Blindhaugh (16th C.) signatory of the Scott clan bond of 1589. He was probably related to the neighbouring Scotts, e.g. the Woll branch, who owned the lands of Blindhaugh later. Walter (d.bef. 1612) tenant in Stonedge. In 1612 his nephew William complained to the Privy Council about Andrew Newton in Jedburgh not paying him. Walter ‘Watt’ of Gamescleuch (d.1609) 2nd son of Sir Robert of Thirlestane. He was probably the brother of Robert of Thirlestane included in a list of those involved in the 1593 slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Drye Sands. He was probably present at the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1602 he was among the group of Scotts who attacked Adam Veitch’s lands at ‘Fechane’. He may be the Walter ‘of Thirlestane’ who was in the gang of Scotts that forcibly released 2 of their kin from imprisonment by the Bailies of Selkirk in 1608. Also in 1608 he was among the relatives and friends of Sir Robert of Thirlestane who were bound not to harm Archibald ‘of Dephoip’. He was slain by John, son of Walter Scott of Tushielaw, an incident that may have been the inspiration for the ‘Dowie Dens of Yarrow’. They had a duel on a field to the west of Yarrow Kirk, known as ‘Deuchar-swyre’. It is said that he went there as a mediator in the arranged combat between his nephew Robert, and John, son of Walter of Tushielaw. There followed much legal process before the local Presbytery and the Privy Council. John Scott’s pardon by James VI is recorded in 1614. He married Marion (or Janet), daughter of Sir Patrick Porteous of Hackshaw and had an only surviving son, Patrick of Tanlawhill and Thirlestane. Simon may have been another son and his daughters were: Marion, who married Rev. Robert Martin in 1617; and Margaret. Walter of Woll (d.c.1617) first noted in 1606, is suggested (by Keith Scott) to have been descended from the Scotts of Haining. His brother John of Ashkirk was said to have been among those involved in the rescue of Kinmont Willie. He is recorded in 1608 when his brother John, and several others, attacked and maltreated some residents of Selkirk. He is there recorded as ‘Waltir Scot of Well’ and his half-brother John Turnbull (apparent of Harden) is also mentioned. In 1609 he was ‘in Woll’ when he had a charter for the lands of ‘Blindhauch . . ., Braidley, Castelsyde, Leiphill, Rynnes, Rycroft, Roundhauch, Sandiehauch and Langupmedow’ in the Barony of Ashkirk. He married twice. By his first wife he had: Robert, who succeeded; and Francis. He secondly married Catherine Ormiston, and their children were: George; and Katherine. In 1617 his eldest son Robert was appointed as tutor to his younger children George and Katherine (half-siblings of Robert), by which time he was deceased. Walter of Bowhill (16th/17th C.) son of Robert, he was recorded in 1592 and was also known as being ‘of North Bowhill’. He had brothers William (who was at the rescue of Kinmont Willie) and James. He was succeeded by his eldest son Robert in 1609, and also had sons Walter, James and William. Walter of Huntly (16th/17th C.) possibly son of Robert of Huntly, who was said to have been in the raid that rescued Kinmont Willie. He was part of a gang of Scotts (from Bowhill, Thirlestane, Synton, etc.) who forcibly freed 2 of their kin from imprisonment in Selkirk in 1608. His brother William is also mentioned. He was also upon an inquest in 1612. However, in 1616 James of Huntly is recorded (perhaps his brother), suggesting he was deceased by then. Walter of Headshaw (16th/17th C.) transcribed as ‘of Edieslaw’ in a 1603 document when a large number of Scotts and some Turnbulls and Elliots were given a summons to remove themselves from land that was claimed by James Cunningham, Earl of Glencarn to be wrongfully possessed. He may have been the 2nd son of Walter of Headshaw and brother of Robert of Headshaw (if so he could have been father of Robert of Easter Groundstone). In 1609 Robert of Headshaw and a number of other men were bonded not to reset him and several others while they were ‘at the horn’ for not signing an assurance not to harm Walter of Tushielaw. And later the same men were fined for resetting him and the others. This was part of the feud between the Scotts of Thirlestane and Tushielaw. Walter of Whitehaugh (16th/17th C.) one of the ‘pretended tenants’ who James Cunningham, Earl of Glencarn (and Baron of Hassendean) tried to evict in 1603. He is probably the younger son of Walter of Whitehaugh, who succeeded to the estate on the death of his unmarried older brother, William. In 1610 he was part of a petition, along with several local Langlands and Scotts, to have hagbuiittis and pistollettis’, and threatening to debar anyone who tried to come there; it is unclear what happened as a result of the summons against him and his compatriots. Also in 1627 he gave caution to the Privy Council for John Geddes, Burgess of Dumfries. It is also hard to understand how he might fit in with the genealogy given by Scott of Satchells. Walter ‘the Hawk’ of Whitslade (d.c.1610) son of Robert. He lived in the earlier part of his life at Stirches, like his father. He was probably the first to style himself ‘of Whitslade’. His nickname was said to be ‘on account of his sharpness and activity’. He had a charter in 1575, in which he was described as son and heir of Robert, who was 2nd son of Walter of Synton. He was listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. In 1581 he was listed among the supporters of the Earl of Crawford who attacked Ruthven Castle; he was also listed in a complaint made by Margaret Erskine, Lady Ruthven against Crawford and his followers in 1583. He may have been the Walter of ‘Whitslade’ who signed the Buccleuch Band in 1589. In 1591, along with Sir Walter of Buccleuch and Walter of Harden, he had a letter of pardon from the King for ‘intercommuning with Francis’ Earl of Bothwell. It is said that his brother Robert went on the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1603 he (probably incorrectly transcribed as ‘William’) was one of the large list of men given a ‘summons of removal’ from their lands in Hassendean by the Baron at that time, James Cunningham. He is recorded in a ‘retour’ of 1605, as heir to his grandfather Walter of Synton, in the lands of Whitslade. In 1608 Sir Robert of Thirlestane was caution for him and 2 of his sons, that they not harm Archibald of ‘Deiphoip’. He married a daughter of Douglas of Cavers. His sons included: Sir Walter, who succeeded; Thomas of Todrig, who married Janet, daughter of Walter Scott of Harden, with pre-uptial contract in late 1613 (by which time he was deceased); probably Robert, who was on the Carlisle raid in 1596; probably George, recorded as brother of Walter in the 1620s when there were court proceedings with Robert, younger of Satchells; and James, who in 1620 married Agnes Scott, widow of Rev. Alexander Hogg and held lands at Eildon – ‘Whitslade the Hawk, and Headshaw came And warriors more than I may name: From Yarrowcleugh to Hindhaugh-sweir, From Woodhouselie to Chesterglen, Troop’d man and horse, and bow and spear; Their gathering word was Bel-lenden’ [SWS]. Walter of Northhouse (16th/17th C.). Scott of Satchells gives him first on the list of ‘Pensioners’ of the house of Buccleuch. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Walters. He could be the Walter, brother of ‘Will’ of Northhouse who was involved in a raid on Stobs in 1608. Satchells says he was ‘the first gentleman descended from the family’, presumably meaning he was the first Scott of Northhouse. Walter of Chapelhill (16th/17th C.) listed by Scott of Satchells among the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. He was said to be half-brother to the Laird of Chisholme; it is unclear who the Laird was at that time, but Walter Chisholme married Ann, daughter of William of Chapelhill in the latter part of the 16th century, so perhaps ‘half-brother’ means brother-in-law. Sir Walter of Goldielands (d.aft. 1627) son of the ‘Laird’s Wat’, he was probably the Walter of Goldielands who took part in the rescue of Kimmont Willie in 1596 (although some have suggested this was his elderly father). He is ‘younger of Goldielandis’ in 1593 when he witnessed a marriage contract between Gledstains of Cocklaw and Turnbull of Wauchope. He is recorded as ‘Walter Scot sone to Wat of Gaudylandis’ in a 1594 list of those implicated in the slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Dryfe Sands. He is probably the Walter of Goldielands who was among the 15 Border lairds who were removed from their homes in 1608 for being ‘ringleaders suspected wither of their bygone conversation or for their present disordered courses’; he and Robert Elliot of Redheugh were sent to Cupar in Fife. In 1610 he was listed among the supporters of the Scotts of Thirlestane in their feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw. In 1612 he signed a bond at Jedburgh for keeping peace on the Border, along with several other local men. Also in 1612 he was on the panel of ‘retour’ for Tweedie of Drumelzier. These generations are quite uncertain (Keith Scott disagreeing with Tancred, for example). However, he did not marry Jean Riddell, since that marriage was with his son, who was also Walter. It has also been suggested that he died without issue and was succeeded by his cousin Walter, son of his uncle Charles; however, this seems like it refers to a later generation. He must be the Sir Walter of Goldielands referred to in a 1670 court case in which his son Walter demanded copies of earlier instruments of sasine relating to Goldielands (which existed in the former Hawick Town Clerk’s ‘protocol book’); in 1620 he was infefted by Walter, Earl of Buccleuch, in the lands of Goldielands and Westcoterig, and the same day granted Goldielands to his son Walter, retaining the ‘liferent’ for himself. His ‘brother natural’ Robert is also mentioned in 1620. He is probably the Sir Walter of Goldielands recorded in 1627 as owner of ‘the Ladyland’ near Hawick (since his son Walter was not referred to as ‘Sir’). His wife’s name is unknown, and there are also no records of other children. However, it is possible that his wife was the ‘Lady Gaudielands, Edgerstons Aunt’ who was recorded on a document of 1666 describing the division of the burial space in the choir of Jedburgh Abbey among various Rutherfords. Walter ‘Wat’ (16th C.) recorded as tenant in Borthaugh in 1569. He signed the bond to keep the peace on the Border. Sir Walter ‘the Bold Buccleuch’ (1565/6–1611) 11th Laird and later 1st Lord of Buccleuch, only son of Sir Walter of Branxholme and Buccleuch. He succeeded his father in 1574, and although he was a minor, he had special dispensation from the Regent. There was a precept of sasine for him inheriting his father’s lands that were held by Melrose Abbey, including the Monk’s Tower in Hassendean, Ringwoodfield, Ettrick, Rodono, Eskdalemuir, Northhouse and Thirlestane, as well as the office of Bailie of Melroseland. In 1574 he also was formally served as heir to the lands of his great-uncle David and his great-grandfather Sir Walter (these being legally necessary because of inheritance during the minority of previous generations). This included the Baronies of Branxholme, Eckford and Kirkurd, as well as Lanton, Whitchesters, Rackleburn, Lemplitaw, Elrig, Whithope, Dryden, Commonside, Ginwood, Borthaugh, Grahamslaw and lands within the Regality of Melrose. His ‘tutor’ was his great-uncle, James Douglas, Earl of Morton (who was asked to make Walter of Goldielands responsible for the behaviour of ‘Branxhelne’s men dwelling in Teviotdaill’ in 1581). He became one of the most powerful barons of his time, was noted for his bravery, and is often regarded as the last of the Border rievers. He was constantly involved in attempts by the crown to keep peace on the Border, and went in and out of favour, including brief exile in France. He is recorded (presumably his agents) bringing a ‘letter of inhibition’ against Cavers Kirk for non-payment of teinds in 1577 and in 1588 he was confirmed in the ‘tack’ of the teinds of Hassendean and Cavers Parishes. In 1582 he and his accomplices were accused by the men of Bewcastle of stealing 200 cows and 300 goats and sheep. In 1582/3 he received remission from King James VI for crimes for which he had been imprisoned in Blackness (but escaped). In 1585 he had a bond with Robert of Allanhaugh, resolving a feud, partly the result of him being involved (during his minority) in the death of David, son of Adam of Allanhaugh. Also in 1585 he raised a force of Scotts to join the Earls of Angus, Mar and Bothwell (his step-father) against the Earl of Arran and James VI at Stirling Castle. In 1586 he was involved in raids into England, along with Bothwell and Maxwell. Also in 1586 he is recorded as ‘baillie principall’ of the Regality of Melrose. In 1587 the English Warden wrote that he led a band into Redesdale with 200 men (in daylight, with his pennant and a trumpeter belonging to the Earl of Bothwell), burning the woods and killing a man. In the same year he was briefly imprisoned in Edinburgh Castle for a raid against the English (perhaps the counter-attack following Sir Cuthbert Collingwood’s raid into Teviotdale). In 1588 he had a commission to protect Selkirkshire. Also in 1588 the English Warden complained that he and the Lairds of Chisholme and Whithaugh led about 100 Scotsmen on a raid into England, killing 4 men. A letter of 1589 from the King commended him for his loyalty and invited him and his followers to Edinburgh. However, in 1590/1 the English Wardsens were complaining about raids that he had led into England. He received permission to travel to France to alleviate his gout in 1590, and had a letter from James VI in 1591 allowing him to stay in Edinburgh and Leith until the weather improved to allow him to sail. He would have been the Laird of Buccleuch when listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ in about 1590. He was knighted in 1590, appointed Keeper of Liddesdale in 1591, obtained a Lordship of Crichton and Liddesdale in 1595, and was Warden of the West Marches. In 1591 he signed a bond to support the King against the Earl of Bothwell (his step-father), and also in that year received a pardon for ‘intercommuning’ with Francis Stewart, 5th Earl of Bothwell (his step-father). He had a letter of protection from the King in 1591, declaring that all actions against him should be suspended and his lands protected, while he travelled to England and France. However, it also appears that he had fallen out of favour again, being stripped of his new responsibilities and effectively exiled overseas for 3 years (but returned after 15 months, with a letter allowing his return written by the King in late 1592). In 1593 he sided with the Laird of Johnstone against the Laird of Maxwell at Dryfesdale Sands (and later sided with Maxwell against Johnstone). Also in 1593 he was accused of being involved in the death of Charltons in England. In 1594 he had a commission (along with Alexander Lord Home and Sir Robert Ker of Cessford) to raise men to fight against the Earl of Bothwell and his followers. Later that year he gained many of the titles and estates forfeited by the Earl of Bothwell and was reappointed Keeper of Liddesdale; he wrote a letter confirming his position to the English Warden Scrope in 1594, which is signed at Hawick. He is recorded in a confirming charter of 1595 as still being superior of the lands of Kirkurd in Peeblesshire. Also in 1595 he had a ‘bond of manrent’ with the Beatties and another with John Veitch of Dawyck, both signed in Hawick. In 1595/6 an English letter describes how he strengthened Hermitage Castle and ‘has drawn most of the Ellots to his house at Hawick, and keeps an extra-ordinarie number in house’. He acquired his nickname particularly after the rescue of ‘Kinmont Willie’ from Carlisle Castle in 1596, when he led 80 horsemen on a daring raid into England to free a reiver who had been treacherously captured. There followed much arguing, with the English wanting him delivered up, and meanwhile an English force razing Liddesdale, then his force raiding into Tynedale (where 36 men were captured and hanged). After further complaints by Queen Elizabeth he surrendered at Berwick and was again briefly exiled, although he was received by Elizabeth and is said to have impressed her, she stating ‘With ten thousand such men, our brother in Scotland might shake the firmest throne of Europe’. Although considered a hero locally, Lord Scrope described him as ‘ever the chief enemy (and still is) to the quiet of the border’. In 1596 there was a complaint that ‘with his trumpeter and 500 men’ he attacked the house of Bankhead on Esk, taking prisoners as well as goods. In 1597 he served on Parliament as a minor baron. There is an indenture, signed by him at Copshawholm in 1597, to deliver 5 Scotsmen to the English Deputy Warden. In 1597 he is also supposed to have personally led a party that rode into Tynedale on the Sabbath, burning 20 houses and killing 14 men who had taken home booty from Scotland. He signed in 1599 an agreement with the Ellots of Redheugh and Braidie to bury their differences. Also in 1599 he was regranted his local lands, with Branzholme being erected into a Barony. As Warden, he had bonds with both the Armstongs and the Ellots to be answerable for any complaints from England about the inhabitants of Liddesdale. He spent several months in Paris, again for his health, with a letter of safe conduct being issued by Queen Elizabeth in 1599. Around 1600 he challenged Robert Ker of Cessford to combat; it is unclear whether either party was injured, but it could not have been serious. In 1603 he was one of a large number of men issued with a ‘summons of removing’ by the Earl of Glencarin, then Baron of Hassendean. In 1604 he is recorded gaining lands in Hassendean from Robert Scott of Hassendean. On the accession of James VI to England he raised a regiment that fought under Maurice, Prince of Orange in Holland; this was probably filled with men who would formerly have been rievers in the Border country. He remained in Holland until the truce of 1609. He was elevated to a peerage in 1608 (after a Commission was struck by the King in 1606).

In 1608 he had a letter of release and remission from the Privy Council for his efforts maintaining peace on the Border. About 1610 he was involved in a dispute with Sir James Douglas of Drumlanrig over the lands of Whithope. Also in 1610 he was named as a Commissioner for keeping peace within Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire. In 1611 he was appointed a member of the Privy Council, but died that same year. He married Mary (or Margaret), daughter of Sir William Ker of Cessford, according to a contract of 1586. Their children included: Walter, the 1st Earl; Margaret, who married James, 6th Lord Ross and secondly Alexander, 6th Earl of Eglinton; Elizabeth, who married John, 2nd Lord Cranstoun; Jean (whose pension is mentioned in her brother’s testament); and possibly Mary, who married William Elliot of Larriston (but she was perhaps his sister). By Delia, daughter of Captain Thomas Butler in Holland, he had an illegitimate daughter, Jean, called ‘Holland’s Jean’. He also had an illegitimate son, John, probably the Provost of Crichton. He was the first Scott of Buccleuch whose arms carried the star above the 2 crescents. He most likely died at Branxholme and was buried at St. Mary’s. His testament and inventory of possessions still exist – ‘Lord of Buckcleugh into the Scots Border, Was high Lord Warden, to keep them in good order’ [CWS]. Walter (d.bef. 1620) described as ‘in Allan Mouth’ when his son Walter became a brewer’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1620.

He may have been succeeded by John. He is probably the same Walter ‘in Ellenmouth’ included in a list of about 180 men given a ‘respite’ in 1594 for the slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Dryfe Sands. In 1606 his ‘brother-german’ John purchased the lands of Hobsburn and Weens from Thomas Turnbull; in this document he is referred to as being ‘of Allamouth’. It is likely he was son of William of Allanhaugh, or otherwise related to the Allanhaugh Scots. He could be the Walter, ‘brother germane’ to Robert of Allanhaugh, who witnessed the bond of 1585 in which Sir Walter of Branxholme and Robert of Allanhaugh resolved a family feud. Walter ‘Dand’s Wattie’ (16th/17th C.) failed to appear at court in Jedburgh in 1611. John in Brieryyards was fined for his non-appearance, as well as that of ‘Simmy’s Hob’ in Hawick, suggesting that he was a local man. His father was presumably Andrew. Sir Walter of Whitslade (d.1628) son of Walter. He appears to have been a military man, and probably served in Holland. The circumstances for which he was knighted are unknown. In 1608 he was ‘younger of Quhitslaid’ when he witnessed a bond for Sir Robert of Thirlestane and was ‘fairy of Quhitslaid’ when he acted for Sir Robert in 1610 (along with Robert of Headshaw) in 2 bonds not to harm Walter of Tushielaw and his sons. He probably succeeded his father in about 1610 (and is easy to confuse with his father). In late 1610 he and his son Thomas (unless this was his father and brother) were bound not to harm Walter Scott in Hawick, called Todshawhill, and his associates; Sir Robert of Thirlestane acted as cautioner. In 1613 he was in trouble with the Presbytery for non-attendance, he ‘allegit that he haunted some kirks now and then; but that he could not come to his own kirk because his seat quilk he wont, and his fellous, to sit in was taken from him by the guidwife of Synton’; this could either have been Isobel, widow of Walter of Synton, or possibly his daughter Isabel, wife of Francis of (the new Harden branch of) Synton. Along with Robert of Headshaw he was a cautioner for a bond of 1619 involving the Hays of Smithfield. In 1620 he had a bond with Thomas, son of Robert Turnbull, called ‘of Bedroull’. In about 1622 he had a charter from Sir Robert of Thirlestane for the lands of Ettrickhouse (essentially holding the lands in collateral for a loan). He is recorded in the period 1622–25 when his brother George was involved in a court action against Robert Scott, younger of Satchells. He married Susanna, daughter of Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane, but she died without issue. He secondly married a daughter of Sir John Scott of Newburgh (and sister of the next Sir John of Newburgh). His children included: Robert, who succeeded, but died at Marston Moor; Sir Walter, who succeeded his brother and died at Inverkeithing; Thomas, the 3rd son to succeed; George, whose daughters Elizabeth and Anna were served as...
heirs to his lands of Linton in 1670; Isobel (or Isabella), who married Francis, son of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden in 1624; and Elizabeth (or ‘Bessie’), who married Robert Scott of Girnwood. He is said to have died at an advanced age. Walter of Whitehaughbrae (d.1621) son of Thomas and probably grandson of Walter of Sinton. He may have acquired Whitehaughbrae from Thomas of Todrig. He was a signatory of the Scott clan bond in 1589. He died without an heir and the lands passed to Thomas of Salenside (probably his cousin’s son). His genealogy is treated extensively by John Scott of Rodono (although there may be some confusion over multiple men of the same name owning the lands). Walter ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden (1540s–c.1629), usually referred to as ‘Auld Wat o Harden’, since he reputedly lived to be 80. He was son and heir of William of Harden (or perhaps grandson of William if there was another Walter in between). He took part in the group of about 200 Scotts and their followers who broke into the Kirk of the Loves in 1557 looking to kill Sir Peter Craunst. He is mentioned in a 1559 charter of the lands of Harden between Alexander, Lord Hume and his father. He was also Laird of Todshaw, Mabonslaw, Highchesters, Todrig, Wester Essenside, Burnfoot and Shielswood. He accompanied Buccleuch in the rescue of Kinmont Willie, and was renowned as a riever. He was descended from the Scotts of Synton and succeeded his father in 1563. He apparently received the lands of Gilmanscleuch after his youngest son was slain by the Scotts of Gilmanscleuch in a hunting match (although this story seems confused with that of his son Walter in Essenside). However, in 1579/80 he was accused along with Elliot of Redheugh and Elliot of Hoscote of committing a raid on Coquet Water. The Elliots (then allied with the English) raided his property at Hoscote in 1580. Also in 1580 he complained to the Privy Council (along with the Countess of Bothwell and James Gledstains of Cocklaw) of thefts and outrages committed by the Elliots on their farms. There is a contract between him and James and John Langlands in 1588 over teinds from Harden and Todshaw. In 1590 he is listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’. In 1591, along with Sir Walter of Buccleuch and Walter of Whitslade, he had a letter of pardon from the King for ‘intercommuning with Francis’ Earl of Bothwell. He took part with Bothwell at the ‘Falkland Raid’ in 1592, when they tried to capture the King. Because of his role in this he was denounced as a rebel and his houses at Harden and Dryhope were ordered to be destroyed. In 1592 or 1593 he helped Bothwell to plunder lands in Tweedside, reportedly carrying off 4,000 sheep, 200 cattle, 40 horses and £2,000 in goods. He was listed among those implicated in the 1593 slaughter of Lord Maxwell and his men at Dryfe Sands. In 1595 he witnessed a bond of ‘manrent’ in Hawick, between the Beatties and Sir Walter of Branxholme. Also in 1595 he was among Elliots, Nixons and others complained about by the Lord of Gilsland regarding raids into England. He is also said to have been on the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. Also in 1596 he was accused of leading a raid along with Willie Elliot of Larriston and the young Laird of Whitaugh and 60 men, who took 300 head of cattle, 20 horses and goods from ‘the Leabecke at Wilkinskarre’; in another complaint the same year it is said that he headed a group of 400 men in a raid on Gilsland. In 1598 he was ‘put to the horn’ at the instigation of Sir John Ker of the Hirsel for non-payment of profits arising from Borthwick-shields, and remained officially a rebel for about a year ‘in proude contempt of his Hienes, and in manifest defraud of the said complainer’. In 1599 he was responsible (along with Gideon Murray of Elibank and Gilbert Elliot of Horsleyhill) for burning West Burnflat (in Liddesdale), for which they received remission in 1604. In 1603 he was among a list of ‘pretended tenants’ served with a summons to remove themselves from lands in the Barony of Hassendean by James Cumber- ham. Also in 1603 he had a charter for the land of Pirntaton, near Stow. He was regularly bound over in large sums to keep the peace, threatened with outlawry, etc. Later in life he helped keep the peace, e.g. taking part in an important meeting of Lairds in Jedburgh in 1612, and signing the bond to keep the peace. In 1610 Gilbert Eliott of Horsleyhill (later of Stobs) stood as cautioner for him and his sons Walter, Francis and Hugh, that they would not harm Walter Scott in Hawick, called of Todshawhill, and his associates; the nature of this dispute with his neighbours is not clear. A stone bearing his initials and those of his wife (and the date 1628) used to be on the bridge at Ettrickbridge, which he had built there. His wife is supposed to have served him his spurs when the meat supply was dwindling. In 1576/7 he married Mary (or Marion) Scott, daughter of John (not Philip as often stated) of Dryhope; she was also called the ‘Flower of Yarrow’. It is said that he agreed to provide ‘horse meat and man’s meat’ for a year and a day, as well as the plunder... from the next Michaelmas moon; there is unfortunately no evidence to support this story. In 1598 he secondly married Margaret, daughter of John Edgar of Wedderlie, widow of William Spottiswoode of that Ilk (and she died about 1629). His sons were: Sir William, who succeeded; Walter in Essenside, who was killed by one of the Scotts of Newhouse; Hugh in Greenhead, also called ‘of Deuchar’, who started the Scotts of Gala and married Jean, daughter of Sir James Pringle of Gala; Francis ‘in Howfuird’, who was ancestor of the Corse Scotts of Synton and married Isobel, sister of Sir Walter Scott of Whitslade; and possibly George of Castlesyde. He also had many daughters: Margaret (‘Maggie Fendy’), who married Gilbert Elliott of Stobs (‘Gibbie wi the Gowden Gartins’); Esther, who married Elliot of Fuhnash (perhaps Archibald) and later George Langlands of that Ilk (although it is unclear if this matches up with what is known about Langlands); Janet who married Thomas Scott of Whitslade; Isobel, who married James Johnstone of Westerhall; another daughter possibly marrying Scott of Tushielaw; another daughter marrying Geddes of Kirkurd; another daughter marrying Porteous of Hawkshaw; another Margaret (only child with his 2nd wife), who married David Pringle of Galashielis and later Sir William McDougall of Makerstoun; and probably an illigitimate daughter who married Robert, son of Robert Elliot of Horsleyhill, and progenitor of the Elliots of Borthwickbrae and Oakwood Mill. The Museum has a porridge pot said to belong to him, as well as a lock and key from Old Harden House – ‘Not even the Flower of Yarrow’s charms In youth, might tame his rage for arms. And still, in age, he spurn’d at rest, And still his brows the helmet press’d’ [SWS]. Walter (16th/17th C.) son of Adam of Todshawaugh. He is listed among the supporters of Sir James Johnstone who had a respite in 1594 for killing Lord Maxwell and others at Dryfe Sands. He could be the Walter of Todshawaugh listed in 1628 among men accused by the Earl of Buccleuch of cutting down trees on his land. He was accused along with John Currie (also from Todshawaugh) and James Donaldson in Cavers. He could be the Walter ‘in Hawk, called of Todshawauch’ who led a group of Scotts charging Langlands and other Scotts to find caution in 1610, with the other side petition-iong for the penalties to be reduced; his son George is also listed there. He was also recorded as ‘in Hawk, called of Todschawhill’ in the same year when the Scotts of Harden, Whitaslade and Satchells were also bound not to harm him and his associates; the nature of this dispute among local landowners is not clear. Walter (16th/17th C.) tenant in Catslack. He was father of James (d.1679), who was Minister at Kirkton 1615–19. He may also have been father of William in Cat-slack, who was served heir to the lands of Easter Moormaw in 1607 (previously belonging to the brother of his great-grandfather, John, Vicar of Hawick). Walter of Todrig (16th/17th C.) probably son of George of Todrig and grandson of the first Laird of Harden, William. He may have been the Walter ‘in Todrig’ who witnessed a charter for lands in Rulewater in 1568 (when his father would still have been Laird). He was listed among many Scots and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He was a signatary of the clan bond in 1589. He is recorded in a charter of 1594 renting Ferniehirst Mill and its lands from Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst. He is also said to have been in the raiding party which rescued Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1606 he held the lands of ‘Hardenhead’ from Sir Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst through a ‘wadset’, and in 1610 was referred to in revocation of a contract by Sir Andrew Kerr of Oxnam. In 1607 he had a charter (probably a confirmation for the lands of Todrig) from James, Lord Hay of Yester and another in 1619. In 1610 he was part of a petition, along with several local Langlands and Scotts, to have hornings lifted and penalties reduced. In 1619/20 he and his son William had a warrant for the arrest of Robert Ormiston of Old Melrose (perhaps for encroaching upon their lands). In 1620 there was a further charter for holdings in the Todrig estate, which mentions his brothers Robert and William. He is also mentioned in the Commissioners’ Court for 1623 when Thomas Hood (from Ancrum) was accused of stealing cattle belonging to him from ‘Plassadge’ in England (Plasketts perhaps?), and also Michael Birny (in Fairnilee) found guilty of stealing 30 sheep belonging to him and his associates; his son Walter is also mentioned in 1623. It is possible that some of these events relate to ‘Auld Wat’ (of Harden, Todrig, etc.). His son and heir apparent was Willliam, who married Isabella Livingston. However, in about 1630 he probably sold Todrig to Thomas, brother of Sir Walter Scott of Whitaslade. Walter (c.1587–1633) 2nd Lord of Buccleuch and 1st Earl, son of Sir Walter ‘the Bold’. In 1590 he was described as ‘Walter Scot, younger’ when he rented the West Mains of Hawick from Sir James Douglas of Drumlanrig. In 1606 he was the ‘master of Buccleuch’ who had a feu charter of the Kirklands of Hawick (except for the Manse and Glebe) from William Fowler (Parson of Hawick), with the consent of his father, Walter, Lord of Buccleuch. In 1611 he had a letter from the Privy Council forbidding the holding of a horse race between him and the brother of Sir Robert Gordon of Lochinvar. The inventory of the estates when he succeeded in 1612 still exists. He was the first in his family for 140 years to succeed to the titles when of full age. He served extensively in Holland, but also lived for periods at Branxholme.

In 1619 he was created Baron Scott of Whitecster and Eskdail and Earl of Buccleuch. He purchased Synton from John Erskine, Earl of Mar in 1619. In 1621 he resigned the lands of Ringwoodfield (in upper Teviotdale) to Thomas Hamilton, Earl of Melrose (but the Scotts of Buccleuch held them again not much later). In 1622 he was part of the local Commissioners’ Court appointed to help keep the peace on the Border. Also in 1622 he was in dispute with the Marquis of Hamilton over lands formerly held by Francis Stewart, Earl of Bothwell. Through the 1620s he continued as one of the joint English-Scottish Commissioners of the Middle Shires and was also member of the Privy Council. He had a narrow escape in his family’s feud with the Elliots in 1624. He complained about the Elliots of Redheugh oppressed his tenants (on their former lands in Liddesdale), leading him to eject them, but after the Elliots regained lands through the courts they continued to plot against him. It is said that he over-stretched his estate and so entered the service of the States-General of Holland in 1627. By 1629 he was given a commission as Colonel of a company of the Netherlands and was present at the sieges of Bergen-op-Zoom and Maastricht. He was called home by a letter of King Charles I in 1631, but went back to Maastricht in 1633, after making a will in Scotland. He was still recorded as superior of the lands of Kirkurd in 1632. He married in 1616 Lady Mary Hay of Erroll, daughter of Francis, Earl of Erroll. His legitimate children were: Elizabeth (b.1621), who married John, Lord Erskine and Earl of Mar; Walter (b.1625), the eldest, who died aged 4; Francis (b.1626), Lord Scott, who succeeded; David (b.1627) of Canonbie; Jane (or Jean, b.1629), who married John, Master of Yester, who became the Marquess of Tweedale; and Mary (b.1631), who died unmarried. He also had at least 11 illegitimate children, including: Francis of Mangerton; William, also of Mangerton; John of Gorrenberry; Margaret, who married John, son of Robert Pringle of Stichill; and Janet, who married Andrew Scott of Foulshiels. He died in London, on his way home again from Holland. He was the last of the Scotts of Buccleuch to be buried in the family vault at St. Mary’s Church (7 months later). His body was brought by ship from London, but driven to Norway in a storm, arriving at Leith 15 weeks later. There was a huge mediaeval-style funeral procession from Branxholme to St. Mary’s in June 1634 when ‘he was carried be his honorable freinds and the maist pairt of the whole nobilitie from the said place [Branxholme] to his kirk of Hawick all on fut under a fair velvet pale and the ceremoni with the armes was set down by some of his freinds thaimselfs with advyse of ane painter’. His armorial bearings were the first to have the supporters as ‘two ladies richly attired’. His will and inventory still exist – ‘... And of Earl Walter, rest him, God! A braver ne’er to battle rode; And how full many a tale he knew, Of the old warriors of Buccleuch’ [SWS], ‘Earl Walter was Lord Walter’s son, A Mars for Valour, Wisdom, and Renown, His courage durst a Lyon fear, His Frowns would terrify a Boar’ [CWS], Walter (16th/17th C.) described as ‘the Earl’s servitor’ in 1620 when he was one of the witnesses for Walter, Earl of Buccleuch granting Goldielands to Sir Walter of Goldielands. Walter (16th/17th C.) tenant in ‘Mylneholme’ in 1622 when a Little was accused of stealing his sheep. This was probably the Millholm in Liddesdale, and he may have been an ancestor of the later Walter there. Walter of Howford (16th/17th C.) son of William. In 1615 he married Marie (or Mary), sister of Robert Scott of Hartwoodmyres. He witnessed several documents in 1621. He sold Howford to Sir William Scott of Harden. In 1686 it was stated that the representative of Scott of Howford was Scott of Coldhouse (hence presumably a near relation). It is possible that his widow was the ‘Marie Scott lyfrenter of Cowdhouse’ recorded on the Land Tax Rolls in 1663. Walter of Midshiels (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1628 when he was the first named in a list of Scotts charged by the Privy Council to keep the peace with the Turnbulls of Know. His son Adam was also listed, along with Adam of Burnfoot, William, smith in Hawick, and William’s brother Adam; he may well have been related to some of these men. Adam of Burnfoot paid caution of 100 merks. It is unclear how he was connected to other Scotts of Midshiels or of Howpasley. Walter of Tushielaw.
(d.bef. 1643) son of Robert, from whom he succeeded in 1633. He was specifically served heir to the lands of Tushielaw, with mill, and the lands of ‘Conninglaw’ and Cacrabank. He may previously have been called ‘of Fawdshope’. He was succeeded by his brother William in 1643, after (probably) having conveyed the estates to him in 1636. His children included: James, who was Brigadier in the Life Guards; and Robert. He appears to have granted his son Robert ‘in Fauldshiop’ his lands in 1636 (although this could be confusion with his brother William). Walter of Chamberlain Newton (d.bef. 1619) recorded in the register of the Privy Council in 1573, when there was surity for him. He is listed there being ‘in Chalmerlane Newton’, along with his brother John. They were both sons of Margaret Turnbull, who was widow of David Elliot, who possessed half of the farm of Chamberlain Newton. Gavin Elliott of Baillielee (and later of Stobs) complained that they had attacked his servant on the other half of the farm. Following his non-appearance, his brother John was declared a fugitive in 1573; he and his mother were decaired fugitives later in 1573, but then bound to Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme and John Tweedy, tutor of Drumelzier, not to molest Gavin Elliott, his wife Jean Scott, their children or servants. It is unclear who their father might have been. In 1576 surety was found for him ‘not to molest’ Gavin Elliott. He is also recorded in 1588 when his brothers John and David were witnesses to a sasine for the Scotts of Howpasley for Midshiels and Appletreehall. He is listed among landed men of the Borders in about 1590. He is included on a list of several Scotts and others whom the Baron of Hassendean (James Cunningham) was trying to remove from their lands in 1603. His son John had a bond with Adam Turnbull of Abbotrule in 1619 (registered in 1624) by which time he was deceased. William ‘of Newton’ is probably his direct descendant (perhaps his son), and possibly also ‘Syme of Newton in Hawick’. He may have been father of both William of Chamberlain Newton and John of Brieryyards (recorded as brothers in the 1630s). Walter (16th/17th C.) tenant farmer in ‘Craik’, i.e. Craik in about 1610, when he was listed among supporters of the Scotts of Thirlestane in their feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw. Probably the same Walter is recorded in 1618 when his brother Simon in Newton was served heir to him in the lands of Easter Craik. Walter (16th/17th C.) described as being ‘in Hawick’ in 1610 when Sir Robert of Thirlestane served as caution for Robert of Satchells, who was bound not to harm him. Walter of Burnfoot (d.1640s) in Ale Water, probably son of William, or perhaps his brother. He was recorded in the Circuit Court records of 1623 when 2 men were found guilty of stealing a horse from him; there his lands are referred to as ‘Burnfuite upon ye Wa- ter of Aill’. Margaret, wife of probably the same Walter was tried at Edinburgh in 1616 for assaulting James Lethame in Hawick Parish Church, and later on the High Street. It seems unlikely that he was the Walter of Burnfoot on Ale who was given a bond by Francis Stewart (son of the Earl of Bothwell) in 1604, since that would have been too early (and perhaps ‘Walter’ is an error for ‘William’). However, he may have been involved in the ongoing dispute with the sons of the Earl of Bothwell, which lasted until the 1620s. He signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. His son Robert was served heir to him in 1641. However, he appears to be still alive in 1643, when recorded as owner in the county valuation, the lands being valued at £400.

Walter (d.c.1616) 2nd son of Walter ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden, described as ‘in Essenside’. In 1610 he was named along with his father and brothers when Gilbert Elliott of Horsley-hill (later of Stobs) was cautioner for them not to harm Walter Scott in Hawick, called Todshawhill, and his associates. In 1614 there is a bond with his father Walter and brother William, relating to his future wife and the lands of Borthwicks, Aleemoo and others. He married Elspeth (or Elizabeth), daughter of John Hay of Haystoun (or Smithfield). In 1632 Elizabeth (by then remarried) renounced her claim to Aleemoo, and in 1647 assigned lands to her son James. He was killed (according to complaints raised by his wife in 1616–17) by John Scott, brother of Simon of Bonnington, along with Simon, another brother Adam and ‘Will’s Sym’ of Thirlestane who came ‘bodin in feir of weir with lances, swordis, scriticis, plateslevis, quhingeris and utheris wap- pones invasive’, attacked him while he was fishing on the Ettrick, and he died 48 hours later; it is also said he was killed by one of the Scotts of Newhouse, suggesting that John was of Newhouse. His widow later married William Scott of Salensis. In the period 1633–53 his daughters and heirs Jean and Margaret had an action raised against them by James, son of William of Salen- side (and hence their step-brother, presumably over the inheritance of Essenside), with Sir Will- iam of Harden as their curator. These 2 daughters were served as his heirs in 1641, with him being described as the 2nd lawful son of Walter ‘senioris de Harden’. Note that Keith Scott (and others) confuses details of his death (saying he was killed by Simon of Bonnington in 1620). Walter ‘Wattie’ (d.1616) son of ‘Braidis Andro’. He was one of the 5 men involved with slaughtering Sir James Douglas’ sheep at Howpasley in 1615, at the instigation of Lady Scott of Howpaysley and Jean Scott of Satchells. He and Ingram Scott met the others at Birny Cleuch, between Eilrig and Howpasley. They killed about 40 sheep, with about 20 more lying wounded, it is said that the sheep were slain ‘be streenge of their heides, and cutting thame in tua throw thair bakis’. He escaped to the North with Ingram Scott, but the pair were captured and brought to Edinburgh Tolbooth. Although they denied knowing ‘Jock the Suckler’, when they saw him they apparently said ‘Qihat now, Jok! How come thow heir – and quhair-foir ar thow waitid in this hous?’ Their lawyer tried to argue that the relevant law only applied to horses and cattle, but the judge would have none of it. Along with Ingram and Geordie Scott he was hung in Edinburgh for the crime, with Jock essentially turning informant, but being executed later for other crimes. It appears that the trial may have been heavily stacked against them (with several of Drumlanrig’s supporters on the jury, no evidence to place them at the scene except for the informer, and a law that did not technically apply to sheep in any case). Walter (16th/17th C.) Hawick man, described as ‘at the Eist Port’, who was one of the locals accused in 1612 by the Lord Advocate of charging too much interest on loans. He was described as ‘of Eistport in Hawick’ when he was recorded as a juror in the 1622 Commissioners’ Court. Probably the same Walter ‘at the Eist-port’ was also on the ‘leet’ for the election of the Bailies in 1638. Presumably he lived near the East Port and his designation distinguished him from other contemporary Walters. Walter ‘Jock’s Wattie’ (16th/17th C.) witness to a sasine for a tenement in Hawick in 1610. The land was going to Bailie Robert, son of ‘Wat’s Jock’, who could therefore have been his brother. It is unclear which branch of the Scotts this was. Walter of Alton (d.bef. 1638) eldest son of Adam and grandson of Robert of Alton and Clarilaw. He was served heir to his father and grandfather in 1606. The ‘Hob of Alton’ who was Bailie in Hawick was probably his brother. In 1619 he witnessed a bond signed in Hawick between John, son of Walter of Chamberlain Newton and Adam Turnbull of Abbotrule. He is recorded as being ‘called of Alton’. His sons were probably Robert (‘junior of Alton’, who succeeded and signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Haick in 1638) and William (‘vocat de Alton in Hassendene’). Walter (16th/17th C.) tenant at Templehall and Brewlands in Rulewater, along with Patrick Turnbull, recorded in a contract of ‘wadset’ in 1612. Along with Patrick Turnbull he is also listed in 1627 as the sometimes occupant of Templehall and Brewlands. Walter of Girnwood (d.c.1629) younger son of Robert, Laird of Shielwood, and brother of Robert. He is recorded in 1622 in an action with the Scotts of Buccleuch, regarding his removal from ‘Toungrig’ and other lands in Liddesdale. He was still alive in 1628 (and recorded being of ‘Girnnewood’), but died soon afterwards. His sons Robert and Walter were both minors when he died, with his brother Robert of Shielwood being appointed as their ‘tutor’ in 1629. His son Robert was served as his heir in 1636. Walter of Wauchope (16th/17th C.) said to have carried the Earl of Buccleuch’s spurs in the funeral procession at Hawick in 1634. He was probably related to the later Walter in Wauchope. Rev. Walter (c.1588–1649) graduating from St. Andrews in 1608, he was admitted as minister of Castleton in 1612. Perhaps the same Walter, ‘M.A.’ was recorded as schoolmaster in Jedburgh in 1609. He may have been minister when a new church was erected; a stone built into the schoolhouse has the date 1621 and his arms and initials. He is probably the ‘Mr Walter Scot’ who is recorded as possessor of Byreholm in 1632. He was owed money from the deceased Earl of Buccleuch in 1633. He witnessed a document relating to the sale of Harwood in 1637. He signed the Covenant (against episcopalianism) in Hawick in 1638. In 1649 part of Cromwell’s army (under Generals Bright and Pride) stayed several nights at Castleton Kirk on their way back to England. There they broke the seats and communion tables, took the minister’s books and lit their pipes using the parish records for the years 1612–48. There is no record of how the minister himself was treated, but he died later that same year. His brother’s son Walter Scott in Norham was served as his heir in 1649, so he presumably had no children of his own. Walter of Headshaw (17th C.) signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. Robert ‘sumtyme of Heidschaw’ also signed. He could be the same Walter recorded in 1603 and 1609. He could also be related to the Walter of Whitehaugh and Headshaw recorded later in the century. Sir Walter of Whitslade (d.1651) 2nd son of Sir Walter, he succeeded from his older brother Robert and was in turn succeeded by his younger brother Thomas. He was served heir to Robert in 1645. He commanded a regiment of horse in the royalist army and was involved in the civil wars, probably being knighted by Charles II in 1651. In 1644 and 1646 and he was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire, in 1648 also for Roxburghshire and in 1649 again for Selkirkshire. He represented Selkirk in Parliament in 1645–46, 1650 and 1651. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He is mentioned in 1658 in a case in the Regality of Melrose, in a lawsuit over money due for ‘three troops horse of Captain Walter Scott’ to him, also involving Robert Ker of Faldonside, relating to 1650. He held lands at Drycleuchshiel and Redfordgreen, as well as Whitslade. He married a daughter of Sir Robert Stewart of Ormiston, brother of the Earl of Traquair. His children included: Robert, baptised in 1647, who must have died in infancy; Walter, baptised in 1649 and also died in infancy; and Jean. He died at Inverkeithing, fighting against Cromwell (while his brother Robert had probably died fighting on Cromwell’s side 8 years earlier). Walter (17th C.) maltman of Hawick, who was on a list of 16 ‘idle and masterless men’ suggested by the Hawick Bailie as suitable for sending to the wars in Germany in 1627. While in Edinburgh Tolbooth he was among 7 of them who complained that they were not in fact the sorts of men who should be pressed into military service, but nevertheless were transported to the wars in Germany. He could have been related to Bailie John, who was also a maltman in the next few decades. Walter of Braidhaugh and Arkleton (d.bef. 1661) 3rd son of John of Newark. He was also sometimes referred to as Walter of Harwood. It seems likely that he was a distant relative of the Scotts of Buccleuch, although the detailed descent of his family is unknown. He was tenant (and probably not owner) of Broadhaugh in the upper Teviot valley. He served as local Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch in the period 1630–34 and probably through at least the late 1630s, with responsibility for ‘Teviotdale-head’ and Ewesdale. He was also Chamberlain for Eskdale, Ewesdale, Wauchopedale and Eskdalemuir. He is also recorded in 1632 in a note from Walter, Earl of Buccleuch about fixing the roof at Branxholme, where he is described as ‘in Braidhauche’. He was ‘of Braidhauche’ in 1638 when he signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick. In 1644 he was bailie to the Earl of Buccleuch for the 4 kirks of Eskdale, Ewesdale and the Debatable Land, and was given orders by the Committee of War for Roxburghshire to convey soldiers from these parishes to the Master of Cranstoun. He purchased Meikledale and Meikledale-hope from Adam Cunningham in 1643 (when he was referred to as being of Harwood) and shortly afterwards acquired Arkleton from the same man. He was ‘of Arkleton’ in 1649 when he wrote a report on the southern counties of Scotland along with William Elliott of Stobs, and in the same year when he was listed on the Committee of War for Dumfriesshire and Annandale. In 1651 he is referred to as ‘of Arkilton’ when his son Robert ‘callit of Braidhauch’ was granted 800 merks yearly in the will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch. In 1653 he had a contract with Adam Cunningham and the Earl of Nithsdale (as superior) relating to Meikledale, which was part of a legal case over ownership of those lands in the early 18th century. He married Agnes (or perhaps Anna), daughter of Turnbull of Minto. His son Francis succeeded to Arkleton and was also Chamberlain for the Langholm area. Another son, Robert, became Robert of Harwood. It is said he had several daughters, including one who married Maxwell of Broomholm (possibly Jean, wife of John Maxwell). Walter (17th C.) younger son of Sir Robert of Haining and brother of Robert. He was described as being portioner of Guilan. Where these lands were is unclear. His son Lieut.-Col. Robert was the last of the members of this branch of the family recorded. Walter ‘Gray’ (17th C.) recorded in a Hawick Magistrates Court case of 1642 involving Skinner Andrew Deans and merchant Walter Robson. Walter ‘Wat o the Buss’ (17th C.) listed in 1642 among a large number of Borderers declared as fugitives. He was probably connected to Bush in Ewesdale and related to earlier Scotts from there. Walter of Huntly (17th C.) recorded in a case that came before Parliament in 1644. Katherine Kendell, widow of John Young, asked for him to be ejected from the lands of Hyndhope and provide her with the duties from these lands. He may have been a brother of John of Huntly, who was recorded in 1638. He could be the Walter ‘elder of Huntlie’ listed in a court case before the Privy Council in 1627, when a band of Scotts were accused of harassing the tenant of Hartwoodburn. He is the last Scott of Huntly on record. Walter of Chapel (17th C.) recorded in the 1643 county valuation, with lands valued at £668 in 1643.
These lands consisted of Chapel itself valued at £390, as well as £200 of ‘acres in Lilliesleaf’ and ‘Portions-croft’ valued at £78. Note the potential confusion with Scotts connected with Chapelhill near Brauxholme. He was listed on the Committee of War for Roxburghshire in 1648. Walter Scott of ‘Burnside’ was involved in 1640 with Sir Walter Riddell over the lands of Chapel, so this may have been him. He was probably the Laird of Chapel who was fined in 1662, after the Restoration. He was recorded in the 1663 and 1678 Land Tax Rolls in Lilliesleaf Parish, still paying tax on £668. Walter of Foulshiels (17th C.) son of James, and brother of Andrew. In 1647 he was served heir to his brother in the lands of ‘Fadounsyd’ and ‘Nether Whitlawhous’. In 1652 his estate was inherited by his 2 daughters, Elizabeth and Jean, one of whom, Elizabeth, married James Scott of Bowhill. Walter (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was Malie, and their daughter Janet was born in 1648. Walter of Bonchester, ‘Wat o the Dykes’ (d.1653). It is unclear from which branch of the Scotts he came, although there is also a tradition that the Scotts of Bonchester were related to the Scotts of Harden. It is also unclear what the ‘Dykes’ in his nickname referred to, but the ‘Dykes’ near Bedrule seems likely. He is probably the Walter described as ‘of Dykis’ in 1605 when Robert of Thirlestane was caution for him not to harm Patrick Storie in Spittal-on-Rule. In 1612 he is in ‘Dykis’ in a document listing local people convicted of charging more than 12 percent interest on loans; he was among those men who appeared to answer the charges. Probably the same Walter ‘called of Dykis’ was ‘bailie in that part’ to Andrew Ker, Lord Jedburgh, for a sasine relating to Harwood in 1631. He purchased Nether Bonchester in 1632 from Alexander Kirkton (Provost of Jedburgh) and John Moscrop, younger (Burgess of Jedburgh); these joint owners had previously had a wadset on the property that was not redeemed. He was recorded as owner of Nether Bonchester in 1643, when it was valued at £180. His eldest son was William, Laird of Galalaw. He was succeeded by Thomas, who is suggested to have been his 2nd son, but was probably his brother; his son William (and his wife Margaret Gledstains) gave over the lands to his uncle Thomas in 1653, according to a previous family arrangement. Walter (17th C.) eldest son of Robert of Shieliswood. He is recorded in 1632 when he feuded part of the lands of Belses from Thomas, Lord Binning. In 1643 he was ‘in Shieliswood’ when his lands of Shieliswood (in Ashkirk Parish) were valued at £260, and his lands in Belses were also valued at £130. He is mentioned on an inquest in 1643 and is probably the Walter of Shieliswood listed by James Wilson among the local landowners of the mid-to-late 17th century. In 1636 he married Margaret Scott (although it is unclear which branch she came from). He had 2 sons and a daughter: Francis, who succeeded; Robert, who succeeded his brother; and Marian, who eventually also succeeded and married James Scott of Shaws. Walter (17th C.) son of William and grandson of Walter of Todrig, who was part of the raiding party that rescued Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1629 he inherited the lands of Grange from his father William. His grandfather sold Todrig during his father’s lifetime, this being to Thomas, brother of Sir Walter of Whitslade, thus starting a new line of Scotts of Todrig. Walter of Catslack (17th C.) recorded in the Land Tax Rolls in 1663 when he paid tax on £52 in Hassendean Parish. He was surely related to earlier Scotts of Catslack, perhaps son of William in Catslack. He was probably father of John of Catslack who paid land tax in Hassendean Parish in 1678. Walter of Kirknowe (17th C.) recorded on the Land Tax Rolls in 1663 for the Parish of Hobkirk. He paid tax on £78 for his rental there. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts, but he could have been father of the wright William who lived at Kirknowe in about 1700. Walter of Dryhope (17th C.) recorded as Laird in 1669. He may have been brother of the previous Laird, Robert. He was succeeded by his brother, Philip. Walter ‘Westport’ (17th C.) resident of the Hawick, near the West Port. He was elected to the Council in 1648. He is also recorded in 1656 when he was cleared of the claim that John Scott made against him regarding a deal over 3 barrels of drink; he sold the barrels and was therefore presumably a merchant. He is recorded being ‘at the west port’ in 1663, when he was one of the owners of West Mains. He was listed among the Councillors in 1668. Presumably the same Walter is recorded in 1676 when he brought a ‘letter of horning’ against William Elliot of Philhope, with Henry Elliot of Harwood as cautioner (although part of the document is missing). He was probably Bailie in 1678 when Walter Hardie was fined for saying the ‘Westport would be hanged’. In 1679 a woman was cited for accusing his servant John Moore of theft. He was probably related to the other West Port Scotts, and may have been father of the later Walter of Westport, and possibly grandfather of Hawick’s second known Cornet, James ‘called of Westport’; James’ father Walter was already deceased in 1706. Walter of Tinnes (17th C.) Chamberlain to the Scotts of Buccleuch for Ettrick Forest in the period 1631–41. In 1642 he was named by the Privy Council to a commission to try a large number of Borderers who had been declared fugitives; he was recorded there as ‘William Scot of Tinnes, curator to the Erle of Buccleuch’. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. Walter of Howpasley (d.c.1660) son of William of Fingland. He was brother of Robert and half-brother of Simon. When his brother died, he acquired the lands of Howpasley. After he died without issue, his sister Marion (wife of William Wilson in ‘Gulzean-ter). He is probably the same man as Walter of Goldielands and Westcoterig, and the same day granted Goldielands to him (retaining the lherent). Also mentioned is Jean Riddell (probably daughter of Andrew Riddell of that Ilk), to whom he was promised in a contract of marriage, the contract involving the lands of ‘Pirntatoune’ or ‘Pirntaiton’ (presumably Pintaton on Gala Water). He is probably the Walter of Goldielands who bore the ‘pincell of black taffata’ on a lance point in the funeral procession of the Earl of Buccleuch in Hawick in 1634. He signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638; the name ‘R. Scott’ beside his could indicate this was his brother, son or perhaps uncle. In 1641 he witnessed a document in Hawick for the Scotts of Thirlestane. In 1643 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire and in 1643, 1646, 1648 and 1649 he was on the Committee of War for Roxburghshire; in 1649 he is ‘of Gawdilands and Stanesh’, suggesting a connection with Stanedge (although the Scotts appear not to have owned it for at least another half century). In 1643 his lands in Hawick Parish were valued at £566 13s 4d. He is probably also the ‘W. Scott of Gowdielands’ recorded as owner of lands in Cavers Parish valued at £400 in 1643; these lands were owned by the Duke of Buccleuch by 1678. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He was appointed as one of the ‘tutors’ for the children of Francis Earl of Buccleuch. In the correction to the will of Earl Francis in 1651, he is described as deceased when 200 merks yearly is allocated to his widow, Elizabeth Napier, and their second son, Walter. His widow Elizabeth Napier remarried to Sir Bryce Cochrane. He was a Royalist supporter who was killed at the Battle of Dunbar. It is unclear if he was related to the slightly later William of Hartwoodnymes. In 1694 Anna Helena was served heir to her father Walter, who was son of Walter of Whitehaugh; this was presumably him, with Anna Helena being his grand-daughter. Walter of Goldielands (d.bef. 1672) son of Walter (and not, as some genealogies state, son of Charles, half-brother of the first Walter of Goldielands). He was the last of the name to be acknowledged as ‘of Goldielands’ by the Scotts of Buccleuch (although there is also a record of Robert of Goldielands in 1638, and others given that designation, at least informally, later). He is hard to separate from his father, who was certainly alive in 1620, but was designated ‘Sir Walter’. In 1620 his father had a charter from Walter, Earl of Buccleuch, for the lands of Goldielands and Westcoterig, and the same day granted Goldielands to him (retaining the lherent). Also mentioned is Jean Riddell (probably daughter of Andrew Riddell of that Ilk), to whom he was promised in a contract of marriage, the contract involving the lands of ‘Pirntatoune’ or ‘Pirntaiton’ (presumably Pintaton on Gala Water). He is probably the Walter of Goldielands who bore the ‘pincell of black taffata’ on a lance point in the funeral procession of the Earl of Buccleuch in Hawick in 1634. He signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638; the name ‘R. Scott’ beside his could indicate this was his brother, son or perhaps uncle. In 1641 he witnessed a document in Hawick for the Scotts of Thirlestane. In 1643 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire and in 1643, 1646, 1648 and 1649 he was on the Committee of War for Roxburghshire; in 1649 he is ‘of Gawdilands and Stanesh’, suggesting a connection with Stanedge (although the Scotts appear not to have owned it for at least another half century). In 1643 his lands in Hawick Parish were valued at £566 13s 4d. He is probably also the ‘W. Scott of Gowdielands’ recorded as owner of lands in Cavers Parish valued at £400 in 1643; these lands were owned by the Duke of Buccleuch by 1678. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He is recorded in a county valuation of landowners in Hawick Parish in 1643 (as the 4th largest landowner) and on a list of landowners and tenants of Hassendean Parish in 1666. In 1649 he and Patrick Scott (writer in Edinburgh) were involved in a loan with James Crichton, re- nounced to Sir Patrick Hamilton in 1652. In 1662, after the Restoration, he was fined £600. In 1655 he is recorded owing about £6800 to the deceased Francis, Earl of Buccleuch; this was for rental of the farms of Riccartonfoot, Pricking- haugh and Lawshill in the period 1634–47. He paid the land tax on property in Cavers Parish in 1663 and also paid more tax for lands recently acquired in Hawick Parish (from Cavers Kirk), as well as more than £500 for Goldielands itself. He was probably one of the ‘curators’ of Francis Scott of Davington, appointed in 1666. His descendants took the designation ‘of Crumhaugh’. His lands appear to have passed to Robert Scott of Clack, son of his youngest sister (or perhaps aunt), as well as Lilias, daughter of his sister Jean. However, he was succeeded by Walter of Crumhaugh, probably his cousin. Walter (17th C.) recorded as proprietor of Allanhaugh in a transcription of the 1678 valuation rolls. However, it may be that this is confusion with ‘Altoncrofts and Alintoun’. If he was a Scott of Allanhaugh, it is unclear how he might have been related to previous Scotts of Allanhaugh. Walter of Crumhaugh and Goldielands (1631/2–1700) probably a son of Charles of Crumhaugh, who was son of the first Sir Walter of Goldielands. He succeeded his cousin Walter in 1675, inheriting several lands, although those attached directly to Goldielands passed to the Scotts of Buccleuch. He succeeded to Robert Scott of Glack and Lilias Scott (wife of William Knox), who were nephew and niece of Walter of Goldielands. These lands included half of Ramsaycleuch, Commonside, Rashiegrain, Howpasley, Easter and Wester Hislop and Langleugh, as well as Crumhaugh. It is possible he was the Walter of Glack recorded in the 1663 Land Tax Rolls paying £130 for lands in Wilton Parish. He is probably the Walter of Goldielands recorded in 1675 when he requested permission from the Hawick Bailies and Council to build a fence on top of the dyke separating his lands from those of the Common. He is Walter of Crumhaugh in 1678 when he paid land tax on £1116 13s 4d in Hawick Parish. He is probably the Scott ‘off Gowddielands’ listed among the heritors of the Regality of Melrose in 1682. He was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1690. He may have been the ‘Goldilands, elder’ on the list of subscribers for the Hawick Kirk bell in in 1693/4 (with the ‘Goldilands, younger’ being his son Charles). In 1696 he resigned these lands, as well as Trinity Lands, ‘Corsback’ and others, to Charles of Crumhaugh, his elder son. He married Janet (or Jean) Glendinning and her will is recorded in 1682. His children included: Charles, who succeeded, but appears to have died before him; Walter, whose descendants later became the representatives of this branch of the family; and William, who married Isobel Gledstains in 1702. Note, however, that these generations are quite murky. His memorial stone was uncovered during renovations in St. Mary’s Kirk around 1863 and reads: ‘Here lies Walter Scot of Crumhaugh Who deceased 20 day of December 1700 and of age 68’. Jean, who married Walter of West Port in 1700/1, was probably his daughter. In 1687 he witnessed a baptism for Elspeth (married to James ‘Bleak’), who may have been a sister, with the other witness being William, doctor in Hawick, who may have been a brother or other close relative. He is probably the Walter of Goldielands, who (along with Robert of Tandlaw, who was thus probably closely related) witnessed a baptism in 1673 for Robert (perhaps his son or brother) and Bessie Miller. He also witnessed a baptism in 1678 for Walter of Harwood and 2 more in 1680 for William of Harwood and for Robert of Horsleyhill. He is Walter ‘of Crumhaugh’ in 1700 when, along with his son William, he witnessed a baptism for Walter in Goldielands (his son); this was just a few months before he died. Walter of Minto (17th C.) another name for Walter of Harwood. Capt. Walter of Satchells (c.1613-c.1694) writer of ‘A True History of the Right Honourable name of Scot’, a family history in doggerel verse, which was published in 1688, reprinted in 1786 and again in 1894. The words were said to have been dictated to school boys from Hawick. He was probably son of Jean Scott of Thirlestane and Robert Scott of Satchells, and may have been born on a farm in Eskdalemuir. He spent his youth herding cattle, then joined the Duke of Buccleuch’s regiment at age 16 (probably 1629) and supposedly served for 57 years. He served in the army of the Swedish King from about 1631 until long after the peace of Munster in 1648. In 1654 he had an act of caution against Robert, son of Peter Scott of ‘Cowdhone’; his signature is recorded in this document. He is probably the Walter ‘of Satsheilles’ (although it looks like ‘falshieles’) who paid tax on £200 in Lilliesleaf Parish in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663. He was also owner there in the 1678 county valuation, the lands being valued at £256. He is said to have begun his metrical family history at about the age of 73 (or as sometimes claimed, 88!). It was first published in Edinburgh in 1688, with a second edition in 1776, a third published in Hawick in 1786 and a reprinted edition in 1894, with extensive notes by John G. Winning. The family lost the lands of Satchells earlier in the 17th century, and so it is unclear exactly where he lived when he retired (but the impression is that it was near to the old lands). There is no documentary evidence about whether he married or had children, although Dr. William Scott of Stokoe says that after returning to Scotland he married a young woman with whom he had a daughter called Gustava (after King Gustavus of Sweden, in whose army he had served). The only other known work attributed to him is a ballad about the Scotts of Whitslade printed in Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ – ‘Captain Walter Scot, An old Souldier and no Scholler, And one that can write name But just the Letters of his Name’ [CWS] (often written ‘Scot’). Walter of Tushielaw (17th C.) son of William, whom he succeeded as last Scott Laird of Tushielaw (but must have been still quite young at this time). He was served heir to the lands of Tushielaw, including ‘Counislaw’ in 1670. He acted as cautioner for the Commissioners of Excise in Selkirkshire in 1682. He is recorded in 1681 when his son Francis became a surgeon’s apprentice in Edinburgh and in 1686 when his daughter Jean was buried in Greyfriars, Edinburgh. He is recorded in bonds of 1682. He may be the same ‘Laird of Tishilow’ recorded in 1700 when his brother John was entered as a Burgess of Edinburgh. He may also be the Walter ‘uncle to Tushilow’ who signed the marriage contract in 1678 between Elliot of Midlem Mill and Elliot of Harwood. His mother may have been Margaret Elliot and his uncle Francis Scott, who served as his cautioner in 1686. In 1688 he sold the family estate to Michael Anderson, who had married his sister. In 1689 he appeared before Parliament to give assurance that he would leave the country or live peaceably etc.; this suggests he was a supporter of the Jacobite cause, unlike his father. Walter (17th C.) described as ‘in Boghall’ in a list of landowners and tenants of Hassendean Parish in 1666. He may have been ancestor of the later Walter of Boghall. Walter of Newton (17th C.) probably son of William, for whom John of Brieryards was appointed tutor in 1638. He is probably the same Walter ‘of Chamberlayne Newton’ recorded in a 1643 valuation of lands in Hawick Parish, his lands valued at £266 13s 4d; his lands in Hassendean Parish were also valued at £1378 4s 4d in 1663. He is also recorded in a record relating to Hassendean Parish in 1666. He may be the Walter of Newton recorded paying the land tax on Lairhope, valued at £266 13s 4d in 1678 and paying tax on £1182 (presumably for Newton and neighbouring lands) in Hassendean Parish. He may have been succeeded by another Francis. Walter (17th C.) had a charter of the half merk land of ‘Mounkland’ in Clarilaw, from the Commendator of Melrose in about 1620. He is described as ‘in Monkland’ in a record of major residents of Hassendean Parish in the mid-1600s. He could be a descendant of John ‘of Monks-tower’ listed by Scott of Satchells. However, it is unclear how he might have been related to other local Scotts. Walter of Woll (17th C.) recorded in the 1643 county valuation as owner of ‘Wall’ in Ashkirk Parish. The lands were valued at £533. According to Keith Scott’s genealogy brothers Francis of Woll and James of Woll were owners at that time. It is therefore unclear how he fits into the family tree; perhaps he is another brother, who succeed between Francis and James, or else the name is an error. Walter ‘in Stobitcote’ (17th C.) local landowner of the mid-to-late 1600s. He purchased the lands of Whitehaugh from Andrew Hay in 1656. In 1671 he sold the estate to his nephew Walter of Headshaw (although it is unclear who this was). In 1669 he had a ‘wadset’ with William of Langhope (and his curator). He had a charter of Langhope in 1678 when he was referred to as ‘now of Langhope’. He may be the Walter of Langhope who paid the land tax in Selkirkshire in 1678. However, these lands were sold to John Scott (possibly his son) in 1688. In 1670 he was Bailie to George, Lord Ross of Halkhead and Melville for a sasine in Linlithgow and another sasine to William Scott in Manuel. He acted as Chamberlain (along with William Scott, Bailie of Dalkeith) for the Buccleuch estates in Dalkeith in 1673, and on his own for the years 1674–88. In 1675 he was cautioner for a bond by Sir John Nicholson to Walter, brother of Sir Lawrence Scott of Eyemouth. It is unclear exactly who he was or where the ‘St. Leonards’ refers to (possibilities are the lands in Ednam, Edinburgh, Lauder or Peebles). His mother appears to have been Elizabeth Napier, widow of Walter of ‘Harlawood’, who had remarried to Sir Bryce Cochrane; he thus may have been the same as Walter, son of Walter of Hartwoodburn. However, it is also possible he was closely related to the Scotts of Langhope. His wife was Janet Scott (and again it is unclear to which branch she belonged, with Langhope a possibility). His children included John, who sold the estate of Langhope to Adam Scott of Bowhill in about 1692. He may also have been father of Anna Helena, who inherited her grandfather Walter’s lands of Hartwoodburn in 1694. Walter (17th C.) son of Walter of Whitehaugh. In 1694 his daughter Anna Helena (widow of Archibald Edmonstone of Redhall) was served heir to his father’s lands of Hartwoodburn. Hence it seems like his father was Laird of Hartwoodburn and Whitehaugh. He was probably deceased by 1694. He may be the same as Walter of St. Leonard’s and Whitehaugh. Walter of Burnfoot on Teviot (17th C.) probably eldest son of Robert. He succeeded his grandfather Robert in 1667, becoming Laird of Burnfoot and Burnhead, which were still referred to in the service of heirs as Nether and Over Newhall. He is probably the Walter of Burnfoot who paid the 1663 and 1678 Land Tax Rolls on £312 in Hassendean Parish (presumably for Burnfoot). It is hard to separate him from his near contemporary, Walter of Burnfoot on Ale. He was succeeded by his son Adam, who sold Burnhead to William Scott in Burnhead. Walter (d.c.1681) recorded as ‘merchant in Burnfoot, in Lidsdail’ when his will was listed in 1681. The location of Burnfoot in Liddesdale is ambiguous and it is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts. Walter of Burnfoot on Ale (17th C.) probably eldest son of Robert. He is hard to separate from his near contemporary, Walter of Burnfoot on Teviot. He succeeded sometime before 1669. He was mentioned as a landowner in a record relating to Hassendean parish in 1666. He could be the Walter of Burnfoot recorded in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663, listed along with owners of lands in Wilton Parish, when he paid tax on £312. He (or the other Walter) was recorded in 1677 when his son Walter became a skinner’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He was still Laird in 1686, when he was one of those to whom Scott of Satchells dedicated an address. He gained Hartwoodmyres from Sir William Scott of Harden about 1690. He was probably the Laird of Burnfoot in Ashkirk Parish who paid tax on 3 hearths in 1694. He was involved in financial dealings with the Scotts of Thirlestane and was involved in legal action to recover money in the 1690s. His brother Francis married Isobel Scott. He may be the Walter of Burnfoot, son and heir of Robert, who inherited Burnfoot on Ale in 1692; however, it is possible there is another generation of Walters and Roberts represented here. Walter (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Bessie Turnbull and their son John was baptised in 1677. Walter (d.c.1695) servitor to Sir William Elliot, he was ‘of Penchrist’ in 1695 when his will was recorded. Walter (17th C.) tenant of Whitehillbrae in Cavers Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Walter (17th C.) tenant in ‘Weimes’ (presumably Weens) in 1687 when the will of his wife Bessie Scott is recorded. He is also recorded being ‘of Weins’ in 1688. He was probably related to John, who was at Weens in 1694. Walter (17th C.) recorded on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls at Borthaugh. Another Walter was listed as a ‘cottar’ there at the same time. He could be the Walter ‘in Burtoch’ whose will was recorded in 1692, and probably related to George ‘in Bortoch’, whose will is recorded in 1692, as well as to other Scotts associated with Borthaugh around that time, e.g. James. Walter of Headshaw and Whitehaugh (d.c.1691) purchased the lands of Whitehaugh from his uncle Walter of St. Leonards (possibly the same as Walter of Harwood or Hartwoodburn). He was the representative of the Scotts of Headshaw in 1671. He was succeeded by his son William of Whitehaugh in 1692. Other children were Robert (minister in Robertson) and Isobel (who succeeded her brother). Walter of Raeburn, ‘Wat Wudspurs’ (d.bef. 1688). He was 3rd son of Sir William of Harden and Agues Murray (‘Muckle Mou’d Meg’) and first of the Scotts of Raeburn. In 1661 he was served heir to his sister Janet. He is mentioned in a list of landowners of Hassendean Parish in 1666, and was a supporter of the suppression of the Parish. He acted as Chamberlain for the Scotts of Buccleuch in Dalkeith and Lugton. He is mentioned in documents of the Regality of Melrose in 1670–74. In the 1678 Land Tax Rolls he is recording paying tax for ‘Ilerig’ or ‘Flerig’ (presumably Eilrig) in Hawick Parish, as well as to other Scotts associated with Raeburn estates; Walter, ‘Beardie’, who was the great-grandfather of Sir Walter Scott the writer; Isobel; and Christian. Walter (17th C.) merchant of Hawick, recorded marrying Marion Armstrong in Edinburgh in 1652. It is not known how he was related to any of the other contemporary Scotts. He may be the Walter, merchant in Hawick, whose will is recorded in 1687. Walter (17th C.) described as ‘our master stabler’ in the 1651 will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch, when he was granted 200 merks yearly. He probably worked at Newark and Dalkeith, where the Earl mostly lived, but it is unclear where he came from. He could be the Walter who was owed money for a year's fee from the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1661. Walter (17th C.) probably a son of John of Brieryards. He had a sasine in 1656 for a 'merk land in Hassendean-bank', which was probably Cockerheugh, which his father purchased from Thomas Turnbull in 1656. He is probably the Walter of Cockerheugh who paid the land tax in Hassendean Parish in 1678. He may be the Walter who (along with John, probably his brother) witnessed baptisms for James of Brieryards in Roberton Parish in 1681 and 1687, and perhaps another for James Martin in Appletreehall in 1682. Also in 1681 he gave a disposition to John in 1681, probably assigning Cockerheugh to his brother. He is probably the 'Walter Scott Breariyeyards' listed on the east-side of Havick on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. Walter (17th C.) said to have been eldest son of Walter, and last of the Scots of Synton, who died unmarried. Instead he was probably eldest son of George, the last of the original Synton Lairds, with his brother being George of Brown.
former) Hassendean Parish at that time included Hassendean Mains. In 1677 he married his second wife, Helen, daughter of Thomas Hepburne of Humbie; she became Countess of Tarras and appears to have remarried to Sir William Lockhart of Carstairs. They had sons: Gideon of Highchester, who succeeded; William (b.1682), who died before 1710; Walter of Whitfield, who later succeeded to Harden on the death of his nephews Walter and John; Thomas (b.1681), who died unmarried; and Francis (b.1691), who died young. Their daughters were: Helen; Elizabeth; Mary, who married a Drummond; Agnes; Ann; and Margaret, who married Thomas Gordon. The succession of Harden after his death is complicated, but it eventually went to his second son Walter. His son Thomas is recorded becoming a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1702. His testament is recorded in 1693. Walter of Harwood, on Teviot (17th C.) eldest son of Robert and Beatrice Gledstains (and probably not closely related to the nearby contemporary Col. Walter of ‘Harwood’). He was also later known as Walter of Minto. Along with his father he is recorded in 1663 renouncing the burial place in the choir of the old kirk of Mertoun to Sir William Scott of Harden. In 1669 he was served heir to his father in Glendinning and other lands in Westerkirk Parish. He was recorded in 1669 as Bailie of the Regality of Hawick, appointed by William, Lord Drumlanrig; there was a dispute between him and the Bailies of Hawick over whether he had the right to hold his courts in the Tolbooth. In 1671 he gave his consent for a disposition involving the lands of Hornshole between the Turnbills of Minto and the Scotts of Brieryards. He registered arms in 1672. In 1672 he was Sheriff-Depute when giving sasine to Sir Alexander Don of Newton for Altonburn and other lands. In 1672 he leased Branholme Mains, Branholme Park and the ‘Steill and Henhaugh’ from the Scotts of Buccleuch. In 1673 he and his eldest son Robert purchased a large part of the Barony of Minto from John Turnbull of Minto. However, they appear to have resigned these lands, which were then sold to Walter Riddell (as confirmed in 1681). He served as Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch for ‘Teviotdalehead’ (i.e. Cavers, Hassendean, Hawick and Wilton Parishes) in at least the period 1671–77. In 1676 he served as caution for the Duke of Duchess of Buccleuch (and Monmouth) obtaining a licence to bring in 4800 cattle and 200 horses from Ireland to restock their farms in southern Scotland after the ‘Thirteen Drifty Days’; he was fined when it was found that some were more than a year old, such imports from Ireland being prohibited at that time. In 1677 he was recorded leasing the farm of Todshawhill, as well as Branholme Mains and Park. In the 1678 Land Tax Rolls he is ‘of Harwood and falls’ when he paid tax on £1550 13s 4d in Hawick Parish; these were probably the lands of Falnash and Harwood. In 1678 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire. He also served as Sheriff-Depute of Roxburghshire in the 1670s. He is probably the Walter of ‘Hairwood’ recorded in several bonds of 1682 and was served heir to his father Robert of Harwood in that year. William, his ‘brother-german’; became an apothecary’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1667. Another ‘brother-german’ may have been Gideon, who married Jeanett Elliot of Arkleton in 1677 (and was later ‘of Falnash’). He married Christian, daughter of Sir Andrew Ker. Their children included: Robert, the eldest son; Elizabeth, who married Gilbert Elliott of Stoneedge in 1693; Walter (b.1673), baptised in Hawick; Andrew (b.1678), also baptised in Hawick; George (b.1681), also baptised in Hawick, who became a barber’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1698. The witnesses in 1678 were Walter of Goldielands and Robert of Horsleyhill. It is said that the family was ruined by his wife’s extravagance and that Harwood was sold off. He is probably the Walter ‘in Harwood’ whose ‘natural Daughter’ married weaver John Jolly in Hawick in 1721. Walter (17th C.) recorded as a glover on the list of Hawick men named in the 1673 trial following the so-called riot at St. Jude’s Fair. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Walters. Walter and William are recorded separately as glovers on the same list. Walter ‘Reid Wat’ (17th C.) leased the farm of Chapelhill in at least the period 1671–77. He also leased part of Todshawhaugh in 1675. It is unclear whether his nickname referred to his hair colour or something else. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Walters, and could be descended from the earlier Walter of Chapelhill. Walter of Alton (17th C.) probably the Walter whose initials are recorded on the lintel of ‘Auld Alton’ house, along with those of ‘A.M.’ and the date 1675. He was married to Anna (or Emma), daughter of James Middlemas portioner of Raperlaw, as recorded when the pair were issued a ‘letter of horning’ in 1671. According to the marriage contract of 1669 he was brother of Francis of Gorrenberry; hence he may not have been directly related to the earlier Scotts of Alton. His children, baptised in Robertson Parish (when it still contained Hassendean) included: Margaret (b.1683); and Thomas (b.1684). The witnesses in 1683 were Adam and William Scott (who may have been relatives), and in 1684 were James Byers and Robert Davidson. He was probably the Walter of Alton who witnessed a baptism in 1687 for Robert Cook and Isobel Scott (to whom he may have been related). In 1678 he paid the land tax in Hassendean Parish (presumably for Alton), as well as for Raperlaw in Lilliesleaf Parish. He is probably the same as the Walter of Alton recorded later in the 17th century, although it is possible there were 2 separate men here. He was probably the Walter ‘of Altone’ who in 1686 was granted by James VII a commission of the office of the Bailie of Regality of Hawick (this on account of Anna, Duchess of Buccleuch, the heritable Bailie, losing her right because of not taking ‘the test’). He was one of the heritors accused in 1690 of inciting the disturbance at the removal of the roof of Hassendean Kirk. He may be the same as ‘Walter Scott of Alton in Raperlaw’. In 1690 in Edinburgh he married Helen Fisher; this was either his second marriage or there were 2 different Walters. He was probably the Laird of Alton in 1694 when ‘Alton his hous’ was listed on the Hearth Tax rolls, with tax paid on 6 hearths. In 1698 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire. Walter of Todrig (1630–1722) eldest son of Thomas, whom he succeeded by 1691. He acted as one of the ‘curators’ for Alexander Scott of Synton. He was probably the Walter ‘fear of Todrig’ who was recorded in 1682 as the nephew of Robert Pringle of Clifton’s testament. In 1690 he was a Commissioner of Supply for Selkirkshire along with Thomas (probably his father) and in 1704 he was again a Commissioner for Selkirkshire. He was still recorded in the discharge of a loan, along with William Elliot of Harwood in 1707. It seems likely he was the ‘Laird of Todrick younger’ who was recorded paying tax for 5 hearths at Essendine in 1694. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Thomas Ker of Fairnilee in 1682. He had one son and 7 daughters: Thomas, who succeeded; Jane (or ‘Jean’), who married William Elliot, 3rd Laird of Harwood by post-nuptial contract in 1700 (she is described as ‘Mrs. Scott’ and so this may have been her second marriage); Elizabeth, who married Henry Elliot of Peel, brother of William Elliot of Harwood; Nelly, who married John Elliot, another brother of William Elliot of Harwood, and secondly married Rev. William Home; Janet, who married Mr. Purdom from Hawick; Christian, who married Edinburgh solictor George Denniston; Margaret, who married David Scott of Merrylaw; and Violet (b.1691), baptised in Ashkirk, who married in Lothian. Walter ‘of Altencrofts’ (17th C.) local landowner of the mid-to-late 1600s, presumably connected with Alton Croft south of Hawick. He was probably different from ‘Walter of Alton’, although there may be confusion between the 2 farms. In 1678 he was ‘of Altoun crofts & wyntoun’ (or ‘Altoncrofts and Alintoun’) when his lands in Hawick Parish were valued at £110. In 1681 it was stated that ‘the sons and grandson of the deceased John Scott of Gorrenberrie, and Walter Scott of Altoncrofts’ were among the potential heirs of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch. He seems to have witnessed a baptism in Hawick Parish (for John Wilson) in 1682. In 1688 he was baptismal witness for Charles Scott of Crumhaugh. He may be the Walter of Alton Croft whose will was recorded in 1696: he was son of Robert and had a sister Marion, whose son William Wright inherited Alton Croft. Walter (17th C.) resident of Robertson Parish when it included Hassendean. He married Janet Grieve and there son William was baptised in 1687. The witnesses were Robert and William, who were probably either relatives or prominent Scotts in the area. Walter (17th C.) said by Capt. Scott of Satchells to be a ‘shepherd swain’, living in 1688 when his book was published. His pedigree is given by Satchells: son of Adam, who was son of William, who was brother of Thomas in Wester Groundistone and son of Walter, who was son of Robert, who was son of Walter, the first Laird of Whitehaugh; however, there is no support for this, and it does not connect with other early recorded Lairds of Whitehaugh. Walter of Elrig (17th C.) local landowner of the mid-to-late 1600s, according to James Wilson. He was presumably a descendant of Robert. Bailie Walter (d.bef. 1685) Hawick man, probably a merchant of some kind. Along with Walter Laing, he was a Town Councillor when the ‘Steeple Loft’ was built in St. Mary’s. In 1685 (by which time he was deceased) the pair had an agreement from the Town Council to be reimbursed for the costs of building this balcony. Bailie James (and his son Bailie Robert) may have been related to him. It is possible that he is the same as one of the other contemporary Walters. Walter of Chamberlain Newton (17th C.) recorded in 1693, along with his son, also Walter. In the service of heirs for John Ker of Cavers Carre, inheriting his uncle’s Lordship of Jeburgh, is contained a reference to annual rentals of 300 merks, corresponding to 500 merlands of Appletreehall, pertaining to the Walter Scotts, senior and junior ‘de Chamberland-Newtoun’. He may be the same as the Walter of Newton recorded in the 1660s, and his son could be the Walter of Newton recorded in the 1730s. Walter ‘the Buttermann’ (17th C.) said to be ‘of the sort of Scotts of Robertowne’, he is recorded in the Town Book in 1694, saying he and his wife would leave the Town in connection to any theft ‘if bu the worth and value of ane horn spoon, be laid to our charge and proven. It is unclear if he dealt in butter, or if his nickname referred to something else. Perhaps the same Walter is recorded in 1693 when his wife was found guilty of stealing ‘and little new pan’; as well as being fined, she was ordered to remain in the stocks until market day and then to sit at the Cross with the pan about her neck. Walter (17th C.) resident of Doorpool in Abbotrule Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Walter (17th C.) listed as resident at Outerside on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Walter (17th C.) tenant in Copshaw Park according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Walter (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He is recorded in 1693 when his wife was found guilty of stealing ‘and little new pan’. As well as being fined, she was ordered to remain in the stocks until market day and then to sit at the Cross with the pan about her neck. Walter (17th C.) listed on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls as resident of the lands of Castleton. He paid tax on 2 hearths. Walter (17th C.) resident at Branzholme Town according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Walter (17th C.) listed at Branzholme among ‘The poor in Hauick Parich’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He is listed separately from the Walter in Branxholme Town. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident at Whitchesters according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He may be related to Robert and John, who were also listed there. He is probably the tenant in Whitchesters recorded in the baptismal records for 1706. He is probably the Walter who (along with John) was in Whitchesters in 1713 when he witnessed a baptism for herd William Cowan. He married Janet Scott and their children included Margaret (b.1706), with witnesses being Alexander Thomson and Robert Scott, who were also tenants in Whitchester. Other children to couples of the same name include Margaret (b.1715), Agnes (b.1718) and John (b.1724). Walter (17th C.) smith who was listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Walter (17th C.) listed among the ‘Deficients in Hauick Parich’ in 1694. He appears to be at ‘The Tour of Hauick’ and is ‘called Poor’ (which appears to be a nickname). He may be related to John ‘called o the Toor’ in Hawick in 1609. Walter (17th C.) shepherd at Drinkstone according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Perhaps the same Walter at Drinkstone witnessed a baptism (for Archibald Riddell in Borthaugh) in 1704. He may be the Walter, servant to William, tenant in Drinkstone, whose daughter Bessie was baptised in Wilton Parish in 1709, and who lived at Leaheads. Walter (17th C.) resident at Clarilaw on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Walter ‘Chief’ (17th/18th C.) listed as renter of half the farm of Overhall in 1694, with Adam leasing the other half. The pair continued to rent half of the farm in 1696 and 1698. He must have been related to this Adam, as well as to the James, who was leasing half of Overhall in 1690 and 1692 (for whose widow, Margaret, he served as cautioner). His nickname may have given rise to the name for the ‘Chief’s Pool’ in the Teviot near there; we can only speculate about whether it might have been his favourite swimming hole or fishing spot. James ‘the Chief’, who died in 1778, may have been a descendant. Walter of Langshaw (d.c.1695) son of Francis and grandson of Patrick of Kirkstyle. Sir John of Ancrum was his uncle. In 1690 he was served heir to his father’s lands of Falnash, Tanlaw Naze, ‘Calfshaw’ and ‘Langshaugh water’ in the Parish of Hawick. In 1695 his brother Thomas was served heir to their father’s lands of Langshaw, suggesting that he may have been deceased by then. Walter (17th/18th C.) described as ‘in Wauchope’ in 1665 when he witnessed a document relating to Harwood lands and in 1677 when he witnessed the ‘bond of provision’ for Sir Gilbert Elliot of Stobs. He was a cautioner for Gilbert Elliot of Stonede in 1688 and 1693 and witness to a bond by Dame Magdalene Nicholson (widow of Stobs) in 1690. He was recorded being ‘in Wauchope’ in a bond of 1682. There was a ‘letter of horning’ for him and Henry Elliot of Harwood by Archibald Douglas of ‘Garvat’ (Gervald perhaps) in 1695. In 1700 probably the same Walter was also witness to the marriage contract between William Elliot of Harwood and Jean Scott of Todrig. His sons were: Adam, tenant in Wauchope and purchaser of Stanedge; and William, later of Stanedge, who was Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch. He may be the Walter, farmer in Wauchope, who married Janet, daughter of Walter, 3rd Laird of Nether Bonchester. There is no reason to believe he was directly connected with the later Scotts of Wauchope. He is probably the Scott of Wauchope commemorated on an elaborately carved thrones stone once visible in Hobkirk kirkyard, erected by Thomas of Stonedge in 1741; the inscription apparently indicated that he was a relative of Scott of Buccleuch. Walter ‘Auld Wat’ (17th/18th C.) recorded in 1705 when he witnessed a baptism in Hawick Parish for William Douglas of Boneyard. The entry appears to say ‘called old Watt’. He may have been related to Douglas’ wife Beatrix Scott. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded in Appletreehall in 1705 and as tenant there in 1711. His children included Walter (b.1705) and William (b.1711). He was probably related to William, who was also tenant in Appletreehall in 1711. Walter (d.1717) beadle of Hawick Kirk. In 1708 he was the ‘Beadal’ who presented the illegitimate child of Margaret Brydon and William Scott to be baptised. He is recorded receiving his salary in the first year of the oldest existing Session records in 1711, but it is unknown how much earlier he had served. In 1716 he was recorded as ‘beddel in Hawick’ when he witnessed the baptism of Robert ‘Old Mortality’, son of Walter Paterson of Burnflat; it seems that he might have been related to Walter Paterson’s wife Margaret Scott. He also witnessed another couple of baptisms in 1716. His son John succeeded him as beadle at the end of 1717. Walter of Nether Bonchester (1650–1733) eldest son of Thomas of Nether Bonchester. He succeeded his father as 3rd Laird in 1680, with the charter and sasine for Nether Bonchester being issued by the superior William Kerr of Abbotrule in 1681. He was witness to a sasine of 1693 for Gilbert Elliott of Stonedge. He also witnessed a sasine for Hobsburn in 1693. He was listed on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. In 1699 he was entered as a Burgess of Hawick, with the payment being in the form of one of his best ash trees for the Town to use to rebuild the bell-house of the steeple of St. Mary’s. He married Jane Turnbull and their children included: Walter, who succeeded; James, who was a writer in Jedburgh; John, who was transported to America (and may sometimes be confused with John of Ashtrees); and Janet, who married Walter Scott, farmer in Wauchope. The Hobkirk Parish ‘mort-cloth’ is recorded being used for his burial. Walter (17th C.) recorded as tenant in Wauchope in 1681, when he had a bond with Walter Lorraine in Harden, loaning him £3, signed at Hartshaughmill. He is probably the same as one of the contemporary Walters. Walter ‘Beardie’ or ‘Bearded Wat’ (c.1653–1729) 2nd son of Walter, 1st Laird of Raeburn. It is said that his nickname came from a vow not to shave until the Stuarts were restored. He was listed as ‘brother to Raeburn’ in 1695 when he contributed £200 to the Darien Company. He was a guardian to his nephew Walter, 3rd Laird of Raeburn. He married Margaret, daughter of Campbell of Silvercraigs. Their children were: Walter, farmer at Baillieknowe; Robert of Sandyknowe, who was grandfather of Sir Walter of Abbotsford; William, farmer at Easter Muirdean, near Kelso; Mary; Christian; and Margaret. Walter of West Port (b.c.1670) possibly 2nd son of Walter of Goldielands. He is probably the Walter ‘westport’ recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. It is possible he was the ‘Walter Scott Sone to Goldielands’ who rented the farm of Castlehill from the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1696. He married Jean, daughter of Walter Scott of Crumhaugh in 1701 (possibly a cousin, or otherwise this may be the only connection with the Crumhaugh and Goldielands Scotts). At the end of that year their son Walter was born, and he was to become the first Scott of Wauchope. It seems reasonable to assume that he was related to the other West Port Scotts, including Hawick’s second known Cornet, but the precise relationship is unclear. He is probably the Walter, son and heir of the deceased Walter of West Port, merchant in Hawick, who is recorded in 1716, with a bond he had in 1709 with Walter Scott (uncle of Walter of Crumhaugh) for the lands of Curriescleugh in Cavers Parish. These generations are quite uncertain; he may be the same as Walter ‘in Crumhaugh and Goldielands’, or perhaps distinct, but partly confounded with him in some accounts. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick. His son Robert was baptised in 1699, with witnesses Walter Scott and Thomas Beattie. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Howpasley. His son James was baptised in Robertson Parish in 1703. He may be the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living in Cavers itself in 1702 when his son James was baptised. Walter (17th/18th C.) tenant in Nether Southfield. In 1708 he witnessed a baptism for William Hood, weaver in Nether Southfield and another for John Dryden, smith at Newmill. He was also tenant there (along with James) in about 1710, as attested in evidence given regarding the state of Hawick’s Common in 1767. In 1713 he and James, both in Nether Southfield, witnessed a baptism for another James Scott in the same place. His daughter Margaret was baptised in 1709, with witnesses Dand and James Gray from Whitlaw. Walter (17th/18th C.) recorded as tenant in Alton Croft in about 1710 according to evidence given in 1767 about the pasturing of livestock on Hawick Common. Walter of Merrylaw (17th/18th C.) recorded as ‘Walter Scott of Mirrielaw’ when he rented part of Whithope in 1698. He was surely related to the slightly earlier William and the later Walter. He could be the Walter who was at Whithope in 1703 when his daughter Janet was baptised in Roberton Parish. He was an elder of Roberton Kirk according to parish records from 1707. In 1713 he was ‘of merrila in the parish of Robertoun’ when one of his children was baptised in Hawick (suggesting that he was indeed farming at Whithope). In 1709 he witnessed a baptism for Robert Laidlaw in Haregrain. Probably the same Walter ‘of merriela’ married Margaret Grieve and had a son Walter, who was baptised in 1713. The witnesses in 1713 were Water Grieve in Branxholme Park (perhaps related to his wife) and William Ogilvie in Craik. Walter (1670–bef. 1741) described as ‘in Crumhaugh’, and ‘in Goldielands’, he was 2nd son of Walter and Janet Glendinning. He was thus brother to Charles and uncle to Walter of Crumhaugh and Howpasley (with whom he is easily confused). In 1700 he was ‘in Goldielands’ when he witnessed a baptism for Walter Martin in Alton Croft. He is probably the Walter ‘in Crumhaugh’ who (along with Michael) witnessed a baptism in 1705 for innkeeper William called ‘of Goldielands’ (who was probably related to him). He also witnessed baptism in 1708 for Robert, tenant in Blackcleuch (which his family probably owned at that time) and for Walter Grieve, tenant in Colterscleuch. He may be the Walter ‘of Crumheugh’ recorded in a 1710 land valuation of Hawick Parish, when his lands were valued at 400 merks. In 1716 he was described as ‘now in Hawick’ when he had a sasine for Curriescleugh in Cavers Parish, which he had been promised by Walter Scott of West Port (who was surely a relative, but demonstrating that they were not the same man). In 1721 he was ‘uncle to Crumhauch’ when he witnessed a baptism for weaver William Crozier (with his nephew Walter ‘of Crumhauch’ also being a witness in the same year). In 1728 he was granted a disposition by James Burn for the lands in Hawick called ‘Croftangry’. He is probably the Walter of Crumhaugh who in 1734 was one of those appointed by the Hawick Council to sort out the rebuilding of the Bailies’ seat in St. Mary’s. He may be the ‘Walter Scott, Crumhaugh, a Counsellour’ who was mentioned in 1735 as one of the keepers of the keys to the Charter Chest. He firstly married Christian, daughter of Robert Bennet of Chesters, and she died in 1708, aged 34; her memorial stone was examined by her great-grandson Walter Scott of Wauchope in 1851, and uncovered during renovations to St. Mary’s Kirk about 1863. Their children included: Charles (b.1696), who died young; Walter (b.1700), baptised in Hawick, who succeeded and became the 1st Laird of Wauchope (although he appears sometimes to be confused with Walter, son of Walter of West Port); John ‘called Uncle John’, who were presumably relatives, and in 1704 were Walter and James Glendinning. The baptism in 1706 was in An- crum Parish, where he is described as son-in-law to the Laird of Chesters. The 1708 baptism in Hawick was witnessed by carrier David Minto and Andrew Riddell in Goldielands. His second wife was Elizabeth (Bessie) Scott, the marriage being recorded in 1721 (although this is surely an error); she was sister to Walter Scott of Cockerheugh, and he was described as ‘Uncle to Crumhaugh’. Their children included Walter (b.1712), a wright, who was deceased by 1743. The witnesses in 1712 were Andrew Riddell (tenant in Goldielands) and Walter Glendinning. His wife Elizabeth occupied the mill at Croft Angry as ‘liferentix’, and her step-son Robert eventually inherited it; she could be the ‘Leadye Croumach’ recorded in 1737 when the Town Council paid for sending ‘a sodger and passenger and letter’ to her. Walter of Clarilaw (17th/18th C.) probably son or nephew of Robert of Lies. Some time before 1700 he purchased Ashieburn, which became the seat of this branch of the family. He was succeeded by his son William, Walter of Shielwood (17th/18th C.) eldest lawful son of James of Shaws and Marion Scott of Shielwood. He is recorded in 1705. Walter (17th/18th C.) recorded in Lymiecleuch in 1708 when he wit-nessed a baptism in Hawick for Robert, tenant in Blackcleuch. Walter (1682–1766) 2nd son of William, who settled at Milston. He moved to Girnwood in 1712. He re-leased the lands of Girnwood from the Buccleuch Estates in 1744. In 1723 he married Jane, daughter of Philip Scott of Oakwood, and she died in 1776, aged 74. Their children (mostly baptised in Roberton) included: William (b.1724), who married his cousin Elizabeth; Philip (b.1727); perhaps another son, whose name is not known; Jean (b.1732); Elizabeth (or ‘Betty’, b.1734), who married her cousin William; Walter (b.1736), who succeeded as tenant with his brother Thomas; and Thomas (b.1742), cotenant of Girnwood with his brother. Janet of ‘Greenwood’, who married Robert Elliot, tenant in Hermitage, may have been another daughter.
Scott

Grisell (b.1726), daughter to Walter in Girnwood, was probably also his daughter. Walter of Woll (d.1744) eldest son of John of Woll and Agnes Scott of Harwood. His brother was Gideon, tenant in Ladhope. He was ‘younger, of Wool’ in 1695 when he contributed £100 to the Darien Company (along with his brother Gideon). He was ‘y[jouge]r of Woall’ in 1696 when he rented the farm of Whithope in the Borthwick valley from the Duchess of Buccleuch. He was ‘younger of Woll’ when on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1704 and in 1705 was ‘younger of Woll’ when he had a bond with Sir William Gideon of the minister of Roberton. He was still ‘younger of Wool’ when he had a court case with Gideon of Highchester over ownership of lands, with the adjudication in 1707 ruling that Harden, Todshaw, Borthwick Mains, Roberton, Howcleuch, Alemoor belonged to him (as well as lands elsewhere). In 1711 he was one of the original members of the short-lived ‘Honest Country Club’. He was probably the Walter ‘of Waalls’ who had a bond with Walter of Whitfield and William of Thirlestane in 1715, and ‘of Wooll’ in 1724–26 when the 3 were tutors of John Scott of Harden and made claims on the Harden estate. He may have been the Walter ‘of Woal’ recorded in 1737 in a document relating to sums owed by the late Duchess of Buccleuch. In 1694 he married Elizabeth (or ‘Eliza’), daughter of Robert Scott of Horsleyhill. He had 4 sons and 2 daughters: William, who succeeded and was Sheriff of Selkirkshire; Robert, baptised in 1696 (not 1676, as stated in some genealogies) and settled in Tommynome (or Tammymore), Loudonderry; John (b.1702), baptised in Ashkirk; Walter (b.1711), baptised in Selkirk; Isabel; and Jean. In 1711 he was living ‘at present’ in Selkirk, where his son was baptised by the Rev. Lithgow of Ashkirk; the witnesses included Andrew Pringle, brother to the Laird of Clifton and Haining and several town officials of Selkirk.

Walter (17th/18th C.) cooper in Hawick. In 1711 he witnessed a baptism for carrier Henry Paterson. He may be the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident at Alemoor. He was recorded there in 1711 and 1713, was at Easter Alemoor in 1716 and at Alemoor again in 1720. He was ‘younger in Almure’ in 1713, suggesting that his father was also Walter. His children, baptised in Roberton Parish, included: Walter (b.1711); Janet (b.1713); Margaret (b.1714); Christian (b.1716); twins Thomas and Bessie (b.1717); and Robert (b.1720). Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1721 he married Agnes Gledstains in Wilton Parish. He could be the Walter in Milston in 1722 when his son Archibald was baptised in Roberton. Walter (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was recorded at Wester Alemoor in 1734. His children included Helen (b.1733) and Mungo (b.1734). He could be the same as the earlier Walter at Alemoor, if this was a second marriage; otherwise he was that Walter’s son or other close relative. Walter (b.1696) eldest son of Walter ‘Beardie’, and grandson of the 1st Laird of Raeburn. He became tenant farmer at Baillelowe. He married Janet, daughter of surgeon Thomas Inglis. Their children were: Robert (b.c.1731); William (b.c.1732); Mary; and Janet. It is said that this branch of the family emigrated to America. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Janet Dickson in 1736, the marriage being proclaimed in both Wilton and Minto. Their children included: Richard (b.1739); Robert (b.1742); Richard (again, b.1745); James (b.1748); and Margaret (b.1751). Walter (17th/18th C.) tenant in Newbigging. He may be the Walter in Newbigging who witnessed baptisms in 1708 and in 1711 for John Wilson in newbigging and for Adam Laidlaw in Southfield. He is recorded as ‘in Newbigging’ in 1723 when he became an elder of Hawick Kirk. He was tenant in 1726–32 when James Robson was shepherd at Newbigging. He was also a Burgess of Hawick. He could be related to James, who was tenant at Newbigging a century earlier and Walter, who was there about a generation later. In 1723 he married Anne, daughter of James Scott. Their daughter Janet was born in 1725. Other children probably include John (b.1724) and Bessie (b.1726), and there are several additional possibilities (although there were other parents of the same names in the Parish at the time). The 1725 baptism was witnessed by ‘Mr. Venice preacher’ and Gilbert Elliot in Winningtonrig. He may be the Walter in ‘New…’ who witnessed a baptism for Robert in Braxholme in 1728. Walter (17th/18th C.) recorded being paid in 1725 ‘for making the lifting brod’ (i.e. collection plate) in the Bailie’s Loft of St. Mary’s. And in 1734 he put up the ‘brest in the bilife’s loft’. He was either a joiner, or possibly this was the contemporary beadle of the same name. Walter (17th/18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He was a member of the Council when it granted a bond (dated 1710, but recorded in the Town Book in 1711) to provide money for the Master of the new Grammar School. He witnessed baptism for John Scott ‘Whitegates’ in 1712 and for candlemaker George Turnbull in 1713. He was a Councillor in 1727 when he was ordered to refrain from using the ‘counsellors’ seatt in the bailies’ loft, in respect of his twice breaking prison’ after being convicted ‘of a riot, and arrested’; he may also have been removed as a Councillor. Probably the same shoemaker married Margaret Scott in Hawick in 1704 and their children include John (b.1705). He also witnessed a baptism for carrier James Boyd in 1705. It seems likely that the same shoemaker married Margaret Davidson (from Wilton Parish) in Hawick in 1706, with children James (b.1707), Robert (b.1714), William (b.1718), Elizabeth (b.1720), John (b.1721) and Mary (b.1725). The witness in 1714 was henry Orrock. Walter of Bonchester (d.1743) son of Walter of Nether Bonchester. He farmed along with his father until 1724, when they ended their partnership. He then farmed at Wauchope along with his brother-in-law Walter Scott, tenant in Wauchope. He succeeded his father as 4th Laird in 1733. In 1726 at Doorpool he married Helen, only daughter of Adam Turnbull, tenant at Doorpool; she was sister of Rev. William Turnbull, minister of Abbotrule. Their children included: Walter (b.1727), who died young of smallpox; Thomas of Bonchester (b.1729), who succeeded and sold the Bonchester estate; Adam (b.1731), who went to the West Indies and married Mrs. Thorpe; Margaret (1733–38); Rev. William (b.1735), minister at Abbotrule and Southdean; Agnes (b.1735), twin of William, who remained unmarried and lived at Gallahill, near Jedburgh; Janet (b.1737), who married John Rutherford, saddler in Jedburgh; Helen (b.1740), who died young; and Walter (b.1741). He was recorded in a document of 1756 (by which time he was surely deceased), between his 2nd (surviving) son Adam and Rev. William Turnbull of Abbotrule (his brother-in-law). His farm diary from the period 1730–43 is in the National Library of Scotland. Walter of Harden (d.1719) elder son of Gideon of Highchester and Harden. He inherited the Harden and Highchesters estates following the death of his father in 1707 (although some accounts claim he inherited the estates from his cousins). He must have been a minor when he succeeded, since the estates were run by his ‘tutors’ in the period 1710–19, their ‘sederunt books’ being in the National Archives. He continued to be referred to as ‘of Highchester’ until the death of his cousin Robert in 1710, when he succeeded to Mertoun and the rest of the family estates (becoming the 8th of Harden). He appears to have become bankrupt, resulting in the sale in early 1719 of his lands of Harden, Mabonlaw, Highchesters, Todshaw, Borthwickshiels, Robertson, Howcleuch, Easter and Wester Alemoor and others. On his death Harden passed to his brother John. Walter (17th/18th C.) tenant in Hawick Shiel. He is recorded in 1704 when he witnessed a baptism for Robert (perhaps a relative), who also lived there. He was also at Hawick Shiel in 1705 and in 1706 when he witnessed a baptism for John Irvine in Hawick Shiel. He and Simon Miller were described as tenants in Hawick Shiel in 1706 when they witnessed a baptism for James Davidson, also tenant in Hawick Shiel. He was in Hawick Shiel in 1709 when his won child was baptised. He was joint tenant of Hawick Shiel around 1710, along with Simon Miller; this was attested in evidence given regarding the state of Hawick’s Common in 1767. He and Walter Nixon were tenants there in 1712 when they witnessed a baptism for William Hislop. He is probably the tenant called Scott mentioned in 1717 when he had ‘plooghd. up an march corner hott standing upon the nortt side of said Common, opposite to the toun of Nethr Southfield’. He married Agnes Nichol and their children included: Elizabeth (b.1705); and Walter (b.1709). The witnesses in 1705 were Gilbert Elliot in Nether Southfield and grover John Hart and in 1709 were Walter Nixon in Hawick Shiel and Dand Gray in Whitlaw. Walter (d.bef. 1738) doctor in Hawick. He is described as an ‘apothecarie’ in baptismal records. He married Sara Middleton and their children included: Hugh (b.1703); Gideon (b.1706), perhaps the druggist in Hawick; Mary (b.1710); James (b.1719); and Elizabeth (b.1723). The witnesses in 1703 were Francis Gledstains of Whitlaw and William Shiel in Stobicote and in 1706 were Gideon of Fahnsh (who may therefore have had the child named in his honour) and Adam Elliot of Arkleton. He is described as ‘surgeon in Haick’ in 1738, when his son William became a tailor’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He may be the same Walter (with no occupation given) who was still alive in 1731 when his son Walter became a wright’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He was probably the surgeon in Hawick whose daughter Sara married another Walter (eldest son of Philip, Chamberlain to Scott of Harden) in an ‘irregular marriage’ in 1720. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Todshaw in 1710 when his daughter Janet was baptised and in 1715 when his son John was baptised. There are lots of other children baptised in Roberton Parish around the same time who could be his. Walter (17th/18th C.) married Jean Lillico in hawick in 1712. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was recorded at Woodburn in 1716 and 1720. His children included John (b.1716) and Walter (b.1720). Walter of Crumhaugh and Howpasley (1689–bef. 1743) son of Charles and Rachel Langlands. He is easy to confuse with his uncle Walter, whose name was also associated with Crumhaugh. In 1717 he inherited the lands of Crumhaugh, Howpasley and others, which had been in ‘non-entry’ for 18½ years; this suggests he was a minor when he succeeded his grandfather. He was recorded as a Hawick Parish heritor in 1718. He is probably the Walter ‘of Crumhauch’ who (along with Bailie George Martin) witnessed a baptism for workman William Inglis in 1721; in the same year the other Walter ‘uncle to Crumhauch’ also acted as witness to a baptism. He also witnessed a baptism in Wilton in 1721 (along with Gideon of Fahnsh) for Robert of Burnhead and his wife Agnes Scott. He was living at Midshields in 1722 when one of his children was baptised. A rent book exists for the period 1717–45, with him as landlord to John Moffat of Garvald, so he must also have owned property elsewhere (unless this was a different Crumhaugh). He is probably the Laird of Crumhaugh who lived at Fenwick in the earlier part of the 18th century (according to information given in 1767). In 1716 in Cavers Parish, he married Beatrrix (or Beatrice), eldest daughter of Gideon Scott of Fahnsh (who was Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch for decades); she was described as ‘in Broadhaugh’ at that time. Their children included: an unnamed son (b.1718); Charles (b.1719), who succeeded; Gideon (b.1720) in Priesthaugh (sometimes written as ‘Priesthope’), whose daughter Beatrice married Walter Scott of Wauchope; Mary (b.1721); Rachel (b.1722); and Archibald (b.1724). The witnesses in 1720 were Robert of Burnhead and Robert Cleghorn, merchant at Dalkeith and in both 1722 and 1724 were Robert of Burnhead and Robert of Fahnsh (his brother-in-law). His wife Beatrice had ‘liferent’ of the lands of Crumhaugh, as well as Harwoodhill and other lands. He is probably the Walter whose second sister Margaret married Rev. Hugh Kennedy of Cavers (and later Rotterdam). Walter ‘Crooked Wat’ (17th/18th C.) Hawick Town Herd in the years around 1710. He was known as an honest and diligent shepherd, and was called ‘Crooked’ because of his crook, not that he was dishonest. He could be the ‘Walter Scott herd’, married to Bessie Turnbull, whose son John was baptised in Hawick in 1704, with witnesses George Scott ‘listser’ and Bailie Patrick Richardson. Walter (17th/18th C.) recorded in Horselee in 1720 when his daughter Betty was baptised in Kirkton Parish. Janet (b.1723), William (b.1730), and Janet (again, b.1732), also baptised in Kirkton Parish, may also be his children. Walter (17th/18th C.) eldest son of Philip, who was Chamberlain to Scott of Harden. In 1720 he was called before Hawick Session for his ‘irregular marriage’ with Sara, daughter of Hawick surgeon Walter. He and his wife became apothecaries (or ‘chirurgeonous’) like his father-in-law. Their wedding took place in Edinbugh, and may have been performed by an ex-Episcopalian clergyman, rather than being an elopement; the wedding was witnessed by John Scott of Hawick, who may have been a relative. Walter (17th/18th C.) merchant in Hawick. He married Christian Simpson and their children included: Margaret (b.1710); and Isobel (b.1711). The witnesses in 1711 were carrier James Simpson (who may have been related to his wife) and flesher Thomas Waugh. He could be the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. In 1715 in Ashkirk he married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Wilson. Their daughter Helen was baptised in Hawick Parish in 1716. The witnesses were John Scott ‘Whitegates’ and weaver Robert Turnbull. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was living at Easter Parkhill in 1718 when his son William was baptised. Walter of Biewie (17th/18th C.) several letters from his sister Helen survive in the period 1725-28. Walter of Whitfield and Harden (1682-1746) third son (and second surviving son) of Walter of Highchesters and of Harden, Earl of Tarras. He served as factor for the family estates on the death of his brother Gideon in 1707. He was involved with Walter of Woll and William of Thirlestane (his future father-in-law) in a bond of 1715. He was Laird of Whitfield when he purchased the lands of Harden, Highchesters and Mabonlaw from other family members in 1720 (although he did not inherit the titles until later). There are dispositions to him in 1720/1 from Lady Mary Sharp, Lady Agnes Scott, Margaret Scott and Lady Mary Drummond, the female representatives of close branches of the family, relating to debts on Toshaw and Robertson. He was ‘of Whitfield being at present at Hardon’ in 1721. He sold Whitfield and Mervinslaw to Walter Scott, brother of William of Thirlestane in 1723. He is referred to as ‘of Whitfield’ throughout the 1720s, but also lived at Borthwickbrae Burnfoot. However, he was ‘of Heychesters’ in 1732 and 1733 when he had children baptised in Robertson Parish. He was one of the ‘tutors’ for his nephew John of Harden, and was involved in a legal battle over consequent claims on part of the Harden estate about 1724-26. The Harden titles eventually fell to him on the death of John in 1734, and he became the 10th Laird (sometimes referred to as 9th). He was listed on a memorial of 1738, claiming the right of the Lordship of Rutherford to John Scott of Belford. He was the Laird at the time of the 1745 Jacobite rebellion, and was apparently a supporter who was at the Battle of Prestonpans. A story is told (recounted by John Anderson, blacksmith at Ettrickbridge) about his narrow escape from the dragoons, who tried to capture him when he returned in disguise to Oakwood, and were also in wait for him at Woll and Harden; although the story seems too detailed to be an invention, it is still hard to believe this of a man in his 60s. He supposedly was caught trying to board a ship in Newcastle, when a simple-minded tenant of his recognised him, but he ended up with only a heavy fine, resulting in the loss of Howford, Helmburn, Baileiele and other lands. He married 4 times: firstly to Agnes, daughter of John Nisbet of Nisbetfield in 1709; secondly Agnes, daughter of William Scott of Thirlestane (with whom he had a daughter, Christian, b.1721, baptised in Roberton Parish) in 1719; thirdly Anne, daughter of John Scott of Gorrenberry (to whom he had his heir, Walter) in 1724; and lastly Christian, daughter of Henry Kerr of Frogden in 1736. He paid for the bell of St. Mary’s to ring in 1723, presumably for his wife Agnes or a child, and paid for renting the Town ‘litter’ for his wife’s funeral in 1730 (presumably Anne). His younger children (with his 3rd wife) included: John (b.1729), who died young; William (b.1730), also died young; Francis of Beechwood (b.1732), baptised in Robertson; Jean; Helen, who married George Brown of Elliston in Edinburgh in 1756; and Ann (b.1733, or ‘Annie’), recorded in a land sale of 1790. He also provided for the daughters of his predecessor John of Harden in 1731. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1720 he was living at Orchard when he married Elspeth Laidlaw. Walter (1692-1765) second son of William of Thirlestane and great-grandson of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden. He became a wine merchant in Leith. His attorney was Robert Shortreed of Essenside when he had a sasine for Wauchope from the superior James, Lord Cranstoun in 1750; this was a ‘heritable bond’, although it is unclear who else was involved or if he was related to any of the other Scotts associated with Wauchope. He married Martha, daughter of Cunningham of Balboggie and also married a second time. His children included: Thomas, minister of Cavers; Walter (d.1765), a surgeon in the 10th Hussars; and Euphemia. Walter (18th C.) servant to John Elliot in Goldielands. In 1725 he was living at Borthaugh. He may be the Walter who in 1738 witnessed a baptism for William Telfer, who lived at Borthaugh. In 1721 in Hawick he married Helen Turnbull, who was also a servant.
to John Elliot. Their children, included: Helen (b.1722), baptised in Wilton; Janet (b.1725), baptised in Wiltton; and Margaret (b.1727), baptised in Hawick. The witnesses in 1725 were John and Walter Scott. Walter (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Agnes 'Huishon' (or Howison). Their children included Walter (b.1725) and Bessie (b.1727). He could also be the Walter, married to Agnes 'Whitson' whose child John was baptised in Wilton in 1717. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wiltton Parish. He was recorded at Wilttonburn in 1713, 1724 and 1727. In 1727 he is probably the Walter who witnessed a baptism for William at Wiltton Burnfoot. In 1713 he married Mary Cockburn, who was from Alton, the proclamations being recorded in Wiltton Parish. James (b.1722); Mary (b.1724); Helen (b.1726); George (b.1726); William (b.1728) and Bessie (b.1730). The witnesses in 1724 were Walter Scott and James Irvine and in 1727 were William Scott and Andrew Irvine. It is possible he was the Walter who was recorded witnessing several baptisms in the 1720s and 1730s, suggesting he was an elder of Wiltton Kirk. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wiltton Parish. He was recorded at Wilttonburn in 1721 and 1724. He is probably the Walter who witnessed a baptism in 1724 for the other Walter at Wilttonburn. He married Helen Scott and their children included: Helen (b.1716); Bessie (b.1718); Helen (again, b.1719); William (b.1721); Thomas (b.1724); Helen (again, b.1727); William (again, b.1730); and Walter (b.1732). The witnesses in 1721 were William Scott and James Grieve and in 1724 were John and Walter Scott. Note that there appear to have been 2 contemporary men of the same name living at Wilttonburn. Walter (18th C.) merchant of Hawick. He is listed among the subscribers to the reprinted Buchanan's 'History of Scotland' (1752). He may be the same as one of the contemporary Walters. Walter of Howcleuch and Wauchope (1701–86) son of Walter and Christian Bennet of Chesters. Some accounts have him as son of Walter of West Port and Jean, who was daughter of Walter Scott of Crumhaugh; it may be that there are two men compounded here. It seems that in 1725 he married his cousin Rachel, youngest sister of the then Laird of Crumhaugh, Walter Scott (however, there could be confusion here). He leased Commonside shortly before his marriage, and lived for most of his lived at Commonside House. He certainly married Rachel, daughter of Francis Elliot of Fenwick, and (as stated on the family gravestone at St. Mary's) had 2 sons with her: Walter (b.c.1728) of Wauchope; and Charles (b.1728) of Howcleuch. Walter was baptised in Hawick in 1728, with his mother's name listed as Rachel Scott (and the witnesses being 'Mr. Millar' and John Scott), making the identity of the mother confusing. He is probably the Walter 'at Commonside' who witnessed 2 baptisms in Hawick Parish in 1738 others in 1740 and 1741. He became a prominent man in the district, whose advice was often sought out. Like other men in a similar position, he also acted as a money lender. In 1755 he bought Howcleuch and Bothwick Mains from Rev. Simon Halliburton. He was probably the Walter of Commonside recorded as a Commissioner for Selkirkshire in 1761. He is probably the Walter at Commonside who witnessed a baptism for Adam Hutton in 1762. He was 'Senior' of Commonside in 1766 when he witnessed a baptism for Robert Laidlaw of Falnash. He was one of the Commissioners appointed in the court case regarding the division of Hawick Common in 1767. He bought Wauchope in 1767 at public auction (from James Cranston, 6th Lord Cranstoun), thus becoming the 1st Scott Laird of Wauchope. However, he did not live at these estates he had acquired, but gave them to his 2 sons, Walter and Charles. Walter inherited Wauchope, while Howcleuch went to Charles. In 1784 he retired from farming and gave over his property to his 2 sons, presumably dying not many years later. In 1785 he still paid the land tax on Howcleuch. The family are buried in an aisle at St. Mary's. Walter of Raeburn (17th/18th C.) eldest son of William of Raeburn. In 1703 he married Anne, 3rd daughter of Hugh Scott of Gala. Their children were: William, who succeeded; Isobel; and Anne. It was said that he was killed in 1707 by one of the Pringles of Clifton. Walter (18th C.) resident in Hawick Shiel. In 1728 he married Margaret, daughter of 'Dand' Gray, tenant in Weensland. Their daughter Margaret was born in 1741. Walter (18th C.) 3rd son of Thomas of Whitslade and brother of John. In 1727–29 he was involved in legal proceedings with Walter Scott of Whitslade (later of Harden), probably over debts incurred by his brother John. In 1734 he was described as 'late of Whitslade' when he was accused for the 5th time of refusing to undergo penance and was excommunicated by the Synod. He must also have been related to the Dr. Robert, who lived in Hawick, possibly his brother. Walter (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He is recorded at 'Wester P...' (probably Parkhill) in 1733 when his daughter May was baptised. He is probably related to other Scotts who were at Parkhill. He could be the Walter who was at Milsingtonshiel in 1741 when his son Henry was baptised (and was therefore perhaps related to the earlier James at Milsingtonshiel).

Walter (18th C.) youngest son of Walter, who was brother of Charles of Crumhaugh near the end of the 17th century. His mother would have been Elizabeth Scott. He may be the Walter, wright in Hawick, who witnessed the notorial instrument of 1734 in which the Town complained about encroachment on the Common by tenants of Sir Gilbert Elliott of Stobs. In 1743 he was described as a wright when he registered a sasine for a tenement of land ‘and onstead of houses in Hawick’ to his brother Robert, these lands having been ‘disponed’ in 1730. He is perhaps the wright called Walter who witnessed a baptism (for Robert Oliver, shoemaker) in 1738, others for mason Andrew Wilson, Bailie Gideon Ruecastle and ‘messenger’ William Wilson in 1743. He may have been deceased in 1743 when his brother Robert gained the lands of ‘Croftangry’ from him; whether this is the same as the ‘tenement’ mentioned above is unclear. He could be the wright called Walter recorded in the list for paying tax on 18 windows in Hawick in 1748. Walter (18th C.) brother of William of Thirlestane. In 1723 he is described as ‘in Sourhope’ when he purchased Whitfield and Mervinslaw from Walter Scott of Whitfield. Walter (b.1700) farmer at Commonside. He leased Unthank and Fiddleton from the Buccleuch Estates, along with Robert Elliot of Fenwick, in 1733 (taking over from the Murray family). His father had married Christine Ben net of Chesters, and he was uncle of Sir Walter Scott the writer. Since there was another Walter who farmed Commonside at about the same time, some of this information may be confused. He also appears to have been confounded (e.g. by Tancred) with Walter, 1st Laird of Wauchope.

Walter (18th C.) tailor in Hawick. He married Elizabeth (‘Bettie’ or ‘Bessie’) Scott in 1721. Their children included: Anne (b.1728); and Elspeth (b.1730). The witnesses to the 1728 baptism were Bailie Walter Purdom and Bailie Scott ‘Senior’ (who may have been related). Walter of Cockerheugh (d.bef. 1743) son of John, he was a descendant of the Scotts of Brieryards. In 1705 Isobel Waugh appeared before the Wilton Kirk Session to confess to being pregnant with his child; she sat in the place of repentance and paid a small fine, with him paying £4 Scots as a penalty. He inherited Cockerheugh (part of Has sendeanbank) from his John in 1721. The 1720 records for Wilton Parish state that 12 shillings was collected for ‘Walter Scott of cockerheugh for his proclamation’, presumably meaning his marriage. His sister married Walter Scott (‘Uncle to Crumhaugh’) in 1721 (this probably being the next entry in the Wilton register, for ‘Walter Scott in Havick’). In 1724 he witnessed a baptism in Wilton for James in Whitehaugh and Janet Scott (and hence may have been related to one of them). He sold Cockerheugh to the Duke of Roxburgh in 1734. However he is still ‘of Cockerheugh’ in 1738 when he witnessed a baptism for James, miller at Crawhill. He is described as ‘late of Cockerheugh’ in a record of 1743, involving Adam Scott and Anthony Turnbull of Knowe.

Walter (18th C.) listed as ‘Walter Scott Wyndhead’ in 1725 when his daughter Bessie was born. His wife was Anne Scott. He could be the Walter who married Anne, daughter of James Scott, in 1723. There are several other births recorded around the same time that could be this family. He was probably related to the later ‘Wattie o the Wyndheid’. Walter of Merrylaw (18th C.) perhaps son of the William who was tenant in Merrylaw in 1694 or Walter of Merrylaw who is recorded around 1700. He leased Elrig from Walter Scott of Raeburn in 1730 and leased the lands of Craik and Whinniecleuch from the Buccleuch Estates in 1744. Rev. William was probably his son. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. Walter (b.c.1700) ploughman in Hawick. He worked at Goldielands from 1715, serving several tenants (except for 5 years) through until 1767 when he moved to Langlands. He gave evidence in 1767 regarding the former use of Hawick Common; he was said to be in his 60s and married at that time. Walter (b.c.1710) eldest son of Thomas, last Laird of Todrig. He served in the Horse Guards. In 1732 he married Jane, only daughter and heiress of William Rob son of High Stokoe, Northumberland. They had about a dozen children, those surviving being: Dr. William (b.1733) of Stokoe, who compiled a family tree of that branch, including information on the Scotts of Synton, Whitslade and Todrig; Patrick, a doctor who settled on the Isle of Man; Mary, who married John Best; and Jane, who married Paul Blakey. Walter (18th C.) described in 1743 as ‘late Baillie Depute’. He was probably the Baron’s officer within Hawick. His wife was Agnes Paisley (or ‘Paslaw’) and their children included: Jean (b.1727); Agnes (b.1729); Thomas (b.1731); Walter (b.1733); Agnes (again, b.1738); Agnes (again, b.1739); Elizabeth (b.1742); Jean (again, b.1743); and James (b.1746). The witnesses in 1743 were writer James Weir and mason Andrew Turnbull, senior. Walter (18th C.) gardener in Hawick. In 1722 he married Agnes, daughter of Robert Gardner. Their children included: Helen (b.1723); Thomas (b.1726); Janet (b.1732); Agnes (b.1737); and John (b.1740). The witnesses in 1740 were glover John Scott and merchant James Sanderson. Walter (18th C.) son of Walter in Synton Mill. He is recorded in a legal disposition of 1759. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Whitehaugh in 1729 and at just ‘Wilton’ in 1737. He married Margaret Scott and their children included: William (b.1728); Bessie (b.1732); Adam (b.1732); Anne (b.1734); Isobel (b.1737); Elspeth (b.1740); and James (b.1743). The witnesses in 1729 were William and Robert Scott (who were probably related to him or his wife, perhaps the Laird of Whitehaugh and his brother the minister) and in 1737 were James Simpson (soon to be minister of Wilton) and Thomas ‘Cayle’. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, recorded at Burnfoot in 1735. He married Bessie Leyden in 1734 and their children included: Helen (b.1735); an unnamed child (b.1737); Margaret (b.1740); and Jean (b.1743). The witnesses in 1735 were William and Walter Scott (who may have been related to him). Walter (18th C.) carrier in Hawick. His son Adam was baptised in 1745, with witnesses wright Robert Pringle and Kirk Officer John Telfer. Pringle had a child baptised on the same day, and he reciprocated as witness. Walter (18th C.) listed ‘in Finesh’ (i.e. Falnash) when the paid the window tax (for 11 windows) in Hawick Parish in 1748. He may be the same as one of the other Walters (e.g. Walter of Wauchope and Howcleuch, who farmed at Commonside and married a Scott of Falnash). In 1743 he was ‘In Falnash’ when he witnessed 2 baptisms in Hawick Parish (for workmen John Rieve and John Armstrong, who may have had a connection to the Teviothead area). Walter (18th C.) resident of Newbigging in Hawick Parish. He may have been related to the Walter who was at Newbigging a generation earlier. He could be the Walter, tenant in Newbigging, who was admitted as a heritable Burgess of Hawick in 1756. His wife was Betty Scott and their children included: Charles (b.1741); Walter (b.1743); William (b.1756); Archibald (b.1758); Ann (b.1760); and Robert (b.1762). The witnesses in 1758 were William Rae and William Mair. He is probably the Walter from Newbigging who witnessed a baptism for Walter (perhaps a relative, married to Agnes Laidlaw) in 1760. He is probably the deceased Walter ‘late in Newbigging’ whose son James died in Hawick in 1798. Walter (18th C.) farmer at Millholm in Castleton Parish. When there was a large gathering of seceders at Snaberlee in the early 1750s, he tried to claim the collection for the poor of the Parish, but the case was thrown out by Sir Gilbert Elliott in Hawick. Walter of Raeburn (18th C.) son of William, he was the 5th Laird. In 1788 he was listed under ‘Votes of Rutherfurd of Edgerston’ among the voters of Roxburghshire and was also a voter in Selkirkshire. He paid the Horse Tax at Raeburn in the 1780s. In 1788 he was recorded as owner of lands in Lessuden Parish. He was still listed as a Commissioner of Roxburghshire in 1819 (along with his son William, junior of Raeburn). In 1772 he married Jean, 3rd daughter of Robert Scott of Sandyknowe. She was the sister of his sister’s husband. Their children were: William (1773–1855), who succeeded; Robert (1774–1837); Hugh of Draycott, Derby (1777–1852); Walter (d.1802); John (d.1832); and Barbara. Walter of Boghall (18th C.) recorded in 1757 when he witnessed a baptism for Richard (perhaps his son) and Mary Rutherford. He may be the Walter, married to Beatrix, whose children baptised in Wilton Parish included Rachel (b.1722) and Archibald (b.1724). Walter (18th C.) skinner in Hawick. He is one of the skinners James, John and Walter Scott (probably related), recorded as Bailies in the 1740s. He paid tax on 20 windows in Hawick in 1748. He may be the Bailie Walter recorded in 1755 when the costs of a meeting in his place ‘when getting the new stocks’ were 6 pence. ‘Bailie John’ was also there and possibly this was also a Scott and perhaps related. He may also have been the Bailie Walter paid for work on the ‘book-board in the tolbooth’ in 1755 and given part payment for building the Herd’s House (suggesting that this Walter may have been a builder of some sort). He married Christian Deans and their children included: James (b.1735); William (b.1738); Jean (b.1741); Jean (again, b.1744); Beatrix (b.1746); and Walter (b.1747). The witnesses in 1746 were merchant William Oliver and ex-Bailie Thomas Turnbull. He is probably the deceased Bailie and skinner recorded in 1811 when his son William died. Walter (d.1810) tailor, nicknamed ‘Wattie o the Wyndheid’. He must have been related to the Walter ‘Wyndhead’ recorded earlier in the 18th century. He was probably the tailor of that name who was recorded as son of the deceased John ‘Wynhead’ on the 1810 death register. His shop was located near the top of what became known as Walter’s Wynd (after him). The death of his daughter Margaret is recorded in the Parish register for 1805. Walter (18th C.) only son of Francis, wig-maker of Hawick, he was made an Honorary Burgess in 1760. Walter (18th C.) founder of a joiner’s firm on Buccleuch Street, Walter Scott & Son, established in 1750. The firm moved into the former Grammar School building around 1886. It is possible that he could be the Walter son of Hawick surgeon Walter who became a wright’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1732. He is probably the wright who witnessed a baptism for merchant Walter in 1766. It seems likely that he was the same wright Walter who married Elizabeth (or ‘Betty’) Laidlaw in 1760 and had children: Walter (b.1761); Margaret (b.1762); William (b.1765); Thomas (b.1766); Mary (b.1768); Jane (b.1770); and Robert (b.1776). The witnesses in both 1762 and 1766 were baker John Osburn and weaver George Paterson. Walter (18th C.) resident of Whitfield. In 1761 he married Catherine Turnbull (from Hawick), the marriage being recorded in both Wilton and Hawick Parishes. Their children (baptised in Wilton Parish, with the last one in Hawick), included: Charles (b.1762); Euphan (b.1764); Robert (b.1765); John (b.1770); Helen (b.1772); Walter (b.1775); and John (b.1776). The witnesses in 1772 were John Lillico and Walter Rae and in 1773 was also witness for Walter Rae (at Whitfield). Walter (18th C.) schoolmaster at Kirkton in the late 1780s, where he took over from Thomas Wilson. There he taught a young John Leyden. However, after only a year or two he moved, apparently for a better position elsewhere and was succeeded by Andrew Scott. He was schoolmaster in 1787 when his daughter Peggy was baptised in Kirkton Parish. Walter of Harden (1724–1793) son of Walter, from whom he succeeded in 1746. He is the 11th Laird (sometimes called the 10th) of Harden. He sold part of the Harden estates in 1751 to pay his father’s debts. In 1754 he had a charter to the lands of Bewlie in Lilliesleaf. He was M.P. for Roxburghshire 1747–65, then serving as cashier of Excise in Scotland until his death (this excluding him from having a vote in the elections). There are documents of 1756 and 1760 in which he was promoting the idea of a twice weekly mail service between Edinburgh and Border towns. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761 (and is probably the ‘John’ of Harden in the Selkirkshire list). He was on the role of electors in Roxburghshire. In 1779 he sold the liferent of his property in Belses, as well as Mabonlaw and ‘Whinny park’ to Charles, younger of Woll (although with feu-right to John Pringle of Clifton). In 1785 he paid the land tax on lands in Yarrow Parish, as well as Oakwood in Selkirk Parish. In about 1788 he was owner of the lands of Harden in Wilton Parish, as well as part of Bewlie in Lilliesleaf Parish. In 1788 he is listed as one of the voters in Roxburghshire, being described privately as being a supporter of the interests of the Duke of Buccleuch in the election and having married a sister of the Earl of Marchmont, ‘but has been struck out of the Earl’s settlements on account of a political dispute with him’. He is listed in the 1788 county valuation (and in the Land Tax Rolls of 1811, although deceased by then) as owner of Harden, West Highchesters, ‘Dunsbush’, Mabonlaw and ‘Highchesters Whinny-park’ (valued at £814), as well as part of Bewlie (valued at £465 5s) and lands in Maxton (valued at £163 10s) and Smaillholm Parishes (valued at £1808 10s). His 1754 marriage to Lady Diana Home Campbell (daughter of Hugh, 3rd Earl of Marchmont and Baron Polwarth) gave the Polwarth title to the Scotts of Harden. Their children were: Walter, who died young; Hugh, who succeeded; Anne (d.1819), who is recorded passing land to her mother and brother in 1797; and Diana. His widow, Lady Diana, lived at Woodside near Kelso. Portraits of him and his wife were painted in 1756. His will was proved at the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1797. Walter of Wauchope (1728–96) son of Walter in Comnonside. The identity of his mother is unclear, since his baptism states that she was Rachel Scott (who is suggested to have been from the Crumhaugh Scotts), but the by the inscription in St. Mary’s Kirkyard states she was Rachel Elliot of Fenwick. He was baptised in Hawick in early 1728, although some accounts say he was born in 1726. In 1767 he purchased Wauchope and Longhaugh, the money being supplied by his father (and the arrangement being that he had to yield the properties to his father if he wanted). On the death of his father he became the 2nd Scott Laird of Wauchope. He was a trustee for the creditors of Robert Shurtreed of Easter Essenside in 1778. In 1768 he married Elizabeth (‘Betty’), daughter of David Rutherford of Capehope. His wife was known for her artistic and poetic abilities, and was the subject of a verse-epistle from Burns. It was said that he did not 2652 share many of his wife’s interests, and had ‘rather a morose temper’. She died in 1789 and he secondly married Beatrix, daughter of Gideon Scott of Priesthaugh, who died in 1807 at Priesthaugh. He farmed at Wauchope from shortly after his father purchased the estate in 1767, and took over ownership more formerly when Walter senior retired in 1784. He was recorded as owner of Wauchope in 1788, the estate being valued at £1433 6s 8d. He was taxed for owning a carriage in the period 1786–94, for having horses in the period 1786–94, for having a male servant (a footman) in 1786 and in 1792–94, and for having a female servant in 1787 and 1788. He was Laird of Wauchope when Burns visited in 1787. Having no children of his own, he was succeeded by his brother Charles. The family are buried in an aisle at St. Mary’s. Walter, W.S. (1729–99) eldest son of Robert of Sandyknowe, and descended from the Scotts of Raeburn. He became Writer to the Signet in 1755. He was listed among the voters of Selkirkshire in 1788. In 1758 he married Anne, daughter of Dr. John Rutherford. Their children were: Robert, John, Robert and Walter, who all died young; Robert (b.1767), a Naval Captain, who died unmarried; John (1768–1816); Sir Walter of Abbotsford; Thomas (1774–1823), who died in Canada, and whose son Walter was the only nephew of Sir Walter; Daniel (1775–1806); Anne and Jean, who died in infancy; and Anne. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded at Tandlaw in 1758. He married Janet Grieve in 1755 and their children included: Robert (b.1758); Jean (b.1759); Helen (b.1762); Walter (b.1764); Robert (again, b.1766); William (b.1769); James (b.1771); and George (b.1773). The witnesses in 1758 were Sir Gilbert Elliot and George ‘Mercel’. Walter (18th C.) resident at Borthwickshiel when his son David was baptised in Robertson Parish in 1762. Walter (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Robertson Burnfoot in 1763 when his son Walter was baptised and in 1765 when his daughter Beatrix was baptised. Perhaps the same Walter was at Parkhead in 1767 when his daughter Kathrine was baptised. There are many other children born in Robertson at about the same time who could be his. Walter (1736–1818) 3rd son of Walter, tenant farmer at Girnwood. Along with his brother Thomas he took over from his father as co-tenant of Girnwood. Both brothers being unmarried, the tenancy later passed to their relative Walter, 2nd son of the 3rd William in Milsington. He was recorded as farmer at Girnwood on the Horse Tax Rolls in the period 1785–97. He also paid tax on 2 non-working dogs at Girnwood in 1797. Walter of Newton (18th/19th C.) probably Laird of Chamberlain Newton. In 1738 he witnessed a baptism, along with Patrick, younger of Alton; this was for Joseph Lothian and Janet Scott, suggesting that Janet may have been related to him. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. He married Agnes Watson and their children (baptised in Hawick) included: Anne (b.1737); Francis (b.1739); John (b.1741); Margaret (b.1743); and Susanna (b.1746). The witnesses in 1743 were ex-Bailie John and writer James Weir. In 1767 his daughter Margaret (or perhaps Elizabeth) married John Scott of Whitehaugh; she was his eldest daughter and co-heir. Perhaps he was son of the earlier Walter of Newton. George ‘brother to the laird of Newton’, who signed the 1731 marriage contract of William Elliot of Lodgegill and Jean Elliot of Harwood, may have been his brother. Walter (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1762 in Robertson Parish he married Margaret Nichol. He may be the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (18th C.) merchant in Hawick. He married Betty Ekron in 1765. Their children included: Isabel (b.1766); Andrew (b.1768); Alice (b.1769); and James (b.1771). The witnesses in both 1766 and 1768 were merchants Andrew Scott and James Ekron, who were probably his father (or brother) and father-in-law. Based on the naming convention his parents were probably Andrew and Alice. Walter (18th C.) merchant in Hawick. He married Margaret Dryden in 1763. Their children included: James (b.1765); William (b.1766); and Margaret (b.1767). The witnesses in 1766 were wright Walter and baker William Elliot. Walter (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Woodburn in 1769 when his son Thomas was baptised. Walter (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. The death of his unnamed child is recorded in 1791. Walter (18th C.) schoolmaster at Abbotrule. His daughter Jeanie was baptised in Southdean Parish in 1776. He may also be the Walter whose other children baptised in Southdean were Peggy (b.1773) and James (1774). He could be the same as one of the other contemporary local teachers. Capt. Walter ‘Wattie’ (1741–1809) eldest son of Charles of Crumhaugh and Howpaysley and Christian Anderson. He was the last of the Scotts of Crumhaugh. He was born at Midshiels and died without issue. He may be the Capt. Scott of ‘Gaudilands’ whose daughter Charlotte was ‘begotten in fornication’ with Isobel Scott in Scott Scott

Longtown in 1766 and christened in Ashkirk. He subscribed to Caw's 'Poetical Museum' in 1784. He may also be the Walter who is recorded as tenant in Crumhaughhill in 1797, paying tax on 6 farm horses. Walter (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Janet Thomson and their children included: James (b.1769); James (again, b.1775); Robert (b.1780); and Robert (again, b.1781). The witnesses in 1781 were Walter Scott and Archibald Scott (who were surely related). Walter (18th C.) Church Officer in Hawick. In 1779 he witnessed a baptism for innkeeper John Kennedy. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Coldhouse in 1780. He married Isobel Gray in 1780 and their son Charles was baptised later the same year, with witnesses 'Mr' William Scott (perhaps the minister at Southdean) and James Scott. Walter (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Highchesters in 1786 when his daughter Nelly was baptised later the same year, with witnesses William and the younger Catherine his children. Walter (18th/19th C.) farmer at Priesthaugh. He subscribed to John Learmont's book of poetry in 1791. He paid the Horse Tax at Priesthaugh in 1785–94. He is also recorded as owner of 2 horses on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was additionally taxed for having 5 non-working dogs in 1797. He may have been son of Gilbert, tenant of Priesthaugh earlier in the 18th century. His will is recorded in Peebles Commissary Court in 1809. Walter (d.1809) wright in the Hawick area. The death of his brother, tailor John, is recorded in Hawick in 1809. He could be the same man as the founder of the firm of Walter Scott & Son. Walter ‘Cannie Wattie’, ‘Wat the Sauter’ or ‘Napier’s Wat’ (1753–1849). A tenant of the Duke of Buccleuch, he lived in the Salt House at the West Port. He was also for a time the servant of Lord Napier at Wilton Lodge. He was a carrier of salt etc., with his yard at the entrance to the Workhouse, later becoming a farmer near Orchard. He lived to the age of 96. His name appears to sometimes be given in error as ‘Robert’. Walter (18th/19th C.) recorded in the 1788 county valuation and in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls as owner of ‘Part of Patrick Cunningham’s Lands’, valued at £28 1s. He is probably the same as one of the other Walters, and perhaps related to John, who also held part of the former Patrick Cunningham’s lands. By about 1874 his lands had been divided among Alexander Laing, Alexander Michie, James Mudie, the heirs of John Hargreaves, the Roman Catholic Church, James Kyle, the heirs of William Scott, John Fiddes Wilson, Mrs. Agnes Oliver, Walter Grieve, the heirs of Mrs. Charles Scott, John Wilson, the heirs of William Wood, Janet Brown, Mrs. Rodgie and James Oliver; this gives an indication of the extent of the lands. Walter (b.c.1780) local farm worker. He married Ann Purdom and their children included: Mungo (b.1815), baptised in Hawick Parish; Mary (b.1817, Hawick); and John (b.1822, Cavers). In 1841 he was living at Greenbank Haugh in Roberton Parish with his children John and Mary.
along with the older Isobel Purdom (probably his mother-in-law) and young Thomas Hogg. Next door was pauper Isobel (perhaps his sister) and his son Mungo. Walter (18th/19th C.) recorded being ‘of Haggishaugh’ in about 1874 when he was owner of part of Burnflat. He is probably the same as one of the other Walters. Walter (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at ‘Roadside’ in 1791. He married Betty Douglas, and their son Robert was baptised in 1791, with witnesses Hector and Peter Blaikie. Walter (1761–1843) born at Parkhill in Roberton Parish, he was son of William and Margaret Hobkirk. A family legend states that they are related to ‘Old Mortality’ (Robert Paiterson) through Margaret Scott at Burnflat (and this could have been Paiterson’s mother). He could be the ‘Walter Scott, Parkhill’, who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He moved into Hawick and worked as a handloom weaver, living in Wilton. In 1797 he is recorded living at Lokieshedge, when one of his children was baptised ‘before the Antiburger Congregation’. In 1785 he married Elizabeth (1762–1844), daughter of John Biggar from Wilton. He was living at Dowemount (about 34 Princes Street) along with his wife and probably 2 grandchildren in 1841. Their children were: Margaret (b.1785); William (b.1788), who became a businessman in New York; Catherine (b.1789); John (b.1791); Robert (b.1793), who moved to Ohio; Margaret, ‘Peggy’ (1794–1867), who also moved to Ohio; Charles (b.1797); Walter (b.1799), who married Elizabeth Renwick and lived in Hawick; Sarah (b.1805); and Sarah (1807–88), who married Richard Purdie in Hawick. He died at Dowemount. Walter (1764–1837) 2nd son of William in Milsington. In 1793 and 1795 he was recorded at Milstonhaugh and at Borthwickbrae Parkhead in 1798 and 1800. He was later tenant of Ginnwood. In 1792 he married Mary Wilson. Their children (baptised in Roberton) included: William (b.1793), also tenant in Ginnwood, who married Ann Laidlaw; James of Allanshaws (b.1795), who succeeded his uncle William as tenant at Milston, and was also a cattle-dealer on the Crescent; Walter of Newton (b.1798), who married an Elliot of Harwood: Annie (b.1800); Thomas (b.1802), who went to America; and Henry, who farmed at Eilrig and died in Hawick. Walter of Whitehaugh (1769–1841) eldest surviving son of John of Whitehaugh. He trained as a surgeon and practised for many years. He could be the ‘Mr Walter Scott whitehaugh’ who witnessed a baptism for James Scott (perhaps a relative) and Mary Turnbull in 1793. He was listed as a Commissioner of Roxburghshire in 1819, when still ‘junior of Whitehaugh’. He was probably the Walter of Whitehaugh who subscribed to Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He was listed in 1835–41 among heads of households in Wilton Parish. He was also listed among the local gentry on Pigot’s 1837 directory. In the 1841 census he is recorded at Whitehaugh with his younger brother James, together with Christian Chisholme and 2 female servants. He died unmarried and was succeeded by his brother James. He is buried at Whitehaugh Aisle ‘in this spot selected by himself’. Walter (c.1780–bef. 1851) grocer and spirit merchant of 6 Sandbed. He is probably the Walter listed as a grocer at Buccleuch Street on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory and a ‘victual dealer’ in 1837. He was still on Buccleuch Street in the 1841 census. He married Isabella Anderson and their children included: Margaret (b.1803), who married grocer John Hume; Charles (b.1805); greengrocer Thomas ‘Sly Tammie’ (b.1810); Charles (b.1814), probably died young; Isabella (b.1816); and Christian (b.1818). He secondly married another Isabella (Hogg), and their children were: Charles, also a spirit merchant; Jessie (b.1825); Agnes (b.1827); Helen (b.1829), probably died young; Walter (b.1831), chemist in Durham; Robert (b.1833); Mary Ann (b.1835); and Andrew (b.1839), Burgh Assessor. His widow Isabella was living at 8 Buccleuch Street in 1851 and 1861, and continued the grocer’s shop. He is probably the Walter Scott, ‘Newroad’ whose son died in 1829. He may be the ‘servant’ of William Oliver (‘Auld Cash’) who witnessed his will in 1808. Sir Walter of Abbotsford (1771–1832) world famous writer. He was born in Edinburgh, son of Walter and Anne Rutherford. He was descended from ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden, and sent to the Borders to recuperate from polio. He wrote a great deal of poetry and effectively established the form of the historical novel. ‘The Lay of the Last Minstrel’ is set at Branxholme, and many other books have a local flavour, if romanticised somewhat. His ‘Minstrelsy of the Scottish Border’ (1802, with subsequent volumes and enlarged editions) was instrumental in preserving many Border ballads and establishing them as international literature (although again he is criticised for rewriting some of them himself). He helped popularise the ‘shepherd’s-check’ trousers, which assisted the development of the Borders knitwear industry. He made 7 annual trips into Liddesdale in the 1790s.
He was appointed as Principal Clerk of Session in 1806, and was created a Baronet in 1820. In 1808 he was on the subscription list for the first real Scots dictionary, compiled by his friend John Jamieson. Although by all accounts amiable to all classes, he was not locally popular among the ordinary Borderers, partly because he was a Sheriff and also an anti-Chartist. Around Hawick and Selkirk he was also rumoured to have helped intice the Gala men to switch sides at the ‘Carterhaugh Baa’. His carriage was reputedly stoned during the 1831 election in Jedburgh, apparently by a group of about 1,000 Hawick weavers (although some reports dispute this). With financial support from the Duke of Buccleuch, he led efforts to preserve Melrose Abbey. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. He wrote the lines ‘Sweet Teviot! on thy silver tide The glaring bale-fires blaze no more; No longer steel-clad warriors ride Along the wild and willow’d shore’, and Hawick is further mentioned in the ‘Lay . . . ’ in the lines ‘Dimly he view’d the Moat-hill’s mound, Where Druid shades still twinkled many a light, Behind him soon they set in night’. In 1797 he married Margaret Charlotte (who he met by chance at Gilsland, and married 4 months later), daughter of Jean Charpentier of Lyons. Their children were: Walter, 2nd Baronet (1801–47), who died without issue; Charles (1805–41), died in Tehran; Charlotte Sophia, who married John Gibson Lockhart: and Anne (d.1833). He was buried at Dryburgh Abbey and his house at Abbotsford became a museum. His court-room on Selkirk square is also a museum. The Gothic-style Scott Monument on Princes Street in Edinburgh was built 1840–44, is 200 feet 6 inches high and contains a marble statue of the writer at the base. There is also a Doric column topped by a statue in Glasgow, as well as the life size statue in Selkirk square. A celebration for his centenary birthday was held at Branxholme, with a procession, speeches, toasts and songs. He was apparently editing the memoirs of Rev. Dr. John Young of Hawick when he was suffered some sort of stroke in 1830, and the work never appeared. Scott Crescent in Burnfoot was named after him in 1952 – ‘O Scott! with whom, in youth’s serenest prime, I wove with careless hand the fairy rhyme’ [JL], ‘Praise to the bard, immortal Scott, Who sleeps in ‘Dryburgh Bowers’, Whose genius hallowed every spot In this dear land of ours’ [JT], ‘Like a loved ghost thy fabled flood Fleets through the dusky land; Where Scott, come home to die, has stood, My feet returning stand’ [ALg]. Walter (18th/19th C.) proprietor of a public house in Denholm, recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. Walter (18th/19th C.) proprietor of a public house in Newcastle according to Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. Walter (b.c.1769) joiner in Newcastle. He was listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories as a wright there. In 1841 he was living at about 41 North Hermitage Street. Walter (18th/19th C.) carrier in Hawick. His father-in-law Robert Anderson died in 1819. He may be the Walter who married Isabella Anderson and whose children include Margaret (b.1803), Charles (b.1805), Thomas (b.1810), Isabella (b.1816) and Christian (b.1818). Walter (1778–1857) 4th Laird of Wauchope, son of Charles, was descended from the Scotts of Crumhaugh and Goldielands. He succeeded his father in 1808 and farmed at Wauchope. He was a representative on the council of Heritors in Hoblirk Parish even before he succeeded. He raised nearly 100 men during the French invasion scare of 1803, which became the Light Company of the Roxburgh Volunteers. He was captain of this unit during the False Alarm of 1804, and rode to collect men from Liddesdale, arriving at their head in Hawick before daybreak. When the unit disbanded in 1809 he became first Captain of the (1st Regiment) Roxburgh Local Militia. He and his father were listed among the Commissioners for both Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire in 1805 and 1819. He was one of the original members of the Jedforest Club in 1810. He was recorded as a freeholder in the Michaelmas Head-Court of Jedburgh in 1811. In the Land Tax Rolls in 1811 he is recorded as owner of parts of Wauchope, called Common, Hawklaw-tongues (or Wauchope-head), Wauchope-rig and Wigg. There is a story told (in Lang’s ‘Stories of the Border Marches’) of how, on the road to Hawick in 1813, he came upon an old man who had been recently attacked, and with the help of a local ploughman (William Little) tracked down the robber, who was later hung for his crime; the report in the Scots Magazine for 1813 states that the man attacked was 101 years old, and that the attacker was sentenced to transportation for robbery. It is said that he was generally slow to make up his mind, but known for his common sense and an authority on parish business. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He was made an Honorary Burgess of Hawick in 1828. He was nephew of Walter Dickson, merchant of Edinburgh, and so was related to the Hassendean and Hawick Dicksons. He was listed among the local gentry in Pigot’s 1837 directory. In the 1841 census he is listed as ‘Independent’, and the house had 3 servants and in 1851 was listed as ‘J.P. Landed Prop.’, employing 2 labourers. Also in 1851 he examined the memorial stones of the Scotts of Goldielands and Crumhaugh in St. Mary’s Kirk, including that of Christian Bennet, who was his great-grandmother. He was said to be a keen supporter of the Hobkirk Baa, riding on his grey horse to encourage the ‘uppies’ side. In 1812 he married Marion, daughter of Thomas Macmillan of Shorthope in Selkirkshire. Their children were: a daughter (b.1813), who probably died in infancy; Charles (1814–17); Thomas (1816–62), who succeeded and changed his surname to Macmillan-Scott; Walter (1817–44), who worked for the East India Company; Charles (1819–95), who farmed at Lintalee, and succeeded his uncle Archibald to Howcleuch; Archibald (1822–62), who died in Malta; and Anne, who also died in infancy. He died at Wauchope and is buried in Hobkirk kirkyard. A portrait of his wife Marion was painted by Sir John Watson Gordon. Walter ‘Wat o the Knowe’ (b.1786/7) claimed to be a descendant of Walter Scott of Goldielands, he farmed at ‘the Knowe’ (now Bowanhill) near Teviothead. His family had previously been farmers at Newbigging on the edge of Hawick Common. His sister Agnes married mason John Armstrong from Wilton Dean and he had another sister who was grandmother of William Murray, gardener at Borthwickshiels. He was recorded at ‘Henderson’s Knowe’ in 1841. In 1851 he was a farmer of 630 acres at Bowanhill, employing 3 labourers, and in 1861 it was 650 acres, employing 2 labourers. He was still there in 1868. His toddy ladle is in the Museum, and he is buried in the aisle of St. Mary’s (with special permission of the Duke of Buccleuch). His housekeeper’s headstone at Teviothead is curtly inscribed ‘Tibbie Bell, Wat’s housekeeper, died 16th December 1863, aged 69′. He died unmarried.

Walter (b.c.1790/1) farmer at Wiltonburn. He is probably son of the earlier Walter from Wiltonburn. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He was listed among heads of households in Wilton Parish in 1835 and 1840. In 1851 he is listed as a farmer of 450 acres. His wife was Elizabeth and children included Margaret R., Walter, Elizabeth, Douglas, Walter D., Williamina J.N. and Ann T. Walter (b.c.1790) farm steward at Todshawhaugh according to the 1841 census. Walter (1790/1–aft. 1851) born in Cavers Parish, he became a shepherd at Singdean. He had been shepherd at Hyndlee to James Davidson, also called ‘Dandie Dimmont’, and was a keen fox hunter. He married Elspeth ‘Eppy’ Telfer and they had 5 boys and 5 girls, including James, Jean, Andrew, John, Anne Elliot, Christian and Eppy. 2 of his sons were shepherds and another was a gamekeeper. He is probably the Walter at Singdean appointed as a Parish elder in 1832 and listed as male head of family there 1835–41. It is said that he came across a French doctor who had settled in Scotland after the Peninsular War, and from him learned the secret of a herbal plaster that could cure cancer. This cure became quite famous at the time, and people would come from all around to try the cure. One particular story concerns the apparently successful treatment of a huge tumour on the wife of a tradesman from Galashiels. His son Andrew was shepherd at Twislehope, and carried on the secret.

Walter (b.1792/3) farmer at Netherraw in Castleton Parish. In 1861 he was farmer of 15 acres there. His son was a teacher at Hermitage and he also had a daughter Esther. He was appointed an elder of Castleton Kirk in 1832. He is listed as male head of family at Netherraw in 1835–41. Walter of Newton (b.1798/9) 3rd son of Walter, tenant in Girnwood. He is said to have married an Elliot of the Harwood branch, possibly Helen in Hawick in 1838; this seems likely to have been Helen (b.c.1794), daughter of Walter in Hermitage. His daughter Margaret Ann married Andrew Scott, who was afterwards of Newton. He is probably the cattle-dealer of that name recorded on the Crescent along with James (who would have been his brother) in 1841. In 1851 he was farmer of 1000 acres at Satchells. In 1861 he was farming 385 acres at Newton and employing 10 people there; his wife was Helen (b.c.1797), from Newcastleton, and his nephew George Ballantyne was farm overseer. He was still recorded at Newton in an 1868 directory. His wife Helen ‘Elliot or Scott’ was recorded as owner of Newton in the Land Tax Rolls of about 1874. Walter ‘Watty’, ‘Wattie Scott the Cairrier’ (d.1857) owner of a carriers business in Hawick. His stabling and yard were at the west side of where the Liberal Club was built, 78 High Street; this was referred to as ‘Wood Yard’ in the 1841 census, and he shared the premises with another carrier, James Best. His firm carried general goods to Berwick and elsewhere. He may be the Walter listed in 1837, leaving from the Grapes for Glasgow every other Tuesday, and for Langholm every other Thursday, as well as going to Selkirk every other Tuesday and Thursday. He may be the Walter listed in 1852 as carrier between Denholm, Hawick and Jedburgh once a week. He was also listed in 1852 going to Carlisle, Langholm and Longtown every Monday and Wednesday, Jedburgh and Kelso on Mondays and Fridays, and Selkirk, Melrose and Galashiels on Tuesdays and Fridays. His son, also Walter, was Cornet in 1859. Walter ‘Wat the Sweep’ (1799–1869) well known character in 19th century Hawick, with sooty black clothes and a huge bushy beard. He liked to recount astonishing tales of his own strength at harvesting and in the wars. He died in Hawick Poorhouse. Walter (1801–47) son of Sir Walter, he was 2nd Baronet of Abbotsford. In 1815 he played a ceremonial role in the ‘Carterhaugh Baa’, riding out with the Buccleuch banner to signal the start of the match. He died without issue. Walter (b.1812/3–92) son of Thomas and Christian. He was a joiner on Buccleuch Street (No. 4), like his father before him. He was listed as a joiner on Buccleuch Street in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1851 he was living with his sister Jean. He later married Christian (or Christina) Lillico and their children included Thomas and William. He died at 4 Buccleuch Street. Walter (b.1814/5) coachman at Whitehaugh Cottage in 1841 and 1851. His wife was Isabella and they had a son, also Walter. Walter (1817–44) 2nd son of Walter of Wauchope and Marion Macmillan. He was a doctor with the East India Company. He died at Allahabad, Bengal. Walter (b.1820) from Roberton Parish, son of Thomas and Agnes Leithead. He worked as a fuller in Wilton. His sister Janet married James Black. In 1851 he was living at Wilton Place and in 1861 at Upper Hope Park. He married Mary Beattie (from Selkirk) and their children included: Thomas (b.1849); and John Beattie (b.1852). In the 1880s his son Thomas was living at Ellabank with his widow Mary. Walter (19th C.) son of John, his mother being a Deans. He was last of more than a century of tenants of the same family at Hummelknowes Mill. He was recorded there in 1851, as farmer of 26 acres, living with his brother John, who was miller at Hummelknowes. He left the farm in 1855, moving to Ormiston. He was farmer at Ormiston Parkhead in 1861. He married Margaret Nichol and their children included: John (b.1846); William, J.P. (b.1848); Janet (b.1850); and Walter (b.1852). Walter (1822–1892) son of William, tenant farmer at Girnwood. He took over from his father as farmer at Girnwood. He died unmarried and was succeeded in the tenancy by his niece Hannah Davies, who purchased the property. In 1861 he was listed as farmer of 600 acres at Girnwood and he was still there in 1868. Walter (b.1831) son of grocer and spirit merchant Walter, with his mother being Isabella Hogg. He was a chemist and druggist, being in Galashiels in 1859 and was at Ladhope in 1861, with his brother-in-law David Scott Park visiting. He later worked in Durham. In 1859 at Hawick Free Kirk, he married Ellen Cabourn Park, daughter of David Scott Park. Walter (1835/6–1892) son of grocer Thomas and Mary Helm. In 1874 or 1875 he was co-founder of Lyle & Scott’s, along with William Lyle. He was described as ‘a gentleman of long practical experience in the trade, having held important positions with eminent manufacturers here for years’. They built the firm up from modest beginnings into a huge concern, largely through his efforts. He married Margaret Law (who died aged 24), with whom his children were: Walter, died young; Thomas, died aged 23; and Margaret, who married John Elliot of Selkirk. He secondly married Helen Porteous, with additional children: William P., Cornet in 1893; Robert P., killed in France in 1917; James; Isa Watson, who died young; and John P. He is recorded attending the 1891 Common Riding in a carriage along with several of Hawick’s most respected elderly gentlemen. He died at Craigview, Denholm. Walter ‘Hawick Wattie’ (1844/5–1904) born in Hawick, said to be from a good family, he was a stockingmaker by trade. He was employed in Elliot’s shop for many years, but became a homeless wanderer. He roamed around the local countryside for many years. He was said to be ‘a good-natured, humorous man, with a fund of song and anecdote’. Always seen at Border fairs, he was often the worse for drink, and well known to local Magistrates. William Peffers immortalised him in a poem – ‘Now Wattie neither begs nor buys, Nor steals, nor sells, nor does he trock. For daily bread he jist relies On kindliness o’ country folk’ [WP], ‘...They’re Jamie Cant and Pally Wattie, Come, let us run them in’ [WE]. Walter (1845–1919) born at Synton, son of William and Mary Scott. In 1861 he was a joiner’s apprentice with Thomas Waldie in Ashkirk. He emigrated to Canada, along with his brothers George and Alexander. He married twice and had 7 children. He died in York, Ontario. Walter E. (19th/20th C.) farmer at Pilmuir, who was Cornet in 1903 and one of the founder members of the Callants'
Scott

Walter P. (19th/20th C.) farmer at Falnash. He was a Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire. Walter Ross 'Wattie' (1926–2006) son of Andrew and Bunty, who had moved to Canada, he was born in Winnipeg, but soon returned to 'the Nitton'. He was widely stated to be the best Hawick R.F.C. player who was never capped for Scotland. He was Greens captain 1948/9 and 1952/3, won 30 sevens medals and regularly played for the South of Scotland, being renowned for his strong hand-off. He spent his life in farming and was also a keen curler. An enthusiastic Common Riding supporter, he first followed during the War years, was Acting Father in 1970 and served as President of the Mosstroopers and Callants' Clubs. He married Joey and had children John Ross (Honorary Provost), Terry (also Acting Father) and Jill. Warin (13th C.) listed on a panel in Kent when the goods at Chileham, belonging to the late wife of Alexander Bailiot were valued. His name occurs as 'Warin Scot', but it is unclear if he could be related to local Scotts. William (12th/13th C.) probably son of Richard and great-grandson of Uchtred Fitz-Scott. He attended the court of Alexander II, and is recorded as witness to a charter of Walter (grandson of Walter, Steward of Scotland) between 1207 and 1214. He may be the same William who witnessed charters by Walter the Steward to Paisley Abbey, a payment of rent for Paisley mill, a gift of a church in Ayrshire, a gift of lands in Perth and another related to Coldingham Priory, all perhaps in the 1220s; he is there recorded as 'Willelmo Scoto'. He may also be the William who witnessed a grant of lands in Strathblane around the 1240s. He was succeeded by Sir Richard, generally considered to be his son, who was probably the first Scott to own lands anywhere near to Hawick. It is possible that another son was Walter, who held lands in Peebles and signed the Ragman Rolls along with Richard in 1296. William (13th C.) recorded as William 'le Scot' in 1233 in Strafford (perhaps Stratford). He was tailor of Richard, Earl of Cornwall, and was commanded to be given the house in Bordeaux that had been taken from him by the Seneschal of Gascony. William (d.c.1243) recorded as 'William Scot' and William 'of Stitchill'. He was recorded as Archdeacon of Worcester in 1218. In 1226 he was presented as Bishop of Durham, but this was objected to by King Henry III, and the election was quashed by the Pope in 1227. He may have been father of Robert Stichill, who was later Bishop of Durham. It is unclear if he was related to any other Scotts. William (13th C.) listed in Lincoln in 1252. Along with his wife 'Hawisea', he had a writ 'ad terminum'. William (13th C.) recorded as 'le Escot' in Cumberland in 1254. William (13th C.) recorded in Essex in 1259, when his daughter Matilda gave money for an assize. He was 'Walter le Scot of Mapilder-stede'. William (13th C.) mentioned in 1261, when his son and heir John 'le Escot' was listed in a document relating to Trent in Northumberland. William (13th C.) recorded as being of 'Parva Jernemue' (i.e. Little Yarmouth) in 1262. This was in a set of pleas from several counties, given at Canterbury, involving John Baliol in Suffolk, in which he and others were fined. William (13th C.) recorded as 'Willelmu Scot de Inethal' and 'Willelmo Scot in Ethal' in the 1279 assize roll of Northumberland. His lands were probably in the area near Stanford, where the court was held. William (13th/14th C.) signatory of the Ragman Rolls in 1296. He thus swore fealty to Edward I, along with 9 other people of the same name, although he was the only one from Roxburghshire. It is unclear how he might have been related to the main line of the Scotts of Buccleuch. One possibility is that he was a son of Sir Richard of Murthockstone (whose father was also William) who also signed the Ragman Rolls. William (13th/14th C.) recorded as 'William [Les] cot' when he was on a jury in Lanark in 1302/3. He is presumably different from other Williams. William of Dunonald (d.1305) taken prisoner at the siege of Stirling in 1304. He was beheaded the following year. He may have been from the county of Cunningham. William (13th/14th C.) mentioned along with Robert in 1307/8 when they were paid for being messengers of the English army. They delivered something between Cumnock, Ayr and Lanark. It is possible he was the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. William (14th C.) recorded in the Exchequer Rolls in the period 1379–84, when an annuity was paid to his heirs from the East Mill of Haddington. He may have been related to the nearly contemporary John, who was also associated with Haddington. William (14th/15th C.) recorded in 1404 when he gained the lands of 'Nemphlar' in Lanarkshire, which were resigned by his mother Janet Lockhart. William (14th/15th C.) brother of the Laird of Balwearie. In a charter of the Duke of Albany (probably about 1410), he was granted lands in Fife by his brother. William of Glack (14th/15th C.) younger son of Walter, 1st Laird of Synton. However, information about these generations is very uncertain. William (15th C.) recorded in 1430 when he witnessed a charter for lands in Lanarkshire for Melrose Abbey. He was a Chaplain, probably with the Abbey. Perhaps the same ‘magistri Willelmi Scott’ was Master of the Hospital of St. Leonard’s near Lanark in the period 1428–31 according to the Exchequer Rolls. William (15th C.) witness to a sasine for the lands of Cessford in 1441. His son John was also listed, as well as Adam. It is unclear how they were related to other contemporary Scotts. William (15th C.) witness to the 1447 sasine for the sale of the Cousinlands to Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. He is described as a presbyter and perpetual vicar of Westerkirk. The other Scotts who witnessed the document were all close relations of Scott of Buccleuch. William (15th C.) customs officer in Arbroath in 1447 and 1450, according to the Exchequer Rolls. In 1454 he had a sasine for the lands of ‘Manuell Macnab’ near Strathearn. Probably the same William gave the payment in 1435 for the communities of Montrose and Arbroath. He may have been ancestor of the Bailie of Montrose of the same name recorded in 1507. William (15th C.) Burgess of Edinburgh recorded in the Exchequer Rolls of 1456 when he was repaid for an advance to John Dalrymple in Bruges. William ‘Will’ (15th C.) recorded in 1474/5 when he compounded with the King for a remission for the slaughter of ‘Johnne Crossate’. He was said to have a ‘letter of slains’ with the injured party. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Williams. William of Foulshiels (15th C.) probably 3rd surviving son of Sir David, mentioned in the 1471/2 marriage contract with the sister of Archibald, Earl of Angus. Alternatively he could be the 4th son of Sir Walter of Buccleuch (or the 2 men could be compounded). He was witness to a charter by Robert of Haining in 1476, and may be the William who (along with John) witnessed a document for David of Buccleuch relating to Kirkurd in 1475/6. He was probably deceased by 1488, since he is not mentioned in the list of heirs in the Crown charter for the Barony of Branxholme in that year. He may have married in 1472 and have died without issue. It is unclear whether he was actually ‘of Foulshiels’, or if this was confusion with the later William of Foulshiels. It is also possible that he was the same as the Rector of Southdean or the same as the uncle (who was declared a rebel) of the later Robert of Allanhaugh. He was stated to be the son of David in 1478, when he took over from his father as Ranger of Ettrick Ward. According to the Exchequer Rolls he served as Ranger until at least 1484. He held a ‘stead’ at Caccabank for his fee; at the same time John Murray represented Yarrow ward and James Pringle the ward of Tweed. He also leased Tushielaw in 1484 and is probably the William who had the lease of Deephope in 1486. He was recorded as deceased and former Ranger in 1490, with his arrears mentioned. It is possible he is the William of Tushielaw from which Robert Elliot had remission in 1493 for stealing a horse. William (15th C.) recorded as ‘rectore de Sowdone’ (i.e. Southdean) when he witnessed the resignation of the lands of Mangerton at Branxholme in 1482. He is ‘domino Willelmo Scot rectore de Sowdone’ (not as recorded in one place ‘Foudoun’) when he was witness to a charter of 1484/5 for the lands of Whitchesters being given by Sir David of Branxholme to his son Robert (of Allanhaugh). He also witnessed a resignation of the same lands shortly afterwards. In 1488/9 he witnessed an agreement between the Vicar of Hassendean and the Abbot of Melrose. In 1491/2 he was the priest who witnessed the last will of Sir David Scott, and who was to choose the priest who would say mass when he died. It is possible he was the same man as William, described as ‘decanis tevidalie’ named among other priests at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh in 1493. He seems likely to have been closely related to the Scotts of Branxholme, perhaps even a brother or cousin of Sir David. William of Goldielands (15th C.) mentioned in 1493 when his son William was allowed to ‘compone’ for rieving crimes. It seems likely that he was related to the Scotts of Buccleuch, but the connection is not known. He is the first known Scott of Goldielands, but whether he was closely related to the later ones is not known. William (15th C.) son of William of Goldielands. At the 1493 Justice-aire held in Jedburgh, he was allowed to compone for stealing 12 goats from Fastenagh and for associating with English thieves. His surety was Robert of Whitchester. William (15th C.) recorded in the 1494/5 Justice-aire in Selkirk, along with ‘Wantoun’ Walter Dalgleish. William Dickson in Ladhope was convicted for resetting the pair, with his surety being Walter Scott of Howpasley. He may be the same as one of the other Williams. William (15th C.) recorded in the 1494/5 Justice-aire in Selkirk, when he was fined for non-appearance. He was listed being ‘de rone’, but it is unclear where this was. William (15th C.) recorded in 1497 when he had remission, along with ‘Johnne Scot and Johnne Scott’ for the slaughter of ‘Johnne Fischare’, fleeing to England, and other crimes. It is unknown to which branch of the Scotts he belonged. William ‘Will’ (15th/16th C.) one of the 4 men selected by the Sheriff of Roxburghshire to appraise the goods of Philip Turnbull of Whithope in 1500. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. It is possible he was the same William listed among the bailies of the Sheriff of Roxburgh on the Precept of Chancery (probably in 1532) for William Scott of Hassendean retaining his properties. William (15th/16th C.) son of David of Tushielaw, brother of Adam ‘King of Thieves’. He is recorded in 1502 when Patrick Turnbull in Wauchope had remission for associating with him and 2Armstrongs (Archibald and Ninian) for their ‘Stouthreifs, Slaughters, Burnings, and other crimes’. He is probably also the William ‘in Thirlestane’ in 1502 who ‘came in the King’s Will’ for violently occupying the lands of Thirlestane, without having a lease from Sir Patrick Crichton of Cranston-Riddell. Walter of Buccleuch served as surety. This case suggests some ongoing dispute over the lands of Thirlestane (foreshadowing what would come later). His brother John would later become Laird of Thirlestane. He may also have been related to John of Thirlestane, who is recorded earlier. William (15th/16th C.) younger son of Sir Alexander of Howpasley. He is said to have been Abbot of Melrose 1504-06, according to Scott of Rodono (although his name does not appear on lists of the Abbots, so this is unclear). William (15th/16th C.) one of the ‘bailies in that part’ appointed by Patrick, Earl of Bothwell in 1504 to infest Walter of Buccleuch in his father’s lands in Annandale. The others were his son Robert, along with Walter of Howpasley and Stephen. It is unclear who he was and whether he was closely related to the other appointed bailies. William of Fenwick (15th/16th C.) member of the panel for deciding on the inheritance of the Barony of Cavers by James Douglas in 1509. In 1502 he is probably the William ‘in femuk’ who, along with Robert in Synton, was fined by the Court of the Judiciary for failing to enter William Middlemas. He was also ‘in fenwik’ when he had remission for stealing sheep and cttle from Bowden, with his surety being Robert in Synton. Probably the same William was tenant at Fenwick in 1510, when he was one of the sureties for Thomas, brother of Philip of Headshaw, who was implicated in the murder of John Murray of Falahill. Other sureties were William in Hawick, George in Goldielands, David in Whitehaugh and John of Haining, suggesting he was probably closely related to some of those branches. He was also recorded as ‘de Fenwik’ in 1510 when he was a pledge for Stephen, who leased Deephope and Mount Common. He could be son of Walter of Fenwick, recorded in 1484/5, and probably related to Simon in Fenwick, who is mentioned in 1528 and 1540. William (15th/16th C.) described as ‘in Hawick’ in 1510 when (along with George in Goldielands and David in Whitehaugh) he was surety for Thomas Scott, brother of Philip of Headshaw, who had been involved in the murder of John Murray of Falahill. This may be the same William ‘in Hawick’ who is recorded in the Register of the Privy Seal of 1502 receiving remission for the slaying of Simon Chapman; the same William is recorded in the records of the Justice- aire in Jedburgh being declared a fugitive for this same crime. He is likely to have been related to the Scott branches in Headshaw, Goldielands, Whitehaugh, Fenwick and Haining (since they are all mentioned in the same case). Probably the same William ‘in Hawick’ is among the men listed in the remission of 1526 for the attack on the Earl of Arran led by the Homes; after him are listed John, Thomas, John, Thomas, Philip and Steven, ‘brether to the said Johnne’, some of whom may be close relatives. Bailie William (15th/16th C.) witness to the sasine for the Barony of Hawick being given to James Douglas of Drumlanrig in 1514. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. William of Whithope (d.1523) younger son of Sir Walter, 8th Laird of Branxholme and Buccleuch. In 1515 he had a charter of Whithope from James Douglas of Drumlanrig. He died without male issue and his brother Walter was his heir. William (15th/16th C.) recorded as being ‘in Fawlishope’ (probably ‘Phaup’ in the Ettrick valley) in 1526 on a list of many Borders men who had remission for helping the Homes attack the Earl of Arran. George was also listed as being in the same place, and so probably related. William (16th C.) described as ‘in Hlhou’ in 1528 when he was one of the arbitrators (along with Robert of Howpasley, William of Harden, Walter of Synton, John of Roberton and Simon of Fenwick) to decide on the succession of Borthaugh lands. William of Foulshiel (16th C.) son of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch, probably ‘Wicked Wat’; he was probably an illegitimate son, since Sir Walter’s eldest surviving son was Sir William of Kirkurd (with the same name). In 1532 he had a charter for the lands of Foulshiels (in Selkirkshire). The later John of Foulshiels was probably his son or grandson. The earlier William, son of David of Buchleuch, may not be directly related (but this is uncertain). It is possible he was the same as Sir William of Kirkurd. William (15th/16th C.) uncle of William, who was son of Robert of Allanhauch. In 1535 the younger William was given remission for associating with him, since he had been declared a rebel, as well as for wounding George, son of Thomas Turnbull; it is unclear how much earlier these crimes took place. He must have been brother of the earlier Robert of Allanhaugh, and hence a son of Sir David of Branxholme. It is also possible that he was the same as William of Foulshiels, or some other contemporary William. William of Hassendean (16th C.) probably a younger son of James of Kirkurd, or alternatively a grandson of James. He was heir to his brother (or uncle) John, succeeding in 1530. He is listed as being ‘in Halsyndene’ (i.e. Hassendean) in 1526 among the Borderers given remission for an earlier attack on the Earl of Arran (note that William, brother of Adam in Clarilaw, is listed separately, suggesting there were 2 closely related Williams at that time). In 1527 he is among the Lairds, under Walter of Branxholme, who had remission for their role in the Battle of Skirmish Field; he is there ‘of Hassindene’. He is recorded being pardoned in 1528, along with Robert of Allanhaugh, Robert of Howpasley and William Turnbull of Minto. He may be the William who was one of the Bailies appointed in 1528 to infeft David, son of Sir Walter of Branxholme in his lands. In 1530 he was one of the Border Lairds who submitted themselves to James V to keep better order. He resigned the lands of Falside (in Yarrow) to William, son of Walter Scott of Branxholme in 1532, as ratified by Queen Margaret in 1539. Probably in 1532 (note that Fraser makes this the 19th year of the reign of James VI, which must be incorrect) he had a Precept of Chancery for keeping his lands, after having forfeited them for supporting Sir Walter at Melrose (presumably in 1526): these lands were Over and Nether Newhall in the Barony of Chamberlain Newton and Easter Hassendean and ‘Deidrig’ in the half Barony of Hassendean. He was part of an inquest panel held in Jedburgh in 1533. In 1534 he purchased the 40-shilling lands of Nether Galalaw from Gavin Elliot, the letter of reversion being sealed at Hassendean Kirk. In 1536 he granted Thomas Turnbull ‘in the Tronyhill’ lands on the east part of Eastern Hassendean. He is recorded about 1537 in a ‘letter of reversion’ by David Scott in Clarilaw for the lands of the Mains of ‘Capitrig’ near Hassendean tower. In 1538 Thomas Turnbull of Rawflot had remission for stealing from him, specifically 2 letters of reversion for the lands of ‘Coppitrig’ which were kept in his box in the house of Nicholas Rutherford in Edinburgh. He was given the lands of Falside (again) in Selkirkshire in 1539. And it is probably the same William ‘in Hassendean’ who had a court dispute in 1540 with Thomas Turnbull, tenant of Rawflot, over ‘wadsets’. They were also in dispute over a 1536 marriage contract between his eldest daughter and heir (although it is unclear how this could have been, since he appears to have had sons) Elizabeth and George, heir to the same Thomas Turnbull. Probably the same William was witness to a sasine in 1551 confirming the Baron of Hassendean to Alexander Cunningham; his son David is also mentioned. David probably succeeded him, while Adam of Burnfoot and Walter may have been other sons. He probably married Elizabeth, the elder daughter of George Chisholme of that Ilk. William of Alton (16th C.) recorded in Scott of Satchells’ doggerel family history. It is stated that ‘John Scot of the Monks-tower’ was ‘brother to old William Scot of Alton’. It is unclear how he was related to the other Scotts of Alton. William (16th C.) described as ‘in Layk’ in 1535 when he was charged with stealing cattle from Arthur Douglas and Thomas Fresall ‘in Efflesche’ (probably Effledge) and also Marion Davidson in the same place. It is unclear where ‘Layk’ might be. Sir William of Kirkurd, ‘Whitecloak’ (d.1552), 2nd son and eldest surviving son of ‘Wicked Wat’. He became heir after the death of his brother David, but predeceased his father. In 1532 he was granted the lands of Falside in Selkirkshire, resigned by William Scott of Hassendean; this was ratified by Margaret, Queen of Scots in 1539. In 1541 he is recorded as ‘second son to the lard of Bukleuch’ when he claimed tenancy of the Crown lands of ‘Hawtherne’ in Yarrow. He took part in Border expeditions with his father and was present at Pinkie in 1547. In 1549 he entered into a bond of ‘man-rent’ with Mary of Lorraine, the Queen Regent, in which he was to receive the same fees and profits received by the deceased John Melvin of Raith. Later in 1549 she granted him a pension of £100 Scots as a result of the damages he sustained defending ‘contrair oure auld inimeis off Ingland’. In 1550 he was listed as one of the 2 curators of James Crichton of Cranston Riddell, his step-brother (i.e. son of his mother by her first husband). He married Grizel Betoun, sister to his step-mother (they were both daughters of John Betoun of Creich with different mothers); after his death she remarried Sir Andrew Murray of Blackbarony. His children included: Sir Walter, the 10th Laird; Janet, who married Sir Thomas Kerr of Oxnam and Ferniehirst; Margaret, who married Sir John Johnstone of that Ilk and secondly Sir Alexander Jardine of Applegirth and was buried in 1618; Elizabeth, who married John Carmichael of Meadowflat, having previously had marriage contracts with Thomas, 2nd son of Sir Walter Ker of Cessford, as well as with John, grandson of Sir Andrew Ker of the Hirsel; and another daughter who married Walter Scott of Headshaw. John, recorded in 1632 as ‘brother naturall’ to Sir William Murray of Elibank was probably another son. There is an existing inventory of his estate when he died, which was only a few months before his father was murdered on Edinburgh High Street. William (16th C.) Customar of Irvine according to the Exchequer Rolls for at least the years 1537–42. He is recorded as ‘junior’ (suggesting there was a senior William in Irvine) and gave in his reports with Robert, who was surely related. William ‘the Boltfoot’ of Todrig and Harden (d.c.1561) 2nd son of Robert of Stirches. He was renowned as a fearless horseman and for several daring deeds. His nickname derived from a lameness caused by a wound received in battle. He is probably the ‘Willelmo Scott, fratre germano Walteri Scot de Styrkschaw’ who witnessed a document in 1507/8 relating to the tower in Hawick ‘between the bridges’ for Scott of Whitchesters. Originally of Todrig, near Synton, he acquired Harden in 1512, from his brother Walter of Synton and Stirkshaws, as confirmed in a 1535 charter from the Lord of Home. As well as Harden the lands included Highchesters, Todrig, Wester Essenside, Burnfoot and Shielswood; 1 acre at the east end still belonged to Walter, but that was also transferred according to another confirming charter of 1559 (although it is possibly 1550), in which his son Walter is named. He also had the lands of Hosocate confirmed in 1525; these were subject of a letter of ‘warrandice’ with George, Lord Home in 1535. He received the lands of Nether Harden from Simon Scott of Fenwick in 1540 (finally consigned in 1556). He was listed on the 1526 remission for Borders men for supporting the Homes in an attack on the Earl of Arran; he is listed right after Walter of Synton, and his brother David (possibly ‘Lady’, tenant in Stirches) is right afterwards. 1528 he was one of the Scots who acted as arbitrators to decide on the succession to the lands of Borthaugh. He was listed in the Selkirk Protocol Books in 1532 as one of 2 arbiters for Walter Scott in Headshaw’s dispute with Elizabeth Murray. In 1548/9 he was sent (along with Adam of Burnfoot and Clement Crozier) by the Laird of Buccleuch to visit Alexander MacDougall, probably to extract a horse from him. In 1550 he was one of 10 Scots who signed a bond with the Queen to keep order and hand over criminals. In 1550 he (and his wife Elizabeth Ker) had a sasine for estates at Todrig. He is probably the William ‘in Harden’ who witnessed a Riddell document of 1551. Also in 1551 he signed the ‘Auld Band of Roxburgh’. In 1553 he and his wife were also mentioned in 2 documents of John, 4th Lord Hay of Yester. In 1553/4 he was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. And in 1555/6 he is probably the William in Harden who was summoned by Alexander Lord Home to appear at Melrose Abbey to receive redemption money for Hosocate. He married Mary, daughter of Chisholme of that Ilk; she was mother of his successor, Walter, who may have been ‘Auld Wat o Harden’. However, there is dispute over these generations, some accounts placing an extra Walter (d.c.1563) between him and ‘Auld Wat’. He secondly married Elizabeth Ker of Fairnilee (possibly a widow of Riddell of that Ilk), with whom he had at least 2 sons: Robert of Burnfoot (in Ale Water); and George of Todrig. He probably died at Todrig – The Laird and Lady of Harden Betwixt them procreat was a son Called William Boltfoot of Harden – He did survive to be a man [CWS], ‘To tak’ the foord he aye was first, Unless the English loons were near; Plunge vassal then, plunge horse and man, Auld Boltfoot rides into the rear’ [SWS]. William (16th C.) priest mentioned in the 1537 Charter of Douglas of Drumlanrig, along with several other clergy. Since he is designated ‘Mr.’, he presumably already had his Masters degree and was a fully qualified priest. But his precise status in Hawick, relative to the other clergy mentioned in the Charter, is unknown. William (16th C.) owner of half a particate of land on the south side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. William, son of William Scott is also listed as having 11 participates (and could be his son). One of these men is the ‘said William’ who also held 3 participates of land on the north side. of Hawick. William (16th C.) recorded being ‘in Hartwoodmyres’ among the witness listed in 1539/40 for the instrument of sasine at ‘Fawysye’ (probably in the Ettrick valley) for Janet Scott (widow of Robert ‘Elwand’) purchasing lands in Appletreehall from Robert of Howpasley; Simon, James and Roland are also listed and some may have been closely related. It is possible he was the same as one of the contemporary William’s (e.g. William of Tushielaw). William of Allanhaugh (16th C.) son of Robert. He was recorded as heir apparent of Robert in Allanhaugh and was entered into ward in Borthwick Castle in 1530/1 along with John, son of Walter of Synton; sureties were Robert, Lord Maxwell and John Johnstone of that Ilk. In 1535 he had remission for associating with his uncle William (then a rebel) and for wounding George, son of Thomas Turnbull. He appears to have succeeded his father in about 1557. In 1557 there are several renters (from Melrose Abbey) of lands in Ringwoodfield who may have been his sons, assuming he was ‘the guidman of Alanehauch’ at that time. They are: ‘Young Robert’, who rented Brugh; Simon and John, who rented Stobicote; and Adam ‘of Alanehauch’, who rented ‘Rigwodhat’, and was presumably either a son or brother. He was probably succeeded by his son William (or there may have been an additional Robert between). William of Aikwood (16th C.) son of Michael of Aikwood. He had a confirming charter for the lands in 1541. He was succeeded by Robert, who was probably his son, Bailie William (16th C.) witness to a bond of 1546 for Elliot of Redheugh and others entering several Elliots (of Thorlshope etc.) as prisoners with Kerr of Ferniehirst. He was described as ‘bailie of Hawik’ and may have been the same as one of the contemporary Williams. William (16th C.) recorded as ‘Wylm Skott’ in 1548/9, when he was taken prisoner by the English when they burned the Laird of Buccleuch’s tower in Hawick. He thus may have been a servant of Scott of Buccleuch. William (16th C.) tenant of Whames, listed in 1549 among the men who complained that their farms had been raided and burned by a group of English and Kers. William ‘Willie’ (16th C.) younger of Branxholme, he supposedly led the raid to avenge ‘Jamie Telfer of the fair Dodhead’ and was killed in the process. Unfortunately, it seems likely that he never existed. William (16th C.) took sasine for the lands of Colifort in 1550. He was described as being son of Wat ‘of Teviotdale’. He was probably related to Hob, who was convicted of rieving crimes in 1564. He is probably the ‘Wyll of Collefurde’, whose son ‘Reid Wyllie’ witnessed a document for Scott of Branxholme in 1585. William (16th C.) described as being ‘in Hawik’ in 1557. He occupied ‘Soltracroft’, as well as ‘Blakatis aker’, for which he owed rent to Trinity Collegiate Church in Edinburgh. His son and heir apparent Robert is also mentioned. In 1565/6 he had another lease of lands from Trinity Collegiate Church, specifically for ‘Soltra-croft’, ‘Blacatis-aker’ and ‘Campioun-croft’. It is unclear how he was related to other contemporary Scotts. He may be the ‘Wilelmum Scot in Hawik’ who was on the ‘retour’ panel for Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme in 1553/4. He may have been related to the earlier and later Williams who are also ‘in Hawick’. William of Bowden (16th C.) recorded in about 1557 when he rented Northhouse from Melrose Abbey. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. Probably the same William ‘of Bolden’ was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. William of Chapelhill (16th C.). His daughter Ann married Walter Chisholme of that Ilk. He was surely related (perhaps father) to Walter of Chapelhill, who was listed by Scott of Satchells as one of the 24 ‘pensioners’ of Buccleuch. William ‘of Gluk’ (16th C.) probably ‘of Glack’, he was witness to a 1556 document relating to Nether Harden. His brother John was also a witness. He was surely closely related to the later William of Glack, or perhaps even the same man. William ‘Will’ (16th C.) recorded in ‘Montbernger’ in 1578/9 among 22 Border Lairds who did not appear before the Privy Council when summoned. He acted as surety for 2 Elliots who had previously been entered before the Council. He was also listed in 1581, among a large group of Border Lairds denounced as rebels for failing to present men to answer their rieving crimes. It is likely he was the same as another contemporary William. He could be the same as William of Montbenger, whose son Robert was appointed as tutor to his brother James of Newholme’s grandchildren. William ‘in Hawik’ (16th C.) referred to by Scott of Satchells as ‘William in the Mott’ when listed among the ‘pensioners’ of Buccleuch. He was apparently a brother of a Walter Scott of Harden (probably ‘Auld Wat o Harden’) and was son of either Walter of Harden (who died c.1563) or of William, 1st Laird of Harden. He held lands beyond the West-Port in Hawick (presumably named for proximity to the Mote), these being given to him for his service to Buccleuch.
Scott

2662
(according to Satchells). He was living in 1591. Scott of Rodono suggests that the earlier Scotts of Todrig were descended from him. It is possible that the same William ‘in Hawik’ was involved in a precept of ‘clare constat’ and gave the associated instrument of sasine for Martin Douglas inheriting the lands of Crook from his father William in 1592; he was thus either a lawyer or Bailie. He should not be confused with William Graham, ‘William of the Mote’, a prominent Englishman of the same time, who lived at Liddel Mote. William (d.1579) probably a resident of Edinburgh. Along with a man called Turnbull, a schoolmaster in Edinburgh, he was executed for composing ‘rhyming libels’ about the death of John Stewart, 4th Earl of Atholl. These supported the rumours that Atholl had been poisoned at Stirling (James Douglas). They were executed at Stirling. William of Deloraine ‘Cut at the Black’ (16th/17th C.) listed as one of the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch by Scott of Satchells. He had the lands of Nether Deloraine for his service. He was said to be a brother of Scott of Haining, a branch that was descended from Hassendean, and he himself was the progenitor of the Scotts of ‘Scotstarbet and Elie, now called Ardross’. William of Tushielaw (16th C.) probably son of Adam ‘King of Thieves’ (although Satchells suggests there is a Robert in an intervening generation). He could be the William listed as a son of Adam of Tushielaw in the 1526 re-imission for a large number of Borderers who had attacked the Earl of Arran; the sons listed are Robert, John and William (in that order), and so it is also possible that Robert was the eldest son of Adam and that he (William) succeeded his older brother, or could alternatively have been Robert’s son (consistent with Satchells’ version). It seems likely he is the tenant in Tushielaw and Cowanlaw recorded in 1541, who may also have occupied Mount Common (‘alias Deiphope’), as well as Caerabank (along with his mother, who may therefore have been the widow of Adam). In 1553/4 he was listed among Scotts and their supporters who a group of Kers promised not to harm. He acted as surety for William Cranston of that Ilk in 1563, along with his son and heir apparent, Walter. Also in that year he was accused by the Queen’s Advocate of theft and reset from Robert Elliot of ‘Bellelie’. He was also fined for the non-compliance of Robert Scott of Horsleyhill for similar crimes. He and his son Walter took sheep from the lands of Bailielee, belonging to Dand Elliot; in 1563/4 they were ordered by the Privy Council to replace the stolen sheep. In 1564 he was on an assize that convicted several men (including Scotts) of sheep-stealing and another that dealt with the murder of David of Hassendean. Also in 1564 he was listed among Border lairds who were ordered to support the Warden, Ker of Cessford. He may have married Grizel, daughter of Robert of Thirlestane (although that could be Walter, his grandson, unless there were 2 similar marriages). In 1573 his son ‘Wat in Hartwodmyris’ was to present William Porteous ‘in Borthuikbra’ for trial in Edinburgh and he himself entered the Littles of Tushielaw Mill and others. In 1574 he witnessed a discharge between the Douglases of Cavers and the Cranstons of that Ilk. He is probably the William listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He is probably the ‘Scot of Tushielaw’ listed in Monipennie’s c.1594 (but put together much earlier) compilation of Border lairds. His children included: Walter, who succeeded; William of Midhope (ancestor of the Scotts of Horsley-hill); James of Hundeis; and John, who killed the father of John Govane of Cardrono. William (16th C.) younger son of Sir John of Thirlestane. He was recorded as brother-german of Robert of Thirlestane in 1567 when he witnessed the marriage contract between Elizabeth, sister of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch and Thomas, son of Sir Walter Ker of Cessford. William (16th C.) son of Walter of Headshaw. He is recorded as William, son of Walter of ‘Eidshaw’ when warded in 1571. In 1572/3 he swore allegiance to the Crown and Regent, suggesting that he had been suspected of being a supporter of the fugitive Thomas Kerr of Ferniehirst. He is probably the ‘Williame Scott of Eidshaw’ recorded in 1571/2 when he signed the bond to act against Borders thieves. Sir William of Balwearie (16th/17th C.) son of Sir William and Helen Lauder. He served as surety for the Elliots in the register of the Privy Council on two occasions in 1573. He claimed in 1573 that he had not received John Elliot of the Park, and had a bond with Sir Walter Ker of Cessford, Andrew Ker of Falcondo and Walter Riddell of that Ilk. He married Janet Lindsay and was succeeded by his son Sir James. William (16th C.) described as ‘in Harden’ in 1574 when, along with James ‘in Quhitslaid’, he paid back a loan on the mill of Easter Burnfoot to Sir Walter Scott of Birkenside. The same year they also paid back a loan to Sir Walter of Branxholme for lands at Easter Craik and also in Ettrick. He was presumably tenant farmer of lands at Harden, perhaps related to the Scotts of Harden themselves. William (16th C.) listed by Satchells as being ‘in Lies’ (i.e. Lees) among the ‘pensioners’ of the house of Buccleuch. The lands were referred to as ‘alias Milma’ (probably the same as Moormaw), and he was also called ‘of Catslac-Know’ and descended from the Scotts of Dryhope. He is probably the same man as the William ‘in Catslak’ who in 1607 was served heir to his great-grandfather’s brother, John Scott, Vicar of Hawick, in the lands of Easter Moormaw; this connects him to many others Scotts, even if the precise connections are unclear. An earlier ‘William of Leis’ (with no surname given), who witnessed a sasine for William, Lord Borthwick in 1461, may have been related. He was surely related to the later Walter in Catslack, who was father of James, minister at Kirkton and Ancrum (Keith Scott suggests he was brother of Rev. James, and hence son of Walter, but there is no evidence for this). William of Allanhaugh (16th C.) probably the son of Robert of Allanhaugh recorded in the Register of the Privy Council for 1581. He was recorded as ‘Willie of Allanhaucht’ in the 1574 last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme, where he is assigned ‘the Kirkland, his awne rowme’. He may be the ‘Williame Scot in Alanehaucht’, suggesting that he no longer held the lands there. He may have been father of Walter ‘in Allanmout’ and his brother John, who are recorded in the early 1600s. Either he or a brother of his was probably on the raid to rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. William of Burnfoot (d.bef. 1585) son of Adam. He probably died before his father and was succeeded by his son Robert. Note that this is Burnfoot on Teviot. William ‘Will’ (16th C.) 3rd son of John, younger of Synton. In 1550 he had a ‘tack’ for the lands of Langhope. He was listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. He may be the William ‘in Huntly’ who signed the Scott clan bond in 1589. He was listed in the roll of landed men of Scotland in about 1590 and was on an inquest in 1592. He was probably ancestor of the Scotts of Huntly, being succeeded by Robert, who was at the Carlisle raid in 1596. William of Chamberlain Newton (16th C.) listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts of Chamberlain Newton. William (16th C.) brother to ‘Scot of Hassinden’, as well as brother of Philip. In 1583/4 he was among a number of men from the area who were denounced for failing to appear to give evidence in a case against the ‘Turnbulls of Bedrule. It is unclear who was Laird of Hassenden at that time. William ‘Reid Wullie’ (16th C.) son of Will of Colliford. He is recorded in 1585 when he was one of the witnesses to the bond in which Sir Walter of Branxholme and Robert of Allanhaugh resolved a family feud. He is listed as ‘William Scot, sone to Wyll of Collefrurde, callit Reid Wyllie’; it is a little unclear whether the nickname referred to him or his father (who is recorded in 1550). William of Todshawhaugh (16th/17th C.) listed by Scott of Satchells as being ‘of Totchahaugh’ and among the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. He was said to be descended from Scott of Borthaugh. He was surely related to Adam of Todshawhaugh and his son Walter, recorded in 1594. He may be the ‘Wyll of Collefurde, callit Reid Wyllie’; it is a little unclear whether the nickname referred to him or his father (who is recorded in 1550). William of Todshawhaugh (16th/17th C.) probably related to the earlier William of Glack. He was listed among many Scotts and their allies in a 1581 summons to appear before the Privy Council regarding the feud with the Elliots and Armstrongs. In 1585 he was ‘of Glak’ when he witnessed a bond (signed at Selkirk and Hawick) settling a feud between the Scotts of Branxholme and the Scotts of Allanhaugh. He may be the Laird of ‘Glak’ listed among several Border Scots in the ‘Roll of the Clans’ of 1590. He was probably the William ‘in Clack’ stated by Scott of Satchells to have assisted in the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1596/7 he was ‘in Glak’ when part of the group of Scotts (under Robert of Thirlestane) who attacked ploughmen from Peebles; they were denounced as rebels for not appearing. He was ‘in Glak’ when among the men listed (along with Walter of Headshaw) whom Sir Robert of Thirlestane was bound not to re-set in 1609. This was part of the dispute between the Scotts of Thirlestane and Tushielaw. William (16th/17th C.) servant of the Laird of Buccleuch. He is listed among the 180 supporters of Sir James Johnstone who had a respite in 1594 for killing Lord Maxwell and others at Dryfe Sands.

It is unclear if he is the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. William of Midgehope (16th/17th C.) 2nd son of William of Tushielaw and brother of Sir Walter of Tushielaw. In 1557 he was ‘Vil Scot of Migerhoup’ when he paid rental for Fawhope to the monks of Melrose. However, there is some confusion, since he was presumably the William ‘in Meg-hop, son of the deceased Wat Scott’ who occupied lands in Ettrick and Rodono in 1556. He may also have been called ‘Will’ of Hartwoodmyres (although there is possible confusion with his son here). He was succeeded by his son William, who was at the rescue of ‘Kinmont Willie’. William ‘Will’ of Hartwoodmyres (16th/17th C.) listed on the ‘Roll of the Clans’ of about 1590. In about 1593 he and Walter of Stirkshaws were under caution, with Gideon Murray as surety. He was also said to have assisted in the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. He was witness to the bond of 1612 for keeping peace on the Border. He may have been son of William of Tushielaw, and therefore the same as William of Midgehope (this is unclear, although a close connection with the Scotts of Tushielaw seems clear). He was probably succeeded by Robert. William of Midgehope (16th/17th C.) son of William of Midgehope and grandson of William of Tushielaw. He was said to have been at the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. He was succeeded by his son Robert, Bailie of Hawick.

William of Hundleshope (16th/17th C.) among a group of Scotts who attacked Adam Veitch’s lands at ‘Fechane’ in 1602. His brother Thomas was also mentioned, as were Scotts of Thirlestane, Gamescleuch, Bonnington and Bowhill. In 1603 he and his brother attacked the same lands again, having been declared rebels. William of Howpasley (16th/17th C.) succeeded Walter, who was probably his father. He is on a list of several Scotts and others who the Baron of Hassendean (James Cunningham, Earl of Glencairn) tried to oust from their lands in 1603. In 1605 Alexander Scott (‘Lang Sandie’) discharged him from his obligation in the annual rent of the lands of Wark. There was a ‘horning’ of 1607 requiring him to remove from ‘Longhauch, Ramscelewis, Diksone’s Reid, How paisley and Schawis’ by the superior of the lands, James Douglas of Drumlanrig. This was followed by an action in 1610 against him and James Gledstains for not paying taxes on some of the same lands. He may have been the husband of Lady Howpasley who instigated the slaughter of sheep there in 1615 (in which case he was already deceased). Howpasley is said to have passed to Robert and Walter (cousins of Patrick of Tanlawhill) and then to the Scotts of Thirlestane and later the Scotts of Crumhaugh. William (16th/17th C.) referred to as ‘called of the Know’ in 1608. Along with his brother Robert, Bailie of Hawick, and their surety James Scott, Bailie of Selkirk, they appeared for themselves and for their brothers George and David, with a bond not to harm Thomas Abernethy, minister of Hawick. It is unclear what the nature of the dispute was, but the minister left 2 years later. It is also unclear whether this ‘Know’ was the one at Teviothead, in Hassendean, perhaps at the Tower Knowe, or elsewhere. There were also several Bailie Roberts around that time, and it is unclear which one this is. William (16th/17th C.) probably son of Thomas and brother of Robert of Haining. He was listed among the members of the rescue party for Kinmont Willie in 1596. In 1608 he was part of a gang of Scotts who freed 2 of their kin (John, brother of Walter of Woll, and his half-brother John Turnbull) from imprisonment by the Bailies of Selkirk. It is possible that he was the same as William of Deloraime, supposed to be a brother of Scott of Haining. William (16th/17th C.) listed among men declared as fugitives for not appearing at a Borders Commissioners’ court in Jedburgh in 1605. He is recorded as ‘Willie Scott, man to Young Wauchop’, meaning he was probable a servant of Thomas Turnbull, younger of Wauchope. William (16th/17th C.) brother of Walter of Huntly. In 1608 he was one of the gang of Scotts who forcibly freed 2 of their kin from imprisonment by the Bailies of Selkirk. William (16th/17th C.) nephew of Walter, tenant in Stonedge. In 1612 he complained to the Privy Council about Andrew Newton in Jedburgh had not payed him following being found guilty of charges 2 years earlier. He may be the same as one of the contemporary Williams. William of Whitehaugh (16th/17th C.) elder son of Walter of Whitehaugh and Janet Scott of Headshaw. He succeeded his father, but died unmarried and was succeeded by his younger brother Walter, who sold the family lands. He may be the same William of Whitehaugh recorded in 1612 and 1619, but this is unclear. William (16th/17th C.) son of Robert, and brother of Walter of Bowhill. He was tenant in 'Scotstaines' (although it is unclear where this is). Scott of Satchells lists him among those who helped rescue Kinmont Willie in 1596. Probably the same William is recorded in 1596/7 as 'in Brokhill' when he was part of the group of Scotts (under Robert of Thirlestane) who attacked some ploughmen of Peebles; they were all denounced as rebels for failure to appear. In 1608 when he was part of the gang of Scotts who forcibly took 2 of their kin (John, brother of Walter Scott of Woll, and John Turnbull, his half-brother) from confinement by the Selkirk Bailies; his brother James was also part of the gang. He may be the 'tutor of Bowhill' listed among Scotts and others accused in 1612 by the Privy Council of overcharging interest on loans. He may be the William of Bowhill whose son Andrew was infested in the lands of 'Crocecant'. William 'Muckle Willie' (16th/17th C.) recorded as witness to a bond of 'manrent', signed in 1595 in Hawick, between the Beatties and Sir Walter of Branxholme. His name (unfortunate by modern standards) is given as 'William Scot callit Mekill Willy'. Given the status of the other witnesses, it seems likely he was a prominent Scott, and hence probably the same as another William. William 'Will' of Northhouse (16th/17th C.) mentioned along with his brother Walter and others in 1608. A complaint was made against them by Jean Scott, widow of Gavin Elliott of Stobs and his female heirs, stating that the Scotts had taken 'all the evidents and writs', threatening to burn them if their demands were not met. He failed to appear and was denounced as a rebel. Presumably this was related to a dispute over lands, but the details are not recorded. In 1610 Gilbert Elliott of Horsleyhill (later of Stobs) complained to the Privy Council that he was attacked by him and his brother Hob in Hawick, with drawn swords, and they would have killed him if not for some of the inhabitants of the Town. William (16th/17th C.) recorded being 'in Harden' in 1612 when he was listed among local men accused by the Privy Council of overcharging interest on loans. However, his name is omitted from the list of those who were charged. It is unclear how he might have been related to the Scotts of Harden at that time, but it seems unlikely he was the same man as William, younger of Harden, who was already well established at that time. William of Robertson (d.1622) son of John, who was probably in the party that rescued Kinmont Willie. In 1610 he was served heir to his father's lands of Robertson and Howleuch. He was succeeded by his son James, last of Robertson. William of Burnfoot in Ale (d.c.1622) probably son of Robert and descended from the Scotts of Harden. He was witness to Walter Scott of Stirches as heir to his father in 1592. He was said to have been at the Rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. He had a confirming charter of the lands of Burnfoot and Wester Essenside in Ale Water in 1609. He may be the William 'called of Burnfute' who in 1610 was part of a petition, along with several local Langlands and Scotts, to have hirings lifted and penalties reduced; George Langlands of that Ilk had acted as cautioner for him and several other Scotts in this dispute against the Scotts of Todshawhaugh and Ormiston. He may be the 'Walter' (if the name was given incorrectly) of Burnfoot on Ale who was given a bond in 1604 by Francis Stewart (son of the Earl of Bothwell) for '6 or 7 chalders of victual during recipient's life' for his faithful service, to be given once Francis regained the King’s favour and returned from exile (which never happened). In 1612 the Privy Council records a complaint by the Earl’s sons Francis, John, Harry and Frederick, against him and his brothers Walter and Robert, stating that ‘aether of the saidis partyis lyis at 9await’ to tak theair advantage of utheris’ and should appear before the Council. He was described as ‘in Burnfute in the Water of Aill’ when he (along with several other Scotts) signed the bond of 1612 to keep the peace on the Border. He is also mentioned in the Circuit Court records of 1622 in a bond of security for ‘Geordie Jonsoune of Eschinsyd’. He was succeeded by his eldest son Walter. William of Fingland (d.c.1610) son of Robert of Thirlestane and younger brother of Sir Robert of Thirlestane and Walter of Gamescleuch (who was killed by John, son of Walter of Tushielaw). He may be the William of Thirlestane who is mentioned in an indenture of 1594/5 between the Wardens, his case (whatever it was) being delayed. He probably took part in the rescue of Kinmont Willie in 1596. He was included in the list of Scotts and others who the Scotts of Thirlestane and their tenants were bound not to reset in 1609; this was part of the family feud with the Scotts of Tushielaw. His son Simon (possibly illegitimate) is also listed. Other children included Walter and Robert, neither of whom had male issue (but both of whom held the lands of Howpasley). In 1610 he was ordered to pay £10 for the non-appearance of his kin in relation to the assurance against the Scotts of Tushielaw. He must have died soon afterwards.
since his son Simon is described as son of the ‘late William Scott, who was brother of Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane’ later in 1610. Either he, or a closely related William, also received the lands of Merrylaw. He had 2 daughters, one of whom, ‘Mariota’ (possibly Marion) was served heir to her brother Walter of Howpawas in 1662. William ‘Jock’ (16th/17th C.) described as ‘in Branxholme’ in 1612 when he was on the jury for the case on the death of John Elliot ‘in Redden’ while in custody in Hawick. It is unclear how he was related to other local Scotts. William ‘Willie’ of Satchells (16th/17th C.) possibly son of Jean and Robert of Satchells. He was one of the men accused of involvement in the slaughter of the Laird of Drumlanrig’s sheep at Howpawas in 1615. He is described as both ‘callit in Satchellis’ and ‘callit of Satscheillis’, so it is uncertain whether he was Laird or tenant. It also seems likely that he was related to Capt. Walter of Satchells (possibly his brother) and the Robert described as heir apparent to Satchells in 1622–25. He rode out from Hawick with ‘Marion’s Geordie’, meeting Jock Scott ‘the Suckler’ at the foot of the Eilrig Burn, and there he was ‘muffellit’ (i.e. disguised), before they proceeded to kill or maim 60 sheep. He did not undergo trial in 1616 along with ‘Marion’s Geordie’ Scott and Wattie and Ingram Scott, perhaps simply because he was not captured, but disappeared to ‘the North’. William (16th/17th C.) son and heir of Sir Walter of Tushielaw. He is recorded in 1619 in a ‘letter of inhibition’ brought by Walter, Earl of Buccleuch. This may be an error, since Robert was the son and heir of Sir Walter of Tushielaw. It is possible he is the same as the contemporary William of Hartwoodmyres (which had been an earlier possession of Walter of Tushielaw). It is also possible that he was the same as William in Phaup, whose son Andrew in Broadmeadows is recorded in 1627. William of Whitehaugh (16th/17th C.) witness to the bond of 1612 for keeping peace on the Border. He was also recorded as ‘fiar of Quhithauch’ when he was witness in Hawick in 1619 to a bond by Adam Turnbull of Abbotrule and John, son of Walter Scott of Chamberlain Newton. He may be the William of Whitehaugh mentioned by Scott of Satchells as being brother of Thomas in Wester Groundstone. However, this is uncertain, since William, son of Walter of Whitehaugh must surely have been dead by this time, with the estate probably by then in the hands of Robert of Headshaw. He may be the William ‘callit of Quhithlaw’ (possibly mis-transcribed) who signed the ‘Confessions of Faith’ in Hawick in 1638. William of Howford (d.bef. 1621) signatory of the Scott clan bond of 1589. He was probably son of Robert. He is recorded as being ‘of Howfoord’ in 1607. He was succeeded by his son Walter. William of Burnhead (d.c.1640) eldest son of Robert of Burnhead (or alternatively suggested to be 3rd son of Robert of Burnfoot). He may have been tenant of Burnhead, rather than Laird. His brother Adam married Bessie Langlands, daughter of John, the minister of Wilton. He is said to have served in Holland in the Scotch Brigade, during his father’s lifetime. He married Margaret, daughter of Nicol Cairncross of Hislop or Califhill. He had an only son and heir, Robert. William (16th/17th C.) described as ‘Will Scott in Weyms’ in Rulewater (presumably Weens) when John Young was accused of stealing some of his sheep at the 1622 Circuit Court. He could be the William ‘dweller in Weyndis’ who witnessed the 1607 sasine for John Scott gaining the lands of Holburn and Weens. William (16th/17th C.) son and heir apparent of Walter of Todrig. However, in about 1630 his father sold the lands of Todrig to another branch of the Scotts. He married Isabella Livingston and had a son Walter. William of Dryhope (16th/17th C.) son of Philip of Dryhope. He was recorded in 1612 when Robert Horsburgh complained to the Privy Council that he and another 10 or so men came to his house in Peebles struck him and pursued him. He is also recorded as ‘lawful son’ of Philip of Dryhope in a charter of 1618. He probably succeeded his father Philip, and was succeeded by Robert, possibly his son. He is recorded in a ‘letter of poinding’ in 1628, with Samuel Cockburn of Henderland as his cautioner. He was succeeded by Robert, probably his son, who was in turn succeeded by Walter, who may have also have been his son (hence Robert’s younger brother), and then Philip, the last Laird, may have been his son too. William ‘Young Gillie’ (17th C.) one of a list of 16 local men named by the Hawick Bailie in 1627 as suitable for sending to the army in Germany, i.e. presumably considered undesirable to the town. When produced by the Bailie before the Privy Council in Edinburgh he was charged 200 merks caution, in order to appear again if required; presumably this means he was not sent off to the wars. The caution was paid by John Short, skinner and Burgess of Edinburgh (who probably had some connection with Hawick); he is referred to there as ‘son to Robert Scott, late bailie of Hawik’, although there are several possibilities for which Robert this was. It is unclear what his nickname meant. William of Chamberlain Newton (d.c.1638) brother of John of Brieryyards. In 1638 his brother was appointed as tutor to his son Walter, by which time he was already deceased. He was probably father of the William, nephew of John Brieryyards, who is recorded in 1633 and 1637. He is presumably related to other Scotts of Chamberlain Newton, e.g. the William recorded in 1581. William of Chamberlain Newton (d.bef. 1643) son of William and nephew of John of Brieryyards. In 1633 (and again in 1637) he was served heir to his father’s brother in the lands of Brieryyards and ‘Braidleyis’ in the Barony of Hassendean; these were 100-shilling lands of old extent, and included a mill. He may be the Scott, ‘liferenter of Newton’ who held land worth £156 in Hassendean Parish in 1643; this was probably Galalaw (and he may already have been deceased, explaining why no first name was given). He is probably the William of Chamberlain Newton, brother of Simon, whose daughter ‘Mariota’ was served as heir in 1643 (by which time he was deceased). She may be the Margaret, daughter of William of Chamberlain Newton, who married Thomas Elliot in Borthwickshielis (and of Bewlie), probably in the 1650s. William (16th/17th C.) smith in Hawick, recorded in 1628. He was listed among Scotts of Midshiels and Burnfoot who were charged by the Privy Council to keep the peace with the Turnbulls of Know. His brother Adam was also listed, but otherwise there is no clear connection with any other Scotts. William (d.c.1647) son of Robert of Gilmanscleuch. In 1647 his immediate elder brother Adam was served as his heir, implying that he had no children to succeed him. John of Gilmanscleuch was probably also his brother. He may well be the same as one of the contemporaries. William of Mangerton (d.c.1649) local landowner of the mid-1600s. He was an illegitimate younger son of Walter, the 1st Earl of Buccleuch, and assumed the title of Laird of Mangerton on the death of his brother Francis about 1640. In 1633 he was appointed one of the ‘Tutors Testamentary’ to oversee the Earl of Buccleuch’s will. He was also owed rental for the lands of Tinnis in the inventory of the deceased Earl. In 1643 he was listed as owner of lands in Cavers Parish, which were later acquired by the Buccleuch estates, with a value of £1000; he also held land in Castleton Parish valued at £1800 (including Thorlishesope, which was later sold). In 1643, 1644 and 1646 he was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire, in 1648 also for Roxburghshire and again in 1649 for Selkirkshire. In 1643 and 1644 he was described as ‘in Newark’, suggesting that he lived there rather than at Mangerton. He served as Chamberlain to the Scotts of Buccleuch for ‘the Forest’ (i.e. St. Mary’s Parish) in the period 1640–48. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He married Elizabeth, a daughter of Sir Archibald Murray, 1st Baronet of Blackbarony. He granted the lands of Mangerton to his eldest son Francis in 1648 (but Francis was probably a minor at this time). His daughter Elizabeth married John, eldest son of Patrick Scott of Langshaw. His widow Elizabeth submitted the accounts for Ettrick Forest to the Earl of Buccleuch for the year 1648–9. She was probably also the ‘Lady Mangerstowne’ recorded in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663 (although perhaps really dating from earlier), paying about £1750 for ‘towrefeld’, ‘towre’ and other lands in Castleton, as well as £260 for lands in Cavers Parish and £2440 in Wilton Parish; these entries were listed under Hawick Parish, and were probably associated with the Scotts of Buccleuch. William of Salenside (d.bef. 1653) also referred to as ‘in Salenside’ in 1632. He must have been related to the earlier Andrew and Robert and was probably son of Thomas of Salenside, who died around 1636. His father granted him possession of Salenside during his lifetime (while his brother held Whitehaugbrae), but the properties were later sold to Sir William of Harden. He is mentioned several times in the period 1636–43. He is recorded in the Ashkirk Parish records as one of the Lairds helping to collect money for plague victims. He married Elizabeth Hay, who was the widow of Walter Scott, 2nd son of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden (who was murdered). His eldest son was James, who raised an action against his step-sisters. Another son was Thomas. William at the Cross’ (17th C.) one of the signatories of the Covenant in 1638. There is some confusion here, since there was also apparently a separate Bailie of the same name. Yet he was re-elected as Bailie in 1638, when he is referred to as ‘at the Croce’. He was also the William who was Bailie in 1640 when the ‘Act of Bailies and Council’ was signed (although a separate William, Councillor at that time, also signed). He presumably lived near the Mercat Cross. He was elected to the Council in late 1648. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. William (17th C.) Councillor who signed the 1640 Act of Bailies and Council. He was distinct from the Bailie at that time, who had the same name. William (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He was married to Margaret Riddell and in 1640 their daughter Helen was born, with George Scott and Andrew Riddell as witnesses. William (17th C.) tenant at Headshaw Mill. In 1640 he was accused by the Kirk Session of Ashkirk of carrying a sack of meal on his horse on Sunday. William of Tushielaw (d.c.1663) succeeded in 1643. He was son of Robert and younger brother of Walter, who he succeeded. He was a Burgess of Selkirk and was appointed to the Committee of War in 1643, 1644, 1646, 1648 and 1649. He was fined in 1662 after the Restoration and was appointed as a Justice of the Peace for Selkirkshire in 1663. He is said to have married Grizel, daughter of Robert Scott of Thirlestane, but this may be confusion with his father Walter or great-grandfather William; she could possibly have been the Grizel recorded paying the land tax for Craighaugh in Dumfriesshire in 1671. His children from his first marriage were: Andrew, who purchased Broadmeadows; and Walter in Cacrabank. He secondly married Margaret, daughter of John Govane of Cardrono and they had one son, William of Broadmeadows. William of Clarilaw (17th C.) recorded in 1643 as owner of lands in Hassendean Parish valued at £156. These were probably the lands of Wester Clarilaw, which were owned by William Scott of Burnhead later in the 17th century. He was surely related to that branch of the Scotts; however, Robert Scott of Burnhead is separately recorded in 1643 (as owner of Burnhead, with land having the same value). He may be the same as the later William of Clarilaw, and hence son of Robert of Burnhead. Sir William of Harden (d.1655) son of ‘Auld Wat’, he married ‘Muckle Mou’d Meg’, whose real name was Agnes Murray of Elibank. In the ballad version he chose to marry Meg (the ugliest of 3 daughters) as an alternative to the gallows, after he was caught raiding her fathers sheep. His marriage contract of 1611 still exists, witnessed at Crichton, East Lothian and saying that they both bind themselves ‘be the south and treuth in thair bodies to solemnizat and compleit the haly band of matrimony aither of thame with others’. He also gave her a charter of the rents of Stichill in 1611. In 1606 he received the lands of Tarras. He was Sheriff of Selkirk and also held land in the counties of Dumfries, Selkirk, Berwick and Peebles. In 1610, as ‘apparent of Harden’, he acted as cautioner for George Langlands of that ilk in a dispute with Walter in Hawick (called of Todshawhill). He is recorded in a contract for the lands of Harden and Hoscoat in 1612, when he was still heir apparent of Harden. He also gained the lands of Kirkhope in the same year. He may have been the ‘William of Todrig’ recorded in a contract with Kerr of Oxnam about 1614 and another with Mark, son of Hector Turnbull in Hartshaugh in 1616 (although these could be an error for ‘Walter’). Also in 1616 he witnessed the sale of parts of Hassendean and Horsleyhill by the Earl of Home to Gilbert Elliott of Stobs. In 1620, along with his father, he had confirming charters for the Harden estates. He also had a charter for the lands of Hundleshope in Peeblesshire, with the superior being Walter Gledstains of Cocklaw. He was probably the William of Harden who had a charter for Langhope in about 1620. In about 1622 he had a charter from Sir Robert of Thirlestane for Thirlestane, Ramseycleuch and Scableuch (essentially holding them in collateral for a loan). In 1625 he was appointed Sheriff Principle of Selkirk. He carried the arms of the deceased Earl of Buccleuch in the funeral procession between Branhomle and Hawick in 1634 and was appointed one of the ‘Tutors Testamentary’ to oversee the Earl’s will. Also in 1634 he was one of 2 representatives of the young Earl of Buccleuch who travelled to London to hear the King’s decision in an ongoing land dispute with Francis Stewart. He was also appointed as one of the ‘tutors’ for the children of Francis, and was one of the trustees for Mary of Buccleuch during her minority. In 1636 he received a long term ‘tack’ for Aikwood, where he may have resided; he possessed significant lands in the Ettrick valley. In 1638 he was appointed as a Commissioner for Selkirkshire to enforce subscription to the ‘Confessions of Faith’, and he signed it himself in Hawick. He was a Commissioner for the Treaty of Ripon in 1641. He received his knighthood in 1641 and was also in that year appointed as a Commissioner to Parliament for Selkirkshire. In 1642 he was made (or reappointed) Sheriff of Selkirkshire. He also represented Selkirkshire in Parliament 1643–44 and 1644–46. In 1642 he was served heir to his father in his lands of Over and Nether Cliffhope, Wheelkirk, Wheellands, Wormscluch and Abbotsike, as well as the lands of Harden in the Barony of Wilton and others. Also in 1642 he was named to a commission that was charged to apprehend and try a large number of Borders men accused of being ‘notorious criminals, theeves and ressetters of theft’, and was appointed one of the assessors to the Justice General for these courts. In 1643 he was appointed as a Colonel of the Horses for Roxburgh and Selkirk and also appointed as a ‘commissioner for the establishment of manufactories’. In a 1643 county valuation he was the third largest landowner in Wilton Parish (after Buccleuch and Langlands), his lands valued at £814, and he also held lands in Hassen dean Parish valued at £600 (this being Borthwickshiels, which was later in Roberton Parish) and teinds in Lessuden Parish (for Ellieston, valued at £420). Also in 1643 he promised the lands of Mabonlaw, Highchesters, Todshaw and Borthwickshiels to his son Gideon and his future wife Margaret Hamilton. He was also in 1643 served heir to his great-grandfather William of Harden’s lands of Hoscote (this clearly establishing him as great-grandson of the first William of Harden). In 1644 he and Sir Thomas Ker of Cavers were commended for organising tenants of the Earl of Buccleuch to help repel the Royalist forces of the Earl of Montrose. In 1646 he was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire, and in 1648 and 1649 also for Roxburghshire. He was Sheriff of Selkirk in 1647. In 1648 he was appointed along with the Earl of Buccleuch, as well as his son (Sir William) and others to suppress lawlessness on the Border. He bought Mertoun House in around 1649, which would become the principal seat of the Scotts of Harden in the next generation; in 1649 he gave a disposition of the lands of Mertoun, Aikwood, Harden and Whitrig to his eldest son Sir William. He commanded the cavalry in the Teviotdale Regiment in the early 1640s, and was Lieut.-Col. in a regiment of about 1,200 men raised by Buccleuch, which fought at Philiphaugh. His support of the Royalist side led to him being fined by Cromwell in 1654. In 1611 he married Agnes, daughter of Sir Gideon Murray of Elibank. They had 5 sons and at least 4 daughters; Sir William, who succeeded; Sir Gideon of Highchester, whose descendants eventually succeeded to Harden; Walter, who started the Scotts of Raeburn; James, ancestor of the Scotts of Thirlestane; John, progenitor of the Scotts of Woll; Elizabeth (or Elspeth), who married Sir Andrew Ker of Greenhead; Margaret, who married Thomas Ker of Mersington; Janet, who married John, son of Sir John Murray of Philiphaugh; and Susannah, who married Gideon Ogilvie of Hartwoodmyres. He secondly (in 1633) married Margaret, daughter of William Ker of Linton, but had no further children – ‘Doo in the depths o’ the auld gray castle, Shut in alane wi’ his thoughts to wrassle, Wull Scott sat on the cauld stane fluir, And kent that his hopes o’ the morn were puir’ [WL]. William of Synton (d.1661) eldest son of Francis, the first of the Harden Syntons. He became a Burgess of Selkirk in 1643 and was on the Committee of War in 1648 for Selkirkshire and Roxburghshire and in 1649 for Selkirkshire. The keystone of the burial enclosure of the Scotts of Synton in Ashkirk kirkyard is inscribed ‘W S 1646’, which are probably his initials. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. In 1647 he married Jean, daughter of Robert Scott of Headshaw. Their children included: Francis (b.1649) and William (b.1652), both of whom may have died young; John, who succeeded (and was either eldest son or 3rd and eldest surviving); Grizel; and Isobel, who married William Elliot, 1st Laird of Borthwickbrae. His brother Francis was appointed as tutor to his eldest son John in 1662. If John was the 3rd son (as Keith Scott states), then there may have been an additional son William, recorded in 1670 as ‘brother-germane’ to John of Synton when he became a surgeon’s apprentice in Edinburgh. Sir William of Harden (1617–1699) son of Sir William and ‘Muckle Mou’d Meg’. He was known as ‘Little Sir William’ and was referred to as being ‘of Oakwood’ during his father’s lifetime. Along with his wife Christian Boyd, he took custody of his brother Walter’s children to keep them from Quakerism. He was on the Committee of War for Selkirkshire in 1643 and 1644 and served along with his father also for Roxburghshire in 1648 and 1649. In 1648 he was one of the prominent men named (along with the his father, Sir William of Harden, and the Earl of Buccleuch) on a Commission to suppress the thieves in the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, Dumfries and Annandale. He received the lands of Mertoun, Aikwood, Harden and Whitrig from his father Sir William in 1649. He was one of the Commissioners to Parliament for Selkirkshire appointed in 1649. He served as one of the ‘tutors testamentars’ for the will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch. He was one of the trustees of the Buccleuch estates during the minority of Mary in the 1650s and then for her sister Anne. He was knighted in 1660, like his father before him. As a supporter of the Covenant, he was fined £18,000 in about 1662. He witnessed the marriage contract of Anne, Duchess of Buccleuch in 1663, and was listed there as one of her curators. He is probably the Sir William.
who paid tax on £500 land tax for Eilrig in 1663 and also the Sir William who paid the land tax on Elliston in St. Boswell’s Parish in 1663 and 1678. About 1666 he was appointed one of the ‘curators’ of Francis of Davenport. He received Parliamentary ratification of his lands of Borthwickshiels in 1672. In 1673 he matriculated his arms. He inherited Hartwoodmyres in 1677, but sold the lands to Walter Scott of Burnfoot about 1690. He is recorded in 1673 acting as one of the commissioners to the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch. In 1676 he inherited his father’s lands of Hurdleshope in Peeblesshire, as well as Hoscote and Hartwoodmyres. In 1677/8 he received the lands of Robertson, Howcleuch and Borthwickshiels Mains for ‘non-entry’. In 1678 he paid tax on land valued at more than £5000 in Selkirkshire (with his son responsible for more lands), as well as almost £2000 of land in Smalholm Parish. He is recorded in deeds of 1682, including in a list of heritors of the Regality of Melrose. He was indicted in 1682 as a Covenanter supporter, with his wife being accused of attending conventicles. Like his nephew, the Earl of Tarras, he was imprisoned in Edinburgh. In 1683 he appeared in court again in Jedburgh, and was carried off to imprisonment in Edinburgh Castle. He was eventually released on bail paid by Sir Patrick Scott of Ancrum. However, he became a Burgess of Edinburgh in 1684 and after the Restoration was knighted by Charles II. He was also further fined that year (along with his son and other Teviotdale Lairds). In 1686 he gave a charter to Walter, Earl of Tarras, his nephew. In 1690 he was one of the local Barons who were appointed to the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire, as well as for Selkirkshire and Berwickshire. In 1641 he married Christian, daughter of Robert, 7th Lord Boyd of Kilmarnock. His wife was served as one of the heirs to her sister Helen Boyd in 1647. His children were: Sir William, who succeeded; Robert of Iliston, who succeeded his brother; Christian, who married William Kerr of Chatto; and Margaret, who married Sir Patrick Scott of Ancrum. Another daughter may have been Sussanah, who married Gideon Ogilvie (but that may have been her sister). His will is recorded at Lauder Commissionariot in 1699. William (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Preacher and their children included Robert (b.1656). William of Horsleyhill (17th C.) son of Robert who was ‘Baillie and Portioner in Hawick’ according to Scott of Satchells. He was descended from the Scotts of Tushielaw. He was probably the first of his family to be referred to as Laird of Horsleyhill. He was granted Weensland, along with Shaws and Burnflat in 1653, including rights to use Hawick’s Common. He sold the Tolbooth to the town in 1657. He was listed as a member of the Town Council in 1660. In 1662, following the Restoration, he was listed as being ‘of Horsleyhill’ when fined £1,200 for being a supporter of the Covenant. He is probably the William recorded in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663 in Hawick and Hassendean Parishes; he paid tax on £304 for his lands of Weensland, ‘Acoth haugh’ (possibly Usuch Haugh) and Shaws, as well as £637 for Horsleyhill. He was also mentioned in a record of 1666 relating to Hassendean Parish. He may also have been the William Scott recorded as a Bailie in 1638, and the William who was on the Town Council in 1668. However, there are at least 2 generations here, and so it may be hard to separate them. He was probably succeeded by his son Robert (with William being the grandson). His daughter Janet married Harry Riddell in 1659. William of Headshaw (d.c.1690) eldest son of John of Headshaw and grandson of George of Synton. He is recorded in the Buccleuch archives in 1646 for the accounts of the deceased John of Headshaw. He was on the Committee of War for Roxburghshire in 1648 and may have been the William, ‘younger of Heidshaw’ who was on the Committee for Selkirkshire in 1649. He was served heir to his father John in 1653 and had a sasine for his father’s lands of Headshaw, Dryden and others in 1655. In 1659 he witnessed the document declaring the adherence to the marriage agreement of Mary, Countess of Buccleuch with Walter (later Earl of Tarras). He paid tax on £1028 in Ashkirk Parish according to the 1663 Land Tax Rolls and £1160 18s 4d in 1678. He resigned the lands of Headshaw and Dryden to his son John in 1686. He witnessed several documents for the Lairds of Todrig, Whitslade and Synton in the period 1688-90. He may be the William who witnessed a baptism for John Scott of Synton in 1690. He must have been the ‘Scot of Headshaw, elder’ who was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1690, but died shortly afterwards. In 1647 in Dunfermline he married Jean Halket, sister of Sir James Halket. His children were: John, who succeeded; William (b.1648); and Mary (or Marie), who married Patrick Porteous, Burgess of Peebles, and she became heiress on the death of her brother John. Sir William of Clerkington (d.1656) son of Lawrence of Harperig. He was an advocate, becoming Clerk to the Privy Council and one of the Clerks of Session. In 1633 he was appointed one of the ‘Tutors Testamentary’ to oversee the Earl of Buccleuch’s will and serbed the same purpose for Francis, the 2nd Earl. He was served heir to his father in 1638. He was knighted by Charles I in 1641 and appointed a Lord of Session in 1649. He also served as a tutor to the young Mary, Countess of Buccleuch. In 1651 his 2nd lawful son William was one of the witnesses to corrections to the will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch. His son Lawrence was served as his heir in 1657. Sir William of Aikwood (17th C.) recorded in a Melrose Regality document of 1669, referring to an agreement over teinds going back to 1650. He could be the same as Sir William of Harden. William (17th C.) ordered by the Council in 1658 to pay 4 merks for ‘both-meall’ (i.e. booth rent) until Whitsunday. He was presumably a merchant of some sort. In the same year perhaps the same William was ordered to pay £6 for the ‘liberty of the burgh’ (i.e. becoming a Burgess), ‘tourtie shilling being deduced for the buttis bigine’. William (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish who was married to Bessie Scott. Their children included John (b.1651). William of Galalaw (17th C.) eldest son of Walter of Nether Bonchester. He is recorded in a list of Hassendean landowners in 1666. He paid tax on £156 according to the Land Tax Rolls of 1663 and 1678 in Hassendean Parish. He married Margaret, daughter of Walter Gledstains of Whitalw. Following the death of his father Walter in 1653, he gave Nether Bonchester to his uncle Thomas, according to a previous family arrangement. He may have been related to the much earlier David of Gallowlaw and the somewhat later Adam of Galalaw. William of Bonnington (d.bef. 1684) recorded in 1684 when his son William became a goldsmith’s apprentice in Edinburgh. His lands were Bonnington in Lothian. He was the eldest son of James of Bonnington and married Elizabeth Elliott of Stobs. He appears to have acted as a Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch in Dalkeith in 1661–62, when he is described as ‘fiar of Bonnytoun’. He died before his father, and by then only had a single child, Margaret, who married James Cockburn. His daughter ‘Magdalena’ was served heir to his wife Elizabeth Elliott in 1662. William of Tushielaw (17th C.) probably son of Andrew, he is said to have served when still a minor, most likely in the 1660s. In 1651 he was given 400 merks yearly during his lifetime in the will of Francis, Earl of Buccleuch; he is described there as ‘eldest sone to Andrew Scott of Tushillaw, our servitor’. In 1659 he was ‘yownder of Tushillaw’ when he witnessed the document declaring the adherence to the marriage agreement of Mary, Countess of Buccleuch with Walter (later Earl of Tarras). He was succeeded by Walter, who was the last Laird. Although it is suggested (by Keith Scott) that Walter was his son, it seems more likely he was a younger brother.

He may be the William of Tushielaw who married Margaret, daughter of Francis Scott of Syntax. David and Francis, ‘brothers of the deceased … Scot of Tushellow’ were recorded in a court case in the Regality of Melrose in 1676. This suggests he was dead by then, and these were his brothers; however, the succession around that time is complicated, and so it is possible the 2 men were his uncles. William (17th C.) recorded as Bailie in 1678. He may be the same as William of Brieryards. Probably the same William served as Procurator Fiscal during the 1670s. William of Coldhouse (d.c.1686) mentioned in 1666 in a record relating to Hassendean Parish. He is probably the same as ‘William of Cowdhouse and Tandlaw’ and is probably related to the later Robert of Coldhouse. In 1678 he paid the land tax on £40 in Hassendean Parish (presumably for Coldhouse). It seems likely that his mother was the ‘Marie Scott, liferenter of Coudhouse’ listed in 1643. His will is recorded in 1686. William of Hartwoodmyres (17th C.) possibly son of Robert of Hartwoodmyres. In 1663 John Armstrong (possibly a factor or similar) was recorded paying his land tax of more than £600 in Wilton Parish, but he is likely the ‘Hartwoodmire’ who also paid tax on £26. He is recorded in a list of major residents of Hassendean Parish in 1666. He was one of those who wanted the parish suppressed. He was appointed as a Justice of the Peace for Selkirkshire in 1663 and as a Commissioner to Parliament for Selkirkshire in 1666. In 1667 he was a Commissioner of the King’s Bounty. He was also farmer at Borthwickbrae in 1670 and in 1672 was leasing the west end of Branxholme Muir (from the Scotts of Buccleuch). He appears to have been the last of the Scotts of Hartwoodmyres, but may be related to the Coldhouse Scotts. In 1677 the lands of Hartwoodmyres went to Sir William Scott of Harden. He could be the deceased William of Borthwickbrae whose lands in Selkirkshire were valued at £960. In 1682 the aires of [William] Scott of Hartwoodmyres’ are listed among the heritors of the Regality of Melrose. William (17th C.) merchant in Hawick.
His brother Robert was a shoemaker. In 1673 he was charged with striking his brother Robert, apparently because Thomas Brown had called him a ‘yallanger’, presumably this being the result of a drunken mix-up. Probably the same merchant William is on the list of Hawick men named in the 1673 trial following the so-called riot at St. Jude’s Fair. He may be the same William as the merchant listed ‘eist the water’ in Hawick in the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694 and the merchant listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Possibly the same merchant William was a witness in 1700 (along with glover John) for flesher Robert Renwick and for tailor John. William (17th C.) married Isobel Porteous. In 1676 he is recorded being ‘form: in Ashkirk’ when his son John was baptised. The witnesses were William Laing and Robert Cowan. Their daughter Janet was baptised in Roberton Parish in 1683. William (17th C.) listed in 1682 among the heritors of the Regality of Melrose. He is distinct from William of Clarilaw (who is also listed), but may be the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. William (17th C.) tenant in Todshawhill along with Adam (presumably a relative) in the period 1632–72. It is possible that he is the same man as William of Hartwoodmyres who leased part of Branxholme Muir in 1672. William (17th C.) recorded as ‘eister’ on the list of Hawick men named in the 1673 trial following the so-called riot at St. Jude’s Fair. He may be the same as one of the other Williams, possibly the later William ‘eist the water’. William (d.c.1686) glover in Hawick. He is probably the William listed along with Walter as glovers in the trial of men for the so-called riot at St. Jude’s Fair in 1673. In 1675 he was one of the men named to go to check on the boundary wall being built by Walter Scott of Goldielands, to ensure that the Common was not being encroached upon. He was thus likely to have been a member of the Town Council. In 1680 he witnessed a baptism for William Laing. His will is recorded in 1686. William (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish, when it included Hassendean. He is recorded in Clarilaw in the baptismal record of 1688. In 1680 he married Margaret Turnbull and their children included: Jean (b.1681); John (b.1683); Margaret and Janet (b.1685); and Thomas (b.1688). The witnesses in 1681 were James Law and Robert Noble and in 1687 were Robert Turnbull (perhaps related to his wife) and John Noble. William (17th C.) recorded in Newton in a baptismal record of 1683, when Hassendean was part of Roberton Parish. He married Janet Shiel and their children included: Walter (b.1683); and Janet (b.1685). The witnesses in 1683 were Robert Scott (who was probably related) and William Lamb. William (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish (which it contined Hassendean). He married Janet Little and their children included Archibald (b.1686). The witnesses were Patrick Dodds and Archibald Little (who was surely related to his wife). William (17th C.) recorded as one of the 2 Hawick Bailies in 1692. It is unclear if he was the same man as William of Brieryyards. William (17th C.) smith listed in 1694 among those on the west-side of Hawick who paid the Hearth Tax. He was taxed for 2 hearths. He is probably the same as one of the other Williams. William of Clarilaw (17th C.) see William of Burnhead. William (17th C.) resident at Burnhead on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was separate from the Laird of Burnhead (also William at that time), but probably related to the Robert who was also listed as a householder there. William ‘Bellman’ (d.bef. 1696) acted as Burgh Officer for most of his life. He was stated to be ‘officer in the sd. towne, from almost his infancy to his dying day’. His son Alexander was later Burgh Officer, appointed in 1696, by which time he was deceased. William of Broadmeadows (17th C.) son of William of Tushielaw and his 2nd wife, Margaret Gowane. He obtained a charter of Broadmeadows from his half-brother Andrew of Tushielaw. He married Helen, daughter of Sir John Murray of Philiphaugh. Their children were: Robert, who succeeded; Isabella, who married John Balfour of Kailzie; and Jean, who married John Murray, son of Sir John Murray of Philiphaugh and later Lord Bowhill. William of Brieryyards (17th C.) Bailie in the 1680s and 1690s; he may have been the Baron Bailie, rather than a Magistrate of the Town. He must have been related to the earlier James and John of Brieryards. In 1688 he witnessed a baptism in Hawick for James Stewart.
In 1689 a man is recorded being fined for insulting and questioning the authority of him and the other Bailie. He was Baron Bailie of the Regality of Hawick (i.e. the agent of the Baron) in 1693, when Walter Ruecastle was fined for assaulting him. He was probably the ‘late baylyea’ listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He was probably the Laird referred to in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls as ‘Braithweard his house’, when he was taxed for 4 hearths. William (1645–1739) 3rd son of Thomas of Todrig. He purchased the lease of Milsington farm in about 1670, starting several centuries of continuous residence there by the same family. He was thus also the progenitor of the Scotts of Ginnwood and Single. He may be the William in “Wilsongton” whose son Thomas was witness to an instrument of sasine for Elliot of Harwood in 1694. He is probably the William who paid the Hearth Tax for 3 hearths at Milsington in 1694. He was a petitioner in support of having the Whitslade lands ‘disjoined’ in 1714. He probably married a daughter of James Eliott of Stobs and Margaret Elliot of Redheugh. His children included: William, tenant in Milsington; possibly Thomas; Walter, who settled at Ginnwood; Robert, who settled at Singlie; and James, who was a notary in Hawick. He is buried in Ashkirk (and lived to a very old age, unless the date of his death is a mistake). William (17th C.) tenant at Salenside in Ashkirk Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He may have been related to the earlier William of Salenside. Perhaps he was the William who married Isobel Scott, with children Marion (b.1680) and Robert (b.1690); the witnesses in 1690 were Thomas Wallace and William Dunlop. William (17th C.) resident at Easter Essenside on the Hearth Tax roll in 1694. He was listed separately from William in Ashkirk. Perhaps he is the William who married Margaret Scott and whose children, baptised in Ashkirk Parish, may have included (although there may be 2 families here): Isobel (b.1690); Margaret (b.1691); Janet (b.1692); George (b.1694); John (b.1697); John (again, b.1699); and John (again, b.1700). Additionally William (b.1702) was child of William ‘tenant in Essenside’ and Margaret Scott; although the surname is omitted, this seems likely to be the same man. The witnesses in 1690 were Francis Redford and John Minto (both at Easter Essenside). He could be the William who is recorded collecting money for Ashkirk Parish in 1727. William (17th C.) listed as a resident of Kirkton on the 1694 Hearth Tax roll. He may be the William in Newton whose son Adam was baptised in Kirkton in 1708. William (17th C.) resident of Spittal-on-Rule on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. William (17th C.) resident at Peelbrae in Cavers Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. William (17th C.) listed as cottar at Dean Mill on the Langlands estate in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was probably related to Francis, who was tenant there. William (17th C.) listed as tenant at Heap in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. In 1706 a child of his was baptised in Wilton Parish. William (17th C.) tenant in Netherraw in Castleton Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. William (17th C.) tenant in Little Park in Castleton Parish according to the Hearth Tax records of 1694. William (17th C.) listed on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘est the water’ in 1694, when he paid tax on 2 hearths. He was separate from the merchant of the same name who was also listed, but may be the same as one of the contemporary Williams. He may be the William who witnessed a baptism for baxter James Lands in 1682. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He was recorded at Slaidhills in 1702 when his son Robert was baptised in Robertson Parish. William (17th/18th C.) recorded as ‘indweller in Walls in Teviotdale’ who was factor to Thomas Turnbull of Knowe in an undated document, probably from the early 1700s. ‘Walls’ may have been ‘Woll’ or ‘Wells’. William of Raeburn (d.1699) eldest son of Walter ‘Wat Wudspurs’, he was the 2nd Laird of Raeburn and grandson of Sir William of Harden. His brother Walter was the great-grandfather of Sir Walter of Abbotsford. In 1685 and 1690 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Spittal-on-Rule on the Langlands estate in 1694. He was probably related to Francis, who was tenant there. William (17th C.) resident at Dean Mill on the Langlands estate in the 1694 Hearth Tax records.
of St. Leonards, with whom he had a disposition, may have been his mother, and it is possible that Walter was his brother. He is probably the same as William ‘in Langhope’ who was involved with decrees for the lands of Langhope with Adam Scott and others. He is mentioned as ‘Will Scott of Langup’ in Scott of Satchells’ postcard, published in 1688. His name appears on inquests in 1686, 1693 and 1699, still using the designation ‘of Langhope’, even although he had sold the lands. William (17th C.) recorded in 1680 as ‘Flex’ when he witnessed a baptism for Thomas and Isobel Coltart. The other witness was John in Whiteyetts. He may be the same as one of the other contemporary Williams. Presumably he farmed or lived at the Flex. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Kirkton Parish. His son James was baptised in Cavers in 1696. William (d.c.1690) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Falside and their children included: Margaret (b.1683), who married Walter Hume; and Anne, who married James, tenant in Stobcote. His wife secondly married Robert Thomson, tenant in Newmill and had at least 3 more children in the period 1694–1701. She could be the Margaret Falside recorded ‘eist the water’ in the 1694 Hearth Tax Roll for Hawick. William (d.c.1697) doctor in Hawick, probably son of Robert of Harwood, and hence brother of Gideon of Falnash. He is recorded as ‘brother-german’ of Walter of Harwood in 1667 when he became an apothecary’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He served as a Bailie in Hawick in the 1670s. Probably the same William was listed as an apothecary when he witnessed a baptism in 1687; this was for Elspeth Scott, with the other witness being Walter of Goldielands, suggesting a close family connection perhaps. He leased the ‘old Glebe land’ in Hawick from the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1692. He was ‘Wm. Scott of Harwood, apothecary’ on the list of subscribers for the Hawick Kirk bell in in 1693/4. His wife was Bessie Scott and their children included: William (b.1679); Margaret (b.1681); an unnamed child (b.1683), who presumably died; James (b.1684); Agnes (b.1685); and Francis (b.1687). He is also probably the William ‘of Harwood’ recorded in 1680 when he and his wife ‘Isobel’ Scott had their daughter Marion baptised in Hawick; the witnesses were Robert of Glack and Walter of Goldielands. The baptism of Francis was witnessed by the Town Clerk, Walter Gledstains, and James Gledstains. He could be the William, apothecary in Hawick, whose brother Gideon was served as his heir in 1697; presumably this was because none of his children had reached maturity. William of Whitehaugh (17th C.) recorded in 1688 when he witnessed a baptism for Andrew Jardine in Hawick Parish. The other witness was Robert, who was probably related. It is unclear how he fits into the succession of Scotts of Whitehaugh. William (17th C.) tenant in Merrylaw in 1694 according to the Hearth Tax rolls. He could be the ‘Walter Scott of Mirrieland’ (if this was an error in the name) who rented part of Whithope in 1698. William (17th C.) resident at Birkhill in Hobkirk Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was recorded at ‘birkhill’ in 1690 when listed among people owing money to the deceased Mark Turnbull and Bessie Kerr. William (17th C.) cottar at Mackside in Abbotrule Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. William (17th C.) resident at Bank in Lilliesleaf Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. It is unclear exactly where his farm was. William (17th C.) resident of ‘the netherend’ of Hassendean Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was ‘wt the kilne’ and paid tax on 2 hearths. William (17th C.) resident at Appletreehall according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He is probably the William in Appletreehall whose wife Janet Shiel’s will is recorded in 1687. He may be related to the later William, tenant in Appletreehall. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded at Wiltonburn in 1697. He married Agnes Scott and their children included William (b.1697). Agnes (b.1698), baptised in Wilton, with no mother’s name given, was probably also his child. Bessie (b.1689), Adam (b.1691) and John (b.1700), baptised in Ashkirk, to parents with the same names, may be the same family. The witnesses in 1697 were Robert and Adam Scott. He may be related to the William who was tenant in Wiltonburn in 1711. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded at Lees in 1698. His wife was Isabella Morton and their children included William (b.1698). The baptismal witnesses were Adam Morton (surely related to his wife) and Robert Turnbull. William (17th/18th C.) from Wilton Parish, his son John was baptised in Hawick in 1700. The witnesses were John and Gilbert Elliot in Nether Southfield. William of Horleyhill (17th/18th C.) son of Robert and grandson of the previous William. He succeeded Robert, probably in the late 1680s (even although Keith Scott’s genealogy misses him out). He was one of the heritors accused of inciting the riot at the de-roofing of Hassendean Kirk in 1690. He may be the ‘Laird of Horslehill’ who paid tax for 4 hearths in Hawick in 1694. In 1696 there is a record of Francis Scott ‘brother-german to William Scott of Horslehill’ becoming a surgeon’s apprentice in Edinburgh. He could be the Laird of Horsleyhill who was listed on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1704. He appears to have been succeeded by his brother Francis, and so presumably had no male heirs. William (17th/18th C.) boatman of Langlands. He owned the land on which the Grammar School was built, at the Sandbed, from 1693. He sold it to Robert Langlands of Langlands in 1701 (who was presumably a relative of the Laird). In the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls he was listed as being ‘in Boathouse’ on the Langlands estate. In 1711 he was listed as ‘Boatman’ when his son William witnessed a baptism in Wilton Parish. William (17th/18th C.) probably 3rd son of Walter of Crumhaugh, and hence brother to Charles of Crumhaugh and Walter in Goldielands. In 1700 he was described as son of Walter of Crumhaugh when the 2 of them witnessed a baptism for Walter in Goldielands (his brother). He was described as son of the deceased Walter of Crumhaugh in 1702 when he married Isobel Gledstaines in Hawick. He could be the Hawick innkeeper ‘called William of Goldielands’ whose son Walter was baptised in 1705, with witnesses Walter in Crumhaugh (who could thus be his brother) and Michael. William of Nether Bonchester (17th/18th C.) recorded as owner of lands valued at £180 in Abbotrule Parish in 1707. ‘William’ may be an error for ‘Walter’, who was Laird at that time. William (17th/18th C.) tenant in Drinkstone. His servant Walter had a child baptised in Wilton Parish in 1709. William (17th/18th C.) wright who lived at Kirknowe in Hobkirk Parish, recorded in a bill for repairing Wolfelee House in 1709. William (17th/18th C.) tenant in Whitchesters, where his recorded in 1706. He married Janet Scott and their son William was baptised in Hawick in 1709, with witnesses Andrew Riddell in Goldielands and James Falsyde. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded as tenant in Appletreehall in 1711 when his son John was baptised. He is probably related to the earlier William who lived at Appletreehall, as well as Walter who was also a tenant at Appletreehall in 1711. William of Clarilaw and Burnhead (d.1714) eldest son of Robert, who was tenant in Burnhead. He may be the William, son of Robert and Bessie Turnbull born in Hawick in 1651. He was also known as William of Burnhead when he was a local landowner in the mid-to-late 1600s. He was William of Clarilaw in 1678 when he paid land tax in Hassendean Parish for £182 for Wester Clarilaw, as well as £156 for ‘the lands of Burnhead’. He is probably the William of Clarilaw recorded in a list of heritors of the Regality of Melrose in 1682. He was also ‘of clarilaw’ in 1682 when one of his children was baptised in Robertson Parish. In 1691 he was leasing part of the lands of Braxholm Mains from the Scotts of Buccleuch. He purchased Burnhead (the family lands) from his distant cousin Adam Scott of Burnfoot in about 1692. In 1692 he paid the teinds to the Duchess of Buccleuch for his part of the lands of Clarilaw. He was probably the Laird who paid tax on 3 hearths recorded as ‘Burnhead his hous’ in 1694. He was Chamberlain to Scott of Buccleuch (in name of John Scott of Pitlochie) for the years 1681–4, for Braxholm, Wilton and Whitchester. He acted as Chamberlain to the Earl of Lothian for the period 1689–1705. He was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire in 1696 and was probably the William of Clarilaw who was a Commissioner in 1704. He is recorded in 1705 when his son John became a feltmaker’s apprentice in Edinburgh. Probably the same William of Burnhead is described in a document relating to teinds in Wilton Parish in about 1720. He may have lived at Clarilaw rather than Burnhead. He married Agnes, daughter of Archibald Wedderstain (or ‘Wathersone’), merchant of Dalkeith; she was one of 2 daughters who were ‘heirs-portioners’ of their father and in 1675 she granted her half of the lands in Dalkeith to John Learmonth. She may be the ‘Lady Burnhead’ for whom the funeral bells of St. Mary’s were rung in 1729. Their children included: Robert, who succeeded; Eupham, who married Thomas Watson, ‘writer’ in Hawick; William (b.1682); Peter; Jean (b.1686); John (b.1688); and other daughters. One of these daughters was probably Margaret, who married Patrick Scott and secondly James Scott, surgeon in Hawick. Another daughter was probably Agnes, who married James Scott in Calfield in 1721. In 1729 the funeral bells in Hawick were also rung for ‘Burnhead’s sister’, who (since this was after his own death) could thus either have been his sister or his daughter. The witnesses to the 1682 baptism were John of Lees and Adam (who were probably both related to him) and in 1686 and 1688 were Adam and Robert (who were probably also Scotts of the Hassendean area). Sir William of Harden (d.1707) succeeded his father Sir William. He had been engaged in the rebellion of the Earl of Argyll, but had a remission in 1685. He became a Burgess of Edinburgh in 1687 when still ‘younger of Harden’. He was appointed as a Commissioner to Parliament for Selkirkshire in 1689, serving until 1693, when his seat was declared vacant because he had not signed ‘the assurance’. In 1678 he was ‘younger of Harden’ when he acted as a Commissioner for Selkirkshire for raising money for the King. In that year he was also ‘younger’ when he paid tax on land valued at more than £2400 in Selkirkshire. And in 1690 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire, as well as for Selkirkshire and Berwickshire, along with his father. He was still ‘younger of Harden’ in 1695 when he contributed the large amount of £2000 to the Darien ill-fated Company. He is listed on a tax document for the Lordship of Melrose in 1700. Also in 1700 he was granted the rights as heir-male of Synton on their resignation by Archibald Scott of Boonraw; it was stated that he was descended from the ancient family of Synton. In 1701 he had a bond with Walter Scott, younger of Woll. In 1704 he was a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire and for Selkirkshire. And in 1705, along with Walter Scott of Woll, he gave a bond of 1,000 merks to Alexander Orrock, which formed part of the Orrock Bequest. In 1673 he married Jean, only daughter of Sir John Nisbet of Dirleton (and she later remarried Sir William Scott of Thirlestane). Dying without issue, he was succeeded by his brother Robert. His wife may have been the ‘Dame Jean Scott, lady Harden’ listed among the contributors to the Darien Company in 1695. William (17th/18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. In 1705 he witnessed a baptism for John Scott, glover. William (17th/18th C.) resident of the lands of ‘Kirkton’ in Kirkton Parish. His son John was baptised in 1710. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was in Howcleuch in 1710 when his daughter Isobel was baptised and in 1712 when his son Robert was baptised. Perhaps the same William was in Harden in 1714 when his son John was baptised. William (b.1686) son of John ‘Cloaks’, who was also called ‘Whitegates’. The Parish records describe how ‘in ye common-riding night’ of 1707 he was ‘together a considerable time alone in her Mothers Stable’ with Margaret Brydon, as witnessed by Robert Scott ‘called Wyndhead’. He also went to her house, and finding the doors close and the family asleep, climbed in the window. In 1708 the illegitimate child, John, was baptised in Hawick, by which time he had already fled the country. The witnesses in 1708 included David Miller and James Gray in Whitchesters. William (17th/18th C.) described as ‘elder in Branxholmtoun’ in 1717 when along with John Scott (elder in Branxholme) he was appointed to collect money from Branxholme, Branxholme Town and Castlehill. He may be the William recorded in Branxholme in 1702 when he witnessed a baptism for John in Branxholme. Probably the same William (or his son) was tenant at Branxholmtown when he witnessed baptisms in 1705, 1710, 1712, 1713 and 1715. On 2 occasions he witnessed a baptism for John, carrier in Branxholme Town, who may have been related to him (and once the other witness was John in Branxholme, who may also have been related). He was recorded being in arrears for rent on part of Branxholme Town in the period 1712–17 (and may be related to the Robert, who was also on the same farm at that time). He was still farming ½ of Branxholme Town in 1718. He may be the William ‘in Branxdalm’, married to Margaret Scott, whose children included James (b.1703) and James (again, b.1706); the witnesses in 1706 were Andrew Ogilvie and Andrew Riddell in Goldielands. It is also possible he was the William ‘son in law to John Scott tenant in Branxholm’, who married Anna Laidlaw (perhaps as his 2nd wife), whose son Robert was baptised in 1709, with witnesses Andrew Riddell in Goldielands and gardener James Falsyde. William of Thirlestane (b.1663) eldest son of James, who was brother of Sir William of Harden. He was 2nd Laird of Thirlestane (near Yarrow, not the more familiar ones in the Ettrick or near Lauder), succeeding in 1687. In 1684 he married Christian Don. They had 13 children (mostly baptised in Yetholm): 4 who died young; Agnes (b.1690), who married Walter Scott of Harden; Alexander (b.1691), who became a doctor and succeeded to Thirlestane in 1729; Walter (b.1692), a wine merchant in Leith, whose son Thomas was minister at Cavers; John (b.1693); Patrick (b.1695); Christian (b.1696); Andrew (b.1697); Gideon (b.1699); and Isabel. William (1679–1744) eldest son of William, he was tenant at Milisington, like his father. He was ‘Younger in Milisintoun’ in 1733 when his oldest son was baptised in Roberton. He is probably the William ‘in Milisington’ who is mentioned in a lease from the Buccleuch Estates in 1744. In 1731 he married Elizabeth, daughter of William Elliot of Harwood (who had married his cousin Jane Scott. His children were: William (b.1733), also tenant in Milsington; Thomas (b.1735); Henry (b.1736), baptised in Roberton; Walter (b.1740); Robert (b.1742), baptised in Roberton, a doctor in Lasswade; Jean; Elizabeth, who married her cousin William, son of Walter Scott in Ginnwood; and Janet. William of Stonedge (d.1730s) brother of Adam, who had been tenant of Wauchope in 1718 when he purchased Stonedge and Howa farms. He was son of Walter, tenant of Wauchope. He may have been the William who was an elder of Hobkirk in the early 1700s. He was recorded as being ‘in Hopsburn’ in 1709 in a document relating to repairs to Wolfelee House and also involving the tutors of Stonedge. In 1724 his brother transferred Stonedge and Howa farms to him and 6 years later he purchased most of the rest (the eastern part) of the Stonedge estate from Gilbert Elliott. He served as a Chamberlain to the Duchess of Buccleuch, appointed to cover the Liddesdale estates for the period 1714–24. He married Susanna, daughter of Thomas Elliott, tenant in Borthwickshiel. Their eldest daughter Margaret married William Elliot, 1st Laird of Wolfeee. His son was probably Thomas, who was recorded as ‘of Stonedge’ in 1732, although he may not have succeeded his father until later. He (or his son Thomas) later sold the estate to Robert Lisle. His widow was probably the ‘Lady Standlidge’ who paid the window tax in Jedburgh in 1748. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1698 his son Walter was baptised in Hawick, with witnesses John Douglas and William Rae. William (17th/18th C.) tailor in Cavers Parish. In 1699 he married Christian Nichol in Hawick. William (17th/18th C.) tailor in Hawick on the 1693/4 subscribers’ list for the new Kirk bell. He is listed on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’ in 1694. He was married to Elspeth Elliot and their daughter Helen was born in 1701. In 1708 he witnessed a baptism for fellow tailor John Littie. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded as tenant in Wiltonburn in 1711 when his daughter Margaret was baptised. It is possible he is the same man as the earlier William associated with Wiltonburn (if this was a second marriage, perhaps). William (17th/18th C.) gardener in the Hawick area. He witnessed baptisms in 1708 for weaver Robert Rodger and for merchant William Black, and in 1709 for carrier Henry Paterson. William ‘Will’ (17th/18th C.) son of William the boatman at Langlands. In 1711 he witnessed a baptism for James Irvine, tenant in Wiltonburn. William (17th/18th C.) described as ‘in Skelfhill’ in 1711 when he married Janet Aitchison in Hawick Parish. She was widow of John Scott ‘younger in Falnash’ and the wedding took place at Falnash. It is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts who farmed at Skelfhill. In 1712 he was ‘tenant in Falnash’. His children with Janet Aitchison included: John (b.1711); and William (b.1712). The witnesses in 1712 were Robert Scott in Skelfhill (who was surely related) and Robert Pringle in Caverton. William (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. In 1724 he appeared before the Session to hear an apology from fellow weaver Thomas Lunn for calling him certain unspecified names. William (d.bef. 1721) listed as ‘sometimes in Deanburn haugh’. In 1721 he was already deceased when his daughter Bessie married workman John Scott. William (18th C.) resident at Ashybank in 1723, 1724 and 1730. He married Janet Turnbull in Cavers in 1723. His children, baptised in Cavers Parish, included Bessie (b.1724) and James (b.1730). William (18th C.) resident at Newton in Wilton Parish in 1725 and 1727. He married Christian Hoy and their children included: Mark (b.1720); Thomas (b.1723); John (b.1725); Janet (b.1727); Mark (again, b.1732); William (b.1734); George (b.1736); and James (b.1739). The witnesses in 1725 were Robert Scott (who may have been related) and Robert Storie, in 1727 were Alexander Moor and James Dryden. It is unclear how he might have been related to other Scotts associated with Newton. William (18th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. In 1727 he married Isobel Brown, who was also from Ashkirk. William of Whitehaugh (d.1751) son of Walter of Headshaw and Whitehaugh. He was served heir to his father in 1692. His brother Robert was minister at Roberton. The pair of them witnessed a baptism in 1721 for James in Whitehaugh (who may have been related) and another in 1727 for James Scott and Janet Scott in Borthaugh (the same couple). He also witnessed a baptism for the couple in 1724, with his brother performing the ceremony and other witnesses being James (the child’s grandfather), John (the child’s uncle) and Walter of Cockerheugh. He gave 4 silver communion cups to Wilton Kirk in 1728, including the family motto ‘Vincit Amor Patriae’. In 1747 he witnessed a baptism for the Wilton Minister, James Simpson. He paid the window tax in Wilton Parish in 1748. In 1705 he married...
Ann, daughter of Dr. John Rutherford of Knowesouth. He may also have married Anne, daughter of Rev. John Robertson and Christian Shaw (grand-daughter of of Rev. John Shaw of Selkirk); they lived in George Square in Edinburgh and Sir Walter Scott tells a story about their shaggy dog. He died without any children and was succeeded by his sister Isobel, and then by their 2nd cousin John. Sir William 2nd Baronet of Thirlestane (d.1725) only surviving son of Sir Francis. He became a member of the Faculty of Advocates in 1702. In 1690 and 1704 he was on the Commission of Supply for Roxburghshire as ‘younger of Thirlestane’, as well as in 1698 for Selkirkshire. In 1700 he was one of the Roxburghshire heritors who petitioned Parliament. He was involved in a bond with Walter of Whitfield (later of Harden) and Walter of Woll in 1715. Later the 3 were ‘tutors’ to John of Harden, and were involved in legal proceedings over their consequent claims on part of the Harden estate in 1724–26. Known as a man of great learning, he is believed to have written the words for ‘The Blythesome Bridal’ and wrote several verses in English and in Scots dialect, as well as poems in Latin (24 of which appeared in ‘Selecta Poemata’ in 1727). In 1699 he married Elizabeth Brisbane, Mistress of Napier, only surviving child of Margaret, Baroness Napier of Merchiston and John Brisbane. Their son Francis assumed the name Napier and the appellation ‘of Merchiston’; his great-grandson, Lord Francis Napier would live at Wilton Lodge for several years. His first wife died in 1705. In 1710 he secondly married Jean, daughter of Sir John Nisbet of Dirleton, widow of Sir William Scott of Harden. William (d.bef. 1727) recorded as Laird of Wauchope. His daughter Margaret married William Elliot in Edinburgh in 1727. He was probably related to the Scots who had long been tenants at Wauchope, but unrelated to the Scots who purchased the estate later in the 18th century. William of Raeburn (b.1704) son of Walter and father of the next Walter. He was the 4th Laird of Raeburn and owner of lands in the Borthwick valley, including Eilrig, which he (or his agents) leased to John Chisholme of Stirches in 1719. He paid the window tax in Lessuden Parish in 1748. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. In 1743 he married Jean Elliott. They had 2 children: Walter, who succeeded; and Anne, who married Thomas, 2nd son of Robert Scott of Sandyknowe. William (d.c.1755) younger son of Francis of Davington. It is said that he had tenancy of a farm on good terms from the Scots of Buccleuch, connected with the once powerful status of his Thirlestane ancestors. He farmed at Holm and then Beattock. He married Marion Veitch in 1721. Their only son was William, who farmed at Beattock and then moved to Moffat, marrying Jean Carruthers, but dying without issue. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. In 1724, 1727, 1729 and 1733 he was at ‘W: burnfoot’ (i.e. Wester Burnfoot), which was probably at the foot of Wilton Burn. He is probably the William who witnessed a baptism in 1727 for Walter Scott at Wiltonburn. He married Jean Scott in 1723, as recorded in Wilton Parish; she is probably the Jean, son of Walter Scott who married William, as recorded in Hawick 2 weeks later. Their children (baptised in Wilton) included: John (b.1724); Bessie (b.1727); Christian (b.1729); Margaret (b.1731); Walter (b.1733); and William (b.1735). The witnesses in 1724 were Walter (perhaps his wife’s father) and John (perhaps his own father), in 1727 were Walter Scott and William Elliot, in 1729 were John and Walter, in 1733 were Walter and James and in 1735 were Walter Scott and William Lamb. William (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Craik in 1732 when an unnamed child of his was baptised. Perhaps the same William was at Eilrig in 1736 when he had a child baptised. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, recorded at Wiltonburn in 1736. He married Bessie Scott in 1734 and their children (mostly baptised in Wilton) included: William (b.1736); George (b.1737); William (again, b.1739); Charles (b.1741); John (b.1743); Janet (b.1746); and Margaret (b.1748); and Margaret (again, b.1750), baptised in Ashkirk. The witnesses in 1736 were another William and Walter. William (18th C.) tenant in the Flex in 1743. In that year he witnessed a baptism in Hawick for James Reid, who was also a tenant at the Flex. William (18th C.) servant ‘to the Laird of Cromoch [presumably Crumhaugh] near Hawick’ mentioned in an Edinburgh marriage record of 1750. He married Jean Clow, daughter of barber Henry. William of Africa and Ashieburn (d.c.1733) son of Walter of Clarilaw, and probably descended from the Scots of Burnhead. In 1733 he was succeeded in Ashieburn by Rev. James Scott. In 1788 he (or a descendant) is listed as former owner of ‘Part of Nether Ancrum, called Africa’. William (18th C.) tenant in Hislop. In 1728 in Hawick Parish he married Margaret Scott in 'Hairgrain'. William (18th C.) wool inspector appointed by the Board of Trustees for Manufactures and stationed... in Hawick from about 1729. There was a legal battle between him and the Magistrates of Hawick over his indolence and high rates, and he was replaced before 1733. William ‘the Pether’ (18th C.) packman from Deanburnhaugh. One of his daughters married shepherd David Scott (whose daughter Christina married gamekeeper Thomas Rutherford) and another daughter married George Scott (joiner at Deanburnhaugh).

Rev. William (1699/1700–86) eldest son of Walter of Merrylaw. He was tutor to the family of Sir William Johnston. In 1736 he became minister of Kirkpatrick-Juxta. He married Grizel, daughter of Rev. Gabriel Gullan of Dryfesdale. His children were: Elizabeth (b.1754); Margaret (b.1756); Walter of Merrylaw (b.1767); and Rev. Gabriel, his successor. One of his daughters married a Johnstone of Corehead. William (18th C.) resident in the lands of Buccleuch in 1733 when his son James was baptised in Roberton Parish. William ‘the Auld Mason’ (18th C.) grandson of Archibald Goodfellow, his mother marrying a Scott, and his brother being shepherd Robert. His parents were probably Jean Goodfellow and John, shepherd at Lymiecleuch. He was a resident at Falnash Mill. William (18th C.) Town Treasurer recorded in 1763 when money was being raised to pay for the new bell for St. Mary’s Kirk. He was still Treasurer in 1769 when he was appointed to the commission to discuss the Common with representatives of the Duke of Buccleuch.

He may be the same as one of the contemporary Williams. William of Meikledale (1693/4–1772) 3rd son of Robert of Davington and descendant of the Scotts of Thirlstane. He also farmed at Rowanburnfoot, near Canonbie. He went into partnership with Benjamin Bell to drove cattle, being very successful for a while, but being ruined by a distemper outbreak. He purchased Meikledale in 1731, but sold it to William Laing in 1750. In 1722 he married Katherine, daughter of James Scott of Calfield. Their children were: Capt. James of Forge in Canonbie; Elizabeth, who married Thomas Bell; Mary, who never married; Susanna, who married Gilbert Richardson; Catherine, who married John Carruthers; and William, Ann, Agnes and Helen, who probably all died young. He may also have had a son Francis, who went to the East Indies. William (18th C.) recorded at Highchesters in 1721 and 1723. His children, baptised in Roberton Parish, included: Janet (b.1721); and Alexander (b.1723). William (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was living at Easter Alemoor in 1725, 1727 and 1732 and Alemoor in 1736. In 1724 he married Bessie Riddell in Wilton, the marriage also being proclaimed in Roberton. Most of these children, baptised in Roberton Parish, were probably his: Thomas (b.1725); William (b.1727); John (b.1730); Marion (b.1732); William (again, b.1733); Jean (b.1734); Thomas (b.1736); and Marion (again, b.1740). He was probably related to other Scotts who lived at Alemoor at about the same time, e.g. Gideon and Walter. William (18th C.) recorded as ‘younger in Sinton Mill’ in 1734 when his daughter Jean was baptised in Roberton Parish. He is probably related to Thomas, who was in Sinton Mill a little earlier. William (b.1709) 2nd son of Gideon and Agnes Elliot, his grandfather being John of Woll. He was tenant farmer in Kirkhope. In 1761 he married Margaret, daughter of Robert Scott of Singlie. Their children were: Gideon (1762–1841), farmer at Kirkhope and later Laird of Overwells; Robert (b.1769); and Elizabeth, who married Thomas Suter. William (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living in Denholm in 1737 when his daughter Agnes was baptised. Sir William of Ancrum (d.1769) 4th Baronet of Ancrum, son of Sir John. He was a Lieutenant, of Barrel’s Foot Regiment. He paid the window tax for Ancrum House in 1748 and 1753. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. He died without issue and was succeeded by his nephew John Scott Nisbet of Craigtentinime. William (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He married Margaret Hobkirk in 1742, and their children may have included: William (b.1743); Mary (b.1756); and Walter (b.1761), who was a weaver in Wilton. William of Hummelknowes (18th C.) recorded in 1748 when he paid the window tax in Cavers Parish. He paid for 14 windows, but it is unclear whether this was for Hummelknowes or somewhere else. It is also if this was an error for Walter. William (18th C.) probably son of John, younger of Gilmanscleuch. He sold the family property to the Duchess of Buccleuch. He could be the ‘poor miller at Ettrick bridge, a man of austere manners and great strength as well his sons’ mentioned by the Ettrick Shepherd as the representative of the family in 1806. William (1727/8–61) schoolmaster in Castleton. His gravestone depicted a man carved in relief (presumably William himself), holding a bible in one hand and a rose in the other, wearing a wig and... a long buttoned coat. His wife Mary (1732/3–60) was also buried in the old kirkyard. Dr. William of Stokoe (b.1733) eldest son of Walter and grandson of the last Thomas of Todrig. He settled at Stamfordham in Northumberland. He compiled a pedigree of the Scotts of Stokoe (used by Keith Scott in his 1923 book), which included information on their ancestors, the Scotts of Todrig and Whitslade. In 1759 he married Martha, daughter of Rev. Edward Fenwick, Vicar of Kirkwhelping-ton and they had 2 surviving sons, Walter and Edward Fenwick. William of Woll (d.1785) eldest son of Walter, whom he succeeded in 1744 (note that some accounts of these generations are quite confused). He was trained as an advocate and served as Sheriff of Selkirkshire. He paid the window tax for Woll in 1748 and 1753. He was recorded as a Commissioner for bith Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire in 1761. He was on the role of electors in Roxburghshire in 1780. He is recorded as witness to an Ashkirk marriage in 1766; Charles ‘at Woll’ was also mentioned, this being his son. He is recorded as proprietor of Woll on Anslie’s 1773 map. He was taxed for having a male servant (Andrew Leggat) in 1778 and 1779. He married Jean, daughter of Charles Balfour of Broadmeadows and Janet Plummer, who was a daughter of Plummer of Mid-dlestead and Jean Kerr of Sunderland Hall. He inherited the lands of Broadmeadows through his wife, and she died in Hawick in 1797. They had 7 sons and 5 daughters, including: Elizabeth (b.1741); Agnes (b.1742); Walter (b.1743); Charles (b.1744), who succeeded; Isobel (b.1745); Maregaret (b.1748); Janet or Jean (b.1750), his eldest surviving daughter, who married James Grieve and Rev. Benjamin Dickison; Elizabeth (b.1751); Andrew; Walter (b.1755); John of Midghehope (b.1757), father of William of Teviotbank; William (b.1759); and James (b.1760). It was said that his 5 daughters were all 6 feet high. The witnesses to the 1744 baptism were Alexander of Sytonton and John Sinton. A letter of his to Walvester witnesses to the 1744 baptism were Alexander of that his 5 daughters were all 6 feet high. The was also recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. However, this could be an error, since there was no Laird of that name at this time. William (1733–97) son of William. He was tenant in Milsington, like his father. He was recorded as owner of a saddle horse in 1785–94. Either he or his son was the William recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as owner of 4 horses, and also paid dog tax on 3 non-working horses at Milsington in the same year. He was ‘Mr. Scott in Milsington’ in 1771 and 1773. In 1760 he married his cousin Betty, daughter of Walter Scott in Girnwood. Their children were: William, who also farmed Mils-ington; Walter (b.1764), baptised in Roberton, who succeeded as tenant in Girnwood; Henry (b.1767), baptised in Roberton, who had a family and moved to America; Robert, a manufacturer in Hawick; Thomas, who went to America and drowned at sea; Jane (or Jean, b.1762), who married James Richardson (who was 1777 Corna) in Hawick; Elizabeth, who married William Miller; Janet (b.1771), baptised in Roberton; and twin sons Robert and Thomas (b.1773), baptised in Roberton. William (18th C.) recorded at Skelfhill in 1772 when his son Walter was baptised in Roberton Parish. The word ‘fornication’ was included on the register. William (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1762 he mar-rried Betty Burnet, who was also from the same parish. William (18th C.) resident at Parkhill near Chisholme in at least the period 1764–75.
His children, baptised in Roberton Parish, included: Agnes (b.1762); James (b.1764); William (b.1766); Mary (b.1771); Janet (b.1773); and Margaret (b.1775). There are several marriages in Roberton at about the right time that could be his. William (18th C.) resident at Headshaw in Ashkirk Parish in 1775 when his son Alexander was baptised in Roberton Parish. Dr. William (18th C.) physician in Hawick, who owned Briery-hill. In 1776 and over the next few years he had a few cases written up in the Edinburgh journal ‘Medical Commentaries’. These related, for example, to a man who had a wounded thigh and a servant girl who passed ‘fatty substances’. He paid the Horse Tax in Hawick in 1785. He was recorded in the 1786 Horse Tax Rolls for Hawick Parish as being ‘of Bririhole’. In 1787 and 1788 he was a bachelor in Hawick who paid tax for having a female servant. In 1787 the death of his servant Janet Rodger is recorded. In 1788 he was listed as owner of Brieryhill in Wilton Parish, which was valued at £81 3s 10d. In 1792 he witnessed a baptism for mason William Philip. He was listed as a surgeon when he paid the horse tax in Hawick in 1794 and 1797 and the dog tax in 1797. It is unclear how he was related to other Scotts. William (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He witnessed a baptism for shoemaker Robert Oliver in 1757 and another (along with fellow shoemaker Andrew) for shoemaker Thomas Weens in 1765. He witnessed further baptisms in 1781 and 1784. He married Helen Gray and their children included Helen (b.1792). The witnesses in 1742 were baker Robert Scott (who may have been related) and mason Andrew Turnbull, elder. William (18th C.) gardener at Minto in 1785, when he was working for Sir Gilbert Elliot. It is possible he was the gardener who witnessed a baptism for tailor William Turner in 1766. William (18th C.) mason in Castleton Parish. He opened up the vault at Hermitage, discovering the supposed dungeon where Ramsay was starved to death. His son William was also a mason, as well as author of ‘Border Exploits’. William (d.1794) shepherd at Priesthaughshiel. He died in the ‘Gonial Blast’ of January 1794, which killed several other shepherds in southern Scotland. William (18th C.) recorded at Highchesters in 1763 and 1766 when his daughter Ann and Helen were baptised in Roberton Parish. He may be related to the earlier William who lived at Highchesters. William (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Scott and their children included: Sarah (b.1768); Francis (b.1769); Isabel (b.1771); James (b.1773); and Isabel (again, b.1775). William (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He married Margaret Scott and their children included Robert (b.1783). William of Burnhead (d.1795) only surviving son of Robert. He is listed among the subscribers to the reprinted Buchanan’s ‘History of Scotland’ (1752). He appears to have been involved in a dispute with Henry, Duke of Buccleuch, over the teinds of Clarilaw and Broomlands in the 1760s. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. He was also one of the Commissioners appointed in the court case regarding the division of Hawick Common in 1767. He later had a share of part of Hassendean Common when it was divided. In 1775 he wrote to Gilbert Elliott of Otterburn, describing the genealogy of the Elliots. He paid tax on a male servant (a footman or groom) in the period 1778–90, and for both a gardener and coachman 1791–94. He also paid tax for having a female servant in 1785 and 1786, 2 in 1787, 1 in 1788 and 2 in 1789 and 1790. He was taxed at Burnhead for owning a carriage in the period 1788–95 and horses in 1785–94. In 1788 his lands included Burnhead, part of Wester Clarilaw, Pinnacle and Lees, as well as Appletreeshall Townfoot and Crawhill, all in Wilton Parish, and also Hummelknowes in Cavers Parish. He was also listed as owner of these lands in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls (although already deceased by then). When he died unmarried, the estate passed to his sister Margaret and then to his aunt Ephram’s son William Watson. William (1747/8–1820) tenant in Parkhill. He may have been son of the earlier William, who was tenant earlier. He married Marion, daughter of James Clerk, tenant in Whitslade, and she died in 1798, aged 68. He is buried at Borthwick Waas along with several related people. William (18th C.) resident at Nether Tofts. In 1787 his daughter Isabel was baptised in Kirkton Parish and his son William in 1791. William (18th C.) recorded as servant to Mr. Scott of Wauchope in 1790 when his daughter Helen was baptised in Hobkirk Parish. William (18th/19th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1790 he married Katherine Hume. William (18th/19th C.) recorded at Martin’s House on 1797, along with John. He was taxed for 2 farm horses, and so was probably the senior farmer. Willie from Martinshouse was probably a descendant. He could be the William who married Janet Beattie in Ashkirk Parish in 1761 and whose son John was baptised in 1768 (with his designation perhaps reading ‘Martin house’ and the witnesses being the Associate Congregation). William (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Shielwood, recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. William (18th/19th C.) farmer at Upper Raw in Castleton Parish, recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls along with James. They owned 3 horses. William (18th/19th C.) farmer at Roughleeneuk, recorded on the 1794 and 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was owner of 6 farm horses and 1 saddle horse. He also paid the dog tax there in the same year. William (1729/30–1812) tobacconist in Hawick. He is probably the tobacconist of that name who is recorded on the Horse Tax Rolls in Hawick in 1787–90 and 1794. His death is reported at the age of 82. He seems likely to be related to the later tobacconist of the same name. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Isobel Kedzie and their children included: George (b.1773), probably the joiner in Deanburnhaugh; Walter (b.1776); John (b.1778); and Jean (b.1779). William (1749–1810) son of William, he was baptised in Hobkirk Parish. He was a shepherd and later a land steward. In 1777 he married Janet Jack in Crailing Parish; she died in 1836, aged 82. Their children included: William (b.1779); Robert (b.1781); Jane (b.1783); Janet (b.1784); Mary (b.1786), who married John Blair, emigrated to Australia after being widowed and died at ‘Haning’, Armidale, aged 93; James (1788–1855), who was a ploughman; Richard (1790–1874), who married Jane Byers; Margaret (b.1793); Catherine (b.1795); and Walter (1796/7–1812). He is variously at Nisbet, Eckford, Town-o-Rule (in 1786) and Hallrule (in 1788 and 1790) when his children were baptised. The family are buried in Hobkirk Cemetery. William ‘Keek i’ the Kirk’ (18th/19th C.) father of the landlord of the King’s Head, mentioned in the 1823 Parish Records. Bailie William (18th/19th C.) recorded in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls for Hawick. He owned 2 work horses. Probably the same William was a Bailie in the 1780s and 90s and early 1800s. He may be the same as one of the other Williams. William (18th/19th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Scawmill in 1797. He married Sarah Farr and their son Edward was baptised in 1797. William (18th/19th C.) contributor (from Jamaica) in about 1799 to the local fund to support the war against France. He must have been from one of the local branches of the Scotts. He could be the same as Dr. William. William (18th/19th C.) resident at Longnewton according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. Thomas was also there at that time and so presumably a close relative. Rev. William (1735–1809) 4th son of Walter of Nether Bonchester and Helen Turnbull (sister of Rev. William Turnbull of Abbotrule). He was younger brother of Thomas of Bonchester. He was licensed by the Presbytery of Dalkeith in 1760. He became minister at Ravingstondale in 1762 and was translated to Abbotrule in 1764. He was the last minister of the former Parish, reading the ‘Decreet of Suppression’ in 1777 and finally moving to Southdean in 1785. He was then minister at Southdean until his death. It is said that in 1791 a ghostly rider appeared to him and 2 other ministers (or perhaps the elders) at about the same time that Patrick Kerr of Abbotrule died. It is possible he is the ‘Mr’ William who witnessed a baptism for Walter (resident of Coldhouse) in 1780. He is recorded at Southdean on the 1787–97 Horse Tax Rolls and in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls when he owned 2 work horses and 1 saddle horse. He married Sybil, daughter of John Henderson of Lockholm, Westmorland (although her name is also given as Hewitson), and she died in 1822. Their children were: Walter (b.1767), who had 2 sons, William and John, neither of whom had male heirs; John (b.1769), who had at least 8 children, but no grandchildren; Thomas (1773), who died without offspring; Adam (b.1775), insurance broker in London, who assumed the surname ‘Scott-Elliot’ when succeeding to Arkleton through his wife; Anne Nancy (b.1771, possibly also called Dorothy), who married Mr. Reid and later Charles Baxter of Edinburgh; William; and Robert Hewitson (b.1785), who died young. He wrote a description of Southdean Parish for Sinclair’s Statistical Account. A Southdean poet, Thomas Oliver wrote about the suddenness of his death – ‘I saw him from the kirk descend, And in five hours his life did end’. A monument to his memory is in Southdean kirkyard. William (1739–1814) son of Robert and Elizabeth Elliot. He farmed at Singlie, like his father. Among his employees (for a time) was James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd. He paid the Horse Tax at Singlie in the period 1785–97. He married Margaret Pott, who died in 1807 (according to the Scots Magazine). Their children included: Robert, tenant in Todshawhaugh; James (b.1775), a doctor in the army; William (b.1776), also an army doctor; George (b.1779), who went to Africa with Mungo Park, and died there; Henry (b.1780), an Edinburgh hatter; Gideon, who succeeded as tenant at Singlie; Thomas (b.1788), Captain in the army and tenant at Shielwood; John (b.1795), youngest son, who was a friend of the Ettrick Shepherd and became a distinguished surgeon in Edinburgh; Jane or Janet (b.1784), who married Elliot of Flat (probably John); Elizabeth (b.1782), who married David (or perhaps Robert) Henderson of Abbotrule; Jessie, who married Rev. David Scott of Newcastleton; Margaret, who drowned along with her sister and 2 of their companions while bathing in a deep pool in the Ettrick; and Isabella (b.1791), who also drowned in 1800. William ‘Wullie the King’ (18th/19th C.) landlord of the King’s Head. His children were ‘Andrew the King’ and ‘Nelly the King’. His wife was Janet Dickson (possibly a daughter of Nellie Dickson, a former proprietor of the same inn). He probably lived in a pended house on the High Street near the Cross Wynd, known as ‘Wullie the King’s’, He is probably the William recorded on the 1841 census as a publican at around 30 High Street – ‘Wagga Wagga and Jocky Sling, Rumpie Laidlaw and Rob the Laird, Jockey Tencocks and Wullie the King, Henry Mullens and Hope the Gaird’ [HI]. William (18th/19th C.) married Nelly Anderson in cavers Parish in 1787. William (d.bef. 1809) from Girnwood. The death of his daughter Lizzie is recorded in Hawick in 1809. He may have been the son of Walter in Girnwood who married his cousin Elizabeth. William (d.1807) elder son of Rev. James Scott and brother of Ebenezer, who was a surgeon in Dalkeith. He succeeded to Ashieburn in 1794, and was succeeded by his son Henry Erskine. He was listed as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1805. William (b.c.1765) joiner in Hawick. In 1841 he was living on the Sandbed. His wife was Christian and their children included Walter and Jane. William (b.c.1767) resident of Newcastleton, originally from England. He is recorded as ‘Independent’ in 1841, when he was living at about 9 Langholm Street in Newcastleton. His sons William and Francis were carters, and he also had a daughter, Agnes. William of Friarshaw (18th/19th C.) recorded as owner of Friarshaw in Lilliesleaf Parish according to the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He was also owner of parts of Midlem. It is unclear how he might have been related to the Scott-Douglasses of Friarshaw, and it may be that his name is an error. Dr. William (1773–1834) son of John and Elizabeth Thomson. He served as a surgeon in the sugar plantations of Barbados, being based at Content, St. Thomas on the island of Barbados. He amassed a fortune, some of which he left to his nephew John White, miller of Hawick Mill. He could be the surgeon William listed in Hawick on the subscription list to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He married Eliza Tucker in the West Indies, but retired to Edinburgh, although later moving to Paris. He is buried at Pere la Chaise cemetery in Paris, and a portrait of him exists with one hand Paris. He is buried at Pere la Chaise cemetery in Paris. He is recorded on the 1811 Land Tax Rolls as ‘William Scott’. He was owner of part of the ‘parcels of Milsington’ which were later owned by Walter Pringle. He presumably lived near the Greens. William (1772–1846) eldest son of Charles of Woll. He was referred to as ‘younger of Woll’ during his father’s lifetime. He was so listed along with his father among the Commissioners for Roxburghshire in 1805. He was still ‘younger of Woll’ when listed as a Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire Commissioner in 1819. He trained as an Advocate and became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1811. His family had inherited Sunderland Hall through marriage. He went to Canada and there in 1815 married Alicia, daughter of Richard John Uniacke of Mount Uniacke (who was Attorney-General for Cape Breton and Judge of the Supreme Court in Nova Scotia). They had 2 sons: Charles Andrew (1817–38), who inherited Woll and died in Rome; and Richard (1818–27). Sunderland Hall eventually passed to his nephew, son of Charles Balfour Scott. He became Commissioner of Customs. William (18th/19th C.) recorded on the 1811 Land Tax Rolls as ‘William Scott at Flex’. He was owner of part of the ‘participate lands’ of Hawick, which were later owned by Walter Pringle. He presumably lived near the Flex. William (18th/19th C.) physician on the High Street, recorded on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. William (c.1780–bef. 1851) farmer at the Greens, south of Newcastleton. He is recorded there in 1841, but must have died soon afterwards. In 1851 his wife was farmer of 7 acres at the Greens, and she was ‘Feuar’ in 1861. He married Agnes (or Nancy) Armstrong, from Canonbie. Their children included Elizabeth, Ann, William (an agricultural labourer and carter) and Mary. He is probably the carter at Greens listed among heads of households in 1835–41. William (b.1774/5) joiner in Newcastle, listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory and as a wrigh in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1841 he was on North Hermitage Street and in 1851 at about 5 Whitchester Street. His wife was Elizabeth (‘Betty’) Wemyss and they had a son, Charles. William (d.1842) son of a mason from Lower Burnmouth in Castleton, he was educated at Teviothead. From 1810 he was master at the small school at Burnmouth, and was later a mason in Newcastle, He made a sketch of Hermitage Castle before it was renovated in 1820. In 1806, at the desire of Lord Dalkeith, he performed some excavations at Hermitage, uncovering a paved floor and finding a large key. When the school at Burnmouth was closed during harvest time he travelled the country lettering new tombstones, and deciphering old ones. He collected historical artefacts, and was an expert on local traditions. He published ‘Border Exploits’ in Hawick in 1812 (2nd edition 1832) and also ‘ Beauties of the Border’ (1821). He was recorded as schoolmaster at Burnmouth among heads of households 1835–41. He was listed as master of the auxiliary parochial school at Burnmouth in Pigot’s 1837 directory. He married Isabella Veitch from the Bedrule family. He had 3 sons, one of whom, Andrew (b.1800), became a Professor at Aberdeen University, while another, Thomas, was a teacher at Beith and Kirkcaldy in Fife. He is probably the William (aged 77) who is recorded as a schoolmaster at Burnmouth in 1841, living along with his wife Janet (presumably a second wife). He died after accidentally being thrown from a cart and is buried in Castleton. David Anderson wrote a poem after he died – ‘No more will be sculpture the stone for the dead. No more show the young the pure path they should tread, No more, lonely Hermitage, will he pourtray Thy clear sparkling waters and battlements grey’ [DA]. William (18th/19th C.) grocer and spirit dealer on the High Street, recorded on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He may be the publican on the High Street (at about No. 30) on the 1841 census, living there with Christian, Robert, Adam and Margaret, probably all his younger siblings, and all born outside Hawick. William (b.1778/9) mason at Borthaugh Cottage. His wife was Helen, and their children included Isabella, James, John, William, Robert and Thomas. William (c.1779–1855) son of William and Euphemia Smail, he was born in Traquair. He was brought up in Yarrow and Ettrick Parishes, but later was a handloom weaver in Balgonie, Markinch Parish, Fife. He married Isabell Bell, who was born in Dunbar and died in Balgonie, Fifeshire. Their children were: William (1801–48), farm worker in Ashkirk Parish; John (b.1803); Margaret (b.1805); Euphemia (b.1807); James (1809–74), wood sawyer who died in Galashieis; Walter (1811–33); David (b.1813); Thomas (b.1817); Isabell (b.1819); Robert (b.1822); and Andrew (1825–97), weaver in Selkirk. He died in Selkirk. William of Teviot Bank (1782–1841), W.S., eldest son of John of Glenormiston, who was a younger son of William of Woll and Jean Balfour. He trained as a lawyer, being apprentice to William Riddell. He purchased Teviot Bank in about 1804, and became a heritor of Minto Parish. He was entered as a Burgess of Edinburgh in 1838. He was also a member of the Jedforest Club. He was said to be a writer on the subjects of phrenology and scriptural history. In 1808 he married Jane Jordan of Edinburgh in 1808 and they had one son, John, who succeeded. In 1816 he secondly married Margaret, daughter of Dr. Andrew Duncan, Professor of Medicine of Edinburgh and had 3 further children: Dr. Andrew James (1817–84); William Charles (1820–1871); and Agnes Beatrice, who died unmarried. William (b.1788) 3rd son of Alexander and Christian Scott. His great-grandfather was John Scott of Woll. He succeeded his father as tenant of Ladhope farm in Yarrow. In 1847 he married Jean, daughter of Mr. Currie of Howford. Their children were: Alexander (b.1847) who succeede to the tenancy of Ladhope, married his cousin (once removed) Jane, daughter of Henry Scott of Gilman-scleuch, and moved to Whinfell Park near Pen- rith; Charles William, who became a tweed manu- facturer in Galashieis; and Henrietta, who mar- ried Thomas Mitchell from Cumberland. William (1789–1867) born in Wilton, son of hand- loom weaver Walter and Elizabeth (‘Betty’) Big- gar, who both died at Dovemount. He emigrated to the U.S.A. in 1812, and also encouraged his brother Robert and sister Margaret to move to Ohio (while his brother Walter and sister Sarah continued to live in Hawick). He eventually set- tled in New York, becoming a successful business- man, partner in Scott & Leggat (with his old Hawick friend William Leggat), a dry goods firm. He was a keen member of the St. Andrew’s Soci- ety in New York. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. John Philip Burkhart Roos. Their children were: Walter L., and William L., who died young; Mary; Eliza; Sarah Gertrude; Margaret J.; Henrietta; Charlotte; and John Burkhard. He returned to Hawick in 1856. A portrait of him was painted by Seymour Guy in 1860, and his grandfather clock, from Thomas Graham’s in Hawick, is still with the family. William (1792–1828) youngest son of Charles, Laird of Wauchope and Howcleuch and Elizabeth Dickson. He was a Lieutenant in the 21st Madras Native Infantry and then Captain in the 42nd Madras Native Infantry. He died unmarried in India. William (b.1792/3) born in Selkirk, he was a shoemaker on the Howegate, at about No. 14. He is listed on the Howegate in Pigot’s 1825/6 director, as well as on the censuses for 1841 and 1851. His wife was Elizabeth, and children included Walter, Jane, Elizabeth, James and Catherine. William (b.1792/3) slater in Hawick and Wilton. In 1835 he was listed among heads of households in Wilton Parish, when he was a slater at Damhead. By 1840 he was living on Melgund Place. He was a journeyman slater on O’Connell Street on the 1841 census and he was at 13 O’Connell Street (probably what was later No. 2, now demolished) as a slater. His wife was Agnes and they had a son Robert. William (b.c.1795) born in Kirkton Parish, he was a joiner on Buckcleuch Street. He was probably at about No. 25 on the 1841 census. His wife was Agnes, and children included Agnes, Janet and Margaret. He may have married Janet Cook, who was a widow and innkeeper at 17 High Street. He may be the William whose heirs were recorded owning part of the former lands of Patrick Cunningham in Hawick in about 1874. William (1795–1859) clerk with Wilson’s, who was known as a local poet and a strong temperance supporter. He was a friend of James Ruickbie, and had 10 of his poems in Ruickbie’s ‘Poems’ (1826). He wrote some lines about the talents of his contemporary, James Hogg (of ‘Teribus’). He was also a close friend of the local poet Elliot Aitchison, as well as Andrew Leyden, brother of the poet and linguist. He was a competitor in the contest for poems of the Auld Brig in 1851, and also contributed to the local press. A poem on the celebration of the Duke of Buckcleuch’s birthday apparently earned him a job as a clerk at the Dalkeith colliery. He later moved further away and died in Belfast. His daughter Margaret Isabella Sarah was the first wife of Sir James A.H. Murray, while another daughter, Elizabeth Jane married George Easton. William (b.c.1785) butcher of the Howegate, recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. He is probably the Hawick butcher of that name who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He may be the William listed as a flesher in Hawick (after George, also a flesher) among heads of households in Wilton Kirk in 1840 and 1841. In the 1841 census he was living alone at around 60 High Street. An unnamed child of his died in 1816 and his son James died in 1823, aged 15. William (1800/1–1858) eldest son of Walter, he took over as tenant of Girnwood. He was already listed there in 1841, when he had 2 female servants and also 2 farm labourers also living in his house. He married Ann Laidlaw in Robertson in 1821. Their children were: Walter (b.1822), who succeeded as tenant of Girnwood; and Margaret, who married George Davies, and whose daughter Hannah purchased the property. William (1801–48) born in Yarrow Parish, he lived in Ashkirk, at several farms around Synton, working as a farm labourer, gamekeeper and Thatcher. In 1841 the family were living at Syntone Lodge. In 1826 he married Mary Scott (c.1806–80), daughter of John and Helen Scott from Selkirk Parish; there are thus a lot of Scotts in this family tree! Their sons were: William (1826–78); John (b.1831); Robert (b.1834); George (b.1836); Alexander (b.1840); and Walter (b.1846), who emigrated to Canada. He died in an unfortunate way, having fallen into the mill lade near Roughheugh Mill, and being rescued, he walked home to Syntone Mill on a cold October night and next day was found to the north of Groundistone Heights, having frozen to death. His widow and children were living at Dimpleknowe in 1851. He is buried in Ashkirk kirkyard. William (b.1803) son of George, he was a joiner at Deansburnhaugh, like his father before him. He was recorded as a joiner there in 1841, 1851 and 1861. His retired father George was living with his family in 1861. He married Isabella Brown in 1836 and their children included: George (b.1836); William (b.1838); Barbara (b.1840); Robert (b.1842); Mary (b.1844); Isabella (b.1847); Adam (b.1849); Margaret (b.1852); and Ann (b.1858). William (19th C.) shepherd at Gorrenberry. In 1832 he when accused of ‘the sin of fornication’ with Alison Crozier. At the same time John ‘in Castleton’ was accused of the same thing with Jean Crozier (perhaps her sister). William (19th C.) listed as a carrier in 1837, leaving Hawick for Langholm once a week. It is possible that he was from Langholm. William (b.c.1800) ironmonger and blacksmith on the Howegate. He is recorded at about No. 7 in 1841 and 1851. His wife was Isabella, from Aberlady, and their children included Joseph, George, Helen, Margaret and Isabella.

William (b.1802/3) foreman at Weensland Mills. He was living there in 1841 and 1851. His wife was Ann, and their children included Ebenezer, Louisa (who married James McMorran), John, Janet Stuart, Robert, William and Ann. Sir William of Ancrum (1803–71) 7th Baronet, son of Sir John. He succeeded his brother Sir John when still a minor, and lived at Ancrum House. He served briefly as an officer in the 2nd Life Guards. He became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1826, but left in 1834 when the Chairmain refused to toast the new Whig M.P. He was M.P. for Carlisle 1829–30 and for Roxburghshire 1859–70. He was unopposed in 1865, defeated Lord Schomberg Henry Kerr in 1868 and resigned in 1870. He was also a J.P. and Deputy-Lieutenant for Roxburghshire, as well as a Commissioner of Supply and Justice of the Peace for the county. He served on the Lunacy Board for the counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk and Berwick and on the Police and Prison Boards for Roxburghshire. He was also a Vice-President of the Edinburgh Border Counties Association. He married Elizabeth, daughter and heir of David Anderson of Balgay, Forfar, and she died in 1878. He was succeeded by his son Sir William Montacute, with whom the Baronetcy became extinct. His other children were: John (d.1859), Captain in the Scots Guard; Henry (or Harry) Warren (1833–89), who married Cecilia Louisa Burnaby; Arthur (1835–74), who died unmarried; Elizabeth, married Lieut.-Col. Charles Lennox Tredcroft; Harriet, married Col. Edward E. Dulier, and whose daughter Irene married Cecilia Louisa Burnaby; Arthur (1835–74) farm labourer who lived at Martinshouse. He was known as a great runner. There was a special race arranged between him and William Stewart from Hawthornside. It took place over half a mile near Stobs, with all of his supporters present; however, he lost to Stewart. William (b.1827–73) son of John, from whom he succeeded to Timpendean. In 1857 he became a member of the Royal Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland. In 1861 he was farmer there of 1600 acres, employing 16 labourers. He was recorded at Timpendean in a directory of 1868. He married Margaret Patterson, from Morebattle. Their children included John, Ellen, Agnes, Francis, Margaret and Isabella. William John (1827–73) son of James of Ellem and Agnes. He was a great-grandson of William of Woll. He was living at Teviot Bank in 1851, when he farmed 240 acres and employed 9 labourers and had 5 servants. His cousin Jane Elliot also acted as a housekeeper. He was also listed at Teviot Bank in an 1852 directory. He Unmarried, he was son of the Town Treasurer, James, who was also a tobacconist, with his mother being Elizabeth Turnbull. He was Cornet in 1832, served on the Town Council and was twice a Magistrate. He is listed on the High Street in Slater’s 1852 directory. He is listed at about No. 40 High Street on the 1841 and 1851 censuses, living with his sisters Elizabeth and Margaret. In 1851 he was employing 1 man, 1 apprentice, 5 boys and 1 girl. In 1868 he was recorded as farmer at Burnhead. William (b.1813/4) bootmaker at 3 Bourtree Place. His wife was Elizabeth, and their children included Robert, George L., William, James G., Rachel A., Thomas R., Elizabeth N. and Nancy A. William (b.c.1815) shoemaker at the east end in 1841. He was probably living around 6 Bourtree Place. In 1851 he was recorded at 2 Bourtree Place (although the numbering was probably different). His wife was Elizabeth (Betsey), from Leith. They had children Robert, George L., William, James G., Rachel A. and Thomas R. William (b.1816/7) skinner in Wilton and Hawick. In 1851 he was a skinner at Wilton Lodge Gate House, employing an apprentice. In 1861 he was at 2 Round Close, employing 2 men and 3 apprentices. He could have been partner in either ‘Nichael & Scott, Punch Bowl close’ or ‘Scott & Michie, Teviot square’, both of which are listed in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1872 he was listed as a skinner in Hawick, with his discharge connected to the Teviot. His wife was Margaret R. (probably Davidson). William ‘Willie’ (b.c.1820) farm labourer who lived at Martinshouse. He was known as a great runner. There was a special race arranged between him and William Stewart from Hawthornside. It took place over half a mile near Stobs, with all of his supporters present; however, he lost to Stewart. William (1821/2–83) son of John, from whom he succeeded to Timpendean. formally succeeded to Teviot Bank on the death of his mother about 1857, but sold it in 1860. He married Theresa Newcomer Harris (1839–1928) in London, Ontario. He was born (in 1837 according to some sources) in Jedburgh and died on the H.H.S. Palestine near Suez. His wife secondly married explorer Clement Littledale, and she became the first woman to enter the Tibetan monastery of Lhasa. William Percival (1820/1–93) son of Robert and Janet Colledge. He was a stockingmaker in Denholm, living on Leyden Road. He married Mary McCallum, who died in 1910, aged 90. William (19th C.) quarryman in Denholm in the 1860s, when he was a registered voter in the Parish. William (19th C.) game-keeper to the Duke of Buccleuch. In 1863 he presented to the Museum a gyr-falcon, which had been shot at Tandlaw Moss. William (1826–78) eldest son of William and Mary Scott, he was born at Synton Parkhead. In 1841 he was a labourer living at Whinfield in Ashkirk Parish, in 1851 he was a farm servant living at Synton Mill and in 1861 he was a carter living at Under Hope Park in Wilton. He was a later forester on the Abbotrure estate until he died. He married Jane Hogg and had a son William (b.1851). Sir William Monteath of Ancrum (1829–1902) 8th Baronet of Ancrum, son of Sir William. He served with the 79th Highlanders and the Roxburghshire Volunteers. He was a Deputy-Lieutenant and County Councillor for Roxburghshire, as well as being a Commissioner of Supply and Justice of the Peace for the county. He had a new house built at Ancrum when the original house burned down in 1873. In 1861 he married Amelia, daughter of Gen. Sir Thomas Monteath Douglas of Stonebyres, and she died in 1890. They had one child, Constance Emily. William (b.1830/1) son of William and Agnes Armstrong from the Greens. He was an agricultural labourer and carter. He could be the carter of that name who is recorded in the 1860s running from Newcastleton to Hawick once a week. William (b.1833/4) born in Ettrick, he was a shepherd, living at Adderstoneshields Cottages in 1901. His wife was Jane and their son William was also a shepherd. William Munro (b.1844) son of weaver Charles. He was a younger cousin of Sir James A.H. Murray. His middle name came from his uncle. It is said that he built a canoe, which he paddled to Berwick and then down the coast to Newbigging, where he almost drowned. William (19th C.) corn merchant in Hawick. He wrote a discursive article on ‘Auld Hawick’ for the 1890 Transactions. He was Acting Father in 1888. William, J.P. (b.1848) son of Walter, tenant at Hummelknoves Mill, who later lived at Ormiston. He lived at Cheviot View, Lilliesleaf. He married Mary, eldest daughter of Thomas Bailey, Gatley, Cheshire. He had a son, Walter Nichol. William Laidlaw ‘Wowie’ (1847–1922) son of grocer and shoemaker Charles. He was said to be somewhat simple and had a speech impediment. He continued his father’s shoemaking business. William (b.1851) born in Lilliesleaf Parish, son of William and Jane Hogg. His father William (b.1826) was born in Ashkirk, son of William and Mary Scott. He worked locally in the building trade. He later moved to England, where he was an architect. He married 3 times, and had 4 children, one of whom, Euphemia, had a son, Hugh McNeill, comic-book artist of the mid-1900s. In 1901 he wrote a letter in verse on the occasion of the return of his uncle Walter to Dimpleknowe. William (19th C.) married Janet Hobkirk in Hawick in 1874. William Porteous (1852/3–1916) son of manufacturer Walter and Helen Porteous. He was Cornet in 1893, when he lived at Craigview in Denholm (so the Burgh Officer went to his grandfather’s house in Beaconsfield Terrace). He took over running the firm of Lyle & Scott. William (19th/20th C.) partner in the firm of Scott Brothers, tweed merchants. He served as Clerk of the Deacon’s Court at St. George’s Kirk. William James ‘Willie’ (1897–1989) folk singer, sometimes called ‘the Border Shepherd’. Born at Andrew’s Knowes, Canonbie, Dumfriesshire, he spent most of his life as a shepherd, living at many places around the Scottish Borders, including near Hawick for many years. He came from a musical family, with all of his siblings being singers or musicians. He was also a self-taught fiddle player. In 1953 he moved to Fifeshire, and was ‘discovered’ as a national treasure. In 1968 he retired as a shepherd, but continued to perform. He recorded an album ‘The Shepherd’s Song – Border Ballads’ (1967), and also sings 3 songs on ‘Borders Sangsters’. A collection of his songs, ‘Herd Laddie o’ the Glen’ was edited by Alison McMorland in 1988, with a new and expanded edition in 2006. He married Frances Thompson, daughter of a Canonbie ploughman. She often accompanied him on accordion or sang with him, with their son Jimmy singing too. William ‘Tatti Wullie’ (19th/20th C.) farmer at the Orchard in the early 1900s (formerly spelled ‘Scot’, and sometimes ‘Scote’; see also Corse Scott, Fitz-Scott, Hepburne-Scott, Macmillan-Scott, Montagu-Douglas-Scott and Montagu-Scott).

Scott an Aitken

Scott an Aitken (sko'-(in-ä'-kin) n. business on the High Street, at around No. 45, as marked on Wood’s 1824 map.

Scott an Inglis (sko'-(in-ing-ulz) n. wrights at the East End of Hawick, listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory.

Scott an Oman’s (sko’-(in-o-minz) n. photography business at 4 Mill Port in the late 19th century. George Oman came to Hawick in 1867 and in 1868 formed a partnership with William Scott. Their business was initially based in the former photography rooms of William Beattie.

Scott an Paiterson (sko’-(in-pi’-ur-son) n. local printing firm, established in 1911 by ‘Piper’ Scott and Tom Paterson. Originally at 21 High Street, the firm later moved to No. 9. In 1988 it was purchased by John Thorburn.

Scott an Rutherford’s (sko’-(in-ru-thur-fordz) n. auctioneers and livestock salesmen. They sold sheep at the Auction Mart, as well as on Denholm Green. There is a 1915 photograph of sheep being driven to one of their auctions on Noble Place.

Scott-Chisholme (sko’-(chi-zum) n. name sometimes used for the last few generations of the Chisholmes of Stirches (also written ‘Scott-Chisholm’; see Chisholme).

Scott Crescent (sko’-(kre-sin’) n. part of Burnfoot, built in 1952 and named after Sir Walter Scott of Abbotsford.

Scott-Douglas (sko’-(dug-lis) n. Sir George Henry of Springwood Park (1825–85) 4th Baronet and son of Sir John James Douglas and Hannah Charlotte Scott of Horsleyhill and Belford, as well as being the grandson of Sir George Douglas, who had been M.P. for Roxburghshire 1784–1806. His father had changed the family surname as part of the inheritance of his mother’s family lands (she was daughter of Henry Scott, last Laird of Horsleyhill). He succeeded in 1836 and became Captain of the 34th Regiment of Foot (later the Border Regiment). He sailed extensively in the Mediterranean, journals of these trips surviving. He returned to Kelso in 1853 and made extensive improvement on the Springwood estate. He retired from the army in 1857, but in 1859 became Captain of the Kelso company of volunteers, taking command in 1867. In 1866 he is listed as Major of the Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire Battalion of Rifle Volunteers, as well as Convener of the Border Rifle Association.

Scott-Elliot (sko’-(e-li’)) n. Adam (1775–1821) 4th son of Rev. William Scott of Southdean. He was an insurance broker in London. In 1807 he married Margaret, daughter of William Elliot of Arkleton. After his wife’s brother Maj. Robert Elliot died in 1810 she became sole heir, and they assumed the conjoint surname. His wife died in Edinburgh in 1816. In 1818 he became a member of the Jedforest Club. His children were: Ann (b.1809 in Hackney); William (b.1811), who succeeded to Arkleton; and Cassandra (b.1814), who married John Rutherford, W.S. George Fraser (1784–1848) youngest child of Capt. James Scott, who lived at Forge in Canonbie. He was a direct descendant of the Scotts of Thirlestane. A childhood accident left him lame, and with the nickname ‘Pinfoot’. He worked as a law clerk in London. After the death of his father’s cousin, Maj.-Gen. William Elliot of Larriston in 1803, he inherited the lands of Larriston and took the additional name of Elliot; he was just 19 when he inherited. A local rumour circulated that he was the illegitimate son of the Maj.-Gen., but this was not the case. He is probably the ‘George Elliot’ of Larriston listed as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1805 and 1819. He also lived at ‘Woodsele’, near Canonbie and farmed at Nether Woodhouseles. He was recorded as a freeholder in the Michaelmas Head-Court of Jedburgh in 1811. In the Land Tax Rolls for 1811 he was owner of ‘Larriston, comprehending Over and Nether Larriston, and Mill and Mill Lands thereof’, as well as Larriston Rig and Blackhope. In 1813 he became a member of the Highland Society of Scotland. He also became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1813 and gave the 2nd toast at the gathering to welcome home the 5th Duke of Buccleuch in 1829. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He was a cautioner for the agent of the Leith Banking Company in Langholm in 1822, and involved in a related court case in 1830. Having inherited an estate that was already in debt, and failing in introducing a new breed of sheep, he became insolvent in 1843 and sold Larriston to James Jardine. He married Ann Marjory ‘Marion’, from the closely-connected Bell family. Their children included: William Elliot, who became Surveyor of Customs; George, Lieutenant in the Madras Artillery, died at Jahnash; James, merchant in Calcutta, father of explorer George Francis; Marion, married George Douglas and secondly Rev. George Colville of Canonbie; Charles, became a General in India and married Mary Vertue; Harris, or ‘Harry’; Pheobe Anne (‘Annie’) married Alexander Walker; and Eliza Georgina Isabella, died in Madras. He died at Woodslee, Canonbie, where he is buried. James (1820–80) 3rd son of George Fraser. He became a prosperous merchant in Calcutta, returning to Scotland in 1866. He kept extensive diaries in the period 1842–65, which are in the National Library. He married Francisa May Durand. They had 3 sons and 5 daughters, including: Prof. George Francis (1862–1934), a botanist, explorer and author; Lieut.-Col. William (1873–1943), who has descendants still bearing the ‘Scott-Elliot’ surname; Charles, who died in infancy; Edith May, who married Joseph Gillon Fergusson; Annie Emilia, who married Capt. Arthur Ripley Pott of Todrig and Borthwicksheils and secondly married Capt. J.A. Doig; Lilian, who married Eric Talley; and Ethel and Eliza, who both died young. A portrait of him exists. His diaries are in the National Library of Scotland. John (b.c.1818) 2nd surviving son of Thomas Elliot (brother of William of Harwood) and Helen Scott (daughter of Thomas of Peel). He inherited Riccalton (in Oxnam Parish) from his uncle John Scott and took the additional surname of Scott. He served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. He also succeeded to the life-rent of Peel on the death of his brother William. He was listed in the Land Tax Rolls of about 1874 as owner of ‘Backstonlees, Blackstonelees, or Peel’, as well as Riccalton, with his name written as ‘John Scott Elliot Scott of Peel’. When he died the liferent and existing leases went to his nephew John Elliot in Flatt. Margaret ‘Peggy’ (1779–1816) daughter of William of Arkleton. Her brothers Adam, Robert and William all died in service overseas. She inherited Arkleton in 1810 and assumed the name Scott-Elliot. In 1807 she married Adam, son of Rev. William Scott, minister at Southdean. Their children were: Ann; Cassandra, who married John Rutherford; and William, who succeeded. Walter Travers of Arkleton (1895–1977) only child of William. He was the 11th Laird of Arkleton and was a Captain in the Coldstream Guards. He was Managing Director in the Bombay Company, trading goods between Britain and India. In 1945 he was elected as Labour M.P. for Accrington, serving as a Parliamentary Private Secretary to the War Office and on the Executive Committee of the National Trust. He stood down in 1948 and went back to his estate and business. He firstly married Reichslede Maria Alice, daughter of Capt. Alexander Reichstetter von Groessler, formerly of the Austro-Hungarian Navy. He secondly married Dorothy, daughter of William Nunn of Calcutta. In 1964 he sold Arkleton to Prof. Higgs of Oxford. Along with his wife Dorothy, he was murdered by his new Butler, Archibald Hall, after being drugged and driven to the Highlands. The case caused a sensation at the time. William of Arkleton (1811–1901), W.S., only son of Margaret Elliot and Adam Scott. His parents had adopted the double-barrelled surname in order to inherit the Arkleton estate. He is famous for modelling for a portrait by Sir Henry Raeburn at the age of about 4. His father died in 1821 and he succeeded to Arkleton when he reached majority. He was trained as a lawyer, became Writer to the Signet in 1833 and served as a J.P. He attended the 1839 dinner at Branxholme given in honour of the Duke of Buccleuch. He had Arkleton renovated.
as a Scots baronial house, probably under the influence of his father-in-law. In 1848 he married Margaret, 2nd daughter of Edinburgh architect Lewis Alexander Wallace, and they had 7 children: William (b.1849), who succeeded; Louisa (b.1850); Isabel (b.1852), who married Edward A. Baxter of Kincaldrum; Margaret (b.1854); Lewis Alexander (b.1857), who firstly married Laura, daughter of Col. Hastings of the U.S. Army and secondly married Princess Eydua Marie, daughter of Prince Arthur Odescalchi of Szwipe, Hungary; Col. Adam (b.1860) of the Cameron Highlanders, who married Marjorie, daughter of Lewis Evans of Cornell Park; and Mary (b.1861). William of Peel (1811/2–71) 3rd son of Thomas Elliot (brother of William of Harwood) and Helen Scott (daughter of Thomas of Peel). He inherited the lands of Peel in Liddesdale from his uncle John Scott and took the additional surname of Scott (as his brother John did to inherit Riccalton). He was on the Borders Union Railway Committee for Liddesdale in the 1850s. He was listed as one of the principal landowners in Castleton Parish in the 1860s. In 1861 he was farmer of 6098 acres at Kirndean, living with his sisters Ann Jane and Christian. He served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. After his death his brother John succeeded to the life-rent of Peel. William (1818–1905) eldest son of George Fraser. He was brought up to be heir of the Larriston estate, but after his father went bankrupt he entered the Customs & Excise service, eventually becoming Surveyor of Customs at Leith. After falling from his horse he was nursed by the woman he would later marry, Jessie Brown, daughter of a Renfrewshire minister. Their only son, William, died unmarried in 1948. They also had daughters Georgina, Netta (or Janet), Marion and Anne (or Annie). William of Arkleton (1849–1919) eldest son of William, and descended from the Scotts of Bonchester. He was a merchant banker in London. He was a member of the Theosophy Society, through whom he met Charles Leadbetter. The pair claimed to have received knowledge of ancient Atlantis via ‘astral clairvoyance’. He subsequently wrote the books ‘The Story of Atlantis’ (1896) and ‘The Lost Lemuria’ (1904), in which he described the supposed development of early races of 15-foot tall Lemurians into modern humans. He matriculated arms in 1904. In 1893 he married Maude Louisa, daughter of Robert Boyle Travers of Farsid, County Cork. His only child was Walter Travers, M.P. for Accrington.
1968, when it also changed its name to the familiar one. There was further building of halls of residence etc. in 1978–82 and in 1989 it became the Faculty of Textiles of Heriot-Watt University, with a full merger of the institutions in 1998. ‘The Rise of the Scotch Tweed Technique’ (1911) by Tom Oliver describes its early history.

the Scottish Tweed an Woollen Company (thu-sk'o-'eesh-tweed-an-woo-lin-kum-pi'-nee) n. tweed manufacturers, run by Fuhrmann and Kramer, which purchased part of Wilton Mills in 1913, but did not last for very many years.

the Scottish Veterans’ Gairden City Association (thu-sk'o-'eesh-ve'-rinz-gar-din-si’-ee-aw-so-see-a-shin) n. organisation set up in 1915 to provide low cost accommodation for veterans. They built housing on Douglas Road East, with the foundation stone laid by the Duke of Buccleuch in October 1922. It was used particularly as a home for blinded veterans.

Scott-Jones (sko'-jonz) n. Ann (1941– ) actress, daughter of a Hawick vet. She grew up in Hawick and kept a house there for many years. She married mime artist Desmond Jones and changed her name from Scott to Scott-Jones. She has appeared many times on stage, radio and television, as well as in movies such as ‘Local Hero’ (1983), ‘Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan’ (1984), ‘Restless Natives’ (1985) and ‘God Help the Girl’ (2014).

Scott-Kerr (sko'-ker) n. Alexander of Chatto and Sunlaws (d.1790) eldest son of William, whom he succeeded in 1782. He was a Lieutenant in the 62nd Regiment of Foot. He died unmarried in Philadelphia and his brother Robert succeeded. Robert of Chatto and Sunlaws (d.1831) son of William. He succeeded on the death of his brother Alexander in 1790. In 1806 he married Elizabeth Bell, daughter of David Yffie of Drumgeith. He had an only son, William, as well as daughters Anne, Elizabeth Graeme, Margaret, Rebecca Agnes and Madeline. Robert of Chatto and Sunlaws (b.1859) eldest son of William and Frances Louisa Fennessy. He served as Lieutenant in the Scottish Borders Militia, later was a Major in the Grenadier Guards and eventually became Brigadier-General during WWI. He was a Magistrate for Roxburghshire and became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1894. He married Margaret, daughter of W. Walters. William (1731–82) eldest son of Dr. Alexander Scott of Thirlestane, who was descended from the Scotts of Harden. His mother was Barbara, daughter of Henry Kerr of Frogden. He became a merchant in Edinburgh. In 1759 he was entailed in the lands of Chatto and Sunlaws by his distant relative Christian Kerr. He thereafter changed his surname to inherit. He sold Thirlestane (or ‘Thirlestain’, near Yetholm) before he died. In 1762 he married Elizabeth Graeme of Balgowan, Perth. Their children included: Elizabeth (1763–1845) who married Dr. James Chichester Maclaurin; Barbara Christian (1766–1845); Janet (or Jesse) Murray, who married Sir Peter Thriepland; Alexander, who succeeded to the estates; Robert, who succeeded his brother; Charlotte, who lived with her sister Barbara in Edinburgh; Stuart (d.1797); and Rebecca Agnes, ‘Nancy Rebecca’ (d.1796). William of Chatto and Sunlaws (1807–90), J.P., only son of Robert. He served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. He was listed as owner of lands in Heiton in the Land Tax Rolls of 1811. In 1837 he married Hannah Charlotte, only child and heiress of Henry Scott of Horsleyhill and Belford, who was widow of Sir John Douglas of Springwood Park. They had one child, Elizabeth Mary Charlotte, who married Sir James H. Ramsay of Banff. In 1855 he secondly married Frances Louisa, daughter of Robert Fenessy, from London; she died in 1884. Their children were: Robert, who succeeded; William Murray Thriepland, who succeeded to Fingask and Toftingall; Francis Louis (b.1868), who was in the Cameron Highlanders; Francis Edith; Jessie Louisa, who married James Hunter of Anton’s Hill; Christian Alice, married J.W. Fraser-Tytler, W.S. of Woodhouselee; Susan, married D. Robertson; Hyacinthe, married Lord Howard of Glossop; and Mary Elizabeth, married Henry J. Stevenson.

Scott-Moncrieff (sko'-mon-kreef) n. Robert (1793–1869) Chamberlain to the Duke of Buccleuch from 1828 until his death. He mainly dealt with the Dalkeith estate and succeeded Mr. Tait. He was at the 1839 banquet held at Branxholme to honour the Duke of Buccleuch. He married Susanah Pringle (also written ‘Scott Moncrieff’).

Scott-Nisbet (sko'-niz-bi’) n. John of Craigtentinnie (1729–64) born at Arum, 3rd son of Sir John Scott of Ancrum and Christian Nisbet of Dirleton. He succeeded to the estate of Craigtentinnie in right of his mother, taking the additional surname of Nisbet. He married Margaret Lewis, whose father was Collector of His Majesty’s Customs at Leith. Their son John was Laird of Craigtentinnie and later succeeded as 5th Baronet of Ancrum, dropping the additional Nisbet in his surname.
Scott-Noble (sko-'nō-bul) n. James Robert (1915–91) son of Robert, he became one of Hawick's most illustrious soldiers, being in the K.O.S.B. during WWII. He was awarded the Military Cross in 1940 for action at Dunkirk and became Lieutenant-Colonel in 1942. After the war he returned to the family business, Noble's, becoming managing director. He later became a farmer at Borthwickbrae Burnfoot. He became a J.P. in 1961 and Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Roxburghshire in 1962. He married Diana Dickson, who died in 2006, aged 92. They had children Sar- nia, Vanessa and Anthony. Robert (19th/20th C.) manufacturer of Robert Noble & Co. In the early part of the 20th century he lived at ‘The Elms’, purchasing it in about 1900. The family also owned 4 farms in the Borthwick valley. He served as a Lay Elector and Church Warden of St. Cuthbert’s Kirk.

Scott-Plummer (sko-'plu-mur) n. Charles (1821–80) son of Charles Balfour of Woll and Eliza Kerr. He was educated at Edinburgh Academy and Oxford University. He succeeded to Woll in 1838 and in 1839 succeeded to the estates of Middlested and Sunderland Hall, through marriage of the Scotts of Woll into the Balfour family (his great-grandmother). He thereby relinquished the estate of Woll to his uncle, Lieut.-Col. John Scott. He also took the addition of ‘Plummer’ to his surname. He served as a Commissioner of Supply and Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire. In 1857 he married Sophia, 3rd daughter of Joseph Goff, from Hampshire. His children included: Maj. Charles Henry, who succeeded to Sunderland Hall and married Muriel Grace Johnstone-Douglas; Lieut.-Col. Joseph Walter, who was a Selkirkshire J.P., served with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and married Dorothy Elizabeth Pocklington Stenhouse of Nethershall; Jane Eliza, who married Robert Lang; and Eliza Sophia, who married Col. Sir Philip Trotter.

the Scotts (thu-sko’s) n. important family in the Hawick area since at least the 13th century. They gained extensive lands around Branxholme about 1440, and became more powerful as the Scotts of Buccleuch, being involved in rieving, rivalries and politics since then. Uchtred ‘Filius Scot’ seems likely to have been an ancestor, whose family are said to have come from Gal- loway. There are some claims that Scotstoun in Peeblesshire may have been an early family possession. But in any case, the original local home of the family was at ‘Rankilburn’ (essentially synonymous with Buccleuch and Bel- lenden) near the head of the Ale Water, later moving to Brauxholme, and then Dalkeith and Bowhill. A letter of remission of 1526 lists no fewer than 60 men of this surname. The 16th century was a time of great power struggles, with feuds fought with both the Kerrs and the Elliots, as well as alliances with less powerful families, such as the Chisholmes, Dalgleishes, Gledstains and Turnbuls. There were separate Scotts in Evesdale and Eskdale until incorpored into the local clan by Sir Walter in 1596 (although it is also stated that they descended from the Thirlestane branch). Upper Teviotdale, the Borthwick and Ale valleys were the strongholds of the family for centuries. The Dukedom of Buccleuch became one of the richest in Scotland and the main Scott seat is now at Bowhill. Several minor branches of the Buccleuch family have been important within Hawick, including Scotts of Goldielands and Al- lanhaugh. The Scotts of Harden have an ancient history, and are now represented by the Lords Polwarth. The Scotts of Horsleyhill were prominent Hawick townsmen for centuries, as well as Scotts of Alton, and other local branches include the Scotts of Crumhaugh, of Whitehaugh, of Goldielands, of Burnfoot, of Hassendean, of Synton, of Todrig, of Whitslade, of Woll, etc. Around the 16th and 17th centuries there were property-owning Scotts, called ‘o the Mote’, ‘o the Toor’, etc., who were probably branches from younger sons of local Lairds. Around the 18th century there were also tradesman-class families within and around Hawick, e.g. the Mill Port Scotts, the West Port Scotts (probably related to the Crumhaugh branch), the East Port Scotts, the Scotts at the Cross, the Scotts of the Wyndheid, the Ormiston Scotts, the Scotts of Hume- melknowe Mill, etc. The family motto is ‘Amo’ (I love), the arms of the Scotts of Buccleuch are a 6-pomited star and two crescent moons on a blue diagonal band (also described as ‘or, on a bend azure a mullet between two crescents of the field’) and the crest is ‘a stag reippant, proper’. A huge amount of family history is contained in the records of the Scotts of Buccleuch, which are preserved in the National Archives of Scotland, much of which was transcribed by William Fraser in 1878 – ‘He was gloved and mailed, he was booted and spurred, For a Scott must ride at the lightest word’ [WHO].

Scott’s (skots) n. gunsmith’s shop at the Sandbed in the latter part of the 19th century.
Scott’s

Scott’s (skots) n. popular name for 2 separate carrier’s firms in Hawick in the early 19th century, before the coming of the railway. One operated between Hawick and Glasgow and the other to Selkirk, Gala and other local towns.

Scott’s Level (skots-le-vul) n. former popular name for a flat strip of land on the Burnhead estate, which was used for training by athletes in the latter part of the 19th and earlier part of the 20th centuries. The name derives from the Scott family that farmed at Burnhead for centuries.

Scott Street (sko’-stree’) n. street in Newcastleton off the west side of South Hermitage Street.

Scott’s View (skots-vew) n. apparently Sir Walter Scott’s favourite view over the Tweed valley from Bemersyde Hill, a few miles north-east of St. Boswells, and now a mecca for tourists.

Scott the painter’s (sko’-thu-pain’-urz) n. former painting and decorating business at 26 High Street. It was started by Francis Napier Scott in the latter part of the 19th century, being continued by his son Francis William Scott as ‘Scott & Son, Painters’, which was continued by his eldest son Francis Napier Scott in 1946 and wound up in the 1950s. At one point it was the largest such company in the Borders.

SCOTVEC (skot-vec) n. Scottish Vocational and Educational Council, the awarding body for vocational courses until 1997 when the Scottish Qualification Authority was formed.

Scouler (sko-lur) n. Rev. Michael born in Newton Mearns, he went to Strathclyde University for a degree in Engineering and Economics and then trained to become a minister at Edinburgh University. He became a military chaplain, serving in Belize and the first Gulf War. He was also involved in helping the community cope with the Lockerbie disaster of 1988. He was a rugby referee and is a self-confessed St. Mirren fan. He played a leading role in ‘1514 The Musical’. In 2015 he served as Common Riding Chief Guest.

Scour (skoor) v., arch. to rush about, search hither and thither – ‘... terriers an’ collies, o’ a’ shapes an’ sizes, scourin’ roun the hoose ends for the Whey Brae ... ’ [BCMI881].

the Scouts (thu-skowtz) n. the Boy Scouts organisation, founded by Lt. Gen. Baden-Powell in 1907 and popularised by the book ‘Scouting for Boys’ in 1908. The first Hawick troop was started following the formation of a committee in 1909, and Baden-Powell visited the town in 1910. That organising committee consisted of Rev. W. Farquharson, Rev. A. Ross, Rev. W. Ainslie, Councillor (later Provost) James Renwick and Captain Fyfe-Jamieson. The Scout Pipe Band was formed in 1937 (although a band is recorded as early as 1917). They either rented or were given space in a variety of locations, including the Bucleuch Memorial, Waverley Mills and Wilson & Glenny’s. In 1964 they took over a small garment manufacturing building (formerly Marcus and then Willglen) at 22 Commercial Road and this became their permanent home in 1965. However, in the late 1990s they moved to Union Street and the old building was demolished.

Scowder (skow-dur) v., arch. to burn, scorch, singe through dry heat, tan, sunburn – ‘Birsselt an scowder, leike a bubbly-jock duine weel in ov an oven’ [ECS], ‘The sun’s scowerin’ sair, sair On the laigh raws’ [WL], n. a scorch, burn.

Scowderdowp (skow-dur-dowp) n., poet. a joking name for a blacksmith – ‘The dirdums o’ the wheezlebugs Chunter the lee-lang day And for a smarroch o’ scowderdowps My greasly hert is wae’ [DH] (noted by J. Jamieson).

Scowf (skowf) n., arch. a base pearson, a blusterer – ‘He’s naething but a scowf, Teviotd.’ [JoJ], v. to steal, filch, sponge.

Scraesburgh (skræz bu-ru) n. hamlet between Jedburgh and Oxnam, with the remains of an ancient settlement. It was ‘Sraeaburgh’ in about 1147, when part of the original charter for Jedburgh Abbey. At various times it was either synonymous with Hunthill or may have been essentially the same as what would later be called Kerseugh or Ferniehirst. The ‘baronie de Scraeburg’ is recorded in 1456. Once a prominent settlement, a document of 1544 records that a company of Englishmen ventred vpoun the gratest towne in all Tieudale called Scraisbrugh a towne of the Lord Hunthyll’s where they took rich spils, a great amount of livestock and 38 prisoners. Land there was owned by the Rutherfords in the 17th century and it was purchased by William...
scrag

Elliott of Wells in the early years of the 18th century. In about 1788 John Rutherford of Hunthill sold part of the lands of Wester Scraesburgh to William Riddell. The term ‘Scraesburgh-peat’ was used to refer to peat brought for the moss there, and also used to refer to badly-made shoes (also written ‘Scraesburgh’ and variants; the origin is probably ‘Scrae’s fort’) from the Old English name ‘Scraw’ plus ‘burh’; the name first occurs in the mid-12th century as ‘Scraesburgh’).

scrag (skrawg) n., arch. a crab apple (also ‘scrag-aipple’; cf. scrog).

scraig o day (skrāch-ō-dā) n., arch. daybreak, literally the ‘scream of day’ (also written ‘skraig o day’; cf. scrauch, skrich and skreek).

scrammle (skrām-mul) v. to scramble – ‘goan scrammle some eggs for iz, wull ee?’ ‘Life is a scrammle to find oor level, Which some never seem to do . . .’ [FL], ‘Oh, how happy were the days When oo scrammld’ roound the braes’ [RMc], ‘. . .twae wi nae official Lass, But wi a routh o lasses welcome to bob and scrammle Alang wi the lave . . .’ [DA] (also written ‘scramble’ etc.).

scran (skrawn) n., poet. power, means of carrying out a task – ‘I’d blow them south, as far as Fife, lave lasses welcome to bob and scrammle Alang wi the days When oo scrammld roond the braes’ [RMc], ‘aipple’; cf. skreek, scraugh o day, the skirl o’ tormentit gut . . .’ [DH] (also written ‘skream’ etc.).

Scathy Holes (skrā-, skre-thee-hōlz) n. hill to the west of Carter Fell, reaching a height of 521 m – ‘The toddle he came frae the Scrathy holes, And courit fou cunninglye’ [JTe].

scratchie (skraw-chē) n., arch. a disease in sheep, characterised by the animals rubbing themselves into sores (called ‘scrapie’ elsewhere; cf. rubbers).

scrauch (skrawch) v., arch. to scream, shout – ‘The bairns was lauchin’ an’ scrauchin’ amang the sauchs doon i’ the hauch’ [JAHM], ‘. . .skreiew an skrauchin leike a skartin skeelie on a skuil sklate’ [ECS], ‘. . .the daans an the dunts an the skrauchean an the skreiveen’ [ECS], ‘He’ll scrauch: Tann! Help! What the deil are ye dae’in? Quick! Gie’s a hand to wun-oot! . . .But he’ll get nane’ [DH], n. a scream, shriek – ‘Wi’ horrid yells, unearthly scrauchis, Commixt with most infernal laughs’ [RDW], ‘A name wi’ a scrauch o’ rosit in’t, the skirl o’ tormentit gut . . .’ [DH] (also ‘skrauch’ and ‘scrauch’; cf. scraig o day, skrich and skreek, as well as the related skrakle).

scray (skrā) n. a compartment in a shelving unit of a knitwear factory, where finished garments or cones of yarn are stored in batches.

screed (skreid) n., arch. a long thin strip of anything, portion, list, long speech or piece of writing – ‘Afore ye’re numbered wi’ the deid, About the auld folks gie’s a screed’ [WNR].

screek (skreek) n., arch. an empty-headed, egotistical person – ‘The shallow idea’d, self-conceited screek’ [JoHa].

screenge (skreanj) v., arch. to scrub, flog, purge – ‘. . .an’ screenge awa our sins for thy nane’s sak’ [HSR].

screewe (skreev) n., arch. a scrape, graze, scratch – ‘. . .A spelin’ callant riskin’ screewe and cloure Rypit the reid cheeked aipples whaur they hung’ [WL], a grating sound – ‘A hard a scrive on the wire fence’ [GW], v., arch. to graze, scrape, abrade – ‘A’v skreewed ma knuckles climmnin that deike’ [ECS], to scrub a table, to work vigorously, to screech like a violin, to make a scraping noise, screech – ‘A chairkin road-injin, skreevin an skrauchin leike a skartin skeelie on a skull sklate’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘skreeve’ and ‘screive’).

screever (skree-vur) n., arch. an active worker (also written ‘screiver’).

screevin (skree-vin) adj., arch. active, vigorous – ‘A screevin’ hizzie’ [GW], ‘Note that the ppl. adj. screevin is applied to an active woman who gets through her work expeditiously’ [ECS] (also ‘screevin’).

scribble (skri-bul) v., arch. to card or tease wool.

scribbler (skrib-lur) n., arch. a machine for course carding of wool, a person who cards wool. By 1816 there were 42 ‘scribbling’ machines in Hawick.

srieve (skreev) v., arch. to write – ‘Then it was to the scribevin’ trade He turned his native skill’ [WL], n., arch. a letter, piece of writing – ‘Send iz a scribevin’ [GW].

srieve (skreev) v., arch. to abrade the skin – ‘A’v screived ma knuckles again the dyke’ [GW], to scrub a table etc., to play (a violin etc.) gratingly, to work vigorously, ‘There’s some that speel up rocky faces, Scribevin their hides in nameless places’ [DH], n., arch. an abrasion, abrading action on the skin, a grating sound – ‘A hard scribevin on the wire fence’ [GW].

srierver (skree-vur) n., arch. a vigorous worker.

srieven (skree-vin) adj., arch. vigorous, active – ‘A screevin’ hizzie’ [GW].

Scrimgeour (skrim-jur) n. David of Cartmore (d.1700), W.S., eldest son of James of Cartmore. He acted as Receiver General for James and Anna, Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch in the period 1676–98. He was recorded as a commissioner to assess the rentals of the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1690, 1692, 1694 and 1698. He apparently failed as a money-lender and left the estates in debt when he died. He married Helen Aytoun of Inchdairney and secondly Jean Moncrieff (who later married John Murray of Bowhill). He was succeeded by his cousin Henry of Bowhill. John ‘Scrim’ (1939–2014) born in Elgin, he moved to Hawick in 1950 when his father Bill became Headmaster at Trinity School. He played rugby for the High School as a wing forward. He studied medicine at Edinburgh University and then specialised in obstetrics and gynaecology. He was Senior Registrar at the Western General Hospital in 1969, then at the Simpson Memorial Maternity Pavilion 1970–73. From 1973 he was a consultant at the Western General and Medical Director there from 1993. He became known as an expert on the prevention of feotal malformations. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Colleges of Obstetricians, Surgeons and Physicians.

William ‘Bill’ (20th C.) Headmaster at Trinity School from 1950.

scrimp (skrimp) n., arch. insufficiency, meagreness, lack – ‘It was his custom to put treacle into the brandy . . . the consumers thus got scrimp measure’ [JW], ‘. . . caald flesh, pickit in-gans, an nae skrimp o laif’ [ECS], v., arch. to stint, restrict in supplies – ‘That I maun even be se scrimp’t o’ time, As no to hae an hour to spare on scrawlin’’ [JoHa].

scrimpt (skrintent) pp., adj., arch. scanty, deficient
– ‘A mad bard, wha, scrimpt hauf-witit, Both vagaries chace’ [JoHa].

scrimpit (skriment-piec, -pici) adj., pp. niggardly, scrimped – ‘Fine songs were expected, but O they were scrimpit! A’ time that was spent was in praise o’ the Duke’ [JH]. ‘The cuckoo wi’ his scrimpet sang, Sae mellow and repeated lang
. . . ’ [DA], ‘They who of work do not their share, Maun e’en put up wi’ scrimpit fare’ [JCG], ‘He isna scrimpit wi’ his gloom, But shares ye wi’ sic treasure . . . ’ [WP].

scrog (skrog) n. a crab-apple tree or its fruit – ‘oo went polin, but aa oo got were scrogs’, ‘Those who gathered hines, blueberries and scroggs with us’ [HEX1965], ‘. . . There’s salmon in abundance there, An’ nite an’ scroggs an’ luscious bear
. . . ’ [WP], n., arch., poet. a stunted tree or bush, particularly the hawthorn – ‘Now shall thine ain hand wale the tree, For all thy mirth and meikle pride; And May shall chuse, if my love she refuse, A scrog bush thee beside’’ [JL], ‘. . . Until I turn’d at Priesthaugh Scrogg’ [SWS] (also spelled ‘scroog’ and the variant cf. scrag; from Middle English ‘shrog’ and possibly of Scandinavian origin).

scrog-aiple (skrog-ä-pul) n. the wild or crab apple.

scroggy (skro-gy) adj., arch. scrubby, scraggly,
stunted – ‘Who rear’d thee on the shelving rocks,
When scroggy bushes screen’d the fox . . . ’ [WiS].

scrog-jeelie (skrog-je-lee) n., arch. jelly made
from crab apples.

Scrope (skróp) n. Sir Henry 9th Lord Scrope of Bolton (c.1534–92), son of John. He was Captain of Carlisle Castle and served as Warden of the English West Marches 1562–92. He took charge of Mary Queen of Scots in 1568 and she was held in his castle at Bolton for several months.
In 1570 He helped Sussex blow up Branxholme Castle in retaliation for Buccluech’s support of Mary. In 1584 he and Sir John Forster led a raiding force of 7,000 men that invaded Liddes-dale, taking the tower at Larriston and capturing 18 prisoners. He married Mary (or Alianore), daughter of Edward, 1st Lord North and was suc-
cceeded by his son Thomas. John 8th Lord Scrope (d.1549) 3rd son of Henry the 7th Lord and Margaret Dacre of Gillesland. He married Catherine, daughter of Henry de Clifford, 1sr Earl of Cumberland. He became Warden of the English Western March, like his father-in-law and his son and grandson. Sir Thomas 10th Lord Scrope of Bolton (c.1560–1609) Warden of the English
West Marches about 1595–1603, and son of Sir
Henry. He married Philadelphia Carey, daughter of Edward, 1st Lord North and was succceeded by his son Thomas.

scruiff (1939–2014) born in Elgin, he moved to Hawick in 1950 when his father Bill became Headmaster at Trinity School. He played rugby for the High School as a wing forward. He studied medicine at Edinburgh University and then specialised in obstetrics and gynaecology. He was Senior Registrar at the Western General Hospital in 1969, then at the Simpson Memorial Maternity Pavilion 1970–73. From 1973 he was a consultant at the Western General and Medical Director there from 1993. He became known as an expert on the prevention of feotal malformations. He was elected a Fellow of the Royal Colleges of Obstetricians, Surgeons and Physicians. William ‘Bill’ (20th C.) Headmaster at Trinity School from 1950.

William ‘Bill’ (20th C.) Headmaster at Trinity School from 1950.

scrimp (skrimp) n., arch. insufficiency, mea-
greness, lack – ‘It was his custom to put treacle into the brandy . . . the consumers thus got scrimp measure’ [JW], ‘. . . caald flesh, pickit in-gans, an nae skrimp o laif’ [ECS], v., arch. to stint, restrict in supplies – ‘That I maun even be se scrimp’t o’ time, As no to hae an hour to spare
on scrawlin’’ [JoHa].

scrimpt (skrismet) pp., adj., arch. scanty, deficient
– ‘A mad bard, wha, scrimpt hauf-witit, Both vagaries chace’ [JoHa].

scrimpit (skriment-piec, -pici) adj., pp. niggardly,
scrimped – ‘Fine songs were expected, but O
they were scrimpit! A’ time that was spent was in praise o’ the Duke’ [JH]. ‘The cuckoo wi’ his scrimpet sang, Sae mellow and repeated lang
. . . ’ [DA], ‘They who of work do not their share, Maun e’en put up wi’ scrimpit fare’ [JCG], ‘He
isna scrimpit wi’ his gloom, But shares ye wi’ sic treasure . . . ’ [WP].

scrog (skrog) n. a crab-apple tree or its fruit – ‘oo went polin, but aa oo got were scrogs’, ‘Those who gathered hines, blueberries and scroggs with us’ [HEX1965], ‘. . . There’s salmon in abundance
there, An’ nite an’ scroggs an’ luscious bear
. . . ’ [WP], n., arch., poet. a stunted tree or bush, particularly the hawthorn – ‘Now shall thine
ain hand wale the tree, For all thy mirth and meikle pride; And May shall chuse, if my love she refuse, A scrog bush thee beside’’ [JL], ‘. . . Until I turn’d at Priesthaugh Scrogg’ [SWS] (also spelled ‘scroog’ and the variant cf. scrag; from Middle English ‘shrog’ and possibly of Scandinavian origin).

scrog-aiple (skrog-ä-pul) n. the wild or crab
apple.

scroggy (skro-gy) adj., arch. scrubby, scraggly,
stunted – ‘Who rear’d thee on the shelving rocks,
When scroggy bushes screen’d the fox . . . ’ [WiS].

scrog-jeelie (skrog-je-lee) n., arch. jelly made
from crab apples.

Scrope (skróp) n. Sir Henry 9th Lord Scrope of Bolton (c.1534–92), son of John. He was Captain of Carlisle Castle and served as Warden of the English West Marches 1562–92. He took charge of Mary Queen of Scots in 1568 and she was held in his castle at Bolton for several months.
In 1570 He helped Sussex blow up Branxholme
Castle in retaliation for Buccluech’s support of Mary. In 1584 he and Sir John Forster led a raiding force of 7,000 men that invaded Liddes-dale, taking the tower at Larriston and capturing 18 prisoners. He married Mary (or Alianore), daughter of Edward, 1st Lord North and was suc-
cceeded by his son Thomas. John 8th Lord Scrope (d.1549) 3rd son of Henry the 7th Lord and Margaret Dacre of Gillesland. He married Catherin, daughter of Henry de Clifford, 1sr Earl of Cumberland. He became Warden of the English Western March, like his father-in-law and his son and grandson. Sir Thomas 10th Lord Scrope of Bolton (c.1560–1609) Warden of the English
West Marches about 1595–1603, and son of Sir
Henry. He married Philadelphia Carey, daughter of Edward, 1st Lord North and was suc-
cceeded by his son Thomas.
from the scrum to the backs – ‘Rob aye played scrum-half as a boy, Wi’ a service fast and shair . . ’ [DH].

scrum (skrum-pie) adj., arch. scrumpy, meagre.

scrunsh (skrunsh) v., arch. to scrunch, crunch – ‘. . . a stane-nappin injin gaed-on leike a tuin mill, − Scrunchin − chaempin − haanshin − nickerin − dirlin − snokerin − an reesellin’ [ECS] (also ‘scrunch’).

scrupt (skrun’) n., arch. something withered or shrivelled, a wrinkled person – ‘Now withert scrunts, and rosy maids, May lie their lane, nor think o’ lads’ [JoHa], a mean person.

scruptit (skrun’-ee) adj., arch. stunted, shrivelled – ‘The wund raves through the scruntit of blood’ [JL], ‘. . . scud The plain, and drinks the tremulous scream’. The plain, and drinks the tremulous scream whip { ‘Whoops the shrill view-halloo, to see her throwe a’ ’ [WL], to slap or drub someone.

scuddie books under his bed’, scuddie, adj., arch. naked { ‘caa that a frock? ee might is weel gaun scudder (skudur) v., arch. to skudder, skuddered { ‘Look o’d wad heh gien a body the scunners’ [ECS].

scuddarah (skud-a-mor) n. William Edward (1831–83) born at Wye, Kent, he was son of Dr. Edward. He graduated from Cambridge University, served as assistant master at Oakenham School and then was for a short time tutor to the Earl of Minto’s family at Minto. He became a priest in 1839 at Ditchingham in Norfolk. He became well known as a devotional writer, particularly for ‘Steps to the Altar’ (1846) and ‘Words to Take with Us’ (1859). He married Albina King and they had 2 sons and a daughter.

scudder (skudur) v., arch. to scatter – ‘. . . The shuds o’ white that scudder owre my lap!’ [WL].

scuddie (skued-dee) adj. naked – ‘hei hid some scuddie books under his bed’, n. the state of being naked – ‘ca a that a frock? ee might is weel gaun oot in the scuddie’ (also spelled ‘scuddy’).

scuddy see scuddie

scuff (skuf) n., arch. a glancing stroke, quick wipe – ‘. . . a lick o bleckneen on ma buits, an a skuff doon wui a claes-brush’ [ECS], ‘Gie’d a scuff owre’ [GW], a blacksmith’s tool for scraping out ashes, v., arch. to touch lightly, graze (also spelled ‘skuff’).

scuffin (sku-fin) n., arch. the action of glancing.

scug see skug

scuff (skif) n., arch. a scoop, used by grocers etc. (also scoof).

scuittie-fi (skü-ee-fi) n., arch. the fill of a drinking cup, a dram, a ‘skinful’ adj., pp. to have had a ‘skinful’, be drunken – ‘It is said of a befuddled man that Hei’s gotten a bit skuittie-fi’ [ECS] (also written ‘skuittie-fi’).

sculddery (skul-du-de-ree) n., arch. low or obscene talk.

scull (skul) n., arch. a shallow basket used for carrying seed, peats, turnips, etc.

scum (skum) n., arch. a darkening gloom over the sky.

scuncheon (skun-chin) n., arch. a workman’s snack, consisting of a square of bread and cheese – ‘Scuncheon, A square dole or piece of bread, cheese, &c. Teviot. It is frequently thus designed among the peasantry, perhaps from its resemblance to the corner-stone of a building, which has this name’ [JoJ].

scunner (sku-nur) n. digest, distaste, irritation – ‘this rain’s a right scunner, isn’t eet’, a disgusting or irritating person – ‘deh be sic a scunner, keep the details ti yersel’, ‘. . . thou lest made me ane scunner untill thame . . . ’ [Hast], ‘. . . A perfect skunner an’ a pain Is shauchlin’ Ingun Johnnie’ [WP], ‘. . . but his wife says he’s turned a perfect scunner since the Test matches stertit’ [DH], v. to disgust, irritate, sicken, nauseate – ‘They’re that efficient, it fair scunners a body’ [DH], ‘When I’m scunnered by a the strangesh O’ the thrang, croudit streets in the town . . . ’ [WL], ‘. . . hei played rugby till Jim Telfer scunnered um’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘skunner’).

scunnered (sku-nurd) adj., pp. disgusted, nauseated, irritated, put off – ‘. . . Then scunnered waie the hale affair, back tae Hawick an’ flappin’ ’ [MB] (also scunnered).

the scunners (thu-sku-nurz) n., pl., arch. a feeling of disgust, nausea – ‘The clarity, creeshy look o’d wad heh gien a body the scunners’ [ECS].

scunnersome (sku-nur-sum) adj., poet. causing disgust, nauseating – ‘. . . Gaed hauntin’ Herod, and truith to tell, He cam by a scunnersome end himsel’ ’ [WL].

scunnert (sku-nur) adj., pp. disgusted, sickened, fed up, irritated – ‘A’m fair scunnert’, ‘. . . whan A’m scunnert ti deed wui speakin feine’ [ECS] (see also scunnered).

scurl (sku-rul) n., arch. a scab that forms over a wound – ‘Beelin’ fingers and skurils’ [HAST1958], a sore caused through neglect, a mangy disease that attacks sheep, v., arch. to form a scab – scurryvaig

‘The sair’s scurlin’’ [GW], ‘Aa hae a sair skaith That wunna skurl at a’’ [DH], ‘…skurled wi’ odd scales o’ troot Frae Merrylaw to Meggat …’ [DH] (also written ‘skurl’).

scurryvaig (sku-ree-väg) n., arch., poet. a vagabond, vagrant, an idle and unkempt person – ‘The jougals yowlt at the jooral-i-joo Whenever hei stert’ tae play; A shilpit scurryvaig hei was, And shuttle-gobbit tae’ [DH].

sd (sed, sid) adj. abbreviation of ‘said’, common in pre-19th century documents – ‘…and yt. he was about to see the sd. Walter Rowcastell and his fayr. fully discharged by the sd. John Hardie …’ [BR1693] ‘The sd day Mr Olifer did intimate yt these go intended to go out of ye parish att ye ensuing termere may come and receive their respective testimonials’ [PR1711], ‘The sd day the minister did intimate yt God willing he would begin to examine those in ye toun upon the Tuesday and Friday’ [PR1713] (sometimes with a period, ‘sd.’; see also said).

Sea Croft see Sei Croft

Seal of Cause (see-ló-kawz) n. a charter of privileges granted to a trades guild by a Town Council, being the legal document incorporating the trade – ‘The quarter-masters of the weaver trade complain upon two of their craft, that, contrary to the seal of cause granted by the bailles and council to their trade …’ [JW1676].

seam (seem) n., arch. a commission, piece of work, occupation, purpose – ‘The seams an ploys o grit-folk an Royalties’ [ECS], ‘…ther seam was ti ginn the bits o moppies skiltin aboot’ [ECS], a tryst, lovers’ meeting.

Seaman (see-min) n. Rev. William (d.1921) minister of the Baptist Church 1880–96. He was the first pastor appointed with the support of the Home Mission, and originally preached in the Temperance Hall. In 1883 he oversaw the opening of the new church building between Bourtree Place and North Bridge Street. In 1896 he accepted a position as Agent for the Home Mission, although he remained in Hawick for many years, continuing an association with the Baptist Kirk.

A memorial tablet was unveiled in 1922.

seamer (see-mur) n. a person who puts together knitted sections of a garment in a knitwear factory, specifically someone who seams the ‘greasy’ garments’ body sides and sleeves (after linking and before scouring) – ‘The seamers, binders and menders And aw the others that work in the mill Must think oo’er awfæe unlucky No tae be gettin their thrill’ [AY].

seamin (see-min) n. the sewing up of hosiery (also ‘seamene’; noted by E.C. Smith).

search (serch) v., arch. to inspect, examine, particularly to inspect goods for quality – ‘Two persons are appointed to search the meal-market weekly, and what corns they find insufficient shall be confiscate’ [BR1656].

season (see-zin) n., arch. a period, time generally – ‘…are sentenced to stand at the crosse for a season, and be banished the town’ [JW1700], ‘…in ye season of ye night’ [PR1721] (cf. saison).

Seath (seeth) n. Robert (19th C.) Inspector of Poor in Hawick Parish in the 1860s and 1870s, probably taking over from William Norman Kennedy.

Seaton Cottage (see’-in-ko’-eej) n. house at the top end of Kirkside in Denholm, formerly the police station.

secreet (see-ke-re’) n. a secret – ‘Thou sallt hyde thame in the secreet o’ thy preesine …’ [HSR], ‘…cleenste thou me frae secreet fauts’ [HSR] (note the extra vowel sound in the middle compared with standard English; also saicret).

the Secession ( thu-se-se-shin) n. event in the Church of Scotland in which a group of dissenting ministers left to form their own independent church. It was caused by 2 acts of the General Assembly in 1732, principally regarding the powers of the congregation to appoint ministers. The dissent was led by Ebenezer and Ralph Erskine, who were from Berwickshire, and related to Harry Erskine, minister at Roberton. The Seceders called themselves the Associate Synod, and gathered strength until they split over whether members of their church could conscientiously take the Burgess Oath, which talked of supporting the ‘true religion at present professed within the realm’. This led to the formation of the Burgher and Anti-Burgher kirkis. In about 1738 it was stated that in Hawick Parish the Seceders did not register their baptisms, this amounting to about 3 per year. The customs within the secession movement were generally stricter than in the established church, e.g. it is stated that at local weddings in the 18th century the bridal party danced back to back.

seck (sek) n. a sack – ‘black secks er juist bin bags’, ‘Sic lyke, there is comprised ane seck pertaining to Andrew Lyden, to 20s. …’ [BR1644], ‘…I’d burn him in a brunstane seck, For he has murdered Johnnie’ [WP].
seck (sek) v. to sack, fire, n. the sack, dismissal from employment – ‘hei got the seck for aye bein late’.

Secky (see-kee) n. nickname for manufacturer Thomas Laidlaw – ‘...and Chinny cried up: ‘Ay, Sacky’s here; ’ee can work ’eer warning’’ [JHH] (also referred to as ‘Sheckum’).

secretar (sek-rí-tur) n., arch. a secretary.

the Secretary (thu-sek-rí-tu-ree) n. member of the Common Riding Committee, whom, in most cases, has carried the bulk of the responsibility for the organisation of the events and ceremonies. When the Ceremonial Committee was established in 1887 the Chairman was the main position, but from 1891 the Chairman became the Provost, with the Honorary Secretary taking over most of the organisational duties. Typically the position is held by the same tireless individual for many years. J.E.D. Murray was Honorary Secretary until 1897 (although it is unclear how this fits in). Secretaries have included: James Edgar (1887–1891); J.Y. Hunter (1891–1900); James Edgar (1900–08); Tom Ker (1908–23); Thomas G. Winning (1923–25); James Glendinning (1925); Guy Armstrong (for 36 years); William Robertson; Alistair Marshall (1955–65, who left town afterwards); Harold Simpson (1966–1975); George Crawford (for only a few months in 1975); Sandy Stevenson (1976–1988, and again for part of 2001); Frank T. Scott (1988–2001); Bill Thomson (2001–05); Raymond Chlopas (2006–07); Frank W. Scott (2008–16); Ian Fraser (2017– ).

secuir (se-kür) adj., v., arch. secure.

sederunt (sá-de-roon’) n., arch. list of names of those present at a meeting – ‘There was such a succession of late sederunts, that the Commissioner, Lord Belhaven, and the purse-bearer, Mr. Burnett, were both worn out’ [RJR].

seedie (see-dee) adj., arch. full of oat-husks, or other husks of grain – ‘...for having seedie and insufficient meale in the market, being about ane gouping of seed sived out of half ane pecke of his full sacke’ [BR1686].

Seefew (see-few) n. former shepherd’s cottage in the easternmost part of Castleton Parish. It is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map east of Hudhouse and north of Fairloans, and may correspond roughly to the modern Myredykes. It is possible that this corresponds to the lands of ‘Sesfew’ listed among those owned by Sir William Elliott of Stobs in the Barony of Feu-Rule in the late 17th century (there is a place of the same name in Morebattle Parish, the name perhaps jocularly suggesting a desolate location).

Seege see siege

seek (seek) adj. sick, unwell, feverish, disgusted – ‘Ee make is seek, yowv’, ‘A’m fair seek o this, mei’, ‘A’m seek ti daith o’d’, formerly used in the phrase ‘seek an sorry’, ‘... Walter Scott of Brauxholme, knyght, seik in bodie and haille in spirit ...’ [SB1574], ‘Staye me wi’ flaggons, comfort me wi’ apples, for I am sick o’ loofe’ [HSR], ‘Ah’m seek o’d tae Wattly lad, but oo’ve wathered eet often afore ...’ [JEDM], ‘And ma hert was seek for the days that are gane, Mebbe gane for a’ time, as youth driffles by’ [DH], adv. to a degree of sickness, used for emphasis – ‘... whan A’m seek-staaed o the ... preidìfh blusterereen that a body offen hes ti thole’ [ECS], (also written ‘siek’).

seek (seek) v., arch. to ask for, try to procure, to bring, fetch – ‘Where the caller air ud seek roses back ti the chafts o the palliest peenge’ [ECS], ‘Now nih! Ee ir a clever lassie, seekin mei that yirrint!’ [ECS], to attempt to go, ask leave to, indicate a wish to – ‘... there’s nochti ti hinder a body threl seekin away wui um thocht o sic bonnie bits’ [ECS] (see also socht).

seek see sic

seeker (see-kür) n., arch. a beggar.

seek-laith (seek-líth) adj., arch. very loath (also sick-laith).

seek-stawed (seek-stàw’d) adj., arch. over-tired of something, wearied of, sick to death – ‘... whan A’m seek-staaed o the wundy aippene an the putten-on mimpeen ...’ [ECS], ‘A’m seek stawd o speekin feine’ [ECS] (also written ‘seek-staaed’; see also staa).

seelence (see-líns) n., poet. silence – ‘Let the leedin lips be putten til seelence, whilk speik sadlie ...’ [HSR], ‘... my saul had amaitst dwalt in seelence’ [HSR].

seelent (see-lént) adj., poet. silent – ‘Til the en’ that my glorie maye sing prayse untill thee, an’ bena seelent’ [HSR], ‘... let the wicket be shenem, an’ let thame be seelent in the graffe’ [HSR].

Seeley (see-lee) n. Ian William (1942–2013) born in St. Andrews, he started to learn piano at age 11 and was educated at Madras College. He then went to the Royal Scottish Academy of Music in Glasgow and Trinity College of Music in London, before training as a teacher in Dundee. He held teaching positions in Kirkwall and Lockerbie, then arrived in Hawick in 1970 to be Head of Music at the High School. He was music teacher there for 27 years, until his retirement. He was organist at Trinity Kirk 1970–82, and has been heavily involved in the Amateur Operatic Society. He wrote ‘On With the Show’ (2010), for the centenary of that organisation. He was also conductor of the P.S.A. Choir and on the committee of the Saxhorn Band. He was President of Hawick Rotary Club and received a Paul Harris Fellowship in 2003. His support for and involvement in the Common Riding grew with time. From 1987 he became pianist for the 1514 Club, the Mosstroopers' Club, the Callants' Club, the Ex-Cornets and Ex-Acting Fathers Association. From 2002 he became pianist at the Colour Bussing. He was Mosstrooper of the Year in 2008 and was also made an honorary life membership of the Callants’ Club. He is writer of 5 modern Hawick songs: ‘Callant’s Song’; ‘Where Teviot Rins’; ‘The Queen O’ the Auld Scottish Border’; ‘Hawick Reivers’; and ‘Songs of Teviotdale’. He also published ‘Spider’s Wings – A Collection of 50 Poems’, as well as organ and choral church music. He arranged the music for the revival of ‘The Gutterbludes’ in 2000, matching the lyrics to some of Adam Grant’s other music, as well as writing 3 entirely new pieces and an overture. He acted as musical editor for the 2001 edition of ‘The Hawick Songs – A Complete Collection’, providing some accompaniments to new songs and revised accompaniments to a few of the old. He also wrote the definitive guide ‘Songs of Teviotdale: A Companion to the Hawick Songs’ (2013).

seelist (see-list, -li-si’) pp., poet. silenced, stilled – ‘He mak’s the storm ane caunn, sae that the waves ther’ ar seelis’ [HSR].

seem (seem) v., arch. to look becoming in, suit – ‘Div A seem this new bonnet?’ [GW].

seemilar (see-mi-lur) adj., arch. similar – ‘Bit Aw canna help wonderin if Tam yaised teh attend seemilar pairties for men only …’ [BW1961].

seen (seen) pp. seen, but also sometimes used for the first person, i.e. ‘saw’ – ‘A seen ee dae’d’ (past tense and participle of se).

seen (seen) v. to ‘see onself’ is to easily imagine oneself in that situation, or to be aware of having done it in the past – ‘A’ve seen mei waitin mair is hauf an hoor some days’.

seep (seep) v., arch. to ooze, leak – ‘…And aiblins a bit seepin’ smirr Afore the day is throwe’ [WL].

seerup (see-rup) n., arch. syrup.

seeve (seev) v., arch. a sieve – ‘Paid for a meal seave, 0 18 0’ [BR1734]. v. to sieve.

seeven (see-vin) n. seven – ‘The ‘Greens’ hev wun the seevin-a-seides at ther ain spoarts’ [ECS], ‘So if, at the Sports, ye’ve said ‘A’ that I care Is to see the best seeven wun’’ [DH], ‘…there’ a felli oot here says hei’ll swap ee seevin Brazil-Scotland World Cup tickets for yin Friday Hut yin’ [JCo], ‘…As, six or seeven o’ us on either airm, She’d herd us, bletherin’, up the road’ [WL], ‘Seevin year on thrice last disaster, Chased the Loan again but faster …’ [MB] (also spelled ‘seevin’).

the Seeven Ill Years (thu-see-vin-il-yeerz) n., pl. name given to the years 1693–1700 in which there were very poor harvests throughout Scotland, leading to famine and depopulation, also referred to as the ‘Lean Years’.

Seevens (see-vinz) n. 7-a-side rugby, usually a one-day knock-out competition. The first such tournament was at Melrose in 1883, with most Borders towns quickly following suit, including Hawick in 1885. Hawick’s team seemed almost unbeatable in the early years, winning 22 of the first 26 Border contests. The Hawick team of 1912 won all of the local tournaments, the first team to do so. They repeated this in 1966. The competitions are held annually each Spring – ‘The ‘Greens’ hev wun the seevin-a-sides at their ain spoarts’ [ECS], ‘There can be nae sweeter heaven Than a Teri winning seven …’ [RMc].

seeventeen (see-vin-teen) n., adj. seventeen – ‘He throve frae seeventeen-fifty-five And leaved to be echty-yin’ [DH].

seeventeenth (see-vin-teenth) adj., n. seventeenth – ‘The sixteenth finds iz in the rough The seeventeenth doon the brae’ [ILW].

seeventh (see-vin-th) adj., n. seventh – ‘The strokes A’ve taen ti play’ [ILW].

seeventy (see-vin-tee, see-vin-tee) n. seventy – ‘Yon sandstane sodger was unveiled By Lord Roberts, seeventy eer syne’ [DH], ‘Seeventy eer later heis grandson, Billy, heideet the cavalcade roon the mairches …’ [BW1979], ‘…Hawick’s answer ti Florence Nightingale hevin reached the compulsory retirin age o seeventy’ [ILW].

seevin see seeven

seevint (see-vin’) adj., arch. seventh – ‘…I haue subscruited this renattil with my hand, at Edinburgh, the sevint day of September …’ [SB1591].

the sef (thu-set) n. this afternoon – ‘er ee gaun ti come over the night or the sef?’ – ‘…We don’t speak of this afternoon, In Hawick oo say ‘the sef’’ [ILW] (short for this efternin), which is pronounced although it was ‘the sefternin’ (also the selfie).

the selfie (thu-sef) n. this afternoon (longer version of the sef).

seg (seg) n. a cleat for the sole of a shoe – ‘ee’ll skite on ma flair wi they segs on yer buits’.
seg (seg) n., arch. sedge, reed – ‘...till it came to a bush o’ seggs where it sauntit an’ never was mair seen’ [LHTB].

sei (si) v. to see – ‘sei that yin o mine?’; ‘eatin carrots helps ee sei in the derk’, ‘May aye seis um back on a horse’, ‘Spur up, spur up’, called Rannelly Grizz, ‘His mettle we will seye’ [JTe], ‘For he heth foundit it apon the seis, an’ sete it siccer apon the fludes’ [HSR], ‘... where yin canna sei bye yin’s neb’ [ECS], ‘... But where’ll ye sei a bonnier view o’ the Border’ [DH], ‘... ye can never sei a wud for the nibbie’s that’s in’t ...’ [DH], ‘...Sei how they’re guidin’ me!’ [JSB], ‘I sei the Slitrig whirlin’ doon ...’ [JEDM], ‘My heart it lowed, in transport glowed, To sei her charmin’ een’ [WaD], ‘... And sei ablow iz in the haze Auld Hawick, ma Border hame’ [IWL], ‘to give, hand something over to someone–’ ‘Let’s sei the saat!’ [ECS], ‘Sei bye some mair o that savree meat, wull ee?’ [ECS] (sometimes spelled ‘sey’; the past tense is ‘saw’) sei (si) n. the sea – ‘Hawick’s sei fer fre the sei’, ‘... an’ whataceev as passes throwe the pths o’ the seis’ [HSR], ‘Whilk stillist the noyse o’ the seis, the noyse o’ the waves ...’ [HSR], ‘... he’ll beil on his way owre land an’ sei tae take pairt in the annual festival’ [BW1939], ‘Portabella for a week The sei, the boats, the sand’ [AY], ‘The Common Riding flude gang whurlin and whummlin on ... Til its destination in the sei o history’ [DH] (also sometimes used for the first person).

sei (si) n. the sea – ‘Hawick’s sei fer fre the sei’, ‘... an’ whataceev as passes throwe the pths o’ the seis’ [HSR], ‘Whilk stillist the noyse o’ the seis, the noyse o’ the waves ...’ [HSR], ‘... he’ll beil on his way owre land an’ sei tae take pairt in the annual festival’ [BW1939], ‘Portabella for a week The sei, the boats, the sand’ [AY], ‘The Common Riding flude gang whurlin and whummlin on ... Til its destination in the sei o history’ [DH] (also sometimes used for the first person).

Sei Croft (sí-kroäft) n. Sea Croft, an area of marshy, planted land behind Pilnuir, part of the Newbigging farm at one point, and long owned by the Duke of Buccleuch. It lies on part of the boundary of the old Common. It is marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map as a small pond and its position is located on J.P. Alison’s map of the Common in 1777. There was formerly a farmstead cottage there. Robert Fowler was there in 1743. The farmer recorded in 1797 was James Davidson (the name may be humorously applied because of the water in the area).

seid (sid) contr. see it – ‘can ee seid’ fri up there?, ‘... How er ee the day?’ they’d quite often git the answer ‘Ee seid aa’, meanin ... ee can sei be lookin at is!’ [IWL], ‘... When A suspect no mony o huz here the day’ll be aroond ti seid’ [IWL].

sei day aboot wi (sí-dä-a-boo’-wi) v., arch. to get even with, settle a score, turn the tables on – ‘... when the Dooglas an’ the Scott wrait off a when auld scores an saw day-aboot wui the auld enemy’ [ECS].

sei-eft (sí-eft) v., arch. to attend to, seek for, inquire about (noted by E.C. Smith).

seier (sí-ur) n., arch. a ditch, drain, culvert, gutter – ‘... alang streets ... clairty uis ewreshy glet thre thoo foel seier an brander’ [ECS] (‘syver’ and vairnants elsewhere in Scotland).

Seigiva (sä-gi-va) n. one of two women worshipers (the other being Rosfritha) from ‘Hahwick’ who apparently witnessed a miracle in the chapel of St. Cuthbert on the ‘Slitrith’, according to the contemporary historian Reginald of Durham. They are said to have travelled many miles on a feast day of St. Cuthbert before Reginald wrote his book in about the 1170s, coming to the chapel, which is generally assumed to be at a site near Cogsmill. They were dismayed at the failure of the altar candle, but with their faith in St. Cuthbert, a new candle appeared in the middle of the altar ‘which diffused all around its beaming rays’ (also transcribed ‘Seigiv’ and ‘Sgifa’).

seip (sip) v., arch. to seep, ooze, leak – ‘Losh sakes me! the thochtis that come seipin ...’ [ECS] (also ‘sype’).

seisn see sasine

sei-side (sí-sul) n. sea-side.

seissle (sí-sul) v., arch. to misspend time, dawdle, trifle away time – ‘A seisslin’ body’ [JoJ], ‘Meg’s aye seisslin’; ‘He seissl’t a’ the tickets’ [GW].

seissler (sís-lur) n., arch. someone who mis-spends time, a dawdler.

sei ti (sí-ti) v., arch. to look at, observe – ‘See to the twaesome, how they hug and squeeze’ [JoHa], interj. an exclamation urging someone to look – ‘Sei ti! or sei till! = behold!; look at!’ [ECS].

sel (sel) n., pron. self – ‘Hei did it his ain sel’ [GW], ‘Yin canna dae that yin’s sel’ [GW], ‘That’s duist him; sel first, an’ a’body fer sel’ [GW], ‘Yin canna dae that yin’s sel’ [GW], ‘... Keeks o’er to see its bonnie sel’; ‘JBS’, ‘... an’ if yef mistres was to send the deevil’s ain sel ...’ [WNK], ‘Wildest grandeur – Nature’s sel’ – Is seen i’ bonny Bleakburn’ [DA], ‘The Son o’ God’s ain sel is he ...’ [WL], ‘He glow’red and mutter’d to his sel’, For he was unco lame’ [WFC], the epitome, that and no other – ‘The roads ir fair awfih the day; thay’re duist glaar’s sel wui that rain’ [ECS], ‘He can byim glaar’s sel: duist kiver’t frae heid ti fit’ [GW], ‘The bairn’s been ill-nature’s sel the nicht’ [GW], ‘A’ve been oot bit-tlin thae rugs; thay war fair stoor’s sel’ [ECS], ‘We could be muck’s sel and dirt teh the een-holes’ [HAST1958] (this can be part of other pronouns, e.g. ‘masel’, ‘heisel’, etc., or written separately, cf. the suffix -sel; it seems to be particularly prevalent in Hawick).

-sel (sel, sul) suffix -self, used to make compound personal pronouns (seen in masel, hersel, etc., as well as in other compound nouns such as glaur-sel, muck-sel and stoor-sel).

Selby (sel-bee) n. Ephraim (b.1801) son of Robert, he was also factor at Minto. He lived for a while at Hassendeanbank. In 1861 he is recorded living at Minto Cleuchhead, farming 375 acres and employing 13 people. He served as a Commissioner for the county of Roxburghshire. He is probably the Mr. Selby who, along with George Pott of Dod, first suggested building a bridge and roads to connect Hassendean station with Denholm. He was listed as a Steward at the Common Riding Races of 1836. His right to be a registered voter was questioned in the House of Commons investigation into ‘Fictitious Voters’ in 1837. He was on the Railway Committee for Hawick District in the 1850s. He was a member of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland from 1863. He was still recorded as farmer at Hassendeanbank in 1868. He married Catherine, daughter of Thomas Rutherford, servant to Gilbert, 2nd Earl of Minto; her diaries are in the National Library of Scotland Manuscript Collection. His children included Robert (who farmed at Hassendeanbank), Gilbert R. and William. His wife is probably the ‘Mrs. Selby, wife of the factor on Minto estate’, who is said to have helped the young James ‘Dictionary’ Murray to learn Italian and German. Robert (18th/19th C.) factor at Minto. His son Ephraim was also factor there, while his daughter Mary married hosiery manufacturer Peter Wilson. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. Robert (b.1840/1) son of Ephraim. In 1861 he is recorded as farmer of 434 acres and employing 15 people at Hassendeanbank, although only 20 years old. He was present at the famous otter hunt of 1863, led by Dr. Grant of Hawick. He was a member of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland from 1872. Sir William (c.1556–1638) son of Sir John, he was Governor of Berwick and one of the Border Commissioners. In 1603 he was sent to deal with the Armstrongs and other Liddesdale men who were regarded as trouble-makers, burning many Border towers in the process.

seld see selled

Selkirk

seldom (sel-dum) adj., arch. in short supply, scarce, of small quantity – ‘His hair’s gey seldom’[GW].

selfcorn (self-körn) n., arch. a blackhead.

the Selgovae (thu-sel-gō-vl) n., pl. ancient Celtic tribe which existed in the Borders during and after Roman occupation. Their territory consisted of the middle and upper Tweed basin and its tributaries (including the Teviot) and extended to the Solway (and was probably the origin of that name). One of their headquarters was at Newstead near Melrose, called Trimontium. The other 3 towns mentioned by Ptolemy were Carbantorium, Uxellum and Corda, and all are unidentified. The Votadini were the tribe to the east and north, and the Novantae to the west. However, it is unclear whether the Selgovae were part of the Votadini or distinct. They were effectively conquered by the Romans in 79–80 C.E. (the word is though to mean ‘hunters’).

Selkirk (sel-kurk) n. town 11 miles north of Hawick, being the Ancient and Royal Burgh of Selkirk, built high above the Ettrick and Yarrow valleys, which was the seat of the county of Selkirkshire. The town has for centuries been on the main road north from Hawick to Edinburgh. It was already an established medieval town when David I established and abbey here in 1113 (although the monks soon moved to Kelso), with a castle and hunting forest following in the same century. Selkirk became a Royal Burgh perhaps in the 13th century and the Scottish Parliament met here in 1204. James V granted part of the royal forest as a common, and the town may have had the largest common in the country. The town has a mediaval plan, built around the market square, although the top part of the old town was levelled in the 1960s. It was burned by the English in 1418 and the inhabitants robbed in 1502 by Englishman Sir John Musgrave, with the help of Adam Turnbull (tenant at Hornshole and Chamberlain Newton). It was burned by the English again in 1543. A nearby massacre of Montrose’s Royalists took place by Leslie’s Covenanters in 1645. Sir Walter Scott was Sheriff here for 33 years. His statue sits in the square, and there are also memorials to Selkirk natives Mungo Park, Tom Scott and J.B. Selkirk, as well as the ‘Fletcher’ statue by Thomas Clapperton. The Pant Well monument is from 1898, although the well was in use much earlier. The old Court House dates from 1803 and has a 33 m (110 ft) spire. The County Buildings and Court House are linked to the Old Jail under the main road. Originally known for shoemaking, specialist tweed industries and latterly other light industries are now the main employers, with the mills on the low ground of the Ettrick haughs. Selkirk Common Riding is at least 400 years old, involving the Riding of the Marches as well as a commemoration of the return of ‘Fletcher’ from Flodden (another version states that Walter Brydon, the Town Clerk, was the only one surviving from the town’s 80 volunteers). Ceremonies include ‘crying the burley’, bussing the Burgh Flag, fording the River Ettrick, and the ‘casting of the colours’. Part of it was filmed around 1900 by Hawick man David Gaylor. Population (1991) 5,922. J. Walter Elliot has written several books on the history of Selkirk – ‘Then up with the banner to Selkirk men’s honour, That sounded o’er Britain eight ages and more . . .’ [JH], ‘. . .And threaded his way through the oakwood brown To the diamond roofs of Selkirk town’ [WHO] (the origin is possibly Old English for ‘hall church’ or ‘church by the shielis’; Teries often talk about going ‘ower ti Selkirk’; it is ‘Selechirche’ in about 1120, ‘Selkryke’ in 1415 and ‘Selcrige’ in 1597 in a letter from Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme).

Selkirk (sel-kurk) n. Herbert (d.1164) Tironesian monk, sometimes referred to as ‘Herbert of Selkirk’. He became the 3rd Abbot of Selkirk in 1119 and persuaded the King to allow the monks to move to Kelso by 1127. He was elected Bishop of Glasgow in 1147 and remained in that position until he died. He was thus Hawick’s bishop for about 17 years. He was Bishop around 1150 when he confirmed the gift of the Church of Molle to Kelso Abbey. Hugh (13th C.) recorded as ‘Hugh Selechirch’ during the reign of Alexander II, when Petronella, daughter of ‘Adam Harang’ granted lands in the Borthwick, which were said to be adjacent to his house. His name may be ‘selech’ rather than ‘Selkirk’. J.B. see James B. Broon.

William ‘Wullie Dunlop’ (1811–93) possibly Hawick’s shortest man. Born in Lauder, he lived in Gala until he was 16, but then spent most of his life in Hawick. At age 15 he developed severe joint pains, leaving him quite stunted. He worked as a seamer, and reared game cocks as a hobby. His walking stick is in the Museum.

Selkirk Abbey (sel-kurk-aw-bee) n. former abbey in Selkirk, with no visible trace remaining. It was founded around 1113 by David I, with 13 monks brought from the reformed Benedictine Order in France. It was founded in honour of St. Mary and St. John the Evangelist, and received a large amount of the surrounding lands. The location of the abbey itself was probably the old kirkyard of Lindean by the Batts (i.e. ‘Abbot’s’ Burn). It is unlikely to have been a very substantial structure, since by 1128 the abbey was moved to Kelso. A roll of the abbeys is: Radulf, 1113–17; William 1117–19; Herbert 1119–28.

Selkirk banni (sel-kurk-baw-ni) n. Selkirk bannock, a type of round fruit loaf made in Selkirk (also written ‘bannae’; cf. curny banni).

Selkirk Castle (sel-kurk-kaw-sul) n. former castle in Selkirk, probably dating to the early 12th century. It was frequently used by Scottish Kings in the 12th and 13th centuries, mostly as a royal hunting seat, but also holding occasional parliaments there. A new castle was built in 1302, including a drawbridge and portcullis. In 1304 it appears to have been captured by the Scots, but was back in English hands 2 years later, and in 1310 the English King, Edward II, stayed there for several days. After Bannockburn the office of Constable of Selkirk passed to Turnburn of Philiphaugh. From the Turnbulls it passed to the Murrays and later to families in Selkirk, who were ‘of the Auld Peel’. Its ruins are near the end of Castle Street (formerly the ‘Peel Gait’) on Peel Hill, in the grounds of the Haining, where the motte and some associated earthworks can be made out.

Selkirk Junction (sel-kurk-jungk-shin) n. junction of the Waverley Line with the Selkirk Railway, between Melrose and Galashiels. That line ran from 1856 until 1951 for passengers and 1964 for freight, with stations at Abbotsford Ferry and Lindean.

Selkirk Rob (sel-kurk-rob) n. distinguishing nickname for one of the men called Robert Scott in the mid-1800s.

Selkirkshire (sel-kurk-shir, sel-kurk-shir) n. neighbouring county north-west of Roxburghshire, now part of the Scottish Borders. Parts of the Borthwick valley and areas around Ashkirk have shifted back and forth between Selkirkshire and Roxburghshire over the centuries, with some Parishes being split between both counties, or having disjoint parts in one or other county. A 2 volume history of the county was published by T. Craig Brown in 1886.

Sellar (sel-lur) n. Margaret wrote ‘Denholm: a history of the village’ in 1989.

selled (seld) pp. sold – ‘. . . Beat the famous Black Enchanter That sell’d sae dear’ [RH], ‘That shauclihin’ birkie, lang an’ thin, Seld a’ his sowl for jinglin’ tin’ [WP] (this is always ‘sold’ in English, cf. also selt; sometimes written ‘seld’ or ‘sell’d’). sellie (se-lee) n., arch. diminutive of selfishness – ‘That land where ‘sellie’ reigns supremely chief’ [JoHa], adj., arch. selfish – ‘Bit A da say there’s a selly bit aboot uz aa’ [ECS] (also written ‘selly’).

sellt see selt

sello see sellie

sel’ (sel’-ôd) n., arch. used emphatically – ‘The burd hurt the sel o’ [JAHM] (also ‘sel o’), ‘sel o’, etc.).

selt (sel’t) pp. sold – ‘A selt eet for fower pound’, ‘The shops that selt the spades and pails …’ [AY], ‘Wae-worth yon Plastic Breid that’s selved the-day, In sliddery greaseproof, wi a fancy name’ [JoHa], ‘They didn’ care what Hawick folk felt, Doon the river oo’ve been sellt’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘sellt’ and ‘sell’t’; cf. selved and the older said).’

salvation (sel-vä-shin) n., arch. salvation.

Selvation Airmy see Salvation Army

selvedge (sel-vej) n. woven edge part of a garment, usually firmer than the rest of the material and forming a neat edge that will not unravel – ‘The set of reed 4 in the split stands opposite the porters, 8 quarters or two yards wide, independent of selvages’ [BCM1881] (there are spelling variants).

Selwynslands (sel-winz-lands) n. former name for lands near Jedburgh, given by William Aitichison to John Ainslie, son of the Lord of Delphinston in 1436 (recorded as ‘Silwynislands’). One of the witnesses was Thomas ‘Underayll, burgess of Hawyc.

semmet (sem-mit) n. a woollen or flannel undershirt, vest – ‘Women got their husbands to work semmets and stockings as a thank-offering …’ [RJW].

semble (sem-pul) adj., arch. simple – ‘…he brought upon himself the sport and merriment of the entire household, gentle and semple, to whom the custom of the schoolmaster was no mystery’ [JAHM], ‘The Lord preserfes the sempel; I was broucht leuch, an’ he helpet me’ [HSR] (also written ‘sempel’).

sen’ (sen’) v., poet. to send – ‘He sen’s the springs intil the glens, whilk rin amang the hills’ [HSR], ‘Sen’ thine han’ frae aboone; rede me, an’ delifier moe o’ grit waters …’ [HSR].

sendit (sen-dee’, -di’) pp. sent – ‘…whan Saul sentet, an’ thaye watchet the hous til kill him’ [HSR].

Seneshiels (se-nu-shelz) n. former lands in Liddesdale, recorded as ‘Seneschelis’ in a rental roll of c.1376, with a value of 2 merks. Probably the same place is transcribed ‘Sisseschesil’ in a rental roll of 1541, when it was leased to Alexander Armstrong (probably son of ‘Ill Will’). The location, spelling and pronunciation are all uncertain.

Senior Bailie (seen-yur-bâ-le) n. another name for the Senior Magistrate.

Senior Magistrate (seen-yur-naw-jis-trâ) n. the more senior of two officials elected to administer and enforce law in the town until 1861, also referred to as the Senior Bailie or Chief Magistrate. His house was formerly one of the main stops of the Procession on the Thursday evening of Common Riding week, and the Flag used to fly there after the morning Chase until it was bussled. After the reconstitution of the Council the position disappeared, and so the Common Riding duties were assumed by the ‘Acting Senior Magistrate’ or Acting Father.

sennent (see-nént) n., arch. a sinew – ‘A sprung sennent = a strained sinew’ [ECS].

sennicht (se-nicht) n., poet. a week, seven nights – ‘…surlie merchands of the toune; bot gane a sennict to Paisley, airly in April’ [DH], sensible (sen-si-bul) adj., arch. aware, conscious – ‘Compeared William Olifer, merchant, who acknowledged that he was att ye brawl and was sensible of his fault …’ [PR1716], ‘…he knows and is sensible that the Duke of Buccleugh’s tenants of Meikle and Little Whitlaw … constantly pastured their sheep, black cattle, and horses on Hawic Common …’ [CL1767].

sep (sep) n., poet. sept, clan – ‘Forbye this he refusset the taubernakle o’ Joseph, an’ chusena the cep o’ Ephraim’ [HSR], ‘But the chuse the cep o’ Judah, the Muunt Zion whilk he loet’ [HSR], also written ‘cep’.

separator (se-pur-râ’-ur) n. another name for a dragger.

sequels (see-kwulz) n., pl., arch. small payments made to the miller and his servants by those in thirillage to the mill (former Scots law term).

sequesterate (see-kwes-tur-ä) v., arch. to sequester, pp. sequestered, set aside, separated – ‘…and said measures ordained to be sequesterate till 29th of May and then taken to the cross and brunt altogither’ [BR1676], ‘…in respect qrof the bailyeas has descerned and or- dained their haill moveable goods and gear be sequesterate …’ [BR1689].

ser (ser) v. to serve – ‘hei serred in the K.O.S.Bs. during the war’, ‘she’s serred the toon for thirty year as a hairdresser’, ‘Yis, a’ the kings sall fa’ doun afore him; a’ nations sal ser’ him’ [HSR], ‘Whan the people ar getheret thegither, an’ the kingdoms, til ser’ the Lord’ [HSR], ‘...an geet a chack o something ti serr as an off-pit’ [ECS], ‘It serrd naething for ti stert simmerene an wuntereen’ [ECS], ‘The newest schule serrr a great need in this toon ...’ [BW] (sometimes spelled ‘ser’ or serr; also sair).
Sergeant Stewart

Sergeant Stewart (ser-jin’-stew-ur’) n. sergeant in the regular army who was stationed as the permanent watcher of the beacon at the Watchknowe on Cumrugh Hill in the early years of the 19th century. He lived in a flat-topped house there with his wife, and the barrel of tar in readiness on the roof.

the Serio-Comic Committee (thu-see-rec-o-ko-meek-koi’-ee) n. sobriquet for the Ceremonial Committee when it first formed.

serk (serk) n., arch. a shirt – ‘To Christian Nicoll she let it run up 6 weeks for to buy some serks’ [PR], ‘...ma serk was drackeet wui weet till it stack ti ma verra back’ [ECS], ‘Sic orra serks folk wear Nowadays: pink and blue Like ashes o it stack ti ma verra back’ [ECS], ‘Sic orra serks folk wear Nowadays: pink and blue Like ashes o it stack ti ma verra back’ [ECS].

serk (serk) v., arch. to cover a roof with wooden boards to nail slates onto – ‘...with eighteen garron nails for sarking and sclating the house of Woelic’ [GT], ‘...inspected the byre roof. The serking is mostly quite fresh’ [RG].

serkin (ser-kun) n., arch. shirting material, usually coarse linen – ‘For 5 yards serken to deceased James Glasgow, £1 7s 6d’ [PR], felting used for roofing.

Serlo (ser-lo) n. Parson of Minto in the mid-13th century. He was one of the witnesses when Petronella, daughter of Adam Herries of Minto, granted lands to Melrose Abbey.

Serpentine Plantin (ser-pen-teen-plawn’-in) n. former name for plantation on the slopes of Ruberslaw. It is probably the same as the Zigzag Plantation, west of Town-o-Rule.

serr see ser

sersit (ser-sit) pp., arch. searched, looked for – ‘...direkit to me, sersit and sowcht the dairies of tar in readiness on the roof.

service (ser-vees) n. unskilled labour, especially that involved in assisting in the construction of a farm house.

servin wench (ser-vin-wench) n. a female domestic servant (common term in the 18th and 19th century, used in a non-derogatory sense).

servitor (servi’-ur) n., arch. a servant, attendant – ‘...conmpeird Samuel Rutherfurde, servitor to Sir Wm. Douglas of Cavers ...’ [BR1642], ‘George Irvin, Servitor to John Hardie, Maltman, that his Master directit him to go to the shorter dikes to cast divots ...’ [BR1666], ‘John Roucastle, servitor to Walter Roucastel, carrier ...’ [HAST1716], a serviette, napkin – ‘...servitors, board cloths, towels, spindles of worsted and straiken yarn ...’ [DMW1681].

servitrix (servi-triks) n., arch. a female servant – ‘...Jean Dun, servitrix to Mistris Fraser, was despatched out of Andrew Jerdon’s younger his services in Mr Orrok’s time ...’ [PR1717].

sasine (sə-sing) n., arch. formal possession of lands, held of a feudal superior, or the legal procedure whereby possession is transferred – ‘...sal infect the said Daud, or his sone, heritably, be charter and sasing in the sammyn, in the best wis ...’ [SB1470] (older version of sasine).

session (se-shin) n. short for kirk session – ‘...An’ sent me to my hunkers mourning. For past transgression; Now I’m a shining light, adorning Baith kirk an’ session’ [RDW].

the Session see the Kirk Session

Session Bailie (se-shin-bā-lee) n. Magistrate who also sat on the Kirk Session, enabling him to give out civil punishments to wrongdoers.

session clerk (se-shin-clerk) n. secretary of the kirk session, in former times also usually doubling as schoolmaster. In Hawick through much of the 18th and 19th centuries the session clerk read the scriptures in church between the morning and afternoon services. This practice ceased after the death of Mr. Murray in 1853. In the 18th century the term ‘session clerk’ in Hawick meant Clerk, Reader, Precentor and general factotum.

the Session Hoose (thu-se-shin-hoos) n. popular name for a house owned and administered by the Hawick Kirk Session in the 18th century. It is recorded being repaired and rented out to ‘Lady Chesters’ (who was probably a widow of a Bennet of Chesters).

set (се’, set) v. to escort someone on a journey, used particularly to see a member of the opposite sex back to their house after a social event – ‘an make shair hei sets ee hame afterwards’, ‘...to set away a cripple on a barrow’ [PR], ‘A’ll set ee hyimm’ [ECS], ‘Jock gae’z a set hyimm’ [GW], to make or prepare dough etc. for baking, to flirt, coquet, to plant, to cause someone to do something (with the idea of continuing action) – ‘...ye hae casen owt the heathin, an’ sette it’ [HSR], ‘Thaye that be sette in the hous o’ the Lord sall flurish ...’ [HSR], ‘Dinna mention golfi ti him, or ee’ll set um on speakin for the rest o’ the nickit’ [ECS], n. the act of escorting – ‘did ee git a set hyim the night?’; a frolic, do – ‘Sic a set! = what a joke (frolic, prank)! Cf. colloquial English, what a do!’ [ECS], a motley crew, shower, group of people beneath contempt { `they’re a right set that do!’ [ECS], a motley crew, shower, group of people beneath contempt}, ‘they’re a right set that do!’ [ECS], a motley crew, shower, group of people beneath contempt – ‘they’re a right set that lot’ (the past tense is suit as well as the English ‘set’), while the past participle can be suitten).

set (se’) v., arch. to cause or make to sit, place, sit – ‘Syne aff frae his shouther’ll tummle his pack, As he gets himsel’ settin doon’ [WL], to make a horse’s tail stiff, usually by cutting the muscle with a set tail [RJR] (past tense suit or just ‘set’, with past participle being suitten).

set (se’) v., arch. to let by contract, lease – ‘...having right to sett or lett houses within the Burgh ...’ [BR], ‘...nor yeit na person sett any house to strangers, without consent of the Bailies ...’ [BR1640], ‘Trinity land in Hawick sett to Robert Scott of Horslichill for 15 bolls victuall’ [Buc1692], ‘TI set a hoose = to let a house’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘sett’).

set (se’) n., arch. a whet-stone (also called a ‘set-stane’).

set again (se’a-gō-in) v., arch. to say grace at a table – ‘Instead of begging any one to say grace at a meal, the formula is occasionally, ‘Set us agoing’’ [RJR].

Seturdi see Seturdi

Seton (see-ti'ni)n. William (14th C.) appointed Sheriff of Roxburgh by David II. He was Sheriff in 1338.

set-on (se-o'n)v., arch. to burn, frizzle, make food stick to the bottom of the pot (noted by E.C. Smith; see suitten-on).

set-oott (se-ooot)n., arch. a showy kind of woman’s cap – ‘Margaret Drummond was convicted of stealing ... ‘ane woman’s head-dress called aen sett out’ [BR1697], a display, lay-out, spread – ‘She’d a grand set-oott for oo – aa her guid cheenie an thing’ [ECS].

set-oott (se-oo') v., arch. to flirt, coquet, begin to court (noted by E.C. Smith).

sett (set, se') n. a large block of stone, often granite, shaped for use as street paving, Hawick’s High Street was paved with these in the period 1924-62. A sealed casket was buried opposite the Roond Close before the last sett was laid in 1924. A few of the old setts were used to build the caim at the Burnford in 1987 – ‘...the High Street paved with nidge sets’ [JE].

sett see set

set-tae (se', set-ta) n., arch. a set-to, confrontation – ‘Aircie o’ the Reuch Sike, ...Aircie the fiddler ... Aircie o’ the Reuch Sike, ready for the set-tae’ [DH].

setten (se-in, se-tin) pp., arch. set, particularly in the phrase ‘setten-on’, meaning put a young lamb to suckle on a strange ewe – ‘A lamb, That might hae cross or scrimpet dam, Or might be newly setten-on’ [HSR] (see also suitten).

set the fair (se-thu-far) v., arch. to formally start a fair or market, formerly the official responsibility of the Baron Bailie as representative of the Baron – ‘Item, whatsoever person that be not present yeirlie at the Commoune ryding and setting the faires, shall pay fortie schillings ...’ [BR1640].

settin (se-in) n., arch. a young plant – ‘They childeir like olive-settin’s roun’ about thy tabil’ [HSR].

settin (se-in) n., arch. the leasing of property – ‘...they had severalls to meet with who are to be at her Grace’s land setting’ [PR1712].

settit (se-ee', -i', se-te', -ti') pp., arch. suited, became (past tense of set).

settle (se-ul) n., arch. a large wooden seat with a high back and storage space underneath, once common in houses throughout Scotland.

settle (se-ul) v., arch. to install a minister in a parish – ‘...why Mr Charles Talefer might not be admitted and this day settled minister of this parish of Hawick’ [PR1722].

Seturdi see Seturdi

Seturdi (se-ur-di)n. Saturday – ‘In the club yin Setturday night ...’ [AY], ‘...frae the top o the Loan doon taethe Horse on the Setterday mornin’ [CT], ‘I watched the deliberate Last Destruction o Wulton Yin simmer Setterday afternun’ [DH], ‘Robert Burns and Robert Ainslie left Edinburgh on Setterday the 5th o May, 1787 ...’ [IWL] (several spelling variants exist, including ‘Seturdi’, ‘Setturday’ and ‘Setturday’). the Seturdi (thu-se’-ur-di) n. Common Riding Saturday, beginning with the end of the Ball and greeting the dawn with song-singing at the Mote, and then a last dancing of the Reel in front of the Tower. There is usually a short rest before the Drums and Fifes rouse the town at 8 a.m., walking from the West Port to the Horse. At 9.30 a.m. the mounted procession proceeds to the Park, where the Principals stand in their stirrups and sing ‘Teribus’ at the end of the Avenue, before laying wreaths at the War Memorial. They then ride through the streets and are led from the Horse to the Loan by the Drums and Fifes. They then proceed to the Moor via the Duke’s Wood, the Flex, Wulliestruther, Pilhmuir Rig and Pilhmuir Field. The riders once again do a circuit of the race course, and the Flag is displayed as on the previous day. There are more races and events there, but shorter than on the Friday. The Cornet takes the Flag from the roof of the Committee room at 3 p.m., after which he leads his mounted supporters back to the Town Hall via Crumhaughhill, being met at the top of the Loan by the Drums and Fifes. The cavalcade then proceed along the High Street for the Handing Back ceremony at the Town Hall. The Cornet returns the Flag to the Provost ‘unsullied and unstained’, and displays it one last time from the balcony. As the Cornet lowers the Flag the Saxhorn Band play ‘the Invocation’. At the end of the tune the Cornet re-plants the Flag and the Big Four say their last farewells to it and the crowd, the Left-Hand Man and then the Acting Father being last to leave the balcony. After this the men are usually carried shoulder-high to the Tower to dance the Reel again. The ‘Greetin Denner’ has been traditionally held on the Saturday evening and the Principals usually visit the Shows, or in recent years go back to the Moor to see the live bands. It is unclear how far back the Saturday traditions go, with the first clear record being in 1744 when it was written that the Cornet was ‘to go to the moss on Saturday yr. after’. In older times the Saturday proceeded similarly to the Friday, with the Races and Games at the Haugh (with the Dinner between), but with a shorter programme. There was also a more formal Dinner on the Saturday, and the formal end of the Common Riding was the Kirking ceremony, which happened on the Sunday afterwards. The Drums and Fifes first took part in the Saturday procession from 1889. The tradition of riding the boundaries of the newly acquired Wilton Lodge estate was begun in 1890, but in 1892 was replaced with a visit to the Lodge. The Drums and Fifes and Burgh Officer were first involved in the Saturday procession from 1890.

the Seturdi Plate (thu-se’-ur-di-plä’ n. prize given at the Common Riding Races, instituted in 1907.

seuch (syewch) v., arch. to cut, trench or furrow ground, to insert plants temporarily into a furrow to keep them fresh, n., arch. a furrow, rut, trench – ‘The road passed Braidhaugh and entered the mill plantation, where it is worn out into a deep seugh’; and is distinctly seen’ [WaD] (also written ‘seugh’).

sevendle (se-ven-dul) adj., arch. securely built, strong, firm, dependable – ‘Is the scaffold (wa’, etc.) sevendle?’ [GW] (also sawendle).

several (si-vu-ral) adj., arch. separate, individual – ‘Item, whatsomever person committis the said theft twa several times, or that committis greitere thift … ’ [BR1640], ‘Upon qch day King George’s proclamation … was read publickly as two severall Lord’s Dayes before’ [PR1720], ‘They generally kept their hirsels near their several lands, which kept their hirsels from mixing … ’ [C&L1767].

severally (si-vu-ra-lee) adv., arch. separately, successively – ‘…they ought and should be exemplarly punished in their bodies, and be fined severally as examples’ [BR1710], ‘…being summoned to to severally former diets for her unchristian carriage and deportment in ye church … ’ [PR1721].

severals (si-vu-rulz) n., pl., arch. several people or things of a distinct group – ‘… that they could not attend him thereunto in regard that they had severalls to meet with who are to be at her Grace’s land setting’ [PR1713].

sew see shew

sew (sew) pp., arch. sowed (past tense of saw, noted by E.C. Smith; cf. the past participle form sawn).

sewerage see soorage

sex (seks) n., arch. six – ‘… preceding the said vmquhile Walteris deceis, extending to the soume of thrie hundreth and threttie thrie pund, sex schillings eucht pennies’ [SB1574].

sext (sekst) adj., arch. sixth – ‘… King James the Sext, of eternall memorie, that he wald travell and dealt with this Erle of Buccleughe … ’ [SB1624], ‘… and whill the sixt day of the month of Marche next ensuing exclusive allenarlie … ’ [BR1672] (also written ‘sixt’).

sey see sei

Seymour see Hertford
S.F.A. (es-ef-á) n. acronym of the Scottish Football Association, n., imp. also used as a euphemism for ‘Sweet Fanny Adams’, or ‘Sweet F. All’, i.e. nothing at all.

shabby (shaw-beec) adj., arch. poorly, not in good health.

shaddi (shaw-di, -da, -de) n. a shadow – ‘Div ee like Cliff Richard an the Shaddis?’ ‘Lang syne it was, Thon souchin summer’s day, Wi’ cloths that sailed Loutin to their shaddas’ [DH] (also spelled ‘shadda’, ‘shaddae’ and ‘shaddih’; the final vowel sound varies, like most words ending in ‘-ow’ in English; cf. shaddi).

shae (shá) n., arch. a shoe – ‘A’ve seen in a shae-box a grand peepie-show …’ [??] (plural shoon; note the earlier pronunciation of shuid).

Shaffles (shaw-fulz) n. nickname for William Laidlaw.

shair (shár, shúr) adj. sure – ‘er ee shair’; ‘But this I ken for certain shair – A day frae Hawick’s a day wasted’ [DH], ‘…first frae the yin side, and then the t’other – to make shair it was strecht’ [DH], ‘…Ye’re suire ye’ve got it richt?’ [WL], ‘I’ll no be suire but it seemed to me They baith had supped at the barley bree …’ [WL], ‘…But aw’m shair there’s something missing’ [AY], adv. surely – ‘Id hei brings the bit lassie on till the city there’ll be a word a heid o’ them’ [ECS].

shairny (shár-nee) n. a shairny (also sherk).

shair-nee-00 (shár-nee-00) adv. surely – ‘Aw like him verra weel, but shairly hei has hayther wife nor mother to look efter ’im, hei has sic a towsy heid’ [AMA], ‘Shairly it must be time now Ti trimme ma dyedie-egg?’ [DH], ‘Shairly mush-huntin is yin o the maist hermless sports gaun’ [DH], ‘To the gallows tree I will suirely bring him; It’s juist, – on which o’ the trees to hing him?’ [WL], ‘…For heaven must shurely be Juist like the Vertish Hill’ [IWL].

shairn (shárn) n., arch. dung, excrement, especially of cattle or horses – ‘…driving and selling peats, poorly clad in clogs and corduroys, all be-splattered with glaur and shairn’ [WNK], ‘Orange-peel, horse-shairn, and shipwrecked bottles Full o naething but broken pledges and impossible promises …’ [DH].

shairny (shár-nee) adj., arch. smeared with cow-dung – ‘Hardie came oot wi’ a shairny paide, Knocked the Cornet off his saidle’ [T], ‘A haiggle on alang streets chowky wui cluds o shairny stoor an smuirrin reek or clarty wui lifty glaa’r’ [ECS].

shairny-fle (shár-nee-fle) n., arch. a dung fly, e.g. Scatophaga stercoraria.

shairp (shárp) adj. sharp – ‘He will leave us nae doots That his tongue wad clip cloots, And as shairp as a needle’s his ee …’ [WL], ‘…Till the arrogant spears, cruel and shairp, Bristle the armour of another spring’ [DH], v., arch. to sharpen, to rough a horse with frost-nails, i.e. apply sharp nails to the back of a horse-shoe (cf. sherp).

Shairp (shárp) n. (Sharp) Adam (17th C.) cot-tar at Ruletownfoot in Abbotrule Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was ‘deficient’ in paying the tax, and his entry reads ‘to Ingland’. James (18th/19th C.) roper in Hawick. His wife Bell died in 1811. James (18th/19th C.) stocking-frame maker of the High Street, listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. It is said that he expressed skepticism that the ‘double-decker’ design of James Hogg (of ‘Teribus’ fame) would be possible to build. James (b.1814/5) from Coldham, he was a hand-loom weaver, living at about No. 2 Buccleuch Street and then Drumlanrig Square. His wife was Mary Ann, and their children included Robert, William, Walter, James, Isabella, John, Jane, Elizabeth and George. His wife ran a grocer’s shop according to the 1851 census, but it is his name that appears as a Teviot Square shopkeeper in Slater’s 1852 directory. By 1861 he is listed as a grocer and spirit dealer at 1 Fore Row. John (d.bef. 1767) tenant farmer at Macksise. His only son was William (b.1749).

John (b.c.1810) from England, he was a joiner in Hawick in the mid-19th century. In 1851 he was recorded on O’Connell Street as a ‘Stocking Frame Smith’ and in 1861 at No. 8 as a ‘Broker’ (possibly meaning a pawn broker, i.e. dealer in second-hand goods). His wife was Isabella and their children included James, Charles, Janet and Mary Ann. He could be the ‘John Sharp, junior, Meigund Place’ who in 1857 donated to the Archaeological Society old spurs found at Rubberslaw. Thomas (16th C.) tenant in Swinside Mill, listed among men complained about by the English Warden for a raid into England in 1587. John Scott ‘the Tinkleker’ led a group of what was claimed to be 500 men on a day-long foray. Rev. Thomas (d.1791) licensed by the Presbytery of Linlithgow in 1778, he became minister at Ettrick in 1781 and was translated to Hawick Parish in 1784, before moving again to Corstorphine in 1789. He once fought off thieves who tried to steal... shairpen  shank

the communion cups from his bedroom in the Old Manse. He is believed to have started one of the first Sunday Schools in Scotland at about the same time as Samuel Charters in Wilton (as mentioned in the British Chronicle or Union Gazette for 1786, although no names are given). He is said to have left Hawick on account of being unable to govern the people; however, he appears to have fared little better in Corstophine, where he was ‘accustomed to avow, there, that heloved even a dog if it came from Hawick’. He paid the Horse Tax in Hawick in 1785. He married Alison Russell of Ashiestiel, and they had 4 children. Vivian ‘Viv’ (1935–2012) born and bred in Hawick, he was named after Cornet Vivian Grieve and lived at 4 different houses on Dickson Street. He was an apprentice at Watson’s, but became a plumber by trade. He served with the K.O.S.B. in Malaysia in the 1950s. He was a player, past President and Life Member of the Linden. He took up public singing only after a Burns Club singing competition in the late 1970s. But he soon became a fixture at the Common Riding, club dinners and wherever there was a sing-song. He released a CD ‘Naturally Sharp’ in 2001 and another with Drew Gibb. His regular party piece was ‘I Like Auld Hawick the Best’, which he sang annually at the end of the Thursday morning Hut. He married Jean, daughter of Robert Elliot, farmer in Hermitage. Their children included: Ann (b.1772); John (b.1783); and Sally (b.1784), who for some reason was baptised in Robertson Parish. William (18th/19th C.) farmer at Dykeraw in Castleton Parish, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as owner of 2 horses. William (19th C.) Hawick tobacconist, son of James and Janet Clark. He took over James Rutherford’s business at 60 High Street in 1899 and ran it for 38 years.

shairpen (shärp-in) v. to sharpen (cf. sherpen).
shairper (shär-pur) adj. sharper – ‘The auld kirk bell’s no long rung. A’ the shairper ‘Gentry o’ the County’ll be throngin’ in ere long’ [JEDM] (cf. sherper).

shairply (shärp-lee) adv. sharply – ‘...some were ‘handlet maist severlie’ others ...’rebuiikt shairplie’ and a few were ‘censurit wt all rigour’ [JJV] (also sherpally).

Shake Buckler (shāk-buk-lur) n. nickname for John Forestier. shalli (shaw-li) adj. shallow.

Shallow Bill (shaw-lō-bill) n. nickname of a local drunkard of the mid-1800s, mentioned in ‘Hawick Immortals’ and also in William Easton’s ‘Run Them In’ – ‘... And Shallow Bill’s nae better, But we will run them in’ [WE].

shambles (shawm-bulz) n., arch. a slaughterhouse, a place where animals are butchered – ‘...the grant ...of ground for public shambles’ [BR].

the Shambles (thu-shawm-bulz) n. former name used for the abattoir at the bottom of Mansfield Road, between the Gas Works and Sewage Works in the early 20th century.

shamit (shā-mīt, -mī) adj., pp. shamed, ashamed – ‘...whan thaye rise up, let thame be shæmet ...’ [HSR].

shan (shawn) v., poet. to grimace, to stick out the lower jaw, to have the lower lip protruding – ‘Auld toothless Nance ...girns and laughs, and winks, and shans, Her sugar cleavin’’ [JR], ‘How brainless dundrums sneer an’ wink, An’ shan’ an’ shile, and leering blink’ [JoHa].

shane (shaan) pp., poet. shone – ‘Glowerna at me becaus I am blak, becaus the sun hes shaine on me’ [HSR].

shangie (shang-ee) n., arch. a practical joke, a stick tied to a dog’s tail as punishment or in mischief – ‘But Jeannie thought that youth and age Could never happy sail; And, like a dog, she sent him hame, Wi’ shangie at its tail’ [TCh].

shank (shawngk) v., arch. to send off, dispatch (especially on foot) – ‘A’ll shank ee off ti service, ye lazy limmer’ [GW].

shank (shawngk) n., arch. a leg, also applied to a stocking being knitted – ‘He delichtsna in the strencth o’ the hors; he taksna pleesur in the shanks o’ ane man’ [HSR], ‘...By a wheen o soople shanks’ [WL], a shaft of a spade etc. –

2711
...But an auld hook shank gae mei a hank, And I jumpt it up like fire' [WaD].

shank (shawngk) n., arch. a projecting part of a hill, usually a ridge joining the summit to the plain – ‘And oure the auld man’s rigging back She laid her rannel-tree shanke’ [JTe] (it survives in several geographical names, e.g. Bellendean Shank, Bught Shank, Coomb Shank, Corbie Shank, Shankend, Shankfoot and Tarras Shank).

shankeet (shawng-kee’,-ki’) pp. shanked, hit with the heel of the golf club – ‘When ma last ern shot’s been shankeet ... ’ [IWL].

shankemsnaigie (shang-kem-snä-gee) adv., arch. on one’s own legs, humourous term for ‘on foot’, n., arch. one’s own feet, meant humorously – ‘Their donkey died, the cart had to be disposed of, and the two had to take shankemsnaigie’ with basket on arm’ [RM], ‘...the only other means of going to England being by shankums neggy’’ [AL], ‘But William, nothing daunted and trusting to Shankum’s nag, bore homeward ... ’ [CJW], ‘It was ti be Shankum’s Naigie, thin, − ti Deum, onyway’ [ECS], (there are many spellings and pronunciation variants, e.g. ‘shankum’s naigie’: from ‘shank’ and ‘nag’).

Shankend (shawng-kend) n. farm and station on the Waverley line. John Laidlaw was recorded there in 1694. Thomas Oliver and Abel Armstrong were farmers there in 1797. Most of the railway buildings survive, including the twin-gabled cottages, station and signal box with pended roof (recently used as a stable). There were 2 passenger platforms (only one surviving) and formerly a footbridge connecting them. Mr. McKenzie was listed as Station Agent there in 1868. This was also an area where navvies lived in the 1860s during construction of the viaduct and nearby Whitrope Tunnel, with almost 200 temporary residents recorded in the 1861 census. J. Mather was listed at the farm there in 1868. The current farmhouse was designed (or altered) by J.P. Alison in 1910. The farmhouse was lived in by German prisoners-of-war during WWI, with some buried in the grounds.

Shankend Hill (shawng-hil) n. hill to the right of the B6399, south of Shankend farm, reaching a height of 376 m.

Shankendsheils (shawng-kend-sheeldz) n. former farmstead in the upper Slitrig valley, just beyond Langburnsheils. John Elliot was there in the 1770s. Alexander Burns and family were there in 1841. A. Robson was recorded there in 1868 and Adam Scott was shepherd there in the latter part of the 19th century (marked on Stobie’s 1770 map; also written ‘Shankend-Shiels’ etc.).

Shankend Station (shawng-kend-stä-shin) n. former railway station at Shankend. Mr. McKenzie was listed as Station Agent there in 1868.

Shankend Viaduct (shawng-kend-vl-a-dukt) n. 15 arch, 597 foot long viaduct on the Waverley line, about 10 miles south of Hawick, which still stands. It was constructed as part of the extension of the railway from Hawick to Carlisle, opened in 1862. The stone was taken locally from new quarries opened up near Elliots Field (later called Fleety Cottage) and at White Hill. The main contractor was William Ritson, and it was said to have been built with much delay. It remains a striking part of the landscape.

Shankfit (shawngk-fi’) n. Shankfoot, a farmstead just beyond Dodburn farm (marked on Stobie’s 1770 map).

Shankfit (shawngk-fi’) n. Shankfoot, also known as ‘Milsington Shakfoot’, a former farmstead near Milsington. The Scott family were there in 1841 and the Hogg family in 1851.

shankum’s naigie see shankemsnaigie shan-mowd (shawnmowd) adj., arch. having a protruding lower jaw.

shanna see shanni

shanni (shaw-nil) contr. shan’t, shall not (also written ‘shanna’ etc.).

Shannon (shawn-in) n. Danny ‘the Pocket Hercules’ (d.1915) played as back for Hawick R.F.C. in the early 1900s, and also capped for Scotland. He was killed at the Battle of Loos. Rev. James Wigston (1858–1926) from Carluke, he worked as a coal miner from the age of 12. He later graduated M.A. from Glasgow University in 1886 and was ordained as minister of the United Presbyterian Church in South Street, Elgin in 1889. He became minister at Wilton South Church in 1892. The year after this the ‘Ern Kirk’ was abandoned, and the congregation met in the Temperance Hall until the new church was opened in 1894. He emigrated to Nuhaka-More in New Zealand with his family in 1921 and was inducted as minister there in 1923. He moved to Matawhero Gisborne in 1924 and was minister there until his strength failed. He was father of Mary Dorothea (b.1895), Mrs. Whitelaw. Mary Dorothea ‘Molly’ (1885–1964) born in Hawick, she emigrated to New Zealand with her parents in 1921, settling at More and then Matawhero. Her father was the minister at Matawhero, and shape

when he died she effectively filled in as minister for a few months, which must have been unusual then. She later sat on several church-related committees. She became an Elder in 1960 and attended World Council of Churches assemblies. She married Rev. Alan Campbell Whitelaw of Edinburgh in 1930 and they lived at Te Awamutu, Blenheim, Johnsonville.

shape (shāp) v., arch. to cut clothes out from a pattern – ‘Shaipin claes = cutting out garments, dresses, etc., following a pattern’ [ECS], n. a paper pattern used for cutting out cloth, one's ordinary indoor clothes – ‘A Hawick woman speaks of going out or about 'duist i ma shaip' when she does not wear any over-garment, such as a cloak, cape, etc., over her ordinary indoor dress’ [ECS], a commotion, to-do – ‘What a different shapes, first an last, as Jethart Casle saw’ [ECS], an antic, a droll figure – ‘What a shape it was!’ [GW] (also written ‘shaip’).

shapins (shā-pinz, -peenz) n., pl., arch. odds and ends of cloth left over after cutting out cloth to make a garment (also ‘shaipens’).

shapit (shā-pee”, -pi”) pp. shaped – ‘...they could fight left-haundit on the stair cos it was shapit a different way’ [DaS].

share see shoor

sharp see shair

Sharkey (shawr-kee) n. John ‘Jonky’ (??– ) grew up in Trinity Street and Lynnwood, he became a boxer. He had almost 200 bouts, winning junior district titles, 2 junior Scottish Championships and was a beaten finalist for a senior junior district titles, 2 junior Scottish Championships. His last fight was in 1982, and he has coached youngsters in Hawick for many years.

Sharp see Shairp

sharrybang (sha-ree-bawng) n., poet. a charabanc, early form of bus – ‘Till ae day a sharrybang Cam’ doon the lang brae, And niver was the banck, early form of bus ‘Till ae day a sharrybang Cam’ doon the lang brae, And niver was the shauchelt (shawch-ul”) pp., poet. shuffled, shambled, deceitful – ‘...thaye gaed agay like ane shauchelt bowe’ [HSR].

shauchele (shaw-chul”) v., arch., poet. to shuffle, shamble, walk with boots down at the heels – ‘...a shauchelin, husslin-shooodert skeibult wui a toozy, taasty heed that wad be richt an a ruggy ti redd’ [ECS], ‘Ill-trickit seems the waesome beast, Wi’ shauchelin’ warlockes hirtlin’ near ...’ [WFC], ‘...A perfect skumer an’ a pain Is shauchelin’ Ingun Johnnie’ [WP], ‘...an auld tramp cam shauchelin bye’ [DH], n., arch. a shuffling gait.

Shauchles (shaw-chulz) n. nickname for a Hawick character of the mid-19th century – ‘Then Meg the Mantua sails along, Auld Nancy leads her cuddy aboot, And Gleska Jamie lits a sang Tae Shauchles, Chinnie and Roll-aboot’ [HI].

Shavey Davis (sha-vee-dā-vis) n. nickname for several male members of the local Davis family.

shavie (sha-vee”), poet. a trick, practical joke – ‘...What ailed thee at puir Davie!’ At forty-eight, ‘twas rather sure, ‘To play him such a shavie’ [TCh], arch. an uproar – ‘The crowd [of fowls] kick up an awfu’ shavie’ [JoHa].

shaviter (sha-vi-tur”) n., arch. a disreputable character, a miserable-looking person.

shaw (shāw) n., the green top of root vegetables, usually plural – ‘fling away tattie shaws’, ‘...And brunt broon in the lang droot Are the neep shaws’ [WL], v., arch. to remove the tops and leaves from a vegetable – ‘The servant havin’ been ‘shaewing’ turnips with it [a sword] in the field’ [HAST1868], ‘Hei’s oohty the day, shawin turneeps’ [ECS], ‘...Watchin’ me shaw his neeps I’ the dirlin’ rain’ [DH].

shaw (shāw) n., arch. a small wood, copse, thicket, wooded dell, grove – ‘...Till they cam fra hill and shaw’ [JEDM], ‘‘To leave the land ye loved sae dear, Of mountain, shaw and glen’ [RF], ‘...An’ said he wad be back ere Sprig Had clad the green wood shaw’ [JT], ‘...Among they wild green shaws, and on thy flowery braes’ [WIS], ‘Ilka bird carolled sweetly round burn, brae, and shaw ...’ [DA], ‘For me, the music o’ the shaw, The blackie’s mellow whussle’ [WL] (from Old English: the word survives in several place names, e.g. Copshaw, Friarshaw, Headshaw, Meadshaw, Shaw Burn, Shaws, Stirkshaws, Todshaw).

shaw (shāw) n., arch. a bank of land that it narrow at the top and broad and flat at the bottom – ‘Thus Birken-shaw, a piece of ground, of the description given, covered with short scraggy birches; Breekon-shaw, a shaw covered with ferns’ [JoJ].

shaw (shāw) n., arch. a show – ‘There’s nocht sae braw in the wide world’s schaw, As the heughs and holms o’ the South Countrie ...’ [JBu], v., arch., poet. to show – ‘And after they had shaw’d their backs, Yet Tyndale men they turn’d again ...’ [CPM], ‘Let Rubserlaw to Jedburgh shaw, Sad news, that Whitslade’s dead’ [CWS], ‘He tooke the pith of a parson’s faithe, And shaw’d it on his loofe ...’ [JTe], ‘...And rather wad in ward be thrown Than shaw the gait to sic a man’ [AD], ‘...but the righteous shaws mercie an’ gies’ [HSR], ‘My mouth sall shaw furt thy richeousniss an’ salvatone a’ the daye ...’ [HSR], Shaw (shaw) n. Maj. George Boyd ‘Tarry’ (1917–2004) born in Hawick High School and then worked in Hawick’s woollen mills. He enlisted in the Scots Grey’s in 1934, and quickly became known as a brilliant horseman. He was promoted to quartermaster, then Sergeant Major. He saw active service in the Middle East, Italy, France, the Netherlands and on into Germany. After the War he was quartermaster sergeant, and helped prepare horses for the winning British team at the 1952 Olympics. He retired in 1967, having served as Regimental Sergeant Major in several overseas postings. He was also the last rough rider in the regiment, being the only man who could tame the wildest horses. He married Nancy Cressey and they had 3 sons and 2 daughters. Jane née Hunter (19th/20th C.) daughter of commission agent James Hunter, she married printer William Clegg. She kept a china shop up a few steps at 5 Silver Street (which had previously been the Post Office and then Mungo Wilson’s). She later moved to 68 High Street (which had previously been the Clegg. She kept a china shop up a few steps at ‘...A hantle o’ mense to oor dull heids send, And shaw us the airt to gae’ [WL] (also spelled ‘schaw’; not recently local pronunciation).

Rev. Robert ‘Robbie’ (1780–1853) youngest son of George, minister of Abbotshall, and brother of the minister of Langholm. He was born at Abbotshall in Fife. He studied at the United College in St. Andrews and was licensed to preach by St. Andrews Presbytery in 1802. In 1804 he was appointed preacher at Teviothead ‘chapel-of-ease’ and was ordained there in 1807. In 1816 he was translated to Ewes Kirk, where he was presented by Charles, Duke of Buccleuch and became assistant and successor to John Laurie (son of the minister of Hawick). He wrote an account of that parish in 1835, including a discussion of Moss paul. In 1818 he married Mary, daughter of William H. Moncrieff, minister of Annan (and brother of David Moncrieff of Hawick). Their children were: George (b.1819), farmer at Dinlees; Jane (b.1820); Margaret (b.1825); William (b.1827); Ann Janet (b.1831); Marion (b.1837); and Helen Mary (b.1839). T. (17th C.) probably a local heritor or perhaps a factor of the Douglasses of Cavers. He was ‘T. Shaw of Cavers’ in 1641 when he was one of the Roxburghshire men who signed a letter to the Privy Council relating to the raising of levies for sending troops to Ireland. His signature also appears on the existing 1638 Covenant of Minigaff (along with Douglas of Cavers). Thomas, K.C. ‘Tammy’ (1850–1937) son of a Dunfermline baker, he went to Edinburgh University and trained as a lawyer. A gifted orator, he entered politics, becoming M.P. for the Hawick Burghs in 1892, defeating Robert Fraser Watson. He won a bye-election in 1894 and held the seat until 1909. He was made was Solicitor General for Scotland and Lord Advocate of Scotland, became Lord Shaw of Dunfermline and ended as Lord Craigmyle. He was also responsible for advising Andrew Carnegie on disposing of £20 million on causes within Scotland, including the Carnegie Trust for the Universities of Scotland. He was a Liberal, with strong views on home-rule, the South African War and law reform. He was made an Honorary Burgess in 1904 on the opening of the new Public Library in Hawick. He made the presentation of Tom Scott’s ‘Return from Horns-hole’ at the 1898 Colour Bussing. He served in a judicial capacity in the House of Lords and the Privy Council until 1929, although without any obvious distinction. He also served on many commissions and public inquiries. He published two unconventional autobiographies, ‘Letters to Isabel’ (1921) and ‘The Other Bundle’ (1927), as well as legal works, biographies and 2 plays in verse. He was succeeded as 2nd Baron Craigmyle by his son Alexander. Rev. William Berry ‘Willie’ (1775/6–1856) eldest son of George, minister at Abbotshall, he studied at St. Andrews University and was licensed to preach in 1799. His brother ‘Robbie’ was minister at Teviothead and then Ewes. At St. Andrews he shared a room with Thomas Chalmers, who became leader of the Free Kirk Disruption. He acted as assistant to Rev. Thomas Elliot at Cavers in 1801 and later in that year was ordained as assistant minister and successor at Robertson. However, he demitted in 1812 when he became the new minister at Langholm. During the intervening period he assisted the previous minister, James Hay, who had retired for his health, but recovered and took up his duties again in 1812. He remained at Langholm until his death. He was an anti-Reformist, in 1817 calling those from Langholm who wrote a Reformist petition ‘idle, profligate miscreants’. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He married Eliza, youngest daughter of Henry Scott of Deloraine in 1813; she was the ‘Bonnie lass of Deloraine’ in a poem of the Ettrick Shepherd’s, and along with her sister Margaret, they were the prototypes for ‘Minna’ and ‘Brenda’ in Sir Walter Scott’s ‘The Pirate’. Their children were George, William, Henry, Margaret, Jane and Elizabeth. He wrote ‘Five Single Sermons’ (published in Hawick, 1810), ‘Sermons, Doctrinal and Practical’ (1859) and a sermon in Gillan’s ‘Scottish Pulpit’.
Shawbrae

It is said that when he signed the Confession of Faith he added a flourish which looked like ‘E.E.’ perhaps meaning ‘erroribus exceptis’ (‘excepting errors’). William ‘Bill’ (b.c.1805) weaver from England. He was said to be among those who came to Hawick in about 1836, following John Wilson going to the Rochdale area to learn about weaving flannel. In 1841 he was living at Hawick Kirkyard, in 1851 on the Fore Raw and in 1861 at 11 Kirkwynd. His wife was Agnes and their children included Margaret, Janet, James, Molly, Jane, William and Betsy. William Clegg (b.c.1835) son of weaver Bill, he was a printer in Hawick. He married Jane Young, daughter of commission agent James Hunter. Their children included: Ella Young (b.1870); and William Clegg (b.1871).

Shawbrae (straw-brā) n. former name for lands in Ashkirk Parish that were part of Dryden and Clews farms. It is probably associated with the modern Shaw Hill. ‘Longhaugh and Strawbrae’ [sic] is listed in 1780 among the lands whose subsequent was given to Dr. William Elliot, with ‘the Shawbrae pasture-ground’ recorded as part of the boundary of Elliot’s lands.

Shawburn (shawn) (shawn) pp., poet. shown – ‘...his rich- terrorousness he heth opinlie shawn in the sicht o’ the hearthin’ [HSR].

Shaws (shawz) n. former name for lands near Hawick. It is listed among the Baron’s lands in Hawick in 1615. It is also listed in the 1627 valuation of the lands in Hawick Parish, between Weensland and ‘Trowhauch’ in the list, and hence probably somewhere in that area. It is described as ‘three lands callit the Schawis’ and ‘paying presentlie 12 bolls; estimat to 8 bolls in stok and 2 bolls in teynd’ annually (it is ‘Schawis’ in 1615).

Shaws (shawz) n. area around Shaws Under Loch, south of Shaw’s Hill, between the Ettrick and Ale valleys, once a farm owned by the Waughts. This may be the Shaws held by Walter Scott (along with Berrybush) in 1513. It may be the ‘Schawis’ tenanted by the Laird of Cranston in 1541, valued at £10 and ‘in rental’ £22. It is possible this was the ‘three merk land of Shaws’ granted to William Scott of Horsleyhill in 1653. It was owned by John Ker in 1678 and by Charles Scott of Woll in 1785, and valued at £204 3s 4d.

A stone cist and bones were discovered here in about 1870, at the nearby ‘Sleepy Knowe’. There are several other local places called ‘Shaws’ (it is ‘Schawis’ in 1513 and 1670).

Shaws (shawz) n. farm to the east of the B6399 where the Roughley Burn meets the Hermitage Water. It is probably ‘Le Schewis’ which in 1428/9 was granted to Archibald Douglas of Cavers by William, Earl of Angus, and ‘le Schawis’ when granted to William Douglas of Cavers in 1470, with sasine given 2 years later. It was probably the seat of the Elliots called ‘the Shaws’ in the 16th century. In 1541 the tenants was Robert Elliot and the lands were valued at 5 merks. ‘Hob of the Schawis’ (an Elliot) is recorded in 1569. Gavin Elliot of ‘the Schawis’ was there in 1611. Robert Henderson and William Watson were there in 1694. In the 1718 survey of properties of the Scotts of Buccleuch it was combined with Newlands, the farms together covering 245 acres, bounded by Roughley, Cleuchhead, Toftholm, Netherraw and Millburnholm, and including some land on the west side of 300 m and is topped with a triangulation pillar. It also contains the remains of a fort and settlement, now within a clearing of the forest. It may be of early Iron Age date, with later construction phases, since it consists of different walls and ramparts, covering about 90 m by 50 m. It has also been suggested that the last period of construction may be post-Roman.

Shaw Craigs (shaw-kraithz) n. rocky hill on the boundary between Southdean and Jedburgh Parishes, just north of Lethem. It reaches a height of the river; the farmhouse seems to be in much the same place as the modern one, and woods are also shown, including young alders, between the farmhouses. In the latter part of the 19th century the tenant was Mr. Ballantyne and the farm extended all the way to Steele Road. The New Statistical Account reports in 1839 the existence of 2 circular earthworks on the farm (it is ‘Iye Schawis’ in 1472, ‘Schawis in’ 1541, 1569 and 1574, ‘the Shawes’ in 1581, ‘ye Schawis’ in 1623 and ‘Shawes’ in 1694; it is marked as ‘Shawis’ on Gordon’s c. 1650 map, ‘Shawes’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map, ‘Shawes’ on the 1718 Bucleuch survey and ‘Shaws’ on Stobie’s 1770 map).

2715

Shaw’s Brae (shawz-brä) n. slope just to the south-east of where the Roughley Burn meets the Hermitage Water, being essentially a south-western extension of Arnton Fell.

Shaw’s Bush (shawz-bush) n. name for a strip of plantation on the former Minto estate, south of the old church, and now forming part of the north-eastern boundary of the gold course.

Shaw’s Close (shawz-klös) n. popular name for a close off the High Street in the mid-19th century, with uncertain position. Presumably someone called Shaw once resided there.

Shawshield Rig (shawz-sheel-rig) n. ridge in Liddesdale, essentially being the lower south-west part of Arnton Fell, between Newlands and the Steele. There are remains of a turf-walled building and field systems there. It was presumably once the shiel for Shaw’s farm.

Shaws Plantin (shawz-plawn-tin) n. former name for a plantation to the north of Spittal Tower (marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map).

Shaws Under Loch (shawz-un-dur-loch) n. small body of water on the Langhope Burn, north of Hellmoor, with the upper loch nearby.

Sheafs (sheefs) n., pl. sheaves.

to reap, cut hay – ‘I tine, that na persone nor peronnis scheir medowis, balkis, or haynit gers thifteouslie ...’ [BR1640], ‘Several parties fined for going away to scheir, and ordered to remove fra the town for ane year’ [EM1820], ‘Thaye that saw in teers, sall scheir in joy’ [HSR], ‘... guid at scheirin’ [JAHM] (also spelled ‘scheir’, ‘sheer’, etc.).

Shearer (sheer-rur) n., arch. a reaper, harvester – ‘He was once kemping with a celebrated shearer ...’ [RM].

Shearer’s Braid (sheer-rurz-breed) n., arch. bread given to reapers as a snack during harvest – ‘... there having been a want of meal for sheaers' bread in the farm-hoose of Bedrule ...’ [EM1820].

Shears (sheerz) n., pl. any kind of scissors or clippers – ‘My only problem, as he clacked his shears, The wee hairs that kept kiltlin nose and ears’ [WL], arch. the socket of a garden fork (i.e. the bifurcated metal piece that fits over the wooden shaft), ‘the lang shears’ means a period of difficult labour – ‘She’ll some throw the lang shears’ [GW] (also spelled ‘sheers’, ‘shiers’, etc.).

Shebeen (she-been) n., arch. an unlicensed drinking establishment – ‘... stigmatising them as licensed or legalised shebeens, and the members of such, as shebeeners’ [JE].

Sheekum (she-kum) n. nickname for one of the mill bosses of the Laidlaw family, who had both a speech impediment and a propensity for firing employees. This was probably Thomas, who was also known as ‘Secky’.

Sheeky (she-kee) n. nickname for several members of the Wilson family.

Sheed (shed) n. a parting, especially in hair, division – ‘which road div ec h w yer shed?’’, ‘...But ance on a time fu’ trig he’e I seen him, Spruced up like a gent, wi’ a shed in his hair’ [TCh], ‘...A gaed an got masel cleaned ..., a shed i ma hair, a lick o bleckneen on ma buits, an a skuff doon owre the knowes an fells’ [ECS], ‘...which road div ee hev yer shed?’’, ‘...For the sheep would never shed at all, unless on a slope ...’ [HSR] (from Old English).

Sheddi (she-di, -da, -de) n., arch. a shadow – ‘... wui the efternuin sun daabin sheddihs oot the act of separating sheep – ‘They separated them ... and the process was called the shedding’ [HSR], ‘And sae, as the crying gangs up i’ the Border Bi Tarras and Sheih see sheid

the Shed Yairds (thu-shed-yärds) n., pl.

name sometimes used in the 19th century for the land that was Dickson’s nursery ground and became Oliver Place.

sheel (sheed) v., arch.

to remove the outer husk, supply with grain husks especially as fuel for a mill klin – ‘The council appoint every one to pay for burning and sheeling every kill 4 shillings Scots . . .’ [BR1729] (also written ‘sheal’).

sheelins (sheel-inz) n., pl., arch.

outer husks of grain.

sheen (sheen) n., poet.

shine, brightness – ‘At the sheene that was afore him, his thyk clude passet . . .’ [HSR].

sheep drain (sheep-drain) n.

an open drain, especially on a hill farm – ‘Among the principal improvements . . . is certainly the sheep drains. These are mostly surface drains’ [RAN].

sheep-eik (sheep-eek) n., arch.

the natural grease in sheep’s wool (see eik).

sheep-fauld (sheep-fawld) n.

a sheepfold, enclosure for protecting sheep from the weather – ‘When the stones were being removed to make the Hardlee sheep-faulds, some sepulchral remains were found . . .’ [GT], ‘He chuse David alsua his servant, an’ tuik him frae the sheepe-falds’ [HSR]

(see also fauld).

sheep-rake (sheep-räk) n., arch.

a sheep walk, the path made by grazing sheep.

sheep-root (sheep-roo’) n., arch.

the butterwort, Pinguicula vulgaris – ‘This is named Sheep-root, Roxb., also Clowns. It is said to receive the root of the couch-grass or dog-grass, Triticum repens (noted by J. Jamieson).

sheep’s cheese (sheeps-cheez) n., arch.

the root of the couch-grass or dog-grass, Triticum repens (noted by J. Jamieson).

sheep’s gowan (sheeps-gow-in) n., arch.

the white clover or trefoil, Trifolium repens.

sheep-stell (sheep-stel) n., arch.

a round-walled enclosure for sheltering or gathering sheep (see stell).

sheepy meh (shee-pee-me) n.

childish, or humorous name for a sheep – ‘oo saw sheepy meh an moo cows at the fern’.

sheh see hyeh

shei (shi) pron., arch.

she.

Sheil see Shiel

Shein (sheen) n.

John (17th C.) listed as a ‘fisher’ among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He was also listed as a resident of the east-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. His surname may be a variant of some more well-known name.

sheive see shive

shelfie see shilifie

shelz (shelz) n.

shelves – ‘. . . but this consonantal change is still avoided in haaf (= half), haafs; laif (= loaf), laifs; shelf, shelves’ [ECS].

Sheils (shelz) n.

farmstead marked on Blaeu’s 1564 map in the upper Slitrig valley, perhaps corresponding to Langburnshields (although this is little more than a guess).

sheltie (shelt-tee) n.

a Shetland pony, a small pony generally – ‘A wheen o callants lowsed the girths And loot the sheltie free . . .’ [WL].

shelty see sheltie

the Shepherds (thu-she-purds) n.

one of a number of Friendly Societies existing in Hawick in the latter part of the 19th century. The local branch was Sanctuary ‘Flower of Teviotdale’, No. 5771.

Sheridan (she-ri-din) n.

Francis ‘Big Frank’ (1837–1870) probably Hawick’s tallest man. He was a native of County Cavan in Ireland, coming to Hawick as a young man. He grew to a height of 7 feet 8 inches, having a 52 inch chest and weighing 22 stone, but also had health problems. He worked as a labourer and as a stock-maker, and apparently refused to go on a traveling show when asked. In 1861 he is recorded as a frame-worker, living on Mather’s Close with his sister Bridget, their mother Helen and step-father Patrick McCart. He was for a while landlord of the Irish Harp pub in Baker Street. His coffin apparently had to be taken out of the window in Baker Street, because it was too large for the stairs, and his funeral was said to be about the best attended in Hawick up until that time. He is buried in the Wellogate and his walking stick is in the Museum.

sherrif see shiriff

sherk (sherk) n.

a shark – ‘hei’s a right sherk on the pool table’ (also shairk).

sherp (sherp) adj.

sharp – ‘hei was aye it the sherp end o the airgiments’, ‘yer tongue’s that sherp, ee’ll cut yersel’, ‘Thy arras ar sherp in the pool table’ (also shairk).

*Francis ‘Big Frank’ (she-ri-din) (1837–1870) probably Hawick’s tallest man. He was a native of County Cavan in Ireland, coming to Hawick as a young man. He grew to a height of 7 feet 8 inches, having a 52 inch chest and weighing 22 stone, but also had health problems. He worked as a labourer and as a stock-maker, and apparently refused to go on a traveling show when asked. In 1861 he is recorded as a frame-worker, living on Mather’s Close with his sister Bridget, their mother Helen and step-father Patrick McCart. He was for a while landlord of the Irish Harp pub in Baker Street. His coffin apparently had to be taken out of the window in Baker Street, because it was too large for the stairs, and his funeral was said to be about the best attended in Hawick up until that time. He is buried in the Wellogate and his walking stick is in the Museum.*
Sherwenlaw (sher-win-law) n. hill and place name somewhere near Jedburgh. It is ‘Schorwinglein’ in a charter for Jedburgh Abbey in the time of King David, and ‘Xernwingslawe’ in a confirming charter of Earl Henry. Later Christiana, wife of Gervase Riddell, gave a third of her lands of ‘Hernwingeslawe’ to the monks of Jedburgh. ‘Sire Wautier de Sherwynclawe’ swore fealty to Edward I in 1296; the same man was ‘de Sherewyndelawe’ when he had his lands restored later in 1296. It is possible that this is the same place as Shirenscleuch near Bellendean, but it is more likely it is an ancient form of Mervinslaw. Sir ‘Joceto de Scherwynclawe’ was witness to a charter relating to Kelso Abbey in about 1328 (recorded as early as the mid-12th century, the origin may be from Old English ‘sceorft’, meaning ‘steep slope’, plus ‘wynd’, or from the local dialect ‘shirrew’, meaning ‘field mouse’).

Sherwood (sher-wood) n. Andrew Godfrey Purvis (1950–) born in Kenya, he studied violin and composition at the Royal College of Music. He became Professor of Violin at Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance. He has been principal conductor for the European Youth Summer Music, Director of the Brighton Youth Orchestra, Musical Director of the Musicians of All Saints, Director of Music and Choirs at the University of Brighton and Conductor of Somerset County Youth Orchestra. He married Mary Helen Hepburne-Scott and they live near Lilliesleaf. He wrote a piece called ‘Heart of Hawick’ to celebrate the opening of the new centre in 2008. He has also been involved in reviving pieces by local composers, particularly Francis George Scott and Sir John Blackwood McEwen.

She’s (sheez) contr. she’s, she is, ‘she’s an awfi blether’, she has – ‘she’s the scar ti prove eet’, ‘she’s the same mother, bit a different fither’ (this second form is less common in English).

Sheugh (shooch) n., arch., poet. a ditch, trench, furrow, muddy drain – ‘... an’ heth fa’n intil the seuch whilk he madde’ [HSR], ‘Forgotten was our snaw-wreathed road, It’s hidden sheughs o’ water’ [VW], ‘... each seuch an heidie-hole i thir verra rigs was den for faire lodgey in fechtin-graith’ [ECS] (also written ‘scheuch’, ‘seuch’ and variants; the pronunciation formerly had a long diphthong merging i and oo).

Shew (shoo, syoo) v., arch. to sew – ‘Yince in a day the maist o this wheit-seem was shewed be hand’ [ECS], ‘... Quoth she, ‘Oh get a pair o’ horns. I’ll shue them on ye. An’ make a goat o’ ye whilk conforms Ti sic a loonie’ ’[WP], n., arch. a sew, stitching (note these older pronunciations; also spelled ‘shue’ etc.).

Shewin (shoo-win) pp., arch. shown, exhibited, displayed as proof – ‘... ane Act extract be ... clerk of our Judiciary, under his subscriptioun manuale, schewin and producit befor the saidis Lordis ... ’ [SB1500] (also written ‘schewin’).

Shew-up (shoo-up) n., arch. a bankruptcy, closing and winding-up of a business.

Shiel (sheel) n., arch. a temporary hut or other rough building used by shepherds – ‘Weel Nature accords wi’ the sorrow I feel, As I gaze on the site o’ my grandfather’s shiel’ [DA], (also shielin; it survives in the names of many steadings and other place names; Adderstoneshieil, Hawick Shiel, Shiellawshiel, Ropelawshiel, Shiel Burn, Shiel Cleuch, Shiel Rig, Shiel Sike, Shielswood).

Shiel (sheel) n. Adam (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was Margaret Goodfellow and their son Thomas was born in Hawick Parish in 1656. William (b.1647) is probably also his son. The James born in 1650 to Adam and ‘Janet goodfawlor’ may also be his son. Agnes (17th C.) recorded as tenants in Lustruther in a 1669 rental roll of Jedforest. Alexander (15th C.) witness to a 1479 sasine for the lands of Wolfelee for the Homes of Wedderburn, where he is ‘Schevil’. He is probably related to David. Andrew (15th/16th C.) tenant somewhere in the Rule valley, listed in the 1516 remission for several Turnbulls and others for providing assistance to Alexander, Lord Home in plotting against the King. His brother William and son John are also listed, their surname being recorded as ‘Schewill’. David in ‘Hop-piston’ and David in ‘Langrau’ are also listed. He could be the same Andrew, ‘alias Dand’, who was listed in 1502 along with David, being among Turnbulls and others called to answer for the murder of Robert Oliver; George Turnbull of Hallrule was fined for his non-appearance and he was declared a fugitive and his goods forfeited. Andrew (17th C.) resident of Gatehousecote recorded in 1684 for failing to appear in Jedburgh when cited. Margaret Lorraine (who was married to a Shiel, Sir Thomas Kerr of Ferniehirst was ordered to gar in Langraw in 1567. He was among men who David Englishmen. David was probably related to the other Shiels who were any role in assisting Alexander, Lord Home. He was listed among many Turnbulls for assisting the traitorous Homes. The lands were in Rulewater, possibly Hobsburn.

Archibald (17th C.) tenant in Mackside. He is listed in 1684 among those declared as fugitives for refusing to take ‘the Test’. He may have been related to Walter in Abbotrule and John in Gatehousecote, who were also listed. Catherine (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when she was listed on the Hearth Tax roll among ‘ye poor’. David (15th C.) witness to a sasine in 1479 for the lands of Wolfelee for the Homes of Wedderburn. His surname is recorded as ‘Schevile’. Alexander is listed right after him, and so probably related. David (15th/16th C.) listed in 1502 along with Andrew, being among Turnbulls and others called to answer for the murder of Robert Oliver. George Turnbull of Hallrule was fined for his non-appearance and he was declared a fugitive and his goods forfeited. He could be the same as one of the contemporary Davids from Rulewater. David (15th/16th C.) tenant at ‘Hoppiston’, recorded in the 1516 remission for many Turnbulls for assisting the traitorous Homes. The lands he farmed were in Rulewater, possibly Hobsburn. David (15th/16th C.) tenant at Langraw in 1516, when he was listed among many Turnbulls for any role in assisting Alexander, Lord Home. He was probably related to the other Shiels who were listed there. David (16th C.) tenant in Fodderlee. In 1567 he was listed among men on lands under the superiority of Sir Thomas Kerr of Ferniehirst who was ordered to present to crimes against Englishmen. David (16th C.) recorded as ‘youn-gar in Langraw’ in 1567. He was among men who Sir Thomas Kerr of Ferniehirst was ordered to present to answer changes of raiding into England. David in Fodderlee was also listed and probably related. David (18th C.) listed as house servant at Borthwickbrae in 1791, when he was working for John Elliot. David (b.1826/7) grocer and spirit dealer on Mather’s Close on the 1861 census. His wife was Jessie and their children included James, Walter, George, Margaret and Agnes E. Edward (16th/17th C.) tenant at Langhaugh in Rulewater, recorded in 1605. George (17th C.) recorded paying tax on £52 for Langraw on the 1663 and 1678 Land Tax Rolls for Hobkirk Parish. Probably the same George in Langraw had his will recorded in 1688. Perhaps he is the ‘George Scheel’ who died in 1691 and was buried in Hobkirk Parish, his gravestone bearing a tailor’s ‘goose’ and pair of shears, indicating that he was a tailor. He is surely related to Lyle, who was at Langraw in 1643. He is probably the George, part of whose lands (along with ‘Boston’s half of Kirk-know’) were listed among the possessions of Elliot of Wolfelee in 1788, and valued at £22 15s. George (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He married Ann Pott (or Potts) and their children included Adam (b.1774), James (b.1776), Janet (b.1778) and Janet (again, b.1780). His father James died in Hawick in 1787. Gilbert (15th C.) recorded at the Justice-aire held in Jedburgh in 1494/5. He was ‘Gilbertus schevil in bethroul’ and was fined for non-appearance, with his surety being his wife (whose name is not given). He was separately listed when he had remission for several crimes, including: burning Minto; being a supporter of Alexander, Duke of Albany; stealing many sheep from Minto Craigend and from several different people in Bedrule; stealing an ox from Fulton; and stealing 40 silver shillings and a stone of butter. His surety for these entries was the Laird of Bedrule. In 1494/5 he was again listed being ‘in bethroul’ among a group of 8 Olivers who had remission for communing with the English. He may be the same man as ‘Gilbert Schell’ who witnessed a sasine for Wolfelee in 1469. Hector (15th/16th C.) recorded at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh in 1502. Along with the Laird of Bedrule he had remission for stealing 9 sheep from Matthew Dodd out of Dolphinston. His surety was George Turnbull in Hallrule. Hector (17th C.) captured along with George of the Bog and presented for trial by Robert, Lord Maxwell, Warden of the West Marches. They were accused of murdering James Paterson and William Gieghorn in Langlandhill and for raids on Peebles and Tweeddale as well as on the Captain of Edinburgh at Catslack in Ettrick Forest. He was probably executed along with George of the Bog. Hector (17th C.) son of John, tenant of Kirknowe in Hobkirk Parish. In 1621, along with his father, he was pronounced as a rebel for cutting ‘greenwood’ in the woods of William, Lord Cranstoun. In 1618 he and Jenet Sinclair (who had remarried the minister of Hobkirck, Rev. Thomas Thomson) and her son Andrew Brydon had a ‘wadset’ for the 2 acres of land in the Kirkaugh beside Hobkirck Kirk. This was with the consent of Bessie Turnbull, who may therefore have been his wife. Hector (17th C.) resident of the Hassendean part of Roberton Parish. He married Margaret Young in 1687 and their daughter Helen was baptised in 1688. The witnesses were John Hope and Robert Scott. He is probably the cottar at Newton in Hassendean Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Hector (17th/18th C.) resident of Hobkirk Parish. His children included James (b.1701) and Thomas (b.1704). He could be the Hector who married Margaret Young in Roberton Parish in 1687. Hugh ‘Hog’ (15th/16th C.) tenant in Hobsburn, recorded at the 1494/5 Justice-aire held in Jedburgh. The Sheriff of Roxburghshire was fined for his non-appearance, although his crimes were not specified; his name is given as ‘hoigis schevil’. Probably the same man was recorded as ‘hugone schewill alias hoge’ in 1502 at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh, among many men said to be guilty of the murder of Robert Oliver. George Turnbull of Hallrule was fined for him failing to appear and he was declared as a fugitive. He was probably related to Andrew and David who are also listed. James (16th C.) tenant in Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme’s farm at Blackgrain (in the Yarrow valley) according to his last testament of 1574. An inventory of the cattle there is provided in the testament. James (d.c.1694) tenant of Southdean Mill. He was witness to the baptism of a daughter of John Ker of Shaw in Southdean Kirk in 1681. His will is recorded in 1694. James (17th C.) farmer in Hassendean Parish. He is recorded being at Easter Burnfoot when his children were baptised in Roberton Parish in 1682 and 1688. In 1686, along with his son John, he rented the lands of Knowe from William Scott. He is probably the James who witnessed a baptism for another James in Hassendean in 1687. He was recorded in Hassendeaburn in 1694 and his son John may be the resident of Midshiels at that time. He could be the James ‘in Knowhead’ whose will is recorded in 1689. He could be the James who witnessed a baptism for George Riddell in Roberton Parish in 1681 and another for Walter Sanderson in 1683. He married Christian Miller in Roberton in 1681 and their children included: Margaret (b.1682); Margaret (b.1682); William (b.1685); and Janet (b.1688). The 1682 witnesses were William Beattie and James … and in 1688 were Thomas and Walter Sanderson. James (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish, when it contained Hassendean. He married Janet Shiel and their children included Bessie and Isobel (b.1687). The witnesses were William Scott and James Shiel (probably the other man of the same name who was at Easter Burnfoot). James (16th C.) tenant of Langraw in 1693. Also in 1693 he is the James ‘called of Tour, indweller’ at Langraw who witnessed a sasine between Gilbert Elliott of Stonedge and Sir John Pringle of Stichell. Probably the same James ‘portioner of Langraw’ was recorded on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls for Hobkirk Parish. He was probably related to George, recorded in Langraw in 1688. James (17th C.) resident at Boosmill in Lilliesleaf Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls, when he paid tax on 2 hearths. James (b.1770/1) born in Eckford Parish, he was farmer at Hassendean. He is recorded there in 1841 and in 1851 was farmer of 1,000 acres, employing 11 labourers. His wife was Helen, and their children included James, Andrew (who continued with the farm) and John (who assisted his brother). James (1776-1858) weaver of West Port who was one of the founders of the Relief Kirk in Hawick. In 1841 he was living at about No. 3 Loan. He married Agnes Elliot and their children included: George (b.1807); Margaret (b.1809), who probably married Burgh Officer Jamie Smith; Ann (b.1812); Thomas (b.1814); James (b.1821); John; and David. He had twin sons who died in 1819. James (18th/19th C.) horsedealer of Hawick. He is recorded in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He could be the carter whose unnamed child died in Hawick in 1808. James (b.c.1795) farmer at Greenvraeheads. He is recorded there in 1841, along with his brothers John and Robert, and their mother Janet. He was probably son of Robert, recorded there in 1797. By 1861 he was farmer at Little Whitlaw, unmarried and living with his brother John and sister Janet. He was still recorded at Little Whitlaw in 1868. James (18th/19th C.) son of Thomas. He married Margaret Common, who died at Southdean Schoolhouse in 1868, aged 90. Their children included: Thomas (1808-56), Schoolmaster in Hobkirk; and Mary (b.1816/7), who married Neil Taylor, schoolmaster at Southdean. John (b.c.1810), who was living with Thomas and Mary at Hobkirk Schoolhouse in 1841, was probably also his son. He died at the age of 47 and is buried at Borthwick Waas, along with his wife and parents. James (b.1805/6) innkeeper of the Coach & Horses at the Tower Knowe. He is listed on Silver Street in 1851 and on Teviot Square in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1861 he was a grocer at 30 High Street. His wife was Janet, and she died before 1861. Their children included Janet and Isabella. James (19th C.) listed as Clerk of the Course at the Common Riding Races of 1873. He is probably the same as one of the contemporary Jameses. James (b.1830/1) born in Oxnam Parish, he was farmer at Hassendean. In 1861 he was farming there jointly with his uncles Andrew and John. James (d.1919) born in the West End, he became Registrar, Inspector of the Poor and Clerk of the Burial Ground for Wilton Parish in the latter part of the 19th century. He was the first Registrar of Wilton, following the Registration Act of 1854. His full time job was as foreman in one of the factories at Damside. In 1861 he is listed as Inspector of Poor & Registrar on Albion Place. His later office (and probably house) was at 2 Laing Terrace. He was also later Clerk and Treasurer of Hawick Combination Poorhouse. Probably the same James was a singer at the Colour Bussing and similar events. His wife was Helen and their children included James, Andrew and Janet Helen. James (19th C.) proprietor of the West End Bar in the latter part of the 19th century. A stone bottle labelled with his name is in the Museum. He may be the Mr. Shiel who lived in the new house built at the foot of the Loan (and by the entrance to the Poorhouse) about 1879. John (15th C.) listed at the 1493 Justice-aire in Jedburgh when William Douglas of Cavers was fined for his non-appearance. He was recorded as son of ‘tassy’, although it is unclear if this was a forename or a nickname. He was again cited for non-appearance in 1494/5. John (16th C.) servant of Robert Elliot and brother of Steven. He is recorded as ‘John Shevell his man’ in a list of men accused in 1590 of stealing livestock from Middleton Hall in England in 1589. He was named along with ‘Gib Elliot son to Robin’, John Noble (another servant of Robert Elliot) and other Elliots and Croziers. He was also listed along with Steven, and Elliots of the Steele, the Park, Binks, and others, who were complained about in 1590 for a raid into England. Probably the same ‘Jock Sheile’ is accused along with Steven in another case of stealing from Sir John Forster’s tenants in ‘Cowperhaugh’. Probably the same Jock, along with Steven, Jenkin Nixon and Will Elliot of the Steele, was accused in 1590 of stealing from Roland Walker. Additionally he was probably the John, named along with Steven, among Elliots, Nixons and others who in 1590 were accused by the tenants of Woodhall of stealing from them, and the John, named along with Steven and several Elliots accused of having raided Dotland a couple of years earlier. He was listed explicitly as ‘Jock Sheill Robin Elliot’s man’ in another case of 1590, with his brother Steven and several Nixons, Croziers and others, accused of stealing from the Wilkinsons of ‘Lynbrigges’; his name was given before Steven’s and so he was presumably the older brother. John ‘Jock’ (17th C.) tenant in Kirknowe when accused in 1590 of raiding the English farm of Middleton Hall in 1589. He was ‘Younge Jocc Sheile of Kyrknowe’ and ‘Jock Sheile of the Kirkeknowe’ listed along with Douglasses, Laidlaws, Turnbulls and others who were accused of stealing livestock and goods. He was probably an ancestor of the later Shiel of Kirknowe. John (17th C.) tenant in Kirknowe in Hobkirk Parish, recorded in 1621. He and his son Hector were denounced as rebels for cutting down ‘greenwood’ on the land of William, Lord Cranstoun. In 1666 he (or his direct descendant) sold half the land to John Mair of Mackside. His son was Hector. Either the same John or his father was recorded as ‘John Schewill in Kirknow’ in 1610 in an inquest for the succession to Appotside and Tythehouse. They were surely related to Walter of Kirknowe who was recorded in 1643. John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Malie Grieve and their children included: Robert (b.1648). John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Elspeth Riddell and their children included: James Shiel (b.1656). John (17th C.) tenant in Boosmill. Along with his brother (whose first name is not given) he was declared a fugitive in 1684 for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. John (17th C.) tenant in Gatehousecote listed in 1684 among men proclaimed as rebels for being Covenanters. John (17th C.) resident of Denholm on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Perhaps the same John had a son Adam baptised in Cavers Parish in 1695. John (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish. His children included Adam (b.1691) and William (b.1695). His name is recorded as ‘Sheil’ with Steven in another case of stealing from Sir John Forster’s tenants in ‘Cowperhaugh’. Probably the same Jock, along with Steven, Jenkin Nixon and Will Elliot of the Steele, was accused in 1590 of stealing from Roland Walker. Additionally he was probably the John, named along with Steven, among Elliots, Nixons and others who in 1590 were accused by the tenants of Woodhall of stealing from them, and the John, named along with Steven and several Elliots accused of having raided Dotland a couple of years earlier. He was listed explicitly as ‘Jock Sheill Robin Elliot’s man’ in another case of 1590, with his brother Steven and several Nixons, Croziers and others, accused of stealing from the Wilkinsons of ‘Lynbrigges’; his name was given before Steven’s and so he was presumably the older brother. John ‘Jock’ (17th C.) tenant in Kirknowe when accused in 1590 of raiding the English farm of Middleton Hall in 1589. He was ‘Younge Jocc Sheile of Kyrknowe’ and ‘Jock Sheile of the Kirkeknowe’ listed along with Douglasses, Laidlaws, Turnbulls and others who were accused of stealing livestock and goods. He was probably an ancestor of the later Shiel of Kirknowe. John (17th C.) tenant in Kirknowe in Hobkirk Parish, recorded in 1621. He and his son Hector were denounced as rebels for cutting down ‘greenwood’ on the land of William, Lord Cranstoun. In 1666 he (or his direct descendant) sold half the land to John Mair of Mackside. His son was Hector. Either the same John or his father was recorded as ‘John Schewill in Kirknow’ in 1610 in an inquest for the succession to Appotside and Tythehouse. They were surely related to Walter of Kirknowe who was recorded in 1643. John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Malie Grieve and their children included: Robert (b.1648). John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Elspeth Riddell and their children included: James Shiel (b.1656). John (17th C.) tenant in Boosmill. Along with his brother (whose first name is not given) he was declared a fugitive in 1684 for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. John (17th C.) tenant in Gatehousecote listed in 1684 among men proclaimed as rebels for being Covenanters. John (17th C.) resident of Denholm on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Perhaps the same John had a son Adam baptised in Cavers Parish in 1695. John (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish. His children included Adam (b.1691) and William (b.1695). His name is recorded as ‘Sheils’. John (17th C.) resident at Shiel

Swinnie according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was probably related to Thomas who was also listed there. John (17th/18th C.) resident in Hawick Parish. He was recorded as ‘theiker’ (i.e. thatcher) in 1704 when his son John was baptised, with witnesses gardener Patrick McLellan and weaver David Miller. Perhaps the same John was ‘workman in Hawick’ in 1706 when his daughter Bessie was baptised, with witnesses Gideon Scott of Falnash and Bailie George Martin. He may be the John who witnessed a baptism for smith John Scott in 1708. John (17th/18th C.) lived at Dodheadshiels in Yarrow Parish. In 1728 his unnamed son was baptised in Robertson Parish. It is unclear what his connection was to this parish. John (18th C.) from Cavers Parish; in 1733 he married Helen Bell from Hawick. John (18th C.) farmer at Kirknowe who was a significant Hobkirk parishioner in the early 1700s. The land of Kirknowe was in possession of the Shiels from before the Reformation. The part that he held was formerly called Hobkirksyle or just Kirkstyle. He held it from at least 1718. His only daughter was Janet, who married Richard, son of John Mair. He left his lands to his grandson, John Stephenson, according to a settlement dated 1749 and ratified in 1759. John (18th/19th C.) recorded as miller at Weensland Mill in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. John (b.1805/6) born in Jedburgh, was farmer at Hassendean, along with his older brother Andrew and nephew James. In 1861 they are jointly recorded as farmers of 250 acres, employing 14 people. John ‘Jocky’ (19th/20th C.) proprietor of a tobacconist and sweet shop at the corner of the Loan and Beaconsfield Terrace. Leon (15th/16th C.) listed as ‘Leonem Schavil’ when he was on the 1517 panel of ‘retour’ for Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme. Lyle (15th C.) recorded in 1493 when he failed to appear when called by William Douglas, Sheriff of Roxburghshire, at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh in 1493; he appears right after Routledges and Douglasses who were probably local to the Cavers area. He was again recorded in 1494/5, when the Sheriff was once more fined for his non-appearance. Lyle (17th C.) recorded in 1643 as owner of lands in Hobkirk Parish valued at £52. His listed after George Turnbull of Langraw as ‘Lyll Scheil there’. He is surely related to who held the same lands in 1663. Robert (17th/18th C.) gardener at Alton in 1711. His children, baptised in Wilton Parish, included: Margaret (b.1711); and James (b.1715). He is probably the Robert married to Janet Smith whose daughter Jean was baptised in 1718. Robert (18th C.) farmer at Greenbraeheads in 1797, according to the Horse Tax Rolls. The farmers there in 1841, James, John and Robert, were probably his sons. Rutherford (b.c.1805) farmer at Ulston in Jedburgh Parish. He reported to the inquest in 1837 into election intimidation that there was an attempt to stop him voting in Hawick, and in fact he did not vote. Rutherford (19th/20th C.) bought Mid-shiels from Turnbull of Fenwick in 1896. He is probably the man of the same name who donated an adder killed at Hassendean to the Museum in 1863. Steven (16th C.) recorded in 1590 among Elliots of the Steele, the Park, Binks, and others, when complained about for a raid into England. John was also listed and so presumably a close relative. In another case he and Jock were accused of stealing from Sir John Forster’s tenants in ‘Cowperhaugh’. He was further accused in 1590, along with Jock, Will Elliot of the Steele and Jenkin Nixon of stealing from Roland Walker. Additionally he and John were accused in 1590, along with Elliots, Nixons and others, of stealing from the tenants of Woodhall in England, and the Steven, named along with John and several Elliots accused of having raided Dotland a couple of years earlier. He was listed explicitly as brother of Jock, who was ‘Robin Elliot’s man’ in another case of 1590, along with several Nixons, Croziers and others, accused of stealing from the Wilkinson of ‘Lynbrigges’. Thomas (d.c.1578) recorded as ‘Thomas Schevill’ in 1578/9 when Sir Thomas Turnbull of Bedrule and members of his family were asked to appear before the Privy Council to answer for his murder. The others accused of being involved were Sir Thomas’ sons Wat and Thomas, his nephew John and his son-in-law Edward Lorrain. He was presumably a local man, but it is not known where he was from. Thomas (16th/17th C.) recorded as ‘Thomas Scheill’ in Wauchope in 1605 and ‘Thomas Schewill in Wauchup’ in 1612 when he was witness to a sasine. Rev. Thomas (1630/1–1708) first minister at the newly created Parish of Roberton in 1689. Probably the same ‘Mr. Thomas Shiel’ witnessed a baptism in Hawick Parish (along with Gideon Scott of Outerside) in 1687, suggesting he was already in the area at that time. He was a member of the Assemblies in 1690 and 1692. He was probably the same as the former minister at Kirkbride in Dumfriesshire, who was admitted in 1655, but deprived in 1662. His whereabouts during the time of persecution are unknown, but it seems that he may have settled in the Hawick area and started officiating at Roberton in about 1689. This same minister was restored by Act of Parliament in 1690 and was translated to Sanquhar in 1693, where he remained until his death (as confirmed by a Sanquar Session minute book, starting in 1696 and recording his demise in 1708), and where he is buried. There is a letter dated 1691 from ‘R. Wylie, Wooll, to Tarras’ (i.e. from the minister of Ashkirk to Scott of Harden) saying that he may be kept in the area by offering him Wilton Parish until Roberton is re-erected. There is also an assignation of 1692 in which he requests the stipend from Hassendean to which he claims the right. He was recorded as tenant of the farm of Todshawhaugh, leasing half in 1672 and 1673, all in 1677, until 1693, and being tenant in 1694 along with his son Thomas. It seems likely he was the ‘Mr Thomas Sheill’ who was taxed for having 10 hearths at Lintalee house in 1694 (although why he would have been there at this time is a mystery), as well as being also listed as ‘Mr Tho. Sheill’ when taxed for 3 hearths at Todshawhaugh. The Thomas who married Grizel Dalgleish (daughter of a Westerkirk minister) and had a son Thomas in 1701 was probably his son (since he himself would have been about 70 at the time, and there was no ‘Mr.’ title written). His son William farmed at Todshawhaugh, as clearly stated in a 1696 record. However, there is no documented evidence about his wife and the births of his children. Thomas (17th C.) tenant in Denholm. He is listed in 1684 among men declared as fugitives for religious non-conformity.

Thomas (17th C.) resident at Swinnie according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was probably related to John who was also listed there. Thomas (17th/18th C.) son of Rev. Thomas, he was tenant at Todshawhill. He was recorded as tenant in 1694, along with his father, the minister. In 1699 he rebuilt the farmhouse there on a more convenient site. In 1712 he was ‘in Todshahill’ when he witnessed a baptism in Hawick for James Scott in Stobicote and another in 1713 for a weaver called Douglas. He was in arrears for the rent of Todshawhill in 1713–20. In 1728 he was ‘Mr. Shiel in Todja. . .’ when he witnessed a baptism for Gideon Elliot of Harwood. He is still recorded as the tenant of the farm in 1735. He could be the Thomas of Roberton Parish who married Grizel Dalgleish in Westerkirk Parish in 1701; she was probably daughter of the former minister there, Walter Dalgleish. The couple had a son Thomas who was baptised in Hawick and Roberton Parishes in 1701; one of the witnesses was ‘Mr James Dalgleish’, suggesting his wife’s brother or other near relative was a minister, and it seems likely she was daughter of Walter Dalgleish, outed minister of Westerkirk. Other children born to a Thomas in Roberton Parish (mostly in Todshawhill) were: Jean (b.1717); Grisel (b.1719); Elizabeth (b.1721); an unnamed child (b.1722); Rachel (b.1724); and Robert (b.1726). These seem likely to be the same father, although the gap between children is unusually wide, so perhaps he remarried. His servant Isobel Millar married Walter Scoon in 1720. In 1729 he is described as ‘in Todshawhill’ when his son James became a wright’s apprentice in Edinburgh and when his son Robert became a weaver’s apprentice in 1741. He was no longer tenant by 1745. He was also a joint tenant of Linhope with Walter Grieve in 1729. James Grieve, tenant of Braxholm Park describes (in 1821) how he was son of a Dumfriesshire minister, and had a brother who married the sister of the ‘Bonnie Lass o Braxholm’. However, it is possible there were 2 generations confounded here. Thomas (1723/4–1812) buried in Borthwick Waas, his wife died in 1798. Their children included: James, who died aged 47, and whose son Thomas was Schoolmaster in Hobkirk. He may be the Thomas, son of James and Jean Karr who was born in Bowden Parish in 1723. Thomas (18th C.) paid the cart tax in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1791. Thomas (1808–56) son of James and Margaret Common. He was Schoolmaster at Hobkirk Parish School, perhaps just before Mr. Lightbody. He was already teacher there in 1841, living with his mother, brother John and sister Mary. In 1851 he was living with his mother Margaret in the Hobkirk Schoolhouse. He was listed as Hobkirk schoolmaster in Slater’s 1852 directory. After his death his widow and daughter took over the post office at Bonchester Bridge. However, not long afterwards his sister married the schoolmaster at Chesters. Perhaps the same Thomas was schoolmaster at Cogsmill from 1829. Tibbie (1783–1878) innkeeper in the Yarrow valley. When young she had been a servant with the Ettrick Shepherd’s mother. She married Robert Richardson, a molecatcher from Westmorland. They became tenants of a cottage near Chapelhope, at the upper end of the Loch of the Lowes. In 1823, shortly before her husband died, she moved to the coaching inn at the bridge between St. Mary’s Loch and the Loch of the Lowes. The inn became famous as a meeting place for friends of James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd, including Sir Walter Scott and Professor John Wilson. She had all her mental faculties intact until her death, aged 95. She had a child who died in infancy, as well as 3 sons (William, who remained at the family home, the other 2 emigrating to Canada) and 3 daughters (including Mrs. Michell, Crosscleugh). Walter of Kirknowe (17th C.) recorded in 1643 as owner of lands in Hobkirk Parish valued at £78. He was surely related to John in Kirknowe, who was recorded earlier. Walter (17th C.) tenant in Abbotrule listed in 1684 among those men proclaimed as fugitives for being Covenanters. William (15th C.) recorded as ‘Willelmum Schevil’ in 1427 when he was on the ‘inquest of retour’ for William Douglas of Drumlanrig inheriting the Barony of Hawick from his father. Presumably the same ‘William Schewyll’ was on the ‘retour of inquest’ for Ker of Altonburn. William (15th C.) recorded as ‘Willelmo Schevil’ in the period 1456–60 when he was Clerk of the Court for Ettrick Forest and was assigned the farm of Kershope. William (15th/16th C.) witness in 1514 to the baronial sasine for Hawick. He is listed as ‘Willelmo Schewyll’. William (16th/17th C.) recorded as ‘William Schevil of Fodderlie’ in 1618 when there was a bond in his name, involving Walter Turnbull of Bedrule and George Rutherford, younger in Abbotrule, ‘for two bolls cherittie meal, of the met and measure of Jedburgh’. He may be the same man as the William in Hartshaugh recorded later. William (17th C.) recorded as ‘William Scheivill, indweller in Hartshaid’ (probably ‘Hartshaugh’) when he was witness to a disposition of 1630 between Francis Hamilton and Rev. William Weir. His name is transcribed ‘William Schewill’. William (17th C.) tenant in ‘Mossydy’ according to the Register of the Privy Council in 1676. His wife Agnes and daughter Bessie were among others of the Abbotrule area who were imprisoned in the Tolbooth of Edinburgh for attacking the minister, George Baptie. This presumably means that they objected to having an Episcopalian minister in their parish. He was probably related to the husband of Margaret Lorraine (also listed in 1676), who was also a Shiel (perhaps Andrew). It is possible he was the same as William in Mackside. William (17th C.) cottar at Mackside in Abbotrule Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. William (dbef. 1719) described as ‘writer in Hawick’ when his son Thomas became a Skinner’s apprentice in 1719. William (17th/18th C.) innkeeper in Hawick. He was rebuked by the Session in 1716 after the minister saw him ‘coming home and holden on by a man riding behind him for drunkenness’. His ‘servitrix’ Janet Stothart married William Whillans in Hawick in 1714. William (17th/18th C.) farmer at Todshawhaugh. He was brother of the Thomas who farmed at Todshawhaugh, and son of Rev. Thomas. In 1696 when he rented Todshawhaugh he is clearly described as son of the minister Thomas; he appears to have taken over from his brother Thomas about then (since Thomas is listed as farmer in 1694). He is recorded in 1694 when he witnessed a disposition for the Elliots of Rulewater. He was still renting Todshawhaugh in 1698. He was rebuked by Robertson session in 1701 for allowing a ‘mock’ wedding to take place in his house on the Sabbath, between Archibald Scott of Boonraw and Esther Turnbull He could be the brother of Thomas, farmer at Todshawhill, who is said to have married a sister of the ‘Bonny Lass o’ Branxholme’ William (17th/18th C.) recorded in Stobicote in 1703 when he witnessed a baptism in Hawick for apothecary William Scott. It is possible he is the same as the farmer at Todshawhaugh (also formerly spelled ‘Scheill’, ‘Scheill’, ‘Schele’, ‘Schevell’, ‘Schevill’, ‘Shewill’, ‘Sheil’, ‘Sheill’, ‘Sheills’, ‘Shevell’, ‘Schevil’, ‘Shield’, ‘Shiell’, ‘Shiel’, ‘Shiels’ and variants).

Shiel Burn  (sheel-burn) n. stream in Liddesdale, rising near Wilson’s Pile and running roughly north-west to join Boghall Burn. It is now entirely within forest. The 1857 Ordnance Survey map marks a small settlement on its banks, of which there is now no sign.

Shiel Cleugh  (sheel-klaugh) n. small stream in Southdean Parish, which is Croft Plantation, between the sites of Slack’s Tower and Northbank Tower, and runs north to meet the Jed Water. There are lines of rig covering about 10 hectares on both sides of the cleugh, and aerial photography has revealed a possible farmstead, now buried in the forest.

Shielden Sike  (sheel-sik) n. stream in Liddesdale, just south of Burmemouth farm, between the Kiln Burn and Howden Cleugh. The 1863 Ordnance Survey map shows a ruined cottage there. Labourer John Lamb was there in 1835 and there were Elliots there in 1841, but it was abandoned before 1851. The area formerly had a fortified house, known as Stripsheild (it is ‘Shelden’ in 1835 and ‘Sheldon’ in 1841).
Shielie’s (shee-liez) n. sweetie shop at the Sandbed in the early-to-mid 20th century – ‘Across the road auld Shielie did us braw For baw-bees we wad ware owre there . . .’ [WL].

shielin (shee-lin) n., arch. a remote and often crude shelter built for shepherds, remote pasture lands where animals would be driven in the summer – ‘. . . as the sheilins o’ Kedar, as the coortins o’ Solomon’ [HSR], ‘The mirth o’ the glen and the warmth o’ the sheiling Are broucht to the wynds o’ the grey toun again’ [WL] (also shiel).

Shiel Knowe (sheel-now) n. hill lying southwest of Riccarton Junction and west of Saughtree, reaching a height of 292 m.

Shiellaw (sheel-law) n. former farmstead, close to the present location of Hassendean Common farm (marked on Stobie’s 1770 map).

Shiellaw Plantin (sheel-law-plawn-tin) n. former plantation near Hassendean Common (marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map).

Shiel Rig (sheel-rig) n. ridge in Southdean Parish, situated on the right, opposite the turn-off for Lethem. There are the remains of a group of 4 shielings, 5 pens and a stock enclosure there, just to the west of the forest. These are probably the remains of a mediaval stead. There is also a 300 m boundary bank to the south-west, near the Carter Burn (also written as ‘Shiellrig’).

Shiels see Shiel

Shiel Sike (sheel-sik) n. stream in the Borthwick valley, which rises as the Red Cleuch near Redcleuch Edge and Cowbush hill, and joins the Dirthope Burn before running into the Borthwick. There is an old rectangular enclosure on the eastern side and a building marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map.

Shiel’s Lands (sheel-lawnd) n. former name for lands in Hobkirk Parish. In 1811 ‘Part of Shiel’s Lands, and Boston’s half of Kirk-know’ were valued at £22 15s, amongst the lands of Cornelius Elliot of Woollee, while the rest was valued at £68 5s and owned by William Oliver of Langraw.

Shielsteeds Hill (sheel-steddz-hill) n. Shielsteeds Hill, small hill in southern Castleton Parish, just west of Kershope Bridge. It has been suggested that this might be the site of the shielings of Eadulf, which are noted in a 14th century charter confirming a 12th century grant of neighbouring land at Kershope.

Shielswud (sheelz-wud, -wood) n. Shielswood, area around Shielswood Loch and Shielswood farm, on the Ashkirk to Roberton road. This is the highest part of Ashkirk parish, containing the hills Cringie Law, Threephead, Smasha Hill, Gandiesknowe, Horn Hill, etc. William Turnbull was recorded at ‘sheilswood medow’ when Thomas Lauder of Todrig was accused of stealing from him in 1494/5. The lands there were owned by a branch of the Scott family from the mid-16th century and more recently became part of the estates of the Elliots of Minto. The lands were valued at £260 in 1643 and owned by Walter Scott of Shielswood. It still had the same value according to the 1663 Land Tax Rolls, and also in 1678 when it was owned by James Scott. The main house is listed as having 5 hearths in the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694, with 3 other tenants on the estate and one poor person. The lands were gained by the Elliots of Minto in the early 18th century. In 1779 the liferent had been given by Sir Gilbert Elliot of Minto to Rev. Simon Haliburton, and it was still valued at £260. It was also described in 1780 as ‘a four merk ten shilling and eight penny land’. William Scott is recorded as shepherd there and William Miller as farmer, on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls (the house there is marked as ‘Sheelswood’ on Gordon’s c. 1650 map, Blaue’s 1654 map and Adair’s c. 1688 map, and is ‘Shiels Wood’ on Ainslie’s 1773 map; it is ‘schelis-wod’ in 1494/5, ‘Scheiliswode’ in 1609, ‘Schelliswoid’ in 1616, ‘Scheils wode’ in 1648, ‘Sheill-wood’ in 1695, ‘Scheilswood’ in 1690, ‘Scheilswood’ in 1692 and ‘Shielswood’ in 1694).

Shielswudhaugh (sheelz-wud-hawch) n. former steadying near Shielswood. Gideon Scott was recorded there in 1727.

Shielswud Loch (sheelz-wud-loch) n. Shielswood Loch, loch about 3 miles northwest of Hawick, south of Shielswood farm on the ‘Hill Road to Roberton’ (it is marked on Blaue’s 1654 map as ‘Sheelswood L.’).

shift (shift) n., arch. a stratagem, ploy, plan, evasion – ‘The Treasurer informed that some who owed money by Bill to the Session refused or made shift of payment’ [PR1724], livelihood – ‘. . . for gameing at ye Cards . . . that was a sinfull and dishonest shift to get a liveing’ [PR1724], ‘. . . and the other of them is not so, his wife being valetudinary, and can make no shift for a livelihood’ [PR1725], v., arch. to evade, dodge – ‘The Treasurer made report that the Delinquents shifts the payment of their penalties of fornication’ [PR1724].

shibleen (shil-bleen) n., arch. a chilblain.

shile (shil) v., poet. to pull faces, screw up the face – ‘How brainless dundrums sneer an’ wink.
shilfa

An’ shan’ an’ shile, and leering blink At povertie’ [JoHa].

shilfa (shil-fa) n., arch. the chaffinch, Fringilla coelebs – ‘The twit of the shilfa, Or song of the thrush … ’ [JJW], ‘The robin wi’ his rosy vest, The wren in russet livery drest, And shilfa frae his cosie nest On the Bank aboon the Boosie’ [DA], ‘Mute and sad is the mavis, for simmer’s awa; And a lilt frae the shilfa I ne’er get ava’ [TCh] (shilfe is more common locally).

shilfie (shil-fee, shel-fee) n. the chaffinch, Fringilla coelebs – ‘The callant at herreett the shilfie’s nest’ [ECS], ‘The shilfties frae the buskit thorn Sing salutations to the simmer’ [DH], ‘…Where shilfties, blackies, linties poure Their offering o’ sang’ [WL], ‘The hedge sparrow trills and the robin pipes, and ‘shilfties’ are fitting nearby’ [WFC] (also spelled ‘shelfie’, ‘shilfy’, etc.; cf. the less common shilfa).

shilfy see shilfie

shill (shil) adj., arch. shrill.

shiller-shakers (shi-lur-shä-kurs) n., pl., arch. quaking grass, Briza media (also shiller-shakers).

shillin (shi-lin) n. a pre-decimalisation coin (i.e. from before 1971), worth twelve old pence or one twentieth of a pound, and still used occasionally to mean five new pence – ‘…To send a bottle out o’ fight. Could he command a shillin’ … ’ [JR]. The word is also used to indicate the strength of beer, historically indicating the duty payable per barrel – ‘A’lhev a pint o yer aeighty shillin’. Additionally it was sometimes used as a unit of weight, representing 1/20 of a pound – ‘Item, Gowldilands, neuer payit ferme; estimat to

to send a

sion played on ice { ‘And then what fun beyond shilment (shil-min’) n., arch. aframe fitted to a cart, particularly during harvest, to increase its capacity.

shilpit (shil-pëe’, shilpi’) adj. pale, puny, sickly, underfed looking – ‘look it that pair wee shilpit dog’, ‘…an wad spruish an turn leify again the maist shilpeat an disjasket!’ [ECS], ‘Whiles they wad look gey shilpit When the wund was sneill’ [DH], arch. unfriendly, dreary – ‘In a like manner one sense of Shilpit in Roxb. is ‘cold and comfortless, ungenial’’ [JoJ].

shilpit-lookin (shil-pëe’-loo-kin) adj., arch. having a pinched or sickly appearance.

shine (shün) v., arch. to throw, pitch, fling – ‘There was nocht for’ but the plates, an’ aw shined them and a bowl or twa doon and made a fit-ba’ o’ the fragments’ [HAST1868], ‘Hei shheid eis bonnet doon anwantett ti fecht’ [ECS], ‘She shined the ashet doon on the fluir’ [GW], to slam a door – ‘A’ll shein the door in eer face if ee come nerr here again’ [ECS] (also written ‘shein’).

shiner (shi-nur) n. occupation in the weaving industry, ??.

shinin-gless (shii-nin-gles) n., arch. a piece of mirror used by children as a reflecting toy.

shinit (shii-ne’, -ni’) pp., poet. shone, shinned – ‘Owt o’ Zion, the perfitteniss o’ beutie, the Lord heth shynet’ [HSR].

shinty (shin-tee) n. a Scottish game similar to hockey, also sometimes applied to the version played on ice – ‘And then what fun beyond compare! What joy abune a’ price! We’d pick oor sides and play the game O’ shinty on the ice’ [WL]. It was played in Hawick in the early 19th century.

Shiplaw (ship-lu, -law) n. area around the former cottage of ‘Shiplaw Cross’, near the cattle-grid on the Earlsie to Hawthornside road. Cars often stop near here to watch the horses cross the road on the Bonchester Ride-out. There is another Shiplaw north of Peebles near Eddleston and Sharplaws outside Jedburgh and near Hownams.

Shiplaw Bog (ship-lu-bög) n. marshy area to the north of Cogsmill school, presumably related to the old chapel near there.

Shiplaw Corse (ship-lu-körs) n. area on the side road between Hawthornside and Earlsie. Also known as ‘Chaipel Cross’, ‘Sheeplaw Cross’ or ‘Shiplaw Cross’, the cottage here was the highest house in Cavers Parish. William Shillanlaw (shi-lin-law) n. Andrew (b.c.1810) agricultural labourer living at Milsington in 1841. His wife was Helen and their children included Margaret, Mary, Christian, Robert, John and Jane. George (18th C.) recorded as groom and postillion at Burnhead in 1788, when he was working for William Scott.

shillin-shakers (shi-lin-shä-kurs) n., pl., arch. quaking grass, Briza media (also shiller-shakers).
Shiplaw Cross

Whillans (who had been blacksmith at the Flex) was there in 1725. It was a shepherd’s cottage from about 1780, when the shepherd was John Rutherford, whose descendants were blacksmiths in Bonchester. The cottage was rebuilt in 1826, with the farmer about that time being John Elliot. Later it was occupied by a roadman, and in the mid-19th century the tenant was a Mr. Blake, when visited by Lady Scott of Spottiswood, who made a sketch of it. The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725).

Shiplaw Cross see Shiplaw Corse

Shipley (ship-lee) n. Frederick (1889–1917) born in Hawick, son of Robert and Jane Fraser. His paternal grandparents were William (who came from England) and Margaret Stevenson, while his maternal grandparents were George Fraser and Mary Ballantyne. He emigrated to Ontario, Canada in 1906, with his mother following the next year. He married in 1912, but his wife died in childbirth in 1914. He enlisted in 1915 and was killed at Vimy Ridge. He is buried at Nine Elms Military Cemetery in France. He was posthumously awarded the Memorial Cross, at The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725). The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725).

Shiplaw Cross see Shiplaw Corse

Shipley (ship-lee) n. Frederick (1889–1917) born in Hawick, son of Robert and Jane Fraser. His paternal grandparents were William (who came from England) and Margaret Stevenson, while his maternal grandparents were George Fraser and Mary Ballantyne. He emigrated to Ontario, Canada in 1906, with his mother following the next year. He married in 1912, but his wife died in childbirth in 1914. He enlisted in 1915 and was killed at Vimy Ridge. He is buried at Nine Elms Military Cemetery in France. He was posthumously awarded the Memorial Cross, at The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725). The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725). The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725). The house was destroyed by fire in 1902. It can be seen in a photograph of the mid-19th century, and is a late surviving example of country houses of an earlier era. It was a 1-storey thatched dwelling, built of rough, undressed stones, with the holes filled with mud. The walls were about 7 feet high and 3 feet thick. The name survives in the nearby plantation called ‘Chaipel o Cross Plantation’ (the connection with a ‘cross’ is unclear, however, it is possible there was a wayside cross associated with the chapel at Cogsmill; it is ‘Shyplawcross’ in 1725).

Shiplaw Cross see Shiplaw Corse

Shipley (ship-lee) n. Frederick (1889–1917) born in Hawick, son of Robert and Jane Fraser. His paternal grandparents were William (who came from England) and Margaret Stevenson, while his maternal grandparents were George Fraser and Mary Ballantyne. He emigrated to Ontario, Canada in 1906, with his mother following the next year. He married in 1912, but his wife died in childbirth in 1914. He enlisted in 1915 and was killed at Vimy Ridge. He is buried at Nine Elms Military Cemetery in France. He was posthumously awarded the Memorial Cross, which in 2007 was bought on E-Bay by the museum in Welland, his adopted home town.

shipit (shi-pee’, pi’) pp. shipped, took ship – ‘Aw shipit again frae Glasca, and now comes the strangest pairt o’ the story’ [JEDM].

Shipshieldean (ship-shel-deen) n. another name for Stripsheelden, as recorded in a survey of Buccleuch lands in 1718 and marked on Stobie’s 1770 map. In 1718 it was ‘Shipshelden alias Side’, suggesting it was alternatively called Side.

shire (shir) adj., arch., exact, bare – ‘Shire, Shyre. Used in the sense of strait, or S. scrimp; as ‘shire measure’, that sort of measurement which allows not a hair-breadth beyond what mere justice demands, Teviotdale’ [JoJ].

Shirenscleuch (shi-rinz-klooch) n. former farmstead near Bellendean. It is possible that ‘Sire Wautier de Sherwynclawe’ of Roxburghshire, who signed the Ragman Rolls in 1296, was an early owner; although this seems more likely to be Mervinslaw, it could have a similar etymology. The farmhouse was demolished when Alemoor Reservoir was built. John Scoon was farmer there in 1787 (also written ‘Shiringscleuch’, ‘Shirings Cleuch’, ‘Shyreings Cleugh’, etc.; the name may be related to the word ‘shirins’).

shiriff (shi-riff, she-riff) n. a legal officer who sits as judge in a Sheriff Court. Formerly each county had a principle official called the Sheriff, responsible for criminal and administrative matters, with a Sheriff-Depute appointed to perform legal functions. In Roxburghshire the office became a hereditary one with the Douglasses of Cavers, and was synonymous with the title ‘Sheriff of Teviotdale’. After such heritable positions were abolished in 1748 the position was replaced with the Sheriff-Principal, assisted by Sheriff-substitutes, who were usually known as simply ‘Sheriffs’, a title they took officially after 1971.

the Shiriff (thu-shi-riff) n. nickname for Robert Oliver in the 16th century.

Shiriff Clerk (shi-riff-klerk) n. clerk appointed to act as secretary to the Sheriff Court, specifically to record the business of the court.

Shiriff Court (shi-riff-kör’, she-riff-kör’) n. local court dealing with non-serious crimes and civil cases, Hawick’s cases being dealt with at the Sheriff Court in Jedburgh. From about 1895 until sometime in the mid-20th century there were weekly Sheriff Courts held in the Town Hall in Hawick.

Shiriff Depute (shi-riff-de-pewt) n. deputy appointed to assist the Sheriff in running the Sheriff Court. In earlier centuries this was usually someone with formal legal training who would help the Sheriff. After the abolition of heritable sheriffs, the ‘Depute’ actually held the office of Sheriff and the term ‘Sheriff Depute’ was synonymous with ‘Sheriff Principal’, with deputies known as ‘Sheriff Substitutes’.

shiriff officer (she-riff-o-fee-sur) n. official of a Sheriff Court, charged with duties such as delivering summons or seizing goods to pay off debts. In Hawick, before the Police Act of 1861, he was responsible, along with the two Burgh Officers, for maintaining law and order.

Shiriff o Roxburgh (shi-riff-o-roks-bu-ru) n. hereditary title, synonymous with the Sheriffship of Teviotdale, and held for generations by the Douglasses of Cavers. This was formally a royal appointment and the holder was the King’s officer in the county. In the earliest times it may only have been a military leader connected with Shiriff o Teviotdale

Roxburgh Castle, but later it became an office with administrative and judicial responsibility for the county. The first known ‘vicecomite’ of Roxburgh was Gospatric, mentioned in the founding charter of Selkirk Abbey. Henry Kerr was Shiriff in the 14th century, George Douglas, Earl of Angus, gained the title along with several lands in 1397 and Sir Archibald Douglas acquired the hereditary title by royal charter in 1412. A decree of 1620 abolishing heritable jurisdictions led to William Douglas of Cavers agreeing to part with the Shiriffdom (and teinds from Cavers Kirk) for the sum of £20,000 Scots. But in 1626, when only £4,000 had been paid, he refused to surrender the office, and Parliament agreed he could do so until the full amount was paid. In fact the family held on to the Shiriffdom until the final abolition of such offices in 1747. A roll of the Shiriffdom is: Gospatric, c.1125; Gervase Riddell, c.1138; Robert, son of Guy, 1147; John, son of Orm, c.1170; Bernard of Hadden, c.1203 and 1227/8; John Maxwell, c.1214 and 1223/4-26; Adam of Bathgate, 1237/8; Nicholas de Souls, 1246; Aymer Maxwell, c.1250; Hugh Abernethy, c.1264; Thomas Cavers, c.1265; Thomas Randolph, 1266; Hugh de Pearsby, at least 1285-6; William de Souls, 1289/90; Walter Tonke, 1296; Sir Robert Hastings, 1296–1307 (English); Sir Ingram de Umfraville, 1302 (Scottish); Sir Robert of Mauley, at least 1305–07 (Scottish); Sir Henry Baliol, around 1328; Galfrid Mowbray, 1334 (English); Sir Alexander Ramsay, 1342; Henry Ker, 1349; John Copeland, 1350–55; Sir John Templest, c.1360 (English); Alan Struthers, 1368 (English); Lawrence of Govane, 1373; Sir Malcolm Drummond, c.1389; Sir William Stewart, c.1390; George, Earl of Angus, 1397; Sir David Fleming of Biggar, 1405; Archibald Douglas of Cavers, 1412; hereditary title of the Douglasses of Cavers until 1747 (also called ‘Sheriff of Roxburghshire’).

Shiriff o Teviotdale (shir-f-ō-tee-v-yi-dāl) n. office for maintaining law and order in Teviotdale, held by Sir Herbert de Maxwell, Alexander Ramsay, then Sir William Douglas, and for generations by Douglas of Cavers, starting with sir Archibald Douglas from 1412. In earlier times the title usually went along with that of Keeper of Roxburgh Castle, and hence ‘Sheriff of Teviotdale’ and ‘Sheriff of Roxburghshire’ were synonymous. The Sheriff was responsible for raising and commanding the local militia, local defence, collecting taxes and administering justice. This title ended in 1747 when heritable sheriffships were removed by the Crown. Archibald Douglas of Cavers (the 15th Laird) was the last Sheriff.

the Shiriff’s Tree (thu-shi-rifs-tree) n. old larch on the grounds of Weens, named because it was planted by Sheriff Rutherford of Edgerston.

Shirraship (shi-ra-ship) n. the office of Sheriff – ‘...Who could frae Douglas wrest and hold The Sherraship o’ Teviotdale [AD] (also ‘Sherraship’, etc.).

the Shirra (thu-shi-ra) n. nickname for Sir Walter Scott in and around Selkirk – ‘And when the Shirra ettled syne To set the ballads doun ...’ [WL].

Shirraship o’ Teviotdale (shi-ra-ship o’ Teviotdale) n. sheriff of Teviotdale, often popular name for the Lawson Bridge, called because it was heavily used by workers from the West-end to get to Sime’s, Henderson’s, Innes and Turnbull’s mills, which gave the acronym. Also known in polite circles as ‘This Bridge’.

Shivers (shi-vurs) n. Fr. Patrick (19th/20th C.) priest at S.S. Mary & David’s 1887–92. He set up a Catholic Young Men’s Society (which did not last long) as well as the Children of Mary. He was responsible for the first ‘Mission’ recorded being shivery bite (shi-vu-ree-bi') n., something taken to eat when emerging from swimming – ‘...with a ‘shivery bite’ tucked away in our towel on the banking for after’ [BB], ‘...Chitterin, oor shivery bite oo ate Didni get back hym till late’ [IW], (cf. chitterin-bite).

shoarn (šōrn, šō-rín) pp., shorn (past participle of shear).

shoat (šō', šōt) pp., shot (past tense and past participle of shuit).

shockit (šō-ke', -ki') adj., pp. shocked – ‘They fund his hoose, and there they shockit. ‘Is auld Jock in?’ His wife looked shockit ...’ [TD].

shodden (šō-di'n) pp., arch. shod (past participle form of shuǐ, with the past tense being shuid or ‘shod’).

shoddie (šō-dee) n., arch. childish name for a baby shoe (noted by G. Watson).

shoemakers (šō-umā-kūrz) n., once one of the 7 incorporated trades in Hawick, which until 1861 had two representatives on the Town Council. They were incorporated before the existing Burgh Records (which go back to 1638). In 1643 they were directed by the Council to ‘try the market’ for the quality of the shoes and the quartermasters are recorded in 1677 examining the shoes at the market, to make sure they were ‘all of sufficient barked leather’. They were in earlier times referred to as ‘cordins’, although the ‘cordins’ made a request to form a separate incorporation in 1722; the cordins were allowed to be a separate incorporation from ‘those who make single-sole shoes’. However, they are not mentioned as separate bodies in later times, and so presumably merged again soon after. In 1747 they were ordered by the Council to turn over their books. In local parades they would sometimes appear attired in the costume of the Ancient Order of St. Crispin, and were described as particularly splendid in the 1832 Reform Bill celebratory parade.

shog (šōg) v., arch. to shake, rock, swing from side to side – ‘...some of which made her pouch wagg and shogg’ [BR], ‘Thouch the waters o’ rair, an’ ar troublèth; thouch the mountains shog wi’ the swallin’ o’ thame’ [HSR], ‘...thou hast broken it: men’ the gaaps thero’, for it shogs’ [HSR]. ‘Boondin bleithely on wui ma airms shuggiein lowe threh ma oxters’ [ECS] (sometimes ‘shug’; from Middle English).

shog-bog (šōg-bog) n., arch. a morass, watery bog, quagmire.

shoggle (šō-gul) v., poet. to way, rock, wobble – ‘...the funderations alsua o’ the hills muvet an’ wer shogglet’ [HSR] (shoggle is more common).

sholdier (šōl-jur) n., arch. a soldier – ‘Paid Robert Telfer for his horse, in seid time, to Kelso, pressed by Baillie Turnbull, with a shouldier and his wife ...’ [BR], (see the more common sodger).

shoolder (šō-du'r) n. a shoulder – ‘But the auld guidewe of Penchrise Cam’ in wi’ a shoulder o’ mutton’ [ES], ‘But the kind auld miller isna there wi’ shoorders strang and wide, He sleeps aneath a rowan tree upon yon green hill side’ [V], ‘I tuik aff the burdin frae his shoud- ...’ [VW], ‘...Wi’ his plaid flung owre his shoorder’ [DH], ‘...Wi’ their shoorders in the mist’ [WL], a rounded shoulder-like part of a hill – ‘...Keekin bye the shoorder o the Dumon’ [ECS], ‘An a merk on the shoorder o Cauldcleuch To show where the cloudberries growe ...’ [DH], v. to shoulder (also spelled ‘shouder’, ‘shounder’, etc.; cf. shoother).

shoolder (šō-du'r) pp., adj. shouldered – ‘...a muckle big, bang fallih, braid-shoolder, rash an stuffy ...’ [ECS], ‘...Aye the whun stude: dour shoorder, Waitin for the next daud ...’ [DH].

shooer (šō-ur) n. a shower – ‘...thou mak-ist it saft wi’ showers; thou blissist the brairdin’ o’t’ [HSR], ‘He sall cum doun like raine apon the yirth’ [HSR], ‘Also, ‘a sair shoor’ = a heavy shower’ [GW], ‘Wull ee git oot o’ the shooers’ [JCo], a rabble { ‘yer a right ndin shoowerin wi George Galloway mair dangerous as playin on the game’ [IW], (also spelled ‘shoor’, ‘shoo'er’, ‘shoower’ and ‘shouer’).

shoole (šō-gul) n. a shake, wobble, push – ‘gie eet a guid shoole an sei if that helps’, ‘gie that bairn a shoole’, v. rock, shake, sway – ‘shoogle her ti wake her up’.

shoo-gled’s-wylie (šō-gledz wi-lee) n., arch. a game involving a line of children behind the ‘mother’, acting as a brood of birds, with the leader trying to ‘shoo’ off another child acting as the ‘gled’ (i.e. kite).
shooglie

shooglie (shoo-gu-lee, shoog-glee) adj. shaky, wobbly, unsteady – ‘that brig was awfi shooglie’ (also written ‘shooly’).

shoogly see shooglie

shooken (shoo-, shu-kin) pp. shaken (also written ‘shuiken’).

shoon (shooun) n., pl., arch. shoes, boots – ‘Item, to Hobbe Dickson, cordiner, for buittis and shone, sevintene pundis’ [SB1574], ‘...16s. for a pair of schoon’ [BR1638], ‘...account promised be the said Adam Scott to him for his shone fra Martinmas last to Whitsunday next’ [BR1640], ‘The said day, it is statute and ordained that the cordiners shall try this market for insuficient leather and unbarkit shone ...’ [BR1643], ‘I wot weel no, cry’d the laird’s Jock, – I’ll keep them a’ – shoon to my mare they’ll be ...’ [CPM], ‘...Roostit horse shoon, an’ queer queer wheel rings O’ tum’le cars’ [JoHa], ‘How oft wi’ shoon as black as slaes, And ankles tight, wi’ hose on these ...’ [AD], ‘...Knee breeks and oot-steeck shoon’ [JT], ‘ Howe bonnie ar thy feet wi’ shoon, O prince’s doucher!’ [HSR], ‘Howe bonnie ar thy feet wi’ hose on these’ [DH], ‘Solus o’ auld shoon I’ve seen her eat, Sae fond was she o’ dainty meat’ [TCh], ‘My feet were fairly chorkin’ Inside my platchin’ shoon ...’ [WL], ‘But green gress for sturdy shoon To clin where grouse are skirlin’ [WL] (a long surviving example of the Old English plural form, coming from the Germanic roots, still existing in modern English in ‘brethren’, ‘children’, ‘men’ and ‘oxen’, with ‘een’ still in use in Hawick; the singular was still in use in Hawick; the singular was shae or shui; see also shuin; also spelled ‘shonne’, etc.).

shoor (shoor, shär) v., arch. to threaten, urge, hound, call off, shoo off an animal, to drive (a dog etc.) by shouting – ‘...shored the dogs before they drove the sheep out of the Common’ [C&L1767], ‘...there the perr [of hills] stand, leike as they war ghunslin an shuirmir doon at aabodie that wad middle thum’ [ECS], to scold a child (also written ‘shore’ and ‘shuir’; cf. schoir).

shoor see shoover

shoos (shoos) n., pl., arch. the brittle part of the flax bark or stalk, refuse removed in ‘scutching’ – ‘...for the purpose of detaching the shooos or brittle parts of the bark and stalk, from the fibres of the stem’ [JAHM], ‘A dance usually terminated the evening’s enjoyment, either in the barn or round a fire of the blazing ‘shoos’, as the refuse from the swingling was called’ [DMW] (also ‘shows’).

shoot (shoo) v., arch. to give birth – ‘To shout, To be in the act of parturition; pron. like E. shoot, Lanarkshire, Roxb.’ [JoJ].

shoother (shoo-thur) n., arch. shoulder – ‘...up gaed her little bit neeve and she landed me yin frae the shoother’ [JEDM], ‘Sae Tam wad set his shooters heich, And aince again be meek’ [WFC], ‘Wi’ the green plaid their shoothers aroun’, And the plumed bonnets noddin’ aboon ...’ [WL] (a less common variant of shoolder; also spelled ‘shoother’).

shootin (shoo-in) n., arch. child-bearing – ‘...ther splunteens an ther mairryeens; ther shootees an ther buiryeeens’ [ECS] (also shoutin).

shootin-cheese (shoo-in-cheez) n., arch. a cheese eaten at a feast to celebrate a birth, perhaps given by the new father to the young, unmarried women – ‘She’s but the shootin’-cheese o’ man – I maun gang oot, I maun gang oot, Gien to the sterns when life began ...’ [DH].

shoower see shooper

Shoreswood (shörz-wood) n. John (17th/18th C.) son of John, with his mother being a Home. In 1693 he was served heir portioner, along with James Dickson and Alexander Morrison, in the Barony of Home, inherited from Jean, daughter of John Home. This included superiority over lands in Hassendean, and explicitly Appletreehall, as well as the lands of Redfordgreen, Dryleichlea, Huntly and Hartwoodburn. His father was already deceased in 1693. It is unclear what happened to the Barony afterwards.

Short (shor, shör) n. Colin Roderick ‘Doddy’ (1942-2010) son of Pipe Major Robert, he was born and bred in Hawick. He was Head Boy at Trinity, then attended the High School and Henderson Tech. He worked for Pringles for 25 years, then started his own business, Shorts of Hawick, making tartan hose for pipe bands. He played pipes with the Boys’ Brigade and then the Hawick Pipe Band, being 2nd Pipe Major and band secretary for decades. He married Helen Greenhill and had children Karen, Kenny, Julie and Allis-ton. James (1818-88) born in Eckford Parish, he was son of John, who farmed at Hartshaugh Mill. He was coachman at Wolfelee Glen in 1851 and coachman at Wauchope Cottage in 1861. He later moved to Jedburgh. In 1846 he married Helen (1823-1911), daughter of William Sibbald; she died in Hawick. They they had 11 children, born in Hobkirk and Southdean Parishes, including: John (b.1846), who died in infancy; shortbread

John (b.1848) the eldest surviving son, who became head gardener at Hummers Knott, Darlington; Margaret (b.1849); Euphemia (b.1852), who worked in the hosiery industry in Hawick; Mary (1853–93); Helen (b.1855), who died in infancy; William (1858–69); James (b.1860), who died in infancy; James (1863–1905), also a gardener in Yorkshire, died in Hawick; Peter (1865–1921), a telegraph linesman; and Francis (b.1868). John (16th C.) joint owner of a particate of land (along with Stephen Scott and Janet Liddersdale) on the south side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. He may have been related to Robert. John ‘Jock’ (16th/17th C.) Hawick resident mentioned in a murder trial of 1612. John Elliot was claimed by Elliot’s wife to have been murdered ‘within the said Jok Schortis duelling hous’, but in fact appears to have hanged himself with his own belt when imprisoned in St. Mary’s steeple. This suggests that he was an innkeeper. John (b.1775) farmer at Hartshaugh Mill. He is listed as miller at Hartshaugh in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory. He was at Hartshaugh Mill in 1841, but absent by 1851. He married Margaret Davidson and their children (born in Eckford Parish) included: John (b.1808); Francis Davidson (b.1809); Euphan (b.1812); William (b.1817), who married Mary Dalgleish; James (b.1819), who married Helen Sibbald; George (b.1820), who married Rachel Scott; and Adam (b.1822). He could be the John, son of John and Isobel Thomson, born in Kelso Parish in 1779. John Dalgleish (b.1842) farmer at Hartshaugh Mill and later Borthwickbraitfoot. He was son of William, also farmer at Hartshaugh Mill and nephew of the John who married Margaret Davidson. In 1861 he was a ploughman, living with his siblings and widowed mother in Chesters. He married Margaret, daughter of Robert Cavers, also from Rulewater. Their children included Mary Euphemia (b.1855) (formerly spelled ‘Schort’, ‘Schorte’ etc.).

shortbread (shor’-bread) n. shortbread, baked item made from flour, sugar and butter – ‘A pek of flur bikin short brid and buttor to it, £1 4s’ [1690/HAST1905].

Shortbutts (shor’-buts) n. former name for lands in the territory of Sorbie (probably meaning near Sorbietrees) in Liddesdale. In the late 12th century Race Fitz Malger granted half of the land there to Jedburgh Abbey. In 1541 it is valued at 20 shillings and said to pertain to the Laird of Shortbutts. Along with Platt it was owned by Francis Robson in 1632 (it was is ‘Scortebuttes’ in the late 1100s, ‘Schortbutts’ in 1541 and ‘Schortbus’ in 1632).

the Shorter Catechism (thi-shor’-ur-kaw’-e-ki-zum) n. short form of the question and answer instruction manual, designed to be memorised in order to test parishioners. The short form was the one mostly used, consisting of 107 questions. It was written in the 1640s by English and Scottish clergy, and also referred to as the Westminster Shorter Catechism. Locally it was called ‘the cairitch’. Examination was often carried out in the parishioners own houses by the minister, but often in order round a circle, so it was possible to memorize only a subset of the answers.

Shorthope (shor’-tup) n. farm in the Ettrick valley, before reaching Kirkhope and Phawhope. In 1557 ‘Auld Hob Scot of Riskynhoop’ paid rent for the lands to Melrose Abbey. In 1609 it was owned by the Scotts of Thirlestane, with tenant Andrew Scott. Robert Scott of Whitlade was served heir to his father’s lands here in 1643. It was still part of the Lordship of Melrose until at least 1670. It was long part of the Buccleuch estates (it is ‘Schorthope’ in 1564 and ‘Schorthoip’ in 1609; ‘Shortup’ is marked on Blaeu’s 1654 map).

short-leet (short-lee) n. a short list – ‘A deh ken if A’ve got the job, bit A’m on the short-leet’ (this term survives, although the use of ‘leet’ itself seems to have died out).

Shortreed (shor'-reed) n. Andrew (16th C.) listed in the 1526 remission given to a large number of Borders men for an attack upon the Earl of Arran; his son John is also listed. He was also part of an inquest into the disputed lands of Longnewton held in Jedburgh in 1533. Most of the other men listed were local, and so he was probably from the family based near Ashkirk. Probably the same Andrew ‘Shortreid’ in 1532 among the witnesses to a public declaration made in Selkirk by William Scott in Headshaw. In 1536 he was cited by Walter Scott (brother-german of Kerr of Sunderland Hall) for failing to produce Adam Gledstains at the market cross of Selkirk. Andrew (18th/19th C.) married Janet Laidlaw in Wilton in 1804. Bernard (15th C.) tenant in Essenside. In 1494/5 he had remission for theft of sheep from the Murrays of Sundhope. Adam Scott of ‘auldinnis hop’ served as his surety. James (17th/18th C.) recorded as an elder of Wilton Parish in 1705, 1706 and 1711. He may be the James who married Margaret Shiel in 1692. He could be the James who is recorded as resident at Whitehaugh in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He witnessed a baptism (along with Robert Renwick) for George Renwick in the Sandbed in 1697. James (1726–83) eldest son of Robert and Elizabeth Elliott, he was ‘younger of Essenside’. He acquired part of Hermiston from George Johnstone in 1758, the lands being valued at £260. He was owner of Easter Essenside in 1759, and sold the lands to Capt. (later Adm.) John Elliot in 1778, with the consent of his wife Helen Currer and the trustees for his creditors: Cornelius Elliot, W.S.; Robert Laidlaw, tenant in Falnash; and Walter Scott of Wauchope. He was struck off the list of freeholders of Roxburghshire in 1780, having lost his lands in the county. He married Ellen Currie (also recorded as ‘Helen Currur’) in 1754 in Ashkirk and they had a son, Thomas (b.1786). He is probably the same James ‘late of Essenside’ who was buried in old Wilton Kirkyard, his table stone stating that he died in 1783, aged 75; his wife Bella Currie was buried beside him, and died in 1808, aged 84. His wife may have been the ‘Mrs. Shortreed’ recorded as owner of ‘Nethercroft, acquired from Langlands’ according to the 1788 valuation and the 1811 Land Tax Rolls; the farm was valued at £20 and later owned by John James Scott Chisholme of Stiches. James (18th C.) resident of Southdean Parish. His children included: Robert (b.1755); Isabel Margaret (b.1756); Margaret (b.1760); Jean (b.1762); Jean (again, b.1764); Agnes (b.1766); Ann (b.1767); Nelly (b.1769); Robert (again, b.1771); Mary (b.1773); Thomas (b.1774); Elliotie (b.1775); Andrew (b.1776); and Willie (b.1777). John (15th/16th C.) in 1526 in the remission for a large number of Borderers who attacked the Earl of Arran’s forces. He was son of Andrew. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. His children included: William (b.1702); an unnamed son (b.1703); Helen (b.1705); and Andrew (b.1707). John (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Ellrig in 1718 and Borthwickbrae in 1720. He probably married Mary Hislop in Roberton in 1718 and their children included: Margaret (b.1718); and Janet (b.1720). Robert (16th/17th C.) local tenant recorded in 1628 when he was on a list of men accused by the Earl of Buccleuch of chopping down his trees at Todshawhaugh or Trinitylands. The farm he was connected with is not transcribed. Robert (17th C.) resident of Drinkstone according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Robert of Essenside (b.1695) born in Wilton Parish, he became a Bailie and lawyer in Ashkirk Parish. He may have been son of James and Margaret Shiel. He may be the Robert ‘short-ridg’ who witnessed a baptism for John Hendry in Wilton in 1721. He is probably the Robert who paid the window tax at ‘woolie’ in Southdean Parish in 1748 (presumably he lived there temporarily). He acted as attorney for Walter Scott of Leith when he gained the lands of Wauchope in 1750. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1761. In 1725 he married Elizabeth (‘Bessie’), daughter of Thomas Elliot of Oakwood Mill and sister of William Elliot, 1st Laird of Wofeleec. His eldest son was James and another son was farmer Thomas. He may have been father of Margaret (b.c.1735) who married William Elliot of Whithaugh. His sister Agnes may have married his brother-in-law Andrew. Robert ‘Bob’ (1762–1829) born in Southdean Parish, eldest son of farmer Thomas and Ann Maria Kerr of the Abbotrule family. He became Sheriff-Substitute. for Roxburghshire. He had musical talent and collected local songs and legends. He was a friend of Sir Walter Scott, accompanying him on several trips in the Liddesdale area, gathering ballads etc. He paid the Horse Tax in Jedburgh in the 1790s. He represented Weens on the Hobkirk Parish heritors council in 1803. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He was a founder member of the Jedforest Club and was the 2nd Honorary Secretary. He built a house in Jedburgh, which was later British Linen Bank house. His sister Mary married William Aitchison and helped him run the Cross Keys Inn at 11 Sandbed. He was Substitute to Sheriff William Oliver, who wrote some doggerel verse about him – ‘From chattering women all refrain, Let silence universal reign. While thro’ the world I proclaim A friend in need is Bob Shortreed’. He married Margaret, 3rd daughter of Jedburgh lawyer James Fair. He had 2 infant children buried in Jedburgh Abbey churchyard in 1802. His other children included: Thomas, who also helped Sir Walter Scott, and followed his father as Secretary of the Jedforest Club; John Elliot, bank manager in Wexford; Capt. William of the Bengal service of the East India Company; James Elliot, who succeeded his uncle to the Langlee estate and took the additional name of Fair; Col. Pringle of the Bengal Native Infantry; and Robert, tenant of Attonburn. Simon (d.1550) Vicar at Ashkirk, who was succeeded by James Ker. He could be the ‘Simon Schortreed’ listed as a priest who witnessed an announcement by ‘Walter Scot in Edschawe’ in Selkirk in 1532. Thomas (1733–98) farmer at Easter Essenside. He was son of Robert and Elizabeth, who was daughter of Thomas Elliot of Oakwood Mill (ancestor of the Elliots of Bothwickbrae and Wolfelee). He also farmed at Wolfelee, Hyndlee, Lustruther and Jedhead, being one of the most extensive farmers in the Jedforest. However, he was financially ruined following the American War, and it is said the worry from this shortened his life. He was also said to have been the last man to carry out a Border raid, this after some English thieves had carried off some of his sheep; instead of appealing to the courts he crossed the Border and brought back his livestock, like had happened in earlier centuries. In 1757 he married Ann Maria, daughter of William Kerr of Abbotrule. Their eldest son Robert was a friend of Sir Walter Scott, while their daughter Mary married William Aitchison. Thomas (1786–1842) born in Hawick Parish, son of James and Ellen Currie. He married Isabella Armstrong in 1774. Their children were George, James, John, Robert L., William and Thomas. In 1831 he emigrated with his wife and 6 sons, settling in Guelph, Ontario. Thomas (1796–1826) eldest son of Robert, Sheriff-Substitute of Roxburghshire. His great schoolfriend was Robert Lindsay Armstrong, later Director of the Mint in St. Petersburg. He was greatly interested in local history, publishing a pamphlet on the orchards of Jedburgh. He also collected Border ballads and helped Sir Walter Scott with ‘Minstresy of the Scottish Border’. He was Procurator-Fiscal for Roxburghshire. In 1825 he subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’. He may be the Thomas listed at Falnash in 1821 when he subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’. He took over from his father as Secretary of the Jedforest Club in 1820, retiring in 1826 because of ill-health. He never married and died at Camberwell (also spelled ‘Schortred’, ‘Schortreid’, ‘Shortread’, ‘Shortreede’, ‘Shortridge’, etc.).

short-sichted (shor’-sich-teed) pp., arch. short-sighted – ‘The man that scatters his seed abroad Gets harvest to gladden his sicht; But he that hoards the seed he has, Is a puir shortsichted wicht’ [FL].

Short Sike (shor’-sik) n. small stream that rises on Park Hill and flows in an easterly direction to pass through Newcastleton village and join the Liddel Water. To the south of the upper part of the stream are the remains of a farmstead and field system.

shot (sho’) n. a go, attempt, turn, temporary use of something – ‘when’s eet ma shot?’, ‘Off-luif, ei made twae wrang shots anent the teime it wad set oot’ [ECS], a single movement of the shuttle in knitting – ‘To learn plain claith and common tweel And celtic, twa shotts in the shed’ [RF] (also shuit).

shot (sho’) n., arch. a piece of ground, division of land, especially if used for crop rotation (existing in some place names, e.g. Bowshot and Wreathinglongshot, as well as former names for small pieces of land, e.g. Caurstine Shot, Mill Shot and Notman’s Shot).

shot (sho’) n., arch. a young weaned pig, an ill-grown ewe.

shot o (sho’-o) pp. rid off, free from – ‘But sure we’re shot o’ murrin’’ [WL].

shot-star (sho’-stawr) n., arch. a shooting star – ‘The frequent appearance of shot-stars is viewed by the peasantry in Teviotdale as foretokening lightning, thunder, and tempestuous weather' [JoJ].
shoulder see sho oder
shoulder see sho oder
sho er see sho er sho ulden (shoo-din, -d’n) contr. shouldn’t, should not – ‘should en ee be guan?’ (note the pronunciation with the swallowed second syllable; see also coulden and wudden; this form is used inquiringly and always precedes the pronoun, cf. shouldni).
sho uld nae see sho uld ni shouldni (shoo-d-ni) contr. shouldn’t, should not – ‘they shouldni dae’d’, ‘There’s always somebody tellin' iz Ee should nae keep lookin’ back . . . ’ [AY], ‘Now a ken oo should nae take the mick, n’ oo should aye be ever repecfu o’ other folks songs n’ festivities, bit . . . ’ [HIS], sometimes ‘shouldn’t have’ – ‘. . . I return him his taunt wi’ my jeers – The cuif shouldna meddled wi’ me’ [JCG], (also spelled ‘shouldnae’; this form always follows the pronoun, cf. shoulden which is used for questions and always precedes the pronoun). shouldni’ve (shoon-d-ni-iv, -niv) contr. shouldn’t’ve, should not have.
shoutin (show'-in) n., arch. child-bearing – ‘Were ye at Becka’s shoutin’, Sucky?’ [JoHo], roxb. Dumfr.’ [JoJ] (also shootin).
Shovey Colville (shoo-vee-kol-vil) n. general nickname for male members of the local Colville family.
show-buik (shoo-book) n., arch. a children’s picture book.
the Showmen’s Guild (thu-shoo-men-gild) n. organisation to which the Common Haugh was let during Common Riding week to put on ‘the Shows’. shows (shoo) n. a funfair, with rides, games and other amusements, the local one being referred to as the Shows (usually used as a singular word). the Shows (thu-shoo) n. fair that sets up in the Big Haugh for about a week at the beginning of June, being the last remnant of the days when the Common Riding Races and Games were held there. There are records of merry-go-rounds and ‘switchback railways’ being there from at least the 1880s. The main location was on the Under Haugh until into the 1890s when it became more fully developed. Photographs exist showing what it looked like from about 1900. The entertainments were suspended during WWII, but held in the Volunteer in June 1945. The present-day fair is run by Thomas Hiscoe & Sons and moves on to Selkirk, Melrose and Galashiels – ‘wull ee take is ti the Shows on Saturda’y’. shreigh (shreech) n., arch. a shriek (noted by J.
Jamieson).
shrood (shrood) n., arch. a shroud.
shud (shud) n., arch., poet. a shed, something that has been shed – ‘My care, as he polls in my scanty crap, The shuds o’ white that scudder owre my lap!’ [WL], a piece of ice that has broken off a main sheet, a large segment of something, e.g. bread.
shue see shew
shuf fel (shu-ful) n. a shovel. shuggy (shu-gee) n., arch. a swing, act of swinging, v., arch to swing – ‘Sklepin’ blythely alang wi’ ma airms shuggiein’ lowse frae ma oxters’ [ECS].
shuggy-boat (shu-gee-bo’) n., arch. a swing-boat – ‘. . . Roarin bye . . . horses and horseboyles . . . sluggy-boats . . . And stucca-dolls and cocconut-shies and drums and fifes . . . ’ [DH]. the Shugonda (thu-shu-gon-da) n. Indian restaurant at 4 Station Buildings, closed around 2005.
shui (shu) pron., arch. she – ‘It’s a case o hei till’t an shui till’t’ [ECS].
shui (shu, shi) n., arch. a shoe, boot, v. to shoe, fit with shoes (note the probably later pronunciation shuai for the noun; the plural is shuins; the past tense of the verb is shued or the English ‘shod’, while the past participle is shuddened). shuid (shu’d, shid) pp., arch. shod, fitted with shoes (past tense of shui, cf. the past participle shuddened).
shui-heid (shu-heed) n., arch. the upper part of a shoe or boot.
shuil (shil) n., arch. a shovel, act of shovelling, shuffling gait – ‘He walks wi’ a shuil’ [GW], v., arch. to shovel, walk with a shuffling gait, drag one’s feet, ‘ti be shuil’d is to lose all one’s ‘bools’ or ‘papes’ in a game.
shuil-the-buird (shuil-thu-buird) n., arch. a game of ‘suicide’ draughts, in which the winner is the first to lose all one’s men. shuins (shuin, shin) n., pl., arch. shoes, boots – ‘. . . A crosst Jed Waeter, an suin ma shuin war clankin yince mair alang owre caus-an chennel’ [ECS], ‘. . . an skluiffin shuin wurn inti bauchels’ [ECS], ‘. . . On the shundered bank where the Robbie stand, And chaff, and champ their shuins’ [DH] (this was once the common Hawick pronunciation, cf. shoon). shuir see shair
shuir

shuir see showr
shuir (shūr) pp., arch. sheared, reaped (cf. shear; the past participle is usually the English 'shorn', although it can be spelled 'shoarn' and pronounced shōrn).

shurn (shūrn) pp., poet. shorn – '...in the e'enin' it is shurn doun an' wuthers'[HSR].

shurly see shairly
shuit (shūt) n., arch. a shoot, push, thrust, v. to shoot – 'Shuht the bill throwe aneth the door'[ECS] (the past tense is shoot).

shuit-the-gither (shū-thi-gi-thur) n., arch. a hastily-arranged marriage (noted by E.C. Smith).

shulock (shu lok) v., arch. to sweep the stakes in a game (noted by J. Jamieson).

shulocker (shur-lök-ur) n., arch. one who sweep the stakes in a game.

shum (shum) v., arch. to share, chum – 'wull ee shum is?'

shunder (shun-durz) n., arch. a cinder (usually plural) – 'This ees an unfeel road, a perfect chaamp o glaar – it wad be the better o a cair-load o shunders'[ECS], spirits added to tea etc. – 'She pat a shunder in't'[GW], v., arch. to spread with cinders.

shundert (shun-dur') adj., pp. cindered, covered in cinders, as a running track or a snowy path, – '...And said: 'What is't like, The Nippers? Solid?' 'No,' ee said, 'Shundert.''[DH], 'On the shundered bank where the Robbie's stand ...'[DH].

shunged (shungd) pp., arch. having lost everything at a game of bools (also shunkert).

shunkert (shung-kur') pp., arch. routed at marbles or a similar game – 'A boy who has lost all his bools in play is said to be shunkert'[ECS], 'Ir ee shunkert?''[GW] (also shunged).

shunky (shung-kkee) n. a toilet (not particularly Hawick??).

shuootin (shoo-tin) n., arch. chidbirth, labour – '...the prolonged oo-sound which occurs in yuoot (= whoop), and shuooteen (= childbirth)'[ECS] (note the pronunciation with an almost diphthongal oo-oo; cf. shuit).

shurf (shurf) n., arch. a punny, dwarfish, or insignificant person – 'Let them alane, ye singit-like shurf'[HAST1868].

shurlin (shur-lin) n., arch. a newly-shorn sheep (noted by J. Jamieson).

shurlin-skin (shur-lin-skin) n., arch. the skin of sheep that has been recently shorn.

shutdoon (shu'-doon) n. a shutdown – '...They fought the shutdoon tae the end'[AY].

Sibbald

shutten (shu-tin) pp., poet. shut – '...I am shutten up, an' canna cum furth'[HSR].

shuttle (shu'-ul) n., arch. a small drawer in a trunk.

shuttle-gobbit (shu'-ul, shu-tul-go-bee', -bi') adj., arch. having a misshapen mouth, especially when the upper jaw protrudes – 'The jougals yowl'at the jorail-i-joo Whenevr hei stert' tae play; A shilpit scurryvaig hei was, And shuttle-gobbit tae'[DH].

Shuttle Haa (shu-tul-haw) n. former name for a building in upper Teviotdale, presumably named because it was once the abode of weavers. Walter Richardson lived there in around 1750.

Thomas Lunn (who took in the young African Tom Jenkins) was there in the early 1800s.

shye see hye
si (si, see) adv. so – 'how's eet si hot in here?', 'work that oot if ee're si cliver', 'And she lap sae yald, and spanged sae lich, Her rigging banes did rattle'[JTe], '...Her lilt is aye sae bonny'[RH], 'Where ha'e ee been si lang?'[GW], '...The rowin hills sae green'[WL] (also spelled 'sae' and 'sie'; see also see; the pronunciation varies between si, see and occasionally sū; note some particular adverbial senses, as well as the interjection and conjunction usually use so).

sib (sib) adj., arch., poet. related by blood, closely akin, cognate, bound by familiarity or affection – 'To catch and keep ... Seems unco sib to nature'[HSR], '...My Mother says I am right sib To the House of Branksome being Rib You will be gallant Weft to Weft i' justly put together'[AHS], '...The leal hands hauth oot a welcome, The sib herts still beat true'[WL].

Sibbald (si-buld) n. James (1745–1803) son of John, farmer at Whitlaw in Bowden Parish. His brother John was farmer at Borthaugh. He attended Selkirk Grammar School and then leased the farms of Newton (on Slitrig) and Whitehillbrae (on the Dod Burn) from Sir Francis Elliot of Stobs. He spent much of his time studying botany and the classics, and failed as a farmer, giving up his lease in 1779. Learning the publishing trade rapidly in London, he moved to Edinburgh, helping his cousin the publisher Charles Elliot in his shop. In 1780 he purchased (from Mrs. Margaret Yair) the circulating library that had belonged to Allan Ramsay, and became a bookseller and publisher on Parliament Square. A young Sir Walter Scott was a frequent visitor to his circulating library and described him as 'a man of rough manners but of some taste and judgment, [who] cultivated music and poetry'. In 1785 he started to publish the 'Edinburgh Magazine, or Literary Miscellany’ as a competitor to the ‘Scots Magazine’. He himself wrote many articles on Scottish antiquities, as well as many other topics, such as the first serious review of Robert Burns ‘Kilmarnock’ edition. He went through mixed fortunes, running a paper mill, giving up his publishing business, setting up a short-lived Edinburgh newspaper, handing over the circulating library (but later getting it back), spending some time effectively missing in London (when he wrote a book about the life of Jesus), and seeing the Edinburgh Magazine merge with the Scots Magazine. His best known work is ‘Chronicle of Scottish Poetry from the Thirteenth Century to the Union of the Crowns, to which is added a glossary’ (1802), with the 4th and final volume being effectively a Scots dictionary. This is locally valuable for including words attributed to use in Teviotdale in his time. There is an etchings of him by John Kay, a portrait by an unknown artist (previously attributed to Raeburn) and he appears in W. Borthwick Johnstone’s 1856 painting of Edinburgh literary characters. He died unmarried at his house on Leith Walk. James (b.1832) son of William. He was raised on a farm. In 1855 he married Agnes Hardie of Newcastleton, and the couple emigrated to Canada, settling in Bruce County. They had 5 sons and 3 daughters. He sold up his farm in 1890 and made a last visit back to Rulewater before joining several of his children to live out his days in Duluth, Minnesota. John (1714–83) eldest son of John and Agnes, daughter of Thomas Elliot, tenant in Oakwood Mill. His brother was William of Pinnacle. He was tenant farmer of Whitlaw in Bowden Parish, where he paid the window tax in 1753. He married Margaret Grieve in 1743. Their children were: James (1747–1803) publisher of ‘The Edinburgh Magazine’; William of Gladswood (d.1817) merchant and ship-owner in Leith; John (b.1755), who was tenant in Borthaugh; Agnes (b.1751), who married Henry Scott, tenant in Deloraine; and Jean (d.1815), who married John Lang, Sheriff-Clerk of Selkirkshire and was the lady who sent off her son’s uniform to equip him in Edinburgh after the ‘False Alarm’ of 1804, as described in Sir Walter Scott’s note ‘Alarm of invasion’ in ‘The Antiquary’. John (1746–77) younger of Pinnacle. He was eldest son of William and Charlotte Cleland. He was a merchant in London. He married Anne Franks, and they had 1 son (Lt.-Col. William, who succeeded his grandfather) and 2 daughters (one of whom, Charlotte, married Archibald Scott of Howcleuch). The other may have been Ann, who married James Grieve, farmer in Branzholme Braes. John of Borthaugh (1755–1822) son of John and Margaret Grieve. His ancestors farmed in the Eildon and Bowden areas. He was recorded at Borthaugh on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls, where he is listed as owner of 4 work horses and 1 saddle horse. He was a local Conservative supporter of the early 1800s who is said to have put pins in his coat-tails before voting in Hawick, to avoid being ‘winged’. He married Jean Cunningham (from Ettrick) in Wilton Parish in 1804 and they had a large family, including: John (b.1805), who was running the farm in 1841; Jean (1807–65), who married poet William Wilson and emigrated to Pughkeepsie, New York; James (b.1808); Margaret (b.1810); William (b.1811), who was superintendent of the farm in 1851; Walter (b.1813); Agnes (b.1814); George (b.1816); Isabella (b.1817); and Helen (b.1819). It seems he must have been quite old when he had his family. John (1805–47) son of John and Jean Cunningham. He was listed as a Steward at the Common Riding Races of 1836. He was farmer at Borthaugh in 1841, living with his sisters Margaret and Agnes. He appears to have been dead by 1851, when his brother William was running the farm. John (b.1835) son of James and Elizabeth, he was born in Leith. He was assistant gamekeeper on the Cavers estate, living at Effledge. He was said to be a terror for the Hawick poachers. On one occasion a gang came to his house to get him, but he was ill and his wife called David Honeyman, the head keeper, who was badly beaten up instead. Another story told is how he caught 3 poachers who has swam out to the island in Buckstruther Loch to collect gulls eggs; he bundled up their clothes, but instead of giving themselves up to him they ran off naked in the direction of Hawick. He is listed as a ploughman at Effledge in 1861. He married Margaret Best in Ashkirk Parish in 1857. Their children included: John (b.1857); Alexander (1860–1942), who died in Victoria, British Columbia; Thomas (1863–1948), who also died in Victoria; and Agnes (b.1865). Margaret (b.1845) daughter of William and Margaret Laidlaw. She helped her father with his duties as postmaster at Bonchester Bridge, and took over after his death in 1880. She also served as Clerk to the School Board and Clerk to the Heritors, and was one of the best known people in the Rule valley in her day. She was one of the original members of Wolfelee Free Kirk She helped George Tancred with information for his Rulewater book. In 1901 she was... living at Newington, Edinburgh. Peter (1835–85) son of William and Margaret Laidlaw, he was born in Hobkirk Parish. He worked as a mason in Hobkirk and then in Hawick. He was visiting Howahill at the time of the 1841 census. In 1858 he married Mary (1827–1912), daughter of James Nichol. Their children were: William (b.1860); Peter (b.1862); Thomas (b.1864); Elizabeth Burnett (b.1865); and Robert Nichol (b.1872), who married Mina Inglis. Robert (b.1828/9) born in Hawick. In 1851 he was listed as a shoemaker at about 16 Howegate, with his wife Janet being a boot-binder. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. His children baptised there included: William (b.1757), probably the plasterer in Hawick; Samuel (b.1760); Elizabeth (b.1763); Isabel (b.1764); George (b.1766); and Agnes (b.1768). Thomas (1863–1948) born at Effledge, son of John, who was an assistant gamekeeper there, and Margaret Best. He worked at Chatelherault, Kinmount, Croxton Park and Fawley Court, before becoming gamekeeper at Wells estate. He later moved to Victoria, British Columbia, where he died. He married Jessie, daughter of Alexander Anderson, forester on the Kinmount estate in Dumfriesshire. William of Pinnacle (1719–98) 2nd son of John and Agnes Elliot. He was recorded as owner of Pinnacle in 1788, valued at £500. He married Charlotte Cleland from Edinburgh, who died in 1791. They had 12 sons and 1 daughter. His eldest son John predeceased him, and he was succeeded by his grandson William. In fact he outlived all his sons, except for William, an officer in India (who had no children). His 10th son Hugh died while defending a fort at Seringapatam in 1792. Lt.-Col. William of Pinnacle and Whiterig (1771–1835), J.P., only son of John. He succeeded his grandfather William in 1798. He joined the army in about 1794, becoming Captain in the 35th Regiment of Foot, transferring to the 15th Foot as Lieutenant-Colonel in 1807. He was listed as a Commissioner for Roxburghshire in 1805 and 1819. He was recorded as a freeholder in the Michaelmas Head-Court of Jedburgh in 1811. He became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1817 and was also a member of the ‘Border Bowmen’. In 1807 he married Susan, 6th daughter of Thomas Mein of Eildon Hall. They had 9 sons and 2 daughters, including: John (1809–43), Captain in the 34th Madras Infantry; Thomas, Royal Navy Commander, who lived at Eildon Hall, Ontario; William (b.1814); James (b.1816); Archibald (b.1817); Charles (b.1819) who served as a militia officer during the Canadian rebellion of 1837; Hugh (b.1823), served in Bengal and also moved to Canada; and Francis Clunie, who served with the Royal Navy and was later a doctor in Sutton West, Canada. After his death the family lands were sold off. William (18th/19th C.) plasterer in Hawick, who lived at the Sandbed. He is said to have been a descendant of the Sibbalds of Pinnacle and Whiterig and the earlier portioners of Eildon and Bowden. He was probably son of Thomas, baptised in Cavers Parish in 1757. He witnessed a baptism for mason William Philip in 1792. He is listed as ‘Plaisterer’ on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls for Hawick. He married Mary Weir, who died in 1835. Their children (baptised in Wilton Parish) included: Thomas (1784–1808); Ann (b.1786); Elizabeth (‘Betty’, b.1787), who probably married Walter Gillies and was a widow at 56 High Street in 1851 and 1861; Peter (b.1789); Mary (b.1792); Mary (again, b.1793); William (b.1803), who became tenant on the Weens estate. He may have earlier married Katherine Grieve in Hawick in 1778. William (1803–80) son of Hawick plasterer William and Mary Weir, he was born in Wilton Parish and educated at Wilton School. He was a stocking-maker in Hawick and in about 1823 moved to one of the Sclenty Hall cottages in Hobkirk, becoming a tenant farmer on the Weens estate. He then became a land measurer, in about 1840 was appointed Heritors’ Clerk and in 1846 was made Inspector of Poor and Collector for the Parish. He later became Registrar and Clerk of the School Board and ran the Hobkirk Library, being a great lover of books. He was also Precentor at Hobkirk Kirk at one time. He served as a factor for the Weens estate for a while. The 1841 census lists him as a stockmaking at Sclentry Hall, and at 3 Weens Cottages in 1851. In 1861 he was listed as ‘Registrar of Births &c. Inspr. of Poor’ at Weens Cottages. He was Chair- man at the Burns centenary celebration in Rulewater in 1859. Later in life he was postmaster at Bonchester Bridge, probably from the late 1860s, succeeding Miss Renwick. His daughter helped him as he got older, and after his death she became postmistress. In 1823 he married Margaret, 2nd daughter of William Laidlaw of Weensmoor. Their children included: Helen (b.1823), who married James Short; Mary (b.1825), who was unmarried; William (b.1827), who was a frameworker in Hawick and died unmarried; James (b.1832), who emigrated to Canada and died in Minnesota; Peter (1835–85), a mason in Hawick; Thomas (b.1839), a joiner; and Margaret (b.1845), who helped her father and then became post-mistress (also formerly written ‘Sybald’).
Sibbie Cartoosh

Sibbie Cartoosh (si-bee-kawr-toosh) n. former nickname for a woman in Hawick, presumably because she wore a cartoosh (see also cottouch).

sic (seek, sik) adj. such – there’s nae sic word is ‘cannit’, ‘Sic a callant he was!’ [GW], ‘Sic maist, sic man’ [GW], ‘Only death shall us part, Keep sic thoughts frae my heart’ [JTe], ‘Indeed there’s scarcely sic a laird – He’s mony a bonnie house an’ yard’ [RDW], ‘...Worthy sic a glorious morn’ [RH], ‘...And cuts sic cantrips in the air’ [JBS], ‘The fare it was homely, their hunger was keen Sic and M.P. and uncle, sure, never were seen’ [JCG], ‘...Wha was ower guid for sic a war! [RDW], ‘Dear lass, it was on sic a day Ye cooly promised to be mine’ [WP], ‘Sic o’er sorra folk wear Nowadays: pink and blue Like flashes o electricity!’ [DH], what – ‘...sic is preferred to what in: Ee-ee-eh sic bonnie floorers! Look sic nibbles!’ [ECS], pron. such a person or thing – ‘She daffed awee wi’ sic as ye’ [HSR], ‘...thou thouchtist that I was a’thegither sic an ane as thyself! ’...’ [HSR] (also spelled ‘sich’, ‘seek’ and ‘sik’).

sic a (seek-, sik-a) interj. what a, such a – ‘In exclamatory expressions we often use, elliptically, what a or sic a for what a lot o, sic a lot o, etc. (....Sic a floors ee heh in eer gairdeen!) Sic a is the more typically Hawick in such cases, and, in fact, in all expressions of exclamatory where the English is what a. Thus:– Look sic a nibble A’ve gotten! Sic a muckle man eehev turnt!’ [ECS].

sic-another (seek-a-ni-thur) adj., arch. another such, such-like – ‘...an a’lard eet afor ma lookin een on o leemened or sic-another fussy drink’ [ECS].

sic-an-si (seek-in-see) adj., arch. similar, much of a muchness, such another – ‘They’re duist sic an’ sae wi them ye hae’ [JAHM], ‘Lilliard’s Edge hed been sic-an-so that verra day’ [ECS] (also written ‘sic-an-sae’, ‘sic-an-so’ and variants).

siccan (si-kin) adj., arch., poet. such like, such a kind of, such a – ‘Losh man! hae done wi’ senseless clatter, Will siccan whingeing mend the matter?’ [RDW], ‘Eh losh mei, an’ Aw’ve hed siccan a day’ [JEDM], ‘Siccan yin’ [GW], ‘Sic’n nonsense’ [GW], ‘Nae siccan was heard As looe your mortal fae . . .’ [WL], such (followed by a) – ‘The indefinite article, a or an, is repeated after sicc’n in phrases like sicc’n a leike yin; sicc’n a body, etc.’ [ECS], ‘Siccan a like yin tell’d ’er’ [GW] (also pronounced with a swallowed ‘c’; sometimes written ‘sicc’n’).

siccar (si-kur) adj., arch., poet. secure, firm, dependable – ‘...and gif our apprising of the lands of Kirkurde in the maist sicker forme that can be diuisit . . .’ [SB1527], ‘For he spak’, an’ it was dune; he odereret, an’ it stude siccer’ [HSR], ‘...the warld is alsua sete siccer that it canna be muvet’ [HSR], ‘Now Langlands was ane siccar man, An’ ane siccar man was he, He ne’er said a word until he got In his poot his pardon free Sealed wi’ the seal o’ his Majesty’ [FL], ‘Siccar the slow, slow fingers rub, Straikin without staw ...’ [DH], ‘Forbye, gin the deed ye noo mak siccar, ‘Twill be a stap in the auld man’s bicker’ [WL] (also written ‘sicker’, ‘siccer’ and variants).

siccarly (si-kur-lee) adv., arch., poet. assuredly, dependably – ‘The nit maun be withert ere sickerly sweet’ [JoHa], ‘For he sete siccerlie up aune testimonie in Jacob . . .’ [HSR] (also written ‘sick-erly’).

siccarest (si-kur-ist) adj., arch. securest – ‘...to the said Dauid, his aieris, executouris and assig-nais, in the stratest and seikirrest fourrne and stile of obligationoun . . .’ [SB1470] (there are spelling variants).

siccarness (si-kur-nis) n., arch. security, safety, assurance – ‘...to the said Walter incontinent efter that the sickirnes be fund for payment of the said sowme . . .’ [SB1527].

sich see sic

sich (sich) v., poet. to sigh – ‘For the oppressione o’ the puir, for the sichin’ o’ the needie’ [HSR], ‘Let the sichin’ o’ the prisiner cum afore thee . . .’ [HSR], ‘...wui a lang waucht that garrd iz sich’ [ECS].

sicht (sicht) n., arch. sight – ‘Pracious in the sight o’ the Lord is the deth o’ his saunts’ [HSR], ‘...they juudgemints ar fer aboone owt o’ his sicht . . .’ [HSR], ‘The last sicht I saw o’ him was just a glimpse, as he ran faster than ever, stark-naked, doon the Honeyburn fields’ [BCM1881], Afore they were oot o ma sicht, as I ran for ma part, I took another vizzy . . .’ [HSR], ‘An, whow! it was a sicht ti be meindeet!’ [ECS], ‘...till the riggens an ruiffs o Denum – theekeet yins an sklaitteet yins – cam in sicht’ [ECS].

It seems like only yesterday We cheered ye oot o’ sicht!’ [WL], ‘But I’m fain for a sicht o’ the Vertish Hill . . .’ [DH], v., arch. to sight – ‘...And I sichted a couple o’ colliers there, As merry as weel may be’ [WL], to examine, scrutinise – ‘...and appoints Baylyea Burne . . . to goe up up Soon after eleven o’clock and sight that the marches of the said dyke are not prejudged’ [BR1675].
sicht (sicht) pp., poet. sighed – ... And the lee long night she had turned and sight, But her ailment wadna name’ [JTe]. sick-laith (sik-lāth) adj., arch. very unwilling – ‘I’ll be sick-laith to do ’t’ [Jp7] (also see-seek-laith).
sic-like (sik-līk) adj. such like, of the like kind – ‘... Robert Scott, last lauchful possessour thairof, ... and syckly zeirlie and termilie in tyme cuming ... ’ [SB1569], ‘James Scott, called Pedee, ... , gave them opprobrious and irreverent language, and sicklile this day, not only in high contempt of the bailies and their authority ... ’ [BR1679], ‘Sic an’ sic-like’ [GW], ‘But mony’s the time aa’ve heard sic-like cryin’’ [DH], ‘But in a’ oor Teriland (Where some sic-like things should stand) ... ’ [TK], pron. such a kind – ‘He’d boost a friend an’ sink himself – Sic like was Robbie’ [WP], ‘O’ siclike beauty, ye jauds be fain, Nor tilt your nebs i’ the air again’ [WL], adv., arch. likewise, similarly – ‘... and ye vll siclyk vryt unto me from Edinburgh quhat Sir William shall effectuat with his Majestie ... ’ [SB1597], ‘Sic lyke, there is comprised ane seck pertaining to Andrew Leyden ... ’ [BR1644], ‘... and sycklyke, the said day, and att the same tyme, and in the same place, Adam Young toike the bonnett of the staffe head of the said Hew Ellot ... ’ [BR1685], ‘... giving John Swan, present quarter-master an lie and sicke-lyke ... ’ [BR1693] (also written ‘siclike’, ‘sicklike’ and variants).

sid (sīd) pp. said – ‘Hogg was sid ti hev been pait o the Hawick contingent thit merched ti Selkirk that fatef day in 1815 ... ’ [IHS] (note the pronunciation of this word, which is often rather than a in conversation; see also said). sidernwud (si-durn-wud) n., arch. southernwood, Artemisia arboformum (also suddren-wud). side (sīd) n., arch. direction, district (this meaning is preserved in many place names, e.g. Appo-tside, Castleside, Damside and Towerykeside), a slope, hillside (names of perhaps older origin, from the Old English, e.g. Earlsdie, Falside, Hawthornside, Hazelyside, Mackside and Teind-side).
side (sīd) adj., arch. hanging low, extending far down – ‘... to see what passed between her and the man in the ‘side black goun’’ [EM1820].
Side (sīd) n. former tower just south of Newcastleton (or Copshaw). The earliest records are in a c.1376 rental roll, for ‘Locus Willelmi del Syde’ (8 shillings) and ‘Locus Ade de Syde’ (16 shillings). It is unclear to which family these men belonged. It is possibly also the ‘Siders’ recorded as an Elliot residence in 1498. It was home of ‘Jock o the Side’ in the 16th century, probably an Armstrong who was immortalised in the ballad of the same name. ‘Chrystie of the Syde’ is listed among Liddesdale chief’s at the end of the 16th century by Monipennie and may have been Jock’s brother. ‘Sym’ and ‘Lancie’ Armstrong of ‘the Syde’ are recorded in 1601 and John ‘called of the Syd’ in 1642. William Thomas was tenant there in 1694, with William Little, Thomas Owens and George Hewitson also listed. Adam Henderson was tenant in 1706, when 2 of his servants were rebuked for fighting on the Sabbath.
William Little was there in 1707 when summoned for having a ‘penny wedding’. In a survey of 1718 it is stated that Shipshielden was also known as Side. The site may be the farmstead whose remanes are on the east side of Kirk Hill, at the head of Ettleton Sike, or perhaps further to the south, as marked on Stobie’s 1770 map. The farmstead has at least 3 buildings, a kiln-barn and several enclosures, although the remains of a tower have not been established. Another site, pointed out in the 19th century (and said to be marked by a solitree), which is marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map, south of Kirk Hill, has no traces of foundations (also spelled ‘Syde’ etc.; it appears on Blaen’s 1654 map as ‘Syd’ and on Gordon’s c. 1650 map as ‘Syd’).

side-be-side (sīd-bee-sīd) adv. side-by-side – ‘... whan billies fell seide-be-seide till the braeface was traisselt’ [ECS].
sideaways see sideeways Side Hill (sīd-hill) n. former name for a hill on the west side of the Liddel valley, near the lands of Side. It is probably the same as Kirk Hill, since it is described in the New Statistical Account in 1839 as having a square fort on top.

Siders (si-durz) n. nickname for William Elliot about 1500, the designation referring to his residence, which may have been ‘Side’.

sides-away (sīdz-a-wā) n., arch. former street game, similar to kick-the-can – ‘Sides-away, that was another popular thing’ [DaS].
sideaways (sī-dee-wāz) adv. sideaways – ‘sei if it’ll fit throwe sideeways’, ‘Fred and Flash Broon were awfih like yin another frae sideeways on’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘sideaways’, ‘seideways’, etc.; sometimes ‘sideeways-on’).

sie

see si
The Siege of Cocklaw

Sillerbithaa (si-lur-bi'-haw, -hal) n. older version of Silverbuthall, referring to the area previously called Easter Heap.

Sillerbit Hall (si-lur-bi'-hal, -haw) n. this older name for Silverbuthall was adopted in 1861 for the lands purchased by Thomas Laidlaw (from Walter Wilson), and the mansion house he had built there in the period 1863–1866. The house was located roughly near the top of the present Churchill Road, with the approach from the main entrance at the top of Havelock Street. The architect was J.T. Rochead of Glasgow, and it was in the Scottish baronial style, with French elements. The house was used by Belgian refugees during WWI. It was demolished in 1946 when the council purchased the estate (being quite full of dry rot etc.). A window panel (with the Burgh crest) is preserved in the Museum. The gate lodge for the main house still exists, now numbered as 23 Havelock Street. A ‘wedge-shaped perforated hammer of rough surfaced sandstone’ found near here was donated to the Museum (see also Silverbuthall).

Sillerless (si-lur-lis) adj., arch. silverless, impetuous – ‘...Than wed wi’ a sillerless bodie, I’d far rather want till I dee’ [JoHa].

Siller Seterdi (si-lur-se'-ur-di) n., pl., arch. quaking grass, Briza media.

Silly (si-lee) adj., arch. poorly, weak, sickly – ‘She’s aye been a silly bairn; she’s never thrivven with questions { ‘Thae bairns hae seeged me!’ [JW1704], ‘Gif she be ane wa’, we wull bigg apon hir ane palece o’ siller’ [HSR], ‘...kiveret wi’ siller, an’ her feathers wi’ yallo gowd’ [HSR], ‘...The symbols o’ sic strength and

Silverbuthall

Silurian shale (si-loo-ree-in-shal) n. shale formed in the third period of the Palaeozoic Era, about 405–425 million years ago. It is the dominant geology around Hawick, specifically referred to as the Hawick Group.

Silverbuthall (si-vur-bi'-hal, -haw) n. an area at the north end of Hawick, roughly corresponding to the old estate of Easter Heap, and now containing a housing estate. The name occurs as early as 1694, although spelling varies. The lands were part of the estates of Langlands of that Ilk, until sold to James Scott, farmer at Boonraw, who was Laird there in the mid-18th century. Small enclosures were separately sold to James and Walter Knox, and later acquired by Archibald Dunlop and then John Scott Chisholme. Andrew Marshall was tenant there in 1711. John Blyth was living there in 1723, George Scott in 1728 and Robert Smith in 1791. Thomas Hall was farmer there in 1797. The house there was lived in by banker William Oliver (‘Auld Cash’), who died in 1808, when it was inherited by his nieces. The lands were valued at £80 in 1788 and 1811 (including the enclosures), when owned by James Scott. The lands were bought in about 1822 by James Scott, retired teacher from Yarrow, who died in the early 1840s. In 1841 there were 8 households living there. Small pieces of the lands were sold to Chisholme of Stirches and Robert Turnbull of Galalaw. A large part of the lands were purchased by Thomas Laidlaw in 1861, who had a new mansion built there (near the present Churchill Road), designed by J.T. Rochead, and including a lodge house (which still exists), with construction by local building firm George Tait. The house can be seen in an aerial photograph of 1933. This estate was acquired by the Council in 1945 for new housing in the north of town, with the ‘prefabs’ being constructed first, and the present day housing from the mid-1960s. It comprises Silverbuthall Road, Branxholme Road and adjoining streets (the word refers to the placement of the butts, i.e. archery targets, of Wilton Parish being sited near there, and the practice of having a silver arrow as shooting prize; it is ‘Silverbuthall’ in 1797 and ‘Silverboothall’ in 1808; it is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map; see also Sillerbit Hall).

Silverbuthaa (sil-vur-bi-haw) n. another name for the mansion house called Sillerbit Haa.

Silverbuthall Ludge (sil-vur-bi-hal-huj) n. former gate lodge for the mansion at Silverbuthall. It was probably designed by J.T. Rochead (who designed the main house, which was built 1863–6), and survives at No. 23 Havelock Street, the corner with Wellfield Road. It is in a striking Scottish Baronial style, with a circular stair tower and conical-capped gatepiers. It is a grade B listed building.

Silverbuthall Road (sil-vur-bi-hal-röd) n. main road through the Silverbuthall housing scheme, with houses built in 1965.

Silver Field (sil-vur-feeld) n. local name for a piece of ground to the north of Ettleton churchyard, said to be where coins were sometimes found. It was perhaps the manse of the old kirk.

the Silver Flush (thu-sil-vur-flush) n. former name for a spring at the lower end of the area where Newcastleton was built. It was said to be named after the ‘palfrey’ of a young lady (who was to marry the Laird of Whithaugh) stopped, with its silver bells being heard from some distance (as noted in ‘ Beauties of the Border’).

the Silver Spurs (thu-sil-vur-spurz) n. annual race for married men at the Common Riding, since at least the 1840s.

Silver Street (sil-vur-stree’) n. narrow street alongside the west bank of the Slitrig. It is one of the oldest streets in Hawick, although most of the present buildings are Victorian, and the name is not recorded before 1801. Up until the latter part of the 18th century it was part of the main road through Hawick, and houses there were referred to as on ‘the King’s High Street’. It was flooded in the great Slitrig flood of 1767, when several buildings were damaged. It became more of a back street with the erection of Drumlanrig Bridge in 1776, and moreso with the demolition of the Auld Brig in 1851. The banker ‘Auld Cash’ (William Oliver) lived there, and presumably had his banking office there too. A sketch of ‘old court, Silver Street’ exists by T.H. Laidlaw in the late 19th century. J.P. Alison designed alterations at Nos. 2 and 3. (the origin is obscure, with some suggestion that it is a reference to ‘Auld Cash’, similarity between his name ‘Oliver’ and ‘Silver’ perhaps not being a coincidence either; however, if the name is older than that, it may relate to the silver arrow prize at the Hawick ‘butt’s”).

Sim (sim) n., arch. former short form of the Christian name Simon, popular in the 16th and 17th centuries (sometimes spelled ‘Sym’; cf. Simmie and Syme).

Sime (sīm) n. James Boyd (1865–1953) son of William of Galashiels and Ellen Boyd, and brother of William Boyd. He was a manufacturer who was on the Town Council in the early years of the 20th century and lived at Dunira. He became a partner in Pringle’s in 1906 and resigned in 1929. He was one of the earliest players of tennis in Hawick and also shared an early interest in cinematography with David Gaylor. He fought in WWI, but when his brother died in 1917 he became Chairman of Sime, Williamson & Co. He was also a Church Warden at St. Cuthbert’s. On the 1891 census he was living at Ivy Bank, Fenwick Park, with his mother and his only sister, Ellen. He married Williamina (‘Mina’) daughter of dyer John Turnbull. Saida (??–??) gave a Sime’s

Simmons (si-minz) n. Anne Vernona of Tushielaw (1797–1837) daughter of Philip and Vernona Estwick. She was grand-daughter of Henry Peter Simmons and Ann Kirton and great-grand-daughter of Barbara Anderson of Tushielaw. She inherited the farms of Tushielaw and Hislop on the death of her great-uncle John Kirton Anderson in 1816. She married Benjamin Thomas Gaskin in 1818, and had their only child (a son of the same name) after her husband’s early death. Her son took the additional surname Anderson when he inherited.

Simmer (si-mur) v., arch. summer – ‘...For simmer sairs it little now – it’s no’ what it has been'[JoHa], ‘...my moustir is turnet in-til the drouth o’ simmer’[HSR], ‘...thou hest maeed simmer an’ wintir’[HSR], ‘Let fortune’s sun o’ simmer shine ...’[RH], ‘...That brocht the sicht o’ scenes lang tint, An’ simmer days nae mair’[ECB], ‘...an i simmer, whan the smuists are waorst an the pluiffin froes up atween the causa-stanes’[ECS], ‘...Sing salutation to the simmer’[DH], ‘She left me wi’ the simmer’s close Think not that she was untrue ...’[WE], adj. relating to summer – ‘...She’s as blithe as the simmer day’s lang’[WAP], ‘...and buttercups, and cranembill and vetch on the gressy verge o’ the white simmer road ...’[DH], ‘...Unfurled ti kiss the simmer sky In Hawick ma Border hame’[IWL], v., arch. to summer – ‘I simmered up in the Hurun country lads, did a bit of hunting for the HUDONS ...’[JEDM].

Simmer an wunter (si-mur-an-wun-tur) v., arch. to be long-winded, go into a subject at length, haggie – ‘It servd naething for ti stert simmer-an-wunteren’[ECS], ‘Il’ll serv naething now ti stert simmer-an-wunteren’[ECS] (also written ‘simmer-an-wunter’).

Simmie (si-mee) n., arch. former pet form of the name Simon, also used as an informal name for the Devil (cf. Sim and Syme).

Simmie’s Pottie (si-meez-po’ee) n. popular name for a block of freestone on the east side of Ruberslaw, which has a cavity on the top, its former use being uncertain. Presumably ‘Simmie’ refers to the Devil.

Sime’s (simz) n. manufacturers Sime, Williamson & Co.

Sime, Williamson & Co. (sim-wi-lee-un-sin-in-kö) n. tweed manufacturers, founded in 1889, with their main howl part of Weensland Mills. They were also sometimes known as simply Sime’s. They purchased Howlands Mill (on Victoria Road) in 1911 and changed the name to Dean Mills. When William Boyd Sime died in 1917, his brother James Boyd Sime became Chairman. The firm went out of business in 1937 and Dean Mills became part of Innes, Henderson & Co.

Simpson (sim-sin) n. Alexander (18th C.) gardener at Langlands House in 1788, when he was working for Thomas Elliot. He was still gardener there in 1791, when he was working for Lord Napier. In 1794 he was gardener at Teviotbank in Minto Parish, working for David Simpson. Andrew (16th C.) recorded as tenant of Overdraw, along with William, on the 1541 rental roll of Liddesdale. Andrew (17th C.) merchant listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He was also listed on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’ in 1694. He could be the Andrew who married Isobel Scott, and whose daughter Janet was born in Hawick in 1671. Andrew (18th C.) tailor in Hawick. He was already deceased in 1794 when his son John died. Dr. Andrew (20th C.) born in Kirkcaldy, he graduated in Medicine from Edinburgh University in 1923 and about 1924 took over the practice of Dr. Dixon in Hawick. He was Medical Officer for Hawick R.F.C. He was a founder President of Hawick Rotary Club and served as Chairman of the local British Legion. He retired in 1967 after being a Hawick G.P. for over 40 years. Dr. Andrew Rutherford ‘Ford’ (1932–2002) born in Hawick, son of local doctor Andrew. He was in the R.A.M.C. as part of National Service, then trained as a doctor, coming to practise with his father in Bridge Street in 1964. He served as President of the Hawick Rotary Club, team doctor and President of Hawick R.F.C., Callants’ Club President, Chairman of Douglas Haig Court Committee. He was also known as a popular reciter of Border poetry.

Archibald (15th C.) listed among a large number of Liddesdale men who failed to appear at the Justice-aire in 1494/5. His name appears as ‘archibald s symson’. Archibald (16th C.) Reader of Glasgow Diocese who supplied Lilliesleaf parish in the period 1575–82, the last pre-Reformation preacher to preach there. His name is spelled ‘Symson’ and ‘Simson’. In 1575 Thomas Dun-canson was Minister (also for Bowden, Langnew- ton and Melrose), i.e. he had most of the living of the parishes. In 1582 he is recorded as one of 6 preachers from southern Scotland who were deprived for ‘abusing the sacraments’, then excom- municated in 1588 and threatened with death in 1590 if they did not stop their practices. This may suggest that the men had been Catholic priests before the Reformation. Ashley (1973–) one of two women to publicly attempt to join Ride-outs in 1996. Bailie ?? Bailie of Hawick towards the end of the 19th century. David of Teviotbank (d.1806) son of Rev. James, minister of Wilton. He was ‘of Know’ in 1788 when mentioned as someone about to be added to the list of vot- ers for Roxburghshire and said to be connected with Thomas Ogilvie and probably a supporter of Scott of Buccleuch in the election. He is recorded as ‘David Simson of Know’ when he was taxed in Minto Parish for having 2 female servants in 1789 and 1 in 1790; in 1791 he was ‘of Teviotbank’ when he was taxed for 2 female servants in Minto Parish. He also had a male servant at Kowne in 1790, 2 at Teviotbank in 1791–93 and 3 in 1794 and 1797. In the period 1792–8 he was taxed for owning a carriage and in 1789–97 for having 2 carriage or saddle horses. In the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls he is also recorded as owner of 5 farm horses. He was still at Know when he subscribed to John Learmont’s book of poetry in 1791. He had the house at Teviotbank designed by Robert Burn about 1791. He was listed as owner of the lands of Knowe and Knowetownhead on the 1788 county valuation (and still on the 1811 Land Tax Rolls). In 1791 he married Margaret, daughter of John Elliot of Borthwickbrae. Their children included Gen. Sir James (1792–1868). His will is recorded in 1808 and his estate was granted to his widow Margaret, along with Rev. William of Edin-burgh (his brother). After his death there was an ongoing dispute regarding money he claimed he was owed from the Nabob of Arcot and the Ameer ul Omrah. His will was proved at the Pre-rogative Court of Canterbury in 1808. David B. F.R.C.O. (1886–1941) born in Kilmarnock and raised in Dundee. On 1920 he became the first professional organist at St. George’s Kirk, having previously been at the Parish Church of Leslie in Fife. He was also a private music teacher in Ha- wick, and was conductor of Hawick Choral Soci- ety. He is buried in Wellogate Cemetery. David M. (b.1861) son of George, farmer at Bedrule. He studied engineering at Edinburgh University then worked in several positions, including as con- structing engineer on the Edinburgh Suburban Railway. In 1887 he went to Beunos Aires, then in 1891 to Havana, where he was awarded the Spanish Order of Merit for working during the rebel- lion. From 1896–1906 he was chief engineer of the Buenos Aires Western Railway. Francis (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He witnessed a baptism for George Scott in 1671, along with John Scott, and another for John Blake in 1673, along with Walter Purdom. Francis ‘Frank’ (1888–1964) born at 10 Trinity Street, he was son of mill foreman Thomas B. He was church organist at Newcastleton and later at Minto. He also gave music lessons in this home at 4 Earl Street. He wrote the music for ‘Teviotdale’. He is buried in Wilton Cemetery. George ‘Geordie’ (16th/17th C.) recorded in 1590 among Elliots of the Steele, the Park, Binks, and others, when complained about for a raid into England. Probably the same George is listed in 1590 among Armstrongs and Elliots complained about by a large group of En- glishmen for a raid on Blackcleugh in Kirkhaugh in 1590, taking many prisoners for ransom. He is also recorded in 1596 when there was a complaint that he and others had raided lands in England at King Water; others riding with him include Will Elliot of the Steele and Anthony Elliot of the Binks, suggesting he was from Liddesdale. He is probably the George who signed a bond written by Sir John Forster to try to end family feuds on the Border in 1595/6. He may be the ‘Geordie Symson in the Rawis’, who was listed in 1576 among men who should not have been freed. from ward. He may be the ‘Gorth Simson’ listed in 1583 among supporters of Elliot of Redheugh. George (18th C.) factor to the estates of Scott of Harden in the period 1757–83. George (18th C.) son of Alexander, minister of Monymusk, he was made Honorary Burgess in 1751. George (d.c.1889) born at Oxnam Row. His father was David, while his grand-father George and great-grandfather John farmed at Bloodylaws in Oxnam Parish. He was tenant farmer at Bedrule from 1846, with his trustees continuing from 1889 until it was sold by the Eliotts to the Usiers in 1898. The farm was drained significantly during his tenure. This branch of the family often used the ‘Simson’ spelling. He married Emily Roy and their son was David M. Harold (??– ) Council employee who was Common Riding Secretary from about 1966 until Reorganisation. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Bessie Mathison and their children included: Bessie (b.1697). James (17th/18th C.) merchant in Hawick, on the 1693/4 subscribers’ list for the new Kirk bell. He was listed ‘oust the water’ in Hawick on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. He was a witness to a baptism for shoemaker Robert Allan in 1709. He could also be the merchant who in 1709 was ‘called Latu [or something similar] Simson’ when his daughter Marion was baptised, with witnesses James Falsyde and Andrew Riddell. He may be the carrier who witnessed baptism in 1711 for smith Thomas Huntly and for merchant Walter Scott. In 1716 he witnessed a baptism for smith John Scott. Probably the same James was recorded in 1731 when he was paid for ‘lintseed oyle and wit lead got to the wither-kok in 1728’. He may be the merchant who married Marion Stewart in 1706 and whose children included: Jean (b.1718); Christian (b.1721); and James (b.1725). The witnesses in 1721 were Bailie James Deans and tailor Robert Wilson. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1715 he was living at Ormiston. His children included: John and William (b.1714); William (again, b.1715). James (17th/18th C.) married Margaret Boa in Minto in 1721. Her father was Patrick Boa. He may be the James whose children, baptised in Cavers, were John (b.1727), Katherine (b.1729), William (b.1731), Helen (b.1734) and Gilbert (b.1736). Rev. James (1708–71) Minister of Wilton Parish 1738–71. He was son of John, minister of Morebattle. He was educated at Edinburgh University, licensed by Jedburgh Presbytery in 1737 and presented to Wilton by Francis, Duke of Buccleuch soon afterwards. He witnessed a baptism in Wilton in September 1737 and another in February 1738, suggesting he was already in the area. He was ordained at Wilton in 1738 and remained until his death. Wilton Common was divided during his time as minister, with the lands of Priestrig being reserved for the minister. In 1748 he arranged for a piece of his land (near Burnfoot Mill) to be exchanged for a piece of the Duke of Buccleuch’s ‘Trinity lands’, lying on the Wilton side of the Teviot. He is recorded paying the window tax at ‘the mance’ in Wilton Parish in 1748. He witnessed a baptism in Wilton for John Miller in 1759. In about 1763 his rebuke of dissenters during a baptism of a child of James Scott (farmer at Boonraw), convinced Scott to leave the established church, which led to the forming of the Green Kirk in Hawick. The oldest existing Wilton communion token is from 1763, during his incumbency. In 1743 he married Anne Cranstoune, daughter of the minister of Ancrum. Their children were: John (b.1743), who died young; William (b.1744), who became minister of the Tron Kirk in Edinburgh; John (again, b.1745): David (b.1747) of Know and Teviotbank; James (b.1748), perhaps also of Teviotbank; Anne (b.1748), who died young; and Andrew (b.1751), who also died young. The witnesses in 1747 were William Scott of Whitehaugh and John Chisholme of Stirches and in 1751 were Kirk Elders Robert and Walter Scott. James (18th C.) Bailie who, along with John Nixon, in 1793 presented a bible for use by subsequent Magistrates in St. Mary’s Kirk. It was moved to the Old Parish in 1849 and was there for at least another half-century. He was also Bailie in the very early 1800s. Gen. Sir James (1792–1868) grandson of Rev. James Simpson, son of David Simpson of Teviotbank and Mary Eliott of Borthwickbrae. He was educated at Edinburgh University and commissioned in the Grenadier Guards in 1811. He served in several campaigns, being severely wounded at Quatre Bras, and promoted through the ranks as he served in Mauritius, Bengal and Sind. He went to the Crimea as a Major-General in 1851, becoming acting senior officer and was promoted to General in 1852, along with receiving the G.C.B. He handed over command soon after and retired near Bury St. Edmunds. He was awarded many honours including the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour and being made an Honorary Burgess of Hawick while staying at the Tower Hotel in 1856 after visiting his cousin A.E. Lockhart at Borthwickbrae. He was said to be the tallest officer in the British Army. In 1839 he married Elizabeth, 2nd daughter of Sir Robert Dundas, but she died in the following year. John (17th C.) merchant in Hawick. In 1674 he was fined for not allowing Bailie Purdom to take his horse to ride to Jedburgh on the Town’s business. He could be the John who was married to Isobell Brown and whose children, baptised in Hawick, included John (b.1669) and Francis (b.1673). The witnesses in 1673 were John Scott and John Hardie. He may be the ‘Jon Symson, skinner’ recorded in 1673 on the list of men named in the trial for the so-called riot at St. Jude’s Fair. John (17th C.) tenant in Stobicote. He was listed in 1684 among many men declared as fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. John (18th C.) carrier in Hawick. In 1728 he married Margaret, daughter of William Little. Their children included: Margaret (b.1729); James (b.1740); and William (b.1743). In 1728 he was witness for Robert Renwick in Sandbed. John (18th C.) recorded in 1751 as ‘lying at the Point of Death in all probability’. This was in the Hawick Session records, where there was a discussion about what to do with ‘the Horse belonging to the Session’. His connection with the Session is unclear. John (18th C.) recorded in 1771 when he was paid by the Town Council ‘for a standard for salt from Jedburgh’. It is unclear what his occupation was. John (d.1794) tailor in Hawick, son of Andrew. He could be the John (b.1746) son of Andrew and Margaret Turnbull. John (18th/19th C.) recorded at Dimpleknowe as owner of a saddle horse on the 1787–97 Horse Tax Rolls, as well as a farm horse in 1797. He also paid the dog tax there in the same year. Robert ‘Smith’ (15th/16th C.) recorded in a list of men from Liddesdale who failed to appear at the Justice- aire in 1494/5. His name is listed as ‘roberti symson vocatis smyt’. He was also among men who pledged good behaviour to Patrick, Earl of Bothwell in 1500; he is listed as ‘Robert Symson, callit Smyth’. Thomas (15th/16th C.) witness to the 1512 charter where Roger Langlands of that Ilk sold his lands of Mervinslaw to William Inglis of Langlandshill. He was probably from or around the Barony of Wilton. Thomas (1833/4–98) shoemaker in Newcastleton. In 1861 he was living on South Hermitage Street. His wife was Elizabeth, who died in 1916, aged 82. Their children included Andrew (1860/1–1933), who married Euphemia (1862/3–1939). Probably the same Thomas was manager of Newcastleton U.P. Kirk, recorded in 1879. They are buried at Ettleton. William (16th C.) tenant in Overraw, along with Andrew, recorded in the 1541 rental roll for Liddesdale. William (17th C.) resident of Minto Parish who appears in the Hearth Tax records of 1694. William (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He probably farmed near Newton. William (18th C.) witnessed a baptism in Wilton Parish in 1770 for Anthony Haig. William (18th/19th C.) recorded as farmer at Headshaw on the Horse Tax Rolls in the period 1785–1797. In 1797 he owned the grand sum of 13 farm horses and 1 carriage or saddle horse. He was additionally taxed for having 2 non-working dogs in 1797. He could be the tenant from about then who was recorded as an attendant at Midlem Session Kirk. He was recorded at Headshaw on the subscription list for Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He could be the William, married to Euphan Laidlaw, whose children baptised in Ashkirk Parish included John (b.1813) and Jessie (b.1819). William (b.c.1805) from Galashiels, he was a tailor in Hawick. He was recorded on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory. He was at about 29 High Street in 1841. His wife (who died before 1851) was Mary and their children included Walter, Helen, William, Robert and David. William (b.1818/9) from Kelso, he worked for James Kennedy, bookbinder. In about 1870 he started his own bookbinders and printers at 9 Oliver Place. This was continued by his sons Ebenezer and Walter as E.W. & W. Simpson, which can be seen in a photograph of 1889. The firm was later incorporated into Deans and Simpsons. William (1862/3–1929) joiner in Newcastleton, who died at Burgh-by-Sands. He married Margaret Oliver, who died on the Isle of Wight in 1898, aged 29. Rev. William (1863–1946) born at Elves, Elgin, son of Charles and Margaret Edwards. He was educated at Aberdeen and St. Andrews Universities. He was licensed by St. Andrews Presbytery in 1891, and was minister in Australia and New Zealand before returning to Scotland in 1904. He was minister at Downfield and then at Maud, before being traslated to St. Mary’s in Hawick in 1927. He demitted his charge in 1933 and died as the result of an accident 13 years later. He married Sarah Dare (who died in 1940) and their son William Nightingale was a doctor in Stow (formerly also ‘Simson’, as well as ‘Simsonn’, ‘Symp- sone’, ‘Symson’, ‘Symson’, etc.). Simpson’s (sim-sinz) n. D. Simpson Ltd., a tobacconist’s at 60 High Street in the mid-20th century. It was an Edinburgh company, which took over from William Sharp just before WWII and continued into the 1960s. The shop had a striking red and black vitralite frontage and was also known for its blend of pipe tobacco called ‘Teviotdale’.

Simpson’s Hill (sim-sinz-hil) n. small hill between Northhouse and Old Northhouse, just to the east of Inner Hill. It reaches a height of 308 m.

Sim’s Hob (simz-hōb) n. nickname for Robert Scott around 1600.

Sim’s Knowe (simz-now) n. hilly area just south of Harwood House, being on the northern slope of Templehall Hill.

Simson see Simpson

Sim the Laird (sim-thu-lär’d) n. nickname for Simon Airmstrong in the early 16th century.

sin (sin) adv. soon – ‘she sin got a chance ti prove hersel’, ‘A’ll sin tell ee’, ‘It’s mony a month sin oo last saw ye in this gate-end’ [JEDM], ‘... And sure we’ll baith come back again and ring, ring the bell’ [WE], ‘That someday sincere, Hit doon – mei abune ...’ [JEDM], ‘Oo’ve been kens where an sin than’ [ECS], ‘But ma trials ir sure forgotten ...’ [IW], sooner – ‘... Aye comes there, sune or later’ [DH] (also spelled ‘suen’, ‘sune’ etc.; also pronounced sin in earlier times, with what E.C. Smith describes as a ‘kind of medium’ vowel sound).

sin (sin) prep., conj., adv., arch. since – ‘Auld Brig ye’ve been a public gude For ocht I ken sin’ Noah’s flude’ [WNK], ‘There hasna been a carriage at oor door nayther afore nor sin’ syne’ [WNK], ‘A handle teh the twaesome seen sin the beacon war kuitelt on ther heathery pows’ [ECS], ‘Exactly a hunder and fifty eer sin’ [HEx1965], ‘... And sin’ they’ve aa taen their looks frae you, There’s nane that’ll come their gate to woo’ [WL] (also written ‘sine’).

sincair (sin-sār) adj., arch. sincere.

since (sins) adv. ago – ‘... twae or threi mouth since’ [CoH] (more frequent than in English, where ‘long since’ is the only frequent example).

Sinclair (sing-klär) n. Adam (15th/16th C.) recorded as ‘Adam Singlar’ when he witnessed the 1508 sasine for Adam Hepburn inheriting his father’s Lordship of Liddesdale. John was also a witness, and so perhaps related. Archibald (18th C.) gardener at Minto in 1791–93, when he was working for Sir Gilbert Elliot. In 1794 he was listed as groom at Minto and in 1797 was a gardener there. Charles Lord Sinclair (1768–1863) eldest son of Andrew and Elizabeth Rutherford. He succeeded to the family titles in 1776, becoming 13th Lord. He joined the Royal Scots Regiment of Foot at age 16 and in 1790 raised an independent company. He switched to the 15th Regiment of Foot and became Lieutenant-Colonel, quitting the Army in 1802, but becoming Lieutenant-Colonel of the Berwickshire Militia. In 1807 he was elected as a representative peer of Scotland then was involved with the Haddington Militia. He served as a Justice of the Peace in Roxburghshire. In 1802 he married Mary Agnes, daughter of James Chisholme of Stonedge. On the death of his father-in-law in 1812 he inherited the Stonedge estate. His wife died 2 years later and Their eldest son James became the 14th lord Sinclair. Their other children were: Matthew, who died aged 21; Charles, who became a Royal Navy Commander and lived at Eyemouth; and Susan. He secondly married Isabella Mary, youngest daughter of Alexander Chatto of Mainhouse in Roxburghshire and had 3 more children: John, who died aged 22; Eleanor; and Jane Elizabeth. He lived to the age of 95. Charles William Lord Sinclair (b.1831) eldest son of James, he was the 15th Lord. He was Colonel in the 57th Regiment, serving in Crimea, being present at Balaclava and Inkerman, in the Bosphorus, the Indian Mutiny and the New Zealand War, receiving several medals. He retired from the Army in 1878 and lived in Berwickshire, where he was a J.P. and Deputy-Lieutenant, as well as being a representative peer. Among his titles was also Laird of Stonedge in Rulewater. He also served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. In 1870 he married Margaret Jane Younger, daughter of James Murray of Bryanston Square, London. Their sons were Archibald James Murray and Charles Henry Murray, both of whom served in the Army, and they also had 3 daughters, Ada Jane, Margaret Helen and Georgina Violet. Charles ‘Charlie’ (19th C.) resident of Lintalee. He could be the same man as Charles, Lord Sinclair. He was instrumental in forming the new pack of Jedforest Hounds in about 1882. He served as Huntsman 1885–92. George became a Director at Pringle’s in 1947. James Lord Sinclair (1803–80) eldest son of Charles and Mary Agnes Chisholme, from whom he inherited the Stonedge estate in Rulewater. He was a heritor of Hobbirk Parish, and in 1836 was referred to as being ‘of Greenriver’. He was the 14th Lord Sinclair. He was Captain of the Grenadier Guards and became a Scottish representative peer. He served as a Commissioner of Supply and Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire. In 1830 he married Jane, eldest daughter of Archibald Little of Shabden Park, Surrey, and she died in 1887, aged 75. Their children were: Charles William, who succeeded; Archibald, who became a naval Commander; James Chisholme, in the Madras Civil Service; Lockhart Matthew; Mary Agnes; and Helen. James H. Associate Minister at Selkirk, linked with Ashkirk, in the 1980s. Janet (d.1667) married James Brydon and had a son Andrew. She later married Rev. Thomas Thomson, minister of Hobbirk. In 1618, along with her son Andrew and Hector Shiel of Kirknowe she had a 'wadset' over lands adjacent to the Kirkhaugh of Hobbirk. This was registered in 1623. She was buried in Greyfriars churchyard in Edinburgh. John (15th C.) recorded as being 'in Mynto' in 1493 when, along with 4 others, he 'came in the King's Will for treasonably concealing and Stoutreif of ten score pas-pennys pertaining to the King, found in the Kirk of Mynto'. This was probably a cache of English gold coins, hidden by Sinclair, but claimed by the King as treasure trove. Although said to be 'in Minto', the Laird of Bedrule was specifically his surety (while William Langlands acted for 2 of the others), perhaps suggesting that he was from Rulewater; the others were John Turnbull, Thomas Bell, George Turnbull and John Aitkin (with William Burn's name also given, but scored out). Perhaps he was the same John recorded earlier in 1493 when the Sheriff of Roxburgh was fined for his non-appearance at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh; this John was cited again at the Justice-aire in 1494/5. Possibly the same 'John Sinlar' was on the panel that met at Cavers to decide on inheritance of certain Elliot lands in 1497/8. Possibly the same 'Johanne Sinclair' was witness to the sasine for Adam Hepburn inheriting the Lordship of Liddesdale; there he is 'Halis signifero', i.e. standard-bearer for Hepburn of Hailes. Thomas (16th/17th C.) graduating from Edinburgh University in 1618, he was presented as minister to Abbotrule Parish in mid-1618 and ordained there early the following year. However, he resigned before the middle of 1623, the reason being that he had 'gone to London with the Prior of Coldingham's children' (presumably as their tutor). A man of the same name is recorded in a deed of 1608 as schoolmaster at Oakwood; this could be the same man or perhaps a close relative. William (19th C.) hired as a compulsory attendance officer in Hawick about 1873, following the requirements of the Education Scotland Act of 1872. He was thus the town's first truant officer! His main job was as a stocking-maker (written 'St. Clair' and 'Sinclare' in early times).

sind see synd

sinder (sin-dur) v., arch. to sunder, separate – 'Sae now they're married man and wife, There's nae man can them sinder; To live together a' their life, There's naething can them hinder'[CPM].

sindert (sin-dur') adj., pp., arch. sundered, separated – 'I am teemet owt like water; an' a' my banes are sindert'[HSR], 'I the mids o a michie cecie fer away sindert'[ECS] (also sundert).

sindry (sin-dree) adj., arch. sundry – 'Tyll all and syndy off qwam the knawlege thir presentis letterys ma to come ...'[SBR1431], 'And for the observing and keeping of all and sindry poyn-tis aboone writtin ...'[SB1527], '...opening of his kists, and stealing out of ane of them £40 money, with sindry linings and claes ...'[BR1641], n., arch. sundry people, separate individuals – '...quhilk she declared she had given for wairs to sindries, except 10s., quilk being all wes tuik out of her purse'[BR1641].

sine see syne

Singdean (sing-deen) n. hamlet between the 'Note o the Gate' and Saughtree. It is probably the place transcribed as 'Sougdon' (with a value of 12 merks) on the c.1376 rental roll of Liddesdale. On the 1541 roll it is listed as 'Sangdane', with the same value, and William Elliot being the tenant. There were originally separate farms of Over and Nether Singdean, which were part of the lands in upper Liddesdale held by Jedburgh Abbey. By at least 1632 the lands were owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch. Adam Thomson was tenant there in 1694. The farm was included in those surveyed for the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1718. It covered 1770 acres, bounded by Hudshouse, Dawstonburn and farms belonging to other landowners, and with the farmhouse in the same location as the modern one. Walter Scott was shepherd there in the mid-19th century, known for making a particular plaster that was said to cure cancer. In the late 19th century John Elliot in Flatt carried on the lease after the death of his uncle John Scott-Elliot. Jeffrey reports that in the late 1800s a rudely carved stone cross, nearly 4 feet long, was found at a pass near here and in the possession of Mr. Stavert of Saughtree. In 1793 Sir Walter Scott passed here, and heard a coughing cow, which the judge in an earlier court case had ruled impossible (also written 'Singden' and 'Singdon'; the origin is probably Old English 'sengan demu', for 'valley cleared by burning'; it first occurs as ‘Singdane’ in 1541, is ‘Singdoun’ in 1632 and ‘Singden’ in 1694; it is marked ‘Singlenn’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map of Roxburghshire and ‘Singlem’ on the Liddesdale map; it is ‘Singden’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey and ‘Singdon’ on Stobie’s 1770 map.

Singdean Burn (sing-deen-burn) n. stream in the upper headwaters of Liddesdale, rising on Fanna Hill and flowing roughly south-east to become part of the Caddroun Burn near Singdean.

singed sheep’s heid (sinjd-sheeps-heed) n., arch. formerly popular dish, made by taking a sheep’s head, burning the wool off it, and then serving it in various ways – ‘...there was a singed sheep’s-head on the table which had been ‘got up’ for next day’s dinner’ [WNK].

singel (sing-ul) adj. single – ‘there wasni a singel Teri among them’ [DH], also used to refer to an item ordered in a fish and chip shop without chips – ‘A’ll hev a fish supper an a singel haggis’ [note the lack of hard g].

singit (sing-ee, -i) adj., arch. stunted in growth, shrivelled – ‘Let them alone, ye singit-like shurf’ [HAST1868], ‘The Hawick meaning of singee is lean, emaciated, ill-fed’ [ECS], ‘ye singit thing’ [GW].

singit-lookin (sing-ee’-loo-kin) adj., arch. having the appearance of being puny or shrivelled – ‘ye singit-lookin’ wasp, shurf’ [GW] (also ‘singit-like’).

Singleton (sing-gul-tin) n. A. telegraph and station agent in Newcastleton in the 1860s.

Singley (sinj-lee??) n. former farmstead at Singley Brae near Penchirse. It once formed part of Cavers estate, and is recorded being resigned by Thomas Baliol to William, Earl of Douglas in 1368. It is listed as part of Cavers estate in a charter of 1511. It was owned by the Eliotts of Cessford in 1494/5 when accused of riving crimes. It remained Crown property until at least 1502. In a rental roll of 1541 the tenancy was claimed by the Laird of Cessford, ‘occupit be the kingis gudis’ paying £24 yearly. The lands belonged to the Laird of Buccleuch in 1543 when they were raided by a group of English and Scotsmen, taking 1400 sheep and 2 prisoners, with 2 people killed in the process. Sir William Scott was granted the lands by John, Earl of Annandale in about 1605, although they appear to have been purchased by Simon Scott of Bonnington in 1593, confirmed in 1607. Robert Scott, son of William in Milsington gained the lease in about 1712, and his descendants farmed there until about 1879 – ‘There’s daft Jock Gray o’ Gilmanscleugh, And Davie o’ the Inch; And when ye come to Singley, They’ll help ye in a pinch’ [DJG], ‘The sun was low when they crossed the Ale, It was dark when they won to Ettrick vale, And the stars on Singlie had blazed an hour When the watchman challenged on Kirkhope Tower’ [WHO] (also spelled ‘Singlie’, it was ‘Singil’ in 1456, ‘Syngle’ in 1468 and 1471, ‘Single’ in 1484 and 1490, ‘seyngillie’ in 1494/5 and ‘Singyllly’ in 1541; it is marked as ‘Singill E.’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map, with the stream being ‘B. of Singil E’).

singlins (sing-linz) n., pl., arch. gleaned corn, gleanings.

sink (singk) v., arch. to blast, ruin – ‘He refused, saying, ‘Sink it, na’’ [RM].

sinkker (sing-kur) n. a shaped thin plate for depressing the loops between the needles in a knitting machine. These can be for forming loops by pushing the yarn, or for holding the already formed web while the needles make the loops.

sinner (si-nur) adv. rather, sooner – ‘A wad sinner gaun haim is stey here’, ‘...Suner a canny gowk Than pride rowed in the glaur’ [WL], ‘...A’ the rest was a waste o’ time Till the back-end o’ July, When he saw it was suner derk at niet; ‘Oo’re gettn’t in!’ says Dye’ [DH] (also spelled ‘siner’ etc.).

sinsyne (sin-sin) prep., arch., poet. since then, since that time, ever since – ‘...An’ he’s aye keept it sin’ syne, – Retailing spirits, teas, an’ wine’ [RDW], ‘There hasna been a carriage at Sinton

Sinton (sin-in) n. county town of San Patricio county in Texas, named after David Sinton, major shareholder of the local pasture company that gave the land. His name in turn probably comes from the estate near Ashkirk.

Sinton (sin-in) n. Adam (b.1819) born in Jedburgh, son of William and Isabella Scott. He worked as a grocer in Hawick, and later as a labourer. Along with mill-worker John Forsyth, he was found guilty in 1865 of stealing coins from Hawick Museum, and sentenced to 5 years in prison. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Robert Waugh, blacksmith at Chesters. Their children included William, Robert and Elizabeth. His wife is recorded as a widow in 1874.

Alexander (12th/13th C.) Sheriff of Selkirk, he was son of Andrew who was granted the lands and title by William the Lion. He witnessed several charters for Melrose Abbey in the early 13th century. There was confirmation of lands in Hownam in 1195–98, a gift of lands in Lessuden in 1199, confirmation of lands in Clifton 1201–09, gift of several churches by King William 1204–07, a gift of Sorrowlesfield 1208–12, a dispute between Melrose Abbey and Earl of Dunbar in 1208, a charter for the lands of Fairnington in about 1214, lands in Lilliesleaf 1214–40, lands in Elliston 1220–43 and a gift of Maxton in 1226. He was succeeded by another Andrew. Alexander (d.1292/3) Sheriff of Selkirk, he was son of Andrew, the 3rd Sheriff. He may be the Alexander who had a charter of the lands of Todrig from Aymer de Maxwell in about 1260. He may be the same Alexander who witnessed a charter for Alexander of Moravia in 1280. He was mentioned as Sheriff of Selkirk in 1293. His wife was Marie, who swore fealty to Edward I in 1296, as holder of the lands. In 1296 she complained that she had been a widow for 3 years, and pleased with the English King for her dower lands of 20 merks. Their children included: Andrew, who succeeded; and Isabella, who married Edward Keith and succeeded her brother. Andrew (12th/13th C.) appointed Sheriff of Selkirk by William the Lion. He is referred to as ‘Andrew de Sintun’. On his appointment he gave up the farm associated with Roxburgh Castle; this explains why Sinton estate afterwards lay within Selkirkshire, even although it was surrounded by Roxburghshire. 4 generations of his descendants were also Sheriffs (as described at an inquest in 1305). In about 1250 he witnessed a grant by Henry of Ashkirk to Coldingham Priory, where he is recorded as ‘Andrea de Sinton’. He was succeeded by his son Alexander. Andrew (13th C.) son of Alexander. He was the 3rd member of the family to be Sheriff of Selkirk. He was succeeded by his son Alexander. Andrew (d.c.1300) probably son of Alexander and brother of Isabella. He held the title of Sheriff of Selkirk as well as the Sinton estates. In 1296 he was captured at Dunbar and sent to Fotheringay Castle as a prisoner, along with several other Scottish noblemen. In 1298 there was a command from Edward I for payment to his jailors. However, he died in prison, and his heir was his sister Isabella (although separately suggested to have been his wife Isabel, so this is either confusion or there were 2 women with the same name). The family’s history is described in an inquisition in 1305. Andrew (b.c.1816) son of William and Isabella Scott. He was born in Jedburgh, although his mother was from the Hawick area. He lived in Ancrum and Cavers Parishes. He worked as a road contractor, probably on the Wynd in Denholm. He married Margaret Dodds. Their children included: William (1845); Walter (b.1847); Isabella; Andrew; James (b.1856); and twins Richard Thomson and Jessy (b.1859). Bailie (18th/19th C.) said to have been the first druggist in Hawick. His premises were at 29 High Street, which became known as ‘Sinton’s Close’. Note, however, that the same property is labelled ‘Linton’ on Wood’s 1824 map. His first name is unknown. George (17th/18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Easter Alemoor in 1720. His children included: Walter (b.1709); Thomas (b.1711); Margaret (b.1713); and George (b.1720). George (18th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. He married Eissie Scott. Their children included Thomas (b.1725). George (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His daughter Alison died in 1790. Perhaps the same George was married to Margaret Beattie and had a son Thomas baptised in Wilton in 1771. George (18th/19th C.) from Leith, he was a grocer in Wilton. In 1897 he purchased the grocer's business from Mary (nee Govenlock) Brodie. Helen (18th C.) cook at Branxholme in 1789 when she was working for Adam Ogilvie. Probably the same 'Nelly' was cook at Midshiels in 1791. Isabella (b.c.1285) either sister or wife of the last 'de Synton' Sheriff of Selkirk, she was the heiress of Synton. It is possible that 2 separate women are conflated here; in 1296 Isabella, wife of Andrew of Sinton complained about her estates being seized when her husband was imprisoned at Dunbar, and pleaded for 20 merks worth of land. She was married to Edward de Kethe (or Keith), who was Sheriff of Aberdeen and son of Sir William de Keith. Together with her husband she claimed the sheriffdom of Selkirk from Edward I in 1305. Their children were Sir William, John of Inverurie, Catherine and Janet. James (17th C.) married Janet Govenlock in Ashkirk Parish in 1663. James (c.1730s–1802) carrier in Abbotrule. He lived at Clesslee and at Strangeburnfoot. His wife may have been Margaret. Their children included: Peter; Thomas (b.1755); Margaret; and James (b.1760). Probably he was the same James who also married Janet Oliver (from Unthank) in 1762, and whose children were: Mary; Margaret; Robert, born at Strangeburnfoot; John (b.1769) also at Strangeburnfoot; James, who married Barbara Oliver; and Elizabeth. He died at Clessleepeel. James (b.c.1772) son of James and Janet Oliver. He married Barbara Oliver. Their son was John (b.1806), born at 'Clesleepeel' in Southdean Parish. James (b.c.1775) son of Peter and Janet Donaldson, he was born at Southdeanmillhead. He married Margaret Wilkie. Their children included: Peter (b.1805), born in Wilton Parish; and Robert (b.1813), born at Clarilaw Moor. James (b.c.1780) probably related to the other Southdean Sintons. In 1816 he married Isabella Fleming, and she died in 1867. Their children were: Robert (d.1897); and William (d.1851). He died in the 1840s, probably at Bonjedward. James (b.c.1821) born in Southdean Parish, son of Peter and Jane Wight. He married Mary Ann Fleming. Their children included: Robert William (b.1875), who was born at Blakedean, Morebattle; and James (b.1883), born in Bedrule Parish. James (b.1841) son of John, from Jedburgh and Mary Ann Gillies. He was born in Denholm. He served as groom to Daniel Mather of Hallrule. He married Mary, daughter of Peter Bruce. Their son John (b.1867) was born in Hawick. He died in Denholm. James (1841–1938) of Eastfield, Joppa, where his house was called 'Hassendean'. He was born in Cavers Parish, son of John and Mary Gillies. He worked for Blackwood the publishers in Edinburgh. He contributed several articles to the Transactions, as well as editing some other works and bibliographies. He published Leyden's 'Tour in the Highlands and Western Islands' (1903) and wrote 'Leydeniana' (1912). His major local contribution, however, was 'Bibliography of works relating to, or published in Hawick' (1908), which he stated to be 'a work of great labour, and it has occupied my leisure time extending over a very considerable period'. This was a more focused extension to his 'List of books relating to or published in the Counties of Roxburgh, Selkirk, and Peebles', which appeared as an appendix to Sir George Douglas' 1899 'History of Roxburgh, Selkirk, and Peebles'. His Hawick books contains information about newspapers, maps and music, as well as a thoroughly researched list of books. James (b.1883) son of James and Mary Ann Fleming. He was born in Bedrule Parish. He married Rhoda Carr and his son was also James. John (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1494/5 when Adam Turnbull in Hornshole had remission for several crimes, including stealing 24 sheep, 3 cows and a horse from his lands in Synton, with the help of James Elliot. He was also witness to a 1508 sasine for the Erskine's land of Synton; like the other witnesses, he was probably local. He was probably the Laird in 1502 when the estate was attacked by David Scott. It seems likely that he was descended from the original Sintons of Synton. ('the Lady') and some Armstrongs, with many sheep and cattle stolen. John (18th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. He married Jean Cuthbertson. Their children were: John (b.1735); and Thomas (b.1739). John (18th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. He married Margaret Learmont. Their children were: Katherine (b.1735); Helen (b.1739), perhaps the Helen who died in Hawick in 1808, widow of John Turnbull; Walter (b.1746); Elizabeth (b.1749); and William (b.1750). He may be the John who witnessed a baptism for William Scott of Woll in 1744. John (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Wester Alemuir in 1771 and 1774 and at Bellendean in 1785. He is probably the John who married Betty Burnet in Robertson Parish in 1769 and whose children included Isobel (b.1771), Robert (b.1774), Betty (b.1779), Christian (b.1782) and Mary (b.1785). John (1780–1856) son of William and Isobel Black. He was born in Southdean Parish. He lived at Letham.
and in Hobkirk Parish. He married Dorothy Eastham, who died in 1844. Their children were: William (b.1807); Richard (b.1810); James (b.1815); and George (b.1817). John (1806–54) son of James and Barbara Oliver. He was born at ‘Clesleepeel’ in Southdean Parish. In 1829 he married Alison, daughter of John Hall and Betty Briggs. Their children included: Robert (b.1831); John (b.1833); William (b.1836); and James Oliver (b.1848). They were all born in Jedburgh. He died in Argyll and was buried at Eckford. John (1810–65) son of William and Isabella Scott, who was from Hawick. He lived in Denholm. He firstly married Mary Ann Gillies and their children included: John Gillies (b.1843); and James (b.1841), who contributed local history articles. He secondly married Mary Dickson, and their children included: Thomas (b.1856), skinner in Hawick; and Mary (b.1860), who married Adam Huggan, tobacconist in Hawick. John (b.1810/1) from Jedburgh. In 1851 he was a game watcher at Woodside Cottage. He was a widower, living with his children William, Jane, James, Isabel, John and George. John Gillies (1843–1904) born in Cavers Parish, son of John and Mary Ann Gillies. In 1864 he married Isabella Wight in Maxton. Their children were: John (b.1862); Helen (1869–1948); Mary (b.1871); James (1873–1936); George (b.1878) in Hawick; William Wight (1866–95); and Francis Douglas (1882–1971). Marie (13th C.) signatory of the Ragman Rolls in 1296. She was widow of Alexander, the former Sheriff of Selkirkshire. Her seal, attached to the Ragman Rolls, showed a figure of eight rays and the name ‘S'MARIE DE SINTVN’. Also in 1296 she pleaded to the English King for dower lands worth 20 merks, since she had been left a widow for 3 years. Peter (d.1811) cattle dealer at Bairnkine in Southdean Parish. He also lived at Southdean Mill. His father may be confused because he is named Patrick in some records. He married Janet Donaldson. Their children probably included: James (c.1773–1855), born at Southdeanmillhead; John (b.c.1774), born at Strangeburnfoot; Thomas (1776–1861); Janet (c.1782–1855); Peter (c.1783–1866); Margaret (c.1790–1869); Isabella (1792–1869), who married Richard Ross; and Cecilia (c.1795–1877), who married William Thomson. He was buried at Abbotrule. Peter (c.1783–1866) son of Peter and Janet Donaldson, he was born in Southdean Parish. He married Jane Wight. Their children included: Peter (b.1808), who was born at Ruletownhead; and James (b.c.1821), who was born in Southdean. Peter (b.1805) son of James and Margaret Wilkie. He was born in Wilton Parish. He married Marion Ker and their children included Alexander (b.1839), who was born in Midlothian. Peter (b.1808) born at Ruletownhead, son of Peter and Jane Wight. He married May Scott, and their son was John (b.1859), who was born in Corsenside, Northumberland. Robert (17th C.) resident in Ashkirk listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Robert (b.1813) born at Clarilaw Muir, son of James and Margaret Wilkie. Their children included Robert (b.1852), who was born at Raelees in Selkirkshire. Robert (c.1817–97) born in Southdean Parish, son of James and Isabella Fleming. He married Helen Scott. Their children included: George (b.c.1845); Robert (b.1847); William (b.1856); and John (b.1866). Robert (b.1818) born in Hobkirk Parish, son of Thomas and Mary Elliot. He married Isabella Oliver, and their children included Thomas (b.1851), who was born at Lan- ton. Thomas (1776–1861) son of Peter and Janet Donaldson. He was born in Southdean Parish. He married Mary Elliot. Their children included Robert (b.1818), who was born in Hobkirk Parish. Thomas (b.1856) son of John and Mary Dick- son. He was a skinner in Hawick. His sister Mary married tobacconist Adam Huggan. He married Annie Scott and their children included: John (b.1878); and Walter (b.c.1886). William (16th C.) Burgess of Selkirk. His surname is recorded as ‘Suyntoun’ in a charter of 1588 relating to lands in Selkirk in the Melrose chartulary. Given the location it seems likely he is a descendant of the family from Synton. William (17th/18th C.) married Isobel Dryden in Roberton Parish in 1714. He may be the William in Borthwickburn whose daughter Bessie was baptised in 1714. Perhaps the same William witnessed a baptism in Hawick for Adam Kersel in 1720. William (b.1718) born in Duns, son of John and Janet Scott. He married Isabel Dunlop. His children included: James (b.1760), who was born in Ashkirk; and Thomas (b.c.1763). William (18th C.) resident at Hen- woody in 1764 and 1766. His children included Janet (b.1764) and William (b.1766). William (b.1750) probably born in Jedburgh and related to the Southdean Sintons. He married Isobel Black. Their children included: James (b.c.1776); and John (1780–1856), born in Southdean. William (b.1778) born in Jedburgh. He is presumably closely related to the Southdean Sintons, Sinton’s Close

but the connection is unknown. He married Isabella Scott in Hawick in 1804. Their children were: James (1805–61); William (1808–73), who lived in Denholm; John (1810–65), who also lived in Denholm; Thomas (b.1813); Andrew (c.1816–68); and Adam (b.1819). There are many descendants living in New Zealand. William (1808–73) son of William and Isabella Scott, his parents being from Jedburgh and Hawick, respectively. He lived in Denholm, probably on Canongate, where he was a farmer and road contractor. In 1851 he was farming 50 acres and employing 2 men. His wife was Jessie Lamb and their children included: William (b.1847); Betsy (b.c.1851); and George (b.1857) (also written ‘Sintone’, ‘Suinton’ and variants; note the possible confusion with Linton in older written records).

Sinton’s Close (siu’in-zklös) n. former name for a close at 29 High Street, demolished in 1875 when the property was rebuilt. It was named after a wealthy Bailie who had been the first druggist in town. Afterwards Armstrong the printer began selling drugs there, then a Mr. Wilson started up the same kind of business there.

sir (sir) n., arch. title of a knight, designation formerly given to a priest who had not graduated as master of arts.

sirple (sir-pul) n., arch. to sip slowly – ‘Athens’ Senate chose the mountain: Ours prefer the running fountain, Sirpling down the shining cheerer, Sinding their ideas clearer’ [JH], n. a sip – ‘We’iceleike, A just tuik a toot – a sirple ti seind oot ma mooth’ [ECS].

sirse (sirs) interj., arch. exclamation of surprise, weariness or annoyance, literally ‘preserve us’ – ‘The Lord be praised for a’ his mercies, Nae mair we’re grainin’ whows or sirses’ [JoHa].

the Sir Walter Scott (thu-sir-wawl’ur-sko’) n. name for one of mail coaches on the Edinburgh to Carlisle route in the early-to-mid 1800s. It was listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory, leaving daily for both Carlisle and Edinburgh (which must be an error) at 1.30 p.m., except Sundays. This must have been named after the writer while he was still alive, preceeding the naming of the Waverley route by several decades. The coach service started about 1825, and later the main coaches were called ‘the Engineer’ and ‘the Favourite’.

sista (sis-ta) interj., arch. look, see, literally ‘seest thou!’ (used in mid- and lower Liddesdale only).
skail (skāl) v., poet. to spill, disperse ‘...My fu quach skailin still’ [WL], v., arch. to spill out, break up after a meeting, disperse, spread – ‘Nae company e’er green’d to skail, If John was by; Alas! that sic a man was frail, And born to die’ [CPM], ‘No sooner was the benediction pronounced than the ‘kirk skauled’ ...’ [V&M], ‘He told of the two old ladies who were ‘skailing’ after a service’ [AMA], ‘...the announcement being made ...for the scaling of the school and the feed of the inmates, ‘Denner’s ready, maister’ ’ [RJR], ‘...when the mills war skailin an the mill-yins war toavin hymn efter their dinner–afternoon’s yoken’ [ECS], ‘...e’en as the faam o the waather–gleam skail’d afore the cluds threh an owrecus-yokeen’ [ECS], ‘...and to pay their neighbours skaith be their not bigging thereof’ [BR1640], ‘...he that sweers til his ain skaith, an’ jangilsna’ [HSR], ‘I mind when neighbour Hewie’s sheep, ...Eat the corn an’ tread the hay, That Hewie had the skaith to pay’ [JR], ‘...For ilk ane ca’s another I trow, An’nane escapes without skaith’ [FL], ‘in their skaith’ in particular meant in the act of causing damage – ‘...with power to any that finds them in their skaith, corne yairds, or croftes, within the said space ...’ [BR1640], v. to harm, cause damage – ‘...the party skaithed is to have satisfaction at the sight of any two of the councillors’ [BR1660], ‘It wasna that they meant to scaithe me, But just the priode to be aneath me’ [AD] (also written ‘scaith’ and ‘scathe’; from Middle English; the word survives in modern English mainly as ‘unscathed’).

skail (skāl) n., arch. a shallow, saucer-like vessel of tin or wood used for skimming the cream off milk.

skail the Mercat (skāl-thu-mer-ki) n. nickname for William Douglas around 1700.

skail-witter (skāl-wi’-ur) n., arch. superfluous water that is allowed to escape before it reaches the mill – ‘Skail-water, The water that is let off by a sluice before it reaches the mill, as being in too great quantity for the proper motion of the mill, Roxb.’ [JoJ].

skairgeen see scairgin

skaitch (skāch) n., arch. a sketch, a brief period, short spell, v., arch. to sketch.

skaithe (skāth) n., arch., poet. harm, hurt, damage, injury, loss – ‘...upon the Laird of Mangertons grounde, being one of my hose and being upon grounde where skaithie was done ...’ [CBP1584], ‘...and we being willing that he sall incur na skaith, hurt, or damage theirby ...’ [SB1599], ‘Whan saw ye her? In troth, we’ll drink them baith: Heav’n prosper them, an’ keep them ay frae skaith!’ [CPM], ‘And he that tries ungentle skaithie Himself’ the skaith shall prove’ [JTe], ‘...A shower of bullets round her rang. But we nor skaithie she knew’ [JTe], ‘Let thame be shernet, an’ brung til confusion thegither that rejoynce in my skaith’ [HSR], ‘...an’ thaye speik til the sad skaith o’ thae whom thou hest wuumdone’ [HSR], ‘Ye’ve been the cause o’ muckle wae, O’ meikle skaith and scor ...’ [JT], ‘There’s whiles a wee thing that wags uncontrolled, And causes a frichtfu skaith ...’ [WFC], ‘...And craws, frae Steele to Liddelbank, Micht ken their skaith was past’ [DH], ‘An hae a sair skaith That wunna skurl at a’’ [DH], ‘...Wi’ gallus young lads that think lichtly o’ scaithi ...’ [DH], damage caused by the trespass of animals, damages – ‘...and to pay their neighbours skaithie be their not bigging thereof’ [BR1640], ‘...he that sweers til his ain skaith, an’ jangilsna’ [HSR], ‘I mind when neighbour Hewie’s sheep, ...Eat the corn an’ tread the hay, That Hewie had the skaith to pay’ [JR], ‘...For ilk ane ca’s another I trow, An’nane escapes without skaith’ [FL], ‘in their skaith’ in particular meant in the act of causing damage – ‘...with power to any that finds them in their skaith, corne yairds, or croftes, within the said space ...’ [BR1640], v. to harm, cause damage – ‘...the party skaithed is to have satisfaction at the sight of any two of the councillors’ [BR1660], ‘It wasna that they meant to scaithe me, But just the priode to be aneath me’ [AD] (also written ‘scaith’ and ‘scathe’; from Middle English; the word survives in modern English mainly as ‘unscathed’).

skaither (skā-thur) n., poet. one who causes damage, injurer – ‘The skaither weel may rue the day That ever he was born’ [HSR] (also spelled ‘skather’).

skaithefi (skā-thi-fi) adj., poet. harmful, wreaking havoc – ‘...wha delifers David his servent frae the skaithfu’ sword’ [HSR] (also written ‘skaithefi’).

skaithe (skā-thee) n., arch. a rough fence or wall, generally made of stakes, bunches of straw, planks, turf or stone, which is set up in front of a door as a wind-break (also ‘skathie’; noted by J. Jamieson).

skaitheless (skā-thi-lis) adj., arch. free of financial penalty, immune from liability – ‘...that the complainant himself, ...it is one that may be infracted ...and to pay their nichbours skaithie be their not bigging thereof’ [BR1640], ‘...and finally the Session do hereby bind themselves to keep the said John Ruecastle Skaithless on all Events’ [PR1751].

skanes (skānz) n., pl., arch. dandruff.

Skarra Darra (skaw-ru-daw-ru) n. old name for part of the area later known as Roughheugh, in use before the 19th century. It seems to have referred to some crofts owned by the Laird of Langlands, around what became the Wilson & Glenny’s mill area (probably from Old Norse for a cliff or scar, or possibly the Gaelic for a place abounding in oaks).

skart see scart
skate (skā) n., arch. a paper kite – ‘Skate, skait, A paper-kite, sometimes called a Dragon, Teviotdale, Renfrs.’ [JoJ].
skech (skech) v., arch. to obtain something in an underhand way, seek a favour by wheedling, scrounge, cadge – ‘A speerd if there was a mael o meat ti be bocht – skecht – gotten a len o’[ECS].
skeck (skek) n. a peek – ‘A’l jist hev a week skeck up yer kilt ti sei if ee’re a true Scotsman’.
skeel (skeel) n., arch. skill, ‘to have skeel o’ is to be experienced in or having a liking of – ‘To tell they had nae skill o’ fouk That stood on ceremony’[HSR], ‘He was a keen equestrian, An’ o’ his skeel was vaunty . . .’ [FL]. skeeleton (skee-lee'-in) n., arch. a skeleton – ‘. . . the girnin Daith’s Heed, coonjert wui its moween an its skeeltin-maigs’[ECS] (also skaletoton).
skeelie (skee-lee) n., arch. a slate-pencil, often made of soft stone – ‘A skarnt skeelie on a skuil sklate’[ECS] (presumably so-called because of the screeching noise it made; this is ‘skalle’ in much of Scotland).
skeelit (skee-lee', -li') pp., arch. skilled – ‘Thaye a’ haud swerds, being wicht an’ weel-skeelet in weir’[HSR]. skeely (skee-lee) adj., arch. skillful, supposed ability, sometimes of a supernatural kind – ‘. . . The skeely auld loon, He winna be turned away’[WL], ‘The ga’rd wad need ti bei richt an skeely at the merreen, tho . . .’[ECS] (cf. skilly).
skeibult see skybald skelf (skelf) n. a splinter (note that splice is more common in Hawick).
Skelfhill (skelf-hil) n. farm to the south-west of Hawick, also the name for the surrounding area, in particular the hill Skelfhill Pen. The lands were probably owned by Gavin Elliot of Horsleyhill in the mid-16th century. Robert Elliot of Skelfhill is recorded in 1607, Robert Scott was tenant in 1694 and William Scott in 1711. Surveyed in 1718, it consisted at that time of 2062 acres (including Langleuchside and Fairnyside), bounded by Brugh, Priesthaugh, Billhope, Gorrenberry, Linhope, Phaup, Northhouse and Doecleuch. Walter Turnbull was there in 1722. Robert Scott and his son James were tenant farmers there in the 18th century. There is a record of a house being built on the farm by Bucleuch estates in 1763. William Scott is recorded there in 1772 and James Scott was farmer there in at least the period 1785–97. William Grieve was there in the 1860s. Tradition has it that the cauldron used to boil William de Soulis was preserved at the farm. It is also said that John Deans (whose gravestone is at St. Mary’s) was killed near here in 1546 while defending his neighbour’s goods. There was a Common Riding ride-out there in 2006. Aerial photography shows an enclosure about 200 m north-west of the farmhouse – ‘At the Skelf-hill, the cauldron still The men of Liddesdale can show . . .’[JL], ‘I’d spend my life wi’ her my wife – The bonnie lass o’ fair Skelfhill’ [JoHa], ‘Sae we’ll ower by the Skelfhill Pen As sun as the sun gangs doon, An’ we’ll rest neither horses nor men Till we’ve harried some English toon’[TK] (the name is probably from a Scandinavian form of the Old English ‘skelf’ meaning a shelf, referring to the shape of the hill and with the old p-Celtic ‘pen’ like in the nearby Penchrise; the name appears at least as early as 1569 and is ‘Scheffhill’ in 1772; it has its modern form by Blaeu’s 1654 map, although it is ‘Shelfhill’ on Stobie’s 1770 map).
Skelfhill Burn (skelf-hil-burn) n. stream rising on Langtai Hill and running roughly to the north for about 3½ miles to become part of the Allan Water near Skelfhill farm.
Skelfhill Craig (skelf-hil-krāg) n. hill region just to the north of Skelfhill farm.
Skelfhillhope (skelf-hil-hōp) n. shepherd’s cottage on the upper Skelfhill Burn, probably the same as Skelfhillshiel. William Nichol was shepherd there in the mid-19th century. It is now derelict (marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map, and with buildings still indicated on the modern map).
Skelfhill Pen (skelf-hil-pen) n. prominent hill, height 532 m (1,749 ft), located south-west of Hawick. It is often just called Skelfhill. Like other peaks in the area, it is largely made of igneous rocks, in this case trachyte, with complex intrusions of other mineral types. It has a triangulation pillar and adjacent cairn. The cairn was erected by the local children to celebrate the Jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1887 – ‘On my hills the moonbeams play From Craik-cross to Skelfhill-pen, By every rill, in every glen . . .’[SWS] (a local remnant of the ancient Brythonic word for hill, ‘pen’).
Skelfhillshiel (skelf-hil-sheel) n. former steading on the upper part of the Skelfhill Burn, later called Skelfhillhope (marked on Stobie’s 1770 map).
skellie see skelly
skeloch (ske-loch) v., poet. to shriek, cry shrilly – ‘The hoose is nae place for a body like me When the wheeze o’ the bagpipes comes skelochin’ through’[WL].
skelly (skel-lee) adj. cross-eyed, squint, having strabismus – ‘hei looked skelly-eyed when hei took his glesses off’, ‘if ee keep gaun skelly, yer een’l stick that way’, n., arch. a squint, side-look, v., arch. to squint, look sideways (also written ‘skellie’: of Norse origin).

skelly-eid (skel-lee-id) adj., arch. cross-eyed.

skelly-haundit (skel-lee-hawn-dee’, -di’) adj., arch. left-handed (noted by E.C. Smith).

skelly-joukit (skel-lee-foo-kee’, -ki’) adj., arch. left-handed – ‘Bit onybody that was left-handit weuais to caa them ‘skelly-joukit’’ [BA].

skelp (skelp) n. a slap, spank, slap, blow – ‘A’ll skelp yer backside if A hear that language again’, ‘if ee deh behave, A’ll skelp ee’, n. a rush, pace, clip – ‘hei was gaun it a fair skelp when hei hed n. ‘if ee keep gaun skelly, yer een’l strabismus { ‘hei looked skelly-eyed when hei took the accident’, ‘Yow take mine an’ aw wull gee the clip { ‘hei was gaun it a fair skelp when hei hed n. ‘if ee deh behave, A’ll skelp ee’, skelp yer backside if A hear that language again’, we yaised to caa them ‘skelly-joukit’ ’ [BA].

left-handed. { `Bit onybody that was left-handit

sker-handit (sker-hawn-dee’, -di’) adj., arch. left-handed.

Skeugh (skewch) n. Walter (1847/8–1913) son of farm steward James and Anne Hume from Hawick. He was born in Lilliesleaf Parish. In 1871 he was an agricultural labourer at Rickton Cottage, Ashkirk. In 1881 he was in Minto and by 1891 in Hawick, where he was a ‘Wool Factory Engineman’. His 1st wife was Catherine Robertson and his 2nd wife was Christine Scott. He died at 3 Wilton Path (also spelled ‘Skeiough’).

skew (skew) n., arch. the stone coping of a gable – ‘...discharged from casting dry land soads on any part of the Commonty ... except for the scews and riggings of houses within the Burgh belonging to Burgesses ... ’ [BR1816], ‘Mending the sclate roof and pointing the rigging-stone and scoes of the said Kirk’ [1735/HAST1926], v. to cover the gable of a thatched house with sods (also written ‘sceu’).

skewiff (skew-wif) adj. skew, out of alignment.

skiddle (ski-dul) v., arch. to move rapidly and lightly, flit, scurry – ‘Fleis an midges an bunnies war skiddlin an bizzin about ma lugs in cluds’ [ECS], ‘Ther’s a moppie gaen skiddlin owre the laund’ [JR] (also written ‘skilfu’’, etc.).

skiff (skif) v. to skim, glance, barely touch – ‘How come the A7 disni juist skiff roond Gala aathegit-her’?, skip – ‘He mak’s thame alsua til skiff like ane cafe ... ’ [HSR], n. a skim, light touch – ‘At times the pasing cluds wad drop A skiff o’er vale, or mountan top’ [AD].

skiffer (ski-fur) n. a skimmer, especially a flat stone used for bouncing across the surface of water.

skiffit (skie-foo’, -fi’) pp., arch. skimmed, skipped, barely touched – ‘The mountans skiffet like tips, an the wee hills like lams’ [HSR].

skift (skif) n., arch. an imperfect wipe, a hurried dust or sweep.

skillfu (skil-fi) adj. skillful – ‘Ev’ry plan displays invention, Finished by a skillfu’ hand, Ilka neat and shining mansion Minds me o’ the promised land’ [JR] (also written ‘skilfu’, etc.).

skilly (ski-le) adj., arch. skillful, particularly having supposed supernatural healing powers – ‘Certain rules and remedies ... were prescribed by skilly auld wives, whereby the charms of the fairies might be averted’ [EM1820] (cf. skely) skilt (skil’) v., arch. to move quickly, skip, dart, gad about, to flaunt – ‘...the bits o moppies skiltin about’ [ECS].

skin a buik

skin a buik (skin-u-bük) v., arch. to cover a book with an outer protection of paper or cloth (noted by E.C. Smith).

skinch (skinch) v., arch. to purloin, swipe.

skink (skingk) v., poet. to pour, decant – ‘Faith we sude skink the ale in bowies’ [JR].

skinklin (skingk-lin) adj., poet. sparkling, glittering, shining – ‘Like skinklin stars When mirk haps doun Are winmocks lit Ower a’ the toun’ [WL].

Skinner (ski-nur) n. John (b.1808/9) born in Hawick, he was a clerk in the town. He was a clerk living at about 55 High Street in 1841, and at about 25 Buccleuch Street in 1851, when he was ‘Clerk to Nursery & Seedsman’. By 1861 he is listed as a seedsman at 25 High Street. He is probably the agent for British fire insurance listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory and is listed as a ‘clerk’ on Buccleuch Street in Slater’s 1852 directory. His wife was Mary, from Wishaw. Their children included Mary Ann, Thomas P., John C., Isabella, George J. and Margaret. He was one of the first deacons of Hawick Free Kirk, also working for Archibald Douglas.

skinner (n. once one of the 7 incorporated trades in Hawick, which until 1861 had two representatives on the Town Council. They were the fourth oldest of the Town’s incorporations, being incorporated in 1694, and sometimes also called the ‘skiners and glovers’ (although it is possible they were separate bodies at one time).

skinny (ski-nee) n., arch. a kind of bread roll – ‘‘Skinny’ or ‘grey’ – ee even got a choice: Succulent dauds a lectic-sided dough’ [DH].

skinny malink (ski-nee-maw-link) n. humorous name for a very thin person (also written as one word; related to the playground song ‘Skinny Malinkey Long Legs’, although it is unclear which came first).

skint (n. pp., adj. skinned, grazed – ‘A skint ma knei playin fitbair’, adj. poor, lacking money.

skinworks (skin-wurks) n. popular name for Mactaggarts, at the foot of Wilton Path, closed in ??, moving to Mansfield Industrial Park??.

the Skinyairds (thu-skin-yärds) n. another name for the former Mactaggarts skinworks, at the foot of Wilton Path, which became a supermarket site in the late 1970s – ‘And where was the smell o’ the skinyairds At the fit o’ Wellington Street?’ [AY].

Skipper Rum (ski-pur-rum) n. brand of rum, manufactured by Low, Robertson & Co. Ltd., Leith. It has become the favoured rum in Hawick, particularly used for rum and milks around Common Riding time. For a while the company sponsored the ‘Skipper Rum Handicap’ at the Common Riding.

Skipper’s Brig (ski-pruz-brig) n. bridge carrying the A7 over the Esk, just south of Langholm, built in 1765, with an adjacent drinking well.

skippit (ski-pee`, -pi‘) pp., arch. skipped – ‘The yowes they lap out owre the buchite, And skippit up and downe’ [JTe].

skirl (ski-rul) v., arch., poet. to make a shrill sound, scream – ‘But green gress for sturdy shoon To clin whaur grousse are skirlin’ [WL], ‘You laugh and skirl maist a the day, And chatter as you gang your way’ [WFC], n., poet. a shrill sound, shriek – ‘…And then they sang their psaumis, With wild unyirthlye skirle’ [JTe], ‘…the skirks an the dirls, the raameen an the reiver’s wraith, Rides noiselessly ower the glade Without either skir or skaith’ [TK], ‘A name wi’ a scrauch o’ rosit in’t, the skirl o’ tormentit gut …’ [DH], ‘…Syne ilk wi’ a skirl wad turn him roun’ And pick up another baa’ [WL].

skirler (ski-ru-lur) n., arch. a shrieker, screamer – ‘The skirler’s pitchfork unholyly tings’ [JoHa].

skir-NAK (ski-rul-nä-kee`, -ki‘) adj., arch. stark naked.

Skirmish Field (ski-meesh-foeld) n. meadow by the river Tweed near Melrose, which was the site of a battle of 1526. Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch with about 600 Scotts, Elliots and supporters from Liddesdale and Annandale tried to wrest the young King James V (supposedly at the King’s request) from the control of the Earl of Angus and his local allies the Kers and the Homes. Scott failed in this attempt and lost 84 men in the struggle (including John of Ashkirk), while Andrew Ker of Cessford was also killed at ‘Turn Again’ (possibly by an Eliott of Stobs, although this predates their ownership of the estate). This led to a feud between the Scotts and the Kers, which lasted for decades. After the battle James Elliot was hanged for treason. In 1527 a number of local lairds had remission for murthering their supporters at this battle, specifically Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme, John Cranston of that Ilk, James Hoppringle, Walter Scott in Synton, Robert Scott of Allanhaugh, Robert Scott in Howpasley, William Scott of Hassindean, John Skirmish Hill

Scott of Borthaugh, Philip Scott in Headshaw, William Turnbull of Minot, Robert Turnbull in Hallrule, John Scott of the Walls, Simon Scott of Fenwick and Master Michael Scott. The battle is also known as the ‘Battle of Darnick’ and the ‘Battle of Melrose’. The Waverley Castle Hotel, the first concrete building in Scotland, was built on the site (also known as ‘Skirmish Hill’). Another nearby hill, known as the ‘Charge Law’ was where Buccleuch gathered his men for the attack, while ‘Turn Again’ is a small eminence where Scott’s men rallied and Andrew Ker was killed. This event is said to have been marked by a standing stone, which still exists.

Skirmish Hill see Skirmish Field

skirt (skir) n. the lower strip of a knitwear garment, usually 1/1 rib.

skirt (skir) n., arch. the edge or border of something – ‘...on the Common-Riding day, for ordinary, the tenants on the skirts of the Common kept their beasts off the Common until the riding was over’ [C&L1767] (‘outskirts’ is the modern usage).

skirvin (skir-vin) n., arch. a sprinkling of snow etc. – ‘A mere skirvin’ o’ butter’ [GW].

skite (ski) v. to slip, slide – ‘hi skitet on the ice an landed on his hint-end’, ‘...oo hed a sheet o’ cardboard ti gaun skeitin’ doon the bankin’ on’ [We], to move fast and uncontrollably after bouncing or skimming – ‘it skited off the waa an stotted doon the road’, ‘He strack at iz wi’ his nibbie, but it duist skitit ma shooder’ [GW], to avoid doing what one is supposed to, particularly to miss school – ‘A’ll skite ee’ [JoJ], n. to hit, strike, belt – ‘A’ll skite ee’ [GW], v. to hit with a loud smacking sound, slap, smack – ‘All skitit ee roond the lugs wui this weshen-cloot if ee dinna haad eer tueng’ [ECS], ‘All skitit eer lugs’ [GW] to bedaub, bespatter – ‘He skitit’ the wa’ wi’ glaur’ [GW] (cf. clatch).

sklave (sklav) v., arch. to clasp, n., arch. a clasp, act of clasping (also ‘sclasp’; noted by J. Jamieson; also sklesp).

sklat (sklāt) n., arch. a roofing slate – ‘Item for leading the sclates 3 00 00’ [PR1713], slate collectively – ‘There came a host o’ men an carts, Wi’ lime and sclate and timer ...’ [HSR], v., arch. to slate, cover with slates – ‘...as the first stent for sclating and repairing of the Kirk of Hawick, now ruinous’ [JW1670], ‘...with eighteen garron nails for sarking and sclating the house of Woelie’ [GT], ‘...till the riggens an ruiff s De-num – theeket yins and sklaitteet yins’ [ECS] (also written ‘sclate’ and ‘sklait’; from French).

sklatter (sklāt-ur) n., arch. a Slater – ‘Hir man’s a sklatter ti tredd’ [ECS], ‘The sklatter cam ti sort the ruiff’ [ECS], ‘...of the house of Woelie and mounting the scaffolds for the sclaters ...’ [GT], a word house, sow-bug (see also slater).

skleff (sklef) adj., arch. shallow, flat and thin, level – ‘As skleff as a sklate’ [GW], ‘Skleff grund’ [GW], ‘On the skleff, strecht streetch at the heed o the brae’ [ECS], ‘Ee’ve straampeet eet as skleff as a pancake’ [ECS], ‘Upon a skleff tomb-stane he step’t, Where lang, lang syne a widow wept’ [WP], hence ‘on the skleff’ meaning ‘on level ground’, lean, thin – ‘A never saw sic a thin crait-ster’ [GW], hence ‘on the skleff’ meaning ‘on level ground’.

sklief (ski-vi) n., arch. an instrument for mending the fire in a blacksmith’s forge – ‘Skivet. The fire-shovel used in a smith’s forge, Roxburgh’ [JoJ].

sklawsp (sklawsp) v., arch. to clasp, n., arch. a clasp, act of clasping (also ‘sclasp’; noted by J. Jamieson; also sklesp).

sklat (sklāt) n., arch. a roofing slate – ‘Item for leading the sclates 3 00 00’ [PR1713], slate collectively – ‘There came a host o’ men an carts, Wi’ lime and sclate and timer ...’ [HSR], v., arch. to slate, cover with slates – ‘...as the first stent for sclating and repairing of the Kirk of Hawick, now ruinous’ [JW1670], ‘...with eighteen garron nails for sarking and sclating the house of Woelie’ [GT], ‘...till the riggens an ruiff s De-num – theeket yins and sklaitteet yins’ [ECS] (also written ‘sclate’ and ‘sklait’; from French).

sklave (sklav) v., arch. to clasp, n., arch. a clasp, act of clasping (also ‘sclasp’; noted by J. Jamieson; also sklesp).

sklatter (sklāt-ur) n., arch. a Slater – ‘Hir man’s a sklatter ti tredd’ [ECS], ‘The sklatter cam ti sort the ruiff’ [ECS], ‘...of the house of Woelie and mounting the scaffolds for the sclaters ...’ [GT], a word house, sow-bug (see also slater).

skleff (sklef) adj., arch. shallow, flat and thin, level – ‘As skleff as a sklate’ [GW], ‘Skleff grund’ [GW], ‘On the skleff, strecht streetch at the heed o the brae’ [ECS], ‘Ee’ve straampeet eet as skleff as a pancake’ [ECS], ‘Upon a skleff tomb-stane he step’t, Where lang, lang syne a widow wept’ [WP], hence ‘on the skleff’ meaning ‘on level ground’, lean, thin – ‘A never saw sic a thin crait-ster’ [GW], hence ‘on the skleff’ meaning ‘on level ground’.

sklief (ski-vi) n., arch. an instrument for mending the fire in a blacksmith’s forge – ‘Skivet.
skluiffie-feet with shuffling step – ‘... an skluiffin shuin wurn inti bauchels’ [ECS] (also ‘scloof’).

skluiffie-feet (sklii-feet-feet) n., arch. flat-feet, splay-feet (also written ‘skluiffy-feet’).

skluish (sklish) v., arch. to walk with shuffling gait, n., arch. a shuffling gait (also sluish).

skluit (sklit) v., arch. to scuff as one walks, walk in a shuffling way, especially with the toes turned out.

skly (skll) n., arch. a stretch of ice for sliding on, slide – ‘Losh chaps, Aw mince yin terrible frost and the Loan sklye was on ... ’ [JEDM], ‘Did ee ever hear the rumml o a yoke-a-tuillie doon the Loan skly?’ [ECS], ‘In Winter days when Johnnie Frost Had frozen hard the ‘skly’ ... ’ [WL], the act of sliding – ‘Sic a byordinat gran bit for a sledge-skly or a yoke-a-tuillie!’ [ECS], v. to slide – ‘Haud up my gaeings in thy peths, that my sklydena [slide not]’ [HSR] (also spelled ‘sklye’; cf. sly and sklyde).

sklyde (sklid) v., arch., poet. to slide – ‘The law o’ the Lord is in his hairt; nane o’ his steppes sall sklydena [slide not]’ [HSR] (also spelled { `Haud up my gaeings in thy peths, that my sklyde’ [HSR], o’ the Lord is in his hairt; nane o’ his steppes sall sklydena [slide not]’ [HSR] (also spelled skomfeesh (skom-feesh) n., arch. suffocating, suffocation – ‘A canna meind now whae was ocht the naisty infiel ... they warna fimdin the skomfeeshen’ [ECS].

skomfeeshin (skom-feesh-in) n., arch. suffocating, suffocation – ‘A canna meind now whae was ocht the naisty infiel ... they warna fimdin the skomfeeshen’ [ECS].

skoosh see scoosh

the Skouff (thu-skoof) n. former name for a spring in a hollow on Ruberslaw. It is possible this is the spring that gave its name to Billerwell, although it is some distance away.

skowk (skowk) v., arch. to skulk.

skrake (skra) n., poet. a stunted, shrivelled or ill-natured person – ‘O where, O where now, Lucky Skrake, Gat ye thatte steed so feete?’ [JTe].

skraklin (skrak-lin) adj., poet. shrieking, screaming – ‘...While their skrakling tongues were heard aneath. Like wyld geese in their flyghte’ [JTe] (derivative of scrauch).

skrauch see scrauch

skreek (skreek) n., poet. a shriek, first daylight, especially in the phrase ‘skreek o day’ meaning ‘daybreak’ or ‘crack of dawn’ – ‘The page he look’d at the skriek of day, But nothing, I wist, he saw, Till a horseman gray in the royal array Rode down the Hazel-shaw’ [JL], ‘...And the lavrock’s lilt at the skreek o’ day’ [WL] (also written ‘skriek’; cf. scraigh o day, scrauch and skriech).

skriegh see skrish

skrich (skrich) n., arch. first daylight – ‘Fair Ellen she rose, put her kirtle on, Just by the skriech of the day ... ’ [JTe], ‘...ti seid owre again, bonnier as ever, at the skriech o day!’ [ECS] (also written ‘skreigh’; cf. scraigh o day and skreek).

skrieve see screeve

skrink (skringk) n., arch. a shrivelled person, a peevish woman, a despicable fellow. v. to shrink.

skrinkit (skring-kee, -ki) pp., poet. shrivelled, shrunkten, wittered – ‘And the witches smakit their skryntet gans, And swore ‘twas blessed good’ [JTe].

skrinky (skring-kee) adj., arch. wrinkled, especially in the phrase ‘skrinky-faced’.

skuff see scuff

skug (skug) v., arch. to shield, shelter – ‘... be A was weel oot o the skuggin wuds’ [ECS], ‘... an the gray waxxials o Fatlips keekeet oot thre with the treis that skugget Barnhill’s staney bed’ [ECS], n., arch. shelter, refuge, protection – ‘...ay, in the skadaw o’ thy wings wull I mak’ my skug, til a’ thae sair wandrethes be gane bye’ [HSR], ‘For thou hest been ane scug for me, an’ ane strang towir frae the enimie’ [HSR], ‘The treis gien skug ti the Auld Cross’ [ECS] (also written ‘scug’).

skuggit (sku-gee, -git) adj., pp., arch. sheltered, shielded – ‘...the treis that skugget Barnhill’s staney bed’ [ECS].

skuil see schuil

skunner see scunner

skute (skoo’, skü) v., arch. to walk with a shuffling gait.

skybald (ski-buld) n., arch. a rogue, contemptible person, ragamuffin – ‘...a schachlin, husslin-shoodert skeibult wui a toozy, taasty heed’ [ECS] (spelling varies; in 1718 Adam Scott, tenant of Woll was reported in 1718 for calling the elders of Ashkirk Parish ‘skybalds’).

skyte see skite

slack
Slack

‘The fell and the woodland, each summit and slack, Smiled on us, and said – ‘We will welcome you back’’ [DA] (preserved in ‘Deep Slack’, ‘Mitchell’s Slack’, ‘the Paddock Slack’ and other place names).

Slack see Slack’s Toor

Slack (slawk) n. James (b.1781/2) from Lockerbie, he was a tailor in Newcastle, listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1841 he was at about 1 Langholm Street, and by 1851 he was a pauper lodging on South Liddel Street. His wife was Jenny. Rev. John Watson (d.2003) minister of Ashkirk, linked with Selkirk Law Memorial. He served from 1983 until 1986.

slack course (slawk-kōrs) n. a course of knitting made with looser loops than normal, e.g. for linking.

slack handfi (slawk-hawnd-fi) n. an amount of something, such as sweets, that fits into a loose palm – ‘Gie iz a slack handfi o Hawick Baas’.

Slackhills (slawk-hiiz) n. farm recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. John Kedzie was farmer there, with 2 horses working on the farm. Given that this occurs in the list between Teindside and Commonside, it is possibly an error for Slaidhills.

Slacks (slawks) n. former farmstead in Southdean Parish, north-east of the hamlet of Southdean. There are still remains of the peel tower to be seen there, as well as signs of several other buildings, enclosures and agricultural development. Immediately to the south of the tower are the grass-covered footings of another peel (perhaps earlier). The farmstead and its enclosures was probably just to the south-east of the tower. Further to the south and west are extensive rig lines, partly erased by cultivation. A field to the north-west shows an old turf boundary and south of the peel is an old turf-walled enclosure, as well as several apparenty phases of boundary and enclosure banks. The lands were valued at 44 shillings in the Exchequer Rolls of 1538 and 1539. In 1541 Thomas and John were tenants of part valued at 22s, with Charles tenant of the remaining part valued at 11s. John Oliver was a tenant in 1544. William Oliver was recorded there in 1583. George, William and John Oliver are recorded as tenant farmers in ‘Slacks’ in 1669. Margaret Oliver was there in 1684. The 1694 Hearth Tax Return lists 3 hearths at ‘Slaks’. But the settlement seems to have disappeared in the 18th century (also written ‘Slacks’ with no apostrophe; it is ‘Slakis’ in 1538 and 1539, ‘Slakkis’ in 1541, ‘Slakis’ in 1544, ‘the Slakkis’ in 1571/2, ‘Slakes’ in 1583 and ‘Slaxes’ in 1694; it is marked ‘Slack’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map on the south side of the river, roughly opposite where Southdean Mill lies, but is absent from 18th century maps).

Slack’s Toor (slawks-toor, -tow-ur) n. ruined 16th century tower in Southdean Parish, located near the head of a stream off the Jed Water, to the north-east of the hamlet of Southdean. The peel tower had 3 floors, with a plan 12 m by 7.5 m (a little longer than other local towers). The gables are still standing. There are also signs of 3 buildings immediately to the north and 3 more to the south-east, as well as an earlier tower to the east, all part of an archaeological survey in 1991. The area around the tower shows signs of a complex settlement, with extensive agricultural development. Just south-east of the tower are the remains of a farmstead, with some enclosures, presumably the farm of Slacks.

slae (slā) n., arch. sloe, blackthorn, wild plum, Prunus spinosa – ‘…Where first I pou’d the rasp and slae, On the Bank aboon the Boosie’ [DA], ‘We’ve denned ’aneath the blooming slaes, And row’d amang the ferns’ [JT], ‘Where oft in boyhood’s happy days I gathered nits and slaes’ [GD], ‘…And echoed sternly back by Whitlaw braes – Renowned alike for bairns, and nuts, and slaes’ [WNK].

slagg (slawg) n., arch. a slough, quagmire (cf. slack).

slaid (slād) n., arch. a sled, formerly used to transport goods – ‘They fynding ane slaide made up standing at the sd George Renwicke’s, the ane tramme tharrof being of ash and the other of aicke …’ [BR1686].

Slaidhills see Slaidhills

Slaidhills (slād-hiiz) n. farmstead above Teindside, sometimes called the singular ‘Slaidhill’ and also formerly known as ‘Slatehill’ and ‘Slatehills’. An earlier name for essentially the same area is ‘Almondslands’. The lands were part of the estate of Teindside and Harwood owned by the Abernethy family from the late 14th to late 15th centuries. The lands were held by the Countess of Bothwell in 1580 when there was a raid by Elliots and Armstrongs, who stole 12 cows and oxen and ‘left ane of hir servandis lyand for deid’. Francis, Earl of Bothwell had the lands confirmed to him in 1585. It is ‘Almonslandis alias Slaidhills’ when listed among the Baron of Hawick’s properties in 1615. It is probably the ‘Steadhills’ listed (along with Teindside, Harwood and Carlinpool) among the possessions of the Scotts of...
Buccleuch in 1634, 1653, 1661 and 1663. In 1681 Thomas, son of Thomas Crawford, merchant in Edinburgh, was served heir to the lands of ‘exterioribus et interioribus de Slaidhills’ and in 1683 the next Thomas was served heir to his grandfather Thomas in the same lands. William Elliot was tenant in ‘outer slaidhills’ in 1694. William Waugh was tenant there in 1699, with William Oliver, William Waugh and John Waugh recorded in 1701. William Scott was recorded there in 1702 and Thomas Pott in 1704. Alexander Hutton was tenant in 1707, with Thomas Rae as shepherd. In the 1718 survey of properties of the Scotts of Buccleuch Outer Slaidhill and Inner Slaidhill are listed separately: Outer Slaidhill consisted of 366 acres, bounded by Branxholme Moor, Hott, Inner Slaidhill, Commonside, Woodburn and Chisholme; and Inner Slaidhill lay to the south and was not a Buccleuch property. Christopher Grieve was there in about 1822. Robert Grieve was shepherd there in 1851, and weaver James Lamb also lived there. About 350 yards north-east of the farmhouse are the remains of a hill-fort on a rocky knoll. The inner area is about 205 ft by 105 ft oriented east-west, with an entrance on the north side. There are 2 other forts on Teinside Hill just to the south (the origin of the name is probably Old English ‘slaed hyll’, meaning ‘the hill with the hollow in it’, referring to the shape of the hill to the east of the farm, with the 2 apparent summits probably also explaining the sometimes plural form; the name occurs as ‘Sleidhills’ in 1494, ‘Slaidhills’ in 1581, ‘Slaidhill’ in 1585, ‘Slaidhills’ in 1634, ‘Slaidhills’, ‘Sleidhilles’ in 1664, ‘Sleidhill’s in 1693, ‘Slatehills’ in 1701, ‘Sclethills’ in 1702 and ‘Slatehills’ in the 1851 census; it is ‘Slaidhills’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and ‘Slatchills’ on Stobie’s 1770 map).

The area of the name is probably Old English ‘slaed hyll’, meaning ‘the hill with the hollow in it’, referring to the shape of the hill to the east of the farm, with the 2 apparent summits probably also explaining the sometimes plural form; the name occurs as ‘Sleidhills’ in 1494, ‘Slaidhills’ in 1581, ‘Slaidhill’ in 1585, ‘Slaidhills’ in 1634, ‘Slaidhills’, ‘Sleidhilles’ in 1664, ‘Sleidhill’s in 1693, ‘Slatehills’ in 1701, ‘Sclethills’ in 1702 and ‘Slatehills’ in the 1851 census; it is ‘Slaidhills’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and ‘Slatchills’ on Stobie’s 1770 map.

Slaidhills Moss (slad-hilz-mos) n. marshy region to the north of Slaidhills farmstead, in the headwaters of Vales Burn. It is printed as ‘Slatchill Moss’ in William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’, when he is describing the course of the Catrail.

slaiger (slä-gur) v., arch., poet. to besmear, handle sloppily – ‘But noo awat, it is shallower far, When sae ait it’s slagiered oot o’ a jar’ [WL], to waddle in mud, to walk wearily – ‘In slow retreat, wi’ slorpin’ feet, I platch an’ slaiser hame’ [WaD].

slain (slän) n., arch. a wooded ravine, rugged slope (noted by J. Jamieson).

slains (slänz) n., arch. indemnity, particularly in the phrase ‘letters of slains’, being a document issued by the family of a murdered person stating that reparation had been made – ‘In witnes quhairoff we haue subscryvit thir present lettairis of slains, as efter followis, at Hawik . . . ’ [SB1581] (from the Early Irish ‘slán’).

slapia (slä-pëe) adj., arch. deceitful – ‘Thou rows thy fibber i’ thy slapia cheek’ [JoHa], n. a mean-spirited or toadying person – ‘Slapia, slaiger. A mean fellow; a plate-licker, Roxb.’ [JoJ] (also ‘slaipy’).

slaip-mowd (släp-mowd) adj., poet. smooth-talking – ‘Fortune, . . . Aul’ slaip-mou’d luck! I mean but to address ye’ [JoHa].

slaig (slärg) v., arch. to smear, bedaub – ‘make shair ce slairg the lotion on that bairn’, ‘Ti slairg = to besmear in slovenly fashion (especially the person, when eating). Cf. ti slaip . . . also ti slaister, ti slitter, etc.’ [ECS], ‘That dame, a’ slaigrit over wi’ pride, Vince ruled a tremblin’ country-side . . . ’ [WP], n., arch. a smear, smeary mark, quality of messy semi-liquid, dollop of treacle etc.

slaister (släs-tür) v. to be excessively messy, make a sloppy mess, to spread thickly and excessively, slather – ‘deh slaister the butter on yer toast, to flounder in mud or water – ‘. . . And oor feet they get fair platchin As oo slaister throwe the snaw’ [IWL], n. a sloppy mess, a dirty worker, everyone making a mess, e.g. at the dinner table – ‘yer fither’s the biggest slaister o aa’, ‘. . . An’ braw Council vans, tae examine the slaisters’ [JRE] (noted by E.C. Smith).

slaister-in (släs-tür-in) adj., arch. untidy, slovenly – ‘Hir slaisterin way o wurkin wad ug onybody’ [ECS].

slaister-pokes (släs-tür-poks) n., arch. a messy person, sloven.

slaistert (släs-tür) adj., arch. messy, smeared – ‘. . . whan A keek oot ov a slastert woark-place wundih on ti bowkin lums an platchin cloots an ruiffs’ [ECS].

slait (slä) pp., arch. slit, ripped out (said of sewing; past tense of slite, with the past participle being slitten).

slait (slä) adj., arch. slovenly and dirty (noted by J. Jamieson).

slake (släk) v., arch. to lick clean with the tongue, a person who consumes food or drink excessively, a glutton (also ‘slaik’).

slanner (slaw-nur) n., poet. slander – ‘For I hae herd the slanner o’ monie; feer was on ilka syde . . . ’ [HSR], v. to slander – ‘Whassaes slanners his neebers unnerhan’, him wull I sneg aff . . . ’ [HSR].

slap (slap) n., poet. a gap, opening – ‘. . . That fences brak and ditches lap, In hedge or dyke aye found a slap' [TCh], ‘... that they had taken down a slap in the wall at the Slittrigg, opposite Tam Wilson’s cauld, to duck the Tories in' [Parliament, 1838] (from Dutch).

slash (slawsh) n., imp. an act of urination – ‘A’m away for a slash’.

Slata (sla-ta) n., poet. poetic name for the Slitrig – ‘From yon green peak black haunted Slata brings The gushing torrents of unfathomed springs’ [JL].

slatch (slawch) n., arch. a slap, slapping blow, a messy worker, a wet and muddy place – ‘A glaury being found under slates). Weensland in the mid-19th century??.

slater (slata) n., poet. a wood louse, pill bug, Oniscus (also sklater; note, this term is obscure outside Scotland; the origin is probably because of often being found under slates).

Slate Hoose (slai'-hoos) n. name of a house in Weensland in the mid-19th century??.

slater (slai'-ur) n. a wood louse, pill bug, Oniscus (also sklater; note, this term is obscure outside Scotland; the origin is probably because of often being found under slates).

Slater’s Directory (slai'-urz-dl-rek-tu-ree) n. directory of people and businesses, more formally known as Slater’s Royal National Commercial Directory. It was published in 1852, 1860, 1878, 1882 and 1893, and was essentially a continuation of Pigot’s earlier directories. The volumes containing Roxburghshire are valuable as lists of businesses in Hawick, as well as Denholm, Newcastleton and some other villages. The publisher, I. Slater, was based in Manchester. Note that the information was not always up to date, and typically appears to have been current a year or so before.

Slateturn Quarry (slai'-turn-kwa-ree) n. old quarry on the left-hand side of the A7 between Binks and Castleweary.

Slatter (slai'-ur) n. William (18th/19th C.) farmer at Lustruther according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls.

slaughter (slawch-tur) n., arch. slaughter, murder – ‘... aganes the said Robert Scot of Alanehuacht, ... for the slauchit off wmoquhill George Scott, our brother ... ’ [SB1581], ‘Being acerentit be my seruand of the slachter of zour frind ... ’ [SB1584], ‘... we ar cuumtet as sheep til the slauchter’ [HSR].

slaver (slai-vur) n. a person who talks nonsense – ‘he’s a right slaver when ei’s drunk’ (note this form of the noun is not common elsewhere).

slaw (slaw) adj., arch., poet. slow – ‘Light hearts will mak light heels: Of let’s awa’; To see sic friends, what mortal wad be slow?’ [CPM], ‘The Lord is ... slaw til angir, an’ o’ grit mercie’ [HSR].

slea (slee) v., arch. to strike down, slay, kill – ‘... and gyf any be fund uncuitit in the wings and toes, it shall be leasome to any to kill or slea them ... ’ [BR1655].

sledge (slej) n. a sled, sleigh – ‘A got a grand new sledge for Christmas’, ‘... Yet to the rich ye bring rare exercise, Who, with their steeds and sledges, love the snow’ [TCh], ‘Who! yon brae o the Caslegate o Jethart! Sic a byordnar grand bit for a sledge-skly ... ’ [ECS], ‘... Ae met ee at the Vertish edge, Trailin’ er sledge’ [DH], v. to sled, ride in a sleigh – ‘whae’s gaun oot sledgin’, ‘... while sledgin doon the Daith track ablow the railway’ [IW], ‘... Where yince A sledged in callant days’ [IW].

sledger (slej-jur) n. a sledder, person who uses a sled – ‘... Golfers and sledgers and dydie-eggs, Or auld folk seekin’ a sate’ [DH].

slee (slee) adj., poet. sly, clever, skillful – ‘... til deel slee an’ slidlie wi’ his servants’ [HSR], ‘O death! thou wreck of young and auld, How sley, and O how dreadfu’ bald!’ [HAST1913], ‘... He could wile them unto him fu’ canna an’ slee { At the window wee, To crack a winter night wi’ thee, An’ hear they songs and sonnets slee’ [BS], ‘... I wan somebody young an’ slee Ti hear my plicht’ [JP], adv. slyly, craftily, skiffullly – ‘At the window wee I keekit slee, And rappit canmifie’ [WaD].

sleekit (slee-kee, slee-ki’) adj., arch., poet. sly, smooth – ‘Sleekit collies rinnin’, hirds whusslin’ and yellin’ And lood the lamentin’ bi haughs and coaxin’, sae pauky and slee’ [JT], ‘... I wan somebody young an’ slee Ti hear my plicht’ [JP], adv. slyly, craftily, skillfully – ‘At the window wee I keekit slee, And rappit canmifie’ [WaD].

sleepy (slee-pu-ree) adj., arch. fawning, deceitful, attempting to curry favour.

sleepery (slee-pery) adj., arch. sleepy, drowsy – ‘A cood fain heh dwinglt, an daikert aboot in sleepery Bosells’ [ECS] (note the English is ‘sleepy’, while the reverse is true for ‘slippy’ and ‘slippery’).
sleepit (slee-pee', -pi') pp., adj. slept – 'The stoot-hairstet ar spulysiet: thaye hae sleepit thair sleep owtricht ...' [HSR].

sleepit-oot (slee-pee-oo') adj., arch. slept out, having slept one's fill, slept until one can sleep no more – 'A was that muittreet, A gaed ti bed at neine an A sleepeet on till echt, gey nerr the clock round, and sill A wasna sleepeet-oot!' [ECS] (also written 'sleepeet on').

Sleepy Valley (slee-pee-vaw-lee) n. popular name for an area through which the Boornaw Burn flows in Burnfoot that now has a children's playground.

slege (sle-gee) adj., poet. smooth, unctuous – 'The wurds o' his mooth wrer mair saft an' slegie nor butter ...' [HSR] (also written 'sleegy').

Sleich (slidh) n. John (15th/16th C.) recorded in Lilliesleaf in 1502. He was surety for Alexander Alemoor, who was also in Lilliesleaf.

slever (slevur) v., n., arch. slaver, drool, saliva.

Slewman (sloe-num) n. William (16th C.) Reader at Cavers church recorded in 1575, at the same time William Auchmowtie was Minister for this and neighbouring parishes (including Hawick and Wilton). He was probably the same person as William Slewman who was Reader 1579-80 (spelled 'Slewmanan').

sley (sli) v., poet. to slay – 'The wicket keepes closes on the righteous, an' sheaks til sley him' [HSR], '...til throw doun the puir an' neidle, an' til sley sic as be o' ane upricht waye' [HSR].

sleyit (sli-i) pp., poet. slayed – 'Wha smat grit nationes, an' sleyet michatie kings' [HSR].

slicht (sli-cht) v., arch. to slight, to jilt a lover – 'Like a' slichtit lovers, he moaned an' he sighed ...' [TCh], adj. slight.

slidder (sli-duur) v., arch. to slip, slide, slither – '...as he had not touched the meal, having 'sliddered' it into the pot from a plate' [BM1907], '...And the Plans creep, slidderan, whiter than white, Fre the brain-washing machine o Bureaucracy' [DH] 'And gin I'd to wale but the yin, frae the haill slidderin' heap ...' [DH], n. an ice slide, icy surface (cf. scldider and slither).

slidderum (sli-du-rum) n., arch. a smooth-tongued insincere person, hypocrite, adj. wheeling, hypocritical (noted by E.C. Smith).

sliddery (sli-du-rec) adj., arch. slippery – 'Shurelie thou didist set thame in slidderic pieces ...' [HSR], 'Wae-worth yon Plastic Breid that's sellt the-day, In sliddery greaseproof, wi a fancy name' [DH], oily-tongued and hypocritical (also scliddery).

slider (sli-duur) n. ice cream served between two wafers.

slidden (sli-din) pp., poet. slid, glided, moved quietly – '...whidder is he slidden awa owt o' gait, that we maye seeik for him wi' thee?' [HSR].

slidly (slid-lee) adj., arch. slyly, cunningly – 'He turnet thair hairst til hurt his peecole, til deel slee an' slidlie wi' his servants' [HSR].

sliggy (slig-gee) adj., arch. insinuating, sly, deceitful (noted by J. Jamieson).

slight (slir) v., arch. to omit, neglect – 'John Fa, who hath slighted to bring a testifcat of his marriage' [PR1715] (see also slicht).

Sliman (slee-num) n. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Southdean Parish. His son Hector was baptised in 1698. He may also be the John 'Sliman' whose daughter Isabell married William Paterson in Hawick in 1727 (also written 'Simson').

sling (sling) n., arch. a long striding step, a considerable distance to walk – '...he had a ferr road ta gang.' 'Ay, Hobbie', said the smith, 'it's a lang sling' [WaD].

slinkit (sling-ki', -kee') pp. slinked, shank – '...And slinkit to the benmaist end To wat his slip veal (slingk-veel) n., arch. meat from a calf born prematurely – '...and that no 'slink veal' be exposed for sale out of doors' [BR].

slip (slip) n. a quantity of yarn, consisting of 12 'cuts', usually being a 2 lb 'hank'. By the 1820s Hawick and Wilton were producing more than 1,000,000 hanks annually – 'A slip o' yairn' [GW].

Slipher (sli-fur) n. Thomas (17th/18th C.) recorded in a Rulewater sasine of 1693 as 'in-dweller in Weens'. He was also 'baillie in that part' for Gilbert Elliott of Stonedge.

slippit (sli-pee', -pi') pp. slipped – 'he's off work cos hei slippit on the Street an twistit his knei', '...And slippit it oure the auld man's neck, With slippy (sli-pee) adj. slippery (note 'slippy' is also sometimes used in standard English, but 'slippery' would be almost unknown in Hawick).

slipshod (slip-shod) adj., arch. careless, specifically used to refer to someone having boots on, but without doing up the laces.

slite (slir) v., arch. to rip up, slit, undo sewing, n., arch. a ripping of a sewn article (also written 'sleit'; the past tense is slait and the past participle slitten).

slither (sli-thur) n., arch. a slide, sliding movement (cf. scldider and slider).

Slitrick see Slittrick
Slitridge

Slitridge (sli’-rij) n. former name and spelling for Slitrig, used in the 17th and 18th centuries. ‘The water of Slittridge’ is recorded in a 1687 satire and it is ‘Slitridge Water’ on Wood’s 1824 map.

the Slitrig (thu-sli’-reeg, -rig, -reek, -rik) n. Slitrig Water, river that rises near Windburgh and joins the Teviot at Hawick, flowing for approximately 11 miles (17.5 km). It formerly divided the town into its east and west halves, and for centuries there was only one bridge across it, the ‘Auld Brig’. It is prone to rise rapidly, and has caused some of the most infamous town floods. The river rises in several headwaters, Floss Burn and Leap Burn meeting, becoming Lang Burn and being joined by Langside Burn where the Slitrig proper starts. After that it is joined by: Hope Sike; Penchrise Burn; Gibby’s Sike; Cogsmill Burn; Barnes Burn; Pagton Burn; Horsley Burn; Acreknowe Burn; Flex Burn and the Smaile Burn – ‘...Where Slitrig dances doon the glen’[JT], ‘...And the Slitrig aye filling wi’ rain’[FH], ‘Where the Slitrig and Teviot meet, With nature’s charms replete, There are beauties rare Beyond compare Where the Slitrig and Teviot meet’[TK] (the origin is uncertain, ‘rith’ being Old English for ‘stream’, with the first element perhaps related to ‘slite’, a narrow opening, or ‘slitan’ to split, or even possibly ‘slitter’; it is first mentioned as ‘Slitrith’ in Reginald of Durham’s book on St. Cuthbert, where it is suggested that the name comes from the river abounding with fish, and although the connection with any words relating to an abundance of fish seems obscure, it is possible it is ‘slit’, meaning animals for slaughter; there are a variety of earlier spellings, e.g. ‘Slittryk’ in 1433, ‘slittrik’ in 1493 and 1502, ‘Slitryk’ in 1532 and ‘Slitrik’ in 1547/8; it is still ‘Slidderick’ in 1795, ‘Slitrige’ in 1821 and ‘Slitrig’ in 1839; it is ‘Slitrick R.’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and ‘Slittrik’ on Gordon’s c. 1650 map).

Slitrig Bank (sli’-reeg-bawngk) n. house occupied by shoemaker Peter Wilson in the late 18th century, now being 1 Slitrig Bank. It was probably built a little before 1800. It was the headquarters for the Napoleonic prisoners-of-war, and partitions in the cellar may related to this use. The house is shown in a painting of about 1813; this painting exists in a photograph, but the original is lost. The current house is 2-storeys with an attic, in a rectangular plan, built of whinstone rubble and with sandstone dressings. It is a grade C listed building.

Slitrig Crescent (sli’-reeg-kre-sin’i) n. crescent shaped, one-sided street along the south bank of the Slitrig, still occasionally known by its former name ‘the Crescent’. It was developed around 1799–1805 and was one of the first ‘suburbs’ of the town, the land having previously been known as Dunstersdales. The original buildings were a row of 2-storey terraces, only a few of which retain their original details. In 1831 the houses here...
Slitrig Crescent Brig

were the first in Hawick to have gas installed. The street was once very dirty on the river side, until retaining walls were built at the end of the 19th century, and the land tidied up as a small park. The street also contains St. Cuthbert’s Church, and for a long time had the Whisky House Mill, later premises of James Melrose & Sons engineers. Nos. 3, 4, 5, 17, 18 and 19 are grade C listed – ‘…The other dam, up Slitrig Crescent Where ee fed the ducks wi breid’ [AY].

Slitrig Crescent Brig (sli’-reeg-kre-sin’-brig) n. stone bridge over the Slitrig, connecting the Kirk Wynd with Slitrig Crescent. The present structure was built in 1864, replacing a footbridge (shown on the 1859 Ordnance Survey map), which in turn replaced an earlier iron footbridge destroyed in the 1846 flood. It is said to have been built in only 10 days. There was no bridge there in the early 19th century, but the ‘wire bridge’ was nearby, and there was also an adjacent ford. The footbridge is recorded in the 1846 Town Treasurer’s accounts as ‘Wooden Bridge at Kirk Wynd Foot’. The present structure is a sandstone bridge of a single arch, containing the Ordnance Survey 360 foot benchmark. It seems to have no generally agreed name, being referred to in many other ways, including ‘the Kirkwynd Brig’. It is a grade C listed building.

Slitrig Dam (sli’-reeg-dawm) n. the main mill lade fed by the Slitrig, and the oldest one in Hawick. It probably pre-dated the 1537 Charter, although presumably was lengthened over the years. It was fed by a cauld near Lynnwood House and ran along the east side of Liddesdale Road and Slitrig Crescent, providing water power for Stonefield Mills and Hawick Corn Mill, as well as water for Slitrig Dyeworks. It was filled in in the early 1970s when new housing was constructed in the area.

Slitrig Dyeworks (sli’-reeg-dl-wurks) n. dyeing factory on Slitrig Crescent, also known as Turnbull the Dyers.

Slitrige (sli’-rij) n. another alternative spelling for ‘Slitrig’.

Slitrig Gairdens (sli’-reeg-gər-dinz) n. gardens along the west side of Slitrig Crescent, between the old Exchange Buildings and the bridge.

Slitrig Hall (sli’-reeg-hal, -haw) n. meeting hall on Old Manse Lane, formerly the fire station, built in 1857. The address is 2, 4 and 6 Old Manse Lane. It was used as the fire station into the early 20th century, but then converted to be a meeting hall, which was used by the Brethren Fellowship. The building is 2-storeys, with a roundel window above the (now blocked) arched engine entrance.

Slitrighheid (sli’-reeg-heed) n. name sometimes applied to the area at the head of the Slitrig Water. In the last few years of the 18th century William Elliot of Harwood leased a limestone quarry there to William Turnbull of Burnfoot and John Ridley of Parkend.

Slitrig Hoose (sli’-reeg-hoos) n. name sometimes used for 8–9 Slitrig Crescent, home of John Laing of Hawick, Ltd.

Slitrig Ludge (sli’-reeg-luj) n. Hawick branch of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, Slitrig Lodge 9858. Sometimes known as ‘the Buffs’, this was one of two local branches of a fraternal and benevolent organisation founded in the 19th century. It met until 2015 in the Trinity Bar.

Slitrig Place (sli’-reeg-plis) n. former street behind Slitrig Bank House, at an angle between Slitrig Bank and the Kirk Wynd, named in 1878 after the River Slitrig. It was demolished around 1973/4 when a road through to Slitrig Bank was constructed in its place.

the Slitrig Road (thu-sli’-reeg-rōd) n. name sometimes used to refer to Liddesdale Road and its continuation up the Slitrig valley.

Slitrig Viaduct (sli’-reeg-vI-a-dukt) n. railway bridge crossing the Slitrig just south of Hawick, demolished in 1982, and popularly referred to as the Six Arch Bridge. Lynnwood Cauld, essentially under the viaduct, directed water through a mill lade that fed Lynnwood Mill.

Slitrig Villa (sli’-reeg-vi-la) n. former name for a house at the corner of Backdamgate and Slitrig Crescent, also known as ‘Slitrig Cottage’. George Hobkirk and his wife were living there in 1861 and 1871, and the new name was used in 1891 and 1901. The building still exists, although it has been altered, with the original front door has been built up.

the Slitrig Witter (thu-sli’-reeg-wi’-ur) n. full name for Hawick’s second river, the Slitrig.

Slitrik (sli’-rik) n. another spelling occasionally noted for ‘Slitrig’.

Slitrith (sli’-rith) n. first spelling of ‘Slitrig’ known, occurring about 1170 in Reginald of Durham’s history of St. Cuthbert. It is stated (in translation) that ‘there was a certain chapel, in a place which had obtained the name Slitrith from a river full of fish’ (this may be a clue to the origin of the river’s name, but it is unclear exactly what was meant).

slitten (sli’-in, sli-tin) pp., arch. slit, undone, said particularly of ripped out sewing – ‘Wull ee steek this slittin oxtor afore it geets ony woare?’ [ECS] (also written ‘slittin’; past participle form of slite, with the past tense being slait).

slitter (sli'-ur) v. to make a mess, dribble or spill food – ‘ee’ve slittered aa doon yer clean shirt’, to do anything in a messy manner, n. a sloppy mess, spill – ‘look it that slitter ee’ve made’, someone who spills things, a messy eater or drinker – ‘ee’re sic a slitter’, a liquid or semi-liquid mess (also slutter).

Slitterick (sli'-u-, sli-tu-rik) n. spelling used sometimes for ‘Slitrig’ in the mid-18th century (with an extra syllable in the pronunciation).

Slittrick (sli'-rik) n. former spelling for ‘Slitrig’, seen in Rev. Robert Cunningham’s early poem about Hawick and still used in Agnes Douglas’ award winning poem for the Auld Brig in 1851 – ‘And waits from Slittrick his tribute to receive; Within this Brugh, and noe wher els he’ill have ...’ [RRC], ‘...But these, nor Yarrow, Tweed, or Ettrick, For speed and power, can match the Slittrick’ [AD] (also written ‘Slitrick’ and ‘Slitricke’; recorded on Pont’s manuscript map of the 1590s and transcribed to Blaeu’s 1654 map).

Slittrick (sli'-rik) n. nickname for William Airmstrong about 1500.

slittery (sli'-u-, sli-tu-ree) adj. messy, sloppy, involving dribbling (also sluttery).

Sloan (slon) n. Dr. Hugh Rodger (1858–1926) graduating M.B. from Glasgow University in 1888 and M.D. in 1893, he worked for a while as a doctor in Hawick. He moved to Galashiels and then emigrated to Hawera, New Zealand in about 1899. He died in Auckland. Fr. Michael assistant at S.S. Mary & David’s from 1986 and Priest there from 1986.

sloatch (sloch) n., arch. a lazy person, slouch, v. to go about in a lazy fashion, to slouch (also written ‘slotch’).

slobber (slo-bur) v., arch. to over-boil food (this is obscure; G. Watson defines it as ‘to boil throbbingly’).

slochan (slo-chan) n., arch. a large clumsy person (noted by J. Jamieson).

slock (slok) v., poet. to quench thirst, appease – ‘Sin’ that ane that slocked Samson’s drooth I’ the jawbone o’ the cuddie’ [WW], ‘...To slock his thirst an’ taste ance mair The well beside the yett’ [ECB].

slocken (slo-kin) v., poet. to quench thirst, douse a fire – ‘...but determining to ‘slocken their curiosity’, they crept up very warily to the top of the house’ [EM1820], ‘Mony waters cannna slocken loefe, nether can the fluids droon it’ [HSR], ‘...the untaemt cuddies slocken their drouth’ [HSR], ‘...an than A gaed inti a bit an sloken ma drooth’ [ECS], ‘And a my heart’s thirst slocken in the Pipeoch clear and cool’ [JYH], ‘...Twae six month stints o cuddy-work Slockened wi drams and yill’ [DH], ‘...And slockenin, gin we get The nearer to their source’ [WL].

slockener (slo-kin-ur) n., arch. a thirst-quencher – ‘A penny gray rowe, wui a slockener owre an abuin’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘slokener’).

slogan (slo'-gin) n. a war-cry, rallying cry for a clan – ‘Then raise the Slogan wi a shout, Fy Tyndale to it, Jedburgh’s here’ [CPM], ‘...whan the slogan waekent the waller an sterteet the fray i the gray-daylicht’ [ECS].

the Slogan (thu-slo'-gin) n. name sometimes given to the ancient slogan of Hawick: ‘Teribus y Teriodin’, and also used for the chorus of the song ‘Teribus’ – ‘Up to your saddles, the slogan is sounding ...’ [JT], ‘...Upliftin’ the slogan a’ Teries haud dear’ [JEDM], ‘For the gut-ter bluid is stirring, As it stirs but once a year, When the drums and fifes are biring The Slogan through the air’ [TK], ‘...May the grand auld slogan sound’ [JEDM], ‘The slogan by oor faithers sung Oo chorus still wi’ yin another’ [JEDM], ‘And still their slogan calls throughout the years ...’ [RSC].

sloom (sloom) v., poet. to slumber, doze – ‘Behold, he that keepes Israel sall nither sloom nor sleepe’ [HSR], ‘I wullna gie sleepe til mine eyne, nor sloom til mine eelyds’ [HSR].

sloosh (sloosh) v. to sluice, swill with water – ‘She wasni happy it hevin ti sloosh away the bowk thit her man left ootside’.

slork (sloark) v. to slosh, make a noise as of feet in mud, to slurp food (cf. chork and slorp).

slop (slop) v. to slurp, eat food with a loud sucking sound, consume coarsely and greedily – ‘It was as muckle as A cood dae no ti slop!’ [ECS], ‘Chewing the everlasting saltness of the mart-beast Or slopping the ever-abiding brose ...’ [DH], n. a slurp, slurping noise, act of eating...
slorpin

by slurping, spoonful of liquid taken quickly with a slurping sound – ‘He drain’d the brose-bowl wi’ sic a slop’ [GW].

slorpin (slor-pin) adj., arch. slurping, making a loud sipping or squelching noise – ‘In slow retreat, wi’ slorpin’ feet, I platch an’ slaiger hame’ [WaD], untidy in general.

slotter (slo’-ur) v., arch. to eat liquid food with a loud sipping sound, slurp – ‘To slotter, to make a noise in swallowing food, like a duck gobbuling; to slabbere up, Roxb. Berwicks. Teviotd.’ [JoJ].

slouan (sloo-in) n., arch. a sleuth-hound (abbreviated form noted by Sibbald).

slouge (sloong) n., arch. a greedy person or animal, hangdog, one who skulks to obtain food – ‘A greedy slounge’, a dog that goes about hanging his ears, and prying for food, Roxb.’ [JoJ] (also written ‘slounge’ and ‘slunge’).

sloupe (slowp) n., arch. a silly person (noted by J. Leyden).

sloupy (slow-pee) adj., arch. sloppy.

Slow Adam (slow-aw-dum) n. nickname for Adam Glendinning.

slowan (slow-in) n., arch. a sloven (noted by J. Jamieson).

Slowen (slow-in) n. William (16th C.) Reader at Cavers, recorded in 1579 and 1580. He was probably the same individual as William Slewman.

slow-thumbs (slo-o-numz) n., arch. someone who works or moves slowly (noted by J. Jamieson).

slubber (slu-bur) n. someone who twists wool in preparation for spinning, arch. half-twined or badly twined woollen thread, slubbing (also sometimes ‘slober’).

slubbin billy (slu-bin-bi-lee) n. a machine for forming ‘slubs’, used as the first part of spinning yarn in the 19th century spinning industry. The ‘rovings’ (or slubs) were supplied by a carding machine via a ‘creeper’.

sluchen (sloo-chin) n., arch. idle or lazy person, ne’er-do-well – ‘...Or ca’ me sluchen’ [JoHa] (also written ‘slughan’).

sluggart (slo-gur’) n., arch. a sluggard (cf. slugger).

slugger (sli-, sli-gur) n., arch. a sluggard, idler, v., arch. to act like a sluggard, be slothful (cf. sluggart).

sluish (slish, slish) n., arch. a heavy, awkward person, a shuffling gait, v., arch. to shuffle, drag one’s feet – ‘Jock cam sluishin’ along the cassa’ [ECS] (also skuish).

sluist (slüst, slip) n., arch. a large, heavy person (variant of sluish, noted by J. Jamieson).

slutter (slü’-ur) n., arch. to work messily, besmear, to do anything slappily, to walk in a slovenly manner, n. an untidy person, messy worker, a liquid mess (noted by E.C. Smith; cf. slitter).

slittpery (slü’-u-, slü-tu-re) adj., arch. like a puddle, sloppy (also slitherly).

Slumberdown (shum-bur-down, -doon) n. manufacturer of quilts and pillows, with a factory at Burnfoot Industrial Estate since the 1970s.

slummer (slu-mur) n., arch. slumber.

slump (slum) v., arch. to suddenly sink through ice or ice-covered snow.

slumpy (slum-pee) adj., arch. tending to give way beneath ones tread.

slunk (slungk) n., arch. veal from a calf that was cut out of its mother (noted by J. Jamieson).

slushty (shus-ree) adj., arch. weak, sloppy – ‘The pridefu’ priest o’ oft pedantic prose, The cook o’ sluhtrie, slink, polite stews’ [JoHa] (also spelled ‘shlurhrice’).

slutch (sluch) n., arch. a hanger-on, parasite (noted by J. Jamieson).

slutther (shu-thur) n., arch. a woman with a low standard of cleanliness, slattern.

slutther (shu-thur) v., arch. to gulp or swallow noisily.

Slutthman (slooth-mun) n. Adam (15th C.) recorded in 1494/5 at the Justice-aire in Jedburgh. He acted as suitor for John Rutherford of Hundalee, to be present at the court for Rutherford’s lands of Ruecastle (possibly the same surname as Slewman).

sly (sil) n., arch. a strip of ice used as a slide by children, v. to slide on ice, skate – ‘The skatin an sly-in oor younger days’ [HEx1965], ‘...A’ve whiles on waxcloth slied’ [IWL] (also skly).

sklype (slip) v., arch. to slip or strip off, e.g. barbs of a quill or twigs from a tree, to press gently downwards, particularly applied to a leech – ‘to sklype a leech’, to make it part with the blood, Roxb.’ [JoJ].

sklypees (slip-peez) n., pl., arch. roasted pease, eaten with butter (noted by J. Jamieson, who describes it as ‘probably a cant term’).

Sly Tamnie (sil-taw-mee) n. nickname for shoemaker Thomas Scott – ‘Poodge and Peedlum gang doon the toon, Sly Tammy and Kittlin’ Soup gang up; There’s Paddy Barratt and Jamie Broon, And there's Dick Newall and Johnny Whup' [HI] (also written 'Tammy').

smaw (smaw-ur) adj. smaller – 'The sma'er the height, O! the less is the fa'; Sae a' my ambition's a hunner or twa' [AS], 'A wee bit earnest, faithful' man, Far sma'er than his voice . . . .' [FL].

smaw-est (smaw-ist) adj. smallest – 'Some folk can gie the sma'est thing Wi' a grace that's worth faithfu' man, Far sma'er than his voice . . . .' [WP].

Smail (smäl) n. Adam (16th/17th C.) granted a half husbandland of land in Lilliesleaf in 1595/6. He was described as 'son of Thomas there'.

Adam (18th/19th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He is probably the Adam, son of shoemaker John and Helen Aitkin, born in 1758. His name is recorded as 'Smeal' in about 1810 when his wife Jean Phillips died. Their son John was born in 1786.

Adam 'Yeddie' (b.c.1780) joiner on Bourtree Place, his premises located behind No. 8. This is marked on Wood’s 1824 map. He was listed on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory and was recorded being at ‘Eastend’ on the 1841 census. Probably the same man was listed as a wright on the High Street on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. At one point he owned the entire property from 6 to 16 Bourtree Place and all the way back to the railway line. He could be the Adam born in Jedburgh in 1779. His wife was Eliza. His children included Margaret (who married weaver Charles Scott) and Alison (who married roper William Munro). Alexander (16th/17th C.) son of William. He was granted a half husbandland and a cottage-land in Lilliesleaf in 1595/6. His father was also granted land at the same time. They were presumably residents of the village of Lilliesleaf at that time. Alexander (17th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Andrew (18th C.) resident of Minto Parish. He married Margaret White and in 1724 their daughter Jean married Walter Aitchison. Andrew (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, son of James. He is probably the Andrew who in 1738 witnessed a baptism for Walter Riddell, who was living at Alton. He married Margaret Hume in Minto in 1736 and their children included: James (b.1737); Agnes (b.1738); Walter (b.1739); and Andrew (b.1741).

Andrew (18th C.) married Katherine ‘Frier’ in Minto Parish in 1740. William (b.1742), John (b.1744), Isobel (b.1746) and George (b.1749) were probably also his children. Andrew (18th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf Parish. His children included John (b.1752), Betty (b.1753), Andrew (b.1754), George (b.1756), Robert (b.1757), Margaret (b.1759) and Agnes (b.1762).

Andrew (18th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf Parish. He married Anne Oliver and their children included: Margaret (b.1767); Thomas (b.1770); and unnamed child (b.1773).

Andrew (18th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf Parish. He married Janet Purves and their children included Andrew (b.1778), Margaret (b.1781) and John (b.1784). Anne (b.1786), Mary (b.1789), Thomas (b.1790) and Thomas (again, b.1792), with no mother’s name given, were probably also his children.

George (17th C.) resident of Minto Kames who appears in the Hearth Tax records of 1694.

George (b.c.1780) toll-keeper at Spittal Toll. His wife was Janet. George (b.1810/1) from Ancrum, he was a blacksmith in Denholm. He is recorded on the 1841 census and by 1861 was at around Leyden Road. His wife was Agnes, and their children included John, Margaret and George. He secondly married Janet, and had step-daughter Janet Brown, as well as children Robert W., James D. and Mary. James (19th C.) purchaser of the farm of Catshawhill in Lilliesleaf Parish. This was sometime before 1837. He was a nurseryman and seedsmen. He was probably succeeded by William. James (19th C.) farm steward at Timpendean in the mid-to-late 1800s, working for Mr. Elliot Boag. He married Margaret, daughter of William Oliver, hind at Langrawn. James (1828–1905) from Jedburgh, brother of printer John. He became a banker with the National Bank in Kelso, opening the branch in Earlston. He then moved to the Commercial Bank, working in Earlston, Galashiels, then Kirkcaldy, and eventually becoming Secretary of the head office of the Commercial Bank in Edinburgh.
He was strongly connected with Rulewater, meeting his wife Margaret Boa there, and being a keen angler of the Rule and Jed Waters. He wrote verse under the pen-name ‘Matthew Gotterson’ and under this name published the poem ‘The Callant’ in the Scotsman in 1889 (reprinted in ‘Hawick Songs and Recitations’ in 1892); this was used as the anthem for the Callants’ Club, the third verse being put to music by Addie Inglis in the late 1940s, and the words were erroneously attributed to J.E.D. Murray in the 2001 Hawick Songs anthology. A version of the ballad ‘Little Jock Elliot’ was written under this pen-name. He also wrote extensively on angling topics and was a President of the Berwickshire Naturalists’ Club. He wrote an extensive article on the Catrail in 1880, having tried to trace it course for several days accompanied by Mr. Craig-Brown and Mr. Elliot of Hollybush, as well as local farmers and shepherds. He was also a keen Volunteer, being an officer of the Border Battalion and Secretary of the Border Rifle Association. Additionally he was involved as treasurer or secretary of the agricultural societies in Selkirkshire as well as the Landward School Board. His wife died later the same year he did. John (17th C.) merchant in Lilliesleaf according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was probably related to Thomas, who was listed right before him. John (17th C.) wright in Lilliesleaf according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. He was probably related to other Smails living there. John (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. He married Helen Aitkin and their children included: George (b.1743); James (b.1744); Margaret (b.1746); Jean (b.1758); and Adam (b.1761). The witnesses in 1743 were cooper John Aitkin (perhaps related to his wife) and shoemaker Robert Wilson, and in 1758 were James Oliver and Walter Aitkin. John (18th C.) listed as owner of a ‘House and Yard’ in Minto Parish in 1779, valued at £1 16s 7d. It was owned by Lord Minto in 1811. John (b.1785/6) born at Hermiston in Lilliesleaf Parish, he was a cadger and carrier in St. Boswells. In 1852 he is recorded running a cart between Lilliesleaf, St. Boswells and Kelso. His wife was Esther and their children included Thomas and Jane. Martin (16th C.) listed as one of the tenants of Skelfhill and neighbouring farms in a bond of security signed in Hawick in 1569. His name is listed as ‘Martine Smaill’. Robert (b.1798/9) born in Ancrum, he was a farmer at Hillhead in Lilliesleaf Parish. His brother John also helped run the farm. In 1851 they were farming 41 acres and employing 1 labourer. Another brother, William, also lived on the farm. Thomas (16th C.) recorded in a document of 1561/2, agreeing that Thomas Young, his brother-in-law, should occupy some lands in Lilliesleaf during his mother’s life. His mother was Elizabeth (‘Bessie’) Riddell, presumably related in some way to the Riddells of that Ilk. His sister was Margaret. He may be the Thomas in Lilliesleaf whose son Adam was granted land in the village in 1595/6. Thomas (17th C.) resident in Lilliesleaf Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He was probably related to merchant John, who was also listed there. Thomas (18th C.) tenant farmer in Borthwickbrae in the Horse Tax Rolls for 1787–88. Thomas (18th/19th C.) farmer at Catshawhill in Lilliesleaf Parish according to the 1794 and 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was probably related to William, who farmed at Raperlaw. Thomas (19th/20th C.) driver of the Wolfelee estate carts (mainly coal from Hawick) under 3 separate Lairds. He married Mary, daughter of Thomas Baptie and a Buckingham. He retired to Hawick. William (16th/17th C.) granted a half husbandland of land in Lilliesleaf in 1595/6. His son Alexander was also granted land at the same time. William (17th C.) tenant in Harwood in Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Turnbull. Their son William was born in 1687. He could be the William born to Martin and Helen ‘Furgrie’ in Hawick in 1635. William (18th/19th C.) farmer at Catshawhill in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1785. In 1786 he was ‘of Catch’ at Raperlaw. His surname was given as ‘Smaill’ in 1788, when he was recorded as owner of Catshawhill. He was still at Raperlaw in 1797. He is probably the William ‘Small’ recorded as possessor of the land of ‘Kaims-muir park’ in 1780. In the Land Tax Rolls of 1811 (although the information came from earlier) he was listed as owner of Catshawhill and part of Raperlaw. He may have been father of James of Catshawhill recorded later. Probably the same William at Raperlaw subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. Probably the same William of Catshawhill served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. His name was recorded as William ‘Sonnail of Catshawhill’ in the 1819 list of Commissioners of Roxburghshire (formerly written ‘Smaill’, ‘Smaile’, ‘Small’, ‘Smeal’, ‘Smeall’ and ‘Smyle’).

Smailcleugh (smäl-klooch) n. former house about 3 miles south of Jedburgh in Soutdean Parish. It was near the foot of the Smail Cleuch, on the opposite side of the Jed Water from Ferniehirst Mill. The farm was in the 17th century the residence of the famed Ringan Oliver, who was said to have lived in a tower there. There was a blacksmith’s there in the 19th century (also written ‘Smaircleuch’).

Smaile see Smal

Smaile Burn (smail-burn??) n. stream now running underground from the Nipknowes to Hagghisaa, with the original course being over the Vertish, and on to the Slitrig. The name was in use from at least as early as the 15th century. The springs that feed it provided an early town water supply (1797–1865), conveyed in lead pipes to a reservoir at the top of the Loan (the origin is probably from Old English for ‘small’; the name occurs in 1433 as ‘Smaileburne’ and is ‘Smaile Burn’ in 1448).

Smailholm (smā-lum) n. village north-west of Kelso, with Smailholm Tower, the 18th century Smailholm House and a church dating back to the 13th century, last rebuilt in the 19th. Robert Ker of Altonburn had a charter of the lands in 1404 and Robert Pringle had a charter probably not many years later. The lands were held by Lord Cranston in 1502. In 1544 it was raided by men of Tynedale and Redesdale, taking 600 cattle, 100 horses and 100 prisoners. Also the name of the surrounding Parish of northern Roxburghshire, bounded by Kelso and Makerstoun, as well as Berwickshire. According to one story, St. Cuthbert was born in the nearby village of Wrangham, which has entirely disappeared. It is said that it was the first parish to divide its common land, starting a trend that would sweep across Border parishes, including Hawick, Wilton, Hassendean, etc. ‘Book of the Bazaar, On Smailholm Men, Smailholm Parish and Smailholm Church’ (1896) was written by William Lamb Sime (the origin is probably Old English for ‘small’; the name occurs in 1433 as ‘Smaileburne’ and is ‘Smaile Burn’ in 1448).

Smailholm House and a church dating back to the 13th century, last rebuilt in the 19th. Robert Ker of Altonburn had a charter of the lands in 1404 and Robert Pringle had a charter probably not many years later. The lands were held by Lord Cranston in 1502. In 1544 it was raided by men of Tynedale and Redesdale, taking 600 cattle, 100 horses and 100 prisoners. Also the name of the surrounding Parish of northern Roxburghshire, bounded by Kelso and Makerstoun, as well as Berwickshire. According to one story, St. Cuthbert was born in the nearby village of Wrangham, which has entirely disappeared. It is said that it was the first parish to divide its common land, starting a trend that would sweep across Border parishes, including Hawick, Wilton, Hassendean, etc. ‘Book of the Bazaar, On Smailholm Men, Smailholm Parish and Smailholm Church’ (1896) was written by William Lamb Sime (the origin is probably Old English for ‘small ham’, meaning ‘the narrow village’; the name first appears in 1160).

Smailholm (smā-lum) n. Henry (d.bef. 1364) admitted as Archdeacon of Teviotdale in 1354, with his name written ‘Smalham’. He served until his death.

Smailholm Toor (smā-lum-toor, -tow-ur) n. 5-storey 15th century peel tower on an isolated crag near Smailholm village, about 6 miles west of Kelso, renovated in the 1980s and now housing a museum. It may have originally been built by the Kerrs for the eldest son of Ferniehirst. The existing tower was probably built by the Pringles. It was the subject of many raids in the 16th century, and was sold to the Scotts of Harden in 1645. It is sometimes also called ‘Sandyknowe’ from the farm and hillock on which it stands. Sir Walter Scott regarded it as very inspirational in his youth – ‘These crags, that mountain tower, which charmed my fancy’s waking hour … Methought grim features, seemed with scars, Glared through the window’s rusty bars’ [SWS], ‘At Smailholm’s Tower, Scott’s youthful hours Were nursed in song and story’ [RF].

Smaig (smār) adj., v. to bedaub, besmear – ‘…for thaye smaig inequitie apon me, an’ in wrath thaye hate me’ [HSR], ‘…an a smaiggin rowk feiles ilka thing’ [ECS], to smear sheep with a tarry mixture to protect the fleece against vermin.

Smairt (smār’) adj., v. smart (also the more common smert).

Small (smaw, smawl) n. James (17th C.) listed along with Andrew Robson in the 1663 Land Tax Rolls. Together they paid tax on £390 for the lands of the Laird of Haining (probably John Pringle). William (18th C.) leased the lands of Boghall (presumably in Wilton) from Scott of Harden in 1749 for 11 years.

Small-pox (smaw-, smał-poks) n. contagious viral disease, which was a major source of death across Europe until well into the 19th century. It was not always fatal (Mary, Queen of Scots and Elizabeth I of England both contracted it), but it often left victims scarred or blind. Hawick was hit by a particularly fatal outbreak in 1821. Vaccination was introduced in the early 19th century, but taken up in a patchy way, and largely among the wealthier classes; its historical effectiveness is still a matter of debate, but ultimately it led to eradication of the disease.

Smally (smā-lee) adj., arch. small, meagre, under-sized – ‘Smaallie (adj.) = delicately framed (applied especially to a child of frail physique)’ [ECS], ‘A smaallie bairn’ [GW] (also written ‘smallie’; diminutive of sma).

Smarroch (smā-roch) n., poet. a confused collection, crowd – ‘The dirdums o’ the wheezlebugs Chunter the lee-lang day And for a smarroch o’ scowderdowns My greasly hert is wae’ [DH].

Smasha Hill (smaw-sha-hil) n. hill to the east of Blawearie at the end of the ‘Hill Road to Roberton’, reaching a height of 335 m. It contains a Bronze Age burial cairn, about 500 m yards east-north-east of the summit, measuring about 10 m in diameter and about 0.4 m high. There are also several others in the vicinity. On the north side of the hill there is a ‘droveway sign-wall’, a section of drystone dyke to indicate the direction for driving, or perhaps as a warning to drovers.

smat (smat) pp., poet. smote – ‘Behald he smat the rok, that the waters rashed owt . . . ’[HSR], ‘An’ smat a’ the first-born in Egypt . . . ’[HSR].

smatter (sma’-ur) n., pl., arch. small pieces, smitherens – ‘Hei broke it inti smatters’[GW], v., arch. to break into small pieces – ‘The pane he smattered wi’ a pelt’[HSR], ‘Thou didist smatter the heeds o’ leviathan intil flenders . . . ’[HSR].

Smeaton (smea’-in) n. John (b.1827/8) born in Dunfermline, he was Governor of Hawick Combination Poorhouse during the 1861 census. He presented some items from Borneo to the Museum in 1863. His wife was Matron and Harriet Smeaton (probably his sister) also worked there.

smeedum (sme-dum) n., poet. spirit, mettle, common sense, resourcefulness, strength – ‘The smeedum o’ your barmie pills, Gars misers loose their poses, But wi’ yer cants ye send twa deils, Like to rive aff folks noses, An’ tear away’[JR], ‘. . . And pits sic smeedum in my step’[WL] (from Old English).

smeeg (smeeg) n., arch. a kiss (noted by J. Jameson).

smert (smer’) adj. smart, clever – ‘deh try ti be smert’, ‘Let cleverality, mockreef folk that are unco smert . . . ’[ECS], well-dressed, stylish, attractive – ‘ee’re lookin awfi smert the day’, ‘Hei’s a smert keind o fallih, thon’[ECS]’, ‘Weel, aa met a lorry-driver, As smert as ee could sei . . . ’[DH], ‘Hei’s a big smert felli mind’[JCo], ‘she’s a smert lookin lassie, no like her mother’, brisk, quick – ‘An so, efter a smert hurl, oo clattert inti Hawick High Street duist on the chaap o six . . . ’[ECS], v. to smart – ‘ma backside’s still smertin’, ‘. . . And lashed oor smertin’ cheeks’[WL] (cf. the less common smarit).

Smellie (sme-lee) n. James (19th C.) teacher at Ashkirk in the 1860s. He also served as Registrar and Inspector of Poor for the Parish.

Smer (smer’) n. (Smart) Alexander (b.1815/6) born in Stow, he was a baker in Hawick. He is listed on the High Street in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1851 he was at about 39 High Street and in 1861 at 2 Allars Crescent. His wife was Agnes and their children included Alexander, William, Agnes, Jane and George. Rev. William (1775/6-1837) from Blackfriars Kirk in Jedburgh, he was ‘probationer’ at Castleton Burgher Kirk following the resignation of Fletcher in 1801. He was said to have done much to inspire confidence in the waning congregation and helped to secure a site for the new church in Newcastleton village. However, he remained only a short time, because in 1802 he was called to Paisley. He died suddenly while returning from a meeting of the Presbytery there. A volume of his sermons was published by his son Rev. William of Linlithgow.

smarter (smer-tur) adj. smarter – ‘. . . Like panoramic views were cast, still better an’ still smarter’[VW].

smidie see smiddy

Smiddielands (smi-dee-lawndz) n. former name for lands in Bedrule Parish, adjacent to Newton. They were included in the lands inherited by William Kerr of Newton in 1637.

smiddies (smi-deez) n. blacksmith’s workshops. These used to be common and crucial parts of every day life in Hawick and surrounding area. Local ones included Peter Clark’s at the Sandbed, Rob Young’s of the Back Raw, and 3 in the Fore Raw (including James Bowie and Tom Ferguson), as well as others in the Croon Close, Brougham Place (Murray in the basement of No. 7), Melgund Place (No. 5) and Albion Place. In the mid-19th century there must have been around a dozen in Hawick. Those of the surrounding countryside included Ashkirk (Kirkhouses), Banchester Bridge, Borthaugh Wudfit, Borthwickbrae Burnfit, Cauldmill, Chisholme, Denholm (two), Flex, Forkins (or Unthank), Hassendean, Heap, Hobkirk (Blacklee), Kirkton, Lilliesleaf, Minto, Newmill, (Bedrule) Newton, Park (Copshaw), Stirches, Stobs, Teviothead (Bowanhill) and Todshawhaugh. The business in the Crown Close (Telfer’s) survived until the late 1970s, and Hook’s on Union Street even more recently. As well as shoeing horses and dealing with other metalwork jobs, through much of the 18th and 19th centuries they were also responsible for performing tooth extractions as well as bleedings for various ailments. Adam Scott is recorded as smith in Hawick in 1640 and ‘Hew Elliot’ in 1642.

smiddy (smi-dee) n. a smithy, blacksmith’s workshop – ‘He took the horses next to Boa’s smiddy to get their shoes taken off’[RM], ‘And in winter we wa’d gather round the bleezin’ smiddy hearth . . . ’[JT], a frame-smith’s or mechanical workshop in a mill (also spelled ‘smiddie’).

smiddy-end (smi-dee-end) n., arch. gable wall of a blacksmith’s – ‘A dandert aboot amang the auld byres an smiddy-ends’[ECS], ‘Oh, the Auld Smiddy end, where in youth’s happy day A merry band o’ bairnies wad gather at their play’[JT]. smirl (smi-rul) n., arch. a trick, prank – ‘I'll play him a smirl for that yet’, Teviotd. Nearly syn. with Pliskie’ [JoJ].

smirn (smirn) n., arch. a smug, officious person.

smirr (smir) n., poet. drizzle, light rain – ‘A smirr o' rain was fa'iu' That buid to spoil the day’ [WL], ‘There cam' a blast wi' smirr o' snaw As 'Tam cam' amblin' hame' [WFC], v., arch. to drizzle.

smit (smi') v., arch. to infect, contaminate.

the smit (thu-smi', thu-smit) n. illness, infection, attack of minor disease – ‘hei got the smit off her’, ‘...He's hed ye! Ye're hit! Ye've gotten the smit! Ye're another Robbie Dye' [DH] (from Old English).

smitch (smitch) n., poet. Thou art a' fair, my loeife, ther is nae smitch in thee' [HSR].

Smith (smith) n. Adam (17th C.) listed as a smirn on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’. He paid tax on 2 hearths. Adam (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. His son James was baptised in 1696. Agnes (17th C.) resident of Hallrule who was listed among the poor in Hobkirk Parish in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Sir Alan (1917– ) R.A.F. pilot who fought alongside Douglas Bader and was awarded the D.F.C. He was later an industrialist, being a strong Tory supporter and becoming a friend of Margaret Thatcher. He ran Dawson International from 1970. He was Chief Guest at the 1986 Common Riding. Alexander (18th C.) resident of Appletreehall. In 1764 he witnessed a baptism for John Hunter, who also lived at Appletreehall. He married Margaret Laidlaw in 1766, and their children, baptised in Wilton Parish, included: James (b.1767); Isabel (b.1770); John (b.1772); Susanna and Christy (b.1773); John (again, b.1775); Margaret (b.1778); Peggy (b.1780); David (b.1784); and Alexander (b.1786). The witnesses in 1770 were James Dryden and Thomas Reid and in 1772 were James Dryden and Robert Hume. Alexander (b.1817/8) son of Hawick blacksmith James. He was blacksmith at Appletreehall and later also vet there. He was listed among heads of households in Wilton Parish in 1841. He lived at Appletreehall with his sister Jane. Late in life he married Margaret, from Stranraer. Andrew (17th/18th C.) mason in Bedrule Parish. His children Isobel (d.1690) and William (d.1693) are buried in Bedrule kirkyard. Sir Andrew, M.D. ‘Smithie fri Soothfield’ (1797–1872) born at Heronhaa near Southfield (also referred to as Winnington Rig), son of a shepherd, he was an Army surgeon who became Director General of the Army Medical Department and is sometimes described as the father of South African zoology. He was baptised in Kirkton Parish, his father being Thomas P., his mother Grizzel Tait, and the location given as Winnington. He was the eldest of 5 children, having 1 brother and 3 sisters. He attended school at Stobs, where he was said to be flogged regularly for playing truant. In 1809 the family moved to Hassendean and he attended Minto and then Lilliesleaf schools. He had a 3 year apprenticeship with Dr. Walter Graham in Hawick (sometimes given incorrectly as a ‘Mr. Gordon in Roxburghshire’) before training at Edinburgh University and joining the army in 1815, shortly after Waterloo. He trained at various stations around Britain, and later when quar- tered in Edinburgh, continued his studies at the University, where he received his M.D. in 1819. He went to the Cape in 1820 as a medical assistant to the 72nd Regiment, and was there for 16 years, also being associated with the 49th and 98th Regiments and the Cape Mounted Riffle Corps. He was district surgeon at Albany and in 1822 opened the first free dispensary for native patients in South Africa. He learned much about the indigenous peoples and was sent on several missions to visit tribes beyond the frontier, resulting in a description of the customs of the Xhosa tribes in 1824. Spending much of his leisure time studying natural history, he established a reputation as a zoologist and ethnographer. He reported on the Bushmen and the Amazooloo (specifically the San, Khoi-Khoi and other peoples). In addition his expertise in zoology was sought out by Charles Darwin. He led a 6 month expedition to Port Natal, the report from which ultimately led to the founding of the colony at Natal. He was also the first Superintendent of the South African Museum from 1825. In 1834 he led probably the first scientific expedition into the interior, where he also negotiated treaties, as well as exploring the Oori, Mariqua and Limpopo rivers, returning after 18 months. About 5,000 specimens, 500 drawings and 1800 artefacts were brought back. In 1836 he met a young Charles Darwin when the Beagle stopped at the Cape, showing Darwin rock formations and giving him some rock samples. He returned to Britain in 1837, being promoted to the rank of surgeon and based at Fort Pitt, Chatham. A grant was appropriated to publish his 5 volume ‘Illustrations of the Zoology of South Africa’ (1838–47), which he wrote with no personal remuneration. He identified and named many animals, particularly reptiles and birds. He described more species of South African birds than anyone before or since and Gekko smithii (a gecko), Lepidophyllum smithii (a lizard) and Pangshura smithii (a freshwater turtle) are all named after him. He was also first to formally describe the largest living shark, the whale shark, as well as to properly distinguish the genus of the great white shark and to name it ‘Carcharodon’ (so that the species was sometimes called ‘Carcharodon smithii’ as a result). Ill health prevented him publishing the expedition journal, but much of the information appeared elsewhere (and his diaries from 1834–36 were finally published in 1939–40). He continued to be promoted, becoming Principal Medical Officer at Chatham, then Deputy Inspector of Hospitals in London, and by 1853 he was Director General of the Army and Ordnance Medical Department. During the Crimean War he was personally attacked for being responsible for the state of medical care for British troops, with Florence Nightingale calling him the ‘smoke-dried Andrew Smith’. However, his conduct was vindicated after inquiries by several parliamentary committees. He retired in 1858, when he was made a K.C.B. He received numerous other honorary titles and awards, including being Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh, the Zoological Society and of the Royal Society. He was made an Honorary Burgess in 1838 on a visit back to Hawick. He also received honorary degrees from Edinburgh and Trinity College, Dublin. He retired from his post in 1858 and was then knighted. In 1844 he married his housekeeper, Ellen Henderson (c.1802–64), and converted to her Roman Catholic faith. After the death of his wife and then his sister, he lost interest in African exploration and scientific writing and went into decline. He died at his home at 16 Alexander Square, London and is buried at Kensal Green Cemetery. There are at least 2 known portraits of him. A plaque (on the right-hand side of the road past Southfield) marks the site of the cottage in which he was born (actually on the opposite side of the road). Annie Henderson, nee Cowan (b.1861) daughter of Elliot Cowan and Jeanie Hunter. She was well known locally as a singer, for example, singing ‘Up Wi’ the Banner’ at the 1889 Colour Bussing. She was mother of William, James and Elliot and married to Cornet John, with whom she moved to the Manchester area in the 1890s. She gave a talk to the Archaeological Society in 1935, providing valuable information about 19th century Hawick language and place names. It was said that she insisted on her family speaking Hawick dialect at home in Manchester and their house was a haven for other Teries in Lancashire. Her son Elliot referred to her as ‘a leal and competent guardian of the vernacular’, and explicitly highlighted her influence in developing his fascination with the dialect of Hawick. Archibald ‘Airchie’ (b.1782) son of Thomas and Mary Scott ‘The Flooer o Rankleburn’. It is said that as a young man in charge of carts in Berwick, he was press-ganged into joining the crew of a man-of-war. He returned to Rulewater a few years later and married Mary Turnbull (whose sister Ellen has married his brother Peter). One of their sons was found dead at the bottom of a cliff at Edgerston, while a daughter married Robert Taylor. Along with the rest of his family he emigrated to America. Charles (19th C.) grocer on the High Street. He is listed as grocer, spirit dealer and victual dealer on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory. He was Cornet in 1840. He appears to have left the town shortly afterwards. Mysteriously he appears to have fathered an unnamed child who died in 1840. Rev. David (b.1892) educated in Dunfermline and at Edinburgh University. He was licensed to preach by Dunfermline Presbytery and was assistant minister in Dumfries. He was ordained as minister of Saughtree Kirk in 1921. However, he was translated to Inverkeithing the following year, and later went to Ceres. He married Anna Clarke. Elliot Cowan (1891–1917) native of Hawick, whose father, grandfather and great-grandfather had been Cornet. His father was John and his mother Annie Cowan. He was a student at Manchester Municipal High School and worked as an accountant. Well read in all forms of literature, he had a particular interest in Scottish writing and the vernacular of Hawick. In 1914 he wrote what is probably the best example of Hawick dialect prose ‘Mang Howes an’ Knowes: a Day’s Dunder Throwe Border Waeter-Gates’. This when he was only 23 years old, and after having spent most of his life in the Manchester area, where his family moved. It was published in 1925, with illustrations by his brother, James Dryden. He also contributed the dialect dictionary and discussion ‘Braid Haack’ to the Transactions, as well as publishing ‘To Dee and Don: recollection and rumination’ (reprinted from the Hawick Express) in 1912. He was also a lover of music, from high opera to old Scottish songs. Never being in robust health, it was said that he was disappointed not to be able to enlist like his 2 brothers. He lived at 61 Carlton Street, Old Trafford, Manchester. He died at the age of only 25 and is buried in the Wellogate. George, A.R.C.O. (19th/20th C.) organist at St. Cuthbert’s in the early 20th century. He gave organ lessons to Adie Ingles. Gilbert (18th C.) house servant at Stirches in 1778 and 1779, when he was working for Gilbert Chisholme. In 1792 he witnessed a baptism for Walter Stewart, who lived at Stirches. Hamish D. jeweller at Bourtree Place, well known for incorporating local elements into his designs. He was educated at Burnfoot and Hawick High. He has designed badges for several of the local clubs. The ‘Teribus Clock’ has been a feature of his shop since 1996. In 2012 he created a Hawick version of the Olympic torch. James (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He probably farmed near Newton. James (17th C.) resident of Spittal-on-Rule on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. James (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish, in the Hassendean part. He witnessed a baptism in Hassendean for William Lamb in 1687. He married Margaret Armstrong in 1679 and their children included: Walter (b.1679); Janet (b.1682); and Margaret (b.1688). He is probably the resident in Westerhouses recorded in the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls for Hassendean Parish. It seems likely that he and his wife are related to the Walter Armstrong who married Isobel Smith in Roberton in 1686. James (1680/1-1743) blacksmith at Longtown. He had at least 3 children who died young: Archibald (b.1722/3); Mary (b.1725/6); and Agnes (b.1725/6). He was buried in old Wilton Cemetery. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at ‘Heap burnfoot’ in 1725. He married Elspeth (or Elizabeth) Aitken and their children included: Helen (b.1716); Margaret (b.1719); Agnes (b.1723); and James (b.1725). The witnesses in 1725 were James and Robert Easton. It is possible he was the same as the blacksmith at Longtown. James (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Elizabeth Armstrong in 1761. James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Isabel Lees and their children included James (b.1766). James (18th C.) married Jean Davidson in 1775. The marriage was recorded in both Hawick and Wilton Parishes. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He married Betty Elliot in 1793. James (18th/19th C.) resident at Appletreehall. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He could be the James who married Margaret Oliver in 1800. James (18th C.) weaver in Hawick. An unnamed child of his died in 1809. James (1785-1855) born in Oxnam, son of John. He was blacksmith in Hawick at 5 Melgund Place, and before that at Cauldmill. He may have been a grandson of John, blacksmith at Heap. He is listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory as blacksmith and millwright on Melgund Place along with William (presumably his son). In Slater’s 1852 directory he was listed as a blacksmith on Melgund Place. He married Margaret (or ‘Peggy’) Kennedy and she died in 1872, aged 86. Their children included: John (b.1805), born in Wilton Parish; William (b.1807), born in Melrose Parish; James (1809–37); Janet (1811–70); Isabel (1813–29); Robert (b.1815); Helen (b.1817); Margaret, teacher; Charles Kennedy (b.1822); Alexander (b.1824), who was blacksmith at Appletreehall; Joan (1824/5/82), who married shoemaker William Burnet; Thomas Young (b.1827), watchmaker, who emigrated to Australia; Gilbert (b.1830); and Jessie. Most of their children were born in Cavers Parish, with Thomas recorded at Cauldmill. He is buried in old Wilton Kirkyard. James (19th C.) one of the 5 men tried for mobbing and assault during the 1837 election in Hawick. He was the only one found not guilty. James (19th C.) one of the 6 elders of Hawick Parish who left along with the minister during the Disruption of 1843 to form Hawick Free Kirk. He was probably the first Session Clerk of the new church, serving until 1855. James (19th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Mary Glendinning and their children included Mary (b.1822). James ‘Jamie’ (b.1805/6) born in Cockpen, Midlothian, he was a grocer on the Howegate and then Burgh Officer and Halberdier in Hawick from about 1860. He was the Burgh Officer for a while along with ‘Tam-a-Linkin’, then with Michael Wintrip. He was noted as a wit. He also looked after the town’s poor house for many years. It is said that he was well liked in the town, and that even the beggars respected him. He married Margaret Shiel, and their children included: Agnes (b.1831), who married house painter James Smith (probably no relation); William (b.1833); James (b.1835); and Catherine (b.1838). He lived at 4 Loan according to the 1861 census. James (b.1810/1) farmer at Templehall and proprietor of Harwood Sawmill. He was at Harwood Mill in 1841 and listed there in 1861 as farmer of 1000 acres, employing 3 labourers. He was still recorded as farmer at Harwood Mill in 1868. His wife was Betty and their... children included Thomas, Mina, Betty, William, James and Peter. The Jane Smith (aged about 70) living with him in 1841 was probably his mother. James (b.1823/4) painter, son of whip and thong maker John. He was a grandson of James ‘Deacon’ Dryden, father of John and grandfather of Elliot Cowan. He was Cornet in 1846, and Acting Father for his son John in 1881. He annually painted a line at Towerdyke-side to mark the level of the flood in the year of his Cornetship. This was replaced by a plaque in 1902. There is a painting (by Andrew Kennedy) of him and his Right- and Left-Hand men crossing the Teviot near Laidlaw’s Cauld. This is probably the earliest image of the Common Riding. There is also a photograph of him with the Cornets of 1845 and 1897; this makes him one of the first Cornets of whom we have a photographic image. In 1848 he married Agnes, probably daughter of Howegate grocer and Burgh Officer James Smith. Their children were: Margaret Shiell (b.c.1850), who married Allan Watt; Elizabeth (b.c.1851); Hannah; John (b.1856); Jemima Catherine (b.1863); Ann; Agnes Ellior (b.1869); Agnes Ellior (again, b.1870); and Helen (b.1873). The family lived at 8 Howegate, then 3 Green Wynd, and then 4 Loan, where they kept a ‘house of refuge’. After his wife’s death he lived at 1 Silver Street and lastly 19 Howegate. He was still alive in 1901. James Turnbull (d.1905) eldest son of Thomas and Mary Smith. In 1900 he married Margaret Murray (b.1875), who was from Galashiels. Their children were Peggie, Mary and Thomas James (born after his father’s death). He died following a bad fall from his bicycle at ‘Jenny Walker’s Brae’. His wife was later keeper of the Laidlaw Memorial Hall. James Dryden ‘Jamie’ (c.1881–1966) son of John and Annie Cowan, and older brother of Elliot Cowan. He was named after his great-great-grandfather ‘Deacon Dryden’, who was Cornet in 1772. He moved to Manchester with the rest of his family when he was young. He became a member of the Royal Institute of British Architects and was employed by a brewer’s in Manchester for many years. After retiring he moved back to Hawick, where he and his wife settled at 11 Backdamgate. He was a keen student of Hawick’s dialect and became known as a local historian, who was often consulted. He was also a rugby enthusiast, acting as correspondent for Manchester papers, for both Rugby Union and Rugby League. He provided the illustrations for ‘Mang Howes an Knowes’. He accompanied his mother to Gallipoli in 1926, as part of an organised family memorial trip, and wrote about it for the Hawick Express; they were able to walk on the battlefield where his brother William had fallen, and he made a sketch while they were there. He was a member of the Archaeological Society Committee and contributed an article to the Transactions in 1958. He acted as Bard for Lodge 111, and was also a member of the Callants’ Club. He also was donor of the J.D. Smith bequest, which benefited several local causes. He was described as a ‘small and dapper figure’. He married his cousin Jane Hunter Scott. He was buried in the Wellogate Cemetery. Jean (18th C.) kitchen maid at Wilton Lodge in 1791, when she was working for Lord Napier. Jenny (nee Ferguson) (1908–74) born in Stirling, she trained as a teacher in Dundee, being qualified as a primary teacher with a specialisation in music. She first taught in Yetholm, then moved to Manchester, after marrying local baker Robert T. The couple moved to Hawick in the late 1930s, where her husband established his bakery business on Bridge Street. She taught at Drumlanrig 1964–71, and while there wrote the music for ‘Hurrah! for the Cornet’, to words written by her Primary 5 class. She also wrote a song ‘The Jewel in the Crown’ for the 1970 Burnfoot song competition. In 1971 she remarried, becoming Mrs. Dorward. She died at the Cottage Hospital and was buried in Wilton Cemetery. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish. His son James was baptised in 1696. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living at Orchard in 1715. His children were probably: James (b.1714); Margaret (b.1715); John (b.1717) and William (b.1719). John (18th C.) blacksmith in Stirches. In 1747 he is recorded living at ‘Heap foord’. In the records for the division of Wilton Common in the 1760s he is referred to as ‘Smith Smith, smith in Heip, on the lands of Stirkshaws’. In 1735 he married Margaret Dryden (1712/3–51) in Wilton Parish. Their children included: James (b.1736), who died aged 7; Margaret (b.1739); John (b.1739), who died young; Alexander (b.1741); Isobel (b.1744); and Elspeth (b.1747). The witnesses in 1747 were James Dryden (probably related to his wife) and Thomas Laidlaw. John (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. His wife was ‘Cicil Spinnie’ (or ‘Spindie’). Their children included John (b.1751), George (b.1752), James (b.1754) and Agnes (b.1756). Helen (b.1758), an unnamed son (b.1760), Margaret (b.1762) and Agnes (b.1767) may also be his children. John of Spittal (18th C.) made John (18th C.) gamekeeper at Cavers in at least the period 1793–97, when he was working for George Douglas. John (18th/19th C.) innkeeper in Newcastleton. He is probably the resident of the village recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. In 1817 his inn was used as the meeting place for creditors of a bankrupt merchant in Newcastleton. He was listed as a weaver in the 1764 baptism, when the witnesses were clothiers Gavin and Thomas Turnbull, and also in 1766 when the whole congregation were witnesses. The witnesses in 1768 were fellow weavers Francis Cairns and Robert Chisholme. His son Robert died in 1798. John (18th C.) gamekeeper at Cavers in at least the period 1793–97, when he was working for George Douglas. John (18th/19th C.) innkeeper in Newcastleton. He is probably the resident of the village recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. In 1817 his inn was used as the meeting place for creditors of a bankrupt merchant in Newcastleton. He was listed as proprietor of a public house in Newcastleton on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He was probably the John, innkeeper in Newcastleton, who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He may be the carter of that name recorded as male head of household in Newcastleton in 1835. John (b.1773/4) from England, he was a shoemaker on the Mid Raw in 1841. Jane and John, who lived with him were probably his children. John (d.1811) weaver in Hawick, son of Walter. John (b.1794/5) whip and thong maker on the Howegate. He lived at 8 Howegate, being there in 1841 and 1851, and was at 3 Brougham Place by 1861. He married Elizabeth Dryden (b.c.1801). Their children included: Christian (b.1820/1); James (b.1823/4), who was Cornet in 1846; Helen (b.1826/7); and Walter (b.1835), who was a shoemaker. He could be the John who was born to John in Cavers Parish in 1794, but he was also related to William, ‘Wull the Cutler’. His sister Jenny is said to have gone to Flodden in about 1820 and returned with green twigs to adorn the Cornet’s followers in the procession to the Games. John (19th C.) gamekeeper for the Earl of Minto. A story is told in the 1881 Border Counties’ Magazine of how he kept a pet fox on a chain; it would deliberately scatter barley within reach so that it could catch a hen when it got close enough. John (b.1810/1) born in Edinburgh, he was a baker in Denholm. His shop was probably on Main Street. He married Margaret Eckford and their children included Helen, William, John and Catherine J. John (1827–69) of Darnick (near Melrose). Last major head of the family architects and builders business, John & Thomas Smith. They were responsible for many of the finest Victorian buildings around Melrose, as well as the North Brig in Hawick, the Wallace Statue at Dryburgh and the Hermitage Water Bridge. He was commissioned to make a survey of the Auld Brig of Hawick before it was demolished in 1851. He was also an early photographer, who took photographs of Queen Victoria’s visit in 1867. He added an east wing to Darnick Tower. His sister Mary married John Elliot of Binks. The Smith Memorial Hall was built in Darnick in his memory. John (19th C.) one of the first professional cricketers in town, playing for the Wilton team in the late 1850s. John (1856–1904) son of Cornet James and sister of Margaret, the matriarch of the Watt family. He was Cornet in 1881, with his own father as Acting Father. He also served as Acting Father in 1886 (2 years after his own father served in this role). He married Annie Cowan, and their sons were: James Dryden; William, who died at Gallipoli; and Elliot Cowan, who wrote ‘Mang Howes an Knowes’. A plumber by trade, he moved with his family to Old Trafford, Manchester in the 1890s. There he became the first Chairman of the Hawick Exiles’ Club. Dying at a young age, he was buried in Hawick, being the first Cornet’s coffin to be draped with the Burgh Standard. Rev. John (1859–1928) born at Haddington, he graduated M.A. from Glasgow University in 1888. He was minister at Denholm Free Kirk from 1892 until his death. He married Agnes Hume. His daughter was a geography teacher at the High School in the 1950s and his grandson was a local vet. Joseph (19th/20th C.) gas manager in Hawick. His daughter Annie was the 2nd wife of Robert Riddle Thompson. Rev. Malcolm (1860–91) from the Gillespie area in Glasgow, he graduated M.A. from Glasgow University in 1886 and B.D. in 1889. He was ordained as the 1st minister of Wilton South Kirk in 1890. However, about a year and a half later he drowned while swimming on holiday at Spittal. Some of his sermons and a memorial were collected and published in Hawick in 1891. Margaret nee Murray (b.1875) daughter of Robert, carpenter at Blacklee, Hobkirk Parish. She married James, eldest son of Thomas Smith, tenant farmer at Tythecote. They had 3 children, but her husband died as a result of an accident. She later was keeper of the Laidlaw Memorial Hall. Patrick (15th C.) listed in 1463/4 among the men who were rewarded by the King for assisting in the capture of John Douglas of Balveny, probably part of the force led by Scott of Buccleuch. He is recorded as ‘Patricius Smyth’. The other men were Scotts, Turnbulls, a Gledstains, a Langlands, a Dalgleish etc., and so he is probably also local. Peter (18th/19th C.) brother of Thomas (tenant of Hartshaugh Mill), he was factor to Elliot of Wolfelee. He was resident in Kirknowe in Hobkirk Parish in 1788 and 1790 when he had children baptised. He was also tenant of Kirknowe in 1797, when he owned 2 horses. In 1807 he bought the lands of Hobkirk Kirkstile (part of Kirknowe) and farmed there. He married and had at least 7 children: Peter (b.1788), who married Helen Scott; Isobel (b.1789); Betty (b.1790); Jane; Margaret (b.1797); Thomas (b.1798); and Walter (possibly b.1802), who emigrated to America. James was probably his child. Peter (b.1780) eldest son of Thomas and Mary Scott, ‘the Flooer o Rankleburn’. He farmed at Harwood Mill. He was probably the Peter at ‘Harrot’ who subscribed to 6 copies of William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He married Ellen Turnbull, whose sister Mary married his brother Archibald. They had a large family, including: Thomas (b.1801); Walter (b.1803); Peter (b.1804); Archibald (b.1806); Elizabeth (b.1808), who married J. Blake; Mary; Andrew (b.1812); William (b.1814); Mark (b.1815), who died at Lanton; Turnbull (1816–79), farm steward, who died at Hawick; Nelly (b.1818), who married W. Elliot; and Isobel (1821–1898), who died in Hawick. He is said to have been very strict in all things relating to religion. Peter (b.1788) eldest son of Peter, he was factor for James Elliot of Wolfelee in the early 1800s and lived at Kirknowe. In 1823 he married Helen Scott, one of the Scotts of Woodhouse and related to the Turnbulls who farmed at Spittal. Their children were: Isobel or Isabella (1824–49), who married Robert, son of Robert Stewart, farmer at Hawthornside; Peter (b.1827), who married Isobel Oliver; Betty (b.1830); John (b.1832); and Agnes Scott (b.1835). Peter (1804–86) son of Peter, who was the eldest son of Thomas. He became farmer at Harwood Mill, where he was born. In 1841 he was an agricultural labourer at Parkhead in Robertson Parish, in 1851 was at Hunthill and in 1861 he was farm steward at Greeneriver. His cousin Mary married Robert Purdom of Hawick. He himself married Elizabeth ‘Betty’ Ronaldson Dunlop in Coldstream. Their children were: Mary (b.c.1839); Peter (b.1841), who died at Jarrow-on-Tyne; Helen Turnbull (‘Ellen’, b.1843), who married A. Telfer; Williamsa (or Mina, b.1847), who married Sandbed baker John Young (and was mother-in-law of J.E.D. Murray); and Elizabeth (or Betsy, b.1852), who emigrated to Queensland. There is a story told of him encountering a ‘spunkie’ (i.e. ‘will-o’-the-wisp’) when riding past Mackside Demmings. He was active until a few years before his death, which occurred at Swanshiel. Peter (b.1825/6) toll-bar keeper at Deanbrae in 1851. His wife was Margaret and they had a daughter, Dorothy. Robert (16th C.) recorded in 1541 on a list of associates of James Douglas of Cavers when he complained about his farm of Whitriggs being burned by Walter Scott of Brauxholme. He was probably a tenant of Douglas of Cavers. He may be related to the two Thomases who were also listed. Robert (17th C.) Hawick Councillor who signed the 1640 ‘Act of Bailies and Council’. Robert (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded as a resident of Whitfield in 1751 and 1769. He was also farmer in Newton, in Wilton Parish. He is probably the Robert who witnessed a baptism for James Pott, resident of Borthaugh, in 1751. He was one of the founders of the secession church, which met in Hawick in 1763. He may be the Robert who is recorded as formerly being in possession of an enclosure that was part of Silverbuthall, according to the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. He married Alison Irvine (or ‘Irwin’) in 1748, the marriage being proclaimed in Wilton and Ancrum Parishes. Their children included: John (b.1749); Thomas (b.1751); Walter (b.1753); James (b.1755); Janet (b.1758); Nelly (b.1762); Robert (b.1764); and Thomas (again, b.1769). The witnesses in 1751 were James Dryden and Walter Scott. The witnesses in 1769 were James Scott (probably the farmer at Boonraw, who was also an Anti-Burgher) and Walter Irvine (who was surely related to his wife), the baptism carried out by Mr. Arnot, who had previously been connected with the Green Kirk in Hawick. Robert (18th C.) resident of Minto...
Robert (b.1809), who may have been a twin of William and died young. He is probably the 'T. Smith' whose mother is recorded dying in Hobkirk in 1815. Thomas. (18th/19th C.) from England, in 1789 he married Margaret Paterson in Roberton Parish. Their son Thomas (b.1790) was baptised in Roberton. Thomas. (18th/19th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish. His children included James (b.1795). Thomas P. (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Heronhna near Southfield. In 1797 he married 'Grizzle' (or Grizel) Tait, the marriage being recorded in both Kirkton and Wilton Parishes. They had 5 children: Sir Andrew (1797–1872), army surgeon and famous zoologist; Joan (b.1800); Barbara (b.1802); James (b.1804); and Agnes Anne (b.1807). All their children were baptised in Kirkton Parish. He may be the Thomas whose son James was baptised in Hobkirk Parish in 1810. Rev. Thomas (1828–1901) born at Powfoot in Dumfriesshire, son of John and Marion Murray. He was educated at Edinburgh University and licensed by Annan Presbytery. He was ordained as minister of Eves Kirk in 1853 and remained there until his death. In 1856 he married Margaret, daughter of William Sutherland Fraser, jeweller in Edinburgh. Their children were: Agnes (1857–1913), who married Alexander Simson from Melrose; and Marion (b.1860), who married James Calder, doctor in Jamaica. Thomas (b.1827/8) born in Cavers Parish, son of blacksmith James. He was a watchmaker on the Howegate (near the top of the east side), listed in the 1851 census and in Slater’s 1852 directory. His wife was Isabella. Thomas ‘Tom’ (b.1837) son of James and Elizabeth Henderson, and grandson of miller Thomas. He is recorded as a keen follower of the Jedforest Hunt in the latter part of the 19th century. He was tenant farmer at Tythehouse in Hobkirk Parish. He married a distant cousin, Mary Smith. Their children were: James Turnbull; Elizabeth; Thomas, who emigrated to Canada; and Peter Smith, who farmed at Coldtown. Thomas Aird (b.1854) son of William and Isabella Aird, who was sister of Thomas Aird. He was brought up at Bridgehaugh near Selkirk. He became tenant farmer at Kirkton and Bedrule, remaining at Bedrule 1898–1921. He was a keen hunter and said to be a heavy man, requiring specially bred horses. He had at least 3 children, Isabel, Jessie and William (who all followed the Jedforest Hunt when young). Thomas ‘Tom’ (19th C.) tenant farmer at Tythehouse. He was a keen supporter of the Jedforest Hunt. His eldest son was James. Thomas (b.c.1870) son of John James, who was born in Malta, and Isabella Morrison. Although born in County Durham, he grew up in Hawick, where his father was a handloom weaver and later publican. He also worked as a spirit merchant in Hawick. In 1901 he married Margaret, daughter of James Blaikie. Their son John James was born in Wilton in 1902. About 1907 he emigrated to Rainy River, Ontario, his wife coming later. Thomas ‘Tom’ (19th/20th C.) local bowler, who also laid out at least 30 greens, including the one for Wilton Bowling Club. Turnbull (1816–79) son of Peter and grandson of the first known Thomas of Rulewater. He was a farm steward, who died in Hawick.

William (b.c.1820) resident of Cavers Parish. He was probably brother of James, blacksmith in Hawick. He was probably the William got married in Kirkton in 1712 (with no wife’s name given). His children may have included Margaret (b.1713), Marion (b.1715), George (b.1721), John (b.1723), Helen (b.1726), Euphan (b.1729), Bessie (b.1731) and Jane (b.1735). William ‘Wull the Cutler’ (1766–c.1833) son of John and Betty ‘Chine’ and was related to the Hawick family that produced 2 Cornets in the 19th century. He was a wright by trade, making the first ‘spinning jennies’ in Hawick. He was known as a very snappy dresser in the late 18th century, and was particularly vain about his hair. He apparently took the first taste of the ‘Auld Brig gin’ (a keg of water) in the joke perpetrated on the exciseman by Wat Inglis. He took up fishing late in life. He is listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory as ‘cutler & basket maker’ on the High Street. He was nephew of Catherine Cheyne, who was long-time domestic servant of the Gledstains of Hillsieland; from her he gained possession of the ‘Gledstane Bible’, which he passed on to merchant Andrew Irvine. There is a portrait of him by Adam Brown – ‘Auld Cash and Tufty blithely trip, Lean Yeildie Gibson’s creel is full, Jamie Tamson and John the Dip Gang hand in hand wi’ Cutler Wull’ [HI]. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living in Denholm in 1715. There are several marriages in Cavers that could be his. William (b.c.1785) born in Oxnam Parish, son of John. He was probably brother of James, blacksmith in Hawick. He was a blacksmith in Denholm, listed on Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. He is also listed in 1835 as a joint proprietor in Denholm with William Barrie, hosier. He probably lived on Westside. His wife was Elizabeth Anandale, and their children included Catherine and Margaret. He may be the William, at Hayknowe, whose model plough (for which he won a premium at Kelso in 1848) was presented to the Museum in 1857. William (19th C.) perhaps born on the English side of the Border, he married Mary, daughter of William Laidlaw in Hobkirk Parish in 1827. Their children were: James; Joan; William; Helen (b.1829), who married William Stewart in Hawthornside; Thomas (b.1831); Anne (b.1833); and Mary (b.1836). His sister Mary married William Redpath, who worked at Weens. William (19th C.) blacksmith of Hawick, probably son of James. He is listed in the 1835 electoral William (1855–91) born in St. Fergus, Peterhead, son of a blacksmith. He studied at the Free Church College in Aberdeen and was ordained by the English Presbyterian Church in Scarborough. He then assisted at several churches, included Roberton. He came to Wolfe free Kirk to help while Rev. William Russell was ill in 1890. He was then inducted in 1891 (although some of the congregation objected that he was not himself in good enough health to take on the full task). He collapsed in the middle of his second sermon as minister and died about a month later, leaving a widow and young child. He married Agnes Shewan Kerr and their only child was John Kerr (b.1890). William (1893/4–1915) son of John and Annie Cowan, brother of Elliot and James. He became a calico designer in Manchester, but enlisted with the Territorials in Hawick, becoming a Corporal in the 1/4th K.O.S.B. He was was killed at Gallipoli in the disastrous offensive of 12th July 1915. His name is recorded on the Helles Memorial.

Smith (smith) n. nickname for Robert Simpson.

Smith an Telford’s (smith-an-tel-furdz) n. hosiery factory on Lothian Street. It consists of several parts of different height, built over a period of time in the early 20th century. One section has a mansard roof, a ‘modern movement’ roof, and there are windows on the curved corner where Lothian Street meets Allars Bank. Recently the building was used by Douglas, and then by an antique dealers.

the Smith Cairn (thu-smith-kärn) n. roadside cairn marking the birthplace of Sir Andrew Smith, on the right-hand side of the road beyond the Caa Knowe.

Smithfieldhaugh (smith-feeld-hawch) n. farmstead in Kirkton Parish, just south of Stobs Woodfoot, on the left-hand side of the road. It was formerly part of the farm of Turn and was already part of the estate of Elliott of Stobs in 1643. It was recorded as just ‘Smithsfield’ in 1708, when James Henderson was there. In 1788 it was recorded as ‘the remainder of Teourn or Turn’ and valued at £15 10s. It was home of the Mables in the 19th century. There were 2 separate families living here until about the early 1900s (it is ‘Smithfield-haugh’ in 1788).

Smithie fri Soothfield (smi-thee-fri-sooth-feeld) n. local nickname for Sir Andrew Smith. smitit (smi-‘ee’, -i’) pp., poet. smitten – ‘For the enemie has smitit my liffe doun til the grund: he has smitit my liffe doun til the grund’...’ [HSR]. smittle (smi-tul) adj., arch., poet. infectious –‘I’ll ken I’m auld when laddies’ smittle laughther Stirs na an echo in my cauldriﬀe hert’ [WL], ‘...and that she’ll just hev to thole, and hope it wadna be smittal’ [DH] (also written ‘smittl’ and ‘smitttal’; noted by E.C. Smith).

smizzle (smi-zul) v., arch. to drizzle –‘It’s smizz- lin’ on o’ rain’ [GW] (probably from ‘it’s mizz- lin’).

smoch (smoch) v., arch. to emit stifling smoke, n., arch. thick, stifling smoke, such as from burning rotten wood.

smoker (smo-kur) n. an informal social gathering, usually for men; it is less formal (and with less dinner) than a ‘dinner’.

the Smoker (tho-smo-kur) n. specific social gathering with entertainment, often referring to the congratulatory smoker held for the Cornet-elect on Picking night. This is recorded as happening after the Tuesday night Picking of the Cornet in 1888, but may have happened from much earlier times. The Callants’ Club have organised this event since 1904. There are speeches and songs and the Cornet is presented with his badge.

The term is also used to refer to other smokers.

smokit (smo-kee’, -ki’) pp. smoked – ‘...twae-threi bleithe-leike fallilhs i glarry moleskins smoket their claey peipes, tho their chafts threi bleithe-leike fallihs i glarry moleskins’ [ECS].

smowe see smuil

smook (smook) v., arch. to smoke (cf. smuik).

smoor (smoor) v., arch. to smother, suffocate – ‘...It smooered the muckle Eildons And blanketed the Smoker’s es-em-tee n. Scottish Motor Traction Company, which took over the main Hawick coach routes from Border Motor Transport about 1930, and ran bus service for about 50 years. After deregulation of bus service, the name of the operator (and the quality of service) changed several times. The offices were in Oliver Place and the main bus depot was in Dovecot Street, which closed in the 1980s.

smudge (smuj) v., arch. to laugh in a suppressed way, laugh to oneself, smirk – ‘Then with new keenness wad they caper, He slyly smudg’d to see them vapor ...’ [CPM], ‘...stil Buffin an smudgin inti eis sol’ [ECS], n., arch. a suppressed laugh – ‘Loth. Roxb. Clydes. often ‘a smudge o’ a laugh’’ [JoJ].

smuggle (smu-gul) v., arch. to carry by concealment in a ‘Baa’ game, to dispose of the ‘geg’ in a boy’s game, n., arch. a scrimmage in handball in which the ball is concealed in order to try to ‘hail’ it.

smuggle-the-geg (smu-gul-thu-geg) n., arch. a game formerly played by boys in which an agreed upon article (the ‘geg’) is concealed by one team, the other team trying to find the boy who has the article.

smugglin (smu-glin, -gu-lin) n. smuggling, the trade in goods without paying duties. This was rampant in the Hawick area in the 17th and 18th centuries and on into the 19th. Before the Union, the difference in duties meant that salt, skins and malt were smuggled into England, and wool smuggled into Scotland. In the 18th and early 19th centuries there was a brisk local business in smuggling whisky south of the Border, because of the large difference in duties. This was particularly after the increase on whisky duty in 1799. The favourite source of goods locally was from Capt. Daniel Fleury, who would land his boat at Boulmer in Northumberland, from where ‘Boomers’ would secretly carry goods over the Border. There was also a vigorous trade in black market salt, again encouraged by increased taxation. Smugglers were pursued by the excise officers. In the 18th century there was a collector, 2 supervisors and 18 officers in Teviotdale, and by the 19th century there were 28 mounted Revenue Officers employed in Roxburghshire. In 1836 the minister of Hobkirk records that ‘smuggling and illicit distilling are not now practised’.

smuik (smuik, smuk) n., arch. smoke, fumes, v., arch. to smoke, emit fumes – ‘The mill chim- lih smuiks leike a killogie’ [ECS], to fumigate, suffocate with smoke – ‘Thay’ve been ti smuik the hoose efter the fivver (fever)’ [ECS], particularly to smoke out insects – ‘To Smook, Smuik, To suffocate by means of sulphur; a term applied to the barbarous mode of destroying bees in order to gain their honey; or, as it is expressed, to ‘put them doun’, Teviotd.’ [JoJ], ‘Whan div ee smuik the beis?’ [ECS] (also smook).

smuiky (smu-kee’, -koo-kee) adj., arch. smoky, fumy.

smuil (smuil, smool) v., arch. to smuggle, nestle – ...smuillin-in laeuch at the brae-fit, little Bosells beekeet i the sun’ [ECS].
smuir (smuir, smir) v., arch. to smother, suffocate, be stifled ‘...along streets chowky wui cluds o shairny stoan an smuirrin reek’ [ECS] (also smoor).

smuist (smiust, smist, smoost) n., arch. a smouldering, fumes, choking smoke, bad smell – ‘...mang reekin lums an chowkin smuists’ [ECS], ‘...and in summer, when the smuists are worst an the pluffin ter froes up ateen the causstanes’ [ECS].

smuisterin (smi-s-ter-in) n., arch. pres. part., arch. sitting close to the fire in a sleepy or brooding way.

smush (smush) n. anything broken into small pieces, something reduced to powder or mush – ‘Gone to smush, reduced to a crumbled state, like potatoes too much boiled, &c. Roxb.’ [JoJ], coal dross, coal dust (often damp) used to back-up a fire – ‘Everything got burned then, Smush, wee wetted doom’ [AY], small amounts of change – ‘can A pay eet oot o this smoosh’?, v., arch. to break into small pieces, smash, reduce to mush or dust, to eat furtively – ‘To Smush, To devour any thing clandestinely, which has been come by in an improper manner, Roxb.’ [JoJ].

smushy (smu-shee) adj., arch. broken into small pieces – ‘Smushy coal’ [GW].

snaa see sna b
snab (snawb) n., arch. a cobbler, shoemaker.

snab (snawb) n., arch. a rugged rise, rocky slope, steep ascent (Coldwell Snab is near Hermitage Castle).

Snaberlee (snä-bur-lee) n. area just to the east of where the Hermitage Water joins the Liddel, marked as ‘Snaberlee Rig’ on modern Ordnance Survey maps. There was formerly a small thatched cottage at Snaberlee Brae, inhabited by a lone woman until the late 19th century. In the early 1750s this was the site of open air sermons as part of the Secession movement in this parish. The farm was acquired by William Manderson from the Laird of Whitaugh and in 1811 valued at £23 8s (the origin of the name is probably from the Old Norse personal name ‘Snaubjorn’; it occurs as ‘Snabirly’ on Blaeu’s 1662 map and is ‘Snaberly’ on Stobie’s 1770 map; it is ‘Snaberlie’ in 1665, ‘Snaberlie’ in 1666 and ‘Snaberly’ in 1811).

Snaberlee Sike (snä-bur-lee-sik) n. small stream in Liddesdale, rising on Snaberlee Rig and joining the Liddel just to the south of Leaugha Cottage.

snack (snak) v., arch. to snap with the teeth, bite – ‘May ye ne’er want a freen’, gin need Should show his ganchin, snackin head’ [JoHa], ‘...wui nurrin teikes snackin an yowfin an boochin’ [ECS].

Snadden (sna-din) n. Rev. James (1854–1934) from Lochgelly, he was ordained as minister of Newcastleton United Presbyterian (the ‘Toonfit’) Kirk in 1880. In the 1890s he had a dispute against the Duke of Buccleuch at the treatment of his parishioners. He wrote a history of Liddesdale and served as a Councillor. He served his congregation for 49 years, retiring in 1929. His son was Sir William McNair Snadden, who was an M.P. for Kinross and West Perthshire and was created a Baronet.

snake (snäk) n., arch. a slug, especially a large grey garden slug.

snapper (sna-pur) v., poet. to stumble, trip – ‘And if some glakit girl shou’d snapper, He’d gi’ a wink. Fir lads, quoth he, had aff, ne’er stap her, She wants a drink’ [CPM].

sna b
snaw (snaw) n. snow – ‘Snaaw, snow, come away and let us have a holiday’ [T], ‘The hills are white wi’ snow, And the frosty winds blaw’ [JTe], ‘When winter’s wild wi’ sudden thaws, Hush’d frae the hills the melted snows ...’ [AD], ‘...Mang the sunshine or the snow’ [TK], ‘On Afric’s sand or Greenland’s snow Ye’ll meet a kindly Teri’ [RH], ‘...Mountain peaks and passes, where Lies the never-meltin’ snow’ [TK], ‘...wasch me, an’ I sall be whiter nor the snow’ [HSR], ‘He gies snaw like woo’, he skatters the haar-frost like assis’ [HSR], ‘Black, broon, and snaw-white tail, Chargin’ the Knights in mail’ [JEDM], ‘The love o’ a sister Is pure as the snaw; But the love o’ a mother Is better than a!’ [MNR], ‘The parks are ribbed wi’ pure as the snaw And the hills are derk wi’ rain’ [DH], the phrase ‘like snaw off a dyke’ means disappearing very quickly – ‘...ti gar aa the trauchles an the fashes gang leike the snaw off the deike in a thowe’ [ECS], ‘...melted snaw And the hills are derrk wi’ rain’ [DH], a snowfall – ‘We hed mony haws { and nae snaws, Nae yowdendrifts or snawplough drifts Or ocht to girn aboot But a pickle rain!’ [DH], the phrase ‘like snow off a dyke’ means disappearing very quickly – ‘...ti gar aa the trauchles an the fashes gang leike the snaw off the deike in a thowe’ [ECS].

snaaw b
snaw-brui (snaw-bruí) n., arch. melted snow, particularly carried down in a river, slush – ‘The snaw-brui’s strampeet inti a caoldbroom platch’ [ECS].

snawdrop (snaw-drop) n. snowdrop – ‘The snowdrop only, lifts its timorous heid ...’ [WL], ‘The snowdrops may in Branxholme woods Nod promised spring again ...’ [DH].

snaaw-fot (snaw-fó) n., arch. a footless stocking, used like spats in inclement weather.
sneaky (sney-ki) adj. (sneaky-ness) n. -y -ier -iest
- sly, crafty, underhanded, deceitful, cunning, duplicitous
- sneaky's no use, 'tis nae blakc in the kainch' [IWL], ` sustained to pin, to prude
- sneaky - the man's a neeber of yin an' oot, weel below the ears' [IWL], `a misuse of the ear' [ECS].
- sneaky - was a snib, aff - yinch in the heid off a wur, hea'[GW]
- sneaky - a brainch' [GW] (cf. sned).

snib (sni) n. - a latch on a window or door - make shair the snib's shut right' [GW], `
- a snib - 'tis nae blakc in the kainch' [IWL], `a misuse of the ear' [ECS].
snib

snibbed fri the inside' (generally Scottish; possibly from Low German).

snib  (snib) n., v. snub, slight, rebuke (noted by E.C. Smith).

snibbit  (sni-bi’, -bi’) pp., arch. snubbed, rebuked – ‘Thou hast snibbit the proud that ar curset …’ [HSR], cut short, smitten – ‘My hair is snibbit an’ wuthiret like gerse, sae that I forget til eet my breez’ [HSR].

snibbit  (sni-bi’) n., arch. a wooden catch at the end of a tether, a toggle – ‘Snibbit. snibble, snibbelt, A wooden knob put on one end of a rope, which goes into an eye on the other end, for fastening it; used for retaining a tether, Roxb.’ [JoJ].

sniblich  (snib-lich) n., arch. a collar made of plaited rushes, used for binding a cow to a stake (noted ‘in former times’ by J. Jamieson).

snifter  (snift-tur) n., arch. a sniff, a shock, rebuff, check, quarrel, snub – ‘We gae them a snifter, an roun’ aye for roun’ We’ the axe o’ King Bruce, and the Sword o’ Rob Roy’ [HSR], a sudden reversal of fortune – ‘But, Monseer, ye’d better no come here awa, Lest ye meet with a snifter ye’ll no like ava’ [JoHo].

snifty  (snif-tee) adj., arch. haughty, snooty.

snipe  (snip) n., arch. a smart blow, strike, fillip, v., arch. to strike (usually applied to a person; also written ‘snype’).

snipy-nebbit  (sni-pee-ne-bee’, -bi’) adj., arch. snub-nosed, having a short and turned-up nose.

snirk  (snirk) v., arch. to snort, snigger – ‘The Nine-stanes, his kimmers, Can snirk at his game, But Cauldcluch and Gritmuir Think black-burnan shame’ [DH], ‘pretend fowk gaed-on … dirlin’ – ‘a snore’ [ECS] (cf. snooker).

snirt  (snir’) n., arch. a snarl, v. to snort, sniff contemptuously.

snod  (snöd) adj., poet. trim, neat, level, smooth – ‘There was a snod bit leikely-leike eateen-hoose, nerr bye …’ [ECS], ‘And the gowd it cam in gow-pens To set it braw and snod’ [WL].

snodge  (snoj) v., arch. to stroll, plod, walk deliberately – ‘Bit the buirdly Borderer snodged on a guid yin, an on A pouled ahint um at the same jock-trot!’ [ECS], ‘…for snodgin on, A wad aye geet seen the better about iz’ [ECS], ‘On A snogged, burdalane’ [ECS].

snodly  (snod-lee) adj., poet. neatly, evenly – ‘Thy teeth ar als ane hirsel o’ sheepe that ar snoddie clippet …’ [HSR] (also written ‘snodlie’).

snoot  (snoo’, snoot) n., arch. a snout – ‘…the peak of a cap, whence a cap (a callant’s bonnet) is often designated, slangwise, ‘a snout’’ [ECS], ‘…Haste ye back and joy be wi’ ye – Mind the bull-snoots as ye gang!’ [WL].

the Snot  (thu-snoo’) n. area of the Borthwick around the Snot Church, so-called from the nose-like feature of the river enclosing the area on 3 sides. Also the familiar name for the youth hostel that was set up in the old church – ‘Owre at the Snot, the sun gaed doun As that bedraggled hiker Was wringin’ oot his socks and sark Wi’ wry thochts o’ the dyker!’ [WL] (also sometimes written ‘Snout’).

the Snot Kirk  (thu-snoo’-kirk) n. small former church in the Borthwick valley, built shortly after the Disruption of 1843 as Robertson Free Church. The dissenting congregation first held meetings in the joiner’s yard at Deanburnhaugh, before being given the ground at Parkhillhaugh by John Chisholme, with the church being built very quickly. It was reached from the main road via a footbridge. By 1852 the declining rural population meant that the church was reduced to a preaching station; it picked up again later, but always had a struggling existence. It switched from Selkirk Presbytery to Jedburgh Presbytery in 1880. The building was renovated in 1908/9, when a vestry was also built. It continued to be used as a church until 1927, and the congregation formally merged with Robertson Kirk in 1930. The land reverted to the Chisholme estate and was gifted to the Scottish Youth Hostel Association by Mr. Bruce of Chisholme in 1935. It was then used by the Youth Hostel Association, particularly as a pony trekking centre. The building succumbed to dry rot in the mid-1990s. A roll of the ministers is: John Dow 1845–52; James Logan around 1860; Thomas W. Paterson 1889–1900; Alexander Cameron 1906–11; David Brunton 1912–25.

snoove  (snoov) v., arch. to move along slowly, walk idly and steadily – ‘The folk frae Hatternside were in twenty minutes sin’, the folk frae Drinkstone fifteen minutes sin’, and here’s oor neebor . . . comin’ snoovin’ in late as usual!’ [RM] (see also snoive).

snork (snörk) v., arch. to snort, clear the nose noisily, emit explosive sounds – ‘Let snorkin’ sufferers please theirsells In makin’ midden o’ their bills’ [JoHa], ‘. . . a muckle great big hivvy motor-laarrrie – a perfect killogie for reek – cam snorkin an dunnerin bye’ [ECS].

snot (sno’t) v., arch. to snuff a candle – ‘Snot that candl; it’s aa gaun ti creesh’ [ECS].

snotter (sno’ur) n. snout, nasal mucus, particularly when hanging from the nose – ‘the horse blew its snotters aa ower her face’ (usually plural).

snottery (sno’ur-ee) adj. snotty – ‘that bairn aye hes a snottery nose’.

snottie (sno’-ee) n., arch. a dolt, dunce, contemptible person.

Snowden (snō-din) n. William (b.1828/9) from Northumberland, he was farmer at Mains in Castleton Parish, recorded in 1861 and 1868. His wife was Jane.

snowk (snowk) v., arch. to sniff, smell, snuff, scent out, poke with the nose – ‘A dog snowkin’ in an assbucket’ [GW], ‘Snowkin efter a’ that’s gaun’ [??], ‘. . . an auld herd wui a maud an, an a nibbie in eis neeve; an a snowkin collie!’ [ECS] (also written ‘snouk’, this is ‘snoke’ or ‘snook’ elsewhere).

snowker (snow-kur) n., arch. a smeller, someone who sniffs at things like a dog, a worthless person, profligate.

snowkit (snow-kee’, -ki’) pp., arch. sniffed, poked with the nose – ‘He snoukit up his barrel snoute, And gave a fearful banne’ [JTe].

snuff (snuf) n., arch. a small amount of something – ‘. . . a snuff o’ saut’ [RM].

the Snuffin (thu-snu-fin) n. ceremony taking place at the Kirkstile, near the site of the western end of the Auld Brig, early on the Friday morning of the Common Riding. Snuff is dispensed to the waiting crowd, harkening back to an old social custom of passing round the snuff box during some convenient halt in any proceedings. There is also a more fanciful story told that when the band returned from Hornshole in 1514 they found an old man partaking of snuff on the Auld Brig (long before tobacco came to the old world!). Formerly the ceremony took place on the Thursday evening on the Auld Brig, and was simply a private habit indulged in by the Burgh Officers and band members. It slowly became an accepted part of the traditions. After the Auld Brig was demolished in 1851 it was discontinued for several years, but subsequently restarted through the efforts of William Norman Kennedy, who provided a horn mull. The Thursday evening ceremony ceased in the 1870s. In 1881 the ceremony is recorded involving ‘many hundreds’. The ceremony was again revived by the Ceremonial Committee in 1887, when the sons of W.N. Kennedy undertook to again be at the Snuffing with their father’s horn mull. George O. Murray also provided a horn mull in 1889, or possibly just the snuff. Since those days the Snuffing has grown in popularity, was extended to the Friday morning, and now is restricted to the Friday morning only. The original horn mull is still in use. Since 1921 the song-singer has been in charge of distributing loose snuff from the horn, in a melee at the Kirkstile, protected by two bodyguards! This happens when the Drums and Fifes reach the site of the Auld Brig, shortly after 6 a.m. After the Song Singer reaches the Tower Knowe he throws small packets of snuff down from a window to the people below; these packets are highly sought after, even although the taking of snuff is now a thing of the past. It is traditional for the crowds to disperse to nearby hostelries for rum and milk refreshments afterwards. There is a short film clip showing the Snuffing of 1905 and others in 1929, 1932, 1933, 1934 and 1937 – ‘It was mubble a meelee ootseide the shop itsel was leike the snuffin at the Commin Ridin!’ [HEX1966], ‘At Snuffin’ when ee hear the drum Efter ee’ve hed milk an rum Want ti laugh, want ti greet, Want ti be nimble on eer feet’ [MB].

Snuffy (snu-fee) n. nickname of James Marchbanks.

snuffy-nebbit (snu-fee-ne-bee’) adj., arch. huffy, easily offended, having a penchant for taking snuff (in [JoHo]).

snug (snug) adj., poet. smooth, sleek, trim – ‘. . . Aye snuglike an’ tastefae an’ neat’ [WAP].

snuil (snil, snil) n., arch. a snivelling person, idler, v. to snivel, speak nasally.

snuive (snu-vie) v., arch. to move along slowly, walk idly but steadily, stroll, glide – ‘. . . A snuived steevely on about therty yirds ahint un’ [ECS], ‘I mittch as weel be bogs an’ sykes For a’ ye see. Ye snuive along like weary tykes Ignorin’ me’ [WP] (formerly pronounced with a deep vowel containing elements of i and æ; see also snoove).

snuvie (snu-vie) n., arch. someone who ‘snuives’, a slowcoach, a dim-wit.
snurkle

snurkle (snur-kul) v., arch. to tangle, run into knots in thread, to become wrinkled or shrivelled – ‘My riggit ribs, where snurk’lt skin is fatit To lanely hing where flesh could stay nae langer’ [JoHa]. ‘Ma kid gloves snurk’lt wi’ the wesen’[GW], to cause to shrivel.

snurl (snur-rol) v., arch. to tangle, snarl (of thread).

so (sō) adv., interj. so, likewise, well then, indeed, in order that – ‘so was A’, ‘So, what div ee hink?’, ‘A slowed doon so ee could catch is up’, used emphatically, particularly as an affirmative against an emphatic negative – ‘Ee er not! A em so!’ (used in some contexts, e.g. at the beginnings of phrases, rather than the more common si, or the less common sae).

soad (sōd) n. sod, a piece of turf used ceremonially to mark delivery of land in a sasine, turf used for marking a boundary – ‘...did throw up or lay on soads or new pieces of earth on their antient meiths and marches of the said Commony ...’ [BR1734], a piece of turf cut and dried for fuel or for use as a rooﬁng material – ‘These are to give notice to all Burgesses within the Burgh of Hawick that they are discharged from casting dry land soads of any part of the Commony ...’ [BR1816] (see also divot).

soakeet see soakit

soakie (sō-kee) n., arch. plump and weighty – “A soakie lassie’, a plump sweet girl’ [JoJ].

soappin-wat (sō-pin-waw’) adj., arch. sopping-wet, soaked – ‘...a chaamp that turns foats an cuittiekins soappin-wat an lauchs at tacketty wett, soaked { ‘Sockin-hour, The portion of time between daylight and candle light, Teviotd. This is also called Gloamin-shot’ [JoJ].

soad (sōd) n. sod, a piece of turf used ceremonially to mark delivery of land in a sasine, turf used for marking a boundary – ‘...did throw up or lay on soads or new pieces of earth on their antient meiths and marches of the said Commony ...’ [BR1734], a piece of turf cut and dried for fuel or for use as a rooﬁng material – ‘These are to give notice to all Burgesses within the Burgh of Hawick that they are discharged from casting dry land soads of any part of the Commony ...’ [BR1816] (see also divot).

soakeet see soakit

soakie (sō-kee) n., arch. plump and weighty – “A soakie lassie’, a plump sweet girl’ [JoJ].

soappin-wat (sō-pin-waw’) adj., arch. sopping-wet, soaked – ‘...a chaamp that turns foats an cuittiekins soappin-wat an lauchs at tacketty wett, soaked { ‘Sockin-hour, The portion of time between daylight and candle light, Teviotd. This is also called Gloamin-shot’ [JoJ].

soad (sōd) n. sod, a piece of turf used ceremonially to mark delivery of land in a sasine, turf used for marking a boundary – ‘...did throw up or lay on soads or new pieces of earth on their antient meiths and marches of the said Commony ...’ [BR1734], a piece of turf cut and dried for fuel or for use as a rooﬁng material – ‘These are to give notice to all Burgesses within the Burgh of Hawick that they are discharged from casting dry land soads of any part of the Commony ...’ [BR1816] (see also divot).

snurkle

snurkle (snur-kul) v., arch. to tangle, run into knots in thread, to become wrinkled or shrivelled – ‘My riggit ribs, where snurk’lt skin is fatit To lanely hing where flesh could stay nae langer’ [JoHa]. ‘Ma kid gloves snurk’lt wi’ the wesen’[GW], to cause to shrivel.

so (sō) adv., interj. so, likewise, well then, indeed, in order that – ‘so was A’, ‘So, what div ee hink?’, ‘A slowed doon so ee could catch is up’, used emphatically, particularly as an affirmative against an emphatic negative – ‘Ee er not! A em so!’ (used in some contexts, e.g. at the beginnings of phrases, rather than the more common si, or the less common sae).

soad (sōd) n. sod, a piece of turf used ceremonially to mark delivery of land in a sasine, turf used for marking a boundary – ‘...did throw up or lay on soads or new pieces of earth on their antient meiths and marches of the said Commony ...’ [BR1734], a piece of turf cut and dried for fuel or for use as a rooﬁng material – ‘These are to give notice to all Burgesses within the Burgh of Hawick that they are discharged from casting dry land soads of any part of the Commony ...’ [BR1816] (see also divot).

soakeet see soakit

soakie (sō-kee) n., arch. plump and weighty – “A soakie lassie’, a plump sweet girl’ [JoJ].

soappin-wat (sō-pin-waw’) adj., arch. sopping-wet, soaked – ‘...a chaamp that turns foats an cuittiekins soappin-wat an lauchs at tacketty wett, soaked { ‘Sockin-hour, The portion of time between daylight and candle light, Teviotd. This is also called Gloamin-shot’ [JoJ].

soda (sō-du) n. Hawick has had several small-scale manufacturers of ‘aerated waters’. There was one at the foot of the Kirk Wynd, on a site which had previously been house and onestead of the Aitkens, who were ‘Hilliesland Lairds’ – ‘Life’s joys er like bottles o’ soda ...’ [RM].

the Society of Arts (thu-su-sl-l’-ce-ō-ārts) n. the Society of Arts, a local organisation of the 1820s that ran a library.

society for the Supression o Beggin (su-sl-l’-for-thu-su-pre-shin-ō-be-gin) n. common name for the Association for the Purpose of Supressing Public Begging in the Town of Hawick. It was set up in 1822 to try to solve the problem of itinerant beggars. The association distributed funds and posted notices to discourage begging. Robert Wilson (‘Lurgie’) was in charge of distributing the funds.

the Society in Scotland for Propagatin Christian Knowledge (thu-su-sl-l’-in-sko-lind-for-pro-pa-gā’in-kris-tyin-no-leej) n. former organisation, established in 1709 to establish schools in remote areas of Scotland. This was mainly in the Highlands and Islands, but they also set up a school at Caerlenrig in 1755, as well as another near Langholm. They removed their support for the Caerlenrig school from about 1767, possibly because it was self-supporting by then.

the Society o Airts (thu-su-sl-l’-ce-ō-ārts) n. the Society of Arts, a local organisation of the 1820s that ran a library.

sock (sok) n., arch. a ploughshare – ‘Well, we had special socks for the ley, an couters for the ley, an when ye gaed on tae stubble, ye used the bigger rougher type’ [TH].

sock-mandrill (sok-man-dril) n., arch. a ploughshare facsimile, cast in metal (noted by J. Jamieson).

sockin-oor (so-kin-oor) n., arch. relaxation time after work and before the lamps were lit at night – ‘Sockin-hour, The portion of time between daylight and candle light, Teviotd. This is also called Gloamin-shot’ [JoJ].

soda (sō-du) n. Hawick has had several small-scale manufacturers of ‘aerated waters’. There was one at the foot of the Kirk Wynd, on a site which had previously been house and onestead of the Aitkens, who were ‘Hilliesland Lairds’ – ‘Life’s joys er like bottles o’ soda ...’ [RM].

the Society in Scotland for Propagatin Christian Knowledge (thu-su-sl-l’-in-sko-lind-for-pro-pa-gā’in-kris-tyin-no-leej) n. former organisation, established in 1709 to establish schools in remote areas of Scotland. This was mainly in the Highlands and Islands, but they also set up a school at Caerlenrig in 1755, as well as another near Langholm. They removed their support for the Caerlenrig school from about 1767, possibly because it was self-supporting by then.

society for the Supression o Beggin (su-sl-l’-for-thu-su-pre-shin-ō-be-gin) n. common name for the Association for the Purpose of Supressing Public Begging in the Town of Hawick. It was set up in 1822 to try to solve the problem of itinerant beggars. The association distributed funds and posted notices to discourage begging. Robert Wilson (‘Lurgie’) was in charge of distributing the funds.

the Society o Airts (thu-su-sl-l’-ce-ō-ārts) n. the Society of Arts, a local organisation of the 1820s that ran a library.

sock (sok) n., arch. a ploughshare – ‘Well, we had special socks for the ley, an couters for the ley, an when ye gaed on tae stubble, ye used the bigger rougher type’ [TH].

sock-mandrill (sok-man-dril) n., arch. a ploughshare facsimile, cast in metal (noted by J. Jamieson).

sockin-oor (so-kin-oor) n., arch. relaxation time after work and before the lamps were lit at night – ‘Sockin-hour, The portion of time between daylight and candle light, Teviotd. This is also called Gloamin-shot’ [JoJ].

soda (sō-du) n. Hawick has had several small-scale manufacturers of ‘aerated waters’. There was one at the foot of the Kirk Wynd, on a site which had previously been house and onestead of the Aitkens, who were ‘Hilliesland Lairds’ – ‘Life’s joys er like bottles o’ soda ...’ [RM].

the Society in Scotland for Propagatin Christian Knowledge (thu-su-sl-l’-in-sko-lind-for-pro-pa-gā’in-kris-tyin-no-leej) n. former organisation, established in 1709 to establish schools in remote areas of Scotland. This was mainly in the Highlands and Islands, but they also set up a school at Caerlenrig in 1755, as well as another near Langholm. They removed their support for the Caerlenrig school from about 1767, possibly because it was self-supporting by then.

the Society of Arts (thu-su-sl-l’-ce-ō-ārts) n. the Society of Arts, a local organisation of the 1820s that ran a library.
sodger’s buttons
sodgers’ [JRE], ‘...A sodger, sure as licht makes day, – I saw his dagger’ [WP], ‘And I’ve aye had a feeling that yon sodger Was wonderin what it had a’ been aboot’ [DH] (also spelled ‘sojer’; see also soldier).
sodger’s buttons (so-jurz-bu’-inz) n., pl., arch. the flower-head of the burdock, Arctium Lappa (named because of how it sticks to clothing).
sodgerin (so-jur-in, -een) n. soldiering, the state of being a soldier – ‘The sodgereen’s a hantle different be the clerken’ [ECS].
soft (soft) adj. soft, silly, simple-minded, half-witted, foolish – ‘he’s soft in the heid’ (also saft and sit soft).

the Soft Lowland Tongue (thu-soft-lö-lind-tung) n. song from Peebles that is popular in Hawick and throughout the Borders, written by William Sanderson, also known as ‘Tweedside Laddie’, when?? . The song has been recorded many times, including by the Alexander Brothers, Moira Anderson, Valerie Dunbar, the K.O.S.B. band, Jackie Leven, Jimmy Shand and William Williamson.

Soh-Doh Smith (sō-dō-smith) n. nickname for a High School teacher of the mid-to-late 20th century.

soilzie (soil-yee) n., arch. the lands of an estate, particularly the farmable land – ...tenandry of lande of Hardenwood with the pertinents lyande within the soyleze of Borthwickeillis and in the barony of Chawmerlayne-newtone til my luffit frende Andro Kere lord of Awtunburne ...’. [DoR1445] (there are many spelling variants).

soiree see swaree
sojer see sodger sole (söl) n., arch. the sill of a window (cf. Wullie on the Wundi Sole). sole (söl) n., arch. an oval potato basket (noted in Liddesdale by J. Jamieson).

Solomon (so-lo-min) n. nickname of a native of Kirkcaldy who used to sell gingerbreads at fairs and Common Ridings in the mid-19th century, and was noted for his loud patter.

Soltracroft (sol-tra-kroft) n. another name for Trinitylands, recorded in a charter of Trinity Collegiate Church in 1557 and another lease of 1565/6.

Soltre see Soutra

the Solway (thu-sol-wa) n. Solway Firth, the estuary far to the west, which represents the Border between Scotland and England. It is fed by many rivers and streams, including the Liddel – ‘...Was neither the scream of the grey sea-mew seeking the Solway, nor yet the cry of the restless whaup as it circled by’. [WHO].

Solway Moss (sol-wi-mos) n. level, boggy area between Longtown and Gretna. It was the site of a battle in 1542, where the English army under Sir Thomas Wharton routed the much larger Scottish army. Only a small number of men were killed, with many Scots (including the Borderers apparently) surrendering to the English, and some drowning in flight. It is said that this defeat contributed to the death of James V. somebit (sum-bi’) n. somewhere – ‘The hawkers hev teh gaun somebit teh camp’ [HEx1947].

somegate (sum-gä’, -ät) pron., arch. somewhere.

some’in (su-min) pron. something – ‘was eet some’in A said?’; ‘A’ll gie some’in ti greet aboot!’ (also spelled ‘some-in’ etc.).

Somervel see Somerville

Somerville (su-nur-vil) n. Alexander (18th/19th C.) tenant farmer at Lees in Wilton Parish. He married Janet Anderson in 1811 and their children include: William (b.1813); and James (b.1816). The 1813 baptism was witnessed by James Somerville, Nanny Thomson and Nanny Mein. Euphemia nee Eckford (d.1928) daughter of Hawick grocer John Eckford, she married George, who was a cousin of Sir James A.H. Murray. She lived in Denholm and bequeathed money, which was used to purchase property, including buildings around the arch on Sunnyside, where she had lived. It was hoped that rental would maintain the Somerville Trust, which supplied a nurse for Denholm, but eventually the moneys dwindled and the properties were sold. Hugh (17th/18th C.) ‘agent’ who witnessed a baptism for John Ekron in 1721. Mary nee Fairfax (1780–1872) daughter of Sir William Fairfax (one of Nelson’s Captains), she was born in the Manse at Jedburgh, home of her mother’s sister Martha Charters and Rev. Thomas Somerville. In 1804 she married a naval officer, Samuel Greig (Russian Consul for Britain, whose father had been the man who had brought Hobkirk’s Adam Armstrong to Russia), who was a distant cousin; he died 3 years later. She was in Jedburgh on the evening of the False Alarm of 1804. She had a telescope made by James Veitch of Inchbonny, was well acquainted with Sir David Brewster and also got to know Sir Walter Scott. In 1812 she secondly married her cousin William Somerville (1771–1860), eldest son of Dr. Thos., who was physician to Chelsea Hospital. Despite only 1 year of formal education, she educated herself at the family’s Burntisland home and became a mathematician and science writer. In fact she has the distinction of being the first person to whom the word ‘scientist’ was applied, in 1834 in a review of her book ‘On the Connexion of the Physical Sciences’. She translated and annotated Laplace’s work, hypothesized a planet perturbing the orbit of Uranus (which led to the discovery of Neptune), and wrote a popular school geography textbook. She was elected to the Royal Astronomical Society and received many other honours. She spent most of the time from 1838 living in Italy. She was a great supporter of women’s education, and Somerville College, Oxford was named after her. She also has an asteroid and lunar crater named in her honour. A history of her life was written by her daughter Martha. She is buried in Naples. Her children were: Woron-zow Grieg (1805–65), a barrister; William George Grieg (1806–14); Margaret Farquhar Somerville (1813–23); Thomas Somerville (1814–15); Martha Charters Somerville (1815–79); and Mary Charlotte Somerville (1817–75). Robert (16th/17th C.) recorded ‘in ye Midle’ in 1623, when Thomas Hood in Ancrum was accused of stealing 2 cows 7 years earlier from him. This was from lands at ‘Plasadge’ in England, the cattle belonging to him and Walter Scott of Todrig. It is unclear if he was tenant in Middle in Cavers Parish or elsewhere. Rev. Thomas S. (d.bef. 1710) minister of Cavers. He was son of James, who was second son of Sir James of Cambusnethan. He studied at St. Salvator’s College and St. Andrews University, where he graduated in 1666. He was presented to Cavers in 1674 and ordained there in the following year. It is recorded that the Pres-bystery had to swear him in at the ‘kirk-stile’, since the church and churchyard were locked up and no keys were to be had from the house of Sir William Douglas of Cavers. The Presbytery were also met by a number of women in the churchyard bearing stones, which they threatened to throw, and called them ‘soul murderers and the devil’s servants’. Given the Covenanting support in Cavers Parish, it is clear that the new Episcopalian minister was not popular! In 1689 he refused to pray for William and Mary and read the Proclamation of the Estates (i.e. refused to embrace the return to Presbyterianism), but he may have continued as minister until 1693 (precisely what the arrangement was is unclear, since there was great confusion after the Revolution). He then moved to Hawick, where he continued to preach (probably in his own lodgings) to some adherents of Episcopalianism and the exiled James II. This group included members of the Gledstains and Chisholm families. Baptisms are recorded by him in Hawick in 1694 and 1697. He was listed as ‘Mr Tho.
Sumervall’, living on the west-side of Hawick, on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. He is said to have ministered in Hawick along with Francis Scott, ousted minister of Hassendean, and a meeting house was opened at the Kirkwynd (or Playlaw) after the passing of the Act of Toleration in 1712 (but he must already have been dead by then). He may also have assisted Rev. John Langlands until about 1700. He married Miss Burnside and their son William was minister of Hawick (i.e., trained as a Presbyterian, despite he himself remaining true to his Episcopalian principles), while their daughter Dorothia married William Hadden, one of the masters of Edinburgh High School in 1710, and they had one other daughter. Rev. Dr.
Thomas (1741–1830) historian, born in Hawick, son of Rev. William. He was orphaned at about age 17 and educated in Hawick, Jedburgh and at Edinburgh University. One of his close early friends was Samuel Charters, who would become minister at Wilton (and whose cousin he would marry). He was for a while tutor of the young Lord Minto. He was licensed by the Presbytery of Edinburgh in 1764 and presented to Minto Parish in late 1766 by Sir Gilbert Elliot of Minto, becoming minister there early the following year.
He was presented to Jedburgh in 1773, translated there the following year, and this is where he spent the rest of his life. He was recorded there in the Horse Tax Rolls in the 1780s. He obtained a doctorate from St. Andrews University in 1789 and became one of his Majesty’s Chaplains for Scotland in 1793. He was arrested while visiting the House of Commons about 1798, being mistaken for the accomplice of a notorious swindler. In 1798 he was offered the Chair of Church History at Edinburgh University, but declined, and had a yearly pension from 1800. He became a member of the Jedforest Club in 1813.
He was also a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh. He wrote several political and historical books, including ‘Candid Thought on American Independence’ (1780), ‘The History of Political Transactions and of Parties from the Restoration of King Charles II to the Death of King William III’ (1792), ‘Observations on the Constitution and State of Britain’ (1793), ‘The Effects of the French Revolution with respect to the interests of humanity, liberty, religion, and morality’ (1793) and ‘The History of Great Britain, during the Reign of Queen Anne’ (1798), as well as several sermons published in Kelso, Hawick and Edinburgh. He also wrote descriptions of Jedburgh and Ancrum for the Statistical Accounts. His posthumously published book ‘My own life and times 1741–1814’ (1861) contains some valuable anecdotes relating to Hawick in the latter 18th century, and describes some aspects of everyday life in the neighbourhood in those times. He married Martha Charters (daughter of Samuel, Solicitor of Customs for Scotland), who died in 1809 and they had 3 sons: William, Inspector of Military Hospitals, and second husband of his cousin Mary Somerville the mathematician; Samuel, solicitor; and James Burges, who died young. They also had 4 daughters: Christian, who married Walter Riddell of Friar’s Glen, 3rd son of Patrick Riddell of Musesee; Janet (or Jenny), who married Joseph Pringle of Ferney Green, Consul General at Medeira, and secondly Lieut.-Gen. Henry Elliot of Rosebank (son of Capt. Robert, brother of the Laird of Harwood); Margaret (d.1843); and Martha, who married William Rutherford, solicitor of Jedburgh. His wife is said to have been a clever woman, who took great care with the education of her children, who were taught by David Brewster (later Sir David). When he died he was ‘father of the church’, i.e. the oldest serving minister, in his 90th year. He is buried in Jedburgh Abbey. Sir William (12th/13th C.) son of William of Carnwath. It is said that during the reign of William the Lion he slew a fearful monster, which was terrorising the district of Linton; the place was known as Worrington, and the event is commemorated in a carved stone in wall of the parish church. He was ‘Willelmo de Sumerville’ when he witnessed the granting of the Church of Molle to Kelso Abbey in the mid-1100s. In 1174 he had the lands conferred on him by the King. He also became Sheriff of Roxburghshire, as well as the Chief Falconer to the King. Rev. William (1691–1757) son of Thomas, the minister of Cavers, he was minister of Hawick Parish 1731–57, and father of Dr. Thomas. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1707, became a tutor for the family of Alexander, Lord Elibank, and was licensed by the Presbytery of Duns in 1719. He thereafter spent time in the household of James, Lord Somerville (presumably a relative), managing his business affairs. He was called to Hawick Parish in late 1731 and ordained early the following year. In 1735 he was involved with the Duke of Buccleuch in the sale of land within Dalkeith. He wrote an account of the Parish sometime before 1743 (perhaps in 1738), this being one of the earliest descriptions with any detail. There he mentions an examination he made of the Buccleuch vault under St. Mary’s in 1738; his transcription of stones there was eventually published in James Wilson’s ‘Memories of Hawick’. He is listed at the Manse in 1748, when he paid the window tax in Hawick Parish. In 1733 he married Janet, only daughter of John Grierson, minister of South Queensferry (their post-nuptial contract is in the National Archives); she was said to be a great beauty. They had a son, Thomas, who became minister at Jedburgh, as well as daughters Agnes, Helen and Janet. His first wife died in 1749 and in 1753 he secondly married again Isobel (or Isabella) Scott of Whitehaugh, described as ‘a maiden-gentlewoman of about 80’, and she died in 1759. It has sometimes been claimed that he was the original of the ‘little round fat oily man of God’ of James Thomson’s ‘Castle of Indolence’, but others insist that the model was instead an English clergyman, Rev. Patrick Murdock. William (1771–1860) son of Dr. Thomas and Martha Charters, he was born at Minto. He trained as a surgeon and entered the army, travelling on expeditions to the Cape of Good Hope. He also travelled on a Mediterranean expedition against Napoleon and to Canada, where he was inspector-general of hospitals from about 1807–11. He joined the Jedforest Club in 1812. In 1812 he became deputy inspector of army hospitals in Scotland and in 1816 had to move to London as a member of the army medical board. In 1806 he married Miss Rutherford of Knowesouth, but she died 2 years later. In 1812 he secondly married his cousin Mary, daughter of Adm. Fairfax, and widow of Samuel Grieg; she is known worldwide as one of the first female mathematicians. It is said that after his marriage he gave up his own ambitions to support his wife’s scientific career. In 1818 he was involved in a legal case over inheritance of Knowesouth, claiming that his first wife’s uncle, a lawyer in Jedburgh, had defrauded him out of liferent on the estate. He became seriously ill in 1838, so that his family wintered abroad and from then on lived mainly on the continent. He died in his 89th year in Florence and is buried in the Protestant cemetery there. William (c.1800–49) shoemaker who lived at Miller’s Close on the High Street. He married Isabella (1807–89), eldest daughter of James Murray, and hence he was uncle of Sir J.A.H. Their children included John, Christian, Jean and James. He may have been born in the Somerville Buildins (thu-su-mur-vib-bil-din) n. modern name for a block of houses on Sunnyside in Denholm, with a pend through the middle (also called ‘Summerville House’).

2787
Sonderland in Selkirkshire.

Somervel see Somerville

son-see (sonz-ov-see) adj., arch., poet. good-natured, pleasant, plump – ‘...in his sonsy countenance the simplicity of manners of the past generation...’ [RM], ‘But hail, my sonsy mother-tongue May I be routit wi’ a rung If e’er I leave your praise unsung But will rehearse Your usefulness to auld and young’ [JR], ‘They can eat their falderals that like, but recommend mei tae a sonsy bicker o’ guid auld fashioned Scotch porridge...’ [JEDM] (also written ‘sontie’).

sood (sood) v., arch. should – ‘Las that his win-some sell sou’d bend Sae soon his head’ [CPM], ‘An now, abody stra瓦gin the Borderland ...sood ken Peinelheuch’ [ECS], ‘It’s a gey guid yin that ee sood heh’d aa eer ain way’ [ECS], ‘Aw’ll be ashore in twae days, if aw sood come in an egg shell’ [WNK] (see also sudl).

sook (sook) v. to suck – ‘deh blaw, sook!’; ‘Owt o’ the mooth o’ bairns an’ sookin’ weans ...’ [HSR], ‘...And, worst o’a’ and dinna laugh, Ae yowe was sookit by a calf!’ [TD], ‘Scannin the sleek-back’t Cauld; dichtin a mell; Sookin a fag-end throwe a thre-days’ baird’ [DH], n.a. – ‘can A hev a sook o yer ice-cream?’, ‘co’ way to Wullie Trum-mill’s shop, Through some bung-hole we’ll sook a drop’ [WNK], ‘Black shoogir-waeter, a paep a sook!’ [ECS], ‘He set it to his wee bit mooth, an’ took ae muckle sook ...’ [WFC], a teacher’s pet, sycophant, toady – ‘she’s the biggest sook in the cless’ (also spelled ‘souk’).

sooker (soo-kur) n., arch. a sucker, small piece of leather, usually a disc and often with a string attached, which is used as a toy for lifting objects when moistened – Sometimes they’ll get a ‘sooker’ oot, And soak the leather unco weel, To lift up mony an iron trap The smiling, prood, and braw wee deil’ [WFC], ‘Aathing frae leather sookers and gless beads, To comics, books and haberdashery’ [WL].

sookie (soo-kee) n., arch. a spoilt or overindulged child.

sookit (soo-kee’, -ki’) adj., pp., arch. sucked – ‘O thot thou wer als my brither that suuket the breists o’ my minnie!’ [HSR] (there are spelling variants).

sook-the-bluid (sook-thu-blid) n., arch. the red-coloured beetle, Telephorus lividus.

soom (soom) v. to swim – ‘whae can soom faster, yow or yer brother?’; ‘...That crawl in earth, or soom in water, Or wing the air’ [JoHa], ‘...no as meikle waeter in’ as wad soom a baggie’ [WNK], ‘Whileis heis saw a herlin soom, And whiles killt a troot ...’ [DH], to be very wet or flooded – ‘when the rain got, in the kitchen flair was soomin’, n.a. a swim – ‘oo went for a soom in the Dunk ti cool doon’ (the past tense is soomd or the English ‘swam’, while the past participle is also soomd or ‘swum’).

soom (soomi) n., arch. a sum (also sowm).
soomd (soomd) pp., arch. swam (past tense or past participle of soom, alternatives to the English ‘swam’ and ‘swum’).

soomer (soo-mur) n. a swimmer – ‘...in his younger days an accomplished athlete, wunner o the Commin Ridin Games sprint in 1930, a champion soomer ...’ [IW], a cherry stone used in a game to race down the gutter – ‘...soomers (floating ‘papes’ used in racing in flowing water ‘doon the gutter’s)’ [ECS].

soomin (soo-min) n. swimming – ‘hei’s aye been guid it the soomin’, ‘...excellin at rugby where he played in the Greens three-quarter line, soomin and witter polo as weel as at the game o hockey’ [IW].

soon (soon) n., poet. sound – ‘Auld Scotland heard the bodin’ soun’ And threw her crook away’ [JT], ‘Synne maun the boigye haste awa’, ‘As ne’er a soun’ frae oot the hoose away’ [WFC], ‘Hab was plees feele wi the soond ...’ [DH], ‘Now oor ower a junction And the soond says ‘hurry up’ ’[AY], v. to sound – ‘May the grand auld slogan soond Every year as June comes roond’ [JEDM], ‘Then soond the ‘slogan’ Callants a ...’ [RH], ‘Tae mei it soonds like act o’ treason, An’ oft aw ponder o the reason ...’ [MB], adj. sound – ‘Let my hairt be joyfu’ ’ [HSR], ‘...But we up at the fade o’ day, And oor gowstie wind, which soupit owre the houses’ [EM1820].

soople (soo-pul) adj. supple, floppy – ‘...By a wheen o’ soople shanks’ [WL], ‘...And the sicht o’ her limbs and her soople body, Gaed straucht to the auld man’s heid like toddy’ [WL], ‘...As soople as a buxomlass’ [WFC], limp, helpless with laughter, drink, etc. – ‘Hei leuch till ei was away in a kink, an fair soople’ [ECS], ‘...Aa heard geeglin!’ And when Aa lookit roond, Aa saw twae lassies comin’ alang the path, fair soople!’ [DH], wily, astute – ‘Back cam’ the soople spugs And ate the auld breid, But puir lang-craigit hersnuegh Had mair pride than greed’ [DH], n. a pliant rod (also spelled ‘soouple’).

sooplest (soo-plist) adj. most supple – ‘Dan gie’s a loup to the pipe o’ the sailors – Sooplest o’ callants there ...’ [WL].

soor (soor) adj. sour – ‘that was a right soor aiple’, ‘...May hang upon a soor plum tree, And sleep in Ettrick Forest’ [JT], ‘...But sank his teeth in them to find them soure’ [WL], scowling, ill-humoured, brooding – ‘ee’re aw thairlookin’ the day, what’s the mitter?’; v. to sour – ‘...And the auld laird stappin’ hamewan, Is a soored man’ [WL] (also spelled ‘soour’).

soorage (soo-reej) n. a system of sewers, sewage. Hawick got its first sewage plant in 1878 – ‘...Past the Sew’rage gate, if he thocht he was late Went supersonic Dye’ [DH], ‘The what? Oh, the sewerage, ‘m aye on for that: You’re lauchin’; but that’s no sae droll!’ [WL], ‘...bein yaised ti bein doonwund o the sewerage at Mansford Park’ [IW] (also written ‘seweryage’).

the Soorage Works (thu-soo-reej-wurks) n. Hawick Sewage Works, build by the Town on Mansfeld Road in 1877/8. The land had formerly been part of Wilton Glebe and this flat area was also known as Burntfoot Haugh. Early plans and other documents are in the National Archives.

soor-dook (soor-dook) n., arch. buttermilk or yoghurt (once a popular drink).

soor-faced (soor-fasd) adj. sour-faced – ‘hei’s a sour-faced auld girn’.

Soorhope (soor-rup) n. Sourhope, farm near the Bowmont Water in the upper part of Morebattle Parish. In the 18th century it was farmed by a brother of William Scott of Thirlestane (the origin is probably ‘the valley of sour pasture’ and the name first occurs in 1544).

soor-kit (soor-ki) n., arch. a dish of clotted cream (noted by J. Leyden).

soor ploom (soor-ploom) n. a boiled sweet, usually green and with a very acid taste, traditionally made in both Galashiels and Peebles.
sooth (sooth) n., adj., adv. south – ‘Ti the sooth, ayownt the sweire, stuide Black Law . . .’ [ECS], ‘...Lookin sooth owre God’s ain country Frae the Vertish Hill’ [IWL], ‘Auld Scotland we love thee, the North, East and West, But we live in the South, so we like it the best’ [JCa], ‘When the wund blaws canny I’ the kindly sooth Wi’ the rarest hint O’ heather in her mooth’ [DH], ‘...Where since the thunderin engines raced Fair sooth to London toun’ [WL], ‘And come I frae sooth or nor-ward, My rest sall but be the same In the dear auld toun in the hollow – For the dear auld toun is hame!' [WL].

the Sooth (thu-sooth) n. formerly, the South of Scotland district Rugby Union team, which existed through most of the 20th century, and is effectively replaced by ‘the Borders’ team.

Sooth Berryfell (sooth-be-ree-fel) n. another name for the main farm at Berryfell.

Sooth Bright Street (sooth-bri’-stree’). n. South Bright Street, a street in the West End off Bright Street. The houses were built in 1927, but after restoration work in 1973 they were found to be unsafe and were demolished in 1975. The street was named after statesman and social reformer John Bright.

Sooth Croft Park (sooth-kroft-pawrk) n. Southcroft Park, former name for a piece of land on Minto estate. It was valued at £73 3s 6d in 1779 when included among lands whose lifierent had been granted to Rev. Robert Elliot. They are still so listed in 1811.

Soothdean (sooth-deen, soo-, sow-din) n. Southdean, hamlet on the A6088 towards the Carter Bar, on the banks of the Jed, formerly written ‘Soudon’ and variants. Formerly part of Jed Forest, the name ‘Soothdean’ is fairly synonymous with Chesters, although perhaps more often applied to the upper part of the district. It is also the name of the associated Parish, which extends to Wolfelee and also contains the former Free Church there. The original church dates back to at least the 13th century and was a meeting place for Scottish leaders before Otterburn. A replacement church was built about 1690 and the current one in 1876. The village itself was burned by Dacre’s men (led by Sir John Radcliff) in late 1513 and again in 1544. Jock Oliver was recorded living there in 1544. In 1669 the farm of that name was tenanted by James Oliver, David Oliver and Thomas Oliver. William Oliver and David Baptie were there in 1694. An old out-house in the area was called Peden’s Barn and connected with Covenanters. The settlement has been on the main route from Hawick to Newcastle since long before the modern road was developed (around the 1820s). There are many nearby archaeological remains, including hill-forts, settlements and ruined peel towers. Several Bronze Age artefacts found nearby are in Jedburgh Museum, including a flat axe, part of a rapier blade, and a socketed axe. Other items from the area include a greenstone axe, a whinstone hammerhead and 3 small whorls of polished green stone. The Statistical Account of 1794 notes that the region contained several ancient cairns, one of which was found to contain bones, and nearly all of which had been robbed for stones. ‘Souden Kirk: a Border shrine’ was published by John R. Spence in 1951 (the origin is probably a corrupted version of ‘Souden’, the original pronunciation, which may be from the Old English ‘suth dun’, meaning simply ‘the southern hill’ or may be related to Old Welsh for a hill-fort; the name first occurs as ‘Soudon’ in 1275 and has various related forms, including ‘Soudon’ in 1404, ‘Sowdon’ in 1455, ‘Sowdone’ in 1488/9, ‘sowdene’ in 1488/9, ‘Sowdoun’ in 1491/2, ‘Sodane’ in 1538, ‘Sodene’ in 1539, transcribed as ‘Fowden’ in 1544, ‘Sowdoun’ in 1559, ‘Suddum’ in 1575, ‘Suddum’ in 1586, ‘Sudan’ in 1638, ‘Sudden’ in 1689 and ‘Souden’ in 1701; ‘Soudan K.’ is marked on Morden’s 1687 map of Scotland and ‘K. of Soudan’ on Blaen’s 1654 map).

Soothdean Kirk (sooth-deen-, soo-, sow-din-kirk) n. church in Southdean Parish. The original church was first mentioned as early as the 1260s. Adam, the Parson, signed the Ragman Rolls in 1296. It was in the Diocese of Glasgow and Archdeaconry of Teviotdale, but it is not known when it was dedicated. The patronage was held by the Douglasses, passing to Scott of Branxholme in 1528, reverting to the Crown in about 1537 and recovered by the Earl of Angus in 1542/3. The church consisted of a west tower and a nave, probably of 13th century, together with a chancel, probably added in the 15th century (replacing an earlier chancel). Excavations also revealed foundations of a perhaps earlier building, a few feet to the north of the nave. The church was the location for a meeting of Lord Douglas and the other Scottish commanders in 1388, in which an English spy is meant to have revealed information that was important for the skirmish at Newcastle and the battle at Otterburn. The ruins of this original ‘Souden Kirk’ stands just below the level of the main A6088 road, about a mile after Chesters. A commemorative plaque was erected there after excavations by the Hawick Archeological Society in 1910. At the same time part of the tower was roofed over to hold some of the unearthed stonework, and the site was dedicated as a memorial to the Battle of Otterburn; repair work was carried out on the tower in 2015. A carved super-altar (of sandstone, about 23 cm by 18 cm), probably from the 15th century, was moved to the new church. This original church was abandoned in 1688 when the roof collapsed (on a Sunday, but fortunately after the congregation had left). A second church was built in 1689/90, whose roofless walls stand in the graveyard of the grounds of the new (1876) church near Chesters. This building had no ceiling and it is said that the pauper’s coffin was stored in the rafters, in plain view of the congregation. The new church contains a memorial window to James Thompson, author of ‘The Seasons’ and ‘Rule Britannia’. The new churchyard is displaced from the church, up on Chesters Brae. The Manse for the Kirk is located to the east of Whiteburn farmstead; it was built in 1795, on the site of the former building; this was ‘The Mans’ on which tax was paid for 4 hearths in 1694 and 20 windows in 1748. The glebe lands extended to 40 acres. The patronage was held by Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme from 1528, then the Earl of Angus from 1542/3. The benefice of the Rectory was held by Douglas of Bonjedward from 1566. The church was linked with Edgerston 1960–73, linked with Hobkirk in 1973, united formally with Hobkirk in 1988 and then linked with Cavers and Kirkton 1988–97. It became part of the wider area of Ruberslaw in 2004 (along with Denholm, Minto, Bedrule and Hobkirk). The oldest communion token is heart-shaped and made of lead. A roll of the minutes of the congregation is: Galfrid, Vicar in 1260; Adam, Parson in 1296; Thomas Forest, Rector in 1296; Robert Penwen, from 1404 until at least 1455; John Inglis, Rector in 1471; William Scott, Rector from at least 1482–1491/2; Hugh Douglas, Rector at least 1558/9–63; Walter Lyle, Exhorter in 1567; John Douglas, Reader 1574–87; Andrew Clayhills, Minister in 1575; John Scott, Reader 1579–82; William Douglas 1585; Andrew Douglas 1599–1605; George Douglas 1607–08; James Logan, presented 1608; William Weir 1610–26; James Fisher 1626–35; John Davidson 1635–66; John Dargavel 1667–70; George Bapte 1670–88; Thomas Rutherford 1689; Samuel Johnstone 1690–99; Thomas Thomson 1700–16; Thomas Leck, presented 1716; John Inglis 1718–43; John Oliver 1736–55; Robert Muirhead 1756–84; William Scott 1785–1809; John Richmond 1810–47; John Mair 1847–1902; George Henry Donald 1902–06; John R. Spence 1907–50; John Roberts 1951–65; George Urquhart 1966–72; Stephen Goodbrand 1973–82; James A. Strachan 1983–88; Adam McC. Bowie 1988–96 (it is marked ‘Soudan K.’ on Gordon’s map of Scotland in Blaeu’s 1654 atlas).
Soothdean Law

Soothdean Law (sooth-deen-, soo-, sow-din-law) n. Southdean Law, hill near Southdean and also formerly the name of a farm there. In 1669 the tenants were Andrew Douglas and Robert Laidlaw. The hill is on the left hand side of the A6088. It reaches a height of 300 m and contains a fort and settlement, as well as having a trianulation pillar, all on the western peak. The fort consists of a pear-shaped enclosure around the summit, about 50 m by 30 m, and is probably from the early Iron Age (perhaps the first millennium B.C.E.). There is an annex to the north-east of the main enclosure, and this is probably later. In this area there are also the remains of 11 stone-walled houses (from 4.5 to 8 m in diameter) and several enclosures, perhaps dating to the 2nd, 3rd or 4th century. The surrounding slopes contain evidence of a field-system and rig lines, some running right up to the boundaries of the fort, and hence probably of a similar age. There are also the remains of an old building and enclosure to the north-west, in the direction of Slack’s Tower. 2 Bronze Age socketed axes were found near here, but their location is unknown (it is ‘Sudenlaw’ and ‘Souden Law’ in 1669).

Soothdean Mill (sooth-deen-, soo-, sow-din-mill) n. former corn mill in Southdean Parish, situated on a lade off the Jed Water, just to the east of Chesters village. It was valued at £5 in the Exchequer Rolls in 1538, 1539 and 1541. Patrick, Janet and Marion Oliver were joint tenants there in 1541, with William and Marion (probably also Oliver, but surname not given) renting one third of the farm. James Shiel was tenant there in the 1680s and 90s. It is referred to in 1738 by the Duke of Douglas’s factor, shortly after it had burned down. Walter Riddell was tenant there in 1797. George Bell was miller and farmer there in 1866. ‘Southdeannmillhead’ is recorded in the late 18th century. There is still a farm in the same location, with evidence of its former use as a corn mill and a saw mill (it is ‘molendini de Sowden’ in 1538, ‘molendini de Sowdene’ in 1539, ‘Soden-myln’ and ‘molendini de Soden’ in 1541, ‘suden milne’ in 1681 and ‘Suden Myyne’ in 1694).
Soothdean Parish

Soothdean Parish (sooth-deen-, soo-, sowdin-pa-reesh) n. Southdean Parish, lying along the upper banks of the Jed, crossed by the A6088 road from Hawick to the Carter Bar. It is also sometimes referred to as Chesters Parish. The Parish is about 12 miles by 7 miles in size, and is bounded by Jedburgh, Oxnam, Castleton, Hobkirk and part of Northumberland. It was formerly in the Diocese of Glasgow and Archdeaconry of Teviotdale. In early times it was called ‘Suden’, and pronounced that way until fairly recently. In 1649 the land and crops of the Parish were valued at £5500. In 1678 the lands had the same value, split between the Marquess of Douglas and Gilbert Elliot of Wolfelee. It received part of the former Abbotrule Parish in 1777 (including the area having the former church), with a small part moved from Hobkirk in 1793. However, a northern section (bordering on Bedrule, including Gatehousecote and Ruletownhead) was later transferred to Hobkirk Parish. It was valued at about £6500 in 1811. Some of the Cheviots are in the Parish, and the highest hills are Carter Fell, Carlintooth Fell, Peel Fell and Wolfelee Hill. Chesters is the main settlement, although it really only grew in the 19th century. The Parish contains a great many ancient forts, remains of peel towers, etc. There are Parish Council books for the proclamation of banns (it gaps); registration was irregular for births, but fairly complete for the proclamation of banns (it is ‘Soudon Parioch’ in 1694).

Soothdeanrig (soo-, sooth-deen-rig) n. Southdeanrig, former farmstead near Northhouse, lying on part of Southdean Rig, between the Cromrig and Southdean Burns, south of the Teviot. The lands were included in a set leased by Walter Scott of Branxholme from Melrose Abbey in 1500 and stated to be in the Lairdship of ‘Ringwoodfield’. It is probably the place transcribed as ‘Southcothrig’ (along with ‘Vestcotrig’ and ‘Bolburg’) where the King’s shepherd Richard Henderson is recorded in 1540. ‘The gudman of Syntoun and Arche Elliot of Thirlshoup’ (probably Walter Scott of Synton and Archibald Elliot of Thorlieshope) rented these lands, along with Cauldcleuch, from Melrose Abbey in 1557; at that time it was valued at £5. Capt. Walter Scott of Satchells said that Robert Scott of Satchells (his father or grandfather probably) received the lands of ‘Southinrig’ for his service to the house of Buccleuch. It was recorded as part of the land of Ringwoodfield in the Lordship of Melrose in 1634, 1635, 1661 and 1663. William Clerk was there in 1708. In 1718 it was surveyed along with other Buccleuch properties, at that point covering 1017 acres and bounded by Northhouse, Phaup, Binks, Bowanhill and Colterscleuch. James Grieve was recorded there in 1723 and 1735. In 1744 the lands were leased by Thomas Elliot, farmer at Harwood. James Grieve was tenant there in 1751. Gideon Scott was there in 1785. An enclosed area on the north-east side contained a building and sheepfold, shown on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map (it is ‘Sowdinnryg’ in 1500, ‘Sowdenrig’ in 1557 and 1564, ‘Soudenrig’in 1621, ‘Sudennrig’ in 1634, ‘Sowdenrig’ in 1660, ‘Suddenrig’ in 1661, ‘Suddinrig’ in 1663, ‘Suddenrigg’ in 1693, ‘Sudenridge’ in 1708 and ‘Southdean rigg’ in 1723; it appears on Blaeu’s 1654 map as ‘Sudarg’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey as ‘Sowdenrige’ and on Stobie’s 1770 map as ‘Southdeanridge’; see also Soothinrig).

Soothdean Rig (sooth-deen-, soo-din-rig) n. ridge in Southdean Parish, lying to the south of the main A6088, being essentially the northern shoulder of Charlie’s Knowe. The area is rich in archaeological remains, around the Carter Burn, as well as further north to Jordan Sike. In particular there are apparent remains of buildings within enclosures.

Soothdean Rig Shiel (sooth-deen-, soo-din-rig-sheel) n. shepherd’s cottage on Southdean Rig. Francis Dickson and his son Francis, were shepherds there through much of the 19th century.

Soothdean Schuil (sooth-deen-skil) n. former school in Southdean Parish. It may have been established in the early 17th century. Thomas Turnbull was schoolmaster in 1620 and George Weir in 1622. There were more than 70 pupils in the 1830s. Thomas Armstrong was schoolmaster there from 1825 and his son Richmond Armstrong... from 1837. School Board minute books are in the Borders Archive for the period 1873–1919.

Soothfield (sooth-feeld) n. Southfield, farm about 4 miles south of Hawick, lying on the boundary of the old Common. It was previously split into ‘Nether Soothfield’ and ‘Over Soothfield’, and these farms were surveyed along with other Scott of Buccleuch properties in 1718. The name is also used for the general area around the farm. The marshy area just to the north was once dammed and labelled as ‘Mill Dam’ on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map. James Glendinning was a tenant here in 1684 when he was listed among men declared as a fugitive for attending field conventicles. Adam Laidlaw was there in 1711. Grieves farmed here from at least the 1750s until 1988, when the lease was given up by Walter; this is probably the longest tenancy by a single family of any farm of the Buccleuch Estates. There are several forts, carins and ancient settlements in the vicinity. Several flint and chert implements found in the area around the farm are in the Museum, and some others may be in the National Museum of Antiquities. A spearhead found near here is probably still in the Museum’s collection, and has been classified as Middle Bronze Age. (marked as ‘N. Southfield’ and O. Southfield’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map, and also marked on Visscher’s 1689 map of Scotland; the name presumably just means ‘the south field’, but it may suggest that it was once part of Hawick Common; there are several places of the same name elsewhere in Scotland).

Soothfield Gate (sooth-feeld-gā’) n. Southfield Gate, former farm, long ruined, near the road end just beyond the Caa Knowe, just after the turn-off for Southfield farm and shortly before the road reaches the Gate Burn at the Troutlawford. The name is also used to refer to the road to Southfield, and hence to the far end of the Common and the Caa Knowe – ‘...And syne, with them, by Southfield Gate, I pray I’ll hear the Burgess-Roll and answer to my name’ [JYH] (also written ‘Southfieldgate’; it is marked as ‘N. Southfield’ and O. Southfield’ on Gordon’s c. 1650 map)

Sooth Hermitage Street (sooth-her-mi’-eej-stree’) n. South Hermitage Street, part of the main B6357 through Newcastleton, lying to the south of Douglas Square.

Soothinrig (soo-thin-rig) n. former name for lands at Southdean Rig, being more recently part of the estates of the Duke of Buccleuch and part of Colterscleuch farm. They were once held by an ancestor of Capt. Walter Scott of Satchells, and given for his services to the Duke (see also Soothdeanrig).

the Sooth Kirk (thu-sooth-kirk) n. name formerly used in Newcastleton for the United Presbyterian Church after it united with the Church of Scotland in 1929. The name was used to distinguish it from the ‘Park Kirk’.

Sooth Lidde Street (sooth-li-dul-stee’) n. street in Newcastleton, being the southern extension of North Liddle Street and Mid Liddle Street.

Sooth Port (sooth-pör’) n. South Port, being the gate from town leading south up the Cross Wynd until the mid-18th century. The gate was probably situated a little way up the Wynd, and was once the beginning of the road towards Newcastle. It was recorded being ‘taken down’ in 1732, and may have been more fully removed in 1762 along with the Mercat Cross. A plaque was placed on the Town Hall near the original location by the Callants’ Club in 1964. Until the 1830s this was the road to Newcastle and other points to the south-east (also sometimes the ‘Cross Wynd Port’ or ‘Cross Port’).

Soothron (sooth-rin) n., adj., arch. people from the south, i.e. the English – ‘...for at that period such was the thirst of Southron revenge that things both sacred and civil met with the same treatment’ [WaD], ‘And the fierce rievers swam the currents o’er In hot pursuit of flyng Southron foe’ [GWe], ‘...Where pricking and spurring are rife, And the bluid boils up like a sea; But Southrons gand doon i’ the strife! And wha daur meddle wi’ me?’ [T] adj., arch. southern – ‘Oor forebears an ther Southron neebers cooona sit soft ava i thae days’ [ECS].

Sooth Synton (sooth-sin’-in) n. former name for the main farm of Synton (or Sinton), to distinguish it from ‘North Synton’ on the opposite side of the Ale valley. It was long the property of the Scotts. The house there was rebuilt in the 18th century and demolished in the latter part of the 20th century. James Scott from South Synton Mill was minister at Ashkirk in the late 1500s (marked with this name on Gordon’s c. 1650 map and Blaen’s 1654 map).

soothwards (sooth-wurdz) adv. southwards – ‘...And, galloping doon the glen, Aye soothwards...’

the Sootie Kittlin (thu-soo’-ce-kit-lin) n. nickname in use in the 19th century, presumably (somehow) related to a sooty kitten – ‘The Sootie Kittlin’ and Bumma Rae, Jenny Tranklets and Sooty Knowe

Sorbie Hass, Jamie Sprinke, Kessy, the Kay, Doctor H’Yiggs and the Wat Wat Salt’ [HI].

Sooty Knowe (sooo’e-now) n. small hill just south-east of Southfield. It once contained a cairn, marked on the 1926 Ordnance Survey map, but subsequently obliterated by cultivation and quarrying.

Sorbie (sor-bee) n. farm on a side road just south of Ewes, a few miles north of Langholm, once the site of a corn mill. It was confirmed to Simon Little in 1426. ‘Dauid Armstrang de Sourby’ witnessed a document for the Scotts of Buccleuch in 1456. The lands were occupied by the Armstrongs into the 17th century. It was valued at £250 in 1671. John Armstrong is recorded leasing a quarter of the farm in 1672 and 1673 and there was a 1685 gravestone for John Armstrong of Sorbie in Ewes Kirkyard. Sorbie was surveyed along with other Scott of Buccleuch farms in 1718, when it covered 329 acres, bounded by Kirkton, Glendivian, Howgill, Middle and Over Wrae, Staplegordon, lands of the Laird of Rennaldburn and Burnfoot in Westerkirk. Thomas Armstrong leased the farm in 1735. William Borthwick was there in at least 1785–90, Mrs. Borthwick in 1794 and Alexander Borthwick in 1797. Robert Hardie was farmer in 1841 and D. Hardie in 1868. Henry Scott Riddell was born here in a shepherd’s cottage which stood in the plantation near the bridge. A plaque on the bridge commemorates the site. ‘Sorbie Haas’ was the former name used for the road from the Ewes valley to Westerkirk (the same name occurs elsewhere in Scotland and Northern England; it is ‘Sourbi’ in 1462 and ‘Sourby’ in 1456; it is ‘Sourby’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and ‘Sorby’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey).

Sorbie (sor-bee) n. former name for lands in Liddesdale, near to Sorbietrees. In the late 1100s Race Fitz Malger granted the whole ‘shaw’ there, and 1 acre next to the shaw, with pasture for 40 cows and their calves, 2 bulls, 10 oxen and 2 horses. This was together with half of the land of Shortbutts, which was also in the territory of Sorbie. The farm of Abbotshaws may recall this early land transfer (it was ‘Sourebi’ in the late 12th century).

Sorbie Hass (sor-bee-hass) n. name used for the road winding between Sorbie and Staplegordon. This was the main route through the lower Ewes valley to the Langholm area until Langholm became a separate parish in 1703. There was an old hawthorn tree at the junction of this road with the main Ewes road, which grew until sometime in the 19th century. It was said to be used as a meeting spot by the monks of Melrose (also written ‘Haas’, the word comes from Old Norse for a pass; the road is labelled on Crawford’s 1804 map).

Sorbietrees (sor-bee-triz) n. Sorbietrees, farm about 3 miles south of Newcastleton. When surveyed along with other Scott of Buccleuch properties in 1718 it extended to 1492 acres and included the farmsteads of High Mangerton, Catheugh and ‘Demmebeck’. It was bounded by the Kershope Burn, Flatt, Mangerton, lands of the Laird of Whithaugh and Kershope, with the farmhouse clearly shown and a wood of old trees around the Fouty Sike. In 1541 it is listed along with Ragarth and Sorbie, with value 10 merks, and stated to eptain to the Laird of Mangerton. It was formerly a stronghold of the Armstrongs. George Mitchelson and Roland Porteous were there in 1694. A shepherd here perished during the ‘Gonial Blast’ of 1794. Archibald Armstrong was farmer there in at least 1794–97. William Armstrong was there in 1841 and 1851; he was killed by the minister of Walton (being mistaken for an intruder), and is buried in Ettrick cemetery. The present farmhouse was built by the Buccleuch Estates and is run as a bed and breakfast. The New Statistical Account reports in 1839 the existence of a circular earthwork on the farm. This is probably the site where ramparts were once removed, revealing paved area on the south side, with some burned material. In 2001 it had the dubious distinction of recording the first Scottish Borders case of foot and mouth disease – ‘A wailing sugh is borne upon the breeze, Athwart the shatter’d pines of Sorbietrees’ [HNo], ‘To Sorbietrees and Tweeden-heid . . .’ [DH] (the origin of the name is probably the Old Norse ‘saurr’ and Old English ‘trow’, meaning ‘trees at the muddy farm’; it first appears as ‘Sourby’ in 1456, but could be the ‘Southby’ recorded in the c.1376 rental roll of Liddesdale; it is ‘Sorbe et Sorbietres’ in 1541, ‘Sorbitrees’ in 1694 and ‘Sorbytrees’ in 1797, 1839 and 1851; it is ‘Sorbitrees’ on Stobie’s 1770 map).

Sorrner (sor-nur) n., arch. someone who lives off their neighbours, a scrounger – ‘...the country suffered sadly from bands of thieves, and sorners fleeing from labour and living in plenty upon the fruit of other men’s labour’ [WNK], ‘The land was simply swarming with beggars and sorners, the latter of whom extorted food or help by terrifying the dwellers in lonely farms and cottages’ [JIV].
sort (so-r, -ra, -re) n., arch. sorrow, a troublesome child – ‘But I am puir an’ fu’ o’ sorra ...’ [HSR], ‘For my liffe is spented wi’ sorra, an’ my yeers wi’ sichtin’ ...’ [HSR], ‘Yih saucy sorrih! ee’r owre flow-handen’ [ECS], ‘A raikin sorrih is applied to child given to wandering against parental wishes’ [ECS], (also spelled ‘sorrih’, ‘sorra’, etc.; the final vowel sound varies).

sortit (so-rät) n., arch. a shoulder-strap attached to the handles of a handbarrow to relieve the strain on the bearer’s arms (noted by J. Jamieson).

Sorrowlessfield (so-ro-lés-feld) n. farm near Earlston. It is traditionally said to have been the only neighbouring farm to which anyone returned from Flodden, but it is actually known to have belonged to a Will Sorules in the 12th century. It was part of the lands owned by Melrose Abbey. Several arrow-heads and other implements have been found nearby, and a decorated spindle whorl from there is in the Museum (it is ‘Sorrowlesfeild’ in about 1564 and ‘Sorlersfeld’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map).

sort (so-r) v., arch. to tend, look after – ‘Thay’re fer owre mony foak i the hoose for yow ti sort’ [ECS], ‘Deel effectively with, rebuke, chastise { `A’ll sort the ruif’ [ECS] (most of these meanings are SOCC), ‘In the air’ [DH] (from Old English; also spelled ‘sough’, ‘sugh’, ‘soach’, etc.).

sourd (so-û) adv. so, indeed, used as an emphatic response to ‘not’, particularly by children – ‘Ee er not! A em sot!’; ‘A ded sot’, ‘ee wull sot’.

sotter (so-tur) v., arch., poet. to swarm – ‘The troots fair sotter’ in the Dunk-puil’ [GW], ‘Last nicht a guid ding-on o’ rain, Wi’ deid leaves sorterin’ under fit ...’ [WFC], to form an eruptive sore, to boil, spout, scorch – ‘And leugh, and cried, as he trampet him down – He will be a sottening breeze’ [JTe] n., arch., a cluster of things, especially scabs or pimples, a seething mass, swarm (of flies, minnows, rabbits, etc.) – ‘...a creeper-kivvert cottage wui its gairdeen a perfect sotter o bonnie nooers’ [ECS].

souch (souch, schôch) v., arch. to blow, howl, sough, sigh – ‘How the wund’s souchin’ i’ the chumla heid!’ [JAHM], ‘There’s music in the soughin’ wand, And in the whirrin’ reel’ [JT], ‘...The ice-drap hings at ilka twig, And sad the nor’-wind sougehs through a’’[TDa], ‘...a boaggly, gloomin planteen, where the whussellin wund gaed soachin throwe’ [ECS], ‘...And feel the soughe o’ the wund, The lash of raindrops stungin’[WL], ‘...Murnin in tongues man kent afore His first word was let-fa, They keen and souche and blaw’ [DH], n. a sigh, blow, sound of the wind – ‘Through the darksome yew with eiry sough, The gurry breeze it did play’ [JTe], ‘A calm souche, too, you aye maun keep, Save maybe for ae bit creak ...’ [WFC], ‘...A snell souge flichters them doun’ [WL], a hubbub, fuss, frenzy – ‘Afar from the sigh and the sugh of the crowd’ [JoHa], ‘What wad they dae workin, Wi the souche o the flude i the air ...’ [DH], ‘It was a soft nicht, and birdsang seems to traveil better wi a souch o rain i the air’ [DH] (from Old English; also spelled ‘sough’, ‘sugh’, ‘soach’, etc.).

souche (sowch) pp., arch. sought – ‘Bie nicht on my bed I souchte him whan my saule lossl [HSR], ‘...ay, I soucht him, but he couldna be fu-and’ [HSR], ‘...Wi’ his rowth o’ gowd he had need o’ noucht, But the mair he gathehered, the mair he souchte’ [WL] (cf. sswot).

Souden (soo-, sow-den) n. former name for Soodhean – ‘And Ellen was old Sowden’s pride, And the flower of the forest land’ [JTe] (also written ‘Sowden’ and variants).

Souden (soo-, sow-den) n. Geoffrey (13th C.) recorded as ‘de Soudan’ in 1269, when he was listed as one of the retainers of Robert de Brus, when the group set out to Scotland, at the command of the English King. He could have been associated with Southdean. James (15th/16th C.) recorded as a sergeant at the Court in Jedburgh in 1502. His name was written ‘Jacobum sowdane’.
Soudenrig

Soudenrig (soo-din-rig) n. former name for the farmstead of Soothdeanrig.

sough see souch

soul see sowm

Soulis (soo-lis) n. any of the ‘de Soulis’ Lords of Liddesdale – ‘... To Soulis of Hermitage. He bids me tell that bloody warden, Oppressor of low and high, If ever again his lieges complain, The cruel Soulis shall die’ [JL], ‘Old Hermitage stands awful in the gloom – Lord Soulis trembles in his cauldron tomb’ [HNo] (see de Soulis).

soum (soom) n., arch. a unit of pasturage, the number of sheep or cattle that can be supported by a unit of pasturage (typically 1 cow or 20 sheep, although the number of sheep seems to have varied with location) – ‘... the Town Herd of Hawick, who had liberty of taking in soums ... ’[C&L1767], ‘... the tenents of Weensland put to the charge of the Hawick Herd they paid ten groats a soum for’ [C&L1767], ‘A soum is said to have consisted of about ten sheep or one cow, a horse having been considered as equal to two soums’ [RWB] (also spelled ‘summ’, etc.; cf. soom and sowm).

soum see soom

soum see sowm

soum see soon

Sounds of the Borders (sounz-ov-thu-bör-durz) n. compact disc published in 2012 by Borders Talking Newspaper to celebrate its 20th year. It is a mixture of music and recitals and includes several pieces directly related to Hawick, such as songs by Scocha, Joyce Tinlin and Henry Douglas, and readings by Sir Chay Blyth, Bill McLaren and Ian Landles.

souple see sooble

soupie (soo-pee) n., arch. a sling (noted by J. Jamieson).

sour see soor

soure see soor

sout see sowl

Souter (soo-tur, soo’-ur) n. native of Selkirk, literally a shoemaker, referring to the town’s former main industry – ‘Up wi’ the souters o’ Selkirk And down wi’ the Earl o’ Home! And up wi’ a’ the lads

the South Fencibles Regiment

That sew the single-soled shoon!’ [T], ‘Soutersane, souters twa, Souters in the Back Raw’ [T], ‘On behind them came the ‘Souters’, Lead of heart and courage true, Men who never stain’d their honour, But resolv’d to die or do’ [JAHB], ‘With saddle and bridle, like mosstroopers born, The Souters of Selkirk still muster at morn ... ’ [WHO] (derived from Latin; note it is also used sometimes for a native of Forfar).

Souter Land (soo-tur-lawnd) n. sobriquet for Selkirk.

Souter’s Acre (soo-turz-ā-kur) n. former name for a piece of land in Wilton Parish that was part of the estate of Whitehaugh. It was sold to Thomas Laidlaw in the mid-1800s and was valued at £11 13s 4d in about 1874 (the spelling and hence pronunciation are based on handwriting in the Land Tax Rolls).

south see sooth

the Southern Uplands (thu-su-thurn-up-lindz) n. range of hills near the Border, generally west of Hawick. It is sandwiched between the Southern Uplands Boundary Fault to the north and the Cheviot hills of England to the south, reaching heights of 800 m and including the Southern Upland Way. The range is dominated by Ordovician and Silurian sedimentary rocks and includes the Carsphairn, Cheviot, Ettrick, Lammermuir, Lowther, Moffat, Moorfoot, Roxburgh and Tweedsmuir Hills – ‘Fold upon fold before me, the uplands stretch afar; A land so rich in romance, and song of love and war’ [WL].

the Southern Upland Way (thu-su-thurn-up-lind-wā) n. long distance walking route, opened in 1984, running from Portpatrick to Cockburnspath. It is 212 miles (340 km) in length, being the longest of Scotland’s long distance footpaths, and comes nearest to Hawick around Yair. It is sometimes jokingly referred to as the ‘Southern Upwards Way’.

the South Fencibles Regiment (thu-sooth-fen-si-bulz-ree-min’) n. voluntary force set up Henry, Duke of Buccleuch in 1778, being embodied at Edinburgh. The Duke recruited from throughout the Scottish Borders. He is recorded being in Castleton on hiring day, for example. The regiment was disbanded at Dalkeith in 1783.
Soutra Aisle

Soutra Aisle (soo-tra-I-yul) n. site of the Soutra mediaeval hospital, where a section of the Roman road Dere Street is also preserved. It is located off the A68 between Jedburgh and Dalkeith, the Aisle itself being a private burial vault for the Pringles, dated 1686 and built in part of the former Church.

Soutra Hospital (soo-tra-hos-pi-ul) n. a mediaeval hospital, located on high ground about 40 miles from Hawick, just off the A68, also known as ‘Soltre’. It was founded by Malcolm IV in 1164 for the accommodation of travellers and pilgrims and the treatment of the sick and poor of the district. It was dedicated to the Holy Trinity. A spring near there was known as the Trinity Well, and visited by many for its supposed healing powers. It was run by the Augustinian monks from the 12th century until around 1650, being annexed in 1462 to Trinity College Church and Hospital, Edinburgh. The superior was referred to as the ‘Magister’ or Master. It fell into ruin after the Reformation, and Trinity College Church and Hospital itself was demolished in 1848 (to make way for the railway). It was said that much of the ruins were used locally for building materials in the early 19th century. Excavations at Soutra have provided a wealth of evidence relating to mediaeval medicine, including over 300 identified plant species. The hospital was destroyed in 1848 (to make way for the railway). It was said that much of the ruins were used locally for building materials in the early 19th century. Excavations at Soutra have provided a wealth of evidence relating to mediaeval medicine, including over 300 identified plant species. The hospital was run with the granting of 300 estates, including a small-holding in Hawick, ‘Soutra Croft’. This is almost certainly the area that became known as the Trinity lands at the eastern end of town. The endowment of this croft may have gone to an altar detainted in the big city, moving fri Cavers ti Denum’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘sout’; cf. sough).

Soutralands (soo-tra-lawndz) n. another name for Trinitylands, the part of Hawick given to Soutra Hospital. In 1507 they are referred to as ‘vulgariter vocatas Yolstrelandis’ and in 1578 as ‘Sowtre landis in Hawik’.

sowder (sow-dur) n., v. solder.

sowens (sow-ins) n., arch. flummery, a sweet pudding made of strained boiled oatmeal or flour – ‘A yternal roon o’ parritch for breakfast, pease bannocks an’ black kail for dinner an’ parritch and sowens for supper’ [V&M].

sowl (sowl) n. a soul, person, particularly one who is pitied or sympathised with – ‘pair wey sowl’, ‘... an A thocht the sowl wad take a dwam’ [ECS], ‘Puir sowl! Hei didna set the bonnie cuintrie-seid’ [ECS], ‘... There’s no a sowl to be seen now Doon at the cauld’ [DH], ‘Go on, tell ’un ee’ve been a guid boy, it’ll please the auld sowl!’ [JCo], ‘Wi’ taws o’ trem’lin’ fright I’ll flög ye. I’ll giff the sowl frae yer body’ [WP], ‘His aunty, puir sowl, gien um a hammer Tae knock pegs throw a bit wud’ [AV] (also spelled ‘soul’ as in English).

sow-luggit (sow-lu-gee’, -gi’) adj., arch. having long, dangling ears.

sowm (sowm) n., arch. a sum of money – ... in the soum of two hundredth merkis of vsuale mone of Scotland ... ’ [SB1470], ‘... detening thame in prisone qhull thay beg or borrow the sowmes of money imposit upon thame’ [BR], ‘... to Baylyea Graham the soume of thre scoir and two pounds, four shillings scotts’ [BR1701], a quantity of goods or livestock having a specific value – ‘... besides the privilege of taking in two sume of sheep to pasture on the common’ [BR1722] (also spelled ‘soun’, ‘soume’, etc.; cf. soom and sowm).

sowp (sowp) n., arch. a sup, a ‘dirty sowp’ means water made dirty by washing.

sow-same (sow-sam) n., arch. pig’s fat – ‘It wad take a vast o sow-same ti cleester a cloor gotten that gait!’ [ECS].

sowt (sowt) pp. sought – ‘... she sowt her fortune in the big city, moving fri Cavers ti Denum’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘sout’; cf. sough).

Sowtail (sow-taul) n. nickname for John Glendinning.

sowther (sow-thur) n., v., arch. solder.

space (spais) n., arch. a period of time – ‘... he beand obst to remove and take away the said stane dyck within the space of seven years thereafter ... ’ [BR1640], sometimes with qualifying adjective indicating the length of time – ‘... under whatsemever colour or pretext, for short space or long space, mail, or mail free, set, let, or hire any of their houses ... ’ [BR1699] (this meaning formerly more common than in modern English).

spae (spae) v., arch. to tell fortunes, prophesy, divine – ‘A big tatterdemallion fellow was in the town spaeing fortunes ... ’ [RW], ‘What mak’s ye spae o’ caul’ an’ want?’ [JoHa], ‘... conspicuous in the art of fortune-telling, particularly when it related to the love affairs of those whose fortunes she was spacing’ [EM1820].

spae-book (spae-book) n., poet. a spell book, book of necromancy – ‘The black spae-book from his breast he took, Impress’d with many a warlock spell: And the book it was wrote by Michael Scott, Who held in awe the ends of hell’ [JL].
spait see spate
spak (spak) pp., poet. spoke – ‘...Spak ever mair to me than troots’ [JBS], ‘They spak o’-t – Cash believ’d it not, Quo’ he, ‘Hae I not richer got ...’’ [RDW] (cf. spake). spake (spák) n., arch. a spoke, rung of a ladder, ‘ti faa off the spake’ is ‘to collapse’, a wooden fence pole – ‘...A claam a fence o spakes an stuckeens’ [ECS], a perch – ‘Fair leike ti faa off the spake wui the wuddles an the vexes o woark’ [ECS], ‘Croochin wi scaly claws lockit tich to the spak ...’[DH], ‘ti faa off the spake (lit. ‘to fall off the perch’) is to collapse’ [ECS], a pole or bar for carrying a coffin, locally it was the tradition for the 2 spokes to be placed either side of the door of the deceased, perhaps an hour or so before the ‘lifting’ – ‘Having no great distance to go for interments in the burgh, coffins were borne to the Kirkyard on ‘spokes’’ [V&M] (also known as a ‘haund-spake), and also spelled ‘späik’; E.C. Smith notes that a solid post, which is driven into the ground is a ‘stuckeen’, with only the smaller ‘pailes’ being called ‘spakes’).
spake see spake
spail basket (spâl-baws-ki”) n., arch. a wicker laundry basket, especially one used for carrying wet clothes to the drying line (perhaps from ‘spail’, a splinter).
spain (spâin) v., arch. to wean – ‘...and they sent their lambs to spain on the Common along with the eild sheep’ [C&L1767], ‘...were brought on to the Common before spanning time and remained there night and day ...’[C&L1767], ‘To nicker like a new-speaned foal’ [JL], ‘A class of men called ‘jobbers’, a name unheard of now, used to visit the farms about spanning time with a view to buying the lambs ...’ [BM1907], v., poet. to disgust, turn against food – ‘Butte mony un-see-mylye bann he gae. With looks a foal might spean’[JTe] (from Middle English, ‘spæan’ elsewhere in Scotland).
spainit (spâ-nee”, -ni”) pp., arch. weaned – ‘Shurelie I hae dune douselie, an’ quaietet myssel’ as an wean spainet o’ its mither ...’ [HSR].
Spain (spâin) n. name used for the farm of Braidhaugh, in the old parish of Abbotrule. Local historian Walter Deans said that the name was given in jest by the uncles of James Spencer Elliot of Wolfelee, i.e. brothers of Sir Walter Elliot (also recorded by Tancred).
spaihshial see spaiacial spaihshially see spaiacially

Spalding

Spalding (spawl-, spee-din”) n. Charles ‘Chairlie Speedy’ (19th C.) manager and elder in Alars Kirk in the late 1800s. He could be the son of George and Agnes Stewart (born in Hawick in 1846, and who died in 1903) or the son of Robert and Jean (born in about 1837). George (b.1818/9) plasterer in Hawick. In 1851 and 1861 he was at 8 Cross Wynd. He married Agnes Stewart and their children included: Agnes (b.c.1841); Charles (b.c.1845); Ellen (b.c.1847); and Jemima (b.c.1850), Thomas (b.c.1853); Robert (b.c.1855); and Isabella (b.c.1860). James (19th C.) professional runner from Hawick. He recorded many wins in the period 1863–78. In one Common Riding Games, he won the 300 yards, 500 yards and half-mile races. He also won races in Middlesbrough, Bolton and Burnley. He is probably the son of William and Margaret born in 1845/6. John (1838–1918) son of William and Margaret Scott. He was a framework knitter in Hawick. He married Catherine Michelle in 1863; she was daughter of Robert Michie and Christina Gillis. They emigrated to Canada, settling in Galt, where they were friends with fellow Teri Robert Murray. Their children were Christine, Helen, James, Catherine Wiekie and Mary.

Robert (18th C.) resident in Harwood Mill. In the baptismal records his surname is recorded as ‘Speedy’ in 1790 and ‘Speeden’ in other years. This makes it clear that he was ‘Spalding’ and probably an ancestor of the family nicknamed ‘Speedy’ in Hawick in the 19th century. His children included: George (b.1790), Charles (b.1792), James (b.1792), Janet (b.1792) and Jean (again, b.1795). Robert (b.1810/1) frameworker in Hawick. In 1841 he was at ‘Head of Silver St’ and in 1851 was on ‘Kirkstyle Place’. By 1861 he was on Dowemount St. in Wilton. He married Jane Robson in Hawick in 1834. Their children included: Charles (b.c.1837); William (b.c.1840); and Isabella (b.c.1842). Robert (1855–1934) younger son of George and Agnes Stewart. He married Agnes Revel in 1876. He could be the ‘Robbie Speedy’ mentioned in ‘Hawick Immortals’. William (b.1812/3) frameworker in Hawick. In 1841 he was on the Back Row, in 1851 he was living on the Kirkwynd and was in Mather’s Close in 1861. His wife was Margaret and their children were: John (b.c.1839); Helen (b.c.1840); Charles (b.c.1841), who married Agnes Stevenson; Mary (b.c.1843); Robert (b.c.1845); James (b.c.1846); and Robert (b.c.1853). He is probably the William who emigrated (with his family) to Guelph, Ontario and worked as a weaver in the factory of McCrae & Armstrong; while John Inglis was working there, he led the men to stop the machines and sing ‘Teribus’ at the factory during the Common Riding of 1876.

spang (spange v., arch. to span, stretch across, spring, leap, stride vigorously – ‘And she lap sae yald, and spanged sae hich, Her rigging banes did spring, leap, stride vigorously { ‘And she lap sae lively, she leapt and bounded vigorously’ [JTe], ‘Now the hiring is done, and off they a’ spang. They rin to the ball-room to join wi’ the thrang’ [DA], ‘...they’d think as muckle, an an, o a cuintrie-seide where yin’s sicht can spang owre dizzens o melies’ [ECS], ‘The road splet, an, ti the richt, spanged the Yll owre a brig’ [ECS], ‘Yis, the sparra hs fuund ane hous, an’ the spaw-ri, -ra

There is no provision for a question or answer in the given text. The text provides historical and etymological information about the term “spang” and related terms, along with phrases of broad Hawick dialect. The text also mentions the surname “Robert” in the context of family history and common riding games. The term “spang” is discussed as a verb meaning to span or stretch across, and it is etymologically related to “spank” and “spanky.” The text also includes examples of phrases in broad Hawick dialect, such as “spawl,” “spaw-ri, -ra,” and “spaw-ri-h.” The text concludes with references to the term “Speak Teri” and a note about a booklet produced by George Shankie in the early 1990s, featuring phrases of broad Hawick dialect.
special (spe-shul) n. Type of beer introduced relatively recently, being sweeter than 'heavy' and carbonated (cf. spacial).

sped (sped) adj., poet. Successful, satisfied – 'And when thou hadst taken away my three ky, Fala, &c. Thou thought in they heart thou was no well sped; But sent thy billie Willie o’er the know, And he took three co’erlets aff my wife’s bed. Fala, &c.' [CPM], 'How has the hunters sped, my dear? Say, have they reynard slain?' [JTe].

speeder (spee-dur) n. A spider – 'A deh care if they’re fast or slow, bit A deh like speeders', 'An’ speeders past my comprehension, Mawk–' [ECS].

specky (spe-kee) adj. Bespectacled, n. A nickname for someone with glasses.

specify (spe-see-fl-i’) pp., arch. Specified – '...the said yeir, month, day, hour, and place that said is, Indiction and Pape before specifyt.' [JW1558].

speeder-wob (spee-dur-web) n., arch. A cobweb (also a cob-web, spider-web – '...wui breezes therh the Border hills ti blaw away the ooder an the speeder-wobs therh a body’s herns' [ECS].

Speed-o-fit (spee-dö-fi’) n. Speed-of-foot, supposedly a witch, sister of 'Tranty-foot’ who lived at Goldielands. It may also have been a name for one of the two towers of Goldielands – 'The wonder-working witches Tranty-foot and Speed-o'foot ...of Goldielands Peel' [RW].

Speedy (spee-dee) n. Nickname of members of the Spalding family, from the similarity with the local dialect pronunciation speedin.

speel (spel) v., arch. To play, sport, amuse oneself – 'Nae mair we'll speel dark Ruberslaw, Nor ramble in the Wellswood brierie' [JS], 'Ilka nicht, or A'm weel sutten doon, the bairns come speelin on ma kneis an pookin at ma hair' [ECS], 'Whiles blythe the Chalmers' Haugh we’d play. Whiles speel up the Back Braes' [WL], '...A spelin' callant riskin’ screeve and cloure' [WL] (possibly from the Dutch).

speeler (spee-lur) n., arch. Someone who climbs – 'A guid speeler' [GW].

speerit (spee-ri’) n., arch. Spirit – '...tea keep eer strength an speerits up tae continue playin ...' [CT], '...Wi’ hingin’ heid, my speerit deid But for a touch o’ shame’ [WA], 'Intil thy han’ I committe my speerit: thou hest redeemet me, O Lord God o’ trouth’ [HSR], 'He sall sneg aff the speerit o’ princes ...' [HSR], '...aw was as sober as aw am euen, in the best o’ health and speerits’ [BCM1880], '...the owners oucht tae preserve it an’ no’ gi’e way tae that speerit o’ paganism which is ruthless an’ thoughtless ...' [BW1938], '...Its peat-reeky, granite-water swirlin’ delectable speerit; it’s illumination ...’ [DH], '...that fair pits the whole speerit o the Common Riding in a nutshell' [DH], v. To spirit (see also spreit).

speil see speel

speer (speer) v., arch. To ask, ask for, inquire, make inquiries – 'But dear, I wonder that ye dinna hear The news o’ Colim:– ye’ve thought shame to speer' [CPM], 'Paddy, ma laddie, I never fancied gear and daurna speer the price o’t' [JEDM], 'Only ane I saw hire, a strappan young queen, Heard her spier’d what her age was, and where she had been ...’ [DA], 'Hei hiedna weel spoken ti A kennd ei was the man A was speerin for’ [ECS], 'I speerd anent the Haack motor' [ECS], '...They leuch and jeered, rude questions speered, And Speirmanelands (spier-minz-lawndz) n. former name for lands in Bedrule Parish. In 1623 they are ‘Speirmanelands’ when granted to Thomas Ker of Cavers-Carre, along with Fulton, Crosscleuch, Menslaws and Ruecastle. They were also named in services of heirs for Kers of Cavers Ker in 1672, 1678 and 1684. The precise location is uncertain (it is ‘Speirmanelands’ in 1672, ‘Spearmanelands’ in 1678 and ‘Spurmanlands’ in 1684).

Speirs (speerz) n. Kenneth ‘Kenny’ (?– ) professional folk musician born in Gala. He worked for many years as a teacher in Hawick and lived near Denholm. He was a founder member of the John Wright Band, released the solo albums ‘Bordersong’ (1998) and ‘North Wind Blowing’ (2002) and has recently formed the band Real Time, with John Wright Band, released the solo albums ‘Bordersong’ (1998) and ‘North Wind Blowing’ (2002). He was a founder member of the Teviotdale Harriers. His wife is Margaret and their children Adrienne and Sandi. John of Condie (d.1573) son of James, he became a Lord Advocate in Scotland. He was also Queen’s Advocate to Mary, Queen of Scots, from 1555. He acted as one of the curators for the young Sir Walter Scott, whose father had been killed in 1552. In 1564/5 he signed the bond between the Scots and the Kers and also signed the further bond of 1568/9. Rev. John (19th C.) minister at Denholm Congregational Kirk 1844–46. In 1844 he married Ann Drew of Portobello. Rev. John Ryrie (b.1880) born in Helensburgh, son of James and Jane Ryrie. He graduated M.A. from Glasgow University in 1901 and B.D. in 1905, and was licensed by the Presbytery there in 1905. He became assistant at South Leith before being ordained as minister at Southdean in 1907. He remained there until 1950. He married Janet, daughter of James Currie and their children included James (b.1911). Matthew (16th C.) farmer at Weens. His barn and yard are mentioned in the 1562 document regarding the Barony of Feu-Rule.

Spence’s (spen-seez) n. Spence’s Music Shop at 4 Buccleuch Street, which has been Hawick’s main supplier of recorded music, instruments and equipment from 1966. The business was started by William Spence in Drumlanrig Square in 1962 before moving to its familiar location. William’s son Barry retired in 2017.

Spender (spen-dur) n. Robert ‘Rab’ (17th C.) recorded on a gravestone in Abbotrule. His wife ‘Margat Turnbul’ was commemorated on a stone that was set into the east window of the ruined church, but is now not discernible.

Speirk (sperk) n. a spark – ‘ee think ee’re a bright speirk div ee?’, v. to spark – ‘And the roar of the pitte was in their mouthes. And its fire was sperkin i’ their eyn’ [JTe], ‘…waese heidmaister Robert Wood sperked off his lifelong interest in poetry’ [IWL], to issue, fly out, sputter.
sperkit (sper-kee`, -ki`) pp., poct. sparked – ‘The kerlyn’s eye it sperkyt wi’ joy, Her leathery chaftis grew wide … ’ [JTe].

the Spetch (thu-spech) n. the Spetchman’s (or Spetchmond) Haugh, an area of the Teviot above the Laurie Bridge, a favourite area for bathing in the Summer – ‘Yer great-great-grannie’s great-great-grannie Bathed in my Spetch in sunshine balmy … ’ [WP], ‘… Dookin in the Spetch was braw Divin in off the Dunk wa’’ [IWL].

the Spetchman’s Haugh (thu-spech-minz-hawch) n. full name for the Spetch, being the flat land in the Park, on the south bank of the Teviot adjacent to the Laurie Bridge. The area was used in the period 1812–14 for morning roll call of the French prisoners of war in Hawick. The name is old, but not officially recorded until recently, hence its origin is obscure. It may have been pronounced as ‘spetchin’ in a transcript from 1764 (although willows are a prominent riverside feature near there, there is no evidence to support suggestions that it comes from an old Scots word for ‘willow’, and it seems more likely to derive from a personal name like ‘Spetch’ which means a leather patch or a cobbler in some dialects).

the Spetchman’s Sang (thu-spech-minz-sawng) n. poem written by David Hill, with the refrain ‘A day frae Hawick’s a day wasted’. Music was written for it by Scocha in 2001.

Spetchmond Haugh (spech-mund-hawch) n. a variant on the old name for the Spetch.

spewin (spew-in) adj. extremely bad-tempered – ‘spewin o ill-naitur’.

the Spider Hoose (thu-spi-dur-hoos) n. name for an outbuilding at Branxholme. Tradition says that it was either named after one of the Duke of Buccleuch’s favourite horses, or after a story connected with Wullie Craw climbing up to its rafters. It is recorded in the Ordnance Survey Name Book, to the west of Branxholme.

spiel see speel
spier see speir
Spiers (speerz) n. Rev. George pastor of Hawick Baptist Church around the 1950s. He was also minister at Shotts in Glasgow.

spile (spil, spi-ul) v., arch. to spoil – ‘… for breach of Sabbath by gutting herring in the evening thereof, qch he ingeniously acknowledged, thinking they would spile if lying ungutted until ye Monday’ [PR1712].

spill (spil) v., arch. to spoil, damage, ruin something – ‘… and gif any wobstar spillies, and makes not sufficient work after tryell, under the pane of £10 to the Bailies, and satisfaction to the party owner thereof’ [BR1657].

Spinnie Bank (spi-nie-bawng) n. area on the west side of the Liddel Water just north of Langhaugh, passed through by Spinnie Sike.

Spinnie Sike (spi-nie) n. stream that runs roughly south-east to join the Hermitage Water near Netherraw. There are the remains of 2 stock enclosures and sheep stell to the south of the stream. There was once a blacksmith’s shop at ‘Spinniesbank-End’.

spinnel (spi-nul) n., arch. a spindle.

spinniers (spi-nie-urz) n., pl., arch. a woman’s cap with long lappets, a pinner – ‘… Aw’ll leave her ma eye-holes To be a squintin’-glass To set her spinniers straigh, For they often stude aglei’ [JSB].

Spinniesbank (spi-nieez-bawng) n. former farmstead in Castleton Parish. It is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map just to the north of Langhaugh, and must have been located on Spinnie Sike.

spinnin (spi-nin) n. the industry of spinning yarn in Hawick grew up in the early 18th century and became fully established in the 1750s. Women would spin on the ‘muckle wheel’ and the yarn was carried on horseback to places such as Kendall, Boroughbridge (Yorkshire) and Stirling. The spinning wheel held a prominent place in households into the early 19th century, a wheel being the main gift for a new bride. The two main types were the ‘little wheel’ and the ‘meikle (or muckle) wheel’, an example of the former from Crumhaughhill being in the Museum. In 1733 a spinning school was opened in Hawick and in 1734 a spinning mistress was hired from England to take charge of the school, with some funding from the Board of Trustess for Manufactures. The first factor for the school was Robert Howison, and the instigation for founding it came from Douglas of Cavers, as well as Sir Gilbert Eliott of Stobs, John Chisholme of Stiches and some other local gentlemen. Weaving appears to have been added about 1736. The industry really took off when machinery was first introduced around 1798. In about 1850 it was estimated that yarn-spinning supplied about 1300 looms in Hawick.
spinning mule, invented by Samuel Crompton; with the invention of an automated version in 1825 it was soon in wide use in Hawick’s spinning mills.

spinning jenny (spinning-nee) a. arch. a cranefly, ‘daddy longlegs’, a toy made with a piece of pipe-stem and a match, which spins by twisting a thread attached to the middle of the match and threaded through the pipe-stem (cf. jenny-spinner).

spinnle (spinning) n. a spindle – ‘And the yairns whussle throwe the hacks Frae spinnele heavy banks’ [WL].

the Spion Kop (thu-spi-in-kop) n. former drinking club based on the Loan from about 1890 (named after the mountain in Natal, which was the scene of a defeat of the British by the Boers in 1900, and Dutch for ‘Look-out Hill’).

spirly (spir-lee) adj., arch. spindly, thin.

spirly-leggit (spir-lee-le-gee) adj., arch. having thin legs.

spitfei (spit-fee) adj. spiteful – ‘...Her mither’s choice, to be fair to the lass, For a spitfeu’ dame was Herodias’ [WL] (also written ‘spitfeu’).

spither (spit-thur) n., poet. empty speech, frothy talk – ‘Wha valu’d not your college spither’ [JR].

Spittal (spit-ul) n. fishing village south of Berwick that became a seaside resort town in the 19th century – ‘Thae browt ‘im a mount for heiz got the smittal Juist half the size o’ a donkey at Spittal’ [MB]. Also a local name for Spittal-on-Rule and other former hospitals, e.g. Smallholm Spittal.

Spittal see Spittal-on-Rule

Spittal Brig (spit-ul-brig) n. bridge at Spittal-on-Rule, carrying the A698 across the Rule Water. The original bridge was built in 1748 by the Douglases of Cavers and stands just to the north of the modern bridge.

Spittalflatt (spit-ul-flaw) n. former lands in Liddesdale, recorded as ‘Spittelflatt’ in 1541. It is stated to be valued at 6 merks and at that time vacant, but formerly tenanted along with the lands of Flatt. It is presumably adjacent to Flatt. The connection is to a hospital is unclear, but just to the north is Abbotshaws.

Spittal Haugh (spit-ul-hawch) n. former farm near Spittal-on-Rule. It was a tenanted farm of the Cavers estate.

Spittal Mill (spit-ul-mil) n. corn mill of the 17th century in Spittal-on-Rule, and name of the associated farm. The old Teind Barn there was presumably connected with the mill. James Scott was miller there in 1694. In the 18th century the lands of Spittal-on-Rule were separated between the Murays, Veitches and Bunyans, with the Veitches being tenants of the mill lands. John Veitch is recorded as tenant in 1792-97, James Turnbull in 1852 and James Ingles in the 1860s.

Spittal-on-Rule (spit-ul-on-rool) n. former village in the easternmost part of Cavers Parish, near the confluence of the Teviot and the Rule, between Denholm and Bedrule, off the A698. Rich in history, it is now little more than a farm. A leper hospital was probably founded there before 1425, with an attached chapel, possibly dedicated to St. Mary. The location of the chapel may have been the same as the later teind barn, or very close. In the chapel in 1425/6 there was a meeting of Turnbuls, Scotts and others to investigate the leprosy of John Turnbull of Minto (since lepers were legally forbidden from holding lands). John Davidson in Minto was recorded in 1493 having stolen 100 ells of woollen cloth from there. George Thomson was recorded there in 1502 (when he had 2 pigs stolen). The patronage of the church there was granted to James Douglas of Cavers in 1508 and the ‘advocation and gift of the kirk of Spitaill’ was listed among the rights inherited by the Barons of Cavers in 1509. The small graveyard was still used in the 18th century, and the vestiges of a former orchard were still clear in the early 20th century. At the nearby ‘Dead Haugh’ the Turnbuls are supposed to have begged the King’s forgiveness (with ropes around their necks) in 1494, instead every tenth man being hanged. The town was burned by Hertford’s men in 1545, probably destroying the hospital and chapel. However, the ‘advocation of the church’ was still mentioned in the 1558 Douglas of Cavers charter. In 1554 an acre of land ‘in terris hospitilis de Rowle, super lie Harparhill’ was granted to Archibald Elliot of Gorrenberry, along with the advowson of the chapel of St. Mary at Caerlenrig (perhaps suggesting a connection between the chapel at Caerlenrig and the one associated with the leper hospital at Spittal). The Mains of Spittal-on-Rule was sold by William Douglas of Cavers to Gilbert Ker of Primsde in 1563. The lands were farmed by Patrick Storie in 1605 and Richard Brown in 1610. Robert and John Wright were tenants there in 1642. John Lindsay was tenant there in 1684 when declared as a fugitive for refusing to conform to Episcopaliam. 9 people were listed there on the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Adam Leyden was there in 1721 and William Douglas in 1733. There were 3 tenants in the 18th century, the Murays, Veitches and Bunyans, but the 3 holdings were combined in 1807. Alexander Gowk was there in 1726. In about 1795 it was listed among parts of Cavers Parish that were nearer to Bedrule Kirk than their own kirk. William Johnstone is recorded as tenant in 1797, John Turnbull in 1841 and 1851, James Turnbull in 1861 and William G. Turnbull in 1868. It was purchased by Thomas Greenshields Leadbetter from Mrs. Palmer-Douglas in 1913. Several ruins can still be found here, including the Teind Barn, once the oldest building in the parish, and an ancient stone grave, found in a small knoll near the modern farmhouse. The 1863 Ordnance Survey map shows the location of the site of the chapel and old graveyard. The Kirkyard (or ‘Leper’) Well was said to possess healing powers, and the last Denholm witch was buried here. The hospital that gave its name to the location was possibly for lepers and maintained by monks from one of the nearby abbeys. A road bridge crosses the Rule Water nearby, with the adjacent arch of an older structure. The village was the location for a toll on the road between Denholm and Jedburgh; the Toll House at the road bend has had its windows bricked up and painted over with ‘false’ windows. Often locally called just ‘Spittal’ (and spelled various ways in the past, such as ‘Spittle’ and ‘Spittalrule’; the origin of the name is ‘hospital by the river Rule’, with ‘spital’ being a Middle Scots word for a hospital, usually connected with a monastery; the name first occurs as ‘spittale de roull’ in 1493, then ‘Spittal’ in 1508, ‘Spitaill’ in 1509, ‘Ecclesia de Spittale’ in 1511, is ‘Rewle Spittel’ in 1545, ‘the Spytill, Roull’ in 1548/9, ‘Spittalroull’ in 1558, ‘Spytall’ in 1576/7, ‘Rowll’ in 1548/9, ‘Spittalroull’ in 1558, ‘Spytal’ (and spelled various ways in the past, such as ‘spittale de roull’ in 1493, then ‘Spittale’ in 1622 and ‘Tower’ in 1715; it appears on Gordon’s c. 1650 map as ‘Tour’). It is listed as ‘Speteltoun’ and worth 4 pounds in a rental roll of c.1376.

Spittal Toor (spi’-ul-toor) n. Spittal Tower, modern farmhouse on the site of a former fortified house, west of Bedrule, up the Tower Burn from Spittal-on-Rule. The former farm, often just called ‘Tour’, was owned by Turnbulls in the 16th century. Gavin Turnbull ‘of the Toure’ was recorded in 1551 and James Turnbull ‘of the Toure’ in 1579/80. It was valued at £104 in 1643 and 1663. The ‘Mains of Tour’ (perhaps the same as the Mains of Spittal) was valued at £560 in 1643 and at that time owned by Douglas of Bonjedward. By 1678 the former lands of Turnbull of Toor were then in the hands of the Douglases of Cavers. The farm was tenanted by the Murays in the 18th century, ancestors of ‘Dictionary’ Murray. John Murray was a gardener living there in 1715. In about 1795 it was listed among parts of Cavers Parish that were nearer to Bedrule Kirk than their own kirk. William Johnstone, younger, was recorded as farmer there in 1797. Robert Barrie was farmer there in 1851 and 1861. It was combined into a larger farm with Spittal-on-Rule in the 19th century (it was ‘touris of Roulwode’ in 1622 and ‘Tower’ in 1715; it appears on Gordon’s c. 1650 map simply as ‘Tour’ and on Blaeu’s 1654 map as ‘Tour’).

Spittaloontoon (spi’-ul-toon) n. lost place name in Liddesdale, once part of the lands of Mangerton. spleet-new

ah’s’ [JoHa], n., a split, adj. split (for the verb the past tense and alternative form of the present tense is splet, with past participle form splitted).

spelkt-new (splee’-new) adj., arch. brand new (now split new is common).

splengairy (splen-ga-ree) adj., arch. ultra-fashionable, prone to weary vivid-coloured clothing.

splent coal (splen’-köl) n., arch. also called ‘splint coal’, an inferior kind of hard coal, usually from Scottish collieries.

splet (sple’) pp., arch. split – ‘the road splet, an ti the richt, spanged the Yll owre a brig’ [ECS] (past tense of spleet, with past participle being splitten).

splice (splis) n., a splinter, sliver of wood, especially one sticking into the hand etc. – ‘can ee help is get this splice oot’?, ‘But a splice or twae here An’ a roasty nail there’ [??].

split (spli’) n., arch. a small piece of split reed or metal, making a division through which the warp threads pass in weaving, also the space between the reeds – ‘multiply the set of reed by the number of threads on the leaf, and divide by the number of splits in the draught’ [BCM1881].

split-new (spli’-new) adj. very new, brand spanning new, alluding to the fresh look of recently split wood – ‘look it the glar on they shoes, split-new an an’ (note this term is obscure in England; cf. the older spleet-new).

splitten (spli’-in, spli-tin) pp., arch. split (past participle of spleet, with past tense splet).

splitter (spli’-ur, spli-tur) v. to splash, splatter, spill – ‘whae splitted the treacle’?, ‘Ma breeks er a’ splaittered wi’ glaur’ [RM] (also spelled ‘splitter’ and ‘splatther’).

splonsters (splon-sturz) interj., arch. a taunting cry with uncertain meaning – ‘For a boy to shout ‘Naig, Naig’ or ‘splonsters’, was quite sufficient to begin a street skirmish’ [RM].

sploonge (sploonj) n., arch. a sponger, v., arch. to sponge, be a parasite.

splore (splörr) n., arch. a frolic, spree, prank, escapade, exploration – ‘It’ll be a great splore and may help oor scheme tae right the wrong better than owt else’ [JEDM], ‘...An’ next I’m at a glorious splore, Wi’ Feeney Burns an’ Morgan’ [VW], ‘Nae cannie daffin bull-reel splore that fearfih fecht ...’ [ECS].

splutter see splitter

spluntin (splun-tin) n., arch. courtship, particularly the running after of girls at dusk – ‘The seams an plays o grit-folk an Royalties; ther splunteens an ther mairryeens ...’ [ECS].

spoot (spoo’, spoot) n., arch. a spout, a spring or well (usually emanating from a cleft in the rock), a waterfall – ‘Deep ca’s untill deep at the noyse o’ thy water-sports ...’ [HSR], ‘A’ll cairry twae-threi rake o waeter in for ee thrch the spoot’ [ECS], ‘And a merk, heich abune Hermitage, For the Dinlay Spoot’ [DH].

the Sports (thu-spörts) n., pl. another name for the Games at the Common Riding.

the Sports (thu-spörts) n., pl. a Rugby Sevens competition, this probably being the most common phrase used – ‘The rugby specials that went tae the sports And everybody carried their piece’ [AY], ‘So if, at the Sports, ye’ve said ‘A’ that I care Is to see the best seeven wun’ ...’ [DH].

Spottiswood (spots-wud) n. David of that Ilk (d.c.1550) son of William and Elizabeth Hoppringle. He was probably the ‘Spottiswood of that ilk’ who was listed in 1549 among the associates of Ker of Cessford who were accused by Sir Walter Scott of Brauxholmie of raiding and burning his farms at Goldielands and on the Borthwick. He was succeeded by his son Ninian. James (15th C.) rector of the church of Rankilburn, listed in 1543 on a roll of bachelors entered at the newly founded University of Glasgow. He is ‘rector ecclesiae de Rancelbum’. John (16th C.) recorded in 1558 as a rector of the church of Hawick, along with John Sundilands. This is probably the same man who was appointed as minister of Calder in 1560, son of William of Spottiswood (who was killed at Flodden). This John (1510–85) graduated from Glasgow University in 1536, went to London, returned to Scotland in 1643, became a Reformer and was appointed Superintendent of Lothian; he married Beatrix, daughter of Patrick Crichton of Lugton and Gilmerton and had children: John, who succeeded as minister of mid-Calder; James, Bishop of Clogher in Ireland; William; Rachel, who married James Tennent of Linhouse; and Judith. John (1565–1639) son of the minister of Calder, he went to Glasgow University at age 12 or 13, graduated in 1581, and became a favourite churchman of James VI. He was appointed as Archbishop of Glasgow in 1603 and translated to St. Andrews in 1615. He must have temporarily held the superiority of local lands, since he granted a charter to Robert Scott for the lands of Headshaw, Crawknowe and Clews in 1606 and another to John Turnbull for the lands of Barnhills in 1607. He was Moderator at the Assembly that abolished the presbytery. He later became Primate of Scotland and Lord Chancellor of Scotland. He crowned Charles I at Holyrood in 1633. He objected to the Covenant, escaped to England, was deposed and died in London, being buried in Westminster Abbey. He married Rachel, daughter of David Lindsay, Bishop of Ross. His children were: Anne; Sir John; and Sir Robert. Rev. Robert (c.1634–1696) graduating from Glasgow University in 1654, he became minister at Temple in 1663 and was translated to Crichton in 1676. He was deprived in 1681 for not taking the Test. However, he was translated to Abbotrule in 1687, but may only have been minister there for a very short time. He seems to have been a Presbyterian minister, who survived through the Episcopalian years past the Revolution. His wife’s name is not recorded, but their children included: Jean; Alexander, who became a merchant’s apprentice in Edinburgh in 1681; and Elizabeth, who was buried in Greyfriars Cemetery in 1696 (spelled ‘Spotswood’ and variants).

2806
Spoutburn Park

Spoutburn Park (spow′-burn-pawrk) n. name for a piece of land on Minto estate. It was listed in 1779, 1788 and 1811 along with Coach Park, with a joint value of £43 14s 6d. In 1780 it was recorded being on the western boundary of Lillielaw Park; this suggests that the stream passing through Minto Glen may have been known as Spout Burn.

Spoutgills (spow′-gilz) n. farmstead in Castleton Parish marked on Stobie’s 1770 maps, with ‘Spoutgillfoot’ just to the north. It is on a stream to the south of the Tweed Burn, perhaps corresponding to the modern Jordan Sike, in which case it would be essentially the same as Blinkbonny. John Armstrong died there in 1756 and is buried at Teviothead. Thomas Beattie lived there with his family in the 1770s and 80s.

Spout Sike (spow′-sik) n. small stream that runs in a roughly westerly direction to join Dawton Burn just to the north of Saughtree.

spouty (spow′-tee) adj., arch. full of springs, spongy, undrained (of soil) – ‘A good deal of the land in that part of the parish is at present rather spotty’ [J&W] sprag (sprawg) n., arch. a brad, small wire nail.

spratly (spa′-lee) adj., arch. reedy, rush-like – ‘...where it is wet and spongy, the grass is long, coarse and spratly’ [RJR] (cf. spread and spret).

sprauhle (spraw′-uhl) v., arch. to struggle, sprawl, climb, clamber, scramble – ‘...sprauhling up the brae’ [HSR], ‘I want ti gie the door a slam. He gets his fit ’tween door an’ jam, I shove an’ sprauhle all I can; But that’s nae use for Johnnie’ [WP] (also spelled ‘sprauhgle’).

sprauhgle see sprauhle

sprawl (sprawl) n., arch. a struggle, scramble – ‘...at which the Common riders made a sprawl and brought in the dyker ...’ [C&L1767] spread (spree′) n., arch. a kind of coarse water-rush, especially Juncus articulatus, formerly used for rope-making – ‘...And on the spot where they boiled’d the pot, The spread and the deer-hair ne’er shall grow’ [JL] (also ‘sprate’, etc.; cf. spret and spratly).

spreckle (spre-kul) v., n., arch. speckle, mottle.

spreckly (sprek-lee) adj., arch. speckled.

spread see spreid

spreid (spreid) v. to spread – ‘spreid yer ain toast’, ‘deh spreid yer germs’, ‘if ee pick that nose yince mair it’ll spread ower yer face’, ‘I hae seen the wicket in grit powir, an’ spreidin’ himsel abred like ane green bay-brie’ [HSR], ‘He spread ane clud for ane kiverin’...’ [HSR], ‘Spreidin’ aboot the primrose shaws Daith, hurt, an’ raucous fear ...’ [DH], ‘And now the chestnuts spreid braid fingers Haudin candles Til the Glory o Gode!’ [DH], ‘...playin’ ‘spreed the butter, cut the cheese’’ [IWL], ‘Comes the fa’ and the leaves o’ gowd and copper Spreid their braid carpet for stravaigin’ feet’ [WL], n. a spread (also spelled ‘speed’).

spreit (spreet) n., poet. spirit – ‘Yet still your spreit sends forth Green promises o life and leaf ...’ [DH] (see also speerit).

spret (spre′) n., arch. a coarse rush, especially Juncus articulatus, formerly used for rope-making { `spreid braid ...’ [DH], ‘And now the chestnuts spreid braid fingers Haudin candles Til the Glory o Gode!’ [DH], ‘...playin’ ‘spred the butter, cut the cheese’’ [IWL], ‘Comes the fa’ and the leaves o’ gowd and copper Spreid their braid carpet for stravaigin’ feet’ [WL], n. a spread (also spelled ‘speed’).

sprig (sprig) adj., arch. alert, spry, lively, quick, smart – ‘...the sprig jig O’ bairns’ sma-claes’ [DH].

sprigget see sprigot

sprigot (spri-gi′) n., arch. a spigot, water-tap, often an outdoor tap for a public water supply – ‘...A’ve gaen ti the spriggit an swaib-bit masul weel up wui waeter’ [ECS], ‘...waeter-waeter, waal-waeter, sprigget-waeter, or waeter thre thowward an ern cup hinging aseide eet be a cheen’ [HEX1965].

spring (spring) n., arch. a lively tune accompanying a dance – ‘A fiddle spring he’d let us hear, Springbank

I think they ca’d it ‘Nidge-nod-near’ ...’ [CPM], ‘... the child in the cradle whispers very slyly to the tailor, ‘If you winna tell ma mammy, I’ll play ye a spring on the pipes!’ [EM1820].

Springbank (spring-bawngk) n. house at the foot of Dickson Street, built in the early part of the 19th century. It was the home of 2 generations of hosiery manufacturer Alexander Laings. It took its name from a spring coming down from a former pond in Dickson Street.

Springbank Clinic (spring-bawngk-kli-neck) n. former centre for infant health, based at Springbank House, next to the Haig Maternity Home on Princes Street. The house was acquired in 1921 as a child welfare centre and home for the ‘Jubilee’ district nurses, with the clinic built as a 2-storey addition in 1929/30. Over the years it was used for many community health purposes, e.g. family planning, well-woman services and various voluntary groups. Its last such use was as offices for the Borders Health Board. It was empty after 1989 and sold in the mid-1990s as private housing.

Sprot (sprō’) n. Edward William of Drygrange (1846–98) younger surviving son of Mark. He presented a bell to Lilliesleaf Kirk. In 1867 he bought the estate of Drygrange from Sir George Leith and built a new mansion there. He married Marian Gray, daughter of James Boyd and also married a second time. His children were: Edward Mark of Drygrange (b.1872), who served with the King’s Shropshire Light Infantry; James William Lennox (b.1886); Harold Maitland (b.1888); and John Boyd (1889–98). Frances (1808–1902) brother of Mark of Riddell. In 1883 she gave money to built 6 cottages for ‘friendless and deserving widows or daughters of clergymen, and other ladies who had formerly been in better circumstances’. John (18th C.) recorded at Woll on the 1787-92 Horse Tax Rolls. He is recorded at ‘New Woll’ in 1794. It is unclear if he was connected with the later Sprots of Riddell. Col. John (1830–1907) son of Mark. He was educated in England and Germany and entered the 83rd Regiment as ensign in 1848. He served in Ireland and then for many years in India, where he was also put in charge of public works, directing the building of a road. He was Lieutenant during the Indian Mutiny of 1858. He returned to Britain in 1860, being in charge of the depot at Chatham and serving again in Ireland and in Gibraltar. He took leave from the army spending 18 months touring Europe, but then resumed duties as Major of the 91st Highlanders. He was then appointed Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General for Scotland. He is said to have been the first person to recognise the potential military uses for the bicycle. He retired with the rank of Lieutenant-General in 1885, having succeeded to the Riddell estate in 1883. He is often referred to as ‘Col.’, but achieved higher rank later. He extended the main farmhouse at Riddell in 1898. He was a Deputy-Lieutenant and Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire. He joined the Jedforest Club in 1885. In 1869 he married Georgina Mary, daughter of H.E. Surtees of Redworth Hall and The Grove, county Durham. In 1878 he secondly married Cecilia Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Rev. W.B. Doveton of Corston. In 1886 he thirdly married Charlotte Gertrude, daughter of W.T. Cole of Boscastle, Cornwall (whose mother was Anne Rutherford, daughter of William Scott of Raeburn and Lessuden and cousin of Sir Walter Scott). His children included: Cecilia Mary Dorothea (b.1880), who married Patrick Keith Murray; John Mark Francis (b.1881); and Col. Alexander William Ramsay (b.1883); Cecil George; Edward Walter Hearle (b.1887); Gertrude Gladys Violet (b.1888); Jack Hugh Stewart (b.1894). He wrote ‘History of the family of Sprot and the ancient mansion and estate of Riddell’. He also wrote several military pamphlets. John Mark Francis (b.1881) son of John. He married Meliora Hay. Their eldest son was John. Maj. John ‘Jock’ (1910–2010) of Riddell, born at old Riddell House. His sister was the Viscountess Whitelaw. He was awarded the M.B.E. He lived to his 100th year and was buried at Lilliesleaf. An autobiography was published on his 98th birthday. Mark (1802–83) eldest son of John and Mary, daughter of Benjamin Yule of Wheatfield. His father spent time in India and made his fortune in London. His great uncle Mark, was a financier who was involved with founding the London Stock Exchange. He was born in London in the same house as Benjamin Disraeli. His father died in 1817, and inheriting a fortune, he abandoned plans to enter the army. The Riddell estate was purchased in 1823, while he was still a minor. He was listed as proprietor in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. In 1826 he built an estate office there, which is now the main farmhouse. He had the lands drained and planted and built several farmhouses at that time. In 1848 he was appointed as a Deputy-Lieutenant of Roxburghshire and he also served as a Commissioner of Supply and Justice of the Peace for the county. In 1851 he was farmer of 1705 acres, employing 12 men and 26 women. He was listed at Riddell in Slater’s 1852 directory. In about 1874 he was listed in the Land Tax Rolls as owner of the Barony of Riddell, as well as Friarshaw, Newhouse and other lands in Lilliesleaf Parish: he also held some of Midlem, the superiority of lands in Ashkirk and Bowden Parishes, as well as Lilliesleaf. In 1829 he married Elizabeth, daughter of John Shewell of Sutton Park, Surrey. His sons were: John (b.1830), who succeeded; Capt. Mark George (1832–59), who died in Geneva; James Lewis Boyd (1845–57), who died at school in Ealing aged 13; and Edward William (b.1846) of Drygrange. Maj. Mark of Muselee and Riddell (20th C.) gained the rank of Major in the Royal Scots Guards. He was President of the Scottish Agricultural Organisation Society. He served as Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire. He married Meloria, daughter of Sir John Adam Hay. Their daughter Cecilia for Roxburghshire. He married Meloria, daughter of John Shewell of Sutt-

the Sprot Hooses see the Miss Frances Sprot Homes

Sprouston (spros-tin) n. village a few miles north-east of Kelso. It is also the name of the parish, being at the extreme north-eastern end of Roxburghshire. The lands there were once held by the Cranstons and later came into possessions of the Kers. A quarry in that region provided the white freestone used for much of the building in the area (the origin is possibly Old English for ‘Sprow’s farmstead’; it occurs in the early 12th century as ‘Sprostona’ and is ‘Sprowistoun’ in 1403).

spriish (sprish) n., arch. a spruce, v. to spruce, smarten up – ‘...an wad spruise an turn leafy again the maist shilpeet an disjasket!’ [ECS].

spriseht (sprisht) pp., arch. spruced – ‘As for mei. A gaed an got sales cleanen an spruisit wii a grand swaible o waeter ... ’ [ECS].

spruit (spri, spri‘) v., arch. to sprout.

spug (spug) n., arch. children’s name for a house sparrow – ‘Round the ring like little ‘spugs’ oo winged oor ways’ [RMc], ‘The blackie’s note, the cheepin’ spugs oot ‘mang the hedge ... ’ [WFC], ‘Back cam’ the soople spugs And ate the auld breid, But puir lang-craigit hernseugh Had mair pride than greed’ [DH] (also spelled ‘speug’).

spuil (spil) n., arch. a spool.

spuin (spin) n. a spoon (also spelled ‘spin’).

spuinfì (spìn-fi) n. a spoonful – ‘Juist a spuinfì o sugar helps the maidicine gaun doon’.

spul (spul-yee) n., arch. a robbery, plundering, legal action for spoliation – ‘...the Baylyeas for ane ryott, and bluid, ane provocavonie, ane spulyie ... ’ [BR], ‘George Renwicke ... was on-lawed in ane spulziea by away taking and violently abstracting the timber of ane stair pertaining to John Hart’ [BR] ‘...as also in an spulziea, in violentlie taking 4 dukes on the street, which the baylyiea had forst caught’ [BR1683], ‘I rejouice in thy wurd, as ane that fin’s grit spulsye’ [HSR], v. to rob, plunder, despoil – ‘Robert Scott of Horsleyhill was charged by protest with having masterfully spuizied out of James Liddell’s house five firelocks ... ’ [JW1673], ‘...ay, the puir an’ the needie frae him that spulziea him’ [HSR], ‘...an’ thaye that hae us spulzie for thamesel’s’ [HSR] (there are many spelling variations, e.g. ‘spulzie’ and ‘spulzie’: from French).

spulyit (spul-yee‘, -yi‘, -zee‘) pp., arch. despoiled – ‘The stoot-hairtet ar spulysiet: thaye hae sleepit their sleep owtricht ... ’ [HSR].

spunk (spungk) n. material used for starting a fire before there were matches, a piece of prepared touchwood or tinder – ‘John Broon yaised ti make an sell spunks’ [RM], ‘Kin ye gie’s ony spunks?’ [AL], ‘Look here, Bailie, hoo wad ye like if ye was felled wi’ an empty spunk box?’ [JGG], a spark, glimmer – ‘...they set a spunk ti ma gleed o Hope till it comes ti leife again’ [ECS].

Spunk (spungk) n. fictional character of ‘The Gutterbludes’, also know as ‘The Melgund Miser’.

spunkie (spung-k-ee) n., arch. a will-o’-the-wisp, ignis fatuus, luminous apparation associated with a bog, supposed to be supernatural.

spunk-man (spungk-mun) n., arch. a seller of matches – ‘He settled down as a ‘spunk-man’ or, as he preferred to call himself, a wood-merchant’ [RM].

spunk out (spungk-ow‘) v., arch. to pour out (of news, gossip, etc.) – ‘Something’ll happen, little doubt, To make the truth come spunkin’ out’ [RDW].

spunk-shanks (spungk-shangks) n., arch. spindle legs, long thin legs.

spur (spur) v., arch. to scrape at the ground, especially a hen in search of food – ‘To spur, to scrape, as a hen or cock on a dunghill’ [JoJ], to move the feet like an impatient child – ‘Spurrin’ wi’ your restless feet’ [JT].

spurtle (spur-tul) n., poet. a porridge stirrer, wooden stirring stick with bulbous base, v., arch. to stir a pot – ‘...Grated or diced, and spurtled throwe’ [WL].

spurtle (spur-tul) v., arch. to give a speckled or spotted appearance – ‘...the sunny blinks, keekin throwe atween the leafs, spurtelt the road wui greimeens o licht' [ECS].

sput (spu’) pp. spat – ‘effer hei sput at is, that’s when it got oot o haund’.

sputten (spu’-in) pp., arch. spat, spit, adj. spitting, especially in the phrase ‘sputten image’ – ‘El’s eis faither’s sputten eemeedge’ [ECS] (past participle form of the verb ‘spit’).

de the Squirrel (thu-skwar) n. popular name for Drumlanrig Square.

Square Haugh Park (skwar-hawch-pawrk) n. former name for a piece of land in Minto Parish. It was listed in 1779 and 1811, with a value of £65 13s 9d. It was among lands leredent to Robert Trotter in 1779, but disputed in 1780.

de the Square Rig (thu-skwar-rig) n. name for a roughly square-shaped field in the middle of Hawick Common, between the fields called ‘the Meadow’ and ‘Upper Acreknowe’.

de square sausage (skwar-so-seej) n. sausage cut from a large cuboid block, also known as ‘sliced sausage’.

squatter (skwa-tur) v., poet. to flutter, flounder – ‘…Stirrin, whileis, in nichtmares o auld hen-weirds – Squatterin wi a thrawn neck …’ [DH].

squeck (skwek) n. a squawk, applied to children who squawk too much – ‘The squecks were in the back sate o the car’.

squeeb (skweeb) n. a squib, small firework – ‘hei was aye gliffed o sqeebs’.

squeef (skweeb) n. a scamp, shabby-looking person, disreputable character, a male flirt – ‘A squeef amang the lasses’ [GW], an urchin, mishievous boy.

de the Squirrel (thu-skwi-rul) n. nickname in use in the early 19th century.

squunt (skwun’) adj. squint, askew, off the straight – ‘that pictur’s no streight, it’s squunt’, v. to squint, n. inclination, slanted position – ‘it’s off the squunt the now, can ee no hing eet right?’.

squurt (skwrur) n., v. squirt.

S.S. Mary an David (sintz-ma-ree-an-duvid) n. Roman Catholic Chapel at 15 Buccleuch Street. This was the first Catholic church in Hawick since the Reformation, made necessary largely by the arrival of Irish workers, who had been meeting informally through the 1820s and 1830s. Fr. William Wallace of Traquair worked to build the church and purchased land in 1841. This plot (later designated 15 Buccleuch Street) was bought from William Wilson, between the Subscription Rooms and the meeting house of the Society of Friends. The land formerly held several 2-storey buildings, which were demolished. The foundation stone was laid in June 1843 (amid in-clement weather), officiated by Fr. Wallace himself, flanked by the 2 Bailies. It was opened by Bishop Gillis the following year, with several other priests in attendance, as well as Earl and Lady Traquair and the choir of St. Mary’s. It original seated 400, the furnishings, altar and pulpit being given by the Earl of Traquair. When erected it was the only Catholic church between Edinburgh and Carlisle. A house for the priest was built in 1850/1 on the property immediately to the south and the associated school was started in 1854 (later with a separate building behind the Chapel on Buccleuch Terrace). A side aisle on the south was constructed in 1879, increasing the seatings by about a factor of 2. The Statue of the Sacred Heart was unveiled in 1913 and a War Memorial in 1920. The adjoining property (built as the Subscription Rooms) was purchased in the 1920s, and opened by Archbishop McDonald as the new Halls in 1930. The ornamental facade was removed in 1967 when renovations extended the front by a few feet. For much of the 20th century there was an assistant in Hawick, as well as the Priest. The Scottish Catholic Archives have records covering the period 1793–1939 and there are marriage and birth records from 1847 in the National Archives. The roll of the priesthood is: James Monaghan 1846–47; Patrick Taggart 1847–87; Patrick Shivers 1887–92; John Stevenson Lyle 1892–1912; George H. Bennett 1912–18; Thomas Gillon 1918–24; Edward Mellon 1924–30; Dominic Hart 1930–38; Daniel Kelly 1938–42; Gordon Gray 1942–47; James K. Birnie 1947–56; Peter Higgins 1956–66; Michael Sloan 1966–79; Jeremy Bath 2003–2008; Michael John Galbraith 2008– . A roll of the assistants is: Andrew J. Cameron 1936–38; James G. Harold 1938–42; Gordon Gray 1941–42; Eric Gordon 1942–45; Thomas Watt 1945–46; Thomas Engelen 1946–47; Charles Brodie 1947–50; Eric Barber 1950–55; Liam O’Mahoney 1955–56; John F. Byrne 1956–59; John Ramsay 1959–64; Joseph McMahom 1964–69; Francis Barrett 1969–70; Gerald Lynch 1970–77; John Agnew 1977–79; Michael Bagan 1979–85; Michael Sloan 1985–86.

staa (sta, staw) n., arch. a stall – ‘Now Liddesdale has lyan lang in, Fala, fala, fala, faliddle. There is nae riding there at a’: Their horses are grown sae lidder fat, They downa stur out o the sta’. Fala, &c’ [CPM], ‘Cheap corn an’ hay now Stable

St. Abbs Head (now a nature reserve) and with several nearby prehistoric camps. The Canongate of Edinburgh, of ane little stature, wasDougal Anderson, about 16 years of age, from David Anderson, about 16 years of age, from the Canongate of Edinburgh, of ane little stature, wanting an ey ...’[BR1700], ‘This, thy staater, is like til ane pawm-trie: : : : ’[HSR] (there are spelling variants).

St. Abbs (sin’-awbz) n. Borders town on the coast north of Eyemouth with the spectacular St. Abbs Head nearby. It has a picturesque harbour and one of the few stretches of sandy beach in the area (named after St. Ebbe, or Abba, daughter of King Æthelfrith, who founded the Stag’s Head Bar, on the right-hand side of Drumlanrig Square since the late 19th century. It was formerly Gotterson’s Innery and probably went by other names.

Staig (stäig) n., arch. a young horse, colt or filly — ‘God send the land deliverance Frae ev’ry reaving, riding Scot: We’ll sune hae neither cow nor ewe, We’ll sune hae neither staig nor stot’[LHTB].

Stainch (stäuch) n., arch. to staunch, stop, check the flow.

Stanton (stäin’in) n. Alexander (1835/4–1926) ‘Elec the Bellman’, son of Samuel. He was Hawick’s last Bellman, effectively acting as Town Crier. He lived on Dickson Street or perhaps 10 Wilton Crescent. He may be the same Alexander who was Precentor at the East Bank Kirk. He was celebrated in a poem by William Peffers – ‘A wee bit earnest, faithfu’ man, Far sma’er than his voice. Ye’d wonder how he can contain Sic devastatin’ noise’[WP]. He can also be seen in a portrait by ‘Elliot’. He also appears in a film clip at the Vertish Hill Sports in 1909/10, wearing a distinctive ‘yauchting-style’ hat. Private Thomas R. Stanton (1896/7/17) of the Black Watch was probably his son. James (b.1800/1) from England, he was a nail maker in Hawick. In 1851 he was at 8 O’Connell Street and in 1861 was a ‘Nailmaker Master’ at 2 Melgund Place, employing 1 man. His 1st wife died in 1840 and his 2nd wife was Janet, from Kirkton. Their children included Elizabeth. Robert (c.1825–90) born in Hawick, son of music teacher James, he apparently left Scotland in 1850 after an argument with his father. He became a preacher, living for a while in Chester and travelling around the north of England. He married Elizabeth Warburton and later Eliza Hayton Davis, and his sons were Robert Kirk and James H. Following a famous court case in 1867, in which several Union men were convicted of bombings and other ‘rat-tening’ crimes, he interceded to try to get one of mid-1800s. He may have married Janet Smith in Galashiels in 1864. He helped introduce cricket to the Town. John (19th C.) left Hawick to be a soldier in India in the 19th century, writing ‘The Hawick ‘Callants’ Farewell’ before leaving. He had been involved in the local Good Templar movement. John (1840/1–1910) Hawick man who was the last hosier to operate in Denholm. He worked in a building to the east of the Fox and Hounds. His wife was Christina Wallace, who died in 1914, aged 74.

the Stag’s Heid (thu-stawgz-heed) n. the Stag’s Head Bar, on the right-hand side of Drumlanrig Square since the late 19th century. It was formerly Gotterson’s Innery and probably went by other names.

Staa (sta, staw) v., arch. to stall, delay (see also storm-staad).

Staatur (staw’-ur) n., arch. stature — ‘...and David Anderson, about 16 years of age, from the Canongate of Edinburgh, of ane little stature, wanting an ey ...’[BR1700], ‘This, thy staater, is like til ane pawm-trie ... ’[HSR] (there are spelling variants).

Staa (sta-) n., arch. a yard for stacking peat or possibly harvested crops — ‘...did freely confess the taking away from Mr Robert Cunningham, minister of Wilton, three burdens of oat straw out of the stacke yaird’[BR1700], ‘...they would find the fowls ‘under the muckle thorn-bush i’ the stacke yard’’[EM1820].

Stafford (staw-furd) n. Joseph ‘Joe’ (19th C.) English stockingmaker who came to Hawick in the the men his old job back. He is buried at Huddersfield. Samuel ‘Sam’ (1820/21–1894) a native of Berwick, he went to Nottingham to learn the stocking-making trade, then moved to Hawick, where he was Sunday School Teacher, Organist and Precentor at Wilton Church from 1855. In that same year he led the formation of the Saxhorn Band, for which he was the first bandmaster. His regular job was a woolen frameworker. He was living at 12 O’Connell Street (probably formerly No. 4) in 1851 and on Dickson Street in 1861. He married Sarah Sales and their children included: James; John; Robert; Alexander (‘Elec the Bellman’); Ann (b.1856); Agnes (b.1858); Elizabeth (b.1860); Sarah (b.1862); Sarah Elizabeth (b.1864); George Frederick Handel (b.1867); and Charlotte (b.1869) (written ‘Stenten’ and variants).

stair (stær) n. a stair, staircase, set of steps, often used as a plural – ‘she was already it the top o the stair’, ‘…upon accompt that he built the stone stair that goes up to the steiple’ [BR1714], ‘…the said Andrew came down the Bedell’s stair att the above mentionat silent houres of ye night’ [PR1718], ‘…Doon oor close and up oor stair’ [IWL], ‘Through the close and doon the stair. Watch yer back for Burke and Hare’ [Sco].

stair Watch yer back for Burke and Hare’ [Sco]. stair (stær, stür) adj., arch. harsh.
stairge (stærj) v., arch. to walk with a deliberate step, strut – ‘…an seine A gaed staiirgin up the ‘Canniegait!’’ [ECS], ‘Stairgin’ as if the hail place belang’d ti ‘im’ [GW].
stairheid (stær-heid) n. top of a set of stairs, especially the landing at the top of a common staircase.

stairt (stær) v. to start (less common variant of stert).

staiethe (stă-thul) n., arch. the lower part of a corn-stack, foundation of a stack – ‘The lower, upright-sided part of a stack’ [GW].

stale see stave

Stalker (staw-kur) n. Rev. James (d.1816) son of John of Edinkillie, he graduated from King’s College, Aberdeen in 1777. His brother Donald was schoolmaster at Rothiemurchus. He was licensed by Chanonry Presbytery in 1784 and in 1785 was ordained as assistant minister at Fort George. Here he was Chaplain to the Royal Forces, leading to some service that earned the gratitude of his Patron, William, Duke of Roxburghe (then Lord Bellenden). He was also made a Burgess of the Burgh of Nairn in 1793. He was presented as minister of Lilliesleaf by the Duke of Roxburghe in 1804 and admitted there the following year. However, this was against the wishes of some of the Lilliesleaf parishioners, who wanted the previous incumbent’s son John Campbell as their minister. This disagreement led to about 70 families seceding to form a Relief congregation, which built the secession church in the village. Despite a rocky start, he stayed at Lilliesleaf until his death, and remained unmarried. A letter to his brother describes in detail the circumstances of his presentation to Lilliesleaf Parish. He subscribed to Andrew Scott’s book of poetry, published in Kelso in 1811. He died at the Manse.

stam (stawm) v., arch. to stamp along, stumble, stagger – ‘Wi’ giddy pates an’ yill-stain’d claes, A’ hamewards they gae stammin’’ [JoHa].

stamack (staw-muk) n., poet. stomach, appetite – ‘The master’s heart’s raise to his hass, His stomach vow’d to flynch’ [JTe], ‘Syne, when the stamack’s satisfied, The twae heids cry, ‘Weel met!’’ [DH] (also written ‘stomach’).

Stamper’s (stawm-purz) n. public house at the north corner of North Bridge Street and Croft Road (address 2 North Bridge Street), in part of the former post office building. It is well known as a local music venue.

stample (stawm-pul) v., arch. to stamp, walk heavily – ‘The auld gudeman came stamplin ben, On battle he was bent …’ [JTe].

stamyn (stä-min) n., arch. a woollen cloth used as a fabric for furnishings – ‘Item, to Willie Scott of Selkirk, for certane stamyn and furneising of the teindis leding, fourtie pundis’ [SB1574].

stan (stawn) v. to stand – ‘…behold, he stan’s ahint our wa’’ [HSR], ‘…But mansions stan split doon the middle, now – On Sunnyhill’ [DH], ‘Hei was stan’in at his back door, ca’in them blots on the landscape …’ [DH], n. a stand – ‘There’s pethers and potters, and gingergread stan’s, Peep-shows, puff-and-darts, and great caravans …’ [DA] (also spelled ‘stamn’).

stance (stans) n. a station, position, site, particularly used for a taxi stand or bay in a bus station, location (of a house etc.) – ‘…and over the middle of the stance of a house in the midst of the town …’ [C&L].

stanchel (stan-chul) n., arch. an iron bar, particularly fitted in a window – ‘Received for 27 lbs. stanchel iron taken out of the thieves’ hole window, … L.0 4 6’ [BR1787].

standard (stân-dur) adj. word formerly used to refer to classes beyond the three infant classes, so that e.g. ‘standard one’ was equivalent to ‘primary four’.
Standhill (stand-hil) n. site for sidings on the Waverley Line, just north of Hassendean, in Ancrum Parish. The farm (or at least its 2 parts) was once owned by the Kers. David Murray was recorded there in 1494/5, when sheep, cattle, horses and other goods were pillaged from there, as well as the farm being burned. George Turnbull of Standhill is recorded in 1553/4. Hector Turnbull had a charter of ‘feu farm’ of the ‘2 1/2 lands’ of Standhill in 1610 and it was held by the Turnbulls of Knowe, as recorded in 1631 and in 1660 and existing in the National Archives. John Turnbull ‘in Standhill’ had his lands valued at £120 in 1643; he is also recorded as owner in the Land Tax Rolls of 1663 and 1678. It appears to have passed to the Riddells about 1664. However, Turnbull of Standhill is supposed to have been the leader of the Covenanter supporters who besieged and broke into Drumlanrig’s Tower in 1679. It later formed part of the estates of the Elliots of Minto; there are deeds among the Minto papers dating from 1610 to 1806. ‘Captain Turnbull’ paid tax for 14 windows there in 1748. In 1779 it is recorded that the lands were owned by ‘Mrs Turnbull and Mrs Stenhouse’ and in 1788 by Capt. Stenhouse. John Amos was farmer there in 1794–97. The Minto estates sold it in 1951 (marked on Blaeu’s 1654 map; it was ‘standhil’ in 1494/5).

stand oot (stawn-doot) n., arch. a strike. Hawick’s first one recorded was in 1817 – ‘Hawick had hitherto been free of stikes, or ‘stand oots’, as they were called’ [RM].

stand oot (stawn-doot) n., poet. to be in opposition, rebel – ‘Nae stoutlier stude out for their laird, Nor did the lads o’ Liddesdale’ [CPM].

St. Andrew’s Kirk (sin’-awn-drooz-kirk) n. name of the former convent and nursing home at Stiches House.

St. Andrew’s Kirk (sin’-awn-drooz-kirk) n. name of the former convent and nursing home at Stiches House.
of 18 months, during which time the congregation joined St. John’s. The church was demolished in 1959/60, with congregation becoming part of Trinity Church. The site was used as a petrol station and later a car wash. A roll of the ministers is: Duncan Stewart 1868–1908; William Farquharson 1908–14; James A. T. Kennedy 1915–21; John Mowat 1922–30; George Sutherland 1930–40; Neil D. Craig 1941–46; John S. Miller 1954–59.

St. Andrew’s Place (sin’-awn-drooz-plis) n. street planned for Stirches, but never built, despite appearing on Burrow’s street map.

Stane (stān) n. a stone, stone – ‘A ye wha pry deep into nature In yirrh, an’ stane, an’ a’ sic matter …’[JoHa], ‘My stanes the steps o’ those hae borne, By which they gloriad to be worn’[AD], ‘Happy sall he be that tak’s an’ devals thy wee anes agayne the stanes’[HSR], ‘I couldna’ thole the cauld hearth stane …’[JEDM], ‘Oh! Had thae rugged stanes a tongue What sermons they could preach’[JT], ‘Wulton was biggit in comely stane Quarried frae native hills – Frei-stane and whun …’[DH], ‘…But the hert is stane that disna warm To the auld gray buskit mither’[WL], ‘Grey are the stanes o’ Drumlanrig’s toor o’ the Border’[IWS], stone weight (14 pounds), note that the singular form is often used for the plural – ‘the twae stane hei’d lost didni half please his horse’, ‘Full fifteen stane o’ Spanish iron They hae laid a’ right sair on me …’[CPM], v. to stone, throw stones at – ‘…the deevils staned us in, and staned us oot, an’ staned us a’ the time we were there’[WNK], ‘Evil deeds, ye dirty savage, ye, I’ll hae ye staned oot o’ the Haugh if ye gie’s ony mair o’ yer impudence’[JEDM], adj. made of stone – ‘Item, whatevemer person that monds tp big ane stane dyck betwixt his nighbour and him …’[BR1640].

Stane-blind (stān-blind) adj., arch. completely blind.

Stane-deef (stān-deef) adj. completely deaf, as deaf as a stone.

Stanedge see Stonedge

Stane-dumb (stān-dum) adj., arch. completely silent – ‘To sit stane-dumb …’[JoHo]. connection with Staney Hill, just east of South-Deanig Rig, seems likely.

the Stane o Destiny (thu-stän-ô-des-ti-nee) n. stone on which Kings of Scotland were historically crowned at Scone, which was removed and taken to Westminster by Edward I in 1296, to be fitted into a chair used to crown subsequent English sovereigns. Although just a rather unremarkable oblong of locally-mined sandstone, the object was held to have mystical properties, with legends claiming it came from ancient Ireland or even the Middle East. In 1950 a group of 4 Scottish students removed the stone from the Abbey and ‘repatriated’ it to Scotland. With major Border crossings closed the group smuggled the stone by car up the A7 and there is a rumour that it spent the night in Hawick (perhaps in Bob and Nessie Oliver’s shop on Drumlanrig Square) on its way north. Certainly one of those responsible, Alan Stuart, had a granddaughter who lived in Hawick at the time. There was a huge police operation to find the culprits and the stone, which was deposited at Arbroath Abbey a few months later, quickly being returned to England, but ‘loaned back’ to Scotland in 1996.

stane pirrie (stän-pi-ree) adj. daft, feather-brained – ‘Stane pirrie (for daft) derived, I think from Pirri’s stone ginger in Hawick’ [HAST1958].

Stanestygill (stän-nee-gil) n. lands in Liddesdale, to the north of Whisgills. In a rental roll of c.1376 ‘Stanygill’ was valued at 5 shillings. In a 1541 roll ‘Stanygill’ was leased to Simon Armstrong (possibly of Tinnisburn), and valued at 5 shillings. In 1632 it is listed among the Liddesdale possessions of the Sheriff of Teviotdale, as well as among the lands of Thomas Kerr of Ancrum. Stanestygill Rig lies to the east of Tinnis Hill, with the Stanestygill Burn running roughly southwards to meet the Tinnis Burn near Redmoss. Where Black grain and Dow Silke join the Stanestygil Burn is a sheep-fold built over the remains of a rectangular structure, possibly a tower. Jeffrey suggested this was ‘Puddingburn Ha’, but that seems more likely to be much further north, near Paddington Sike. The remains of the tower here are about 7 m by 5 m, with the east wall missing entirely. Further upstream, on the west bank, is a platform suggestive of the location of an illicit still (it is ‘Stannygill’ and ‘Stanygill’ in 1632; ‘Stainygill’ is marked on Blaeu’s c.1654 map).
Staneyhaugh

Staneyhaugh (stā-nee-hawch) n. former lands in Liddesdale, recorded on a rental roll of c.1376, with a value of 8 shillings. The precise location is unknown, but probably on the west side of the Hermitage Water (it is ‘Stanyhalch’ around 1376; it could be connected with Staneshiel).

Staney Hill (stā-nee-hil) n. hill to the south-west of Old Northhouse, reaching a height of 335 m. It may be related to the lands of ‘Staneholm’, recorded in the 16th century (it is ‘Stony Hill’ on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map, but ‘Staney Hill’ today).

Staney Meadi (stā-nee-me-di) n. former name for lands near Newton in Bedrule Parish, listed as ‘Stoney Meadow’ in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls.

Staney Stewart (stā-nee-stew-ur) n. dyke builder in John Ballantyne’s song ‘Pawkie Puitterson’. His first name is unknown, but one possibility is Andrew Stewart, and agricultural labourer living at Crow Byres in 1841, about the time the song was written – ‘And as for Stoney Stewart, He’s often scarce o’ stanes, And for to mend his aulf fall dykes Aw’ll leave him ma auld banes’ [JSB].

stang (stawng) n., arch. a sting, wound, stab or pain made by a sting – ‘Her words nae stang was cairry’ [WL].

Stanger (stān-jur) n. Tony Hawick rugby player in the Wing position. He first played for Scotland in 1989 and gained 52 caps, scoring a total of 106 points, including a record 24 tries, one of which was the famous Grand Slam winner – ‘Come and tell me, Tony Stanger, have your feet returned to earth? Was it for this magic moment that your mother gave you birth? When you looped halfway to Heaven, did you hear the mighty roar, As fifty thousand voices were all willing you to score’ [TD].

Stanishope (sta-nis-höp) n. farmstead in Cavers parish, to the north of the Maidens, reached via a track from Shankend. The Catrail passes near here. It is probably the ‘Scanehushope’ among lands in the Barony of Cavers resigned in 1368 by Thomas Baliol to his superior William, Earl of Douglas. It is listed as part of the holdings of Douglas of Cavers in a charter of 1511. There are further deeds from 1614, 1624 and 1625 in the Douglas of Cavers papers. It was owned by the Eliotts of Stobs at the end of the 17th century. It was listed among the lands of Elliott of Stobs in 1678. It was still in the Barony of Cavers when inherited by Sir William Douglas in 1687 and by his brother Archibald in 1698. It was still listed among the possessions of Sir William Elliott of Stobs in the Land Tax Rolls of 1811. William Little was shepherd there in 1861 and R. Elliott was there in 1868. The area is under forestation and an extensive area around the former steading are now sometimes called ‘Stenishope forestry plantation’ (also written ‘Staneshope’, ‘Stenishope’ and ‘Stenishope’ on the Ordnance Survey map; the origin is probably from Old English ‘stan hush’, ‘the valley with the stone house’; the name first occurs as ‘Staneshope’ in the mid-14th century, is ‘Stanishope’ in 1511, ‘Staineyshope’ in 1678 and is transcribed ‘Stoniehome’ in 1687 and ‘Stainhope’ in 1698).

stank (stawng) n., arch. a pond, swampy pool, ditch ‘Alang by the dead water stank, Jock Fenwick I met on the lea, But his saddle was toom in a clank, An’ wha daur medle wi’ me?’ [T] (from French).

stank (stawng) v., arch. to breathe hard, pant, gasp for breath – ‘...till there was nocht left o the nerrest-hand loch bit paddihs, fishes stankin for braith, an glet’ [ECs], n., arch. a deep breath, gasp, pant.

stankish (stawng-kish) adj., arch. somewhat stagnant – ‘stankish water’ [GW].

Stanledge (stan-li) n. former name for Stanedge.

stanner (staw-nur) n., poet. a rounded pebble on a shore – ‘Stannirs, the rough projecting stones on the shore of the sea, on the banks of rivers, and the braes of burns’ [JL].

stanner (staw-nur) n., poet. a stander, pillar – ‘He mde the stannirs o’t o’ siller ...’ [HSR].

stannin (staw-nin) pres. part. standing – ‘he was stannin at the bottom o the Policeman’s Brae’, ‘He turns the wilidniss intil ane stannin’ water, an’ drye grund intil wals o’ water’ [HSR], ‘...so that A was stannin on bluddy Ancrum Muir’ [ECs], ‘There was Jock, wui Robbie an Yid, an kens whae forby, stannin at the road-end’ [ECs], ‘For now o’ the Loan I used to ken There’s hardly a stannin’ stane’ [DH], ‘...Comes breistin abune the tides o nicht To the cauldfrife fule still stan’in there’ [DH], ‘...Dotards, can ye leave them stannin’?’ [GWe], ‘Ee sei, the Queen was at the tither side o’ the car frew where stannin stane

Aw was stannin’ [BW1978] (also written ‘stan’in’, etc.; note that ‘stand’ is usual for the verb, but the present participle loses the d).

stannin stane (staw-nin-stān) n. a large stone that appears to have been deliberately placed in its location, often upright, and of great antiquity. Examples near to Hawick include individual stones at Midshielis, near Saughtree (the Knocking Stone and the White Stones), at Hermitage (the Buck Stone), on Brown Rig, at Lilliard’s Edge and near Priesthaugh (the Tinlee Stone), as well as the stone circles at Burgh Hill and Ninestane Rig.

stannyel (stan-yel) n., arch. a clumsy-footed person.

Stan Reid’s (stan-reedz) n. popular venue for dances in the pre-WWII years, located in the Drill Hall, and organised by Stan Reid. For the next few years dances were organised by the Territorial Army, but still referred to as ‘Stan Reid’s’.

Stansfield (stanz-feeld) n. Sir James (d.1687) receiver general for the Scotts of Buccleuch from 1673, taking over the position from Patrick Scott of Langshaw. He was a Colonel in the Parliamentary army. He was murdered near Haddington by his son Philip, apparently because he disinherited him. The curious story involves the body apparently bleeding at the son’s touch, this being considered as a divine sign of his guilt, and after the son was hanged his tongue was cut out for cursing his father, his hand cut off for patricide and his severed head put on public display.

stap (stawp) v., arch. to stop up (a hole), block, stuff, choke, fill up – ‘Draaw eawt alsua the speer, an’ stap the waye agayne thame that persikute stuff, choke, fll up’ [ECS], ‘...an’ stap the waye that persikute stuff, choke, fll up’ [ECS], ‘...an’ stap, a dish in ilka haund, Wi’ bread ye scarce could see’ [WFC], ‘...I’m weel-weshed, then stapped wi’ ingin, And yits and liver, lites and a’ thing ...’ [DH], ‘Then he staps his pipe Wi’ bacca rank, And trots till he’s dry Alang the bank’ [DH], ‘I liked to see the big man twirl the poke, And stap it fu’ o’ sugar and brose meal’ [WL], to thrust, push vigorously – ‘Stap eet in throwe the door!’ [ECS], n., arch. a stopper, stave of a wooden vessel, ‘Ti take a stap oot o’ yin’s bicker’ means literally to reduce the size of one’s dish, or figuratively to humble someone – ‘A’l taik a stap oot o your bicker = I’ll reduce your allowance’ [ECS], ‘Ti gang a’ ti staps’ is to fall to pieces, become worthless, deteriorate, degenerate – ‘Ma wesheen-tub is geizent. Its gaen aa ti staps’ [ECS].

stap (stawp) v., poet. to stride, take long steps – ‘A muckle big, bang fallih that staapeet alang the Jethart road’ [ECS], ‘...And the auld laird stap-pin’ hanewan Is a soured man’ [WL], n., arch. a step, stride – ‘A’ll taik yow doon a stap’ [ECS] (also written ‘staap’ and ‘staup’).

Staplegordon (stå-pul-gor-din) n. village a few miles north of Langholm and name for the surrounding parish. The settlement was formerly of greater importance and was once a burgh in its own right. The parish was briefly united with Roxburghshire following an Act of Parliament in 1672. It was united with Wauchope in 1702 and its name changed to Langholm Parish (it is ‘Stabilgortoun’ in 1324 and ‘Stablegorden’ on Sandison’s c.1590 map).

stapler (stāp-hur) n., arch. someone who sorts wool.

stappit (staw-p’ɛ̆-‘pi’) pp., poet. stopped, stopped up – ‘...but the lips o’ thame that speik lees sall be stapit’ [HSR], ‘...when a muckle lang car stoppit and a man wi horn-rimmed glasses stuck his heid oot’ [DH].

stapple (staw-pul) n., arch. the stalk of a clay tobacco pipe (also pipe-stapple).

Staracleuch (stawr-kloooch) n. a hill between Cauldcleuch and Greatmoor, about 10 miles south of Hawick, also known as Starcleuch Edge – ‘Breath of the heather from glade and glen, By Caldcleuch and Starcleuch and Penchrise Pen’ [JYH], ‘Just the verses, in strong-stading Scots – un-pawky, hale and sound – and all on one theme. A hill called Starcleuch Edge’ [DH].

stark see stirk

Stark (stawrk, sterk) n. Andrew (1827–1900) from Westruther, Berwickshire, son of Robert and Isabel Moir. In 1861 he was a grocer and corn dealer on Dickson Street in Wilton. He was later a farmer in Lilliesleaf Parish and at Broom in Ancrum Parish. In 1858 in Wilton he married Eliza, daughter of James Riddel. Their children included: an unnamed son (b.1858); Mary (b.1860); Jane (b.1862); James (b.1864); Isabella (b.1866); Robert (b.1870); and William (b.1875). David (17th C.) tenant in Harden in Castleton Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Ian (1954– ) born in Gala, he won 4 silver medals at the Olympics for equestrian events, as well as several other major international championships. He was Chief Guest at the Common Riding in 2003 and guest of honour at the 2012 Hawick Olympics celebration. He lives near Selkirk. starlight special

starlight special (star-lī'-spe-shul) n. night train that sometimes passed through Hawick station.

starnie (stawr-nic), poet. a star – ‘When no’ a starnie lent its light To cheer my lonely way’ [JT], ‘….And sweetly the starnies a’ blink through the blue’ [JT], ‘I saw the wee starnies beginning to sparkle, Aboon Christen-berry I saw the moon spiel …’ [DA] (cf. ster and stern).

the Star o’ Robbie Burns (thu-stawr-ō-ro-bee-burnz) n. song written in 1879 by James Thomson, with music by James Booth (an English-born accompanist, based in Glasgow). It seems likely that Thomson met Booth when the latter was musical director for a performer at the Exchange Hall in 1873. The song was first sung at the Hawick Burns Club by Thomas Strathearn on the 120th anniversary of Burns’ birth, in Graham’s Hotel (later the Holland House). It was also popularised by the tenor singer J.M. Hamilton. The song was soon taken up by Burns admirers worldwide. It is typically the only song performed at Burns suppers that was not written by the Bard himself (sometimes also pronounced raw-bee).

the star o the ei (thu-stawr-ō-th-ī) n., arch. the pupil of the eye.

start an o’er loup (star’-in-ōr-lowp) n., arch. the limited right of livestock to startle and leap over a boundary into neighbouring lands – ‘…did not disturb the Hawick horses, as they allowed start and oerloup …’ [C&L1767], ‘The tenants of his Grace, whose farms lay contiguous to the town-common, had been in the practice of taking start and o’er loup with their cattle on the burgh muir’ [RW] (see also owerloup).

the Station (thu-stā-shin) n. Hawick Railway Station, built when the Edinburgh line was opened in 1849 and reconstructed in 1862 with the opening of the Carlisle line. The original station was about 80 m west of the newer one, and was then used as a goods depot. An extra platform and subway were constructed for the 1914 Highland Show. The Station area also had extensive goods yards and sidings, and the offices of coal merchants. The last train left on 5th January 1969, with the track lifted 2 years later, and the buildings demolished in 1975. The site eventually saw the opening of the Leisure Centre in 1982. There is little remaining to indicate a station was ever there, although part of the original platform is incorporated into the footpath to Burnfoot. The name is still occasionally used to describe this area, or more commonly to refer to the pub across the street, which is one of the few tangible reminders of Hawick’s railway past.

the Station Brig (thu-stā-shin-brig) n. popular name for the bridge across the Teviot, officially called North Bridge – ‘When ee stood there on the Station Brig Just lookin’ at the waitter There was naething mair excitin’ And naething else wad maitter’ [AY].

Station Buildins (stā-shin-nil-dinz) n. block of houses between Commercial Road and Laing Terrace, previously part of Dovemount Place, but renamed in 1890, and now being ‘Station Buildings, Dovemount Place’. It is 4 storeys high, with shops on the bottom and ornamental dormers. The much more plain lower block on the corner of Commercial Road was added later (this may be the block designed for Alan Watt by J.P. Allison in 1894). In its early days the name ‘Station Buildings’ was displayed prominently at the top. Businesses here include James Byrdon, grocers, and Kearney the chemists.

Station Cottage (stā-shin-ko’-eej) n. named from its proximity to the railway station, ??.

the Station Hotel (thu-stā-shin-hō-tel) n. hotel and pub on Dovemount Place, opposite Hawick’s former railway station. Also popularly known as ‘the Station’ or ‘the Station Bar’. The building is grade C listed. The signal box by the station had the ability to ring a bell to warn passengers in the bar that a train was leaving in 5 minutes.

station-maister (stā-shin-mās-tur) n. a station-master – ‘…where the station-maister has verra obviously just laid doon his howe and put on his official coat and hat when he heard the signal wires gurrin’ [DH].

Station Road (stā-shin-rōd) n. name sometimes used for former the road from Dovemount up to the Station.

the Station Viaduct (thu-stā-shin-vI-a-dukt) n. main railway bridge crossing the Teviot just south of the Station, having 6 arches. The last train crossed it in April 1971, and it was blown up (twice!) in September 1975. The base of one of the pillars is still visible in the river (also called ‘Teviot Viaduct’ or just ‘the Viaduct’).

statute (stā-ew’) v., arch. to decree, enact – ‘…the two present baylyeas, and town counsell being convened, did statut and enact unanimouslie nemine contradicente …’ [BR1694], ‘…the said Baylyeas and town Counsell did statut and ordaine that the said Robert Hardie …should carie the said colour …’ [BR1706], pp., arch. decreed, enacted – ‘The said day, it is statute and statutory labour

ordained that the cordainers shall try this market for insufficient leather, unbarkit schone ...’ [BR1643], ‘It was statut, enacted, and ordained that noe person ...should ...transport or carry any other colour, pencell, or standard ...’ [BR1707] (also spelled ‘statut’).

statutory labour (sta-tew-thu-ree-la-bur) n. a system by which labouring classes were required to undertake public works up to a certain number of days a year. It was particularly used for the upkeep of roads, following Acts of 1617, 1661 and 1669. In later years there was some compensation for the work done. The system was abolished in 1845 and replaced by land assessment to pay for hired labour. But this would be a regular burden on local men in the late 17th, entire 18th and early 19th centuries.

staucher (staw-chur) v., poet. to stagger, stumble about – ‘She chased auld Winter frae the lea Ti staucher hame ti Greenland ...’ [WP], ‘Gin wi’ your faith set firm aboon, Ye staucher on alane ...’ [WL] (also spelled ‘stacher’).

stauin see stan

staunin see stannin

staupt see stap

staur-licht (stawr-licht) n., poet. starlight – ‘...The whaups a’ beddit, and ilk lamb and yowe, Snug aneth the staur-licht, the haill nicht afore him’ [DH] (see also ster, stern and starnie).

stave (stäv) v. to sprain, wrench, benumb – ‘A staved ma pinkie when the baa dunted off eet’, ‘Staived thoom = a sprained thumb (a painful strain caused by the end of the thumb coming into violent contact with a hard body)’ [ECS], n. an injury caused by a sprain or twist – ‘it’s no broken, it’s just a stave’ (also written ‘stave’).

stav (stäv) v. to walk heedlessly.

stavel (stä-vul) v., n., arch. stagger, stumble.

Staven (stä-vin) n. John (16th C.) listed in the Admiralty Court Book in 1557 as ‘Johune Staven in Hawick’ when he purchased a tenement in Jedburgh from advocate John Moscrop. The land was on the Canongate, and he paid £20. It is unclear if his surname has been transcribed correctly; it could be ‘Steven’ or ‘Stavert’, for example.

Stavert (stä-vur’) n. Adam (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Elizabeth Pott and their children included William (b.1635) and John (b.1640). Adam of Hoscote (1750–1827) son of Thomas and Elizabeth Pott. He bought the portion of Hoscote that his brother George had inherited from their uncle, George Pott, and also bought the other portion from his cousin John Grieve. He is probably the Adam recorded at Toddrig on the 1785–90 Horse Tax Rolls and 1791–97 at Hoscote. In 1793 he paid the land tax at Philogan in Hownam. He is recorded at Hoscote on both the 1797 Horse Tax and Dog Tax Rolls. He was confirmed in the lands of Hoscote by Hugh Scott of Harden in 1801. He paid the land tax at Hoscote in 1802. He was listed as a Commissioner for both Roxburghshire and Selkirkshire in 1805 and 1819 (although his name was transcribed as ‘Stewart’). He was owner of Cunzierton and Harcarse in Oxnam Parish, as well as Outerside in Roberton Parish, according to the Land Tax Rolls of 1811. He was the Laird of recorded when he borrowed money from William Elliot of Harwood in 1824 and still Laird in 1825. He married Anne, daughter of John Brownell of Breck, Recorder of the Isle of Man. Their only child was Hannah, who married Archibald Dickson of Hassendeanburn. In 1797 he secondly married Agnes, daughter of John Scott of Whitehaugh; she is recorded as a widow in 1851, living with her brother James Scott at Whitehaugh, and she died in 1855, aged 83. Their children were: Thomas (1798–1847), who succeeded; Margaret (1801–65), who also later succeeded to Hoscote; Elizabeth (b.1805–1862), who married Richard Bryn; and John (1807–59), who succeeded his brother Thomas. When he died his trustees included Walter Scott, George Pott and James Pott. His gravestone in Roberton Cemetery appears to say that he died at the age of 84. Lieut.-Col. Adam William (1839–) current holder of the ‘Stavert of Hoscote’ title. He was educated at Stowe and Sandhurst. He married Shuna Nancy McNab and has family. Andrew (1809–91) son of Robert, he was a farmer at Dykecrofts in Castleton Parish. He was recorded there in 1841 and in 1851 he was farming 1500 acres and employing 13 labourers. He was there on the 1861 census and still there in 1868. He married Margaret Armstrong in 1836 and their children included: Ann (b.1834); Robert (1838–99), who moved to England; Francis (b.1840); Mary (b.1842); William (1843–91), died in Cheshire; Thomas (b.1845); Margaret (b.1847); Helen (b.1849); Andrew Graham (b.1851); and Jessie Elliot (b.1854). His brother Robert (a discharged soldier) was also living with them. He died at Dykecroft. Archibald (b.1806/7) tenant in Saughtree. In the 1834 electoral roll he is listed as joint tenant along with his brother Robert (residing in Manchester). The lands were assigned to them by their father with the consent of the Duke of Buccleuch. He is listed among heads of households in 1835–41. He was recorded at Saughtree in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory. He was on the Borders Union Railway Committee for Liddesdale in the 1850s. In 1851 he was farmer of about 3,000 acres of ‘mountain-land’, employing 4 labourers; in 1861 it was 3,200 acres and employing on average 8 labourers. He lived with his sister Janet. He is probably the Mr. Stavert of Saughtree who donated a red deer to the Museum in 1863. He was still recorded at Saughtree in 1868. Archibald of Hoscote (b.1828) eldest surviving son of William and Marion Park. He became Laird of Hoscote in 1857, succeeding his aunt Margaret, his uncles having already died. He also owned lands in Oxnam and Howburn parishes, and had a house in Edinburgh at 34 Palmerston Place. He was recorded in the Land Tax Rolls of about 1874 (incorrectly as ‘Andrew’) as owner of Cunziert and Harcarse in Oxnam Parish, as well as (correctly as Archibald) Outerside. In 1857 he married Rosina, daughter of William Hope, and she died in 1897. Their children were: William James (b.1858), Rector of Burnshall, Yorkshire and Chaplain to the Earl of Craven; Thomas Hope (b.1859), Major in the Lanarkshire Regiment; Herbert John (b.1861) accountant in Edinburgh; Archibald Arthur (b.1864) with the Priory of South Queensferry, inlinithgow; Francis Edward Vose (b.1870); and a daughter Miss C. (18th/19th C.) listed at Florida in 1821 when she subscribed to William Scott’s ‘ Beauties of the Border’. This was probably the farm of that name in Liddesdale. It is unclear how she was related to other Staverts. Dr. Elliot (1810–85) son of Thomas and Janet Armstrong, he was born at Saughtree in Castleton Parish. He graduated in medicine from Edinburgh University in 1834 and became a doctor in Preston, Lancashire, where he was also a councillor. In 1837 he married Margaret Jenkinson and they had children Elizabeth, Thomas and Margaret. He secondly married Ann Eliza Whitehead. Elliot (19th C.) donator to Hawick Museum of the 2 stone cross pieces which were found near the Abbey Sike in the mid-19th century. The first was about 4 feet long, in the shape of a sword handle, and found about 1850 near the ‘Abbey’. The second was a rounded head with a cross on each side, found by shepherd John Chisholm in the Abbey Sike in 1880. He could be the Elliot born to Thomas in Castleton Parish in 1810, who was a doctor in Preston and died in 1885. George (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. In 1737 His children included Agnes (b.1737). George (18th C.) tenant in Allanhaugh Mill. He married Betty Neil and their children included: Mary (b.1758); Thomas (b.1760); and Betty (b.1766), who probably married Henry Turnbull. George (18th/19th C.) farmer at Orchard, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. Walter is listed alongside him, and so presumably his brother or son. George (1756–1807) son of Thomas and Elizabeth Pott. He inherited part of Hoscote from his uncle George Pott. He was a surgeon in the Royal Navy. He is probably the George who owned Outersiderig in 1788. In 1783 he married Elizabeth Brownnell, sister of his brother Adam’s first wife. Their children were: Thomas (b.1787), Deputy-Lieutenant in Selkirkshire; and William (b.1792), who married Marion, daughter of Archibald Park, Windymains. He died in Liverpool. James (d.c.1682) tenant in Earlside. His will is recorded in 1682. He must have been related to William, who is recorded at Earlside in 1684. John (17th C.) resident of Minto Craigend who appears in the Hearth Tax records of 1694. John (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He is recorded in Todshaw in 1720, 1723, 1725 and 1726. He married Marion Wilson in Robertson in 1718. Their children included: Thomas (b.1720); John (b.1723); George (b.1725); and Thomas (again, b.1726). John (18th C.) married Margaret Scott in Hawick Parish in 1769. His daughter Elizabeth was baptised at ‘Todshaw hillshiel’ in Robertson Parish in 1771. She may have been the Betty who married John Henderson in Cavers in 1791 and probably John Turnbull in Wilton and died in 1831 at West Port. He is probably related to the earlier John recorded at Todshaw. John of Hoscote (1807–59) born in Robertson Parish, son of Adam. He was Laird of Hoscote after Thomas, his older brother. He served as Justice of the Peace. In the 1850s he was living at Burngrove. He married Elizabeth Bridget Watson, who died in 1868, aged 48. In 1851 he was living with his sister Elizabeth Bruce, who was a widow. Margaret (1801–65) elder daughter of Adam Stavert with his wife Agnes Scott. In 1851 she was living with her mother and uncle, James Scott of Whitehaugh. She inherited the estate of Hoscote after the death of her brothers Thomas and John. She married her cousin, Thomas Stavert, and died without children. Hoscote was inherited by her nephew Archibald. Ralph Alan (d.1978) inherited Hoscote in 1932. During WWII he was posted to India, where he worked as an engineer. He married Pearl Gallagher and she died in 1985.
The iron gates, removed during the war, were replaced after his death, as a memorial to him. They are buried at Borthwick Waas. Robert (17th/18th C.) early member of this local family. He is listed at Earlside along with William on the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694. He is also recorded in 1695 at Earlside (or ‘Earlswood’). His children (baptised in Cavers Parish) included: Janet (b.1695); Robert (b.1701); Isobel (b.1705); and Thomas (b.1709). Robert of Earlside (18th C.). First of the local lairds (rather than tenants) of this family, he may have been the son of Robert born in 1701. Robert (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was at Hummelknowes in 1737. His children included: Isabel (b.1737); Margaret (b.1739); Jane (b.1745); and William (b.1747). He could be the Robert, married to Henrietta Black, whose children in Cavers included Thomas (b.1750), Walter (b.1752), Janet (b.1753) and Elizabeth (b.1756). Robert (18th C.) farmer at Effledge according to the 1794 Horse Tax Rolls. Robert (18th/19th C.) resident of Castleton. He was probably son of Thomas, farmer at Saughtree. He married Helen (or ‘Nelly’) Pott. Their children included: Thomas (b.1780), who farmed at Saughtree; Robert (b.1781); and Helen (b.1783). He is probably the Robert recorded at Saughtree on the 1785–92 Horse Tax Rolls. Robert (18th/19th C.) resident of Castleton Parish. His wife was Mary Graham and their children included: Robert (b.1808); Andrew (b.1809), farmer at Dykecrofts; and Ketren Elliot (b.1810). Thomas (b.1697) son of William, he was baptised in Cavers Parish. He may be the Thomas who married Marion Williamson and whose son William was baptised in Galashiel Parish in 1723. Thomas (17th C.) resident at Todshawhaugh according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Thomas (1709–93) son of Robert. He occupied the farm of Coliforthill, it is said this was a reward for military service rendered to the Duke of Buccleuch. He paid the Horse Tax at Coliforthill in 1785–97. Although supposed to have died in 1793, he is probably the Thomas recorded at Coliforthill in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was additionally taxed for having 3 non-working dogs in 1797. In 1744 he married Elizabeth (or Betty, d.1793), daughter of Adam Pott of Hoscote; his wife’s sister Jean married Walter Grieve at the same time in Roberton. They had a large family, including: George (b.1756), who inherited part of Hoscote; Adam, who was later Laird of Hoscote; Betty (b.1752), Jean and Janet, none of whom reached adulthood; and Robert, who married Helen Pott. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was recorded at Broadlee in 1753, 1762 and 1763. His children were probably John (b.1747), Isabel (b.1750), Margaret (b.1753), Thomas (b.1756), William (b.1759) and Mary (b.1760), George (b.1762) and Janet (b.1763). It is unclear how he might have been related to Thomas, farmer at Coliforthill. Thomas (d.1798) farmer at Saughtree. He is probably the Thomas listed there on both the 1797 Horse Tax and Dog Tax Rolls. He is recorded in the Edinburgh Magazine as dying ‘in consequence of a fall from his horse in hunting’. His son Robert probably took over as farmer of Saughtree. Thomas (d.bef. 1810) resident of Roberton Parish. He may have been the son of Thomas (who lived at Broadlee), baptised in Roberton in 1756. He is probably the Thomas who married Jane (or ‘Jean’) Kidd in Roberton in 1777; her death is recorded in Hawick in 1810, by which time he was already deceased. He was recorded at Harden Burnfoot in 1781 and 1784. His children included: Margaret (b.1778); Thomas (b.1779); Marion (b.1781); and John (b.1784). Thomas (18th/19th C.) spinner in Hawick. He married Margaret Dodds, who died in 1811. Their children included Thomas (b.1801), baptised in Kirkton. Thomas (18th/19th C.) son of Robert and Helen Pott. He was farmer at Saughtree. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He married Janet Armstrong and their children were: Robert (b.1802); James (b.1803); Archibald (b.1806); Thomas (b.1808); Eliot (b.1810), who was a doctor in Preston; Helen (or Ellen, b.1810), who married John Murray and died at Wolfelee farm; Janet (b.1814); Agnes (b.1816); and John Armstrong (b.1824). He may be the Stavert of Saughtree who was on the Committee of the Proprietors of Castleton Library. Thomas, J.P. (b.1787) elder son of George, grandson of Thomas and Elizabeth Pott. He was a Deputy-Lieutenant of Selkirkshire. He married his cousin Margaret. Thomas (1791–1869) born in Hawick Parish, son of Robert. Both his parents died when he was 8. He moved to Ettrick at the age of 14, where he was one of the men employed to haul building materials for Thomas Boston’s memorial. In 1820 he married Margaret Boa, and they had their first child, Catherine in Scotland. In 1821 the family emigrated to Prince Edward Island (Canada), where he was one of the pioneer settlers. They had several children who went on to be farmers on Prince Edward Island. Thomas of Hoscote (1798–1847).
St. Cuthbert

Stoward (staw-urd) n. Henry (14th C.) traditionally said to be the ancestor of the Stavert family. He may be the Stavert who carried the pennon of the young Laird of Cavers (Archibald Douglas) at Otterburn. The story is also told of how his helmet was so dented at the Battle that he had to have it fixed by a blacksmith on the way back to Scotland. The Stawards (or Staverts) are traditionally retainers of the hereditary Sheriffs of Roxburghshire.

stawed (stawd) pp., adj., arch. sated, surfeited, full of drink, tired of something, wearied — ‘A’m staw’d o’ kail every day’ [GW], ‘Weel, A rangt the haaf o the toon, or A turunt staaed’ [ECS] (also written ‘staaed’; cf. seek-staaed).

stawn (stawn) pp., poet. stolen — ‘For lang might thou in Cumberland dwelt, Ere the laird’s Jock had stawn frae thee. Fala &c.’ [CPM].

stay see stey

St. Boisel (sin’-bo-i-zul) n. (d.c.664) Abbot of Melrose Abbey and teacher of St. Cuthbert. Almost all that is known about him comes from Bede. He was a Northumbrian, trained at Lindisfarne by St. Aidan. He is supposed to have had prophetic powers, predicting his own death in a plague. He was buried at Melrose. Relics relating to him were taken to Durham, and parts of a shrine dedicated to him can be seen in Jedburgh Abbey Museum. His day was once celebrated on 23rd February. The town of St. Boswells was effectively named after him.

St. Boswells (sin’-bo-ulzul) n. formal name for the town known as Bosells.

St. Bullion’s Day (sin’-bu-len-inz-dä) n., arch. St. Swithin’s Day, 15th July (from St. Martin of Bullion, whose feast day was 4th July, which became 15th July in the new calendar).

St. Clair see Sinclair

St. Cuthbert (sin’-kuth-bur’) n. (c.638–87) 7th century bishop, born in the Borders, possibly on Leader Water. He was Prior at the old Melrose Abbey in the early 660s, and this was one of the resting places for his body (although he was buried at Holy Island). He was called a saint because his body was said to have been miraculously preserved 11 years after his death (and also said to be still uncorrupted when examined at the time of the Reformation!). He is traditionally supposed to have lived for a time near the location of St. Mary’s in Hawick, founding a church there and spreading Christianity throughout Teviotdale and beyond. A description of miracles described in a 12th century account of his life (by Reginald of Durham) contains one of the earliest mentions of Hawick. It also refers to a chapel dedicated to him, which has been identified with a site at Cogsmill, and which was associated with several apparently miraculous stories. This may be the same place referred to by Bede as a place where St. Cuthbert took shelter, and miraculously found a loaf of bread, when travelling from Carlisle to Melrose. His remains were removed from Lindisfarne by his followers and moved from place to place, finally coming to rest at Durham Cathedral, where they are to this day, along with several relics associated with him. In the Middle Ages both 20th March and 4th September were celebrated as his saints day.

St. Cuthbert’s Kirk (sin’-kuth-burts-kirk) n. housing built on Slitrig Crescent opposite St. Cuthbert’s Church in 1984, previously occupied by James Melrose & Sons engineers. It was essentially rebuilt from a wing of the former brewery.

St. Cuthbert’s School (sin’-kuth-burts-school) n. originally a school for the pupils of St. Cuthbert’s School and junior members of the Church choir. They played on the Brewery Haugh and had George Peterson and Ben Tillotson as professionals at various times. Nicknamed ‘the Saints’, it was the last club to survive, other than Hawick & Wilton, folding in 1889.

St. Cuthbert’s Cricket Club (sin’-kuth-burts-ki’-klub) n. cricket club formed in 1862 for the pupils of St. Cuthbert’s School and junior members of the Church choir. They played on the Brewery Haugh and had George Peterson and Ben Tillotson as professionals at various times. Nicknamed ‘the Saints’, it was the last club to survive, other than Hawick & Wilton, folding in 1889.

St. Cuthbert’s Haugh (sin’-kuth-burts-hawf) n. another name for the Brewery Haugh.

St. Cuthbert’s Kirk (sin’-kuth-burts-kirk) n. St. Cuthbert’s Episcopal Church. The foundation stone was laid in 1857, after the 5th Duke of Buccleuch gifted the land between Slitrig Crescent and the river and paid for the building. The design was by Sir George Gilbert Scott (responsible for the restoration of several English Cathedrals, as well as the Episcopal Cathedral in Edinburgh and the Foreign Office in London), with John...
St. Cuthbert’s Kirk Club

Herbertson of Galashiels the main builders and Melrose’s supplying the iron work. The church was opened in 1858, and gave the first permanent home to a congregation that traces its roots back to the Disestablishment of the Church of Scotland in 1689. In Hawick it is sometimes referred to as ‘the English Kirk’. For a long time it started its services half an hour later than the other churches. It was named after the local St. Cuthbert, who is said to have had a chapel nearby. There is a stained-glass window showing him as a bishop holding the head of King Oswald of Northumbria in his hand (apparently representing the fact that the Abbot of Melrose was the King’s Confessor, thus holding his conscience). There is also an 1889 memorial window to the 5th Duke of Buccleuch, showing him presenting a model of the building to the Bishop of Glasgow, and 2 memorial windows for the Scott-Watson family of Burnhead, as well as a War memorial window, unveiled in 1921. The nave had 4 bays and there is a bell-cot over the chancel arch. The reredos by J. Oldrid Scott (son of the main architect) was added in 1905. At that time the niche in the apse became the site for a statue of St. Cuthbert holding the head of Oswald of Northumbria, like in the window design. The chancel screen is by Sir Robert Lorimer, and was added in 1908, at the same time that a vestry was built (designed by Lorimer and John Fraser Matthew). The vestry contains the original communion table, lent to the congregation in 1847 by Isaac and Johanna Edmondson. A plaque in the church commemorates to 2 Grieves of Branxholme Park who were killed on board naval vessels before WWI. The nearby Church Hall was formerly part of the brewery (and was converted around 1980 and is now 2 houses). The church possesses its own Episcopal Cemetery, and the adjacent Rectory has been converted into houses. The church building is currently listed category B. A centenary history was written in 1958 by Hector McBean Hart. Records for the church and school covering 1847–1944 are in the National Archives. The roll of ministers (sometimes called Rectors) of the Church is: Robert Campbell 1847–54; John Rose Dakers 1854–82; Douglas Powell Ware 1882–92; James W.T. Hart 1892–1903; Edward T.S. Reid 1903–10; Alexander L. Ross, assistant 1904–09; Alexander J. Hay 1911–55; Philip Crosfield 1955–60; Edward Robertson 1960–69; Maurice Sunter 1969–70; Aidan Michael Burn-Murdoch 1970–77; Humphrey Lopdell-Brashaw 1977–88; Jonathan Willans 1988–91; Stuart Maxwell Paterson 1992– ‘It was Christmas times, and the Christmas chimes From St. Cuthbert’s steeple rung; And the holly-green on the wall was seen, And the Christmas hymn was sung’ [JT].

St. Cuthbert’s Kirk Club (sin’-kuth-burts-kirk-khub) n. St. Cuthbert’s Church Club, a local musical society of the late 19th century.

St. Cuthbert’s Schuil (sin’-kuth-burts-skil) n. Episcopal school near to St. Cuthbert’s Church on Slitrig Crescent. The school was for pupils of Episcopalian families, and like the church was gifted by the 5th Duke of Buccleuch. It was built in 1850–52 and had a house for the schoolmaster attached. The building was also used for a few years for church services. Previous to the erection of the purpose-built school there had been an Episcopal school on the Mid Raw around 1846 and another (per perhaps the same one) in the ballroom on Half-Moon Close, starting in 1847 or 1848. The new school was situated on the opposite side of Lynnwood Road, beyond Stonefield Mill. The school was often known locally as ‘the English Schuil’. Pupils over the age of 12 were transferred to the High School in 1928, and it became St. Cuthbert’s Primary School. It was closed in 1956, and the pupils incorporated into the renamed Drumlanrig and St. Cuthbert’s Primary School. The school and adjacent schoolhouse were demolished in 1972. School Inspectors’ Reports for 1935–56 are in the National Archives. The register for 1934–56 and log books for 1941–56 are in the Borders Archive. A list of schoolmasters (perhaps not all of them being Head teacher, and some of them for only a short period) is: Mr. Ellis; Mr. King; Mr. Craven; Jacob Jay 1861–93; Mr. Bountvie; Mr. Beaton; James Turnbull; Walter Inglis; David Gillis 1894–1915; Mr. Lumsden; Mr. Cormack 1945–48; and Mr. Walker.

St. Cuthbert’s Terrace (sin’-kuth-burts-ter-ris) n. private housing built behind St. Cuthbert’s Court, off Slitrig Crescent, in 1985.

St. Cuthbert’s Way (sin’-kuth-burts-wá) n. 62 mile (100 km) hiking trail from Melrose to Lindisfarne (Holy Island), named after the 7th century saint who began at Melrose Abbey and was buried on Holy Island. It was established in 1996.

the Steadin Pump (thu-ste-din-pump) n. former water source behind the Congregational Church, also known as ‘Bourtree Well’.

Steadman (sted-min) n. George (b.1844/5) legendary wrestler from Whitehaven. He won the steal-bonnets

all-weights wrestling tournament at Hawick Common Riding Games for many years in succession in the 1880s. He started competitive wrestling in 1862 and still won at the Grassmere Games at age 51. He also took the prize in the Liverpool Road (London) contest 31 years running. He was about 275 pounds and 5 foot 11 inches, and often won other events, such as hurdles and ‘neatest costume’.

steal-bonnets see steal-wads steal-thief (steal-thief) n., arch. a thief.

steal-wads (steal-wawdz) n., pl., arch. a game similar to ‘Scotch and English’ in which each of 2 sides tries to steal the others bonnets from opposite sides of a playing field (also called ‘steal-bonnets’; here ‘wad’ is a pledge).

the Steam (the-steem) n. old-fashioned public laundry, situated at the old Baths in Bath Street. It was built in the early 1930’s and stopped operating in 1981. For 50 years it was a regular meeting (and gossiping) point for Hawick families.

steamin (stee-min) adj. drunk – ??.

stech (steech) n., arch. a grunt, pant, deep breath as a result of exertion – ‘Weir war off – wui a yerk an a dunsh an a stech an a ‘Parpl!’ [ECS], v., poet. to pant, puff oneself up – ‘Ye sour-mou’d fock pang’d fu’ o’ prose . . . Nae doubt ye’ll steich an, cock your nose!’ [JR] (spelled various ways).

stecht (stecht) pp., arch. grunted, panted – ‘. . . bit for aa A stecht keinda, it was rale neice, that sklimm’ [ECS].

stecht (stecht) pp., poet. stuffed the stomach, crammed with food ‘The steeds they were as yorlyns yappe, They steekit their mawe . . . ’[JTc].

steed (steed) n., arch. a stead, place, populated area, dwelling, farmstead – ‘. . . these steeds at the head of the Borthwick’ [1669/HAST1937] (used as a suffix in local place names, particularly in the Borders, e.g. ‘Ashiestiel’, ‘Leapsteal’, ‘the Steel’ and ‘Steele Knowe’).

steedfast (steed-fawst) adj., poet. steadfast steedily (stee-dee) adv. steadfastly – ‘. . . his interest in horses an’ horse-racin’ . . . was steadily growin’’ [IWL]. ‘The rain’s steedily faa’n, faa’n In an eendoon poure’ [WL].

steedin (stee-din) n., arch. a steading – ‘In loan or steedin’ when’er they saw her, Muckle Mou’d Meg was the name they’d caa her’ [WL]. ‘The covered airs o’ derkenin steer Aboot the steedin, pad and paw . . . ’ [DH].

Steedman (steed-mun) n. Rev. James minister of Orrock Church during WWI.

steedy (stee-dee) adj. steady – ‘steedy on, wull e’e?’, ‘hei’s no very steedy on his feet ony mair’. ‘For thair hairit wasna richt wi’ him, naethr wer thaye steedie in his covenant’ [HSR], ‘A stirrup cup at Myreslawgreen Will steedy mony a hand’ [DN], ‘The only sound was the steedy tickin o the grandfather clock i’ the hall’ [DH].

steek (steek) n., arch. a stitch – ‘. . . Tormentit ticht wi’ steeks an’ stringin’, Syne jagged wi’ preens!’ [DH], ‘. . . As steeks upon the needle bars Build up sae mony twalts’ [WL], v. to stitch, sew – ‘Wull ee steek this slittin oxter afore it geets ony woare?’ [ECS], ‘I’ll keep my gob weil steekit And gie him a bit nod’ [WL], to shut up, lock away, fasten, close – ‘Steek the yett!’ [ECS], ‘Sae I maun steek my desk again’ [JoHa], ‘Steek the door Paddy, steek the door and gie the auld deevil a cauld welcome’ [JEDM], ‘But death stopped his whistle, and steekit his e’e, ’I’ll ne’er tak’ another’, quo’ Eppy M’Gee’ [JT], ‘Gae steek the shutters on the blast, Keep out the drivin’ snaw . . . ’ [JT]. ‘A duist caa cannie a weilock,– steek ma een, – an gae ma meind leave ti spang owre ti Lilliard’s Edge or the heed o the Dunion’ [ECS].

steek (steek) v., arch. to gore, stick, butt with the horns – ‘A steekin bull = a fence bull. This expression is applied to a cross-looking person, thus: – Hei glowrd at mei leike a steekin bull!’ [ECS] (also stick).

steek-haud (steek-hawd) n., arch. a call to a dog to fight or to round up sheep.

steekit (stee-kee’, -ki’) adj., pp., arch. gored – ‘The nowt steekit im’ [GW], ‘Dimna gang gerr you reed bull; ei steekit a callant’ [ECS] (also stickit).

steel (steel) n., arch. a handle for a barrow or plough – ‘. . . What are you going to do with that?’ asked the doctor. ‘I’m just gaun to mak’ a barrow steel’. ‘Aye, aye, a shaft to-day and a wheel tomorrow’, was the doctor’s observations’ [BP], a stall for an injured finger (also written ‘stiel’).

steel (steel) n., arch. a steep bank, spur of a ridge (used in place names, particularly in the Borders, e.g. ‘Ashiestiel’, ‘Leapsteal’, ‘the Steel’ and ‘Steele Knowe’).

Steel (steel) n. Lord David Martin Scott (1938– ) born in Kirkcaldy, son of a minister, he became M.P. for Roxburgh, Selkirk & Peebles from 1965, at age 26, and was known as ‘Boy David’. He remained Hawick’s M.P. until the boundary changes saw him move to Tweeddale, Ettrick & Lauderdale in 1983. However, in 1970 he only won by 550 votes. He was Liberal Party leader from 1976, including the period of the ‘Lib-Lab pact’ and the SDP-Liberal Alliance, resigning in 1987. He was knighted in 1990 and became Lord Steel of Aikwood in 1997 when he retired after 32 years in Westminster. He then became the M.S.P. for the Lothians and first Presiding Officer of the Scottish Parliament 1999–2003. He rode to Mossaul and followed the Cornet on the Friday in 1965 and was Common Riding Chief Guest in the Millenium year. James (17th C.) resident at Greena in Castleton Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. John witness in 1510/1 to a letter of acquittance by George Scott of Whames and Borthaughe, written in Edinburgh. He is recorded as ‘Johne Steyll’. Judith Mary ‘Judy’ nee MacGregor (1940– ) born in dollar, she studied law at Edinburgh University, where she met her husband, David. The couple married in 1962. She has published poetry, plays and other writings. In 1987 she founded the Rowan Tree Theatre Company in the Borders, and in 2011 was awarded the M.B.E. for services to theatre in the Borders. She championed the renovation of Aikwood Tower (including wood recycled from the pews of Hawick Parish Church), later housing a museum to her idol, James Hogg, ‘the Ettrick Shepherd’. In 2007 her play ‘The Journey of Jeannie Deans’ was the first production to be staged in the new Heart of Hawick auditorium. She has 3 children, Graeme, Catriona Judith and Roray, and an adopted son, Billy. The couple retired to live in Selkirk. Rev. Robert (1826–1920) born in Saltcoats, he attended the Evangelical Union Hall in Kilnarnock. In 1866 he came to Newcastle to be minister of the Congregational Church there, and remained until 1875. After that he was minister at Dalhellington and Galston in Ayrshire. During the 1851 census he was a lodger in Newcastleton, listed as ‘Inde- 1510/1 to a letter of acquittance by George Scott of Whames and Borthaughe, written in Edinburgh. He is recorded as ‘Johne Steyll’. Judith Mary ‘Judy’ nee MacGregor (1940– ) born in dollar, she studied law at Edinburgh University, where she met her husband, David. The couple married in 1962. She has published poetry, plays and other writings. In 1987 she founded the Rowan Tree Theatre Company in the Borders, and in 2011 was awarded the M.B.E. for services to theatre in the Borders. She championed the renovation of Aikwood Tower (including wood recycled from the pews of Hawick Parish Church), later housing a museum to her idol, James Hogg, ‘the Ettrick Shepherd’. In 2007 her play ‘The Journey of Jeannie Deans’ was the first production to be staged in the new Heart of Hawick auditorium. She has 3 children, Graeme, Catriona Judith and Roray, and an adopted son, Billy. The couple retired to live in Selkirk. Rev. Robert (1826–1920) born in Saltcoats, he attended the Evangelical Union Hall in Kilnarnock. In 1866 he came to Newcastle to be minister of the Congregational Church there, and remained until 1875. After that he was minister at Dalhellington and Galston in Ayrshire. During the 1851 census he was a lodger in Newcastleton, listed as ‘Inde- 1510/1 to a letter of acquittance by George Scott of Whames and Borthaughe, written in Edinburgh. He is recorded as ‘Johne Steyll’. Judith Mary ‘Judy’ nee MacGregor (1940– ) born in dollar, she studied law at Edinburgh University, where she met her husband, David. The couple married in 1962. She has published poetry, plays and other writings. In 1987 she founded the Rowan Tree Theatre Company in the Borders, and in 2011 was awarded the M.B.E. for services to theatre in the Borders. She championed the renovation of Aikwood Tower (including wood recycled from the pews of Hawick Parish Church), later housing a museum to her idol, James Hogg, ‘the Ettrick Shepherd’. In 2007 her play ‘The Journey of Jeannie Deans’ was the first production to be staged in the new Heart of Hawick auditorium. She has 3 children, Graeme, Catriona Judith and Roray, and an adopted son, Billy. The couple retired to live in Selkirk. Rev. Robert (1826–1920) born in Saltcoats, he attended the Evangelical Union Hall in Kilnarnock. In 1866 he came to Newcastle to be minister of the Congregational Church there, and remained until 1875. After that he was minister at Dalhellington and Galston in Ayrshire. During the 1851 census he was a lodger in Newcastleton, listed as ‘Inde-
Steeple Plantin

the hamlet of Southdean. It reaches a height of 273 m. To the north-east is an old stock enclosure with turf walls, as well as 4 small cairns. To the north is another enclosure, with a bank and ditch. On the south-west slopes are the remains of 2 turf huts. On a terrace on the west side are the remains of 3 round-ended buildings, one of which is 26.5 m long and divided into 3 parts (and may have been a combination of byre and domestic uses). There are also other enclosures and banks in this area between the hill and Jordan Sike, some cut through by a gas pipeline. To the south of the hill there is a roughly 3 km boundary bank, which runs all the way from Jordan Sike to the east, to finish south of Lethem (also written ‘Steel Knowe’).

Steele Plantin (steel-plawn-tin) n. plantation in Liddesdale, running along the north side of the Steele road (i.e. the road connecting Steele Road station with the B6399).

Steele Road (steel-röd) n. small station on the Waverley Line, between Riccarton and Newcastleton, now a house. The station was opened in 1862 and closed in 1869 along with the rest of the railway. The name used until 1900 was Netherhope. There was a signal-box south of the station, which has been demolished. The place name ‘Steele’ long precedes the railway, with Nether and Over Steele being farmed by the Elliots and the Croziers from at least the 16th century and surviving into the 20th century. ‘Steele Road’ is the name of the road that crosses ‘the Steele’, and the station took its name from that. Several large enclosures have been identified to the west of the road over ‘the Steele’. It is situated where the way to the hamlet (and ex-station) meets the main road. It may also have been called ‘Riccarton roadend’. This could be the ‘Road End’ where William Elliot was recorded in 1868.

Steele (stee-lee) n. a marble made of steel.

Steeling (stee-nj) n., arch. a sharp pain.

Steengy (stee-jee) adj. stingy.

Steeple (stee-pul) n., arch. a staple, metal loop.

the Steeple Loft (thu-stee-pul-loft) n. another name for the Middle Loft in St. Mary’s Kirk.

Steer (steer) v., arch. to stir, move, bestir – ‘...Can steer up thocht’s sae tender’ [DH], n. a stir, movement, bustle, commotion, activity – ‘My father (rest his saul!) has left me gear, And a’ the chiels about me had a steer’ [CPM], ‘Of holidays throughout the year, There’s nane that raises sic a steer As Fasteneven ...’ [JoHo], ‘My auld wife here And me, just quietly on steer’ [HSR], ‘O! what means a’ the steer the nicht? A treat, indeed is sic a sicht ...’ [JMS], ‘The covened airs o’ derkenin streer About the steedin, pad and paw ...’ [DH], ‘...The steer she makes about the thing Wad gar yin think it’s hu-man’ [DH], ‘A quiet village hoose tint o’ a’ steer ...’ [WL], ‘The world is in an awfu’ steer, And where on earth is’t leadin?’ [WL].

Steerie (stee-reee) v., arch. diminutive of ‘stir’, commotion, tumultuous assembly, applied to oat-meal stirred up with cold water – ‘...But you may haec tua steeries, O gude decent Scottish brose’ [JR], adj., arch. lively, full of spirit – ‘The nicht’s dreary, The treis are steery ...’ [DH] (also written ‘steery’).

Steevly (steev-lee) adv., arch. firmly, securely, stiffly – ‘The steeds they were as yorlynys yappe, They steevely stecht their mawe ...’ [JTe], ‘...A snuived steevely on about thirty yards ahiht um’ [ECS].

Steili see sty.

Steymalta see sty malt.

Steik (steek) n., arch. an amount of a merchant’s wares, particularly a batch of cloth of a standard amount sent for dyeing – ‘...of theft and concealment, ...of two steiks of russet, one steik of colour de roy, four ells of black cloth ...’ [1537].

Stein (stën) n. James (19th C.) recorded in a directory of 1868 as farmer at Pilmuir.

Steiter (sti-ur) v., arch. to stagger, walk unsteadily, wobble – ‘His bicycle steitert aneth um’ [ECS], ‘...ony o the ways, it geh a steiter, an yownt owre it tilit!’ [ECS] (cf. stotter and stoter).

Steivest (stee-vist) adj., poet. strictest, stiffest – ‘He’d hae us aye weel in hand – The steivest o’ sair, thrown clesses ...’ [WL].

Stelebow (steel-böö) n., arch. stock held temporarily by the tenant of a farm.

Stele fellow (steel-fe-loö) n., arch. a riever who was involved in a raid into England, and was not captured and held as surety for those found guilty.

Stell (stel) n. a stall, enclosure, shelter for sheep or cattle, usually composed of a dry-stane dyke and often circular, with an opening on one side, away from the prevailing wind – ‘...and numerous stells have been erected for the shelter of the... stock’[RJAW], ‘They were with great difficulty brought to a ‘stell’ (a feeding-place for sheep in winter) ...’[RB], ‘... Three yowes i’ the stells in the warm July days’[DH], ‘... Scarce farm or stall or shearing-stance But echoed with some jibe at France’[WHO] (see also stells and sheep-stell; these are given other names elsewhere, with ‘stell’ being particularly prevalent in the south of Scotland).

stell (stel) n., arch. a still for whisky – ‘She wad rather seen the gaugers I’ the stall that day’[JoHa].

Stell Brae (stel-brä) n. another name for the Stellhoose Brae.

Stell Hoose (stel-hoos) n. house situated at the corner of Havelock Street and Wilton Hill, demolished in 1945, with the site becoming part of the garage there. It was described as 2 buildings when the land passed from George Haliburton to John Miller in 1813. Dyer Robert Scott was there in 1835, and foreman John Middlemas and mason George Oliver in 1840. James Black and John Middlemas lived there in 1841 and it is marked on the 1858 Ordnance Survey map (originally adjacent to the farmlands of Wilton Mains, so presumably there was once a ‘stell’ nearby; also sometimes ‘the Still’).

the Stellhoose Brae (thu-stel-hoos-brä) n. a former name for Wilton Hill, named after the house that once stood at the bottom.

Stellhoose Park (stel-hoos-pawrk) n. area beside the ‘Stell Hoose’, which was drained in 1826. The area later contained the ‘Cadger’s Well’ from 1842 until the early 20th century.

stells (stelz) n. sheep enclosures. These are usually circular and often about 50 yards in circumference and five feet high, although they vary in size. The entrances are on the leeside of the prevailing wind, and are usually built wider at the top than the bottom. The stone came by sled from nearby quarries. There are thousands of them across the Borders and there is a claim that the basic design originated in Hawick.

Stells (stelz) n. lands in Liddesdale, recorded on the 1541 rental roll as ‘Stells, within the Dyk’. It is valued at 31 shillings and tenanted by Nixons. The lands of ‘Littlestell’ may have been nearby; they were valued in 1541 at 6 shillings and tenanted by Bartholomew Nixon (it is also possible this was related to Steele Road or the Steel).

stend (stend) v., poet. to leap, spring, bound – ‘The spring that ilk ane lik’d he kend; Auld wives at sixty years wad stend ...’[CPM].

Stenhouse (sten-hoos) n. (Stenhouse) John (b.1812/3) born in Holmes, near Melrose, he was a grocer in Hawick. He was listed on the High Street in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory (when he was also a toy dealer). His shop was at about No. 51. His wife was Catherine and their children included Elizabeth, Helen, Jessie and John. John (b.1812/3) born in Stow, he was a carrier in Bowden. In 1852 he is recorded running a weekly service between Hawick and Lilliesleaf, Midlem or Bowden, leaving from the Coach & Horses on Saturdays. His wife was Agnes P., and their children included Janet, John, Joan and Helen.

Stenhoose’s (sten-hoo-seez) n. shop in Hawick in the mid-19th century.

Stennishope see Stanishope

Stenson (sten-sin) n. Alexander (17th C.) tenant in Wattie’s Spindles in Southdean Parish according to the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694. James (1667/8{1743) resident of Priesthaugh. He married Jean Thomson, who died in 1719, aged 44. He may be the same as James recorded at Northhouse or James recorded at Hawick Shiel in 1694.

James (17th C.) shepherd at Northhouse according to the 1694 Hearth Tax records. His name is written ‘Stinson’, James (17th C.) resident at Hawick Shiel in 1694, according to the Hearth Tax rolls. Thomas (17th C.) resident of Orniston on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. His name is written ‘Stinson’s’ (also written ‘Steinson’, ‘Steinsone’ and ‘Stinson’).

stent (sten’, stent) n., arch. a stint, allotted portion, liability for tax, tax imposed by a burgh or trade – ‘...and that after ane stent to be made through the hail town for their maintenance ...’[BR1644], ‘Ane annual and yearliee stent of fyftie merks scotts money to be imposed and laid upon the hail inhabitants burgesses of the toune’[BR1703], ‘...resolved that the excrecence of the town’s yearly stent is to be applied ...for paying the debt ...in relation to the New Bridge’[BR1747], ‘By cash for stent collected east the Water of Slitrig, ...3 8 8’[BR1761], ‘...the farm foreman usually divided the field into ‘stents’ or equal divisions’[GM], ‘About a fifty eers syne it was nace uncommon thing for th’ stockin’-makers tae bei putten on th’ stent – that was they were only allowed tae turn oot work tae th’ value o’ ten or twal shillin’s a week – reduced production it wad bei now ca’ed’[HEx1920], ‘v., arch. to impose a stent, assess for tax, levy – ‘That everie person that did voluntarly stent themselves and payd according for founding and casting of the great bell ...’[BR1694], ‘...for which the inhabitants are ordered to be stented according to their abilities, twice in the year, until paid’ [JW1763]. This was an annual fee paid in return for Common rights, often an assessment on Burgesses paid into the town coffers and used for public improvements. In Hawick the practice stopped after the Division (a corruption of ‘extent’; cf. Stintynkow).

stent-maister (sten’-mäis-tur) n., arch. an official appointed to fix the ‘stent’ to be paid – ‘Stent-masters appointed to stent the inhabitants for the schoolmaster’s wage’ [BR1660], ‘Gideon Scott of Falnash ... and the bailies, appoint stent-masters ... ’ [BR1699].

Stenton’s Pump (ster’-inx-pump) n. a former spring near the corner of Melgund Place and O’Connell Street, also known as the ‘Melgund Pump’. The smith who used to live there charged two pence a month for the use of his well when the public wells went dry (the name probably comes from the Stainton family, who lived near there in the early-to-mid 1800s).

stent-roll (sten’-ról) n., arch. a valuation prepared for the purpose of imposing levies on Burgesses – ‘...Ane yeirlie stentroll to be made’ [BR].

Stephen (ste-vin) n. (12th/13th C.) priest of Lilliesleaf Kirk, recorded as a witness to a grant of Glasgow church lands. This was sometime after Idel, possibly in the 1220s.

Stephenson see Stevenson

steppit (ste-pe’, -pi’) pp. stepped – ‘...and ‘afore the twa lads could hae steppit owre a strae’, the deil exploded like a bombshell ... ’ [EM1820], ‘An’ then he steppit proudly oot, Wi’ just a paper poke ... ’ [WFC], ‘...and I steppit forrit to gie him the sad news’ [DH].

Step Stately (step-sta’-lee) n. nickname for John Inglis in the early 1600s (recorded as ‘Step Staitlie’).

ster (ster) n., arch. a star (cf. stern and starnie).

sterch (sterch) n., v. starch.

sterk (sterk) adj. stark – ‘hei was sterk nakit’.

Sterling (ster-lin) n. James (18th/19th C.) stocking manufacturer in Lilliesleaf, in partnership with Thomas Lunn, as recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. Janet (18th/19th C.) keeper of a public house in Lilliesleaf, listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory.

stern (stern) n., poet., arch. a star – ‘...the muun an’ the sternen, whilk thou hest ordeenet’ [HSR], ‘The muun an’ sternen til ruul bie nicht ... ’ [HSR], ‘Soft is the licht o’ the wee gleaming sternes Gentle the breezes that blaw through the ferns’ [JJ], ‘...awquant wi’ sae muckle new licht o’ things they hae fund oot noo-a-days about the sternen an’ sae an’ sae’ [BCM1880], ‘She’s but the shootin’-cheese o’ man – I maun gang oot, I maun gang oot, Gien to the sternen when life began ... ’ [DH], pl. stars – ‘The fox-glove cuppe you’ll bring, The taile of shootinge sterne, And at the grassy ring, We’ll pledge the pith o’ ferne’ [JTe] (cf. ster and starnie).

stern-licht (stern’-licht) n., arch. starlight.

stern-less (stern-lis) adj., arch. starless.

sterny (ster-nee) adj., arch. starry.

stert (ster’) v. to start – ‘deh yow stert’, ‘deh stert what ec deh plan ti feenish’, ‘...French Jacques fed mei up afore Aw sterted’ [JEDM], ‘There wasna a soond, till sudden there sterted A behin’ and meh-in’ three miles away ... ’ [DH], ‘The lasses, eh mercy A’ cannae stert now ... ’ [??], ‘...The green slopes stert to rise’ [WL], jump in alarm, startle – ‘...wad stert the hiurn oo read aboot in oor buiks’ [ECS], ‘As roon it ran wi stert-tan een, A wasome squeal the craiter gien’ [DH], pp. started – ‘The jougals yowl’t at the jooral-tan een, A waesome squeal the craiter gien’ [DH], ‘... but his wife says he’s turned a perfect scun-tar’ [AY], ‘Efter a difficult stert in life being born in Gala ... ’ [IWL] (also the less common staint).

stertit (ster-te’, ster’-ee’, -eed, -i’) pp. started – ‘...but his wife says he’s turned a perfect scunner since the Test matches stertit’ [DH], ‘A wud visit um weekly when oo first sterteed the sculpture’ [IHS].

stertle (ster’-ul) v. to startle.

stertle (ster’-ul) v., arch. to rush about madly – ‘The nowt’s stertlin’ ’ [GW].

stervation (ster-vä-shin) n. a state of extreme cold – ‘it’s stervation oot there the day’ (from an older meaning of ‘sterve’, being to affect with extreme cold).

sterve (sterv) v. to starve – ‘But I’ll face to the hills this day, The hills sae derk wi’ rain, Nor easy valley omens seek – While bairns sterve deid in Spain’ [DH].

stervin (ster-vin) adj., pres. part. starving, extremely hungry.

stervin o hunger (ster-vin-o-hung-ur) adj. literally ‘starving with hunger’, a common local tautology.

stevel (ste-vul) n., arch. a stumble, a strong buffet causing one to stagger.
Steven (stee-vin) n. Alexander (16th/17th C.) recorded in a deed of 1623 as schoolmaster at Headshaw in Ashkirk Parish. William, who was recorded as schoolmaster in Jedburgh in 1630, may have been related to him. Alexander (19th/20th C.) proprietor of the 'Berwick News' and 'Berwick Journal'. He married Mary, daughter of David McBurnie Watson. He gave 3 bursaries to the Edinburgh Border Counties Association, in memory of 'Ada Carr Steven', 'Mary Watson Steven' and 'Esther Watson Steven'. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. His children included: Walter (b.1702) and Beatrice (b.1704). Robert (16th/17th C.) notary for a bond between Robert Turnbull, tenant in Bedrule, and Joseph Tennant, minister of Bedrule in 1614. And he was notary in 1618 for a bond between Walter Turnbull of Bedrule and George Rutherford, younger in Abbotrule.

Stevens (stee-vinz) n. Mrs. ?? (18th C.) housekeeper at Cavers in 1789 when she was working for George Douglas. She was presumably wife of Thomas. Thomas (18th C.) valet at Cavers in 1786, when he was working for George Douglas. He is probably the Thomas from Cavers whose will was proved at the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1797.

Stevenson (stee-vin-sin) n. Agnes ‘Nancy’ (18th/19th C.) daughter of John of Kirkstile in Hobkirk Parish, and sister of Nel and Maizie, whom she lived with. She kept an unlicensed drinking establishment at her cottage, apparently buying a whisky jug from Douglas Laidlaw in Hawick, to give her whisky an appearance of quality. She was visited by the exciseman one day and thereafter fined, although let off lightly because James Elliot of Wolfelee was on the bench. However, when caught again and fined more severely she gave up her illicit business. She was the last surviving member of her family and lived her last days at the old blacksmith’s house at Forkins. Alexander (d.1724) shepherd at ‘Wadiespinnells’, presumably near Lethem in Southdean Parish. His will is in the Douglas of Cavers papers. Andrew (1795–1871) younger son of George. Like his father he was blacksmith at Bonchester Bridge, taking over after the death of his brother John in 1823. He sold the cottage and blacksmith’s shop at Hobbirk Kirkstile to James Elliot of Wolfelee. It was said that he could neither read nor write, his education at the parish school having been hampered by a speech impediment. In 1861 he was listed as blacksmith at Bonchester Bridge, along with his grand-nephew Thomas Rutherford. Rutherford took over as smith at Bonchester after his death. Andrew (19th C.) Hawick carrier. He may have been the Andrew born in 1832, son of James and Marion Douglas. His cousin Elizabeth Stevenson married Thomas Huggan. Andrew (b.1905/6) Hawick man who worked for Turnbull the Dyers, where his father was Foreman. He moved to Langholm in the 1930s to work for Arthur Bell and started his own dyeing business in 1946, called the Langholm Dyeing Company. His sons David and Neil joined the family firm, which evolved into Edinburgh Woollen Mill. Ann (18th C.) servant at Wells in 1791, when she worked for Gilbert Elliott. Archibald (18th C.) merchant of Peebles, who was made an Honorary Burgess in 1736. Archibald Forrester (1811–47) son of Rev. David of Wilton. In Pigot’s 1837 directory he was recorded as a surgeon in Lilliesleaf. He was recorded as a surgeon at the Sandbed (possibly Bridge House) in 1841. In 1835 he married Mary Moodie in Lilliesleaf Parish. They had children: Jessie (b.1839); Jessie (again, b.1843); Alexander (b.1845); and James (b.1845), twin of Alexander. He died the year of a cholera outbreak in Hawick. Rev. Charles Findlater (1831–1905) son of Rev. David of Wilton. He was born in Wilton Parish. He was educated at Edinburgh University and licensed to preach by Jedburgh Presbytery. He was ordained at Stobhill in 1860 and was Minister of Barry from 1866. He died unmarried. It seems likely that he was named after Rev. Charles Findlater, minister of Linton and Newlands, who died in 1828. Rev. David (1784–1851) born in Glasgow, son of David and Jean Renton, he was educated at Glasgow University. He became schoolmaster at West Linton in 1810 and was licensed by Peebles in 1817. He was presented to Wilton by Walter Francis, Duke of Buccleuch in late 1825, taking up his new position in 1826, where he remained until his death. In 1834 he wrote a description of the Parish for the New Statistical Account. He married Christian Taylor, daughter of a Lasswade farmer and they had many children, including: William (1810–57), who became a merchant and died in the U.S.A.; Archibald Forrester (1811–47), a surgeon in Hawick: Jane (1813–43), who married James Farish of Montreal; Alexander (1815–41), also a surgeon; Thomas (1817–78), who worked with H.M. Customs; James (1819–44), a merchant; Catherine, who died in infancy; Anne (1821–91); Christian Buchanan (1823–87); Robert Dundas (1827–58), another surgeon; Catherine Forrester (1829–37);
Charles Findlater (1831–1905), who became minister of Barry; and Ellen (1833–52). He published ‘Two Sermons preached on the death of Rev. James Strachan’ (1840) and ‘Sermons on important subjects, Doctrinal and Practical’ (1841) and also wrote a description of Wilton Parish for the New Statistical Account of 1845. David, C.B.E. (1941– ) son of Andrew, he was born in the Haig Maternity Home, even although his family lived in Langholm by then. His grandfather had been foreman-dyer at Turnbulls of Hawick. He attended school in Langholm, then Dumfries Academy and Edinburgh University, before qualifying as a chartered accountant. He was a champion pole-vaulter, breaking Borders and Scottish records on 10 occasions; his first open competition in the pole vault was at the Hawick Common Riding Games. He represented Scotland in the Commonwealth Games in 1962, 1966 and 1970, and Britain in the 1964 Olympics. He joined the family dyeing business in 1967. In order to promote the 1970 Commonwealth Games tartan he (and his brother Neil) started Edinburgh Woollen Mill. This grew into a retail company, expanding outlets, and using Heather Mills in Selkirk for producing cloth. He sold the company in 1996 and later concentrated on his firm Ashleybank Investments. He also became a racehorse owner, having several winners. Additionally he sponsored Borders show-jumper Ian Stark. He was made C.B.E. in 1988 for business achievements. He was Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Dumfriesshire for 20 years and was made Honorary Freeman of Dumfries and Galloway in 2012. He has been involved in several charities, such as the Robertson Trust and Scottish Sports Aid, championed the redevelopment of Langholm’s Buccleuch Centre and was founder chairman of the Langholm Initiative. He was the Hawick Common Riding Chief Guest in 2017. His wife Alix is a former international long-jumper and hockey player. They have 2 daughters, Karen and Lynne. Elizabeth ‘Betty’ (18th C.) cook at Branxholme in 1791, when she worked for Adam Ogilvie. George (16th C.) tenant of Sir Walter Scott of HowPasley in the lands of Outer-siderig in 1569. Sir Walter acted as cautioner for his tenants at a meeting in Hawick, assuring that they would obey the laws of the Lord Regent. He was surely related to Peter, who was also listed. George (d.bef. 1759) son of John. He was blacksmith at ‘Hobkirkstyle’, recorded in 1735. He married a daughter of John Shiel of Hobkirk Kirkstile. Their children included: Charles (b.1732); John (b.1735); Betty (b.1738), who married gardener Adam Kersel in 1759; Jean (b.1743), who married Robert Riddell in 1767; Ann, who married William Henry in 1771; and Janet (b.1755). George (b.1760) son of John of Hobkirk Kirkstile, and probably grandson of the elder George. He worked in the blacksmith’s shop with his father. He may be the George who was lived at Bonchester Bridge according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He married Jane (or ‘Jeany’) Laidlaw. Their children (baptised in Southdean Parish) included: Jane (or Jenny, b.1787), who married Robert Amos; Betty (b.1789); John (1791–1823); Andrew (b.1795); Agnes, who married Alex Bap-tie; and Janet (b.1787). He appears to have changed the spelling of the family surname from ‘Stephenson’ to ‘Stevenson’. George Drummond ‘Stevie’ (1933–2012) played for Hawick P.S.A., Linden and the Greens in the period 1951–67. He was capped 24 times for Scotland, scoring a try against England in his debut match in 1956. He was also referred to as ‘Back-door Stevie’ because of the number of times he was called into the Scotland squad at the last minute. A career highlight was a solo try scored for the Scottish District when they defeated South Africa at Mansfield Park in the 1960s. He played at centre and wing, and at 6 feet 2 inches tall for a back. Serving an engineering apprenticeship in Hawick, he then did National Service, worked for Bibby’s the farm suppliers and became a sales representative for Ballantine’s Whisky (although ironically he was a teetotaller), settling in Currie. His married Jessie and had children Fiona and Mark. Helen (16th C.) resident of Whithope recorded in 1549, among a list of the tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme who complained about the Kers ravaging their farms. Her name is given after James Scott, with Adam Scott being the tenant, and hence she may have been related to one or both of them. Helen ‘Nel’ (b.1771) daughter of John, Laird of Hobkirk Kirkstile and sister of Nancy and Maizie, with whom she lived. She married a Murray, but they separated and she apparently hated to be called ‘Mrs. Murray’. She made a living by spinning yarn. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. His children included: John (b.1702); William (b.1703); and John (again, b.1707). James (17th/18th C.) tenant in Harwood on Teviot. In 1708 he was described as ‘(in Harwood) tenant to arcleton’. He married Jean Thomson and their children, baptised in Hawick Parish, included: Adam (b.1705); James (b.1707); John (b.1708); Bessie (b.1710); and Margaret (b.1710). The witnesses in 1705 were Andrew Riddell in Goldielands and Gilbert Elliot in Southfield, in 1707 were Adam Elliot of Arkleton and Francis Gledstains in Braithwaugh and in 1708 were Adam Elliot of Arkleton and Robert Thomson in Newmill. James (18th C.) married Jane (or Jean) Scott in Cavers Parish in 1754. His wife died in 1814, aged 87. Their children included: Jane (1754–97), who married Thomas Grieve and died at Muselee; John (1759/60–87), who died at Alderybar; and James (1760/1–85), who also died at Alderybar. James (18th C.) married Ann Dryden in Hobkirk Parish in 1766. James (1805–89) educated in Jedburgh, he entered the office of Roxburghshire Procurator-Fiscal Shortreed, and was appointed to that position himself in 1827 when he became of age. He served for the astonishing period of 60 years, latterly assisted by his son. He was also Clerk of Supply for Roxburghshire. He was a clerk in Jedburgh when he subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He was honorary secretary and later full member of the Jedforest Club. He was an ardent Tory, but took no part in local politics. He married Charlotte, daughter of William Graham, doctor in Jedburgh and secondly married a daughter of Rev. William Aston Shute. His eldest son James Charles took over most of his county duties. John (16th C.) priest at the Kirk of the Lowes. He was listed as ‘vicar pensioner of the Forrest kirk’ in 1574 when he was still owed for previous years in the last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. John (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. Although the entry is hard to read, it appears he was married to Jean Scott and they had a son James in Hawick in 1726. Probably the same John was baptismal witness in 1708 (along with weaver John Richardson) for weaver David Reid, in 1714 (along with shoemaker John Scott) for James Scott ‘Laird’ and in 1721 (along with weaver Adam Scott) for merchant William Black. John (17th/18th C.) early member of the Stevensons of Rulewater, first recorded in 1729 when he made use of the Hobkirk ‘mort cloath’ for a family burial. They lived at Singdean at that time. His mother died in 1733. His son was George, who was blacksmith at Hobkirkstyle. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Howcleuch in 1716 and 1721. His children probably included: John (b.1716); Margaret (b.1721); and James (b.1728). John (18th C.) son of George, he was Laird of Hobkirk Kirkstile, which he inherited from his grandfather John Shiel. He was also portioner of Kirknowe. He lived in a cottage at Singdean. He sold Hobkirkstile in 1779. He had 3 daughters, Nel, Nancy and Maizie, whose lives are described in Tancred’s history of Rulewater. He may have been the John who married Agnes Douglas in 1758. George (b.1760) was probably also his son. Betty may have been another daughter, whose daughter Betty Beattie married blacksmith Tom Rutherford. John (d.1823) elder son of George and brother of Andrew. He took over from his father as blacksmith at Bonchester Bridge. After his death he was succeeded in the business by his brother Andrew. Rev. John (1846–1929) born in Eccles, Berwickshire, son of John, the schoolmaster there. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1865, was licensed by Duns Presbytery in 1869 and was ordained as assistant and successor to Rev. Archibald Craig of Bedrule in 1875. He was Clerk of the Presbytery in 1891. He married Christina Laing of Denholmhill, and she died in 1891. He secondly married Christina Govanlock Turnbull (daughter of John Turnbull, farmer at Priestrig), and she died in 1961 at the age of 94. His children were: Margaret Scott, who married Thomas William Brockie; Mary Farmer (d.1918), who married John B. Forsyth; and John, who was a Captain in the R.A.M.C. He demitted his charge in 1923, died at Bonchester Bridge and is buried at Bedrule, where there is a memorial plaque inside the church. John Briggs (1849–1931) son of Thomas P., he was born in Hawick. He went to Brownsea Island, Poole and then to Bournemouth in 1887, where he became Parks Superintendent, retiring in 1919. His children included Thomas, John, Charles, Harry and Hugh. He is probably the John Briggs recorded as proprietor of Comonside in about 1900. Margaret (19th C.) resident of the West Port area. In 1832 she is one of the Hawick people who contracted cholera, but recovered. Mary ‘Maizie’ (18th/19th C.) youngest daughter of John who lived at Hobkirk Kirkstile with her sisters Nel and Nancy. She had a natural son called Robert Wilson, who worked on the plantations at Wolfelee. In later life she was the cleaner at Hobkirk Church. But she used the cushions from the ‘ Lairds’ Lofts’ as a bed for lodgers during the week, and was dismissed when this was discovered. Michael (d.1789) first landlord of the Tower Inn, from about 1771. In that year it is recorded that Bailie Hardie was reimbursed by the Council for a bottle of wine (Stevenson’s), at attending His Grace the Duke of Buccleuch’, suggesting that he was already running the inn by then. He was brought from Yorkshire specifically to be inn-keeper and was admitted as a Burgess of Hawick in 1773. In 1773 the Council recorded that they met ‘in Michael Stevenson’s’ to petition an agent of the Duke of Buccleuch regarding repairs to the Auld Brig. He is recorded as inn-keeper there in 1778 and 1780. He was taxed for having 2 4-wheel carriages in the years 1785–1789 and for having a female servant in 1787 and 1788. In 1785 he was taxed for employing James ‘Stevanson’ (who was presumably therefore unrelated) as a waiter, as well as an unnamed waiter in 1787. ‘Mrs. Stevenson’ was taxed for carriages in the year 1789/90 and for having a female servant in 1789, suggesting that he was deceased by then. In 1798 the death is recorded in Hawick of ‘Mrs. Stevenson spouse to Decd. Mr. Stevenson tower inn’. He is described by W.N. Kennedy as ‘of Falstaffian proportions, and a fine burly specimen of the Boniface brotherhood, and is reputed to have weighed upwards of thirty stone’. It was said that he needed a pulley yo get to his feet in the morning and that after he died the coffin had to be hoisted in and out of the window of his bedroom. Patrick (16th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Hislop and their children included: Robert (b.1651); and Bessie (b.1652). The witnesses in 1651 were Robert Grieve and William Elliot. Peter ‘Pate’ (16th C.) tenant in Outersiderig, for whom Sir Walter Scott of Howpasley stood as cautioner in 1569. He was listed as ‘Pait Stevinsone’ right after George. Peter (18th C.) surgeon in Hawick. He subscribed to Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ in 1784. It is possible he was later the Peter, surgeon in Hexham, who died there in 1828. Robert (17th/18th C.) tenant in Hawick Shiel. His wife was Mary Plendergast and their children included: Margaret (b.1684); and Christian (b.1702). Robert (19th C.) stockingmaker in Hawick. His infant child’s death is recorded in 1840, with his wife Christian Scott dying 2 days later. Sandy (’??–2002) local solicitor, born in Kelso. He came to Hawick in 1963, was Acting Father in 1973 and Secretary of the Common Riding Committee 1977–87 and again for part of 2001 Thomas (17th/18th C.) said to have come from Hummelknowes and become tenant at Little Whittlaw, where he kept more than a hundred sheep on the Town’s Common. However, the ‘Town Herd of Hawick hounded, scattered, and destroyed said Thomas Stevenson’s sheep, till he was obliged to make sale of what was left, and gave up his farm’; this is according to evidence given by John Douglas in 1767. Thomas (18th/19th C.) winder of ‘pirns’ for stocking-makers. He lived near the West Port. He had a son, also Thomas, whose wife Margaret was one of the people who contracted cholera in early 1832, but managed to recover. He may be the deceased Thomas whose wife Isobel Turnbull died in 1840 (on the same day as 9 others, and hence possibly in a cholera outbreak). Thomas (b.1800/1) son of Thomas. He married Margaret Laidlaw in Wiston in 1829. They lived at the West Port, where his wife contracted cholera from a neighbour in 1832, but recovered. He was listed among heads of households in Wiston Parish in 1835, when he was at Roadhead. He and his wife were at Roadhead in Wiston in 1841, 1851 and 1861. Their children included Jane, Isabella (who was Mrs. Peden), Thomas, Andrew, Agnes (who married Charles Spalding) and Jane. Thomas Pasley (1818/19–72) married Mary, daughter of William Laidlaw, and she died in 1890, aged 71. Their children included: Thomas P. and Jemima (b.1860), who both died young; Agnes, who married mason James Turnbull; William Laidlaw, woollen merchant; John Briggs, who moved to England; Thomas, postman and proprietor of the Douglas Hotel; and Beatrix (b.1857). He is buried in Wellogate Cemetery. Thomas (19th C.) from Langholm. Around the 1860s he came to Newcastle once a week to operate a branch of the British Linen Company Bank. Thomas Pasley (b.1862) son of Thomas P. He worked as a postman and was later in the Douglas Hotel. Walter (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish who married Janet Oliver. Their children included: William (b.1768); Walter (b.1768); Gilbert (b.1770); and Katharine (b.1779). The witnesses to William’s baptism in 1768 were Gilbert Oliver (probably his father-in-law) and Francis Aitkin. Walter (18th/19th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1794 his daughter with Ann Howison died. Walter Laidlaw (19th C.) partner with Alexander Innes in the woollen merchants firm Innes, Stevenson & Co. He retired in 1892, after which the firm continued with F.E.H. Chambers as a new partner. William (18th C.) listed as owner of a ‘House and Yard’ in Minto Parish in 1779. It was owned by Lord Minto in 1811 and valued at £3 13s 2d. William (1729/30–1807) tenant farmer at Langburnshiels. He is recorded as owner of 5 farm horses and 1 saddle horse on the Horse Tax Rolls of 1797. He also paid tax on 5 non-working dogs in 1797. He contributed to the subscription for the defence of the country (against the French) in 1803. It was said that his 'sound knowledge, singular abilities, and successful improvements, as a store-farmer, have been seldom equalled'. William (b.c.1785) tanner in Hawick. In 1841 he was living at about 23 High Street. His wife was Jane and their children included Agnes, Isabel, Jane, Thomas, Margaret and Williamina. His widow appears to be living at Kirkstyle in 1851. William Laidlaw (1845/6–93) worked for Laing & Irvine, eventually becoming a partner in Irving, Groerson & Stevenson. He left this partnership to go into business with A.K. Innes as Innes, Stevenson & Co, retiring only about a year before his death. He built the villa Dunira. He married Susan Yule, who died in 1872, aged 26. Their only child was Bella, who married Maj. James Rodger (formerly spelled 'Stevinsone' etc., and interchangeable with 'Stephenson' before the mid-18th century).
the Stewards' Plate

the Stewards’ Plate (thu-stew-urdz-pla”) n. race at the Saturday of the Common Riding, held from at least 1899.

Stewart (stew-ur”) n. Adam (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living in Denholm in 1723 and 1730. His children included Janet (b.1723), Adam (b.1726), Bessie (b.1728), Margaret (b.1730) and Elizabeth (b.1732). Alexander Earl of Mar and Garioch (d.1435) illegitimate son of Alexander, Earl of Buchan, and grandson of King Robert II. He was a supporter of his uncle, the Regent Albany. He married Isobel, Countess of Mar, daughter of William Douglas, Earl of Mar. Through her he inherited titles, including part of the Barony of Cavers and the Forest of Jedburgh, as recorded in a document of 1405. He was appointed Admiral of the Realm of Scotland about 1420. He had only one (illegitimate) son, Sir Thomas, who pre-deceased him. Alexander (c.1454–85) 1st Duke of Albany, 2nd son of King James II. He was Warden of the Western Marches from 1475. He also held the positions of Lord High Admiral, Governor of Berwick, and Lieutenant of the Kingdom. He was imprisoned after being suspected of plotting against his brother James III, but escaped and made pacts with Edward IV of England. He also offered to give Evesdale and other parts of the Borders to England. After being sentenced to death in Scotland he fled to France, where he died in a tournament accident. His titles were inherited by John, son of his 2nd wife. Several men from the Borders were much later (in 1493) given remission at Jedburgh for having been among his supporters, including Ralph Ainslie, Thomas Brown in Minto, Robert Dalgleish in Howden, George Davidson in Raperlaw, John Grahamslaw of Newton, Adam Kirkton in Crailing Mill, Patrick Mow, Thomas Riddell brother of Riddell of that Ilk, Gilbert Shiel in Bedrule, George Turnbull of Bedrule, John Turnbull in Bedrule, Thomas Turnbull in Gatehousecote and John Waugh (possibly in Hawick). Sir Alexander of Dalswinton and Garlies (d.c.1500) son of Sir William of Minto. In 1458/9 he and his wife Elizabeth had a charter for the lands of Sunlaws and Morebattle. His family held lands locally, including Howpasley, which he resigned about 1468, when he was still 'younger'; these may have previously belonged to an elder brother, Andrew, who must have died first. Another brother was Sir Thomas of Minto to whom he gave consent in 1476 to his father’s grant of the lands of Minto. In the same year he also resigned to his brother the lands of Sunlaws and Morebattle, also with the consent of his wife, Elizabeth, reserving for themselves a 20 merk land there. In 1477 he had a charter for the lands of Dalswinton, with the permission of his son, witnessed by his brother Thomas of Minto. He served as Scottish Ambassador to England in 1485 and fought at Sauchieburn in 1488. He is probably the Alexander mentioned in 1501 when it is stated that sasine had been given to him for half of the market rights in Minto, which had been in the King’s hands for 3 years. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Sir Archibald Douglas of Cavers. He was succeeded by his son Alexander, who was killed at Flodden. His other children included: Agnes, who married John, 3rd Lord Maxwell; John; Archibald, Parson of Kirkmaho; and Janet, who married Sir John Dunbar of Mochrum. Sir Alexander of Garlies (d.1513) son of Sir Alexander and Elizabeth Douglas, daughter of the Laird of Cavers. He married Elizabeth Kennedy, probably a daughter of Kennedy of Blairquhan. He was succeeded by his son Alexander, and was said to have also had 16 daughters, each of whom married a laird of distinction. He was killed at Flodden. Sir Alexander of Garlies (c.1508–c.93) son of Alexander who was killed at Flodden. He was the 4th of Garlies, and was a minor under his uncle Archibald, parson of Kirkmaho. He was captured at Solway Moss in 1542 and his son was held as hostage in his place. Also in 1542 he erected his lands into the Baronies of Dalswinton and Garlies. The Dalswinton Barony included the family’s half merkland in Minto, and patronage of the Rectory there. He was a Commissioner for Wigtownshire.
in the 1550s and sat in Parliament in 1560 and 1565. He acted as ambassador to Henry VIII in 1572. He was still alive in 1593, but died soon afterwards. He firstly married Katherine, daughter of Sir James Crichton of Cranston Riddell. He secondly married Margaret Dunbar and thirdly married Catherine, daughter of his cousin Walter Stewart of Barcyle. His children were: Sir Alexander, who died before him, with his son Sir Alexander succeeding; John; Margaret; Anthony; Robert; William; and Helen. Sir Alexander of Garlies (d.1597) 5th of Garlies, grandson of Sir Alexander, the previous Laird, his father (also Sir Alexander) dying before his grandfather. His mother was Katherine, 2nd daughter and co-heir of William, Lord Herries of Terregles. He inherited many lands, including the small piece of land and rights within Minto. He was knighted in 1590 and sat in Parliament in 1594 and 1596. He married Christian, daughter of Sir William Douglas of Drumlanrig and secondly married Elizabeth Douglas, daughter of David, Earl of Angus, who was widow of Lord Maxwell. His children were Alexander (who succeeded), Thomas, William, Helen, Janet, Nicholas and John. Alexander of Garlies (d.1649) son of Sir Alexander and Christian Douglas of Drumlanrig. He inherited his father's rights in Minto in 1603; this included a half merkland in Minto, with the advowson of the Kirk there. He became Lord Garlies in 1607 and sat in Parliament several times. In 1623 he was raised to be Earl of Galloway. A firm supporter of Charles I he was appointed as a Privy Councillor. He married Grizel, daughter of Sir John Gordon of Lochinvar and their children included: Alexander (d.1638); Sir James, who succeeded; and Anne. Alexander (16th/17th C.) son of James of Tinnis. In 1609 he was listed along with Walter Scott of Headshaw and other Scots as men that Sir Robert Scott of Thirlestane and his tenants were fined for resetting. This was part of the feud between the Scots of Thirlestane and Tushielaw. His brother John was mentioned later. Alexander (17th/18th C.) dyker in Hawick. He married Margaret Wilson and their children included Margaret (b.1714). The witnesses in 1714 were weave Robert Tinlin and shoemaker Robert Allan. Alexander (18th/19th C.) hosier in Hawick. His unmarried child died in 1811. He could be the Alexander who married Margaret Scott and had children Ebenezer (b.1805), Betty (b.1808), David (b.1810) and David (again, b.1812), baptised in Wilton. Alexander (b.c.1820) servant at Cavers House in 1841. Allan (19th C.) from Barra in Invernesshire, he was a quarryman in Hawick. He married Agnes Ekron in 1857 and their children included: Angus (b.c.1857); Anne E. (b.1862); and Elizabeth (b.1871). His wife may have been daughter of Andrew Ekron, with her mother's name being Elizabeth. Andrew (d.c.1460) eldest son of Sir William of Dalswinton, brother of Alexander and Thomas of Minto. In 1458/9 he had a crown charter of the lands of Minto, Howpasley, Longnewton, as well as lands in Dumfriesshire, Kirkcudbright and Wigton. However, he probably died soon after, since his brother Alexander resigned the lands in about 1468 and later succeeded to Dalswinton and Garlies. Andrew (16th C.) recorded as servant to the Laird of Riddell in 1596. He was accused of crimes by Englishman Nicholas Forster in the previous year. Andrew of Ochiltree (c.1560–1628/9) son of Andrew, Master of Ochiltree, he was the 3rd Lord. He served as Lieutenant and Warden of the West Marches in the 1580s. He was later First Gentleman to the Bedchamber of King James VI. He was also General of Edinburgh Castle. He settled in Northern Ireland at Castle Stuart. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir John Kennedy of Blairquhan and was succeeded by his son Sir Andrew. Andrew (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. In 1729 he witnessed a baptism for Robert Turnbull and Elspeth Douglas, residents of Midshiels and in 1733 another for William Turnbull, also living at Midshiels. Probably the same Andrew married Marion Huntly in Wilton in 1731 and had children Janet (b.1732), Robert (b.1734) and Mary (b.1737). Andrew (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Janet Douglas and their children included Agnes (b.1742), James (b.1744), George (b.1746), James (again, b.1748), Ann (b.1750), Andrew (b.1753) and Margaret (b.1755). Andrew (18th C.) married Jean Wright in 1761, both from Wilton Parish. Andrew (18th/19th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf. He married Christian Crozier. Their children (born in Lilliesleaf, but baptised in Linton) included: Peggy (b.1787); and Robert (b.1790). Andrew, J.P. (19th C.) owner of the farm of Cotfield in Lilliesleaf Parish in the 1870s. In about 1874 he is recorded owning the share of Lilliesleaf Common (and its teinds) that formerly pertained to the lands of Bewlie Hill, as well as Hermiston. Archibald (16th/17th C.) illegitimate son of James of Tinnis. In 1608 he was among the relatives and tenants of Sir Robert of Thirlestane who were bound over not to harm Archibald of ‘Dephoip’ or his sons. Archibald (19th/20th C.) gardener at Wells estate. He had a brother who worked on the Maxpoffle estate and sisters who lived in Melrose. In 1882 at Bedrule Schoolhouse, he married Frances, daughter of schoolmaster William MacNeill. After Wells estate was sold off he moved to West Linton. The couple’s only child was William MacNeill. Bell (18th/19th C.) spinner from Glasgow. It is said that when the first spinning jenny arrived in Hawick, for operation at the Tower Knowe Mill, one of the strongest workers was given the task of operating it, but gave up, claiming that no one could stand to run it. The employers, Waldie & Pringle, then called for an experienced operator from Glasgow, to show the workers how it could be done easily. This was probably around the early 1820s. Charles (b.1618) son of Francis and grandson of the last Earl of Bothwell. He was born at Tranent. There are papers relating to his lands of Wilton, Liddesdale and others in 1647 and 1648. He fought at the Battle of Worcester. He died unmarried, bringing an end to the local connection of the Hepburns and Stewarts. Charles 6th Duke of Lennox and 3rd Duke of Richmond (1639–72) son of George, 9th Seigneur d’Aubigny and grandson of Esme, 3rd Duke of Lennox. On the death of his cousin Esme he inherited the Lennox and Richmond titles. This included the Baronies of Ancrum, Ashkirk and Lilliesleaf. As Duke of Lennox he paid a small amount in the 1663 Land Tax Rolls in Ashkirk. However, it is unclear if he played any role in local affairs. He served as hereditary Great Chamberlain of Scotland. He drowned at Elsinore on a trip as ambassador to persuade Denmark to join a war on the Dutch. Although he married 3 times (the third time to Frances Teresa Stewart, mistress of his cousin Charles II), he died without issue. Charles (d.1744) 4th Earl of Traquair. He succeeded to his brother William, his other brother George having died before him. He was the last of his family to be Laird of Wells in Rulewater. Burdened with his grandfather’s debts, he sold the estate to Thomas Rutherford in 1687. He married Mary, daughter of Robert Maxwell, 4th Earl of Nithsdale and was succeeded by his sons Charles and then John. Charles Edward ‘Bonnie Prince Charming’ or ‘the Young Pretender’ (1720–88) son of James Francis and grandson of King James VII. In 1745 he attempted to capture the throne for his father, from George, landing in Scotland, gaining the support of an army of Highlanders and marching into England, where they met defeat. After being on the run for several months in Scotland he was able to flee to France and died an old man in Rome. Although there seems to have little local support for him at the time, part of his army passed near Hawick in 1745, and many tales grew up around events said to have happened at that time. Charles (19th/20th C.) local writer, who used the pseudonym ‘Karl Brown’. He who wrote a poem about the Sclatford skirmish and may be the ‘Carl Brown’ who wrote ‘A Hawick Common-Riding Toast’. He is also the author of the novel ‘Andrew Macpherson: a tale of the Borders’ (1905), which was serialised in the Hawick Express. This tells the story of the minister of the fictitious Roselea (a thinly disguised Lilliesleaf) and his love affairs, with some of the action taking place in South Africa. David (18th C.) merchant of Hawick who married Ann Fordyce of Aberdeen in Edinburg in 1776. David member of the Archæological Society and font of knowledge on Hawick and the nearby rural areas. He was recorded in dialect in 2004 as part of the BBC ‘Voices’ project. His daughter is Norma. Rev. Duncan (1841–1908) from Dunblane, he studied at Edinburgh University and New College. He became the first minister of St. Andrew’s Free Church, being called there in 1867, inducted in 1868 and remaining for about 40 years. He was said to have ‘the appearance of a jolly farmer of some twelve stones’ and to possess a powerful voice. He was involved with the temperance movement and the National Bible Society and locally with the Cottage Hospital and with Stobs. He also researched into Teviotdale connections with the Covenanters, for example publicising the besieging of Drumlanrig’s Tower. He wrote ‘The Covenanters of Teviotdale and neighbouring districts’ (1908). In 1890 he married Mary J.S. Mitchell. Esme 5th Duke of Lennox (1649–1660) son of James, 1st Duke of Richmond. His father died in 1655 and he was served heir to the family properties and titles. This included the Baronies of Ancrum, Ashkirk and Lilliesleaf. He went into exile to France with his mother and died of smallpox. His titles passed to his cousin Charles. Francis 5th Earl of Bothwell (1563–1611) nephew of James Hepburn, the 4th Earl. His father was John, Commendator of Coldingham, being an illegitimate son of James V (hence he was first cousin of James VI) and his mother was Lady Janet Hepburn, daughter of Patrick, the 3rd Earl. He was a powerful force in late 16th century Scotland. He was lay Commendator of Kelso Abbey, and held many baronies and estates, including Wilton, granted in a chart of 1568. Patronage of St. Mary’s Kirk in Hawick was confirmed to him in 1581 and 1585 by James VI. In 1586 he re-leased several lands in Liddesdale to Elliotts. A charter of 1587 confers on him the forfeited titles of his uncle, the 4th Earl, including Keeper of Liddesdale and Hermitage. In November 1587 (according to an English letter) he rode to Branxholme and Hawick, there meeting with leaders from Liddesdale; although he publicly reminded them of the justice on the Border, his stepson Scott of Buccleuch carried out a raid around Bewcastle using his trumpet and standard. In 1591 he escaped from prison in Edinburgh and there was a ‘band’ between the main noblemen of the Borders to lay aside their quarrels in order to capture him. He led several attempts to capture King James VI, including the ‘Falkland Raid’ of 1592, which involved about 300 horsemen from the Borders. This led to him losing all his titles, including Keeper of Hermitage, as well as his estates, to Sir Walter Scott, 1st Lord of Buccleuch (his stepson). A ‘summons of treason’ of 1592 lists him and his wife, along with many men (including some from the Borders) who were his supporters. Eventually forced to flee abroad, he died in Italy. There is a bond of 1604 in which he promises ‘6 or 7 chalders of victual during recipient’s life’ to his servant Walter Scott of Burnfoot (on Ale Water) when he was restored to the King’s favour and his former privileges; this never happened, with the Privy Council recording a complaint between his sons Francis, John, Harry and Frederick against William Scott of Burnfoot and his brothers Walter and Robert, and furthermore his son and heir Francis was still trying to recover the lands in the 1620s. He married Lady Margaret Douglas, widow of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme and Buccleuch; she was also denounced as a rebel following the Falkland Raid. His daughter Elizabeth married James, Master of Cranstoun (and their daughter married Sir Gilbert Elliot of Stobs). Another daughter Jean married Robert Elliot of Redliegh. A son John was Commendator of Coldingham, and another, Harry, held lands in Teviotdale. His seal showed a ‘bend’ in the 1st and 4th quarters, and a rose and 2 lions in the 2nd and 3rd, together with a surtout, a lion rampant, an anchor and a shield bearing ‘F.S.’ He is mentioned by Scott of Satchells, who mixes up father and son – ‘King James the Fifth his bastard Son Was of as much regard, He married Buccleugh’s Relict He being but a Laird’ [CWS]. Francis (1584–1639) eldest son of Francis, Earl of Bothwell. He was rehabilitated in 1614, a few years after his father’s death. But he did not get back the bulk of the lands that had gone to the Earl of Home and the Lords of Roxburgh and Buccleuch. King Charles interceded to try to resolve differences between him and the Earls of Buccleuch and Roxburgh. In 1632 the patronage he had held of many churches around the Borders (including both Hawick and Wilton) went to Walter Scott, Earl of Buccleuch. His rehabilitation was ratified by Parliament in 1633. In 1634 2 of the ‘tutors’ of the young Earl of Buccleuch went to London to hear the King’s determination of the ongoing dispute he had over Buccleuch lands. He received lands in Lothian and made a financial arrangement over rights to the lands in the Borders in 1634. He married Isobel, daughter of Robert Seton, 1st Earl of Winton. Their children were Charles, Robert, Margaret and Elizabeth. Francis (17th C.) Hawick resident, married to Helen Muir. His son William was born in 1637. Francis (b.c.1785) stock-making who lived at Appletriethall. He was also an army pensioner. His wife was Rachel and their children included George, Euphemia, Agnes, Francis, John and Janet. George (16th C.) farmer at Rulewood. His barn and yard are mentioned as part of the land dispute between Barons of Feu-Rule in 1562. George (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Groundistone in 1729. He married Isabel, daughter of William Harkness in 1727, the marriage being proclaimed in bith Hawick and Wilton Parishes. Their daughter Mary was baptised in 1729, with witnesses James Scott and Robert Riddell. George (c.1715–93) Professor of Humanity (i.e. Latin) at Edinburgh University for more than 30 years from 1741. He was recorded as a Commissioner for Selkirkshire in 1761. He bought the estate of Midlem Mill in 1773, but must have already held Selkirkshire property before that. He was granted livery of Shielswood by Elliot of Minto (probably as part of the common practice of adding supporters to the county voter’s roll); he renounced this right in 1779, when it was given to Rev. Simon Haliburton. His son Gilbert was a historian and reviser. George (b.c.1795) tenant of the quarry at Bedrule Mill in the 1841 census. His wife was Isabella and they have a son William. Helen ‘Nelly’ (18th C.) cook at Orchard in 1791, when she worked for William Elliot Lockhart. Helen (18th C.) daughter of Rev. Walter. Along with her sisters Mary and Isabel, she succeeded her brother Matthew in the lands of Barnhills in
Stewart

he was the first witness to the document relating his mother being Margaret Murray. In 1507/8 (and illegitimate) son of James Earl of Buchan, James name of 6 Kings of Scotland, see under her son Thomas (Earl of Mar) came of age. She granted her rights and lands in Scotland until 1348 when her husband William Carsewell was in 1334 and led to the appointment of her husband

She secondly married Geoffrey Murray, but died childless; and Margaret, who succeeded as Earl of Mar, and also inherited Cavers, but died childless; and Margaret, who became Countess of Mar in her own right, and was the ancestor of the Earls of Douglas. Donald was Regent of Scotland for a few months, but was killed at the Battle of Dupplin Moor in 1332, 3 years after his uncle, Robert the Bruce. She secondly married Geoffrey Murray, but divorced him soon afterwards. She thirdly married William Carswell, who was Sheriff of Roxburghshire. She claimed the sheriffsip of Roxburghshire and the custody of Selkirk Forest as a hereditary right; this was looked into by Edward III in 1334 and led to the appointment of her husband by the English (then in control of the Borders) in 1347. She appears to have been deceased in 1348 when her husband William Carswell was granted her rights and lands in Scotland until her son Thomas (Earl of Mar) came of age. She may have also married Alexander Balliol, Laird of Cavers. Note that a later Isabella, Countess of Mar, was her grand-daughter. Isabel (17th C.) recorded in 1676 when she was fined along with Janet Halliwell for fighting over the placement of their market stalls. She could be the Isabel born in Hawick in 1650 to Francis and Helen Muir. James name of 6 Kings of Scotland, see under James. James (d.1513) 1st of Traquair, 2nd (and illegitimate) son of James Earl of Buchan, his mother being Margaret Murray. In 1507/8 he was the first witness to the document relating to the tower in Hawick ‘between the bridges’ for the Scots of Whitchesters. Sometime before 1505 he married Katherine, grand-daughter of James Rutherford of that Ilk and Wells. He is said to have taken her away from her family and compelled her to marry him. He is said to have failed to inherit any of the Rutherford lands because of this marriage being to a kinsman. However, their son would later become Laird of Wells, after the death of her sister Helen. They had a son William (who succeeded and married Christina, daughter of John, 2nd Lord Hay of Yester), and another son James, as well as a daughter Mary and another daughter who may have married Archibald, 6th Earl of Douglas. His widow complained about her treatment at his hands and the fact that she had lost her share of the inheritance to her sister; the result was that Rutherford and Wells went to her grandson Sir John of Traquair. He was killed at Flodden. James (16th C.) resident of Whithope recorded in 1549, among a list of the tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme who complained about the Kers ravaging their farms. He may have been related to the tenant there, Philip, or to Helen who was listed after him. James (c.1531–70) an illegitimate son of James V, his mother being Margaret Erskine. He was also known as ‘the Regent Moray’ and sometimes ‘the Earl of Mar’. He became chief advisor to his half-sister Mary Queen of Scots on her return to Scotland in 1561, and was one of the leaders of the Scottish Reformation. In 1561 (or 1562) he commanded an expedition against freebooting Borderers. This included surrounding Hawick on market day to surprise people reselling stolen goods. 53 men were captured and 18 of them drowned in the Slitrig, ‘for lack of trees and halters’, while another 6 were hanged later in Edinburgh. In 1567 he repeated the exercise on Hallowe’en, attended by Lords Morton, Howe and Lindsay and their followers. In preparation for their visit, Hawick was among towns who were charged to ‘have in reddines bakin breid, brown aill, hors meit, mannis meit and uther neidfull ludgeing and provisioun’. They then captured 34 thieves, including 22 Elliots and 6 Croziers, having 11 of them immediately hanged and 7 drowned in Hawick. It is said (by Robert Wilson) that the hangings happened on 2 beams laid across the Auld Brig. 10 of these men were held in Edinburgh Tolbooth and we have a record of their names (5 were called Robert Elliot!). He may also have revisited Hawick in 1569, and certainly in that year led an assault on Liddesdale, blowing 1796. The lands were sold soon afterwards to Sir Gilbert Murray Kynynmound Elliot, with whom she had a heritable bond in 1798. She succeeded her 2 sisters in 1803. Henry ‘Harry’ (16th/17th C.) younger son of Francis, 5th Earl of Bothwell. He is recorded in the period 1640–42 in legal papers of Francis Scott, Earl of Buccleuch over the teinds of the lands of ‘Kalrige, Commounsye and Mlynesingtoun’; the first place could conceivably be Caerlenrig. Hercules of Whitlaw (d.1595) son of John Stewart, Lord Darnley and brother of Francis, Earl of Bothwell. Said to have owned Whitlaw near Hawick, but more likely to have been one of the numerous areas of a similar name elsewhere (near Bowden, Morebattle and in Lothian). A ‘summons of treason’ listed him in 1592 and in 1593/4 he was denounced a rebel, along with others who had helped the Earl of Bothwell. He married Mary, daughter of Patrick Whitelaw of that Ilk, and their children included Margaret and John. Isabel (d.c.1348) probably daughter of Sir Alexander of Bonkill. She married Donald, Earl of Mar. They had 2 children: Thomas, who succeeded as Earl of Mar, and also inherited Cavers, but died childless; and Margaret, who became Countess of Mar in her own right, and was the ancestor of the Earls of Douglas. Donald was Regent of Scotland for a few months, but was killed at the Battle of Dupplin Moor in 1332, 3 years after his uncle, Robert the Bruce. She secondly married Geoffrey Murray, but divorced him soon afterwards. She thirdly married William Carswell, who was Sheriff of Roxburghshire. She claimed the sheriffsip of Roxburghshire and the custody of Selkirk Forest as a hereditary right; this was looked into by Edward III in 1334 and led to the appointment of her husband by the English (then in control of the Borders) in 1347. She appears to have been deceased in 1348 when her husband William Carswell was granted her rights and lands in Scotland until her son Thomas (Earl of Mar) came of age. She may have also married Alexander Balliol, Laird of Cavers. Note that a later Isabella, Countess of Mar, was her grand-daughter. Isabel (17th C.) recorded in 1676 when she was fined along with Janet Halliwell for fighting over the placement of their market stalls. She could be the Isabel born in Hawick in 1650 to Francis and Helen Muir. James name of 6 Kings of Scotland, see under James. James (d.1513) 1st of Traquair, 2nd (and illegitimate) son of James Earl of Buchan, his mother being Margaret Murray. In 1507/8 he was the first witness to the document relating to the tower in Hawick ‘between the bridges’ for the Scots of Whitchesters. Sometime before 1505 he married Katherine, grand-daughter of James Rutherford of that Ilk and Wells. He is said to have taken her away from her family and compelled her to marry him. He is said to have failed to inherit any of the Rutherford lands because of this marriage being to a kinsman. However, their son would later become Laird of Wells, after the death of her sister Helen. They had a son William (who succeeded and married Christina, daughter of John, 2nd Lord Hay of Yester), and another son James, as well as a daughter Mary and another daughter who may have married Archibald, 6th Earl of Douglas. His widow complained about her treatment at his hands and the fact that she had lost her share of the inheritance to her sister; the result was that Rutherford and Wells went to her grandson Sir John of Traquair. He was killed at Flodden. James (16th C.) resident of Whithope recorded in 1549, among a list of the tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme who complained about the Kers ravaging their farms. He may have been related to the tenant there, Philip, or to Helen who was listed after him. James (c.1531–70) an illegitimate son of James V, his mother being Margaret Erskine. He was also known as ‘the Regent Moray’ and sometimes ‘the Earl of Mar’. He became chief advisor to his half-sister Mary Queen of Scots on her return to Scotland in 1561, and was one of the leaders of the Scottish Reformation. In 1561 (or 1562) he commanded an expedition against freebooting Borderers. This included surrounding Hawick on market day to surprise people reselling stolen goods. 53 men were captured and 18 of them drowned in the Slitrig, ‘for lack of trees and halters’, while another 6 were hanged later in Edinburgh. In 1567 he repeated the exercise on Hallowe’en, attended by Lords Morton, Howe and Lindsay and their followers. In preparation for their visit, Hawick was among towns who were charged to ‘have in reddines bakin breid, brown aill, hors meit, mannis meit and uther neidfull ludgeing and provisioun’. They then captured 34 thieves, including 22 Elliots and 6 Croziers, having 11 of them immediately hanged and 7 drowned in Hawick. It is said (by Robert Wilson) that the hangings happened on 2 beams laid across the Auld Brig. 10 of these men were held in Edinburgh Tolbooth and we have a record of their names (5 were called Robert Elliot!). He may also have revisited Hawick in 1569, and certainly in that year led an assault on Liddesdale, blowing up the tower of Mangerton, burning Whithaugh, etc. There was an order from the Privy Council for a large number of men (from all over southern Scotland) to muster in Hawick to meet him on 8th October (moved by 2 days to coincide with the full Moon), ‘weill bodon in feir of weir, with xx daysi victuallis and provisoun’, in order to subdue the ‘rebellious subjects’ of the Middle and West Marches. He was Regent from 1567, but fell from favour after failing in a bid to seize the crown from Mary. He was assassinated in Linlithgow by his old rivals the Hamiltons. He was succeeded by his daughter Elizabeth, who married her kinsman James Stewart. James (d.1557) illegitimate son of James V. His half-siblings included Mary (Queen of Scots), James (Earl of Moray, later Regent), Robert (Prior of Whithorn), Robert (Earl of Orkney), Adam (Prior of Charter House) and John (Lord Darnley, Commendator of Coldingham). He was the Commendator of Melrose and Kelso, 1534/5, one of the last before the Reformation, and probably lived in the Commendator’s House. He gave the ‘Monk’s Tower’ at Hassendean to Walter Scott of Branzholme in 1546/7 and gave a charter of Cockerheugh to Walter Scott of Branxholme in 1556. James of Bothwellhaugh (16th C.) in 1581 he received the Earldom of Arran from James Hamilton, who was considered insane, but these titles were restored to Hamilton in 1586. In 1584 he was appointed Lord Warden General of all the Marches, but this only lasted 1 or 2 years. James of Shillinglaw (d.1607) 6th of the Barony of Traquair and also Laird of Wells in Rulewater. He succeeded his father William in 1605, his 3 elder brothers all having died without issue. As well as inheriting several lands, he had the right of patronage of Bedrule Kirk. However, he only enjoyed his position for a couple of years before dying and being succeeded by his grandson, Sir John, the 1st Earl. He married Catherine Kerr and their children were John (whose son succeeded), Robert of Shillinglaw, William, Margaret, Janet (who married John Veitch of Dawyck), Gelis, Walter, Isobel and Mary. James of Nether Horsburgh (16th/17th C.) son of Robert of Shillinglaw. In 1634 he was served heir to his father’s lands of ‘Helme et Middill’, with grain mill and fuller’s mill called ‘Dowishanch’, comprising a 3 merk land in the Barony of Cavers. He was separately served heir to his father in the lands of ‘Roulwood’, ‘Majorwells et Westlies’, extending to a 6-pound land of old extent, lying in the Barony of ‘Hareis’ by annexation. James (17th C.) described as a cordiner when he was a witness at a trial of Hawick Magistrates Court in 1642. He was deceased in 1666 when his son Walter gave evidence for a case involving a fight in St. Mary’s Kirk. He could be the John, married to Manie Scott, whose children baptised in Hawick included John (b.1643), Walter (b.1646) and an unnamed son (b.1648). James 4th Duke of Lennox, 1st Duke of Richmond (1612–55) eldest son of Esmé and Katherine Clifton. He was a key Royalist supporter in the Civil War and is buried in Westminster Abbey. Among his many titles and properties were the Baronies of Ancrum, Ashkirk and Lilliesleaf, being granted these by Charles I in 1641. In 1643 he is listed as holder of feu-duties for Headshaw in Ashkirk Parish, valued at £18 5s. He still held superiority over Barnhills in 1653. He was succeeded by his young son Esmé. James (17th C.) recorded as resident of a parish in Clydesdale. He married Margaret Hutchison. Their twins Susanna and Janet were baptised in Hawick in 1688, with witnesses William Scott of Brieryards and John Scott of Whitehaugh. James Francis Edward ‘the Old Pretender’ (1688–1766) son of King James VII (or II), he was forced to move to France when he was an infant and his father was ousted from the throne for being a Catholic. He this became the de facto leader of the ‘Jacobite’ movement. He led the Jacobite Rebellion of 1715, and escaped back to France when the attempt to take over from George I failed. In October of 1715 about 200 horsemen past through Hawick and proclaimed ‘the Chevalier’. About 2 weeks later the Highlander army camped at Hawick Moor. There are many stories told relating to what happened during those few weeks. His son Charles, ‘Bonnie Prince Charlie’, also led an unsuccessful revolt 30 years later. James (17th C.) resident of Chesters according to the 1694 Hearth Tax Rolls. James (17th/18th C.) smith at Falnash. His children included: Janet (b.1701); and James (b.1703). Margaret (b.1691) and David (b.1693), baptised in Hawick, may have also been his children. The witnesses in 1703 were John Scott in Falnash and Robert Riddell, miller in Falnash. Sir James of Coltness (1713–80) also referred to as 2nd Bart of Goodtrees. He was eldest son of Sir James and Anne Dalrymple. He married Frances, daughter of James, Earl of Wemyss and was succeeded by his son, also Sir James. This branch of the family often spelled their name ‘Steuart’. He owned the Chisholme estate in the mid-18th century, being involved in a dispute with John Whitehaugh. William Scott of Brieryards and John Scott of Whitehaugh.

Stewart

Elliot of Borthwickbrae over Branxholme Muir in the period 1743–60 and with Henry, Duke of Buccleuch in 1763–67. James (18th/19th C.) listed as owner of a horse in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls for Hawick. James (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Stonedale according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. James (18th/19th C.) earthenware dealer of the High Street, recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He could be the ‘Mr. Stewart’ marked on Wood’s 1824 map at about 24 High Street or the other one at about No. 55. He could be the merchant of that name whose child died in 1805. James (b.1815) son of Robert, farmer at Hawthornside. He excelled at wrestling and jumping and took part in the Hobkirk Baa along with his brothers. At the 1840 Common Riding Games he won prizes for wrestling, the standing and running hop-step-and-leap and the hitch-and-kick. He married Margaret (1827–1901), daughter of William of Netherwells (who had the distinction of being born after her father’s death in a riding accident). Their children were Robert (who was born at Town-o’-Rule and married Elizabeth Forster), William Glass, Alexander, Penelope and Mary. James (19th C.) from Wilton Dean. His children included Mary Ann (who married George Richardson), Margaret (who married James Hood) and James (who worked for the Manchester Guardian and was proprietor of ‘Gas World’). Rev. James (1821–86) born in Stirling, 2nd son of David and Janet Galloway. He was educated in Stirling and at Glasgow University. He was licensed by Stirling Presbytery, became assistant at Largs and was first ordained as minister at St. Mary’s, Dumfries in 1849. He was translated to Wilton Parish Church in 1851 and remained until his death. During his ministry the present Wilton Church was built, Mansfield Glebe and Old Manse were acquired by the town, and Wilton Hill and Stewartfield were feued for building purposes. East and West Stewart Place are named after him. A large cross in his memory stands near the main entrance to Wilton Church. He married Isabella, daughter of James Reid of Wellfield. Their children were Elizabeth White- man, Isabella Reid, David Charles, James Reid, Catherine, John and Eleanor. He published ‘Wilton Sabbath School Hymnal’ (Hawick, 1877) and ‘Last Sermon preached in Wilton Church, 12th Sept. 1886’ (Hawick, 1886). His funeral sermon was given by Dr. John Mair and published in 1886. James (b.1828/9) from Langholm, he was schoolmaster at Clarilaw in Wilton Parish in 1861. Jean (17th C.) recorded in the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694 among those ‘Payed but not listed in Hauick Toun’. She was probably from the west side. She could have been related to the dyer John, who was also listed. Sir John (d.1419) son of Sir William of Jedworth and Minto. He was referred to as being ‘of Teviotdale or Jed- worth’ and also became the 1st of Garlies. In 1406–09 he had an annuity from the customs of Edinburgh. In 1396 he married Marion, the only daughter (and heiress) of Sir Walter of Dalswinton. He was succeeded by his son Sir William of Minto. His wife resigned the Barony of Dal- swinton in 1420 (when he was presumably deceased) to be granted to Sir Herbert Maxwell. His widow married Sir John Forrester of Corstorphine in 1422. Sir John of Minto (d.bef. 1512) son of Sir Thomas, who had given up the lands in Minto, even although the family kept the designation. In 1477 he was the eldest son of Sir Thomas when he witnessed a charter for his father and mother. He also served as Provost of Glasgow. He is men- tioned as being ‘now Marshall’ and son of Thomas in the 1501 Exchequer Rolls, in relation to supe-riority of Minto. In 1502/3 he and his wife had a charter for the lands and Barony of Minto, as well as other lands. He witnessed a couple of charters in Edinburgh in 1508. He married Janet Fleming and was succeeded by Robert (who married Janet, daughter of John, ‘the Outlaw Murray’). He is sometimes said to have died at Flodden. John (c.1484–1536) son of Alexander, Duke of Albany and nephew of King James III. He in-herited the titles of Duke of Albany and Earl of March from his father. He acted as Regent dur- ing the minority of his cousin’s son, James V. In 1516 he granted a new infeftment of the Barony of Branxholme to Sir Walter Scott. Ousted from power in 1524, he spent most of the rest of his life in France. John of Traquair (16th C.) recorded as Parson of Bedrule in 1562. He probably succeeded from William Kerr, but was himself succeeded by Sir John Douglas (however, this may simply have been because of disputes over the patronage). He could have been the same as Sir John, 4th Laird of Traquair. Sir John of Minto (d.1583) son of Robert. He came from the family that had previously been Barons of Minto, and continued to use the designation. He still held part of the supe-riority of the Barony of Minto, which was in-herited by his grandson Walter in 1614. Like his father he was Provost of Glasgow. His name is recorded as witness to many documents, e.g. he was among the prominent men of the nation who declared James as King in place of Mary in 1567.
He served as surety for Borderers in 1573. He married Joanna Hepburn and was succeeded by his son Matthew, who was also Provost of Glasgow. His seal bore a horizontal band surmounted by a ‘bend engrailed’ and a cinquefoil on the left. He may be the ‘Lard of Mynto, Collectour to the Comptrollar’ recorded in relation to a case in Glasgow in 1566/7. Sir John (d.1591) 2nd son of William, he was the 4th Laird of Traquair. In 1549 he was served heir to his brother Robert, who died in 1548. In 1559 he settled the family disputes over succession, signing confirmation with his cousin Richard Rutherford of the lands of Edgerston, while he kept Wells (in Rulewater), as well as superiority of Edgerston. In 1564 he was listed among Border lairds who were ordered to support the warden, Ker of Cessford. In 1564/5 he was a witness to the bond to end the feud between the Scotts and the Kerrs. He was knighted in 1565. In 1574 he was on the retours for Walter Scott of Branxholme as heir to his great-uncle David Scott, as well as his great-grandfather Sir Walter Scott. In 1581 it was confirmed that he had the ‘half merk land of Kirklandis of Bedrowll’, including the patronage etc., which had belonged to Kerr of Ferniehirst. He was among the Border Lairds summoned to appear before the Privy Council in 1583/4. He died without issue and was succeeded by his brother Sir William. Sir John of Traquair (c.1600–59) son of John. He succeeded to the Barony of Traquair from his grandfather James, 6th of Traquair, being served heir in 1606. He was also Laird of Wells in Rulewater, and probably the Earl who purchased adjoining lands from John, Lord Balermino. In 1619 he complained that a group of Turnbulls had cut down a large quantity of timber from his lands at Huntliehill. He was apparently a favourite in the court of Charles I and was made an Earl in 1633. However, he supported the wrong side in the Civil War, being taken prisoner at Preston, and living in poverty after he was released. In 1634 he resigned the superiority of Edgerston to John Rutherford of Edgerston. In 1643 he was recorded as owner of lands valued at £210 10s in Cavers Parish, £409 10s in Hobkirk Parish (these both being for the Wells estate) and £108 for lands in Ruecastle in Bedrule Parish, as well as the teinds of Bedrule, duties in Roxburgh and a large fraction of lands in Maxton Parish. His lands included Fastcastle, where 2 residents were cited in 1644 for not subscribing to the Covenant, saying that ‘they would ken no session nor minister, but follow the command of their master, my Lord Traquair’ (suggesting that he himself was a dissenter). He married Catherine, daughter of David Carnegie, Earl of Southesk. Their children were John (2nd Earl), Margaret (who married James Douglas, 2nd Earl of Queensberry), Elizabeth Stewart (who married Patrick Murray, 2nd Lord of Elibank), Catherine and Magdalene. John (1622–66) 2nd Earl of Traquair and also Laird of Wells, eldest son of the 1st Earl. He served with the Marquess of Montrose and then the Duke of Hamilton. He paid the land tax on property in Cavers, Hobkirk and Bedrule Parishes in 1663. He married Henrietta Gordon, daughter of George, 2nd Marquess of Huntly and second Anne, daughter of George Seton, 3rd Earl of Winton. Their children included William (3rd Earl), George, Charles (4th Earl), John, Elizabeth, Isabel and Lucy. John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Helen Veitch and their children included: Jean (b.1649); Marion (b.1651); and Jean (again, b.1653). The witnesses in 1651 were John Scott and James Liddell. John (17th C.) listed as being ‘in Cavers’ in the 1684 list of those who were declared fugitives for religious non-conformity. John (17th C.) recorded at Greenhouse in Lilliesleaf Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. John (d.c.1696) Burgh Officer for many years in the latter part of the 17th century. Following his death, Alex Scott was appointed in his place. He was probably the ‘John Stuart’ who witnessed baptisms in 1687 and 1688, being ‘officer’ in one record, and was probably the man of that name listed among those contributing to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. Probably the same John was a weaver who married Marion Scott and had children: twins Janet and Jane (b.1680); Marion (b.1682); James (b.1684); Jane (b.1686); and William (b.1688). The witnesses in 1680 were William Purdom and Mr. Walter Gledstains (the Town Clerk, suggesting that he may indeed have been the Burgh Officer), and in 1688 were Mr. Walter Gledstains and ‘litster’ George Young. He may have been related to the John Stewart who was a Burgh Officer in about 1740. John (17th C.) recorded as ‘caliario’ when he witnessed a Hawick sasine in 1687. The meaning of the description is unclear, but might suggest that he was a shoemaker perhaps (or he could be the same man as the Burgh Officer). John (17th C.) dyker listed among those who subscribed to the fund for the new Kirk bell in Hawick in 1693/4. It is unclear whether he lived in the town or outside. He is probably the John ‘dyker to Irland’ listed among the ‘Deficients in Hauick Parich’ in 1694; he may have worked as a dyker for Thomas Ireland. Perhaps the same dyker John was recorded in the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694 among those ‘Payed but not listed in Hauick Toun’. He was probably from the west side. John (17th C.) resident of Woll in Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when he was listed on the Hearth Tax roll. John (17th C.) listed as a merchant on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hauick ‘exist the water’ in 1694. He could be the John, son of James and Janet Scott, who was born in Hawick in 1652. He could also be the John who was married to Grizel Thomson, and whose son John was born in 1680. Rev. John (d.bef. 1706) minister of Wilton. He studied at St. Leonard’s College and graduated from St. Andrews University in 1670. He became minister of Wilton in 1683, the first Episcopalian since before the Reformation. There is an existing letter referring to him in 1683, following a complaint from the Archbishop of Glasgow that John Langlands had not preached for several Sundays; the precise nature of his appointment is unclear. He was also presented to Borthwick in 1688 (the delay suggesting there was argument over the extra duties and stipend). However, he was deprived in 1689 for not reading the Proclamation of the Estates and not praying for William and Mary (i.e. refusing to give up Episcopalianism). In 1706 his widow Margaret Forbes, is recorded receiving money from the Session of Arngask Parish, on the recommendation of Jedburgh Presbytery. John (17th/18th C.) tenant in Todshaw. His son Thomas was born in 1720. John (17th/18th C.) recorded as ‘officer’ in Hawick in 1723. Probably the same John was recorded in the Town Treasurer’s book receiving payments in 1731 and 1732. He was probably a Burgh Officer, and is likely to be the same John recorded as Burgh Officer around 1743 along with Francis Turnbull; after the Town Herd, Mungo Armstrong, complained the to the Magistrates about neighbouring tenants keeping their livestock on the Common, the pair were ordered to bring in these animals, and managed to bring several black cattle to the West Port. He was probably related to the Burgh officer of the same name who died about 1698. John (18th C.) gamekeeper at Cavers in 1779, when he was working for James Douglas. Sir John of Allanbank (1714–96) from the Berwickshire family, he was Sheriff of that county. He became an Advocate in 1737 and was appointed Solicitor of the Stamp Duties in 1767. He is listed as being life-renter of lands in Minto Parish in 1779 (and recorded as former liferenter in 1811). His lands were those that had been earlier known as Craignend and Minto Mill farms, including Minto Craig, Millbank, Craignend Haugh, Millhaugh and a haugh by the Spittal road. He was one of 6 men who had been given liferent of parts of Minto by Sir Gilbert Elliot as a tactic to increase his support among the voters of Roxburghshire. There is no evidence that he had any other local connection. He married Margaret Agnes Smith and was succeeded by his son, Sir John. Rev. William Brown was chaplain to his family before becoming minister of Bedrule. John (18th C.) watchmaker in Hawick. He was on the subscription list for Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ (1784). John Govan of Hermiston (d.c.1861) lived at Cotfield in Lilliesleaf Parish in the mid-19th century. He became a member of the Peeblesshire Society in 1827. In 1833 he was involved in a dispute over closing off an old drove road on his property at Hermiston. In 1851 he was listed as a landed proprietor at Cotfield, farming 97 acres. He was listed at Cotfield in Slater’s 1852 directory and was still at Cotfield on the 1861 census, living with his nephew Peter and 3 servants. By 1874 he was owner of the lands of Bewlie Moor. His wife was Anna and her ‘Lady’s Companion’ was Maria Mackintosh from Kensington, who appears to have been listed at Cotfield in a directory of 1868. He is buried in his family enclosure in Lilliesleaf Kirkyard. John (b.c.1820) son of Robert, farmer at Hawthornside. He took part in the Hobbirk Baa along with his brothers and was described as ‘a very tall and powerful man and whom no one dared tackle’. He married Margaret Grieve from Buccleuch. John Thomson (1830/1–71) stockmaker of 1 Loan. He later worked as a carrier. He married Jane Paterson in 1852. Their children included James, John, Agnes and another John (who all died in infancy) and Jane (who died aged 18). John (b.1830/1) farmer at Hermiston in 1861. He was probably son of the previous John. He married Agnes Marshall. Rev. John (1865–1930) born in Fife-Keith, son of John Macpherson and Elizabeth Wright. He was educated in Aberdeen, graduated M.A. in 1887 and B.D. in 1890, and was licensed by the Presbytery there the same year. He became assistant at St. Clement’s Parish (Aberdeen) and then at Selkirk before becoming minister of Kirkton in 1892, where he remained until his death. He acted as Chaplain for Stobs Military Camp 1903–12. He was also Chaplain to Stobs Military Camp 1903–12 (usually written ‘Stuart’). John Livingstone (1894–1971) born in Hawick, he was educated at Edinburgh Academy and at the Royal Dick Veterinary College. In WWI he served in the Scottish Horse and the Argyll & Southern Highlanders. He played flanker for Scotland Rugby team in 1921. He served in the Colonial Veterinary Service 1923–9 and became a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh. Maj. John Ross (1918–2015) from Loganswell in Renfrewshire, he moved to the Borders with his mother, who was a teacher at Yetholm and then Denholm. He worked as a tailor, but joined the Army Reserves in 1939. He was a survivor of Dunkirk and was then commissioned with the K.O.S.B., serving in India and Burma, and retiring with the rank of Major. He then became a tailor in North Berwick and ran a guest house there. He joined the Hawick Archeological Society in 1981, serving on the Committee and as Syllabus Secretary. He wrote ‘Borderers in Battle’, which describes the Burma campaign of the K.O.S.B. Rev. John T. ex-army chaplain who was minister of Denholm, Minto and Bedrule 1978–84. Katherine (15th C.) recorded at the Justice-naire held in Jedburgh in 1493. She was a resident of Minto when Adam Turnbull in Hornshole was able to ‘compone’ for stealing from her, specifically 6 ‘chattells’. In 1494/5 the same Adam Turnbull had remission for several crimes, including stealing 6 cows and oxen and 2 bullocks from her in Minto. Kathleen W. wrote ‘An Historical Record of Borthwick Wa’s Burial Ground’ (1987), ‘Borthwick Water: two centuries of life in the parish of Roberton’ (1991), ‘Redfordgreen School, 1885–1955’ (1995) and ‘History of the Scotts of Milsington’ (3 volumes, 1993, 1996, 1998). She was a founder member of the Borders Family History Society. Ludovic (1574–1624) 2nd Duke of Lennox and 1st Duke of Richmond, son of Esme the 1st Duke of Lennox, son of John, 3rd Earl. He was assigned the rentals of the Lordship of Ettrick Forest. After his death in 1575/6 there were complaints to the Privy Council on behalf of 2 Burgessess of Edinburgh and a large number of Borderers regarding payment of the ‘mails’. He married Margaret, daughter of Archibald Douglas, 6th Earl of Angus. Sir Matthew of Minto (d.1610) son of John. His family still held part of the superiority of the Barony of Minto, although it is unclear if they played any direct role in the district. Like his father he was Provost of Glasgow. He was among those appointed as commissioners to keep the peace in Lanarkshire in 1610. He firstly married Janet Stewart and their children were Sir Walter of Minto (who succeeded) and Janet. He secondly married Jean Colquhoun and had a son, Robert. He witnessed a document for the Duke of Lennox in 1594. Matthew of Barnhills (d.1796) son of Rev. Walter, minister of Ashkirk. He was served as heir to his father in 1750, but was not inflected in the lands of Barnhills until 1780. He had a ‘decret of ex-cambion’ with Robert Bennet in 1775. In 1780 he appears to have sold Barnhills to Cornelius Elliot and bought it back the following year. In 1780 he had a sasine for the lands of Wester Barnhills ‘in fee’ (with Alexander Alison holding them ‘in liferent’). He was listed on the roll of electors for Roxburghshire in 1780. His sisters Mary, Helen and Isabel inherited the lands in 1796. Robert 1st Duke of Albany (c.1340–1420) 3rd and illegitimate son of King Robert II, brother of ‘John’ who became King Robert III. He functioned as Regent during his father’s infirmity, and also after his brother’s death during the minority of his nephew James I. He was thus involved in internal power struggles in Scotland, as well as in leading military expeditions into England. This included indirect involvement in the ‘Siege of Cocklaw’ in 1403. Andrew ‘de Hawick’ served as his Secretary from 1406. He married firstly Margaret Graham, Countess of Monteith, and secondly Harriet, daughter of Sir William Keith. His children were: Murdoch, who became the 2nd Duke of Albany and was beheaded; Isabel, who married Alexander Leslie, Earl of Ross and Walter Haldiburton of Dirleton; Margaret, who married Sir John Swinton; Marjory, who married Sir Duncan Campbell of Lochow; Elizabeth, who married Sir Malcolm Fleming of Cumbernauld; Joan, who married Robert Stewart, Lord of Lorn; Beatrix, who married James, 7th Earl of Douglas; a daughter who married an Abernethy of Salton; John, Chamberlain of Scotland, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Archibald Earl of Douglas; Andrew; Robert; and (a second) Elizabeth, who married Malcolm Fleming of Biggar. Robert of Traquair (d.1548) eldest son of William. In 1547/8 he is listed among the supporters of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme in a bond of loyalty to the Crown, along with the Kerrs. He was succeeded by his brother John. Sir Robert of Minto (d.1553) son of Sir John. He married Janet, daughter of John, ‘the Outlaw Murray’. In 1529 King James V granted him and his wife the Barony and lands of Minto. However, it is unclear if he had any role locally. He was Provost of Glasgow 1526–36. His children included John of Minto (also Provost of Glasgow), Agnes (who married John Wallace, 1st of Auchams and Dundonald) and Elizabeth (who married John Maxwell of Calderwood). Sir Robert of Shillinglaw (16th/17th C.) 2nd son of James of Traquair. His lands of Shillinglaw lay close to Traquair in Peebleshire. However, he also had charters in 1614 and 1617 for the Barony of Horsburgh and lands elsewhere, probably including lands in Cavers Parish. He served as tutor to his nephew John, who became the 1st Earl of Traquair. He was a member of the Commission for the Middle Shires around 1618. In 1634 his son James of Nether Horsburgh was served as his heir. Robert (17th C.) resident of the former Hassendean Parish. He married Mary ‘Malkye’ (Mackie) in Roberton Parish in 1684 and their children included: Elizabeth (b.1685) and Robert (b.1687), baptised in Roberton; and William (b.1694) and George (b.1698), baptised in Wilton. The witnesses in 1687 were George Scott (probably the one associated with Easter Groundistone) and Thomas Cowan. The witnesses in 1694 were John Scott and John Glendinning, and this is the earliest existing entry in the Wilton Parish records. He is probably the James recorded at Easter Groundistone on the 1694 Hearth Tax records. Robert (18th C.) servant of Francis Coltart in Woodburn (in the Borthwick valley). He is recorded in 1729 in the Roberton session books, having an altercation with William Bell, farmer at Broadlee. Robert (18th C.) schoolmaster at Caerlenrig from 1763. It is possible that the same man was ‘Mr Robert Stuart, schoolmaster, Wilton’ on the subscription list for Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ (1784). Robert (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Collier and their children included: Andrew (b.1773); Janet (b.1777); Robert (b.1779); James (b.1781); and Charters (b.1786). Robert (18th C.) resident of Damside in Wilton. He married Janet Cunningham and their children included: Janet (b.1772); Mary (b.1775); Mary (again, b.1777); and Anne (b.1784). The witnesses in 1775 were James Knox (probably the gardener at Damside) and John Lorraine. Robert (18th/19th C.) recorded at ‘Back of the Woods’ in Hawick Parish on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was probably farmer at this house near Crawbyres. Robert (b.c.1790) son of Alexander and Mary Colquhoun. The origins of the family probably lies in the north, perhaps related to the Stewarts of Appin who lost their lands after supporting the 1715 and 1745 rebellions. He was tenant of Hawthornside farm 1834–47. He then rented a farmhouse for another couple of years, but then left the district. He had a sister, Mary, and a brother, Alexander, who died young. He married Margaret Burnet and their children were: Alexander (b.c.1815), who died unmarried; Margaret (b.c.1825), who married William Blood of Cranagher, and whose son was Sir Bindon Blood; Robert (b.c.1820), who married Isabella Smith, daughter of the factor of Wolfelee and secondly married Esther Hudson; John (b.c.1820), who married Margaret Grieve from Buccleuch; Annie, who married John Wallace; Thomas (b.1816/7), who married Annie Donkin of Newcastle; Mary (b.c.1825), who married Daniel McPherson; and William Colquhoun (b.1828/9), who married Helen Smith. His sons James, Robert and John were prominent for the ‘uppies’ in Hobkirk Baa; however, the youngest son, William, was considered the best runner in the Borders in his day. Sir Thomas of Minto (d.1500) son of Sir William of Garlies. His brother Alexander married Elizabeth Douglas of Cavers and at one point held the lands of Howpasley. The family clearly had a local connection, including land in Minto Parish. His great-grandfather was Sir William of Jedworth, whose mother was a sister of Sir John Turnbull of Minto. He became Provost of Glasgow. In 1476 he had a charter of a third of the lands in the Barony of Minto, as well as superiority over the whole of the Barony, which had been resigned by his father, Sir William (and with the consent of his older brother Alexander). He had a further charter for the lands of Sunlaws and Morebattle in 1476, resigned by his brother and attached to the Barony of Minto. In 1477 he and his wife had a charter for lands in Renfrew. He witnessed a charter in Edinburgh in 1486. In 1488 he was granted a fee by the Crown, for his service as Marshal. He also had a lease of the lands of ‘Dunrod and Fin telauch’ for his fee, and continued in this position until at least 1492. In 1490 he granted the lands of Nether Crailing called ‘Stewartlandis’, which had been annexed to Minto, to Bartholomew Rutherford. In 1491/2 he resigned the lands of Sunlaws, which were granted to Robert Ramsay and his wife Agnes Haitlie. He married Isabel, daughter of Walter Stewart of Arthurlie. Their children were Sir John of Minto (also Provost of Glasgow), William (who became Bishop of Aberdeen and High Treasurer of Scotland), Archibald, Agnes, Marion (married Adam Maxwell of Southbar), Margaret, James, Nicolas, Robert and John. The family kept the ‘of Minto’ designation for several generations (including 5 Provosts of Glasgow), although they appear to have had no continuing local presence. Thomas (17th C.) listed on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’ in 1694. Thomas (b.c.1800) publican on the Loan. He is recorded as vintner at the Nag’s Head in Pigot’s 1837 directory. In 1841 he was living with his wife Elizabeth at about the first house on the Loan. Walter Fitz Alan. Sir Walter (1293–1327) son of James, who he succeeded as 6th High Steward of Scotland. He was knighted after Bannockburn. In about 1320 he was ‘Walteri Senescalli Scotie’ when he was granted lands in Roxburghshire that had been forfeited by Sir John de Soulis and others. This included Eckford, Nisbet, Langnewton, Maxton and Caverton. He was Governor of Berwick, commanding there when there was a siege by the English in 1319. He was a signatory of the Declaration of Arbroath in 1320. He married Marjory, daughter of Robert the Bruce; she died possibly after a fall from a horse, with their son John (who became King Robert II) said by some to have been born by Cesarion section. He had earlier married Alice, daughter of Sir John Erskine of that Ilk, and later married Isabel, sister of Sir John Graham of Abercorn. He had a son, Sir John, who died without issue. He also had a daughter who married Sir William Graham of Kincardine, and another daughter, Egidia, who married Sir James Lindsay of Crawford, secondly married Sir Hew Eglinton and thirdly married Sir James Douglas of Dalkeith. Walter (16th C.) recorded as Rector of Minto in 1542 and 1544. He was presumably a member of the Stewarts of Minto family. Sir Walter of Minto (d.1640s) son of Sir Matthew. In 1606 he was involved in some kind of fight with a group supporting Sir George Elphinstone in Glasgow, being held in Dumbarton Castle for a while. In 1614 he was served heir to his grandfather Sir John in 2/3 of the superiority of the Barony of Minto (as well as lands in Morebattle). Apart from the title, he had no direct local connection and lived in Glasgow, being Bailie to the Regality there (but not Provost, like several of his ancestors). He was also keeper of Dumbarton Castle. He married Christian Crawford in 1598/9. Their daughter Mrs. Lilias Stewart was buried in Greyfriars Cemetery in 1663. The family fortunes dwindled at this time and he probably sold off the ancient family rights in the Barony of Minto, but it is unclear exactly when or to whom. He also had to mortgage his property in Easter and Wester Craigs in Glasgow, which was sold off by his son, Sir Ludovic. Sir Ludovic was succeeded by Sir John, who was even more impoverished (it is said he was a pauper who was sent barefoot to Edinburgh to beg a favour from one of his rich Stewart relatives) and died on a voyage out to the colony at Darien. Walter (17th C.) mentioned in one of the first existing entries in the Town book of 1638 as an officer of the Town (along with James Kinnaird). They were presumably the 2 Burgh Officers of the time, corresponding to the Halberdiers of today. Walter (17th C.) son of cordiner James. In 1666 he was a witness to the fight in St. Mary’s Kirk between William Turnbull and James Chisholme. He could be the Walter baptised in Hawick in 1646, son of James and Manie Scott. Walter (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Craik in 1733. His children included: Robert (b.1733); Janet (b.1735); Walter (b.1739); Walter (again, b.1741); and Mary (b.1745). Rev. Walter (d.1762) son of Bailie Matthew Stewart in Newton of Mearns.
He studied at the Universities of Edinburgh and Leiden and was presented to Ashkirk Parish in 1730 by Sir Gilbert Elliot of Minto, one of the Lords of Session at the time. He paid the window tax at ‘the mance’ in Ashkirk Parish in 1748 and again in 1753. He also bought (from John Mackenzie of Devlin) the land at Barnhills in 1749 and hence is sometimes described as ‘of Barnhill’ (or ‘Barnhills’). He was thus designated among the Commissioners for Roxburghshire in 1761. In 1750 in Edinburgh he married Mrs. Mary Dun-canson (who died in 1793) of Garshake. Their children included: Mary; Matthew (d.1782) of Barnhills; Helen (d.1815); Margaret, who died in infancy; James, died young; and Isabel (or Is-abella). Matthew inherited the lands of Barnhills and after his death they passed to Mary, Helen and Isabel. Walter (18th C.) resident of Robertson and Wilton Parishes. He was at Greenbank in 1780 and Stirches in 1792. He married Betty Miller in Robertson in 1774. Their children included: Betty (b.1780); Janet (b.1782); and Walter (b.1792). Isobel (b.1776) and Marion (b.1778), baptised in Robertson, with no mother’s name listed, were probably also his children. The witnesses in 1792 were Gilbert Smith and Thomas Ferguson (both servants of Chisholme of that Ilk, suggesting that he also worked for the laird of Stirches). Sir William of Jedworth (d.1402) 2nd son of Sir Alexander of Darnley and Crookston or perhaps son of Sir John of Jedworth, his mother being a sister of Sir John Turnbull of Minto. He was probably grandson (or other descendant) of ‘John Senescal de Jedwith’ who signed the Ragan Rolls. He was also known as ‘of Teviotdale’. He may have been an ally of the English until 1384 when Teviotdale was recaptured for Scotland, then fighting on the Scottish side and being rewarded by Robert II with lands in Roxburghshire. He received money from the French to support the war against England in 1385 and was present at Otterburn in 1388. He was knighted around this time and in the 1390s served as auditor of the exchequer, as well as commissioner at march days. He was additionally appointed as Sheriff of Roxburghshire, although the extent of the appointment is not known. In the period 1390–1402 he acted as Clerk of Audit according to the Exchequer Rolls. In 1390 he was granted lands within Minto by John Turnbull (‘Out with the sword’), who was his uncle. This was confirmed by Robert II in 1390/1, and included the patronage of the church, which had been resigned by George Abernethy. He was thus probably the first of the Stewarts to own lands in Minto. He was probably the Sir William who witnessed a Lindsay charter for Stouslie and Groundstone about 1390. An updated charter of Robert III (probably around 1400) grants him 1/3 of the lands of Minto. In the late 1390s he accompanied Archibald Douglas (later 4th Earl of Douglas) in an attack on the English-held Roxburgh Castle. He led an unsuccessful raid into Northumberland in 1400 and was at the battle of Homildon Hill in 1402. There he was captured, tried and executed at the instigation of Sir Henry Percy, his body being quartered and displayed on the gates of York. He married Isabel, who was widow of Sir Richard Oliver, although her maiden name is unknown. He was succeeded by his son Sir John, 1st of Garlies, and had at least one other son. His widow Elizabeth remarried to Walter of Bicker-ton and received some of the customs duties of Edinburgh and Linlithgow in the period 1407–20. Sir William of Dalswinton (15th C.) son of Sir John, 1st of Garlies. In 1429 he succeeded to the Barony of Minto, but this was disputed by Walter Turnbull. As a result it seems that the barony was split, so that his family held the half barony. He was knighted by James III in about 1443 and sat in Parliament in 1467. He married more than once, with his last wife being Euphame Graham. His children included: Andrew, his heir, who predeceased him; Sir Alexander of Garlies, who fought at Sauchieburn and married Elizabeth, daughter of Archibald Douglas of Cavers; Sir Thomas, who succeeded to Minto; and Walter of Tonderghie. William of Traquair (16th C.) son of James. In 1526 he was listed in the remission for a large number of Borderers who attacked the Earl of Arran’s forces. His brother James was also listed. He became heir to the lands of Rutherford and Wells through his aunt Helen Rutherford. In 1538 he had a regranting of his lands of Traquair. In 1541 he is recorded as occupier of Garlawcleuch, Blackhouse and Douglas Craig in Yarrow; he may also be the William who was occupier of Berrybush and half of Phaup in Ettrick. He married mar-ried Christina, 2nd daughter of John, 2nd Lord Hay of Yester. Their children were: Robert, who succeeded; John, who succeeded Robert; William, who succeeded John; James, who succeeded William; Margaret, who married James Murray of Falahill and George Douglas, younger of Bon-jedward; and a daughter who married William Sinclair of Blans. William (16th C.) holder of a particate of land on the north side of the public Stewartfield

...street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. Sir William (d.1605) 5th Laird of Traquair. He succeeded to his brother Sir John, also inheriting the lands of Wells in Rulewater. In 1567 he was listed as brother-german of Sir John of Traquair when he witnessed the wedding contract for Elizabeth, sister of Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. He was a ‘gentleman of the bed-chamber’ of James VI and was made Governor of Dumbarton Castle in 1582. He witnessed a document for the Earl of Lennox in 1594. He died unmarried and was succeeded by his brother James of Shillinglaw. William (16th/17th C.) servant of James Douglas of Cavers. In 1612 he, along with William Douglas of Whitriggs and his brother Robert, was accused by Gavin Elliot of Brugh of attacking his family on their way home from Cavers Kirk. However, the group were acquitted after swearing that the claim was untrue. William (b.1657) 3rd Earl of Traquair, son of John, 2nd Earl, whom he succeeded in 1666. He was also Laird of Wells in Rulewater. He died unmarried and was succeeded by his brother Charles. William (17th C.) listed as resident at Harden in Wilton Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He could be the weaver in Heap who witnessed a baptism for fellow weaver John Cairns in Wilton in 1711. William (17th C.) tailor listed among those who subscribed to the fund for the new Kirk bell in Hawick in 1693/4. He is also listed in 1694 on the west-side of Hawick on the Hearth Tax rolls. He could be the William born in Hawick in 1637, son of Francis and Helen Muir. He could also be the William who married Margaret Scott and whose children baptised in Hawick included: Margaret (b.1669); Charles (b.1673); and Francis (b.1677). William (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. He is probably the William who witnessed a baptism for Walter Wilson in 1690. He married ‘Mals’ Hastie and their daughter Isobel was baptised in 1690. The witnesses were John and James Stewart (who were surely related). William (1695/6–1760) tenant farmer in Gillfoot. He is buried in Ettleton Cemetery. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Agnes Elliot in 1720. Their children included Robert (b.1723) and Agnes (b.1726). He may be the William ‘Steward’ who witnessed the baptism of an illegitimate child for George Langlands of that Ilk in 1724. He also witnessed a baptism for Robert Scott, resident of Tandlaw, in 1729. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Stouslie in 1770 and 1780. He married Margaret Ormiston in Wilton in 1764. Their children included: Helen (b.1765); Mary (b.1767); Isabel (b.1770); and George (b.1771). Probably the same William secondly married Jean Scott in 1777, with children: George (b.1778); and James (b.1780). The witnesses in 1770 were James Dryden and Thomas Reid. The baptism in 1780 was performed by Rev. John Young (meaning that he was a member of the Green Kirk), with witnesses James Scott and George Turnbull. William Colquhoun (b.1828/9) youngest son of Robert, farmer at Hawthornside. He took part in Hobkirk Baa along with his brothers. He was known as one of the best runners in the Borders and was unbeaten over about 30 races. On one occasion he was dancing and playing the fiddle at Billoxwell until 2 a.m., set out an hour later to meet his brother in Newcastle, arriving at 4 p.m., and then won a sprint race that his brother had put him up to. He ran against Willie Scott from Martinshouse, in a specially arranged match over half a mile near Stobs, and won. He married Helen, daughter of William Smith in 1853 and moved to Newcastle (also spelled ‘Stuert’, ‘Stuart’ etc. and in earlier times interchangeable with ‘Stuart’ as well as ‘Steward’.

Stewartfield (stew-ur'-feeld) n. former name for Hartrigge.

Stewartfield (stew-ur'-feeld) n. popular name for the area around East and West Stewart Places.

Stewart’s Cleuch (stew-urts-klooch) n. small stream joining Hope Sike near Pleaknowe and running into the eastern side of the Stlitrig.

Stewashiels (stew-u-sheela) n. former name for lands in Liddesdale, recorded in 1541 as ‘Stew-ashellis’. The location is unknown.

Stewie (stew-ee) n. pet name for Stewart or Stuart.

stey (sti) v. to stay, remain, wait, stop, tarry – ‘stey there an deh move a muscle’, ‘some o thum steyed on after the War’, ‘... he that tells lees salrna staye in my micht’[HSR], ‘Aw’ll maybe get the name Poet Laureate Of course aw’l still stey the same ’... ’[AY], to live somewhere permanently, reside – ‘oo yist ti stey up the Loan’, ‘A’ve traivelled wide, a’ve traivelled wide, In guid bits steyed, in guid bits steyed ’... ’[IWL], (also spelled ‘stel’, and ‘stay’ as in English; note that there are variations in the diphthong, going from ‘a-ee’ to ‘u-ee’).

stey (sti) adj., arch. steep, stiff, difficult to climb – ‘... set a stour heart to a stae brae’, and climb to the top of the Wisp’[HAST1875], ‘It hed been a stey climm up ti Dunion-heed ’... ’[ECS], ‘...And lift us up the steyst brae, And o’er the plantin’ stistles’ [JT], ‘...He finds a stey upended brae, That mony a sprawl hae deaith ‘im’ [WP], ‘...A hert to face the steyst brae’ [WL] (also ‘stae’).

Steyll (stil) n. former name for lands near Branxholme, mentioned in the 1420 charter when half of the lands of Branxholme were granted to Robert Scott of Rankilburn. The description is of ‘the lands and houses of Steyll, and the half of the Scott of Rankilburn. The description is of `the lands of Branxholme were granted to Robert Holme, mentioned in the 1420 charter when half of lacin steys’ [IWL].

Near the hill called ‘The Steel’, is also possible seems feasible, but a location much further west, uncertain. Somewhere around Branxholme Town the west side of the Syke’; the exact location is uncertain. Somewhere around Branxholme Town seems feasible, but a location much further west, near the hill called ‘The Steel’, is also possible (also written ‘Steyl’ in 1420).

steys (stiz) n., pl. stays, a corset, girdle – ‘...sellin a thing frae household goods ti backpackin steyss’ [IWL].

St. George’s Kirk (sin’-jör-jeez-kirk) n. church in St. George’s Lane, built in 1843–44 after the Disruption as the Free or Presbytery Church. The land was purchased by the new congregation from James Anderson of Wilton Lodge. The original building was designed by Andrew Thomson of Glasgow and John Smith of Darnick. Several articles were placed in the foundation stone (and could not be found when the church was rebuilt). A manse was built on Wilton Path in 1846, designed by Smith of Darnick. The church was known as ‘Hawick Free Kirk’ for more than 50 years. It changed its name to ‘St. George’s United Free Church’ in 1900 (after the union of the Free and United Presbyterian Churches); the reasons for the choice of the new name are uncertain. After purchase of the house and grounds of ‘Ellabank’ next door the church was rebuilt in 1913–16 using Doddington stone, but with parts of the original walls and a lintel inserted from the old building. The austere Gothic design is by architect J.P. Alison. It is a grade C listed building. An adjoining hall was built a few years later. It was re-named simply ‘St. George’s Church’ in 1929 (after the union of the United Free Church and the Church of Scotland). It contains an east-end window, commemorating the 1929 reunion (possibly the only such window in Scotland), by Lilian J. Pocock of London. The organ was added in 1920 in memory of Bessie Scott (a gift of Peter Scott & Co.). A separate West End ‘Free’ congregation had been established in 1855, and after that church closed in 1956, St. George’s was renamed ‘St. George’s West’. Since 1988 it has been known as Teviot Parish Church, with links to Robertson Parish. Kirk Session records for 1842–82 and 1900–14 are in the National Archives. A roll of the ministers is: John Aikman Wallace 1843–70; William H. Gaultier, assistant 1859–64; John MacGregor 1865–73; M.P. Johnstone 1873–79; W.A.P. Johnman 1880–1923; Donald G. Ross 1911–35 (assistant until 1923); C. Sydney Finch 1936–1967; Thomas N. Hood 1967–82; Neil Combe 1984–.

St. George’s Lane (sin’-jör-jeez-län) n. another name for Free Church Lane.

St. George’s Manse see the Free Kirk Manse

St. George’s West (sin’-jör-jeez-west) n. name given to St. George’s (Free) Church after the return of the West End congregation in 1956. It was renamed Teviot Parish Church in 1988. The old Manse for St. George’s West is along Buccleuch Road.

St. Helens (sin’-he-linz) n. girl’s school based in Heronhill House in about the years 1945–9. It was moved there from Bridge of Allan. The school had as many as 54 girl boarders and a few very young boys. Miss Jean Macdonald was the owner and Headmistress.

stibble (sti-bul) n., arch. stubble – ‘Unmolested the maulkins may feed on the stibble And dae as they like, for never shall he Catch them again as they nibble The sweet blades o’ verdure on hillside or lea’ [TCh], ‘O my God, mak’ thame as ane whurle, as the stibble afore the wund’ [HSR].

stibbled (sti-bul’, -buld) adj., arch. covered with stubble – ‘The fruit’s picked and the stibbled leas are still ...’ [WL].

Stichill (sti-chil) n. village north of Kelso, with the parish church dating from about 1770. The nearby Stichill House is demolished, but was long the home of a branch of the Pringle family. A grand entrance and lodge houses still survive, however (the name may derive from the Old English ‘styce’, meaning ‘a piece’; also written ‘Stichill’).

stick (stik, steek) v. to abide, bear, stand – ‘For saicind year the council pick Yin whae Hawick folk cannae stick’ [MB], to gore, stab with horns – ‘The yill-cup, the gill-stoup, Flee, like a sticking bull’ [JoHa] (also ‘steek’).

stick (stik, steek) v. to gore or butt with horns – ‘The yill-cup, the gill-stoup, Flee, like a sticking bull’ [JoHa] (also ‘steek’).

stickie-ootie (sti-kee-o’-ee) adj. sticking out, protruding – ‘a haunel is the stickie-ootie pairt o a cup’, ‘hei hed right stickie-ootie lugs’ (also spelled ‘sticky-ooty’).

2848
stick in (stik-in) v. to persist, persevere, work doggedly – ‘At the same time the young yins seem ti stick in weel’ [We].
stickit minister (sti-kee’-mee-nee-stur) n., arch. someone trained for the clergy but without a charge, popularised by the 1893 novel of that name by S.R. Crockett.
stick the heid in (stik-thu-beed-in) v. instruction to head-butt, or more generally to fight.
n., arch.

stiffie (sti-kee) n., arch. someone who is stuck-up, priggish or overly formal, a stiff – ‘...apart from one or two ‘stiffies’, we all looked forward to these sessions’ [BB] (no longer in use with this meaning).

still (still, stil) n. a stool – ‘sit still on that still, wull ee?’, ‘For mending the Stule of Repentence, 10s’ [PR] (also spelled ‘stii’ and ‘stule’).

Still (still) n. James (17th C.) clerk for Hobkirk Parish in the years around 1693. It is recorded in that year that Magdalene Nicholson (widow of the Baronet of Stobs) paid him for her share of a children’s table’ [1596/HAST1910] (also steekit).

Stiltie Robbie (stil’-ee-roo-bee) n. nickname for Robert Howieson. stime (stim) n., arch. the least particle, iota.

stinkan (sting-kan) adj., poet. stinking – ‘The stinkan brockke wi’ his lang lank lyske, Shotte up his gruntle to see’ [JT].

Stinkin Well (sting-kin-wel) n. name for a spring to the east of the farm of Platt in southern Liddesdale (marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map).

Stintieknowe (stin-tee-now) n. small farm steading out beyond Stirches, near Dykeneuk Loch, and also known variously as Stinty-Knowes, Stinty Knowe etc. Walter Scott was farmer there in the early 19th century. In 1841 there were 2 households there, one the Curries and the other housing a variety of people. In 1851 Thomas Smith and family were in one house and the Campbell brothers in the other. In 1861 labourer William Thomson and family were at the cottage with James Gledstains and family at ‘Stintyknows Far House’. The hill there was originally the ‘stenting knowe’, where Wilton Common was stented, prior to its division in 1764. In other words this site was the Wilton equivalent of the Caa Knowe – ‘Stinty Knowe then the Cala Burn There isna a walk mair pleasant Now oor on the Whitehaugh Road And in front o’ ee a pheasant’ [AY] (also written ‘Stintie Knowe’, Stintyknows, ‘Stinty Knowes’, etc.).

Stintin Burn (stin-tin-burn) n. former name for the stream in Wilton, also known as the Stirches Burn, which rises near Stintyknowe and flows through Stirches. Another name for Stintieknowe.

Stinty Knowes (stin-tee-nowz) n. another name for Stintieknowe.

stipeet see stipit

stipen (sti-pin) n., arch. a stipend – ‘...aw see they’re payin’ ye yer steipin’ afore the sermon’s dune’ [WNK].

stipit (sti-pee’, -pi’) adj. stupid – ‘hei was knocked stipit in the tackle’, ‘div ee hink A’m stipit?’, ‘ee er stipit’, ‘Deh be si stipit ... Hei’s been at a denner an’ disni want tae spill any whisky!' [JCo] (also spelled ‘stuirpit’, ‘stipeet’, ‘stippit’, etc.).

Stirches (stir-cheez) n. area to the north of Silverbuthall, reached via Dickson Street. The name is now mainly identified with the council housing scheme, was developed after the property was purchased in 1971, with building commencing in 1973. The housing comprising a series of streets bounded by Stirches Road and Guthrie Drive, and contains a primary school, but no businesses. The main road to Selkirk and the north once went through here. The name goes back at least to the 16th century, and was formerly ‘Stirkshaw’ or ‘Stirkshaws’. There were sons of the Scotts of Synton (or Whitslade) there in the 16th and 17th centuries, who sold it to the Chisholm around 1660. About that time Thomas Scott of Whitslade paid tax on £214 for the land there. William Chisholme was owner in 1678 and it was still recorded with the same value in 1788 and 1811. William Cavers was living there in 1682 and William Telfer in 1683. The lands were part of Hase sendean Parish until 1600 when that parish was suppressed and that part allocated to Wilton. In 1694 tax was paid on 4 heartls for ‘Stirkshaws’ his house’, and Janet Lamb was listed among the poor. James Ormiston was there in 1721, Walter Lorraine in 1724–29, John Blyth in 1728 and William Lamb in 1729. Walter Stewart was living there in 1682 and William Telfer in 1683. The lands were part of Has sendean Parish until 1600 when that parish was suppressed and that part allocated to Wilton. In 1694 tax was paid on 4 heartls for ‘Stirkshaws’ his house’, and Janet Lamb was listed among the poor. James Ormiston was there in 1721, Walter Lorraine in 1724–29, John Blyth in 1728 and William Lamb in 1729. Walter Stewart was living there in 1792. The estate was bought by James Farrar Blenkhorn in 1898, who was already renting the house. The house was redesigned and eventually passed to the Sisters of St. Augustine, and used as a private nursing home. The estate was sold off in parts, following Minnie Blenkhorn’s death in 1922. The lower area was developed as the Stirches housing estate in the mid-1970s – ‘Coming in by Stirches hill, I saw auld Hawick a dreaming still’ [IJ], ‘Wi’ haltin’ step by Stirches brae To roam the Heap Hills over . . . ’ [WFC], ‘A gentle walk up the Stirches road Then, when ee look around Ee think wi’ awe this is name And it feels like hallowed ground’ [AY] (the name occurs regularly from 1481 until the early 18th century as ‘Stirkschaw’, ‘Stirkschawis’, ‘Stirckshaw’, ‘Stirkshaw’ and similar spellings; the modern ‘Stirches’ is first recorded in 1713, but it is still ‘Stirkshaw’ in Hawick Burgh records of 1728; it is ‘Styrkschaw’ in 1500, ‘Styrkschaw’ in 1501/2, ‘Stirkschawis’ in 1502, ‘Styrkschaw’ in 1504/5, ‘Stirkschaw’ in 1505, ‘Stokschawis’ in 1512 and ‘Stirkschawis’ in 1590, ‘Stirkshawa’ in 1694, ‘Stirkshawes’ in 1678, ‘Stirchaus’ in 1682, ‘Stirkshaws’ in 1708 and ‘Stirthches’ in 1720; the origin is clearly from Old English ‘styrc’ plus ‘sceaga’ or Scots ‘shaw’, meaning a wooded area with young bullocks).

Stirches Band (stir-cheez-bawnd) n. popular name for the military band of the Upper Teviotdale Rifle Corps at the end of the 19th century, whose Captain was John Scott Chisholme of Stirches.

Stirches Brick Works (stir-cheez-brik-wurks) n. works set up by Capt. Chisholme of Stirches, which produced bricks, tiles and pottery between about 1850 and 1870, mainly used in local building projects. The original idea had been to establish a pottery works, until it was found that the local clay was unsuitable. The works were abandoned when the price of transportation and coal became too expensive. The buildings were used by the shepherd when the estate was purchased by Blenkhorn in 1890. Some ruined remains can be seen on the right of the road leading from the Convent to Stouslie.

Stirches Burn (stir-cheez-burn) n. stream that rises perhaps near Priestrig and flows through Stirches and then partially underground to become the Howden Burn.

Stirches Croft (stir-cheez-croft) n. former farm on Stirches estate, where??.

Stirches House (stir-cheez-hoos) n. Stirches House, an extensive mansion above Stirches housing scheme. A previously existing house was the residence of the Chisholms for about 200 years, being built on top of a mediaeval tower in the mid-17th century by Walter Chisholm. The original tower was square (perhaps similar to Goldielands) and had a protecting courtyard wall. It was built by Scott of Whitslade, after he became Laird in the late 15th century. Above the doorway was a Latin inscription ‘Christus Rex Regum qui non dormitat in vum protegit hanc edem necon sine crimini plebem 1503’ (‘Christ the King of Kings, who never sleeps in heaven, protect this house and the people guiltless of crime’); a copy is still above the door of the present house (an extra ‘b’ on the end of ‘crimini’ suggests it is an imperfect copy). The lower floor had a vaulted ceiling, with the upper floors reached via a staircase in the roughly 6 foot thick walls. The second level held a public room about 30 feet by 18 feet, with a fireplace at each end, and there were sleeping rooms above. The upper stories were demolished in about 1666, with new accommodations built on either side and the south front added to the house. The initials ‘W.C. M.B. 1666’ were carved above one of the windows (Walter Chisholme and his wife Margaret Balderstone), this panel now in the north-east gable. Tax was paid on 19 windows there in 1748. The main house was added to and altered over the years, becoming a white-washed cluster of buildings. The main building was in turn largely demolished in 1899/1900 for John Blenkhorn, and rebuilt to the designs of J.P. Alison. This included a fabricated Blenkhorn coat-of-arms in stained glass on the staircase and a stable for 12 horses. The only mediæval parts surviving are sections of the south gable and west wall. After it was finally completed in 1904, James Blenkhorn lived there for only another 5 years before his death. There are photographs of how the house looked during his time there. After Minnie Blenkhorn’s death in 1922 the house went on the market and since 1926 has been run by J.P. Alison. This included a fabricated Blenkhorn coat-of-arms in stained glass on the staircase and a height of 443 m. Further to the north-east is Burnt Craig.

Stirches Mains (stir-cheez-mänz) n. farm in the Stirches area, to the left of the road just after the Convent. The farmer there recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax and Dog Tax Rolls was Mrs. Scott. In the early 19th century was James Bunyan and in 1841 was Walter Knox – ‘Owre the lang brae frae Stouslie; Frae the mains o’ Stirches yan and in 1841 was Walter Knox – ‘Owre the lang brae frae Stouslie: Frae the mains o’ Stirches doun; How nicht I come at the day’s end To the bonny Border toun?’ [WL] (presumably once the home farm for Stirches).

Stirches Mains Hill (stir-cheez-mänz-hil) n. name sometimes given to the hill near Stirches Mains, reaching a height of 266 m.

Stirches Quarry (stir-cheez-kwa-ree) n. former quarry on the opposite side of the road from Stirches Mains.

Stirches Road (stir-cheez-rödl) n. the main road from Dickson Street to Stirches House, and also once the main road to Selkirk and points north. It now provides access to much of the Stirches housing estate.

Stirches Schuil (stir-cheez-skil) n. primary school in the Stirches housing scheme, built in 1976 on Roxburgh Drive.

stirk (stirk) n., arch. a young bovine animal after weaning, generally those kept for slaughter rather than breeding, usually referring to bullocks or steers, but also sometimes heifers – ‘…also from James Wardlaw, in Riccarton, was bought for 23s ‘an ox stirk of the guidwife’s at the mill’ [JaT] ‘…I know not if the stirks grew tired before the stars were set’ [WHO]. ‘…And whiles I feel like tethered stirk Stuck here amang it a’’ [WL] (also sometimes ‘stark’; from Old English; the word occurs in several local placenames, e.g. ‘Stirches’).

Stirkcleuch Height (stirk-klooch-hi) n. hill that is the north-eastern spur of the Pike, between Penchrise Pen and the Maidens. It reaches a height of 424 m.

Stirkie (stir-kee) n., arch. diminutive form for a young bovine animal – ‘Each ’eer, as Januar’ – end returns, Ilk yowe and stirkie waefu’ murns …’ [DH].

Stirk-rigg (stirk-rig) n. small hill about 1 km north of Bedrule farm, reaching only about 160 m in height. Just to the west of the summit are the remains of a circular earthwork, about 45 m in diameter, probably a settlement. It was said (in the New Statistical Account) to have been removed by cultivation in the 18th century, but is still visible in aerial photographs. This was the former site of a farm, which was incorporated into the farm of Newton, with all signs of the farmhouse disappearing. ‘Stirkig’ and ‘Stirkig-hill’ were listed as part of Newton according to the Land Tax Rolls of 1811 (also ‘Stirkigg’).

Stirkshaw (stirk-shawz) n. early name for Stirches, after the stirs which grazed there. It changed to ‘Stirches’ in the early 18th century. The Chisholms were Lairds of Stirkshaws for about 250 years (also ‘Stirkschaw’, ‘Stirkschaws’, ‘Stirkshaw’, etc.; incorrectly written ‘Strikshaws’ by Keith Scott).

Stirkshielhope (stirk-sheel-höp) n. former farm in Liddesdale, listed as ‘Styrkschielhope’ in a c.1376 rental roll of Liddesdale. It was valued at 8 merks and listed under ‘Foresta’ (which seems to have been the northern part, including the Heritage valley). It is recorded as ‘Strichialhope’ on the 1541 rental roll of Liddesdale, and still valued at 8 merks; the tenants were Robert Elliot in Ramsiegill, John of the Hill, Adam Elliot of Lees, ‘Old’ Robert Elliot of Ramsiegill, John Elliot and John’s son James called ‘Nelis Jok’. It could be related to ‘Stitchel Hill’ near Riccarton.

Stirk Sike (stirk-sik) n. small stream that joins the west side of Dawston Burn to the north of Saughtree. It is between Watch Sike and March Sike and is marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map.

stirlin (stir-lin) n., arch. a starling.
Stirling

Stirling (stir-ling) n. Benjamin (b.1805/6) resident of Lilliesleaf. In 1851 he is recorded as ‘Pauper (formerly Tinsmith); Deaf & Dumb’. James (18th/19th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. Peter (b.1812/3) from Newtown, he was a tailor in Lilliesleaf, listed in Slater’s 1852 directory. He was living on the north side of Main Street in 1851. His wife was Agnes. Robert (18th/19th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf, who paid the 1785 cart tax there and is also recorded in the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He is surely related to James, who is also listed in 1797. He was an innkeeper in Lilliesleaf, who subscribed to Andrew Scott’s book of poetry, published in Kelso in 1811.

Stitchelhill (sti-chul-hiil) n. hill just to the north-east of Riccarton junction, rising to 318 m. There was formerly a fortified house near here (it is ‘Stitchelhill’ in 1694 and 1736; it is marked as ‘Stritcher-hils’ on Gordon’s c. 1650 map and Blaeu’s 1654 map). Stitchelhill (sti-chul-hiil) n. farmstead in northern Castleton Parish, near the hill of the same name. It could be related to the lands of ‘Styrkschelhope’ listed in northern Liddesdale in a rental roll c.1376 and ‘Streichelhope’ recorded in a rental roll c. 1541. ‘Willie’s Airchie’ Elliot ‘of Styrchill hill’ is recorded in 1590. In 1632 it was owned by Gilbert Elliott of Stobs and listed as ‘Struchelhill alias Stitchelhill’ (and listed among rentals of Kelso Abbey). It was surveyed for the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1718, when it was combined with Laidlawhope and Whitrpoe, and extended to 1990 acres, bounded by Laws, Dawsonburn, Millburnholm and Roughley. The lands were rented by John Laing from the Duke of Buccleuch in 1736. John Oliver was farmer there in the 1830s. William Roxburgh was shepherd in 1835. There was a lime works there according to Rulewater, with much property at Bonchester Bridgend being swept away. Sir Walter Scott described how the lower floor of Minto House was filled with water and trees and livestock sailed past his own house. It also took away the bridge over the Dean Burn at Denholm.

Stiven (sti-vin) n. Rev. David Sime (d.1986) son of David Russell and Jeannie Sime, he was born near Dundee, where he was school Dux. He served with the Royal Scots, was awarded the Military Cross and returned to Britain wounded (with a missing leg, and an obituary having been written about him after being reported killed in action). He graduated from St. Andrews in 1919 and received his B.D. there in 1922, having a special interest in Hebrew and Biblical Criticism. He spent some time in Jerusalem, then became assistant at St. Cuthbert’s in Edinburgh before being appointed as minister of Teviothead Kirk in 1925. He was translated to Gilcomiston, Aberdeen in 1929 and Inveresk in 1937. He was minister of Iona Parish 1958–66 and received a Doctorate of Divinity. He married Margaret (‘Peggy’) McIntosh in 1923 and they had several children (his surname is sometimes given as ‘Steven’).

Stitten (sti-tin) n., arch. a furrow or drill of potatoes, turnips, etc. (see also statti-stitch). Stitcher (sti-chur) n. a worker who stitches final trimmings (e.g. ribbons or pockets) on garments in the knitwear industry, using a sewing machine, this traditionally being a woman’s job.

St ethie (sti-see) n., poet. bustle, uproar – ‘When the stithie has smoored oot my rest … ’[WL] (cf. strooshie).

Stiver (sti-vur) n., arch. a small coin, something of little value – ‘Nixt race when it came oot an’ won, Hed no a stiver tae pit on’[MB] (from an old Dutch coin).

Stir-ling St. John’s Kirk

St John’s Kirk (sin’-jonz-kirk) n. the former St. John’s Church on Oliver Crescent. It was built as an additional Hawick church in 1878–80, largely by donations from Rev. John Thomson and his wife (who had inherited a large sum). The builder was Alexander Ferguson. It had the town’s tallest steeple at 32 m or over 100 feet, and an adjacent church hall was also constructed in 1885. It also had magnificent stained glass windows by Wailes & Strang of Newcastle. It received its official status as a ‘quod sacra’ parish by Decree of the Court of Teinds in mid-1881. The church survived for about 80 years, but in 1958 the congregation merged with those of St. Andrew’s and Eastbank to form the new Trinity Kirk. The church itself was sold and partially demolished in 1960, but re-opened as Arthur Armstrong’s department store in 1962, later becoming Almstrong’s. The steeple was removed and some of the stained glass (by Wailles & Strang of Newcastle) was rescued by R.E. Scott and the Brothers of Charity, a monastic order from Gattonside, where they were installed. The buildings are now listed on the Buildings at Risk Register for Scotland and although approval was given for conversion into accommodation units, no work has been done. A roll of the ministry is: John Thomson 1881–89; Alexander Thomson 1889–94; William Brown 1894–1902; Robert Dickson 1902–05; William Lindsay 1906–13; Arthur Dummett 1913–20; Walter Carter 1920–29; ??; William Wood 1958–59.

St. Jude’s Fair (sin’-joodz-fair) n. name used for a fair held at Hawick in the 17th century, specifically mentioned in 1673. In that year the Baron (the Earl of Queensberry) complained to the Privy Council that the Bailies and others in Hawick stopped his officers from ‘riding the fair’ (i.e. collecting duties); this was probably part of a feud between the 2 parties over the use of the Common. It was also known as the ‘St. Simon and St. Jude Fair’. St. Jude’s feast day was 28th October, which was only a week or so before the date of Hawick’s Winter Fair in the 18th century. Hence it seems likely that this was an alternative name for the Winter Fair, perhaps with the date being moved at some point and hence the association with St. Jude being dropped.

St. Leonard’s see St. Leonards
St. Leonard (sin’-le-nurd) n. Christian saint, believed to have been a 6th century hermit, although his historical existence is not certain. He became one of the most popular saints in Western Europe in the late middle ages. He is Patron of pregnant women, captives and prisoners of war, based on a version of his life from the 11th century, and an event involving the release of a Prince of Antioch from a Muslim prison in the 12th century. He is supposed to have created an Abbey at Noblac (now St.-Léonard) in France, where he is buried. His cult spread through Europe, with at least 177 British churches dedicated to him, including the hospitals of that name in Peebles and Edinburgh. Shrines dedicated to him were associated with the curing of leprosy, as well as the freeing of captives and the safe delivery of children. It is unclear when and for what reason his name became attached to parts of Hawick Common. He is now regarded as patron saint of the Hut.

St. Leonards (sin’-le-nurdz, sin’-lee-nurdz) n. general name for the farm and neighbouring area lying on the Common at the top of the Vertish. The tenant of the farm plays host to the Cornet and his supporters during the Chases before the Common Riding, and officially serves the curds and cream breakfast on the Friday. It is traditional that the Flag is displayed outside the farmhouse during the Thursday and Friday morning Huts. The Hut is effectively a barn at the farm, which replaced a temporary marquee in 1924. The singing of ‘Teribus’ outside the farmhouse after the Friday morning ‘Hut’ was started in 1890. The tenant was Thomas Reid in the late 19th century. A stone axe found near there is in the Museum. It is unclear when the name was attached to the farm; it is labelled ‘Hawick Townhead’ on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map. ‘And lang may St. Leonard’s retain the power To feast the sterling Teri; And lang may the flag Owre a cornet wag, And lang may we a’ be cheery’ [JEDM], ‘In front of old St. Leonard’s now the throng With one accord assemble, old and young All share the duties that to them belong – Again the Common Riding Song is sung’ [JCG] (named after Christian Saint Leonard, the reasons for which, and era being unknown, also written ‘St. Leonard’s’).

St. Leonard’s Handicap (sin’-le-nurdz-hawn-dee-kawp) n. former race taking place at the Common Riding. It is recorded in 1875 on the Saturday, being run over 1½ miles.

St. Leonard’s Moor (sin’-le-nurdz-moor, -mär) n. another name for Hawick Moor – ‘...Then in the breast alike of rich and poor There rises up a sense of joy refined, As on they journey to St. Leonard’s Moor’ [JCG].

St. Leonard’s Moss (sin’-le-nurdz-mos) n. another name used generally for Hawick Moss, for the marshy land behind St. Leonard’s farm or more specifically applied to the boggy land near to the north of Pilムuir Rig farm, in the middle of the Dipper Field. It is marked near Pilムuir Rig on J.P. Alison’s map of the Common in 1777. In 1713 the Council granted the right to ‘cast bakes’ anywhere on the mosses of the Common, except for here, Winnington Moss or Whitchesters Moss. Burgesses were told they could cut their peat on the moss here in 1733.
St. Leonard’s Park

St. Leonard’s Park (sin’-le-nurdz-pawrk) n. race-course at the Mair, opened in 1854, and used exclusively for the Common Riding races since 1855. It is one of the highest race courses in Britain, and also used for a few ‘flapping’ meetings every year. The paddock was extended in 1889 and offices erected in 1894.

St. Leonard’s Vaults (sin’-le-nurdz-vawlts) n. former name for the Ewe & Lamb pub in the late 19th century, at the Sandbed/Orrock Place (also sometimes ‘St. Leonard’s Spirit Vaults’ and ‘the St. Leonard’s Bar’).

the St. Leonard’s Stakes (thu-sin’-le-nurdz-stäks) n. race formerly run on the Saturday of the Common Riding, from at least 1887. It was at one time a ‘selling stakes’, with the winner to be sold for 50 sovereigns. The 1888 race was declared void after the leading horse slowed before the post to allow the second horse to win, while another horse had jockeys of different weight switched.

St. Leonard’s Well (sin’-le-nurdz-wel) n. spring just to the south of St. Leonard’s Moss, between Pilnir farm and Pilnir Rig farmstead. It seems possible that this was the first local place to be associated with the saint, with the farm name following later. It may be the same as ‘Lurgie’s Well’ (if that was not nearer to St. Leonard’s farm).

St. Malachy (sin’-mawr-la-chan) n. (1094–1148) Archbishop of Armagh, baptised ‘Maelmaedhoc O’ Morgair’, who was the first Irishman to be canonised, and is known for his vision of the identity of the last 112 Popes. In 1139 he journeyed to Rome via Scotland, England and France. The chaplainry of ‘Malachi and meadow lying within steads of Stoibyot and Staneholm’ was mentioned in 1500 as part of the lands of Ringwoodfield excepted from the lease to Walter Scott of Braxholme. This may have been the early chapel near Northhouse.

St. Margaret (sin’-mawr-grit) n. (d.1093) born in Hungary, her family fled William the Conqueror, were shipwrecked off Scotland, and then befriended by King Malcolm, who married her in 1070. She was brother of Edgar Ætheling, and daughter of the exiled English Prince Edward. Probably because of her family’s influence, the Scottish King made many incursions into Northumbria. She had 6 sons and 2 daughters. She died a few days after her husband and son were killed at Alnwick Castle. She was canonised in 1251 and her feast day was 10th June (recently moved to 16th November). Another St. Margaret of Antioch was an early Christian martyr, and there are also other saints of the same name.

St. Margaret’s Drive (sin’-mawr-grit-driv) n. dead-end road off Bright Street, formerly being on the grounds of St. Margaret’s Convent. It was named in 1990.
St. Mary’s Home

St. Margaret’s Home (sin’-mawr-gritz-hōm) n. residential facility for the sick and aged, off Myreslaw Green. It was developed on the grounds of St. Margaret’s Convent from 1934, with considerable extensions being made since. It was opened by Archbishop McDonald and was founded as a ‘Home for Incurables’, with accommodation for 45 patients. In 1987 the nuns left the town, and the Home was taken over by a voluntary committee. Since 1999 it has been run privately.

St. Margaret’s Kirk (sin’-mawr-gritz-kirk) n. church on Wellington Road in Wilton, originally called Wellington Church. It was built in 1886 to house a congregation that had followed Rev. J.A. Birrell out of Hawick Parish Church following some internal disagreements. It was erected as a separate parish by a Decret from the Court of Teinds in 1896. In 1940 the congregation merged with Wilton South to become St. Margaret’s and Wilton South, with the abandoned building being used for commercial purposes until demolished in 1975. New housing was built on the site in 1977. A roll of the ministry is: William Miller 1886–98; Charles Brownlie 1898–1904; William McCullough 1905–35; . . . .

St. Margaret’s Schuil (sin’-mawr-gritz-skil) n. Roman Catholic primary school, originally established in 1854 by Fr. Taggart in 1854, with the financial assistance of Fr. Wallace of Traquir. Within a couple of years it had 50 pupils enrolled. A new building was constructed on the present site on Buccleuch Terrace in 1878, and later extended. The staffing problems were largely solved when the Dominican Sisters arrived in Hawick and supplied 2 teachers. A more modern building was erected in 1965 to accommodate 140 pupils, and was opened by Cardinal Gray. School Inspectors’ Reports for 1867–1951 are in the National Archives.

St. Mary see sin’-mā-ree n. title sometimes used for the Virgin Mary, the mother of Jesus of Nazareth and wife of Joseph. The church in Hawick was dedicated to her in 1214 (and this may have been a rededication). A spring in Castle Cary (the main seat of the Lovels) was also dedicated to her, there possibly being a connection here. The celebration of her Assumption (i.e. the apparent taking up of her body) on 15th August was of local importance, being mentioned in the 1511 Charter as the date on which the token payment was to be made to the Baron, as well as in the earlier charter of 1407 when the

St. Mary’s Kirk

Barony was granted to Douglas of Drumlanrig, and in the 1420 charter of half of Branxholme to the Scotts of Buccleuch. There were several other feast days associated with Mary, e.g. 1st January, 2nd July (Visitation), 8th September (Nativity) and 8th December (Immaculate Conception), which may also have been important in Hawick at one time. The entire month of May was also specially dedicated to Mary. James Wilson suggests that the date towards the end of May, mentioned in 1214, when the townspeople paid tribute to their church’s saint, may have led to the Common Riding taking place at that time of year.

St. Mary’s see St. Mary’s Kirk

St. Mary’s Kirk (sin’-mā-ree-kirk) n. St. Mary’s Church, occupying an eminence above the confluence of the Slitrig and Teviot. The existence of a church in Hawick is first recorded in 1183, and it was dedicated to St. Mary in 1214 by Adam, Bishop of Caithness (as recorded in the Chronicle of Melrose Abbey, ‘Dedicata est ecclesia Sanctae Marie de Hawic a dompno A. Episcopo Cathenensi iiij, Kal. Junii’, i.e. ‘the Church of St. Mary of Hawick was dedicated by Lord Adam, Bishop of Caithness, May 29’). The original was probably at least as early as the coming of the Normans to the area, and may have been much earlier and Saxon. It contained ornate stonework (a few pieces of which survive in the Museum, including pillars surmounted by capitals and also a pattern of carved foliage, which was probably painted). The original may have been roofed with red flagstones. It was reslated and repaired in 1670. For centuries the church bell was rung to mark the passing of a resident of Parish. Tradition says that a bell and clock were brought from Melrose Abbey when it was suppressed. The bell broke in 1693 and was melted and recast the following year (the Council enacting that it was only to be rung for deaths in those families which had contributed to the cost). In 1717 the charge for non-Burgesses was 2 shillings Scots (6 shillings for those outside the Burgh). The clock is recorded as early as 1701, when mention is made of it being broken for the last 12 years! In 1718 the Council asked for contributions for providing a new clock, and it was repaired in 1747, with new dial-plates made on the west and east sides; it was repaired again in 1761 at great expense, a clockmaker being brought in from Redpath for the purpose and a stent being raised to pay for it. The current clock dates from only 1873. The old steeple may have been turretted with a flat roof and a belfry at one of the corners; this ‘bell-house’ was rebuilt in 1723, since its ashlar work was in danger of falling. In 1729 it is recorded that the bell was rung daily at 6 a.m. and 10 p.m.; by the early 19th century the times were 5.30 a.m. and 8 p.m. Stone stairs were built up to the steeple loft around 1714, and the ladder to the steeple was mended in 1727. The bell was also taken down (and presumably replaced) and the steeple mended in 1747. The main floor of the church was still not fitted with seats in 1718, when the Session records describe a dispute over space for stools. Already in 1723 there were calls for an extension to accommodate the congregation, with the Minister expressing his disappointment in 1724 at failing to convince the Session to act. In 1733 there was an appeal to the Duke of Buccleuch’s commissioners to repair and extend the church. It was demolished in 1763, apparently being too solid to bring down easily. The church was finally rebuilt in 1763/4, in a much more plain style and a new bell was obtained at that time (at a cost of £50 and weighing 560 pounds). The cost was £497 (exclusive of the bell), the money coming from the heritors, the Trustees of Alexander Orrock, the weavers incorporation, the rural tenantry (who carted the materials) and the Burgh (who supplied the bell). Some of the original stone was used, but all previous ornamentation was hidden. The T-shaped plan used the long wall for gathering the congregation around both the communion table and pulpit, which was the common design after the Reformation. The steeple was also rebuilt at that time, John Purves, wright in Kelso, being the main contractor. The upper gallery of the kirk was then reserved for members of the incorporation of Weavers, with the front row kept for the Magistrates. Most of the other seats were reserved for heritors, farmers and members of the session, with very few for the ordinary townspeople (who had to stand). The bell-house was rebuilt again in ‘aslar work’ in 1773. In 1826 it is recorded that some people were paying 6 shillings (presumably annually) for the use of a seat, and there was an appeal to the Duke of Buccleuch for a larger church (which could seat 700 for a population of around 5000). Internal renovations were carried out around 1863 by mason’s Marshall & Ballantyne and joiner’s Scott & Wright. This work revealed the memorial stones of Walter Scott of Goldielands and some later family members (concealed under wood on the west-side of the aisle, where a furnace was installed), as well as some carved stonework from the earlier church. Severely damaged in a fire of 1880, it was substantially renovated in 1882/3 by the Edinburgh firm Wardrop & Reid, essentially as a replica of the one that burned down. The main changes were the addition of 2 circular windows in the gables as well as dormer windows, a move of the entrance from the south to the north side, and the building of 2 internal staircases instead of 3. The 18th century tower survived the fire, and is built in rubble of 5 stages, being topped with an ogival slated roof and a wrought-iron weather vane. It had its exterior refurbished in 1973, when floodlights were also installed to illuminate it on special occasions. It is currently a Category B listed building. The church contains the Buccleuch Vault, resting place of many of the earliest Scotts of Buccleuch, which has been sealed since the 1763 re-building. The church yard has been in use since at least the 13th century, and was in earlier times used for many civic functions, e.g. for the election of bailies. The permission to erect ‘through-stones’ appears only to have been given in 1712, following an Act of 1708. Although a proposal for enclosing the kirkyard was made in 1723, the surrounding wall was only built in 1811, and repaired in 1857. The churchyard was closed to burials in 1864. The iron gates were added in 1937 to mark the 400th anniversary of the granting of the 1537 Charter, and in 1973 the churchyard was extensively landscaped and tidied up. The 700th anniversary of its consecration in 1914 attracted an estimated crowd of 4,000. It was used for a while as a Red Cross Military Hospital in WWI. Before the Reformation (i.e. the late 16th century) St. Mary’s was, of course, Catholic, like other churches in Scotland. It was part of the Archdiocese of Glasgow, and in 1447/8 was made a canonry and prebend of the Collegiate Church of Bothwell. Patronage of the church was vested in the Baron of Hawick for most of history, but given to the Earls of Bothwell in the late 15th and early 16th centuries. The church became insufficient for Hawick’s population in the later part of the 18th century, when other churches began to be set up. It was the Parish Church until 1844 (when the Old Parish Church was built), becoming a ‘quoad sacra’ church in 1860, and reverting to the main parish church again in 1897. Also in 1987 the interior was refurbished. After it was separated from ‘Old Parish’ the new Manse was off the Braid Road. From 1997 it was linked to the churches of Cavers and Kirkton. Kirk Session records exist from 1700. The oldest recorded communion token bear the mark ‘M.A.K.’ for ‘Master
St. Mary’s Knot

Alexander Kynneir’. Other existing tokens date from 1843 and 1860. A ‘gaufre’, or utensil for baking sacramental wafers, exists, and may be pre-Reformation. The National Archives contain records relating to the quoad sacra parish dating from 1833. A roll of the meenisters while it was the Parish Kirk is given elsewhere. The subsequent roll of the ministry is: John Thomson 1860–79; Stewart Burns 1880–1925; Eric Raff 1926–27; William Simpson 1927–33; Walter Calderwood 1933–53; J.P. Wilson 1959–66; ... Duncan Clark 1976–87?; David Burt 1996–98; William Taylor 1998–??; Marina D. Brown 2010— ‘While, as up yonder Sacred Mount I looke: On which the temple that’s situat on high, Stands much admired by strangers passing by’ [RRC], ‘Hark! the bell of old St. Mary Finds us armed alert and wary’ [RSC], ‘I sei the Slitrig whirlin’ doon, and I hear St. Mary’s clock’ [JEDM], ‘Where stands St. Mary’s pointing to the sky, Encircled round its walls in peaceful rest And with the dust of ages intrepressed The ashes of the dead forgotten lie (The while the living pass unheeding by)’ [TK], ‘... And the jowe o’ St. Mary’s bell’ [WL] (usually referred to as just ‘St. Mary’s’ or in earlier times as ‘the Kirk’ or ‘Hawick Kirk’ or ‘the Pairish Kirk’ to distinguish it from the other churches).

St. Mary’s Knot (sin’-mā-reez-no’) n., arch. a knot tied triply, so that it is hard to undo – ‘He has tied them a’ wi’ St. Mary Knot, A’ these horse but barely three. Fala, &c.’ [CPM] (the note in Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ suggests that the line refers to ham-stringing a horse, but this is inconsistent with the following verses).

St. Mary’s Loch (sin’-mā-reez-loch) n. Loch lying in the central southern uplands, about halfway between Hawick and Moffat. It is the largest body of water in the Borders, about 4 miles long, 71/2 miles in circumference and 30 fathoms deep in places. It has the smaller Loch o the Lowes at its head. There was a dispute over right to the Loch between Lord Napier and Scott of Rodono in the mid-19th century. It is famous for its picturesque views and as the haunt of the Ettrick Shepherd – ‘Long, long ago, ere the Yarrow wound Or the rainclouds filled St. Mary’s, Long, long ago, when on Ettrick ground The only folk were the fairies ...’ [WHO].

St. Mary’s Place (sin’-mā-reez-plis) n. name adopted by the Council in 1946 for what was formerly Old Churchyard or Auld Kirkyaird. The house at the corner with the Kirk Wynd, No. 1 St. Mary’s Place and 31 Drumlanrig Square was designed in 1891 by J.P. Alison and built for Miss Lamb; it is a grade C listed building. Most of the other houses in the street are quite old.

St. Mary’s Schuil (sin’-mā-reez-skil) n. St. Mary’s Infant School, gifted by the 5th Duke of Buccleuch in the latter part of the 19th century. The buildings were at the top of Brougham Place, behind Trinity Church. It was set up through the efforts of Rev. John Thomson as the Parish School for St. Mary’s, and hence was also called ‘St. Mary’s Quoad Sacra School’. The first master was William Murray, who had been running a private school at 8 Kirkgate (i.e. St. Mary’s Place) since 1850. When the new school opened Murray marched all his students there in a body. The school became connected with the government so it could have student teachers, and after the passing of the Education Act it became the responsibility of the new School Board. A wooden building was built to house the infant department. Eventually the school became specialised as an infant department, with the older primary pupils attending Trinity. It closed in 1967, the pupils being split among the neighbouring schools. The main building was later used by a knitwear firm before being converted into 2 houses, with the outbuildings demolished. School Inspectors’ Reports for 1852–1951 are in the National Archives. The Borders Archive holds registers for 1898–1967 and log books for 1874–1967.

St. Mary’s Shiel (sin’-mā-reez-sheel) n. former lands in Liddesdale, recorded in 1541 as ‘Sant-Marie Scheillis’, and there being no tenant at that time. The location is unknown, but the name suggests it could have been associated with Hermitage Chapel.

St. Mary’s Steps (sin’-mā-reez-stepz) n. common name for the main staircase leading to St. Mary’s Kirk from the Kirkstile. There are 33 steps in all.

St. Mary’s Well (sin’-mā-reez-wel) n. spring on the north-north-west side of Ruberslaw. It was probably a ‘holy well’, i.e. at one point having some religious significance. A former spring near Hawthornside was known by the name of ‘Ylistoun’ (Elliston near St. Boswells) to be

St. Michael (sin’-mī-kul) n. David (12th C.) witness to a charter for Richard Lovel to the Priory of St. Andrews about the 1190s. His name is given as ‘Dauid de sco michaele’. John was also a witness and they were both presumably part of the family that held lands at Whitchesters and elsewhere nearby. Elmeras (13th C.) son of Robert. In about 1240 he resigned his lands of ‘Ylistoun’ (Elliston near St. Boswells) to be granted to Dryburgh Abbey. John (12th C.) first witness listed in about the 1190s when Richard Lovel granted lands near Branxholme to the Priory of St. Andrews. David is also listed and so probably his son or brother. It seems likely he is descended from Walter, who is mentioned a generation earlier. John (13th C.) witness in 1249 to a charter granted by Agnes ‘de Illilistun’ (i.e. Elliston) to Dryburgh Abbey. He may well have been related to this Agnes. He is probably the same Sir John who witnessed a grant by Henry of Ashkirk about 1250; he is there ‘Johanne de Sancto Micaele’. Sir John (13th/14th C.) listed on the Ragman Rolls of 1296 as ‘Sire Johan de Seint Michel del Counte de Rokesburgh’. Presumably the same man is listed separately as ‘Dominus Johannes de Seint Michel, miles’. His seal consists of an oval showing St. Michael slaying the dragn and a man with a hawk on his wrist, together with the name ‘SIOHANIS DE SCO MICHAELAE’. He probably held lands at Whitchesters and elsewhere in the county. Another ‘John’ is also listed, presumably his son, along with ‘Renaud de Seint Michel, clerk’ (i.e. Reginald), possibly another son. In 1311 he is listed among Scotsmen whose lands had been taken by Edward II, but were now returned (specifically his lands of ‘Heveside’) because they ‘came to his peace’. This is said to be an old Cumberland family and may be the same family who are recorded holding lands at Reban, Kildare in Ireland around 1300. John (13th C.) son of John of St. Michael. In 1278/9 he was accused of slaying Richard Bullock at ‘Cambok’, in a group along with 3 others. He was stated to be already dead, and so not declared an outlaw. Hence he cannot have been the later John, son of Sir John. John (13th/14th C.) probably son of Sir John. He was ‘Johanne de Sancto Michel’ when he swore fealty to Edward I in 1296. John (d.1451/2) holder of the lands of Whitchesters in the Barony of Hawick. He was on a ‘retour of inquest’ made in Hawick in 1424 for lands of Hownam and was ‘Johannem de Samichell’ in 1426 when on the inquest for the inheritance of Eilrig by Walter Scott of Rankilburn. He was probably the John of St. Michael who was witness to the 1435 charter where lands of Branxholme and others in the Barony of Hawick were transferred from John Inglis to his son Thomas. He also witnessed a document for Swinton of that Ilk in 1432. He was succeeded by his son John. John ‘of St. Michael’ (15th C.), son of John. He was probably the last of his family to hold local lands. He is probably the ‘Johanne de Sancto Michaeli juniore’ who witnessed a charter between Margaret Cusing (wife of Hawick Burgess Simon Routledge) and Walter Scott of Buccleuch in 1447. A ‘retour’ of 1452 confirms to him the lands of ‘Qwitchester’, on annual payment to the Baron, the Earl of Douglas, of a white or red rose at the feast of St. John the Baptist. In 1455 John of Langlands attested in a notorised document (made at St. Mary’s Kirkyard) that he had inherited his father’s lands of Whitchesters. In 1455 King James II granted Whitchesters to David Scott, heir to Buccleuch for services to the King, the lands having been forfeited by ‘John of St. Michael, traitor’ (probably his father). In 1456 there was a further notorial instrument attesting that he had inherited Whitchesters from his father; by this time his is described as ‘quondam Johanni de Sancti Michaeliae, filio quondam Johannis de Sancto Michaeliae’, suggesting that he was also deceased. The family, originally Norman, but settling in Ireland, had apparently held Whitchesters since before 1183, but forfeited them before 1455. Robert (12th/13th C.) probably related to the local family. In about 1180 he witnessed a confirmation of the grant of lands in Eskdale to Melrose Abbey by the Avenels. He witnessed a marriage contract for Philip de Valognes in about 1200; he was recorded as ‘Roberto de Sancto Michael’, and other witnesses included John of Wilton and Simon of Hawick. His son ‘Elmeras’ is recorded in about 1240. Walter (12th C.) referred to in a charter sometime in the period 1163 to 1183. Henry Lovel granted the Priory of St. Andrews 2 oxgangs of land in Branxholme, which was half of the lands formerly held by him (also written ‘de St. Michael’; it is possible there is a connection with the Carmichaels).

St. Mungo’s Day (sin’-mung-göz-da) n. Saint’s feast day celebrated on 13th January, the anniversary of the death of St. Mungo in the year 613. He was Bishop of Glasgow and sometimes credited as founding the city. His day was celebrated before the Reformation and still referred to in the 1622 records of the local Commissioners’ Court. Also sometimes known as St. Kentigern, his image is included on the Founder’s Window of St. Cuthbert’s Kirk.

St. Ninian’s Road (sin’-ni-nee-inz-ród) n. street in the Terraces, named in 1931. The name was suggested by J.P. Alison, after St. Ninian (who died in 432), since he was one of the people to whom Trinity Church in Edinburgh was dedicated, this being connected to the Trinity lands in Hawick, near which the street was built.
St. Ninian’s Well

St. Ninian’s Well (sin’-ni-nee-inz-wel) n. former name for a spring in the Woll estate at Ashkirk. It is about 220 m to the west-south-west of the Parish Kirk, on a steep slope. This is one of a large number of sites throughout Scotland connected in name with this early Scottish Christian missionary. Ashkirk Kirk, which lies to the north-east of the spring, was originally dedicated to this saint. It has been suggested that the spring could have been so-named because it was used for baptisms.

stob (stob) n., arch. a stake, fence post – ‘…Of drystone dykes or fence stobs And far the eye can see’ [WL], ‘Compared wi’ a nibbie, a walkin’-stick’s noa better than a palin’-stob’ [DH], a coarse nail (the first meaning is probably the origin for ‘Stobs’ and ‘Stobi Hill’, while the second may apply to ‘Stobicote’).

Stob Cleuch (stōb-klooč) n. small stream that rises on Stob-cleuch Edge and runs eastwards to join the Gorrenberry Burn.

Stobedge Wud (stōb-ej-wud) n. plantation to the north of Minto Crags. In 1780 it is recorded that ‘Stobedge planting dyke’ formed part of the western boundary of Crigend and Minto Mill farms. An unrelated farmstead called ‘Stobedge’ was in Ancrum Parish and once part of the Chesters estate.

Stob Fell (stōb-fel) n. hill in the upper Hermitage valley, north of Billhope. It reaches a heigh of 518 m.

Stobicote (stō-bee-ko’) n. farm between Southfield and Old Northhouse. The lands were leased to Walter Scott of Branxholme by the Abbot of Melrose in 1500 along with other lands in the ‘Lordship of Ryngwodfeild’. In 1540 the King’s shepherd William Henderson is recorded being paid for oats there. The first owner may have been David Scott, son of ‘Wicked Wat’. In about 1557 it was rented from Melrose Abbey by Simon and John Scott, sons of the Laird of Allanhaugh; it was valued at £6 at that time. It was listed as ‘Stobbit, Coitbrugh’ in 1634, ‘Stobbit, Coitburgh’ in 1653, similarly in 1661 and ‘Stobitcoat-burgh’ in 1663 (i.e. merged with Brugh in the transcription), when still part of the lands of Ringwoodfield in the Lordship of Melrose held by the Scotts of Buccleuch. It was valued at £260 in 1643. In 1684 tenants James Glendinning and John Simpson were declared as fugitives for being Covenanters. 7 people were recorded there on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. James Scott was tenant there in at least the period 1712–24, John Elliot and Thomas Davidson were living there in 1716, James Jackson in 1717 and William Telfer in 1723. When surveyed in 1718 it consisted of the combined farms of Over and Nether Stobicote, covering 694 acres, bounded by Allan Water, Brugh, Doecluch, Northhouse and Braithwaugh. It was also the birthplace in 1765 of Gideon Scott, millwright. James Anderson was farmer there between at least 1763 and 1797. In 1788 the lands were valued at £260, and by then owned by the Duke of Buccleuch. George Hobkirk and family lived there in 1841. The route for the Moss paul ride-out passes near here (also known as ‘Stobicote’, ‘Stobicote’ etc., and is ‘Stobitcote’ on the Ordnance Survey map; it is ‘Stobycoat’ in 1500, transcribed ‘Stobbe-Tait’ in 1540, ‘Stobecoit’ in 1557 and 1564, ‘Stobitcote’ in 1643, ‘Stobbitcoat’ in 1660, transcribed ‘Stobat-cate’ in 1684, ‘Stobitcoat’ in 1694, ‘Stobbitcoat’ in 1712 and 1716, ‘Stobitcote’ in 1717 and 1723, ‘Stobit Coat’ in 1724 and ‘Stobitcoats’ in 1718; it appeared as ‘Stobbycott’ on Blaen’s 1654 map and on de Wit’s c. 1680 map of Scotland, while Stobie’s 1770 map has ‘Stобитcот’; the name probably means ‘cottage made with nails’).

Stobie Cote see Stobicote

Stobie Cleuch (stōbee-klooč) n. small stream joining the Hermitage Water from the west near Leaugh Cottage, just north of Redheugh. On the lower banks of the stream there are the remains of 4 circular turf stells.

Stobie Rig (stōbee-rig) n. small ridge of land between the Liddel Water and Foulshiels farmshouse, just south of Stobie Cleuch.

Stobie’s map (stō-bee-map) n. map of Roxburghshire prepared by Matthew Stobie and published in 1770. Although this map is useful, it was prepared for the gentry and hence began the insidious process of anglicising our local place names.

Stobi Hill (stō-bee-hil) n. hill in the Ale valley, between Whitslaid farm and Todrig farm, with Whitslaid Hill being the southern spur. There is a linear earthwork, an old field-bank, running from the hollow between this hill and Whitslaid Hill north towards Todrig (it is marked ‘Stobiehill on Ainslie’s 1773 map).

Stobi Meadi (stō-bee-me-di) n. former lands in Lilliesleaf granted by Walter of Riddell to Melrose Abbey in the early 13th century and recorded as ‘Stobimedue’.

Stobitcote see Stobicote

Stobo (stō-bo) n. John (17th C.) traveller from Kelso. In 1659 the Hawick Council decreed that the would not ‘trouble nor molest our market, in buying either butter or cheese before the bell ring for that effect’ [BR1659].

Stobs (ståbz) n. estate and former hamlet about 4 miles south of Hawick, along the Slitrig. In the 19th century it had about half a dozen homes, as well as a post office, blacksmith’s shop and joiners (mostly in a long row of cottages), although there is now little trace of these buildings. It was also a station on the Waverley Line, converted into a house after the 1969 closure of the railway, with extensive sidings linking it with the military camp. The estate is heavily wooded, with sitka spruce and other conifers dominating. The name is recorded in the early 14th century, and gave rise to a surname. Thomas Cranston was granted the barony of Stobs by David II, sometime previous to 1370. A grant sometime before 1375 has Thomas, Earl of Mar and Lord of Cavers, granting parts of Cavers to Thomas Cranston, with his lands of Stobs being excepted. In 1458/9 the lands were among those held by Thomas Cranston of that Ilk. In 1509/10 it was listed as part of the holdings of Douglas of Cavers since the time of King David. In 1544 the lands were owned by Clement Crozier, and then passed to the Gledstains family. The lands of Stobs were held by the Cranstons as part of the Lordship of Denholm according to a discharge of 1574. They were owned by the Elliots from about 1580, when it was purchased by Gavin from a Gladstains. On his death it was inherited briefly by his surviving daughters and a grand-daughter, but sold in 1607 to ‘Gibbie wi the Gowden Garters’, who took full possession of it in 1614 (with the superior at that time being Sir John Cranston of that Ilk). In 1608 it was attacked by William Scott of Northhouse and a party armed with ‘swords, gauntlets and plate-sleeves’ threatening to burn ‘all the evidents and writs of the said lands’ unless they got what they wanted; 2 years later the same William and his brother Robert Scott attacked Gilbert Elliott of Stobs on the streets of Hawick. Beginning with this Gilbert, ‘Gibbie wi the Gowden Gartins’, the estate became the seat of the Elliott family for many generations. The superiors of the lands were the Lords Cranston in the 17th century. In 1678 it (along with Langside, Penchrise, Stanishope, Harwood Burn and William’s Rig) was valued at £1633 6s 8d, and owned by the Eliotts of Stobs. In 1694 ‘The place & office houses’ of Stobs was taxed for 13 hearths, while ‘Stobs his cooks wife’ was taxed for a hearth in Hawick. Sir Gilbert Elliott paid tax for 14 windows there in 1748 and 15 in 1753. In 1788 (and in the Land Tax Rolls of 1811) it was valued at £1633 6s 8d, with the teinds having been purchased from Douglas of Cavers and valued at £400. The estate was sold to the War Office in 1902, apparently partly because the terrain resembled the South African veldt. Over the next 5 decades it was used extensively as an army training camp and also of war camp. It was broken up and sold after WWII. A memorial stone cross was erected after WWI. A plan of the estate from 1779 is in the National Archives (also spelled ‘Stobbs’, ‘Stob’, ‘Stobbis’, ‘Stobbes’, etc.; the name is recorded in 1309 as ‘Stobbis’ and in 1370 as ‘stokkis’, perhaps in error, with ‘the Stobbis’ appearing in 1458/9, ‘Stobis’ in 1509/10, ‘Stobbis’ in 1511 and ‘Stobbs’ in 1643; the modern spelling dates to at least Gordon’s c. 1650 map, but is ‘Stobbs’ on Blaen’s 1654 map; it may be from the Gaelic, Old Norse or Old English for ‘stakes’ or ‘stumps’, perhaps meaning that it was a place marked by tree stumps).

Stobs (ståbz) n. David (16th C.) recorded as tenant in Mervinslaw in a rental roll of 1541. His steading was valued at 12s 6d. His surname is recorded as ‘Stobbs’.

Stobs Camp (ståbz-kawmp) n. army camp, about 4 miles south of Hawick, established in 1903 as a summer training ground, with the officers stationed in Stobs Castle. The camp was based at the former estate of Stobs, including adjoining farms, covering about 10,000 acres. A small gauge railway track went from the Waverley Line right up to the camp, this tramway being dismantled when the camp expanded during WWII. Used initially by volunteer units as a summer training ground, it saw increased use around the time of the two World Wars and grew to be so large that it was referred to as ‘the Scottish Aldershot’. At its peak in 1915 there may have been as many as 15,000 men stationed there. It was also used as a prisoner of war camp, with about 6,000 German troops interred there in WWI, and a small number in WWII. After the war it was used for the repatriation of Polish troops, and then reverted to use as a summer training camp until it closed in 1956 and was sold in 1959. Horst Rossberg wrote his recollections as a prisoner of war in the 1991 Transactions. A couple of wooden buildings survive, along with concrete foundations, steps and terracing, showing the location of many more. The training ground stretched all the way to Penchrise Pen. A small cemetery, just inside the camp, was used to bury the 36 prisoners of war and 6 internees who died in the camp, the bodies being reinterred in 1962.
Stobs Castle

Stobs Castle (stōbz-kaw-sul) n. family seat of the Elliots, destroyed in a fire in 1712, resulting in the loss of many of the family's early documents. A tradition is that people from Hawick were blamed for setting the fire. The original tower stood in a plantation about 400 yards south-east of the present structure, but there are no remains to be seen (it is marked as the site on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map). A new mansion was built on the same site in 1719, but in 1764 it also burned down. It was said to be 'a twae storey heigh thack-house' [WaD]. It is said that many of the foundation stones were removed from the old castle in 1797. The house was rebuilt by Sir William Elliot from around 1793, as a gothic-style residence. After that it was always referred to as 'Stobs Castle' rather than 'Stobs Hoose'. The builder was John Laing of Hawick, and the architect was Robert Adam, this being his last castle. It narrowly escaped burning down again in 1824, being saved by the actions of the servants. There were also later Victorian alterations, around 1865, probably by James Anderson Hamilton. A carved family coat of arms hangs over the north entrance. 50 High Street has a freestone cornice salvaged from the Castle at the beginning of the 19th century. When the estate was sold to the War Office in 1902 the house was used as officers quarters. The gothic single-arched bridge approach also survives, along with the Grecian-style gateway to the approach road. And along the track south of the house is the stable block.

the Stobs Castle Stakes (thu-stōbz-kaw-sul-stāks) n. race run over 2 miles on the Saturday of the Common Riding in the late 19th century.

Stobs Ceemetry (stōbz-see-mi’-ree) n. small cemetery situated just inside Stobs Camp, south of the former station. This was where 36 prisoners of war and 6 civilian internees were buried. A memorial was built from stones carried up from the Slitrig by Mr. Oliver, farmer at Winningtonrig. The names of those buried there were recorded along with an inscription: 'To our comrades who died far away from their country'. The site was maintained by locals until 1962, when the bodies were reinterred at Cannock Chase German Military Cemetery in Staffordshire. A few remains of the memorial can still be seen today.

Stobs Cottage (stōbz-ko’-cej) n. former name for a cottage on the Stobs estate. The estate manager lived there in the 1860s.

Stobs Crater (stōbz-kra’-ur) n. crater on Mars, named after the area of Stobs in 1976. It is roughly 12 km in size, and situated at about 5° S, 321.6° E.

Stobside Hill (stob-shaw-hil) n. hill just to the west of Headshaw. It reaches a height of 298 m and may correspond to the 'Stobsbidehill' recorded in a description of boundaries in Headshaw in 1780.

Stobs Hoose (stōbz-hoos) n. name sometimes used for Stobs Castle, particularly before the baronial style mansion was built in the late 18th century. The estate was owned from the late 16th century by the Elliots of Stobs, who built a fortified house there, which was destroyed in 1712. The new house was built in 1719, but was largely replaced by 1800. There were also additions around 1865.

Stobsiade (stob-zee-ad) n. newspaper produced by German prisoners of war at Stobs during WWI, with 26 issues being produced in the period 1915–19. At first it was produced by civilian internees, but by late 1916 (when the civilians were moved to the Isle of Man) it was continued by the military prisoners. It contained advertisements, news, poetry, puzzles and short stories About 4,000 copies of each issue were printed (by Scott & Paterson in Hawick). The name means ‘news from Stobs’ in German, but is a play on the popular 18th-century epic poem ‘Jobsiade’. Despite censorship and other restrictions, the publication contains remarkable creativity and humour.

Stobsbide Hill (stob-si-d-hil) n. former name for a hill on the farm of Dryden. It is recorded as 'Stobsbidehill' in 1780 and probably corresponds to the modern Stobshaw Hill.

Stobs Limery (stōbz-li-ru-ree) n. name used for the lime works at Limekilnedge. It started production in the 1790s and ran into the latter part of the 19th century.

Stobs Lodge (stōbz-loj) n. former lodge house at Woodfoot, near the beginning of the drive to Stobs Castle, on the west side of the Slitrig.

Stobs Loch (stōbz-loch) n. another name for Barnes Loch.

Stobs Park (stōbz-pawrk) n. former name for a farm near Stobs.

Stobs Sidins (stōbz-si-dinz) n. railway sidings built for Stobs Military Camp at Acreknowe farm. This made a connection to the Stobs Camp internal tramway via a transfer platform. The tramway connected various parts of the camp at different times, e.g. it once ran to the rifle range on Penchrise Pen, and also to the ‘Meldrum Destructor’ (i.e. incinerator).
Stobs Station

Stobs Station (stōbz-stāshin) n. former railway station at Stobs, once much used by the military. It was originally called Barnes, but renamed almost right away to Stobs. It had an ‘up’ platform (to London) and a ‘down’ platform (to Edinburgh) as well as a bay platform on the west side. The station building was built in a baronial style. Just south of the station was the cemetery for prisoners of war and internees.

Stobs Wudfit (stōbz-wud-fi) n. former set of cottages near Stobs, also called just Wudfit.

stock (stok) n., arch. the stalk of a plant, particularly of the cabbage family – ‘...admitted that she ‘went to the Roan Garden on the Sabbath day, and did there cut three or four stocks of green kale’” [JaT].

stock (stok) n., arch. the rental on a leased farm in additional to the teinds, this being in kind or its monetary equivalent, the amount of crops produced in addition to the tithe – ‘This is estimated to pay communibis annis [in average years], fyve scoir and 12 bolls in stok, and 28 bolls in tyeyd’ [PR1627], ‘Rentall of the Dutches of Buccluches ferme Lands of the barronie of Branholme woltoun and whytchester sett stock and teind att Hawick’ [Buc1690].

stockeen (sto-keen) n. stocking – ‘...an serrred hes time teh the stockeenmakin trade wi’ Peter Laidlehe ower in Wultin Grove’ [BW1978].

Stockcleugh Edge (stok-ki-poogh-ej) n. slope on the border with Dumfriesshire, being the southern part of Tamond Heights (it appears to be marked ‘Slack Cleugh Edge’ on the 1718 Buccleugh survey).

Stock Hill (stok-hil) n. hill lying between the headwaters of the Teviot and Borthwick valleys on the border with Dumfries and Galloway, reaching a height of 477 m (1563 ft) and having a triangulation pillar. It was at the western corner of Hawick Parish once Robertson separated off.

stockin soles (stok-in-sölz) n., pl. the wearing socks of without shoes – ‘...hai sits be the fire in his stickin soles’ [IWL] (note that in standard English the phrase is ‘stockinged feet’ or sometimes ‘stocking feet’).

stock-in-tred (stok-in-tred) n., arch. stock-in-trade – ‘The commercial kind are pairt o’ the stock-in-tred o’ maist bacca-shops ...’ [DH].

stockit (sto-ki, -kee’) adj., pp. stocked – ‘My faither was laird o’ a weel stockit mailin’” [JT].

stocks (stoks) n., pl. long, white neckcloth worn as part of formal riding gear, popular in the 19th century. It was first adopted by the Principals at the 1928 Common Riding.

the stocks (thu-stoks) n. wooden boards with semi-circles cut into them, placed together to hold people as a form of public punishment. Hawick’s stocks were next to the Mercat Cross. A new set is recorded being purchased in 1755. In 1787 the ‘stocks, wood and iron work, and lock’ were mended. They were in regular use until the end of the 18th century, and are preserved in the Museum (in fact the wood crumbled and was replaced with a replica, using the original iron-work around 1898). People were sentenced by the Bailies to spend up to several days in the stocks for relatively minor crimes, including theft and assault. Usually the feet were secured, but sometimes also the arms. The last use was for an elderly female offender in November 1800 – ‘...and sal lie aucht days in the stockis, and stand with ane paper with the theft written upon their forehead at the mercat-crosse, upon the mercat day’ [BR1640], ‘...the baylyea fynes and onlaws him in fyftie pound Scotts, and ordaines him to go to the stockis immediately, and yrin to continue during the sd. regall baylyea his will and pleasure’ [BR1693] (see also the juggs).

Stockwell (stok-wel) n. Henry (18th/19th C.) servant of Hawick butcher Andrew Wilson. In 1815 he was found not guilty of assaulting Janet Ogilvie (or Orrock). It is stated that both were married people. He appears to have been married to Elizabeth Rae and had a daughter Isabella in Kelso in 1812. He was probably son of Thomas and Margaret Fairbairn, born in Kelso in 1789.

Stockwell Orphanage (stok-wel-or-fi-nej) n. orphanage in London, established in 1867 for boys and in 1879 for girls. In the 1880s Hawick had a circulating library, based at 2 Dovecote Street, to raise money for the orphanage.

stockyaird (stok-yaird) n. a stockyard, area where livestock is kept on a farm, typically close to a slaughterhouse – ‘...and convey the chests containin the plate ti Caverton Mill where it was buried in the stockyaird where it lay until the danger was passed’ [IWL].

Stoddart (sto-dur’) n. Archibald ‘Airchie’ (16th/17th C.) listed along with John and Gilbert, servants to the ‘Laird’s Jock’ (probably Armstrong) in 1595, when accused of stealing cattle from England. Archibald (17th C.) resident at Barnes in 1694 according to the Hearth Tax rolls. David (14th C.) owner of lands in ‘Ernaldon’ (i.e. somewhere around Aurtun Fell) in Liddesdale according to a c.1376 rental roll. ‘Lucus Daniud Stodhirdse’ is listed there with a value of 23 shillings and 4 pence. Elizabeth ‘Bessie’ (17th C.) recorded in 1643 as ‘gudewife of Greatlaw’ in Lilliesleaf Parish. Her lands there were valued at £104. She was presumably widow of the former owner of Greatlaw and may have been connected with the Riddell family. Gilbert ‘Gib’ (16th/17th C.) listed along with Archibald and John, servants to the ‘Laird’s Jock’ (probably Armstrong) in 1595, when accused of stealing cattle from England. James (17th C.) listed at Flex among ‘The poor in Hauick Paroich’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. He could be the John who married Grizell Elliot and whose daughter Malie (b.1674) was baptised in Hawick Parish. James (19th C.) mason of Deanburnhaugh. He was one of the earliest Trustees of the Congregational (then Evangelical Union) Kirk. John (15th C.) recorded as ‘Joanne Stodhird’ in the 1447 sasine for the Cousinlands, purchased by Sir Walter Scott of Buccleuch. The witnesses are Scotts, except for the last 2, who are this man and Patrick Turnbull; it is possible that they were the Hawick Bailies at that time. John (16th C.) described as ‘Johnne Stoddart, cobilman to the lard of Langlands’ in 1576. This was in a pledge made for him (and George Elliot) to the Privy Council by Walter Scott of Goldielands, James Gledstains of Cocklaw and James Langlands of that Ilk. He was listed in 1578/9 among Borderers deemed to have continued in thieving and hence declared as fugitives. He was stated to have been ‘enterit’ and ‘deliverit in the sheref of Roxburch his handis’. Perhaps the same man (or else his son) was ‘Johnne Stoddart, cobilman at Hawick’ when listed among those declared as fugitives for not appearing at a Borders Commissioners’ court in Jedburgh in 1605. What happened to him is not recorded, but it seems likely he would have been hanged or fled the area. His existence shows that there was a man employed to ferry people across the Coble Pool from at least the latter part of the 16th century. John (16th/17th C.) listed along with Archibald and Gilbert, servants to the ‘Laird’s Jock’ (probably Armstrong) in 1595, when accused of stealing cattle from England. John (18th C.) recorded in ‘Borthwickburnfoot’ in 1764, 1766 and 1772 when 3 of his children were baptised in Roberton Parish. He married Mary Anderson in Roberton in 1762. Probably the same John was father of Isabel (b.1764), Betty (b.1766), Mary (b.1768), Jean (b.1770) and Margaret (b.1772). Kenneth (1964–) born in Hawick, he qualified as a music teacher then became a hairdresser and moved to Australia. He was awarded the title of ‘Australian Hairdresser of the Year’ in 2005 and has styled hair for stars such as Kylie Minogue, Jerry Hall and Nicole Kidman. Robert (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish, living at the Flex. He married Jean Little and their daughter Margaret was baptised in 1674. The witnesses were William Henderson (also in Flex) and Walter Martin. Robert (17th/18th C.) tenant at the Flex, probably related to the earlier Robert who was there. In 1708 he witnessed a baptism for William Henderson ‘younger in Flex’. His son Francis was baptised in 1704, with witnesses William Henderson (also in the Flex) and Andrew Riddell (in Goldielands). Robert (d.1759) resident of Ewes Parish. He married Margaret Laidlaw, probably in 1756. Their children included: John (b.1757); and Robert (b.1759), baptised after he had already died. The witnesses in 1759 were John Turnbull and Patrick Maxwell. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Stouslie in 1729. He married Elspeth Turnbull and their children included James (b.1727), Margaret (b.1729), Thomas (b.1732) and James (agaib, b.1737). The witnesses in 1729 were William Grieve and John Scott. Thomas (1828–1905) born in Roxburgh, he attended school in Hawick, being apprenticed as a joiner at 16. He joined the army at 20 and left for Australia in 1853. In the Ballaarat area (near Melbourne) he worked as a miner, becoming a speculator and director of many mining companies. By 1880 he was a wealthy man, purchasing statues, and inspiring a local zeal that has led to Ballaarat being called the ‘City of Statues’. His bust sits in the local Town Hall. He is recorded subscribing to Hawick Common Riding in the 1880s Walter (17th/18th C.) married Janet Redford in Ashkirk Parish in 1689. Walter (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He was herd at Harwood in 1711. He married Jean Scott and their children included Isobella (b.1711) and Margaret (b.1713). The witnesses in 1711 were Gideon Scott of Falnash and Bailie Walter Elliot. Perhaps the same Walter had children Christian (b.1707) and Walter (b.1710) baptised in Roberton Parish. He may therefore be the same man as the Walter recorded at Meadshaw in 1710. William (17th/18th C.) recorded in ‘Borthwickburnfoot’ in 1764, 1766 and 1772.
Hawick. In 1719 he married Marion, daughter of Walter Gledstains. Their children included: John (b.1723); Bessie (b.1725); Janet (b.1727); and Jean (b.1730). Robert (b.1720), with the mother’s name given as Agnes Gledstains, was probably also his son. William (19th C.) woolsorter who wasCornet in 1873. He acted as Right-Hand man again in 1875, since the previous year’s Cornet was unable to attend. William ‘Willie’ (20th C.) mill worker in Hawick. He spent some time working in Canada as a teenager and served in WWI. In 1937 he became Hawick’s only Communist Town Councillor, but within a few months joined the Labour Party. He was involved in setting up the Hawick Workers’ Mill, which supplied woollen goods to anti-Fascist forces in Spain, as well as helping provide jobs for unemployed mill-workers in Hawick (formerly spelled ‘Stoddert’, ‘Stodert’, ‘Stotherd’ and other variants; also Stothart).

stodge (stoj) v., arch. to trudge, walk heavily, deliberately or unsteadily.

stog (stóg) v., arch. to walk heavily, stride sturdily, stumps – ‘By the policies o Ancrum House ... A stoagget-on on the shadeet seide’[ECS].

stog (stóg) v., arch. to stab, pierce, jab – ‘I have stogd myself in the leg’ [HAST1922].

stoggit (stō-gee’, -gi’) pp., poet. stabbed, thrust – ‘Thou hast stogget sair t me, that I micht fa’...’ [HSR].

Stoghill (stōg-hiil) n. former name for lands near Commonside in upper Tevioldale. In 1591 these lands, along with Commonside, Northcroft and Hillend were already occupied by Gilbert Elliot when leased to him by Sir Walter Scott of Bucleuch. It is unclear if the name is a variant of something more familiar.

stoit (stoi’, stoit) n., poet. a clumsy person – ‘‘Auld stoit’, said Mrs. Blearie, sharp, Then quickly she calmed doon ... ’[WFC], arch. a bounce by a ball.

stoiter (stoi-tur) v., arch. to stagger, stumble – ‘The step may stoiter, the eyne be dim ... ’[WL], ‘...But byways for the likes o’ me Although the step may stoiter’ [WL] (cf. the more common stotter).

Stonedge (sten-leej, stō-nej) n. farm west of Wolfelee above Howahill, once part of one of the main estates of Hobbirk Parish, also formerly known as ‘Stanledge’. It was also once a barony in its own right. It is probably the seat of John ‘de Stonesleigh’ who signed the Ragman Rolls in 1296 and is ‘de Stonesleigh’ in 1303/4 on an inquest for inheritance of the half barony of Wilton. The lands were bestowed on David Home of Wedderburn by Archibald Douglas, Earl of Angus in 1464. It could be the ‘Stanleche’ in Ettrick Forest, whose ‘grassum’ was mentioned in the Exchequer Rolls of 1477 (although this could be confusion with Crown lands of the same name in Stirlingshire). James Turnbull was recorded there in 1590. Walter Scott was tenant there in about 1600. The size and ownership of parts of lands referred to as ‘Stonedge’ are complicated. The Earl of Angus sold off his superiority of these and other Rulewater lands to Sir William Cranston in 1605. The estate is recorded belonging to Hector Turnbull in at least 1603–09, part sold to Gibbie Elliot of Stobs in 1609 and part still owned by Andrew Turnbull in 1610. Andrew and Cuthbert ‘McDowall’ were there in 1616. It was sold by William, Earl of Lothian to Sir Thomas Ker of Cavers in 1647, but given back the following year. Then in 1651 it was sold by William, Lord Cranston to William Elliot of Stobs (tradition says that Cranston did this to secure them against being forfeited before his joined attempts to rescue Charles I). In 1671 the lands of Over and Nether Woollee, Stonedge, Unthank, Howa, Sneepp, Hobsburn and Little Gledstains were separated off from those of Stobs to become the new estate of Stonedge; this was disposed to Thomas, the eldest son of Sir Gilbert Elliot of Stobs with his 2nd wife Magdelen Nicolson, and when Thomas died it went to his brother Gilbert. In 1694 the residents were John Mair, elder, Agnes Scott, John Mair, younger and Robert Oliver. In 1718 the western part was sold to Adam Scott (tenant farmer at Wauchope), and passed to his brother William, who later purchased the eastern part and became the new Laird of Stonedge. Along with Howa, Scott’s part was valued at £856 12s, with Elliot of Stonedge holding lands at the same time that were valued at £676 14s 8d. In 1766 the eastern part was valued at £412 19s 6d, with the superiority liferented by Elliot of Borthwickbrae, while the western part was valued at £842 6s. Adam Scott’s son Thomas sold his lands to Robert Lisle. Part (including Unthank) was also sold to Elliot of Woollee. In about 1788 it was listed as being disjoined from the Stobs estate and valued at £1300 in total, Elliot of Wolfelee holding lands in Stonedge valued at £112 5s 7d, while Robert Lisle’s part was valued at £1187 14s 5d, and Cornelius Elliot of Wolfelee also owned small parts valued (along with Unthank) at £110 17s 2d. Lisle sold his lands in 1793 to James Chisholme before the previous purchase had really been completed. In 1811 it was listed as being owned by Robert Lisle and valued at about £1200. It passed through marriage to the Sinclairs, being owned by Lord Sinclair by about 1874. Robert Grieve (who died in 1785) was tenant farmer there. James Stewart was shepherd there in 1797. Lands formerly in Stonedge (including Unthank) were listed among the properties of Cornelius Elliot of Woollee in 1811, valued at £112 5s 7d. The farm was tenanted by Thorburns through much of the 19th century and by the Barrie family into the 20th century. The original house was a strong tower situated on a rocky ledge, said to be surrounded by a very thick wall. All sign of this was already gone by the 19th century, although it is said that Mr. Barrie (who lived at Harden) picked up the old key to the peel and passed it on to the Marquis of Lothian. It was stated in the 19th century that there is a stone circle near here, in the direction towards Shankend, although if it existed it is now lost (many spelling variants exist in earlier documents, including ‘Steinleath’; it is ‘Stainlethe’ in 1562, ‘Stenyleche’ in 1567, ‘Stonyleche’ and ‘Stonylethe’ in 1590, ‘Stanieleche’ and ‘Stainieleche’ in 1603, ‘Stanylede’ in 1604, ‘Stanylede’ and ‘Sternledrig’ in 1606, ‘Stennylede’ and ‘Staneleiche’ in 1607, ‘Staineleche’ and ‘Stenylethe’ in 1609, ‘Stanieleche’ in 1611, ‘Stanylede’ in 1612 and 1615, ‘Stainlede’ in 1616, ‘Stanylede’ in 1647, ‘Stainlede’ in 1648, ‘Stennilede’ in 1677, ‘Stennilede’ in 1682, ‘Stennelede’ in 1692, ‘Stennilede’ in 1694, ‘Stanylede’ in 1704 and ‘Standilldre’ in 1748; it is marked as ‘Stennaleuch’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map; note that the J has persisted in the local pronunciation despite the official spelling, and that the pronunciation is never stān-; the meaning is probably ‘stane leche’, meaning ‘stony stream’).

Stonedge (sten-leeg, stō-nej) n. John (13th/14th C.) recorded as being ‘de Stonesleghe’ when he signed the Ragman Rolls in 1296. Although his name has also been transcribed as ‘Scouneslegh’, the more modern transcription makes the connection with the lands in Hobkirk Parish clear. His seal bore a ‘cabossed’ stag’s head with a cross between the antlers and the name ‘S’... OHIS DE STYKS’Y’?; William of Yetholm had a similar seal. He is ‘de Stonesleghe’ in 1303/4 on an inquest for inheritance of the half barony of Wilton.

Stonedge Hill (stō-nej-hil) n. hill lying to the south-west of Stonedge farm, reaching a height of 369 m. On its western side is a linear earthwork, some 330 m in length, probably an agricultural boundary, now obscured by the forestry plantation. Near the top of the hill there was previously a cairn, probably quite ancient, but now obliterated by forestry ploughing.

Stonefield see Stonyfield

Stoney Brae see the Staney Brae

Stonie Stewart see Staney Stewart

stooden (stoo-din) pp. stood – ‘A got stooden on be a muckle cairst horse’ (cf. the older stuidden; this is the past participle of stan or ‘stand’, with the past tense being stuid or ‘stood’).

stook (stook) n. a shock of cut sheaves, often placed upright to dry, a haystack – ‘18 Ma. they sher out the coufald and ther was 21 threfs’ [1690/HAST1905], ‘...some of the horse ... broke in through the growing corn and stouks of Newbigging where they did damage ...’ [C&L1767], ‘Thomas Turnbull one day caught her stealing oats from the stooks in a field where she was gleaning’ [GT], ‘At restin’ time among the stooks I sat upon his knee ...’ [JT], ‘The harvest sun shines through the trees An’ lightens the stooks an’ the stan’in corn ...’ [FGS], v. to set up sheaves – ‘...Or prank among the stook-ed corn, Till day was on the turn’ [WFC].

stokie (stoo-kee) n. stucco, plaster of Paris, also used in analogy with a plaster statue to mean someone who feels foolish and out of place – ‘oo felt like a right couple o stookies’, ‘Muckle stook-ies’ with red cheeks and a pronounced ‘country loup’ [BB].

stood (stoond) n.., arch., poet. a throb, ache, sharp pain – ‘...Wakes in my breist the tender-est stound nae mair’ [WL], ‘...Or, strakkit wi a stound o conscience, to face A vinegar wise owre a preen-cushion dish o potted herring ...’ [DH], a blow, start – ‘But od! sic a stound as he got when he came’ [Joha], v. to throb – ‘...the sicht garrd the guitter-bluid lowpin and puttin an stooning throwe aa ma book’ [ECS], to stupefy, resound – ‘...When ilk ane kens as he stoons wi’ pride, That the pick o’ the basket’s at his side’ [WL] (also spelled ‘stoned’).

stoor (stoor, stowr) n. dust, originally a swirl of dust in motion, but also applied to dust in general – ‘mercy, look it the stoor ahint that!’ ‘Than did I dust in motion, but also applied to dust in general...’ [HSR], ‘...the motor birls up the stoor on the Jethart road’ [ECS], ‘Everly, whan A haiggle...’ [ECS], ‘The hervest sun shines through the trees An’ lichtens the stooks an’ the stan’in corn...’ [C&L1767], ‘Thomas Turnbull one day caught her stealing oats from the stooks in a field where she was gleaning’ [GT], ‘At restin’ time among the stooks I sat upon his knee ...’ [JT], ‘The harvest sun shines through the trees An’ lightens the stooks an’ the stan’in corn ...’ [FGS], v. to set up sheaves – ‘...Or prank among the stook-ed corn, Till day was on the turn’ [WFC].
...’[DH], ‘...To wat his mooth, stoure dry’[WL], ‘...And muckle stoor these auld wives made, The neibours all were fair dismayed’[WFC], powdery substance in general – ‘A’ white as any miller Wi’ stowre that day’[JoHa], v., arch. to be wind-blown like dust – ‘And the spraye came stourin back i’ their face, Frae the stree of Lucky Skræe’[JTe], ‘The apples stoor’d o’ the stance’[GW] (see also the related stour: from Old French ‘estour’, for tumult; also spelled ‘stour’ and ‘stoure’).

stoorie (stoo-ree) adj. dusty – ‘But never think to dit my shameless een, Wi’ stoury hopes o’ richly giltit name’[JoHa], ‘The rank an’ file rub stoorie een, An’ a’ concerned May greet an’ grane ...’[FL], ‘...wui stooiry caa aairget an spatches an faizzent-ends, an skuhlfinn wurn inti bauchels’[ECS], ‘...callar waiter To slocken the stoorie road to fresh tents and pint-pots new ...’[DH] (also ‘stoory’ and ‘stoury’; cf. the related stourie).

stoor-lookin (stoor-loo-kin) adj., arch. sturdy-looking (also written ‘stour-lookin’).

stoor-sel (stoor-sel) n., adj. covered with dust, literally ‘stoor itself’ or ‘stoor’s self’ – ‘A’v been oot bittlin thae rugs; thay war fair stoor’s sel’[ECS] (cf. glaur-sel and muck-sel).

stoot (stoo) adj. stout, firm – ‘For ther ar nae bands in their deaith, but thair strench is stoot’[HSR], ‘...An’ she’s quick oan her feet, for sic a stoot cratur’’[IJ], ‘...Stoot o’ quill an’ resolute, Sin sorted that toon council oot’[MB].

stootest (stoo-tist) adj. stoutest, fattest – ‘The angir o’ God cam’ apon thame and sleyet the stootist o’ thame ...’[HSR].

stooth see stouth

stop (stop) v. to stay, reside, especially to stay somewhere temporarily – ‘where div ce ee stop when ee’re back in Hawick?’, ‘Note that ti beide gives more the impression of to dwell permanently: Whae ir ee stoapin wui, thin, aa week? Div ee leike ti beide up Ingland’[ECS], ‘...but faith, it didna maitter much, he could easily hae stopped wi’ us’[WaB] (also written ‘stoap’).

Stopford Street (stop-ford-stree) n. street in Newcastleton off South Hermitage Street, opposite Copshaw Place.

stop or lat (stop-or-la) v., arch. to try to prevent someone from causing harm, literally to ‘let and stop’ – ‘...that he may stope or latt ...’[1622 Circuit Court records], ‘...which did without any stoppe or let occasione ane great disturbance, confusionne, and mutinie amonst the other civil inhabitants of the said towne ...’[BR1706] (spelling varied).

stoppit (sto-peer) pp. stopped – ‘hei was stoppit be the polis’ – ‘A cood heh fund eet i ma hert ti hieh stoppet an gane i in for a dook’[ECS], stayed, resided – ‘they stoppit it the fit o the Howegate’.

the Store (tho-stoor) n. Hawick Cooperative Store, which opened in 1839 as ‘the Chartist Store’ with a small shop in Silver Street. It grew into a set of around half a dozen general stores, 5 butchers, a bakers’ shop (from 1851), shoe shop (1859), coal branch (1865), drapery (1873), carting (1874), van service to the country (1884) and penny savings bank (1887). The firm also ran its own stocking-makers at the old Tabernacle building in the years 1874–81. The stableyards and dairy were built on Orchard Terrace in 1891 (designed by J.P. Alison). The main shop, usually the one referred to as ‘the Store’, stretched from Tannage Close to Baker Street and from the High Street to Teviot Crescent. It contained many departments, including clothing, electrical, shoes, furniture, toys, ladies hairdressing and a tea room. This main building was constructed in 1885 at 65, 67, 69 and 71 High Street, with the surviving upper level frontage at 65–67 designed by local architect Michael Brodie in a French Renaissance style; this is a category B listed building. This was Hawick’s biggest department store, with smaller shops elsewhere in town. Shoppers collected stamps that could be redeemed for goods, and departments within the ‘Store’ communicated via characteristic pneumatic tubes. The main shop closed in 1987, with the property sold off to several developers. The Co-op at Burnfoot remains, however. A history was published in 1889 – ‘There er peis, peis. Thit come up ti yer kines, In the Store, in the Store, In Hawick Co-operative Store!’[T], ‘...waitin eer turn at the Store’[ECS], ‘In Hawick in days lang syne When the world and huiz were younger Oo dune oor messages at the Store A still can mind ma number’[IWL].

the Store Dairy (tho-stoor-daa-ree) n. building and yard on Orchard Terrace and Elm Grove, constructed for use by Hawick Cooperative Society. It was built in 1891, designed by ??, and used to run the Store’s dairy operations through most of the 20th century. The buildings were converted into Elm Court housing.

the Store Field (tho-stoor-feeld) n. field once grazed by the Hawick Co-op cows, situated behind Wester Braid Road, near the Miller’s Knowes. The Co-op employees used to organise an annual sports day and picnic there, as a sort of forerunner to the Vertish Hill Sports – ‘The picnic up at the Store Field The whole o’ Hawick was there’ [AY], the Store van (thu-stōr-vawn) n. van that used to sell grocery items around the town. The vans started as a country delivery service in 1884 and continued into the latter part of the 20th century – ‘...wi’ a biscuit in my hand Fresh frae the lang mysterious spicy drawer O’ the Store van’ [DH].

Storff Burn (stor-f-burn) n. small stream in upper Liddesdale, rising on Larriston Fells and flowing roughly north-west to join Great Warrington Sike, before eventually running into Larriston Burn.

Storff Sike (stor-f-sik) n. small stream in upper Liddesdale, which rises on Larriston Fells and is joined by Little Warrington Sike. Note that it distinct from Storff Burn, which lies further south.

storffully (stōr-fi-leec) adv., arch. excitable, in an agitated way – ‘...and then if she carries on storffully, as she’s amaist shure to do, thrav half-a-dozen o’ plates or sae doon i’ the floor ...’ [HAST1868] (cf. stoor and stour).

Storie (stō-ree) n. Adam (17th C.) tenant in Chester-house in Rulewater. In 1684 he was listed among men declared as fugitives for attending field conventicles. Cuthbert (17th C.) recorded in 1627 as ‘Cuthbert Storey of Hawicke’ in a presentment where 13 sheep were stolen from him. This is Hawick in Northumberland. David (b.1809/10) born in Morebattle, he was an agricultural labourer. In 1841 he was at Howeurchshiel, in 1851 at Clarilaw in Bowden and in 1861 was shepherd at Nether Tofts in Kirkton Parish. He married Janet Lunn in 1833. Their children included: Margaret (b.1834); Elizabeth (b.1836); Euphemia (b.1839); William (b.1841); Fanny (b.1844); Janet (b.c.1848); Joan (b.c.1849); Mary (b.c.1851); Ellen (b.c.1854); Robina (b.c.1855); and David (b.c.1857). Gideon (18th C.) from Ashkirk Parish, he was recorded at Roughheugh in Wilton in 1735. In 1727 he married Isobel Brown, who was also from Ashkirk. Their children (baptised in Wilton) included: John (b.1731); and Elspeth (b.1735). The witnesses in 1735 were Robert Scott and Robert Storie (who was surely related). Harry (?– ) Common Riding Song Singer 1950s?–1972. Apparently there were some complaints about his over-gesticulating! Helen (15th C.) listed at the 1493 Justice-aire in Jedburgh when William Douglas of Cavers was fined for her non-appearance. She was listed again in 1494/5. Other people who were not entered by the Sheriff were fairly local (but she is one of the only women). James (16th C.) holder of a particate of land on the north side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. He may have been related to William. James (16th C.) servant of Gavin Elliott of Stobs and Jean Scott. In 1573 he was placed on their recently purchased 6 merk land of Chamberlain Newton. However, he was attacked by Walter and John Scott (sons of Margaret Turnbull, who was widow of David Elliot in Chamberlain Newton), who possessed the other half of the farm. They ‘crewellige sett upoun him, hurt and voundit him in sindrie partis of his body, and left him for deid; of the quhilkis hurt as yit he is in danger of his lyfe’. It is unknown whether or not he survived. James (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed in the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He probably farmed near Newton. He may be the James ‘in Spittle’ whose will was recorded in 1681 (if he made a testament long before he died), or else they were father and son. Either he or a near relative was probably the ‘Laird Storie’ whose lands in Ruecastle in Bedrule Parish were valued at £18 in 1643, 1663 and 1678. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He is recorded as ‘undermiller att ...’ (probably Newmill) in 1700. His children included: William (b.1693); Bessie (b.1698); and Anna (b.1700). The witnesses in 1698 were Robert Thomson and John Goodfellow and in 1700 were James Craw and James Dryden, smith at Newmill. James (d.bef. 1741) from Ancrum Parish. In 1718 he married Jean Bennet, who was from Bedrule Parish. In 1741 his widow gave money to the poor in Ancrum Parish, owing from her husband. James (d.1797) from Rulewater, he died at Robert Biggar’s Inn in Hawick in 1797. He could be the James who married Elizabeth Henderson in Bedrule in 1755, and his wife could be the widow of that name who died later the same year in Silver Street. James (19th C.) local man known for his poetry. He competed in the ‘Auld Brig’ competition and published ‘Poems on several subjects’ (1837). He was said to be a repository of local stories relating to the Covenanters. He could be the labourer, born at Southdean in about 1780, who was recorded at about 71 High Street in 1841 and on Brougham Place in 1851. John (15th C.) received a boll of victuals in the will of Sir David Scott of Branxholme in 1491/2. He is listed as ‘Johanni Storisi’. John (16th C.) recorded as ‘John Story’ on a list of tenants of Newton in Bedrule in 1531.
Storiesteed

(17th C.) recorded as tenant in Roughlee in a 1669 rental roll of Jedforest. He is listed along with Robert, to whom he was surely related. John (17th C.) tenant in ‘Roods’ (or ‘Rodes’) in Southdean Parish according to the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694. John (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Easter Alemoor in 1757 (when he was ‘younger’, suggesting his father was also John) and at ‘Harden anna’ in 1762. He married Marion Borthwick. His children included: John (b.1757); and elen (b.1762). John (18th/19th C.) gardener in Hawick. He was already deceased in 1815 when his wife Isabel Watson died.

John (19th C.) married Margaret Hobkirk in Hawick Parish in 1849. Patrick (16th/17th C.) tenant in ‘Rowll Spittell’ (i.e. Spittal-on-Rule). In 1605 Robert Scott of Thirlestane was cautioned for Scott of Dykes in a bond not to harm him. Robert (17th C.) resident of the old Hasseendean Parish. He was recorded at Over Boonraw in 1688. He married Isobel Wright in 1679 and their children (baptised in Roberton Parish) included: Isobel (b.1680); Margaret (b.1682); Bessie (b.1684); Walter (b.1686); and Robert (b.1688). The witnesses in 1684 were Robert and George Ormiston (who lived at Boonraw), in 1686 were William Nichol and Adam Scott and in 1688 were again George and Robert Ormiston. He witnessed a baptism for Robert Ormiston in 1684. Along with Robert Ormiston, he witnessed a baptism for Robert Nichol in Boonraw in 1696. Robert (17th C.) recorded as tenant in Roughlee in a 1669 rental roll of Jedforest. John was also second there and so presumably related. Robert (17th C.) resident of Denholm on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Elizabeth Cavers in Wilton in 1720 and their children included: Christian (b.1723); and John (b.1726). He is probably the Robert who witnessed baptisms in 1725 for William Scott in Newton and in 1735 for Gideon in Roughheugh. Robert (b.c.1805) joiner at Branxholme Woodfoot. His wife was Betty and their children included Jean, Thomas, Margaret, Robert, Janet and George. Robert (b.1812/3) born in Lilliesleaf, he was a groom who lived at Falnash. His wife was Janet Middlemas, and already dead by 1861. His children included Helen, George and Robert, and he had a nephew, William Easton. Thomas (d.bef. 1632) described as ‘in Rouycastle’ in 1632 when his widow Bessie Craik feued lands in Ruecastle from Thomas Hamilton, Lord Binning. Thomas (17th C.) tenant at Acreknowe (along with William Armstrong) recorded on the 1684 list of men declared fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. Thomas (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He is surely descended from the ‘Laird Storie’ who in 1643 owned the same piece of land, which later became part of the Knowesouth estate. Thomas (18th/19th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish. He owned part of the old lands of Ruecastle, as recorded in 1788, with value £18 (plus teinds). Probably the same Thomas was recorded paying the Land Tax for part of Ruecastle in 1811. Thomas (b.1793/4) blacksmith in Newcastleton, at about 40 South Heritage Street. He was listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories and Slater’s 1852 directory. His wife was Janet, and their children included William, Walter, Helen, Matthew, Nichol and Janet. William (16th C.) holder of a particate of land on the north side of the public street according to Hawick’s 1537 Charter. William (16th C.) recorded in 1551 as then occupier of an acre of arable land in the lands of Spittal-on-Rule, specifically on ‘lie Harparhill’ (whose location is unknown), which was granted by the Baron of Cavers to Archibald Elliot in Gorrenberry. He witnessed the associated notorial instrument and letter of reversion, along with 2 men called Alexander ‘Wreth’, one of whom was a miller. William (17th C.) recorded as ‘in Weynis’ (probably Weens in Rulewater) when he witnessed a Rulewater sasine in 1631. William (17th C.) listed at Wadeshill among the poor of Southdean Parish in the 1694 Hearth Tax Rolls (also formerly spelled ‘Storey’, ‘Storrie’, ‘Story’ and ‘Storry’).

Storiesteed (stö-ree-steed) n. former name for lands in Liddesdale, recorded in the 1541 rental roll, listed before Byreholm, and so presumably somewhere near Castleton. It appears as ‘Storeis- steid alias Gudelland’, with a value of 5 shillings and tenanted by Christopher Armstrong.

storm (sturm) v., arch. to beset or cover with snow or otherwise deprive livestock of pasture – The term ‘being stormed’ was originally used to express the want of food suffered by sheep when the ground was covered with snow’[RB].

storm-staad (stör-m-staawd) adj., arch. delayed because of a storm – ‘Storm-staad (stawd) = starom-stayed; delayed by stormy weather whilst on a journey or errand’[ECS] (see also staa).

storm-staad adj., arch. delayed because of a storm – ‘Storm-staad (stawd) = starom-stayed; delayed by stormy weather whilst on a journey or errand’ [ECS] (see also staa) Storrey (stö-ree) n. J.B.S. (?–??) writer of the local poem ‘A Sonnet’.

Storrie (stö-ree) n. Arthur B. (19th/20th C.) captain of the Hawick rugby team that beat Gala away in 1893 to take the Border championship.

stot (sto’) v. to bounce, rebound – ‘wull ee stop stottin yer baa off ma waa?’, ‘…And the star beame stottit out of the way, When it saw the ryders come’ [JTe], ‘The rain had been fair stottit at Jethart an it wasneh muckle better at Selkirk’, ‘The rain was fairly stottin As I’d never seen’t afore’ [WL], ‘…Stottit’on Drummond’s gable waa’ [WL], to stagger, reel, walk unsteadily – ‘hei was stottin drunk’, to walk with a deliberate bounce, bustle – ‘Farmer bodies, awfu’ rude, In wrath aboot were stottitin’’ [GW], (also sometimes ‘stoat’).

stot (sto’) n., arch. a bullock, castrated bull, usually in its second or later year – ‘Item, nye stottis and queysis of tua zeir auldis, price of the pece ourheid, xl s.’ [SB1574], ‘…stotis and queysis of twa zeir auldis, 3s. 4d.’ [JW], ‘God send the land deliverance Frae every reaving, riding Scot: We’ll sune hae neither cow nor ewe, We’ll sune hae nei-ther staig nor stot’ [LHTB], ‘I wull tak’ nae stot owt o’ thy hous …’ [HSR], ‘This alsua sall plse the Lord mair nor ane stot or bullok that heth cluts an’ hoorns’ [HSR], ‘Doddies an stirks an queys an stots’ [ECS], ‘A muckle jet-black Angus stot – I gey near fainted on the spot’ [TD], ‘And this ye may take as Wat Harden’s word: Each stot they ha’ stollen comes hame wi’ a herd!’ [WHO], ‘We met wi’ a rush i’ the pass, Wi’ a crash made the steel-frie fleel, But he fell like a stot on the grass; And wha daur meddle wi’ me?’ [T].

Stot (sto’) n., arch. James (18th C.) Hawick resident, married to Margaret Lyden. Their children included Charles (b.1723) and probably Margaret (b.1719). James (18th C.) Hawick resident. His wife was Margaret Cavers and their children included John (b.1730). James (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He is recorded at Highchesters in 1753. His children, baptised in Roberton Parish, included: Magdalen (b.1745); Margaret (b.1748); Margaret (again, b.1749); Agnes (b.1752); William (b.1753); and James (b.1755). Walter (18th C.) Hawick resident. His son James was born in 1734 (also written ‘Stott’; it is possible that some of these may be errors for ‘Scot’). saddler’s business and eventually it passed to his son David, who moved out of saddlery into sports equipment, fishing tackle and toys. Len Elliot took over the business in 1971 and it closed for good in 1989.

Stotter (sto’-ur) n. something that is an exceptional example of its kind, particularly used of an attractive person – ‘ee’re a wee stotter’.

Stotter (sto’-ur) v. to stagger, stumble, totter – ‘hei was stotterin hame as yiaisual’, ‘…with a sort of nervous excitement which made it stotter’ [HSR], ‘Thaye reel bak-an-forwart, an’ stotter like an drunken man …’ [HSR] (cf. steiter and stotter).

Stottin (sto’-in) adj. extremely drunk, so as to stagger about, raining so heavily that the drops are bouncing.

Stouk see stook

Stoun see stown

Stound see stooned

Stoup see stowp

Stour see stoor

Stour (stowr, stoor) n., arch. fuss, commotion, disturbance, hubbub – ‘…And the master kinket like to fa’, Withe laughing at the stoure’ [JTe], ‘Get up, my lads, and make a stour, And weel the fiddle screw!’ [WH], ‘But just in middle of the stour, Into the cottage sweepit A stranger’ [HSR], ‘…raisin at yeh whup a steer an a stoor, an gliffin auld folk an bairns, baith’ [ECS], a storm, tempest, blizzard – ‘But sic a stour I never saw, Wi’ maddened elemental strife’ [HSR], poet. strife, struggle, a battle, – ‘Yet up he raise, the truth to tell, And laid about him dunts fu’ dour: His horsemen they fought stout and snell, And stude to bustle, rush – ‘…and though it gard the divots stour off the house riggins and every caber duner …’ [EM1820] (see also the related stoor and storfully).

Stoure see stoor

Stourie (stowr-, stoo-ree) adj., poet. active, restless, excitabe (said of a young child) – ‘Cuddle doon ye stoorie loon – Yè wee croodlin’ doo’ [JT] (see also storie).

Stouslie (stooz-lee) n. farm and cottages out beyond Stitches, reached by the left hand road at the ‘Fower Road Ends’. The Lindsays held these lands as Barons of Chamberlain Newton from the time of David II (late 14th century). There were Turnbulls here in the late 1400s, when the lands were a Lairdship. Thomas ‘Trumbul’ of Stouslie was witness to a sasine in 1488. George Turnbull was recorded there in 1493 and Walter Turnbull in 1494/5. In 1494/5 Thomas and Adam Grahamlaw from Newton ‘came in the King’s will’ for stealing 60 sheep from here; these belonged to Walter Scott of Howpasley and Walter Turnbull of Stouslie, but were also said to pertain to the King. There were Scotts living here in the 1500s.

In the 16th century it was still part of the Barony of Chamberlain Newton, with superior being the Earls of Bothwell and then the Lords of Home. Scott of Satchells lists ‘John Scott in Stowslie’ as one of the 24 ‘Pensioners’ of Buccleuch. In 1643 it was valued at £67 3s 4d, along with Boonraw (‘but disjoined’) and recorded as ‘Stounlie [probably a transcription error for ‘Stouzlie’], or Stouslie, formerly in Hassendean Parish’. It was part of the estates of the Duchess of Buccleuch by the end of the 17th century. Mary Gledstains was liferenter of this farm and another (probably Boonraw) in 1643; she was probably widow of George Scott of Boonraw. Archibald Scott was liferenter there in about 1663, when he paid tax on £91 for the land. In 1678 George Scott paid land tax on £291 for these lands, along with Boonraw. John Henderson was living there in 1682. It was leased by George Scott of Boonraw and continued by his heirs in 1692. In 1690 the lands became part of Wilton Parish when Hassendean was suppressed. David Gray was recorded there in 1694. William Henderson was there in 1706. It was surveyed in 1718 along with other properties of the Scotts of Buccleuch, when it consisted of 101 acres, bounded by Boonraw, Hep, Wilton Common and Coldhouse. Thomas Stoddart was there in 1729 and William Nichol in 1735–37. Robert Scott died there in 1750. William Stewart was there in 1770–80. By 1788 it had been disjoined from Boonraw and was valued at £67 3s 4d. William Stewart was recorded there in 1770. The Cala Burn was the western boundary of the farm, with the farmhouse on the burns eastern side. One of the cottages was formerly a school administered by Wilton Parish. The Town Dump is nearby – ‘…His staghounds still in the leash are led, As he turns his eye to the Stowhouselea’ [BCM1880], ‘‘Owre the lang brae frae Stouzlie; Frae the mains o’ Stitches doun; How micht I come at the day’s end To the bonny Border toun?’” [WL] (also spelled ‘Stowzlie’, ‘Stouisle’, etc.; the origin of the name is possibly ‘Stuf’s wood’ from the rare Old English personal name ‘Stuf’, plus ‘leah’, a wood, or perhaps from the Old English ‘styb’, a tree stump; the name first appears as ‘Stowisle’ in about 1390: it is also ‘Stowislee’ in 1468, ‘Stowisle’ in 1488, ‘stowisle’ in Stouslie Schuil (stooz-lee-skill) n. former school at Stouslie, run as a country school by the Parish of Wilton, and later by Hawick. It was founded in 1789 and a small private endowment was set up by a few of the heritors in 1838. In the 1830s it had about 50 pupils. The school was also sometimes referred to as Priestrig Schuil. Schoolmasters included William Lockie 1806–43 and David Wells in the mid-19th century. The National Archive has records relating to the period 1874–1920.

Stovie
tattis
(stoo-veez) n., pl. a dish made of sliced potatoes stewed with onions, occasionally with dripping or small pieces of meat added – ‘oo aye liked ti hev stovies wi oor haggis’ (short for ‘stoved potatoes’).

stove (stōv) v., pl. to stew or steam, especially potatoes steamed in dripping after being boiled – ‘Ti stove taithils is to treat them, after they have been boiled, by ‘steaming’ them in dripping’ [ECS], ‘Kitken-fei was especially used when ‘stowin taithils’’ [ECS].

stovie tattis (stō-vee-ta’-iz) n., pl. stoved potatoes, also known as stovies – ‘... A plate o’ stovie tatties birstled broon, A kail pot steamin’ owre the fire’ [WL].

Stow (stow) n. town on the Gala Water, near the Moorfoot Hills, in the old county of Midlothian, and now in the Scottish Borders region. It is roughly half-way between Hawick and Edinburgh, and was a station on the Waverley Line. The road to Edinburgh via Stow (later the A7) was only opened in 1818, after which it has become well-known to all Teriess. The settlement was once known as ‘Stow of Wedale’. Formerly one of Scotland’s original seats of sanctuary, it was also the Bishop of St. Andrews summer residence. The ruined Old Kirk (late 15th century, having been repaired in the 17th century) replaced an older church of 1242 and an even older one allegedly built by King Arthur, and holding a piece of the ‘true cross’. An ancient broch, Bow Castle and the 1654–55 Pack-horse Bridge are nearby. The town probably achieved burgh status in 1699. Population (1991) 528 – ‘Syne, up on the tap, wi’ a thankfu’ sigh, That its wark was gey weel throwe, Like a het-fit callant chased on by a whulp, It cam scamperin’ doon to Stow’ [WL].

Stowp (stowp) n., arch. a tankard, flaggon, jug, liquid measure, bucket, particularly a deep wooden vessel, narrowing towards the top, crossed by a fixed wooden handle, and used for fetching water from public wells – ‘For taking stowp (stowp) n., arch. a wooden post, support, stump – ‘...Wi’ cannle stoups lichtin the e'en’ [WL].

stowpit bed (stow-pit-bed) n., arch. a poster bed – ‘...round stowpit beds, kists, barells, tubbs, koags, and bickers ...’ [DMW1681].

Strachan (straw-chin) n. Henry (15th C.) witness to the charter of James Scott of Kirkurd, granting Galalaw to his son David in 1494. He is recorded as 'Henrico Strathauchin'. Rev. Ian M. minister of Ashkirk, linked with Selkirk. He worked with the Overseas Council in Ghana, then became minister at St. Paul’s, Cambuslang in 1966, moving to St. John’s, Gourock in 1971. He was involved with education, appeared on Scottish Television’s ‘Late Call’. He moved to Selkirk (linked with Ashkirk and Caddonfoot) in 1986. About 1990 he wrote ‘The Story of Ashkirk 1790–1990’ as part of bicentenary celebrations for the Parish Kirk. James (17th/18th C.) married Janet Wilson in Wilton in 1710. In 1711 he was living ‘with James Bell in Cavers But his Wife in Wilton burn’. His children included: Marion (b.1711); and James (b.1714). James (b.1778/9) from Elgin, he was a shopkeeper on the Crescent, listed in Pigot’s 1837 directory. In 1841 he was a handloom weaver, living at about 13 Strig Crescent with his wife Jane. In 1851 he was on the Kirkgate with his niece Elizabeth and a lodger. Rev. James (1783–1840) son of William, minister of Coulter, he was educated at Edinburgh University and licensed by the Presbytery of Biggar in 1805. He was assistant to Thomas Elliot of Cavers at some point and was himself presented as minister by George Douglas of Cavers in early 1809. He stayed there until his death. He was described as having ‘integrity of principle, uprightness of mind, straightforwardness of purpose ... and an uncompromising detestation of everything mean and dishonourable’ and his sermons were said to be particularly well-conceived, strong and elegant. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He married Jane Brown, daughter of the minister of Crailing. Their children were: William (1820–97), in H.M. Stationary Office; Janet Dawson (1821–1837); David (b.1823); a daughter who died young; James (b.1831), an army officer; Elizabeth Howison (b.1833); and Robert (b.1835). He wrote a description of the Parish of Cavers in 1839 (finished off by Henry Scott Riddell) for the New Statistical Account. 2 sermons preached on his death by David Stevenson, minister of Wilton, were published in 1840. Rev. James A. minister of Southdean (linked with Hob Kirk) 1838–88 (also written ‘Strachon’).

strack (strak) pp., arch. struck – ‘...a thocht strak mey a’ at aince that aw wad strike off, for a near cut, past the Bishop’s Stane’ [BCM1880] (past tense of ‘strike’, with the past participle being strucken).

strackit (stra-kee’, -ki’) pp., arch. struck – ‘...Or, strackit wi a stound o conscience, to face A vinegar wife owre a preen-cushion dish o potted herring ...’ [DH].

strae (strā) n., arch. straw, a thin person – ‘...For 20 thraives of ait strae £7; all Scots money’ [BR1638], ‘J. and N. Gladstains found guilty of stealing peats and strae, are sentenced to stand at the crosse ...’ [JW1700], ‘...and ‘afore the twa lads could hae steppit owre a strae,’ the deil exploded like a bombshell ...’ [EM1820], ‘The spindle, which was frequently of wood, was always thought to run most freely in a strae wisp, which very possibly it really did, as the silicious surface of the straw would cause little friction’ [HAST1868], ‘A lowly cot ’neath a roof o strae, And a little band that ha’e passed the deil exploded like a bombshell ...’ [HAST1868], ‘For 20 thraives of ait strae £7; all Scots money’ [BR1638], ‘J. and N. Gladstains found guilty of stealing peats and strae, are sentenced to stand at the crosse ...’ [JW1700], ‘...and ‘afore the twa lads could hae steppit owre a strae,’ the deil exploded like a bombshell ...’ [EM1820], ‘A vinegar wife owre a preen-cushion dish o potted herring ...’ [DH].

strae in a tanker (strāz-in-a-tawng-kur) n., arch. joke phrase for thin legs.

stragle (strā-gul) v. to straggle – ‘...the yeh stragglin street o Bosells’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘straggle’).

stragler (strā-glur) n. a straggler – ‘...A kindly bit word to a hert sair grievin’, A stragler helpit alang’ [WL].

straik (strāk) n., arch. a stroke, blow, strike – ‘...Item, whatsomever person that committs ryottis, in giving of dry cuffs and straiks, being tryit, sal pay 50 shillings ...’ [BR1640], ‘The Cumber-land reivers ken The straik ma airm can gie, An’ warily pass the glen, For wha daur meddle wi’ me?’ [T], ‘I wat he made the fire to flie Frae the strakes o’ his horse’s heels, When by the Soutra hill he flew As he’d been chased by delis’ [FL], ‘Remuve thy straik awa frae me ...’ [HSR], v., arch., poet. to stroke, streak – ‘He preened an’ straik’d his ae black suit, An’ thinkin’ hard, began to doot’ [WFC]. ‘Siccar the slow, slow fingers rub, Straikin without staw, Smoorin his name on the wa’ [DH] (also spelled ‘strake’; cf. drystraiks).

straiken (strä-kin) adj., pp., arch. stretched – ‘...board cloths, towels, spindles of worsted, straiken yarn ...’ [DMW1681].

straitley (strä-lee) adv., arch. strictly, without reservation – ‘...ovr wil is heirfor, and we charg zou stratlic, and commandis that ze incontinent ...’ [SB1500].

straitnin (strä’-nin) adj., arch. straitened, penurious – ‘...in case his then Wife the said Janet Wight now his Widow should be reduced to straitning circumstances’ [PR1751].

Straiton (strä’-in) n. John (18th/19th C.) carrier in Hawick. In 1795 he witnessed a baptism for William Wilson, his brother-in-law. In 1790 he married Agnes, younger daughter of Walter Wilson. Their children included: John (b.1791), who was a teacher in Haddington; Walter (b.1793); Oliver (b.1794), who had a hat shop in Dalkeith and lived for a while in Hawick; Catherine (b.1796); Margaret (b.1798); Betty (b.1799); Ann (b.1801); and William. The witnesses in 1795 were merchants William Wilson (his brother-in-law) and George Turnbull (who was married to his wife’s sister). He could be the John, son of Peter ‘Straiten’, born in Lilliesleaf in 1762. Oliver (b.1794) son of John and Agnes Wilson. He ran a hat shop in Dalkeith, and it is said he would regularly walk from there to Hawick, where he visited his relatives and may have purchased hats from William and James Wilson. He who lost his money through bank failure and later moved to Hawick, living in the house of William Wilson. It was said that he ‘had a scientific and literary turn of mind, and although most attentive and industrious, and very methodical in his habits, he did not possess much business aptitude’. Peter (18th C.) resident of Lilliesleaf. He married Elizabeth Oliver, and their children included: Peter (b.1759); John (b.1762); William (b.1764); Janet (b.1766); a son with indecipherable name (b.1768); and Elizabeth (b.1771). Peter (18th C.) paid the cart tax in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1785, when his name is listed as ‘Straton’. He is probably the Peter, son of Peter, born in Lilliesleaf in 1759 (also written ‘Straton’).

strake see strak

stramash (stra-mash) n., poet. confusion, uproar, tumult, commotion – ‘...but in the stramash naebody thoacht to ask thum for the money’ [IWL], ‘When I’m scunnered by a’ the stramash O’ the thrang, croudit streets in the toun ...’ [WL], ‘...when I cam on duty and fund a fine auld stramash gaun on’ [DH].

stramoosh (stra-mooosh) n., arch. commotion, uproar, squabble – ‘...maist deeven a daivert an donnert wul the rummellin dunner o an eend-on bizz – a stramoosh unendeen’ [ECS] (variant of stramash).

stramp (strawmp) v. to tread energetically, tramp, walk, stamp about – ‘Strampin’ up an doon the stairs’ [GW], ‘The Baronet stramped wi’ his fit’ [RW], ‘Alane they’re strampin’ on where mirk grows deeper’ [WL], ‘Weel he wad ken Wull Gotterson Wi’ his strampin’ ootsteek shoon’ [DH].

stramper (strawn-pur) n., arch. someone who treadis heavily, a trampler.

strampit (strawn-pee’, strawn-pi’) pp., adj. trampled, trodden down – ‘Thou hast strampet doun a’ thame that stravaig frae thy staatutes ...’ [HSR], ‘...or the snaw-bru’strampit inti a caald-broon platch’ [ECS], ‘Ee’ve straampeet eet doun a’ thame that stravaig frae thy staatutes ...’ [RGG].

strang (strang) adj., arch. strong – ‘Sure it were weil, had ilka thief Around his neck a halter strang; And curses heavy may they light On traitors vile oursel’s amang’ [LHTB], ‘...she was in an instant transformed into a ‘strang strappen hizzie’’ [EM1820], ‘...For weel thou knowest that SELF is strang, An’ money tempting’ [RDW], ‘He deliferet me frea my strang fane, an’ frea thame that haret me: for thaye wer ower strang for me’ [HSR], ‘Be thou my strang hous, whareuntill I may continwallie ressort ...’ [HSR], ‘My fishin’-wand, it’s strang and leish ...’ [DH], ‘Strang airmes, I’ll strang airmes ye, now I’ve gien fair doun a’ thame that stravaig frae thy staatutes ...’ [JEDM], ‘Here’s to auld Hawick, now grown aulder than ever, Yet the aulder she grows the mair and mair strang’ [JEDM], ‘...And strang was the stench o’ kye’ [WL].

Strang (strang) n. William (17th C.) servant to Walter Earl of Buccleuch. He was listed in the deceased Earl’s inventory in 1633, when he was owed for his annual fee. It is unclear if he was a servant at Branxholme or in Edinburgh or elsewhere.

Strange (stränj) n. name used in the 19th century (as described by Jeffreys) for the land between the Rule and Jed valleys, which was formerly ‘Strynds’, possessed by the Olivers in the 15th and 16th centuries. Walter Turnbull was there in 1682. John was recorded as tenant there in 1689. The residents recorded on the 1694 Hearth Tax Rolls were George Oliver and John Oliver. The location is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map, and can be seen in aerial photographs, near a fork in the stream and just to the east of a small pond (it is ‘Strang’ in 1694; see also Strynds, Strangeburnfit and Strangeburnheid: the pronunciation may have been strīnj, evolving from ‘strynds’).

Strangeburnfit (strān-burn-fī’) n. former farmstead in Abbotrule Parish. It is recorded in 1774 when there were Sintons there.

Strangeburnheid (strīn-j-burn-heed) n. former farmstead between the Rule and Jed valleys. It lay between Burnbrae and Ashtrees, and is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map as just ‘Strange’. It is unclear which stream this corresponds to on modern maps. The land here was once ‘Stryndis’, a main seat of the Olivers (see Strange).

strange (strān) v. to strange – ‘come here so A can strangel ee’ (also spelled ‘strangul’; note no hard g sound).

stranger (strān-ur) adj. stronger – ‘The Lord refreshenin, wull mak’ him stronger on the bed o’ langwishmint’ [HSR].

stranger (strān-jur) n., arch. an object supposedly presaging an unexpected visitor, particularly a tea-leaf floating on the surface – ‘Yin Common Ridin mornin Ma mother says ti mei ‘Ee’d beter watch eer-sul, lass, Here’s a ‘stranger’ in eer tei’’ [DH].

stranghald (strāng-hawld) n., poet. a stronghold – ‘For thou art my rok an’ my stranghald . . .’ [HSR], ‘. . . thou hest broucht his stranghalds til uutter wrecke’ [HSR].

strangul see strangel

the strap (thu-strap) n. the belt, tawse.

strath (strāth) n., poet. a river valley, especially a broad flat area – ‘Lone was the strath where he cross’d their path. And wide did the heath extend. The Knight in Green on that moor is seen At every seven years’ end’ [JL], ‘The other valley, or strath, is that along the sides of the Liddal’ [RAP], ‘Look down the strath on harvest rig. See lads and lassies neat and trig . . .’ [TCh], ‘. . . tum and strath. And ben and loch . . . laich and howe and island . . .’ [DH] (not a local word).

Strathearn (stra-thern) n. Thomas (1830–86) stockingmaker by trade who first sung ‘The Star o’ Robbie Burns’ at the 1879 Burns Club dinner.

Strathmore (strāth-môr) n. Victorian house on East Stewart Place, now split into flats. It was designed by J.P. Alison in 1896.

straucht (straucht) adj., arch., poet. straight – ‘. . . his lang black goun hang straucht to his cutes ne’er i’ the least curfuffled’ [EM1820], ‘. . . mak’ thy wavy straucht afore my face’ [HSR], ‘I that was aince straucht and swack and souple . . .’ [WL], ‘. . . O yon arra-heid o geese, Straucht-craigit and shair, I’ the reid-rose, the caller, the clear, Sunset air!’ [DH] (cf. strecht).

strauchter (straucht-tur) adj., arch., poet. straighter – ‘But some was ventur a wee thing strauchter Wi’ frank opinions o’ Juden’s doughter’ [WL].

stravage see stravaig

stravaig (stra-vâg) v., poet. to wander aimlessly, roam – ‘The Hawick youths were an annoyance on Sabbath to Mr. Duncan during the service. A band of these ‘stravaging’ lads dandered into the meeting-house . . .’ [BP], ‘Thou hest strampet doun a’ thame that stravaig free thy staatutes . . .’ [HSR], ‘An now, aabody stravaigin the Borderland . . . soo den Peinelheuch’ [ECS], ‘Stravaigin’ thocht beset me: How forty ‘eer had passed Yet strengthening ties o’ kinship Had brocht me back at last’ [DH], ‘. . . To guide ma stravaigin’ feet owre Scotland!’ [DH], ‘. . . And oh, ye offer the namely hearth To your wayward, stravaigin bairns’ [WL], ‘. . . stravaigin oor weel loved Border hills’ [IW], (from Latin).

stravaiger (stra-vâ-gur) n., arch., poet. a wanderer, vagabond – ‘Let his childer be continвалie stravaigers an’ beg derer, vagabond { ‘Let his childer be continvalie stravaigers an’ beg derer, vagabond’ [WL].

stravaiget (stra-vâ-geit, -i’) pp., poet. wandered, erred – ‘. . . naethless I stravaigetna frae thy preceeps’ [HSR].

strave (strâv) pp., arch. strove, strived – ‘Now wi’ the gear he strave to hain, He gets a sma’ shop o’ his ain’ [RDW], ‘Pleed my caus, O Lord, wi’ the gear he strave to hain, He gets a sma’ shop o’ his ain’ [RDW], ‘Pleed my caus, O Lord, wi’ the gear he strave to hain, He gets a sma’ shop o’ his ain’ [RDW], ‘Pleed my caus, O Lord, wi’ the gear he strave to hain, He gets a sma’ shop o’ his ain’ [RDW], ‘Pleed my caus, O Lord, wi’ the gear he strave to hain, He gets a sma’ shop o’ his ain’ [RDW].

straw (straw) v., arch. to strew.
strechten

yin, strecht an’ sherp’s a knife, Let cauld ambition rule his life . . .’ [WP], adv., arch. straight – ‘. . . an I hoyed strecht for the ‘clachin’ ’ [ECS], ‘Be shuir at ee gaun strecht hyimm’ [ECS], ‘. . . An’ strecht ti Heaven he wad steer’ [WP], ‘. . . Juist hand strecht doon bye the Gas Works, And ye’re there’, says Robbie Dye’ [DH], ‘. . . first frae the yin side, and then the t’other – to make shair it was strecht’ [DH], n., arch. a straight (cf. straucht and streicht.

strechten (streich-tin) v., arch. to straighten.

strechter (streich-tur) adj., arch. straighter – ‘. . . Tae gar her een sei streichter’ [JSB].

strechtings (streich-tinz) n., arch. use in the phrase ‘Everything’s strechtings’ in the game of guinea, claiming a straight throw (possibly from ‘strecht yins’; see also eendins).

streech see streetch

streen (streen) v., arch. to strain, particularly an ankle (cf. streend).

streenend see streind

streek (streek) v. to stretch, stretch out – ‘. . . Wha soon shou’d be a Captain’s bride, And streek hersel’ down by his side, And take what fortune should betide; Tho’ she’s below his station’ [CPM], ‘But wi’ a deep and hollow grace, Streerk’t out a lang, sma’ arm o’ bane . . .’ [RDW], ‘. . . An’ gar the fitty streek her leg, An’ drive like Jehn’s berlin’ [JR], . . . Ethiopia sail sune strecke owt his han’s intill God’ [HSR], ‘. . . wha streekist owt the heavens like ane contain’ [HSR], ‘. . . But the hauffin streeks on the knowe back In the day’s heat’ [WL], ‘. . . But now it’s your turn To streek oot i the chair, Happed a’ in white At the ceiling to stare’ [DH], particularly to lay out a corpse, arch. to question closely (cf. streetch).

streeker (streek-kur) n., arch. a stretcher, particularly pole for stretching out a washing line (cf. the more common streetcher).

streekit (streek-ki”, -ki”) pp. stretched – ‘. . . or streeket owt our han’s til ane fremet god’ [HSR], ‘. . . Till him that streeket owt the heavens abone the waters . . .’ [HSR], ‘A ken o’ a stream lang streekit an’ blue . . .’ [JEDM], ‘Four hunder horseman in yeh streekt line . . .’ [JEDM], ‘A streeket masul oot on the gress’ [ECS], ‘. . . Till Providence cam clatterin wi a pail, And then streekit them safe i their din hoose’ [DH], questioned closely – ‘Oo wantet ti ken the richt way o’d, so oo streeket um wu’id’ [ECS].

streekit (streek-kee”, -ki”) pp. streaked.

streekin (stree-ki”) adj., arch. tall and agile (also written ‘strekkin’).

the Street (thru-stree”) n. common name for the High Street – ‘A’m gaun doon the Street ti dae ma messages’, ‘. . . ‘And on the street guid frends A see’ [IWL].

streach (streach) v. to stretch – ‘. . . yett ye will find when ye are come home that I have streetched my self to my power’ [SB1670], ‘The collie streeches 'yont the fire, While oot nearby him jinks a moose’ [WFC], n. a stretch – ‘. . . on the skleff, streech strecht at the head o the brac’ [ECS], ‘A wee bit streetch o’ level gun’ Weel sheltered frae the bitin’ wun’’ [WP], ‘Robert streetched along the pew, took her Bible and scribbled her a wee poetic note on the fly-leaf’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘streetch’; cf. streek).

streetcher (stree-chur) n. a long pole with a notch in one end, used to prop up a clothes line, a stretcher, someone who lays out corpses (also sometimes streeker).

street-wall (stree-wawl) n., arch. a public source of water (noted by E.C. Smith).

streicht (streich’t) adj., adv., arch. straight (cf. strecht) – ‘. . . Streicht to the pawnshop that’s kept by Milmoe’ [WE].

streikin-burd (strei-kin-burd) n., arch. a board for stretching out a corpse – ‘The joiner employed to make the coffin, on calling to receive his orders concerning the funeral arrangements, brought with him the ‘streikin-burd’ . . .’ [V&M]. streind (streen, streind) v., arch. to strain, sprain – ‘A’ve streended the leaders o ma neck’ [ECS], n. a sprain (also written ‘streind’; cf. streen).

streit (strei”) adj., adv., n. straight – ‘deh drink streit fri the bottle’ (cf. straucht, strecht, streicht).

streiten (strei”) v. to straighten – ‘streiten yer back laddie’.

streit-forrit (strei-fo-ti”) adj. straightforward – ‘she’s gei streit-forrit, no like that fither o hers’. streenth (strenth) n. strength – ‘. . . the quhilk Adam Cessfurde, bailzie, through the vertew and strent of his office . . .’ [JW] (note the pronunciation difference).

strethen (stren-thin) v. to strengthen (note that n replaces ng).

stress (stres) v., arch. to strain, overwork, cause exertion – ‘Braisslin on an stressin masel that gait’ [ECS], ‘. . . an forbye, it was harly the wather for stressin’ [ECS], worry – ‘‘Ti stress yin’s-se1 = . . . to worry or distress one’s-self’ [ECS].
stresst

stresst (strest) pp., adj., arch. in a state of over-exertion or worry (noted by E.C. Smith).
stric’ (strik) adj., arch. strict (also written ‘strick’).
striddle (stri-dul) v., arch. to straddle, sit astride a horse, walk with legs far apart – ‘When Hawick bonnie brig ye cross, An’ up the muir-lan’ striddle, Ye canna lang be at a loss, Ca’ in to Rummie Riddell’ [JR], ‘. . . While every Teri lad, Striddlin’ his gallant yaud Wad chase o’er the Nipknowes wi’ micht and wi’ main’ [JEDM], ‘I can mind how he striddled At the wundapane Watchin’ me shaw his neeps I’ the dirlin’ rain’ [DH], to pass sheaves to the stacker in reaping.
striddle-leggit (stri-dul-le-gee’, gi’) adj., arch. straddle-legged, having wide apart legs.
striddle-legs (stri-dul-legz) adv., arch. with legs straddle-wise, legs apart, astride – ‘Sometimes he would ride striddle-legs on the one stick and lick away with the other . . . ’[RM] (also ‘striddelly-legs’).
striddler (strid-lur) n., arch. someone who passes sheaves to the stacker during harvest, often the job of a young farm labourer.
strikes (striks) n., pl. labour organisation was very difficult in the early days of industry in Hawick. The first 1-day strike was in 1817, with workers coming out against John Scott. This and was followed by the ‘Lang Stand Oot’ later in that year, lasting several months. The unions were successful on that occasion and again in 1822, when employers were fined for reducing wages. The Hawick Framework Knitters Association was the first legal labour group, formed in 1840. The practice of charging employees rental for frames was stopped in 1871, and there was a gruelling 12 week strike over conditions in 1872/73. Strike action continued through the 20th century, as the hosiery, tweed and knitwear industries went through ups and downs. The most bitter strike in living memory was the 5 week long strike of workers against the Hawick Knitwear Manufacturers Association in 1972.
strike up (strik-up) v., arch. to break down a door – ‘Decerns Walter Scott in ane unlaw and fine of £10, for the striking up of Thomas Broun his dure . . . ’ [BR1650].
strip (strip) n. a long, narrow plantation of trees.
the Stripes (thu-stripés) n. former name for a field next to the Forman Hall in Roberton.
strippeet see strippit strippit (stri-pi’, stri-pee’) adj., pp. stripped – ‘Ma blue and reid strippeet belt And a new grey flannel shirt’ [AY], ‘An’ the butcher pit her mince in a wee reed strippeet bag And said, that’ll be yin pound thirty two . . . ’ [AlB], stripped – ‘When bud and blossom a’ are gone, And trees a’ stripit fairlie . . . ’ [DA] (also ‘stripit’).
Stripshelden (strip-sheel-din) n. lands recorded in about 1376 on a rental roll of Liddesdale. They were associated with the estate of Mangerton, recorded as ‘Strypscheiden’ and valued at 23 shillings. On the 1541 rental roll it is ‘Schiperschedden’, when it is valued at 20 shillings and tenanted by Henry and David Nixon. It is transcribed as ‘Sheipshelden’ in 1632 when possessed by Robert Pringle; it may have been part of the lands of the Lairds of Dinlabyre. William Elliot was tenant there in 1694. It is marked ‘Stapsheldenn’ on Blaen’a’s c.1654 map, on the east side of the Liddel Water from Riccarton, and marked ‘Shipshielden’ on Stobie’s 1770 map. It is ‘Shel- don’ on the 1841 census. On the 1863 Ordnance Survey map it is marked near the head of the Shelden Sike, which is south of Burnmouth farm (it is ‘Sheipshelden’ in 1694).
strive (striv) n. a strewing of coins (usually to children) so they have to scramble to pick them up, particularly after weddings and at certain Common Riding events – ‘Ai heather! sic a yooky strife’ [ECS], v. to throw money at a wedding or other occasion – ‘Ti strive = . . . to scatter largesse at a wedding (as per old custom) – past tense, striva (strave); past pple., strivvn (strivven)’ [ECS] (also written ‘streive’ and ‘streiv’; cf. waddin-strive). strives (strivz) n., pl. the scattering of coins for children during the Common Riding, taking place at: the Cornet’s house on Picking Night; the Town Hall steps after the Pickin; the Tower after each Ride-out; St. Leonard’s after the ‘Orderin o the Curds and Cream’; the Tower after the Thursday Night Chase; and St. Leonards after the Thursday Monring Chase.
stroan (stróan) v., arch. to urinate, gush, n. urination, the act of passing water (also written ‘stone’).
strods (strodz) n., pl. arch. the huff, a fit of ill-humour.
stroke (strók) pp., arch. struck – . . . stryke twyce Wm. Greenshiels with ane staff and there-after Wm. Greenshiels stroke at him with his bonnet’ [BR1710].
Strong (ströng) n. Dr. David Robert Thomson (b.1869) son of Rev. Dr. David, he graduated M.B., C.M. from Glasgow University in 1892. He stronger

was a doctor in Glasgow and then in Hawick. By 1901 he had moved to Essex.

stronger (strōng-ur) adj. stronger (note there is no hard g in the pronunciation).

strong witters (strōng-wit-urz) n., pl. arch. alcoholic beverages, spirits – ‘...the thrie bar-rels of strong watters coft be the said John Scott ...’ [BR1656].

stroonge (stroonj) v., arch. to take the pet, be sulky, adj. gruff, brusque, surly (probably a variant of ‘strange’).

stroongeness (stroonj-nis) n., arch. gruffness – ‘But dinna blame me for my endowness, Joost wyte thyssel for fateing me the sphere O’ rustic life; whilk gi’es me a stroongness Unlike the hinny o’ thy vot’ries dear’ [JoHa].

strooshie (stroo-shhee) n. a disturbance, hassle, quarrel, fuss, commotion, hurly-burly – ‘deh git in a strooshie’, ‘A lichtsome strooshie ... when the mills war skailin’ [ECS], ‘There’s an awfu’ steer an’ strooshie Gaun oan in Selkirk toon ...’ [IJ], v. to harry, become harried – ‘she was right strooshied wi the last meenit arrangements’, to scramble, strive – ‘...and the bawbees to be strooshied for by a group of boys’ [WNK] (note ‘stooshie’ or ‘strooshie’ are more common elsewhere in Scotland; see also struishie and strowshie).

strop (strop) n., arch. a string of beds, onions, etc. – ‘Some boys were rich in buttons, having perhaps thirty or forty on his ‘strop’’ [HAST1908], specifically a clump of red currants, v. to string together beads, trout, etc..

stroup (strowp) n., arch. a spout – ‘...a delft and a china punch bowl with a ‘timber’ (wooden) ladle, a ‘bottle stroup’ (a spout) ...’ [AOC].

strove (strow) v., arch. to strew – ‘The strae was strown’ [GW], n., arch. a mess, commotion, turmoil – ‘Num’rousions Legions Which breed an awfu’ strow in hell’s Dark gloomy regions’ [JR], ‘...in ov a hymmly bit away thre’ aa the strowe an’ the catter-battereen’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘strow’, but note pronunciation).

strowshie (stroo-shhee) n., arch. a disturbance, squabble, bustle (variant of strooshie).

strucken (stru-kin) pp. stricken, struck – ‘he was strucken off efter yon unsavoury business’ (also written ‘strukken’; this is the past participle form of ‘strike’, with the past tense sometimes being strack).

struishie (stri-, stru-shhee) n., arch. confusion because of a hurry, commotion, hurly-burly (variant of strooshie).

struishle (stru-shul) n., v., arch. struggle, toil.

strunt (strun) v., arch. to strut, walk haughtily – ‘...And think they’re men o’ muckle might – Pleas’d wi’ the thought gae struntin’’ [DH], to offend someone – ‘He strunted the puir lass’ [JoJ] (also the strunts).

struntin (strun-in) n., arch. a kind of coarse, narrow tape or braid – ‘When cottars liv’d on cogs o’ brose, An wi’ Stow struntin’ tied their hose’ [JR].

struntit (strun-ee’, strun-ti’) pp., arch. offended, huffed.

the strunts (thu-strunts) n., pl., arch. a fit of pique, the huff – ‘...And polishes up his binoculars For fear they hae taen the strunts’ [DH], ‘...that the trains are in the strunts, and dinna care whether they rin or no’’ [DH], sometimes singular – ‘He’s taen the strunt’ [GW].

strunty (strun-tee) adj., arch. pettish, huffy (see strunt).

the Struther (thu-stru-thur) n. familiar name for Williestruther – ‘Perhaps the scented road o’ pines To Struther’s loch beguiles ...’ [WFC].

Struthers (stru-thurz) n. Alan (14th C.) from the Northumberland family, he became Lord of Lyham through marriage. He was Sheriff of Roxburgh in 1368. The lands he held included the Hawick in Northumberland. In about 1370 he was ‘Alano de le Strother’ when he witnessed a grant by John Neville of lands in Lessuden to Melrose Abbey. His children included Alan (contemporary of Chaucer at Cambridge), Henry, William (married a daughter of the Mayor of Newcastle) and Joan. Sir Thomas (d.1395) probably son of Henry, who was Sheriff of Northumberland. He was likely to be the Sir Thomas ‘of Strother’ whose charters are included in the collection of David Laing (although that does not match with a death in 1395). He was appointed custodian of Jedburgh Castle in 1394. He was reputedly an English champion, who was marauding around the Scottish Borders, bragging that he would take on any Scotsman. The challenge was met by Sir William Inglis (then of Branxholme) at Rulehaugh, witnessed by Archibald, Earl of Douglas and Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland. Struthers was killed in single combat it is said. Other accounts describe how Inglis’ force had attempted to breach the Castle walls and after being repelled when the English soldiers returned from the town, he challenged Inglis to single combat for breaking the truce (also written ‘Strother’ etc.).

Strynds (strindz) n. former lands in the Rule valley, near Westerhouses, later known as `Strange'. This was home of a prominent branch of the Oliver family in the late 15th and early 16th centuries. Robert Oliver from there, along with 7 other Olivers and a Shiel, had remission in 1494/5 for the crime of communing with the English. Several members of the same family had remission for thefts and other crimes in 1502 in a number of cases. Later in 1502 4 Olivers from here were all found guilty of rieving crimes and probably hanged. This branch was said to never have been heard of again, although it was said to be related to the later Olivers of Lustruther. The lands were valued along with Westerhouses at £6 5s, according to the Exchequer Rolls in 1538 (and the comptroller was allowed the ‘ferness’ from there for that year), as well as 1539. Edward Oliver was there in 1541 and there were still Olivers there in the late 17th century (also ‘the Strynds’; it is written ‘le stryndis’ in 1494/5, ‘Stryndis’ and ‘Stryndes’ in 1502, ‘Stryndis’ and ‘Strydis’ in 1538 and ‘Stridis’ in 1539; the origin is probably the Old Scots word for rivulets; see also Strange).

St. Stephen’s Chaipel (sin-stee-vinz-chapel) n. Roman Catholic Chapel built in 1962 on Burnfoot Road (at the corner with Fairhurst Drive) to serve the Burnfoot area. The building has a novel triangular design with a high slender spire. In 1986 it was closed as a chapel, declared surplus to requirements and in 1988 sold by the Archdiocese to the Abundant Life Church.

Stuart see Stewart

stubborn (stu-brin) adj., arch. stubborn.

stuchin see stuckin

stucken (stu-kin) pp. stuck – ‘A got ma fit stucken doon a brander’, ‘I hae stukken untill thy testimonies …’ [HSR], ‘This was a fessener, an A was keinda stucken: : : : testimonies stucken doon a brander’, ‘I hae stuken untill thy ings or supplies such as food and drink (possibly the same name as the latter ‘Steedman’).

Studeman (stood-num) n. Janet (16th C.) merchant in Hawick who is mentioned in the last testament of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme in 1574. She was recorded being owed more than 120 pounds (Scots) ‘for furnesing of the place’, although it is unclear whether this meant furnishings or supplies such as food and drink (possibly the same name as the later ‘Steedman’).

studie stock (stu-dee-stok) n., arch. the block of wood on which an anvil is set – ‘Two persons are fined for violently, and in wrath, struggling with each other, and are one of them thrusting the other over the study stocke’ [JW1693].

stuffy (stu-fe) adj., arch. sturdy, robust, vigorous – ‘…a muckle big, bang fallih, braids-hooder, rash an stuffy …’ [ECS] (also ‘stuffie’).

stuid (stid, stüd) pp., arch. stood – ‘Just as he stude on the tap, aw gat a glimpse o’ his face …’ [BCM1880], ‘Oo’ve a Moat where Druids stuid, Oo’ve a sang that stirs the bluid O’ a’ Hawick’ [TK], ‘…another road-injin, wui the inspeirin name: Jethart’s Here!, stuid nerbby’ [ECS], ‘Their een set to a queer sicht, Three mensefu’ maisters stude …’ [WL] (also spelled ‘stude’; past tense of stan or ‘stand’, with the past participle being stooeden or stuidden).

stuidden (sti-din) pp., arch. stooeden, stood – ‘Thae twae’s stuidden beletherin an oor thegether: A’ll baet ee some puir sow’s geeting taipert off’ [ECS] (see the more common stooeden).

stuil see still

stuipit see stipit

stuir (stür) adj., arch. gruff, harsh, austere (pronounced with a deep vowel containing elements of i and aì).

stummle (stu-nul) v. to stumble – ‘…am apon me till eet up my nei, thaye stummelt an’ fell’ [HSR], ‘We’d hae a gill, and corn the cob, That noo could scarcely stumle’ (VW) (also spelled ‘stumble’, etc.).

Stumpie (stum-pee) n. tune the Drums and Fifes sometimes play, together with ‘Kate Dalrymple’, on Common Riding Saturday, for the Principals to dance the Bull Reel to. It is a traditional tune, recorded in the early 1700s, but probably much older. Burns used it as the melody for ‘Hap and row the Feetie o’t’ (also written ‘Stumpy’).

stunken (stung-kin) pp., arch. stunk.

stur (stür) n., arch. a stir, commotion – ‘… where there was an unordnair stirr for the teime o day’ [ECS], v. to stir – ‘Sturr up thysel, an’ awauken til my judgemint …’ [HSR], ‘Quick an stur thae tattih-brui, or thay’ll be aa suitten-on’ [ECS].

sture (stoor) adj., poet. stout, sturdy, stern, deep and hoarse (of a voice) – ‘And he took the blue booke from his breaste, The letters seemed to lowe, And read a solemn litanye, With a voice baithe the sture and howe’ [JTe].

Sturrock (stu-rok) n. Walter (19th C.) farmer at New Belses. He married Isobel Govenlock. Their children included David Allan (b.1874) and sturt (sturt, stur’t) n., poet. trouble, worry, vexation – ‘Scotland has cause to mak, grit sturt, For laiming o’ the laird o’ Mow’ [CPM], ‘…Hand coort aboon the sturt and strife’ [WL].
George Alexander (b.1881). He owned 11 Teviot Crescent.

stut (stu’t) v., arch. to stutter, sing stutteringly.

stuth (stuth) n., poet. a stud – ‘We wull mak’ thee boordirs o’ gwod, wi’ stuthis o’ siller’ [HSR].

stutter (stu’-ur) n., arch. a stutterer.

the Style (thu-stil) n. former shortened form of Kirkstyle – ‘It’ll yiblins be late ere hei comes back so Aw thocht if Aw ran over the now Aw might manage back tae the ‘Style’ afore uni’ [JEDM].

the Stylegate (thu-stil-ga’t) n. former tract of common land in Denholm, at the end of Canon-gate, having a style and a gate at both ends. There was also a spring here, which was used when the village’s pumps froze.

stymalt (sti-mul’t) n., arch. a short-sighted or stupid person ‘a blinnd steimalt’ [ECS], ‘A blind stymalt’ [GW] (there are spelling variations; from Old Scots ‘stymc’).

su’ (su) v. sat – ‘A sud-doon on ov a furm oot-bye’ [ECS] (also written ‘sud’; this form before a d sound; cf. sut).

sua (swa) adv., arch. so, hence, in the manner described – ‘…be the said Walter Scot, knicht, as sal ples hym, sua thai be maryit vpoun gentylmen bot disparising, the said Wal- tyr Scot …’ [SB1519], thus, the case – ‘…at no time hereafter, if sua be that the said intended agreement sall not not settle and tak effect …’ [BR1672] (also written ‘swa’; cf. the later sae and si).

sub (sub) n. a subscription, membership dues – ??.

submise (sub-mis) v., poet. to submit – ‘…throush the gritniss o’ thy powir sall thine enemies submisse thamesel’s til thee’ [HSR], ‘The hæters o’ the Lord shud hae submisset thamesel’s untill him …’ [HSR].

the Subscription Academy (thu-sub-skrip-shin-aw-ka-du-mee) n. another name for Hawick Academy. There was a school run out of the Subscription Rooms from about 1830, sometimes referred to as the Subscription School. It was renamed ‘the Subscription Academy’ in 1857 when J.A.H. Murray was invited to be headmaster (at age 17!). Not long after the school moved along Buccleuch Street to the former Quaker meeting house, and was then called ‘Hawick Academy’. It ran until 1865, after Murray had left for London. The ‘Subscription School’ meanwhile carried on with James C. Mudie as headmaster. Sometimes called ‘Hawick High School’, this ran until about 1874, when Mudie left town. Meanwhile Mudie’s assistant, James Brand, had left to start his own school in Union Street, which eventually became the senior part of the High School (the confusion and interconnection between the several Buccleuch Street schools makes some accounts very muddled!).

the Subscription Rooms (thu-sub-skrip-shin-roomz) n. building erected on Buccleuch Street in 1821 from public subscriptions, and used as an institute for the arts, as a library and as a public meeting place. The location is shown on Wood’s 1824 map. The foundation stone was laid with full Masonic honours, with a speech by Robert ‘Lurgie’ Wilson and a special verse by James Ruickbie. For the next few decades it was a popular venue for lectures, ‘magic lantern’ shows, concerts and related social gatherings. It was also used as the location for a private Academy, taught by Mr. Fleming 1837–40. Later it was rented to the Commercial Inn, although the main hall continued to be used for concerts etc. A particular event was a set of plays performed over 9 days by a company of actors (led by Burns Bryson, Keeley Halswelle and Gus Blake) from Edinburgh in October 1856, immortalised in the book ‘Noctes Hawickianae’. About 1864 it was sold to Mr. Mudie, who used it to run his private school, called ‘Hawick High School’, which was later taught by Mr. Brand, who moved to Union Street. It was also used for a while as the premises for the ‘West-end Academy’, taught by Mr. Brodie. In the 1890s it was purchased by James Bonsor’s hosiery mill who used it until the 1920s. It was then purchased by the Catholic church and converted (largely through voluntary work) to become the Halls for S.S. Mary & David’s Chapel next door. Until only a few years ago it had a frontage ornamented with a portico supported by 4 Grecian pillars. It was renovated in the early years of the 21st century and saw temporary use again as a school in 2006, housing pupils following the fire in Denholm – ‘This house a public building is design’d To gratify the curious mind; Subservient to the parson and the player, By turns a theatre, and a house of prayer’ [JR].

the Subscription Schuil (thu-sub-skrip-shin-skil) n. name used in the earlier part of the 19th century for the private school based at the subscribe (sub-skriv) v., arch. to subscribe, sign one’s name – ‘... subscrivyt upon ye fyftene day of Julii, anno 1627: viz., John Scot ...’ [PR1627], ‘In witness whereof I have subscrivyt ther presents with my hand, day, place, and yeir of God foresaid ...’ [BR1701].
Subscription Rooms (see also the Subscription Academy).

subscrivitat (sub-skriv-vee’) pp., arch. subscribed, signed one’s name – ‘...And for the mair secureit we haif subscrivyt this present band with our handes at the pen ...’ [RBA1561], ‘In witnes quhairoff we haue subscrivit thir present lettaris of slains, as efter followis, at Hawik ...’ [SB1581].

successful (suk-ses-fi) adj. successful.

successive (suk-se-seev) adv., arch. in succession, successively – ‘...and that without consent of the baylyes of the said burgh successive for the tymen’ [BR1699].

suckler (suk-, sook-lur) n., arch. an unweaned animal, used as a term of endearment or abuse – ‘...for calling Gilbert Watt, Toum-Clerk, ane suckler, and for other injurious words’ [BR1650].

the Suckler (thu-suk-lur) n. nickname for John Scott in the early 17th century.

sudd see su'

Suddie (su-dee) n. nickname for Walter Sutherland.

suddle (su-dul) v., arch. to soil, dirty, besmear.

suddlt (su-dul’) pp., arch. soiled, streaked with dirt – ‘...where yin braiths God’s air clear an no suddlt wui suitty flichts’ [ECS].

suddrenwud (sud-rin-wud) n., arch. southernwood, Artemisia arbotanum (also siddern-wud).

suffie (su-fe) n. sherbet.

Sufficient Hill (su-fi-shiin’hil) n. hill in Castle-ton Parish, south of Kirk Hill and west of Mangerton. It reaches a height of 204 m. There are several old enclosures there, with a ditch enclosing the summit, with cultivation terraces, rig lines, as well as the remains of a turf building. There is also a ‘burnt mound’ to the east and a possible boundary marker towards Kirk Hill.

sugarallie (shoo-gur-aw-lee) n., arch. an old fashioned name for liquorice – ‘Shaking ‘sugarally’ in a corked medicine bottle until it got black and frothy ...’ [BB], interj. used as a mild expletive, euphemistically for ‘shit’.

sugarallie witter (shoo-gur-aw-lee-wi’-ur) n. a children’s drink made by dissolving liquorice (or a liquorice-sugar combination bought at the chemist’s) in water, sometimes by boiling, then shaking it up to consume the froth by turns – ‘He set it to his wee bit mouth, an’ took ae muckle sook, The sugarallie water frothed – Contented grew his look’[WFC] (see also black sugar-witter).

suin see sin

suire see shair

suirley see shairly

suit (si’) n. a suit – ‘hei wore a threie-piece suit for the weddin’, ‘The men in their nice blue suits’[AY], v. to suit – ‘suit yersel then’ (note the pronunciation).

suit (si’) n. soot – ‘So sklim’ high heaven, trimmle throw hell Watter and sit I ca’ mysel’’ [DH] (also written ‘sit’).

suit-case (si’-käs) n. a suitcase (note the pronunciation).

suitth (sith) n., adj., arch. sooth – ‘...allace! the suitth to tell The matin sunlicht lettle joy dois bring ...’ [DH].

suiitt (sii’, si’) v., arch. set, started off – ‘So ti the tuine o: ‘Oo’re aa gaun ti Denum!’ oot A suitth towt the Auld Jail, thonder’[ECS], escort (past tense of set, with suiitten the past participle form).

suiitten (sii’-in) pp., arch. placed, set, escorted – ‘The guid waather’s suiitten iz on o cleeneen’[ECS] (E.C. Smith notes that ‘this verb takes the present participle or the present participial sb. [noun]’; cf. set and setten).

suiitten-on (sii’-in-on) pp., arch. set in motion, got going, fired up – ‘...as (yince an e’d been suiitten on) hei laid an an ranted off yirrds o Border rheime an lore’ [ECS] (see also setten).

suiitten-on see suiitten-on suiittit (si’-ce’, ’i’) pp., adj., arch. covered with soot, soot-begrinned – ‘...an ruiffs an waas baith suiitteet an ratcht on derk wunter days’[ECS].

suiituy (si’-ee) adj. sooty – ‘...where yin braiths God’s air clear an no suiitt wui suiitty flichts’[ECS] (also written ‘suittie’, ‘suitty’, etc.; cf. Eppie Suittie).

suld (sood) v., arch., poet. should, ought – ‘And gin I suld find on my cheek The smirr o’ a guid weetin rain ...’[WL], ‘Though death suld cuist her shadow in my gate ...’[WL] (also sood).

summa (soo-mu) n., arch. total, whole amount – ‘Item, twa ky with calf, price of the pecel, foure pund x s.: summ, ix li.’[SB1574], ‘There was paid this day to 32 poor poeple in the town £20 08 00, and to 20 of ye poor in ye landward part of ye parish £09 04 00, Summa’[PR1712] (from Latin).

Summerfield (su-mur-feeld) n. Victorian villa between Ladylaw and Mayfield, now split into Summerfield East and Summerfield West. It is reached up Rosace Brae, being the big house on the right. It was probably home to manufacturer James Veitch in the early 20th century.

Summers (su-morz) n. Adam (d.1808) clogger in Hawick. He married Isabel (or Helen) Currie in 1789, the marriage being recorded in both Hawick and Cavers parishes, his wife being from Cavers. Their children included: John (b.1790); Thomas (b.1792); and Isabel (b.1794). The witnesses in 1794 were ‘Special Congregation’. His name is also given as ‘Summer’ and ‘Sumors’.

John (18th/19th C.) writer (i.e. lawyer) in Hawick who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s ‘History of Hawick’ in 1825. He could be the writer in Edinburgh, whose daughter Eliza married James Drummond of Comrie, W.S., in 1792.

summond (su-mind) v., arch. to summon, particularly in the legal sense – ‘The beddall was ordered to summond to ye next meeting of ye Session James Crow in Branxholm for breach of Sabbath’ [PR1712], ‘The Beddall was ordered to summond Robert Elliot eldest lawful son to Francis Eliot …’ [PR1717].

Sunderland (sun-dur-lind) n. Mark (18th C.) stocking-maker in Hawick. He married Margaret Flemington and their children included: Margaret (b.1787); Joanna (b.1787); Ann (b.1793); and Alexander (b.1798). His son William died in Hawick in 1798. Perhaps the same Mark secondly married Janet Crow in Hawick in 1800.

Sunderland Hall (sun-dur-lind-hawl) n. mansion on the south side of the Tweed, near where it meets the Ettrick. It was the home of the Kerrs, later the Plimmers, and then the Scott-Plimmers, who were descended from the Scotts of Woll.

sundert (sun-dur’) pp., adj. sundered – ‘We’ve wandert mony a mile And fer oor steps hae sundert …’ [DH] (also sindert).

Sundhope (sun-dup) n. former farmstead on the Sundhope Burn, above Whitropefoot. It was valued at 8 merks according to a rental roll of c.1376 and still 8 merks on the 1541 roll, when ‘Leoni Elwald’ and his brothers were tenants. The farm was owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch from at least 1613. Robert ‘Houiton’ and Adam ‘Houitone’ are listed there in 1694, as well as George Nichol. It was surveyed for the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1718, when it extended to 1654 acres, bounded by Stitchelhill, Millburnholm and lands held by the Laird of Gorrenberry and others. At that time the farmhouse is shown in the same position as the modern one. It was tenanted by the Grieves of Branxholme Park for several generations. Robert Elliot was tenant in 1748 and Robert Hutton also lived there. John Anderson was farmer there in 1785. James Jackson was shepherd there in 1797, James Elliot in the early 1800s, Walter Anderson in 1835 and Andrew Rodger in 1851. It was held by James Raymond Johnstone of Alva in 1802, when valued at about £500 (including Hollandrig and ‘Sandbed of Sundhope’). There are waterfalls on the burn there. 5 flints found nearby are in Hawick Museum. North of the farmstead, towards Sundhope Rig, there is a linear earthwork, about 130 m long – ‘Whut’rope and Sundhope They ken the soond weel; It’s nae news to thaim That he troks wi the deil’ [DH] (it first appears as ‘Sondayhop’ in c.1376, is ‘Sondhope’ in 1510, ‘Sandhop’ in 1516, ‘Soundhop’ in 1541 and ‘Soundhope’ in 1613; the stream is marked ‘Soundhoupp’ on Blaue’s 1654 map, and the farm is ‘Sandhope’ on Stobie’s 1770 map).

Sundhope (sun-dup) n. farm in the Yarrow valley, where the burn of the same name meets the Yarrow from the south, just to the west of Yarrow Feus. It was a Crown property from about 1456, with the lease to the Laird of Almoot being given up in 1488, when it was let to ‘Robert domino Lile’ in 1488. Then it was let half to William Murray and half to Roger Murray from at least 1490 until 1499. In 1493 Alexander, brother of Robert Scott of Whames, was accused of stealing livestock from there, and John Waugh also stole a large number of sheep from the Murrays. In 1494/5 Robert Turnbull in Castlehill (near Branxholme) was charged with stealing 15 score sheep from the Murrays there. It remained Crown property until at least 1502. In 1512 it was feued to Gavin Murray. In 1541 William Scott was tenant there, paying £14, while William and James Murray also appear to have occupied it, paying £24. There were Andersons and Laidlaws there in the 19th century. It was said to be the site of the slaying of Scott of Harden’s younger son, Scott of Gilmanscleuch – ‘But, low, low down, on Sundhop broom, My brother Harden spyd; And, with a stern and furious look, He up to him did ride’ [ES]; ‘Ere all is done, our blood may soak Our Scottish houms, and leave a stain { A stain like that on Sundup’s cloak, Which never will wash out again’ [ES] (it is ‘Sundhop’ in 1456 and 1468, ‘Sondhoip’ in 1490, ‘Sundhop’ in 1496, ‘Sondhop’ and ‘Sondhoip’ in 1499 and ‘Soundhope’ in 1541).
Sundhope Burn (sun-dup-burn) n. stream in Castleton Parish. It rises on Sundhope Rig and Greatmoor and flows roughly southwards to join the Whitrope Burn near Whitropefoot.

Sundhope Faas (sun-dup-fawz) n. waterfall on the Sundhope Burn, near where it meets the Whitrope Burn on the Newcastleton road, about 12 miles south of Hawick. It has been a favourite picnic spot. It is also known as the Laird’s Linn.

Sundi (sun-di) n. Sunday. Formerly there were strict rules about what behaviour was deemed suitable for the Sabbath. Work of any sort was banned, and there are fines frequently recorded in the parish records for transactions such as pulling vegetables. Certainly non-attendance at church was considered disreputable until fairly recent times, and regular non-attendance was a serious matter in the 18th century. Up until the mid-19th century even walking on Sundays was considered an offence (also spelled ‘Sundih’ etc.).

Sundials (sun-dil-ulz) n., pl. devices that use the shadow of a gnomon, cast by the Sun, to tell the time of day. These were common ornamentation on buildings or in gardens around the 17th and 18th centuries. The Museum has 3 local specimens, which have been saved from demolitions, labelled: ‘17 WK 48’; ‘1823’, from Dickson Street; and ‘BC BT 1756’. There was also one from Francis Gledstains of Whitlaw, dated 1693. In addition there are (or were) sundials at Harden, Lilliesleaf Kirk, Synton Parkhead, Weens, Wells and Yarrow Kirk.

Sundi-mense (sun-di-mens) n., arch. ‘ti gie yin’s claes Sundi-mense’ is to attend church in one’s new clothes on the first Sunday after one gets them (also kirk-mense).

Sundi Schuil (sun-di-skil) n. Sunday School, i.e. religious instruction for school children taking place on Sundays. Hawick already had 2 such institutions in 1786 and was among the first to establish them in Scotland. The first was probably introduced by Rev. Charters of Wilton, followed shortly afterwards by Rev. Sharp of Hawick (however, it is sometimes also stated that William Crawford of Wilton introduced the first Sunday School in the 1730s). Around 1817 the town became well-known in the Borders for very popular Sunday Schools, which had been set up by Rev. James Henderson of the East-End Burgher congregation. David Russell of the Relief Kirk also set one up at about the same time. These early examples often lasted for many hours, but were about the only chance to learn reading, which many local children benefited from. Henderson’s Sunday School is sometimes said to have been the first in Scotland, and although this is clearly not correct, it may have been an early example of an ambitious educational programme on Sundays (rather than a shorter event aimed at children). Sunday Schools have continued in most of the town’s churches down to the present time – ‘Sunday Schule picnics then Horse and cairt ti Harden Glen . . .’ [IW]

sune see sin

sung (sung) adj., pp., arch. singed – ‘. . . Brunt broun in the sun and near sung’ [WL]

Sun Hope (sun-höp) n. small stream that rises on Sunhope Hass, Bye Hill and Little Tudhope Hill on the Roxburghshire border with Dumfriesshire and forms some of the headwaters of the Frostlie Burn.

Sunlaws (sun-lawz) n. settlement on the Teviot south of Kelso, containing the Jacobean-style mansion called Sunlaws House Hotel (or Roxburgh Hotel), with adjacent golf course, an abandoned Mill and nearby caves. As part of the English invasion of 1544 there was ‘a town called Synlawes, whereat divers bastel houses were destroyed, eight Scots taken, and 60 oxen brought away’, with at least 6 men killed in attempting to pursue the raiders. The estate of Sunlaws was home of the Kerrs of Chatto and Sunlaws. The house burned down in 1720 (the origin is probably ‘the look-out hill’; it is ‘Sunlaes’ on Blaeu’s c.1654 map).

Sulankt (sun-licht) n., arch. sunlight – Sun-licht at last, and the dancin’ day, and a quick eyed lass to sec’ [JYH], ‘Oh, laddie! when sun-licht Is ower your young way, Fu’ bricht wi’ sweet licht Is ower your young way, Fu’ bricht wi’ sweet promise O’ manhood’s fair day’ [MNR], ‘. . . Wi’ rowth o’ callants in her train And sunlicht in her hair’ [WL].

Sunnybank (su-née-bawngk) n. cottage in Wilton Parish, just north of Tandlaw. Walter Blake, thatcher, lived there in 1841, as well as farm worker Richard Turnbull and his family. Henry Paterson was there in 1851 and William Scott in 1861.

Sunnyhill (su-née-hil) n. area between Wilton and the Dean, consisting of Sunnyhill Road and surrounding region, containing mainly larger houses. The name was earlier also applied to the Rosalee Brae area. It was named apparently for its aspect with respect to the Sun. The area was feued in the latter part of the 19th century under the supervision of John Guthrie. Langlands was the first house about 1878, followed quickly by Deanfield, Kilmeny and Westwood –
the Sunnyhill Cornets

‘Here the tree-clad slopes rise upward from the water’s sparkling rill, Where clematis and laburnum deck the homes on Sunnyhill’ [WL], ‘... in the days afore the nouveau riche manufacturers became upwardly mobile in mair ways than yin and built their mansions on Sunnyhill’ [IWL].

the Sunnyhill Cornets (thu-su-nee-hil-kör-nitz) n. nickname given to the series of Cornets who were sons of mill owners around the early years of the 20th century.

Sunnyside (su-nee-sid) n. farm just east of Ormiston, about 2 miles from Hawick. It may have been called Ormiston Mains before the 19th century, as it is marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map.

Sunnyside (su-nee-sid) n. street that runs along the back of the Green in Denholm, with houses facing towards the south. From 1966–86 the post office was located there.

Sunnyside Hill (su-nee-sid-hil) n. hill to the south of Hawick, lying south-west of Sunnyside farm and south-east of Kaimend. It reaches a height of 257 m and is the northern continuation of the ridge of Whiteacres Hill.

the Sunshine Cornet (thu-sun-shin-kör-ni) n. popular name given to a Cornet who was blessed with summery weather at the Common Riding, particularly Charlie McRerrie or Jamie Turnbull.

Sunter (sun’-ur) n. Rev. Maurice (b.1917) minister of St. Cuthbert’s Kirk who lasted only 9 weeks in 1969. He had come from Lancashire and went back there.

supernumerary (soo-pur-new-mu-ru-ree) adj., arch. above the prescribed number, particularly referring to the number of guests allowed at a wedding according to a 1681 Act of Parliament – ‘The said day John Hardie and William Atkine were each of them fined, outlawed and amerciat conform to Act of parliament for ane supernumerarie marriage ...’ [PR1714] (also supernumer).

supernumer (soo-pur-new-mu-ree) adj., arch. over the legal limit, particularly referring to the number of allowed guests at a wedding – ‘... and John Hardie taylery, for ane supernumerie marriage of the sd. John Hardie upon Isobell Aitkine ...’ [BR1706] (also supernumerary).

superplus (soo-pur-plus) n., arch. surplus, excess – ‘Raeknow sett to Walter Bell a third, and quarter to John Armstrong, the superplus to Walter Riddell and David Grame equally paying in hail 40 bolls half meall half bear & 40 banes’ [Buc1692].

supper (su-pur) n. an item served with chips at a fish and chip shop – ‘A’ll hev a white pudden supper an a pickled egg please’, ‘Oo’ll gaun now for a fish supper That’s another thripriness away’ [AY].

supplie (sup-lی-lک) v., arch. to beg, entreat – ‘... but humble supplicating his Majestie, quhich is the most vsuall way’ [BR1720].

supply (su-plی) n., arch. assistance, support, charitable aid – ‘The minister did intimate from the pulpit that a contribution was to be collected for the supply of ane Englishman, Charles Hepsan, who had his goods destroyed by an extraordinary outbreak of the sea’ [PR1713], the temporary filling of a minister’s position – ‘The minister intimated supply of ye pulpit during his absence when at ye Well for his health’ [PR1720].

the Supporters of Hawick (thu-su-پور-ئرز-ئرز-o-hlk) n. the Supporters of Hawick, its Customs and Traditions, an association set up in 1996, to ??, also known as ‘the Traditionalists’.

surety (shoo-r-tee) n., arch. someone acting as guarantee for the behavour of another, security, poster of bail – ‘... Philipe Twrnbull, as plegis and souerte for Stewyn Twrnbull, his brother ...’ [SB1500], ‘The said day, Johne Nicoll in Craikhope actit himself as caw-r and souertie for will Elliott in Huntlaw ...’ [JW] (there are spelling variants).

surprisal (sur-prی-zal) n., arch. a surprise, something unexpected – ‘... quhich might expose his Majestie to a supryzall, and yow to be insnared by the machinations of your adversaries’ [SB1670].

Surrey (su-ree) n. name often used for Thomas Howard, Earl of Surrey (1473–1554) English nobleman who fought at Flodden and was later made Duke of Norfolk. After his victory, and knowing that the Borders forces had been devastated, he split up his troops to carry out raids, with Lord Dacre plundering and killing across Teviotdale. In a bizarre coincidence, at Queen Victoria’s Diamond Jubilee in London, the Hawick Volunteers were met by the Surrey Rifles, whose headquarters was in Flodden Road! – ‘After Flodden was decided, Surrey half his troops divided’ [JH], ‘When the spirit, bruised and bleeding From the shock of Surrey’s blow ...’ [TK] (note that the force that devastated Teviotdale in 1570 is sometimes erroneously connected with ‘Surrey’, while in fact it was led by ‘Sussex’).

surroond (su-ronد) v. to surround.
surroondin

surroondin (su-roon-din) adj. surrounding – ‘The Great War of 1914 ti 1918 claimed the lives o gettin on for a thousand men frae Hawick and the immediately surroondin district’ [IWL], ‘The lingering Teviot is silent and sad’ and it’s communicated its grief ti the surroondin Border-land’ [IWL].

suspeecion (sus-pee-shin) n., arch. suspicion. Sussex (su-siks) n. title of Thomas Radcliffe who led an English force that devastated Teviotald in 1570.

sustain (sus-tin, -teen) v., arch. to support, uphold – ‘...by the Towne Clerke, which wee, undersubsryeveand, susteine and be thir presents susteins as als awthenticke ...’ [BR1692], ‘Thraw thy burden upon the Lord, an’ he wull susteen thee ...’ [HSR] (there are spelling variants; also sustain).

susten (sus-ten) v., arch. to support, uphold, maintain – ‘...gif he or thai ony sustenis in default of payment of the said soume ...’ [SB1470] (also susten).

suet (sū, su’t) v. sat – ‘A sut masel doon in front o the fyre’, ‘A’ve sut ruwed up in the comfi seats like yow yins n’ heard some great aristic scholars ...’ [IHS] (cf. the form su before d).

Sutherland (su-thur-lind) n. Rev. George (20th C.) minister of St. Andrew’s Kirk 1930–40. J. (19th/20th C.) Cornet in 1901. He led his supporters on the first ride-out to Mossapaul. Norman J. (b.c.1890) son of Galashiel’s monumental mason George P. He ran the Hawick office of the family firm, with premises on Bridge Street. He was District Commissioner of the Boy Scouts. In his honour the local Scouts pipe band adopted the Sutherland tartan in 1953. Walter ‘Wattie’ or ‘Suddie’ (1890–1918) youngest son of Alexander and Isabella of the Imperial Hotel. He was a member of the Teviotdale Harriers, being Border Champion over 100 and 220 yards, and was part of the team that won the 1 mile relay at the Common Riding Games of 1910. He also won the Scottish Amateur Athletic Association 220 yards title and represented Scotland. He played wing for Hawick R.F.C. from the age of 17, his first game being against Gala. He excelled at Sevens, being part of the 1912 team that won all 5 Border tournaments. He went on to become Captain of Hawick. He played for Scotland from the age of 18, his first cap being Willie Kyle’s last, and went on to be capped 13 times. On the outbreak of WWI he joined the Lothian and Border Horse, transferring to the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and later to the Seaforth Highlanders, where he became 2nd Lieutenant. He was killed by a stray shell in October 1918, in the last days of the War. Afterwards his position on the Scotland team was taken by Eric Liddle – ‘...Or swerve like a Sutherland down the line to a rattling Mansfield score’ [JYH].

suthfastnes (suth-fast-nis) n., arch. truth, true state of affairs – ‘For that yt ys neidfull and merytabelle to ber wytnes to the suthfastnes ...’ [SB1431].

suttoon (su’-in) pp. sat – ‘yince eer a sutten an quiet A can stert’, ‘I haena sutten wi’ vaine persones, naethr wull I gae in wi’ cunnin’ pretenders’ [HSR], ‘Jimp hed a gotten sutten doon, afore wei war off’ [ECS], ‘Ilka nicht, or A’m weel sutten doon, the bairns come speelin on ma kneis an pookin at ma hair’ [ECS], ‘Juist as aw got suttoon doon, aslakin’ o’ ma drouth, An apparition came tae mei, a ghost o’ gawsie youth’ [MB] (also written ‘suttiten’: still common in Hawick, as a hang-over from Old English, cf. the modern English ‘gotten’, ‘bitten’, ‘eaten’, etc.).

suttoon-doon (su’-in-doon) adj., arch. persistent, established, chronic (of an illness etc.) – ‘A suttoon-doon caudl = a chronic cold’ [ECS], ‘...while there’s mony yin troubled with a suttoon down cauld, I’m troubled with a suttoon cauld’ [RMI], ‘...His is nae mealy-mooth, He’s a suttoon-doon drooth, But his crack is aye herty and free’ [WL] (cf. sit doon and doonstitten).

suttoon-on (su’-sū’-in-ōn) adj., pp., arch. stuck to the pot, burned, singed (especially of milk, rice, potatoes etc. that readily stick to the cooking utensil) – ‘Quick an stur thae tattih-brui, or they’ll be an suttoon-on’ [ECS] (cf. set-on; also written ‘suttiten-on’ and ‘suttin-on’).

suttoon up wi (su’-in-up-wi) pp., adj. sat up with, spoiled – ‘that bairn’s no hauf suttoon up wi’.

Sutter (su’-ur) n. William (17th/18th C.) ‘packman traveller’ recorded in Hawick in 1707. He was rebuked for being in the house of Richard Lethem at the time of Sunday serice, ‘with one pair of leather breaches and some harness under his oukster’.

Suttie (su-tee, su’-ee) n. Dr. Alastair (1938–2001) born in Enniskillen, he grew up in Moray, where his father was a vet. He qualified in Medicine at Aberdeen University in 1961. He came to Hawick after holding various posts in the north of Scotland. He joined Bill Cameron as a general practitioner in 1964, and remained in practice in Hawick until he retired in 1998. During that time he ran a training practice, and helped to develop the Health Centre. He wrote the ‘History of Haig Maternity Hospital’ (1999) and made a photographic study of bridges over the Teviot. Married to Gillian, their daughter Alison worked for the Liberal Democratic Party.

Alison Mary (1968–) daughter of Dr. Alastair, she attended Hawick High School, and then read French and Russian at Heriot-Watt University. After graduation she worked in Russia and then for the European Parliament. In the period 2006–10 she was Head of the Liberal Democrat Leader’s Office and was the party’s Campaign Manager in 2010, as well as being coordinator of their negotiating team after the 2010 election results produced a hung parliament. She then became a Special Adviser to Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg. In 2013 she was created a life peer as Baroness Suttie of Hawick.

Euphemia see Eppy Sootie.

swabble (swaw-bul) v., arch. to beat, thrash, switch with a cane, belt or the like – ‘Hei tuik his Sootie Euphemia Special Adviser to Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg. She then became a negotiating team after the 2010 election results produced a hung parliament. She then became a Special Adviser to Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg. In 2013 she was created a life peer as Baroness Suttie of Hawick. Euphemia see Eppy Sootie.

swack (swawk) adj., poet. agile, lithe, pliant – ‘I that was aince straucht and swack and souple …’ [WL] (common in the North-east; from the Dutch).

swad (swad) n., poet. a pod – ‘…and as like-other as peis in a swad’ [DH].

swade (swad) n., arch. a swede, turnip.

swaible (swā-bul) v., arch. to dabble in water, splash about, wash out by swabbing – ‘A was keindih dawallt oot, but A’ve gaen ti the spriggit and swaibblit masul weil up wui waeter’ [ECS], ‘Note that ti swaibbl conveys the idea of a much more vigorous action than ti daibbl’ [ECS], n., arch. a splash about, splashing – ‘…A gaed an got masel cleaned an spruisht wui a grand swaible o waeter’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘swaible’ and ‘swaibbl’).

swaip (swāp) n., arch. a slope, slant – ‘At the boddom o the lang swaip that hed garrd mei pech’ [ECS], v., arch. to take a sloping path, rise or fall obliquely, slant – ‘The auld fail-dyke swaips pech’ [ECS], v., arch. a splash about, splashing – ‘…A’d breestect the brae now, an the road swaipeet doon afore iz’ [ECS].

swaipit (swā-pee’, -pi’) pp., arch. slanted, sloped – ‘A’d breestect the brae now, an the road swaipeet doon afore iz’ [ECS].

swaird (swārd) n., poet. sward – ‘Yet oft ha’e I seen him wi’ pouche’s o’ siller, And crouse as a lammie that skips o’er the sward’ [TCh].

swairn (swā-rum) n., v., arch. swarm – ‘We gathered their stolen gear, And lifted their ain forby, And a’ Harden Glen for a year Was swairmin’ wi’ nowte and kye’ [TK].

swall (swawl) v., arch. to swell – ‘Mr. Campbell bid her say that ‘twa o the Lord’s trumpeters ca’ed.’ The good woman replied, ‘I just thocht sae; yer cheeks are swalled wi’ blawin’ ’ [JaT], ‘Thowch the waters o’ rair, an’ ar troublet; though the mountains shog wi’ the swallin’ o’ thame’ [HSR], ‘But there’s yin time o the eer when the river o life In Hawick swalls suddenly until a rip-tide …’ [DH].

swalla see swalli

swallae see swalli

swallli (swa-li, -la, -le) n. the swallow, Hirundo rustica – ‘Yis, the sparra hs fuund ane hous, an’ the swalla ane est for hirsel’ …’ [HSR], the act of swallowing, v. to swallow (also spelled ‘swalla’, ‘swallae’ and ‘swallih’; the final vowel sound varies; cf. swally).

swallit (swa-li, -lit) pp. swallowed – ‘Letna thame say in their hairts, Aha! Aha! sae wad we hae it; letna thame say, We hae swallet him up’ [HSR], ‘Than had thaye swallet us up quik, whan thair wraeth was kinlet agayne us’ [HSR].

swalli-tail (swa-li-tail) n., poet. an arrow with a barbed head – ‘The swallow-tail frae teckles new, Five hundred ain into the night’ [CPM].

swally (swa-lee’, -lit) pp. swallowed – ‘A find that a bit hard ti swally’, ‘…the Lord sall swalli thame thum up in his wraeth …’ [HSR], ‘Mine enimies wad swalli me up daye bie daye …’ [HSR], ‘…Twas like tae swally mei’ [JSB], ‘If you couldna swally the tother half, Though ye’d hed the denner at yin …’ [DH], ‘…dinni swally eat or ee’ll chowk’ [CoH], n. a swallow – ‘A could dae wi a wee swally o yer juice’ (the bird is always swalli).

Swamp Field (swawmp-field) n. name for the field on the Common just to the south of the racecourse.

Swan (swawn) n. Elizabeth ‘Bessie’ (17th C.) listed as merchant among those contributing to the new Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. She was also on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’ in 1694. She seems likely to have been a shopkeeper (or similar) on the High Street. She could be the daughter of George and Margaret Bridges born in Hawick in 1642 or the daughter of Mungo and Helen Bridges born in 1672. George (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish who was married to Margaret Bridges. Their son John was born in 1643. George (18th C.) weaver in Hawick. He married Rebecca Scott. Their children included: Jean (b.1735); John (b.1737); and Rebecca (b.1741), who was the 2nd wife of Bailie John Hardie. The witnesses in 1737 were merchant James Sanderson and writer Thomas Watson. In 1764 he witnessed a baptism for John Hardie and his daughter Rebecca. He could be the George Swan who witnessed a baptism for Francis Cairns in 1783. Isabel (b.c.1760) listed as a shopkeeper in Pigot’s 1837 directory. By 1841 she was a pauper, living around Eastgate. James (19th C.) grocer and spirit merchant at 29 (later 27) High Street. He emigrated with his family to Detroit, where his son Andrew was involved with the Detroit Gas Company and his son James was a successful lawyer. John (16th C.) listed in 1534 when he was a witness at Hassendean Kirk for the sealing of a letter of reversion when Gavin Elliot sold the lands of Nether Galalaw to William Scott. It is unclear if he was from Hawick, Hassendean or Selkirk (in whose Protocol Books the record appeared). John (17th C.) married to Margaret Scott. Their children born in Hawick Parish included: Jane (b.1676); Mungo (b.1682); and Helen (b.1685). In 1676 he was listed being ‘in Cavers’ (suggesting he lived in the Teviot-head area perhaps), with witnesses William and Mungo (who were surely close relatives). He may be the same as John ‘Elder’. John (17th C.) listed as ‘Elder’ in 1694 among those ‘uest the water’ in Hawick on the Hearth Tax rolls. The younger John was also listed, suggesting that they were father and son. The pair were also weavers ‘younger’ and ‘elder’ recorded among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He was ‘older’ in 1700 when he witnessed a baptism for weaver John Jolly. John ‘Nuckle’ (18th C.) Hawick weaver on the 1693/4 subscribers’ list for the new Kirk bell. He must have been separate from the elder and younger weavers who were also listed. It is unclear what his nickname meant.

John (17th/18th C.) quartermaster of the Hawick weavers. In 1697 there was a case before the Magistrates dealing with Robert Tinlin, a young weaver, who had insulted him publicly, and refused to pay a fine imposed by the incorporation of weavers. He was still quartermaster in 1716 (along with the same Robert Tinlin) when he and other complained about people who were not part of the incorporated trades taking their seats in St. Mary’s Kirk. He may be the ‘John Suan younger’ listed in 1694 among those on the west-side of Hawick who paid the Hearth Tax and the ‘younger’ weaver listed among the contributors to the Hawick Kirk bell in 1693/4. He may be the John who (along with Mungo) witnessed a baptism for weaver William in 1700. He was probably the weaver who witnessed baptisms for gardener Robert Roger in 1701, workman Archibald Elliot and shoemaker William Halliwell in 1704, and shoemaker Adam Kersel in 1725. He may be the John who, along with William, witnessed a baptism in 1704 for Walter Paisley at Weensland Mill. He is probably one of the 2 John Swans who in 1709 witnessed a baptism for John Scott ‘att ye port’. He was one of the ‘two John Swans’ (possibly ‘Black John’ and ‘White John’ or father and son) who was a Hawick elder recorded as one of the men asked in 1711 to ‘perlude’ the town to look for people still drinking after 8 clock at night. In 1718 he (or the other John) was among those charged by the Session with trying to resolve the dispute between Bailies Ruecastle and Graham. There was a John Swan whose son John was born in Hawick in 1693 and another in 1696. John ‘Black John’ (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish, with a nickname to distinguish him from ‘White John’. One of them was probably the quartermaster of the weavers. He married Elspeth Clerk and their children included: Mary (b.1700); George (b.1702); Mary (b.1703); Jean (b.1704); Anna (b.1706); and Elspeth (b.1707). In 1700 and 1704 he was entered in the baptismal register as ‘distinctions causa called black John’. The witnesses in 1700 were weaver John Lunn and James Scott ‘Laird’, in 1704 were James Scott ‘Doctor’ and John Scott ‘Laird’, in 1706 were Andrew Clerk and another John Swan, and in 1707 were weaver James Lunn and shoemaker John Scott. He is probably the John who was witness for a baptism for John Lunn in 1705. John ‘White John’ (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. In 1701 he is recorded being ‘distinctions causa called white John’. He is probably the John who witnessed a baptism for a different John in 1706. He married Janet Allan and their children included: Mungo (b.1701); and Mary (b.1703). This suggests that he may have been son of Mungo. The witnesses in 1701 were Mungo (perhaps his brother) and weaver Thomas Turnbull (possibly his brother-in-law). Other children of either this or the other John are: William (b.1692); John (b.1693); Jean (b.1695); John (again, b.1696); and Janet (b.1706). Mungo (17th C.) Hawick resident who married Helen Briggs, who was probably daughter of William and Bessie Brown. In 1665 (although this date may an error, e.g. for 1685) his son-in-law, Thomas Turnbull, was accused of throwing his wife (Helen) down some stairs when she attempted to visit her sick daughter.
The families are probably inter-related through George and Margaret ‘Bridges’ who are recorded having children in the 1640s. His children included: Helen (b.1657); and Bessie (b.1672). He is probably the Mungo who witnessed a baptism for John (who could have been his brother) in 1676 and 1680 2 others (along with William, who was surely therefore also related) for William Bridges. It seems likely he was father of ‘White John’. Mungo (17th/18th C.) Hawick resident who married Jean Briggs in 1702. Their children included Jean (b.1702). Other probably children, with no mother’s name given are Thomas (b.1705), William (b.1708) and Mungo (b.1710). The witnesses in 1708 were Michael Bridges and James Scott, Laird. His wife probably secondly married weaver Robert Wight in 1715, suggesting he was deceased by then. He is probably the Mungo who (along with John) witnessed baptisms for weaver William in 1700, (along with Thomas Turnbull) for weaver John Lunn in 1701, for James Beattie in 1704 and for Town Herd William Palmer in 1707. Richard (15th C.) witness to a sasine in 1483 relating to lands in Hassendean, given by William Douglas, Laird of Cavers. He was also a witness in 1484 to a sasine relating to lands in the town of Hawick. William (d.bef. 1694) weaver in Hawick. His widow ‘Joan Bennet’ was listed among those who subscribed to the fund for the new Kirk bell in Hawick in 1693/4. He is probably the William recorded as ‘Wm Suan Elder’ in the 1694 list (but likely drawn up 2 or 3 years earlier) among those on the west-side of Hawick who paid the Hearth Tax. He could be the William, son of George and Margaret Bridges who was born in Hawick in 1635. He married Helen (or Jane) Bennet, and their children included: Thomas (b.1669); George (b.1672); Margaret (b.1673); Mungo (b.1677); Jane (b.1680); and Walter (b.1683). The witnesses in 1680 were Walter Purdom and William Scott. He could be the William who witnessed baptisms in Hawick for William Bridges and Andrew Dodd in 1673, Thomas Lunn in 1675, John in Cavers in 1676 (with Mungo being the other witness, suggesting that all 3 were closely related), as well as Patrick Bridges, William Bridges (along with Mungo again), Francis Scott plus Isobel Bridges in 1678. in 1680 he witnessed baptisms for William Bridges (again), Francis Scott, James Lunn, John Scott (of Cavers) and Margaret Scott and Andrew Jardine and Janet Bridges. William (17th C.) recorded as ‘William Suan, younger’ in 1687 among a group of men fined for clandestinely removing their sheep from the Town’s flock, without paying the Town Herd. He could be the same as the weaver of the same name. William (17th C.) weaver in Hawick, on the 1693/4 subscribers’ list for the new Kirk bell. He must be different from the William whose widow is also recorded on the same list, but could be their son. He may be the William who married Margaret Paisley and whose children, baptised in Hawick, included William (b.1692), Walter (b.1698), Agnes (b.1700), William (again, b.1703) and Mungo (b.1706); the witnesses in 1696 were Henry Orrock and John Hart and in 1700 were weavers John and Mungo Swan. He is probably the William who witnessed baptism for Andrew Turnbull in 1698, for weaver James Jolly ((along with John, perhaps his brother) in 1700 and for Walter Paisley at Weensland Mill (also along with John). He is probably the weaver of that name who was a member of the Council when it granted a bond (dated 1710, but recorded in the Town Book in 1711) to provide money for the Master of the new Grammar School. William (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. He is recorded in the records of the Presbytery of Melrose in 1726 when Christian Bunzie confessed that she had ‘seen him playing at the kails in her father’s garden’. He was ‘a single, unmarried man, landlord of the house wherein Henry Gibson’s relict lives’. His name is written ‘Swain’ and he could be the William, son of William, born in Hawick in 1683 or the William born in Hawick to another William in 1703. William (18th/19th C.) resident of Castleton. His wife was Janet Swan and their children included Jean (b.1806) and Samuel (b.1808), baptised at Liddelbank, written ‘Suan’, ‘Suane’ and variants.

the Swan

The Swan (thu-swawn) n. former hostelry on Main Street in Denholm. It is recorded in 1852, when Thomas Field was proprietor. A meeting of 100 Total Abstinence supporters took place there the same year ‘in Mr. Field’s large room’.

Swang (swang) pp. swung – ‘...But when he swang the tawe I didna craw sae prood’ [WL].

the Swan Inn (thu-swawn-in) n. former public house on the Howegate, when??.

Swank (swank) adj., arch. agile, lithe, smart, well set-up – ‘The leesh, swank-leike fallih (‘at A’d been followin eis lead)’ [ECS].

Swankie (swang-kee) n., arch. a smart, strapping young man ‘If a young swankie wi’ his joo, In some dark nook play’d bogle-bo ...’ [CPM], – ‘At e’en, in the gloaming, nae swankeys are roaming ...’ [JEM], ‘The only word I ever altered from the original instead of ‘Swankies are jeering’ ‘Youths now are jeering’. My father said swankies was a modern word and not a good one’.

Swanscourt Hill (swanz-köhr-ˈhil) n. small hill to the north of the farm of Knowetownhead. It reaches a height of 139 m (marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map.

Swansdale (swanz-dal) n. former lands in Liddesdale, recorded as ‘Swansdale’ in the 1541 rental roll of Liddesdale. It was valued at 12 shillings and tenanted by Jeffrey Crozier. The location is uncertain, but perhaps around Larriston.

Swanshiel (swan-sheel) n. farm just to the west of Hobkirk, situated on the north side of the Blackhall Burn. The farmhouse now called Nether Swanshiel. The lands were formerly split into Easter and Wester Swanshiels, which were recorded as once owned by the monks of Jedburgh Abbey. At the Reformation the lands were valued at £1 6s. 8d. The Abbey’s tenants were Turnbulls, who later became owners of the lands.

Robert Turnbull is recorded as tenant in 1567 and James Turnbull in 1580. In 1643 Adam Turnbull ‘in Swansheil’ owned land valued at £66 13s 4d, and another (or the same) Adam Turnbull ‘of Swan-sheil’ had lands valued at £32 10s. In 1678 the Easter and Wester parts were valued at £66 13s 4d and £33 6s 8d, respectively. The lands (or perhaps just superiority) were among those inherited by William Kerr of Abbotrule in 1680. Wester Swanshiel was owned (along with Hartshaugh earlier) by the same branch of the Turnbull family for about 300 years until 1778.

John Donaldson was tenant in 1797. Earthworks from some ancient settlement were still visible a century ago. There was also once a joiner’s shop there (it was ‘Swansheil’ in 1567, appears as ‘Sironschein’ in 1581, was ‘Swoon希尔’ in 1604, ‘Swanshil’ in 1643, ‘Swan-sheil’ in 1684 and ‘Swanhill’ on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls; it is marked ‘Suamesheells’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map, but has the modern spelling by Stobie’s 1770 map; Walter Deans says that it was formerly ‘Suin Shiel’s and ‘Sonesheils’ and suggests it meant the land facing the Sun, however ‘swain schiel’, meaning ‘herdsman’s hut’ is more likely).

Swanshiel Cleuch (swan-sheel-klooäch) n. name for the steep lower section of the Blackhall Burn, to the south-west of Hobkirk Manse.

Swanson (swan-sin) n. James (18th C.) said to be from Wilton Dean, he was a waiter at the Tower Hotel. He was on the subscription list for Caw’s ‘Poetical Musum’ in 1784. He is recorded there in 1785, working for Michael Stevenson, and named again in 1788. In 1790 he was working as a ‘drawer’ for vintner Robert Armstrong and was recorded as a waiter for Robert Armstrong in 1797. He was apparently very familiar with the customers of the hotel, of all ranks. One of his favourite phrases was ‘Stick by cauld whisky, but never drink toddy, when ye’re gaun a journey’. It is said that he was at some point dismissed by Armstrong, but reappointed after the Duke of Buccleuch interceded on his behalf. He had several children including: James, who became a ship’s surgeon; and a daughter, who married weaver Tom Lunn. His wife Jean died in 1795.

James (1779/80–1803) son of James, who was a waiter at the Tower Hotel. He was apprenticed to Dr. Walter Graham in Hawick. In 1797 he was experimenting with concoctions and left a bowl on the window-sill, which was drunk by his niece, who unfortunately died. He left Hawick in 1798 to be a surgeon on a slave ship, sailing on 3 voyages. In 1802 or 1803 he was given command of ‘the Prudence’, which sailed to the Upper Guinea coast, returning to Liverpool with half his crew, a number of slaves, and also Tom Jenkins, who he brought to Hawick after a few weeks. It is said that attempts by the young African to say his (Swanson’s) name sounded to the sailors like ‘Tom Jenkins’, which was then what they called him. He died in the Tower Hotel a few days after returning to Hawick, perhaps either from a lingering disease or from delirium tremens. He died at the age of 23 (coincidentally the day before Sir Walter Scott and the Wordsworths stayed in the Tower Hotel). He left behind an illegitimate son, who is probably the James, born to James and Betty Cairns in Hawick in 1797 (she may have been the Betty born in Wilton to Thomas Cairns in 1779). Note that a version of his life is told as part of the novel ‘Alexander Hope: A Hawick Story’; this fictionalised accounts bears only passing resemblance to reality, but perhaps the part about him being found wandering round and round in a field and then collapsing may be true.

James (1797–1856) son of James and Betty Cairns. His father trained as a surgeon and became Captain of a slaving ship, returning to Hawick with Tom Jenkins, but promptly dying. He and Tom were raised by his father’s sister and her husband Tom Lunn, who lived at Shuttlehaa in Teviothead. He must therefore have been the closest thing that Jenkins had to a brother. He worked as a shepherd for James Scott of Allan-shaws and then moved to Salisbury Craig in Edinburgh. He is recorded as a shepherd at Queen’s Park in 1841 and on St. Leonard’s St., Edinburgh in 1851. In May 1820 he married Sophia Glendinning (c.1802–70), the marriage being recorded in both Cavers and Ettrick Parishes; it is tempting to imagine that Tom Jenkins attended this wedding on his last trip back to Scotland before he left Britain for good. Their children included: Janet (b.c.1821); Elizabeth (b.c.1825); John (b.c.1827); Sophia (b.c.1829), who married Andrew Gunn in Edinburgh in 1851; Mary (b.c.1830), who probably had a child Sophia in 1862; Christina (b.1832), who probably died young; Walter (b.1833), who married Barbara Kay; Isabella (b.1835), who married James Reekie; and Adam (b.1837), who married Isabella Barrie. Their last 4 children were baptised in Cannongate Parish. He died in Carnegie Street Edinburgh. William (18th C.) from Southdean Parish. He was ordered to be transported to America in 1679 for being a Covenanter (probably after being captured at Bothwell Bridge), and escaped the shipwreck in the Orkneys which killed about 200 men. Most of the survivors were recaptured and sold as slaves in Jamaica and New Jersey. William (b.c.1780) recorded as miller of Dovershaugh Mill in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. In the 1841 census he was miller at Bedrule Mill. William (19th C.) recorded as labourer at Dovemount in 1835 (also formerly written ‘Swanston’, ‘Swanstone’, etc.).
Swanstead Hill

Swanstead Hill (swan-steed-hil) n. hill between the Teviot and Borthwick valleys, in the headwaters of the Teindside Burn, north-west of the steading of Slaidhills. It reaches a height of 333 m.

swap (swawp) n., arch. a slap, blow, strike.

swap (swawp) n., arch. the shell or pod of an unripe legume, especially written ‘pei-swap’ or ‘unripe legume, especially written ‘pei-swap’ or ‘pea-swap’. v. to form pods, to assume mature shape (of animals).

swappit (swaw-pee’) pp. swapped – ‘A swappit eet for a better yin’.

sure (swar) pp., arch. swore – ‘...and sae he swipe, by moon and sun, That he would ha’e nae auld sour witches’ [TCh].

suree (swee, swa-ra) n., arch. an evening function, particularly a meeting of an abstinence society or church group – ‘...the Kirk where there was an annual ‘swarrie’ with its Christmas tree and a bag of buns’ [JRa]. ‘It’s a gey guid yin, hir (her) ti henh the owrance on the gie-in oot o the pokes at oor swaree’ [ECS], ‘The guid auld-fashioned swaree, concert an’ ball, especially on auld-year’s nicht’ [HEx1919] (note the accent on the 2nd syllable; also spelled ‘soiree’; cf. swarei).

swarei (swa-rë) n., arch. a soiree (cf. soiree).

swarf (swarf) v., arch. to faint, swoon – ‘I had sworn, gif I hadna beliefet til see the guidniss o’ the Lord in the lan’ o’ the leivin’’ [HSR], ‘My saul langs, yis, een swarffs, for the cuurts o’ the Lord ...’ [HSR].

Swarf Hill (swarf-hil) n. hill in Liddesdale, lying to the south-east of Dykecrofts farm, about 2 miles east of Newcastleton. It reaches a height of 281 m.

Swarf Moss (swarf-mos) n. marshy area in Liddesdale to the north-east of Black Knowe, to the north-east of Swarf Hill.

swash (swash) v., arch. to beat, slash, swish – ‘...they unscrupulously swashed them down ...’ [HSR].

swat (swat) pp., arch. sweated – ‘The usual observation [about Rev. Campbell of Lilliesleaf] ... was ‘Eh, how he roared! and eh, how he swat!’ [RJR], ‘The twa’ dumfoundert, stood appall’d, An’ trembling, swat – their blood ran cauld’ [RDW], ‘Just like a cat I fufft and swat, Then daured them to a man ...’ [WaD], ‘A’body swat frae morn till nicht, You ‘Shirt-sleeve Day!’ ’ [DH] (also written ‘swaat’; this is the past tense of sweit, with the past participle being swutten).

swatter (swat-ur) v., arch. to splash around in water, paddle – ‘Lang may you row, trow, guzze, swatter’ [JoHa], n., arch. a splashing around, flounder in water – ‘Seeders at the breach made sic a swatter’ [JR].

swatterin (swat-ur-in, -een) n., arch. the act of splashing – ‘...the fletcherin buries daibbelt an dookeet, An A fair ill-wulled thum o ther plowtereen and ther swattereene’ [ECS].

swaw (swaw) v., poet. to undulate, ripple – ‘The hernseugh fisht the swawin’ pule In blew days and grey, And niver cam’ a thing ava To gliff the lad’ [DH].

swee (swee) n., arch. a moveable iron rod for hanging pots over a fireplace – ‘...the kettle on the sweeve above a glowing peat fire’ [V&K] (also swei).

sweepit (swee-pi’, swee-pi’) pp. swept – ‘Athort the air it swirlin’ sweepit; – At ilka nook snaw wreaths lay heapit’ [RDW], ‘Death its thousands off has sweepit, Who like us this day have keepit, We like them to dust shall moulder, Ere our auld sour witches’ [HEx1919] (cf. soopit).

sweer see sweir
sweet see sweit
Sweet

Sweet (swee’) n. Janet (18th C.) recorded at Mabonlaw in 1720 when her daughter Walter was baptised in Roberton Parish.

sweetheart (swee’-her’) n. a sweetheart – ‘Aw hae nae sweetheart, if that means a lad, nor a ha’penny aither for that pairt o’...’ [JEDM].

sweetie (swee’-ee) n. candy, sweet confection, often used in the plural – ‘The sweeties ee liked were inside the door ...’ [AY], ‘to work for sweeties’ means to labour for very little pay (also spelled ‘sweetey’; E.C. Smith notes that ‘taffie’ and ‘taillet’ were distinct, but other ‘sweets of any description’ were so called).

sweet milk (swee’-milk) n., arch. fresh milk, not skimmed or sour – ‘Jean was allowed to sell sweet milk from Whiltlaw farm in the kitchen of her lodging house’ [JTu].

Sweet Milk (swee’-milk) n. nickname for William Elliot, whose death is recorded in the song ‘Rattlin Roarin Willie’ – ‘His beauty was sae fair, And comely for to see, And drink will be dear to the heart, And drink will be dear to the heart of Willie, When sweet milk gars him die’ [T]. The ancient thornbush called ‘Milksweet Willie’s Thorn’ was supposedly connected with his death. There is a painting in the Museum, ‘The Death of Sweet Milk’, by Paul Grevelly Hudson. An earlier man, Hob Elliot, was recorded as ‘callit Sweit Mylk’ by Paul Greville Hudson. An earlier man, known as ‘the Green Gress’, being the old Tryst ground, which was used as a hang-out by youths at the end of the 19th century.

Sweet William (swee’-wi-lee-um) n. nickname for William Nichol in the 18th century.

sweety see sweetie sweety (swee’-ee) adj., arch. made of candy, confectionary – ‘Sweety (adj.) = composed of sweetmeat or toffy, as: A sweety-pig; a sweety-egg, etc.’ [ECS].

swei (swi) v. to sway, move backwards and forwards, to hesitate. n. a sway, act of swaying, chimney-crane for suspending a pot over a fire (also swee).

sweidraw (sweidraw) n., arch. a game in which 2 people sit with feet together and try to pull each other up by both grasping a stick (also sweir-drawn).

sweir (sweer) v. to swear – ‘Hei sweirs it hed nithin ti dae wi him’, ‘But the king sall rejoyce afore alle her bytter greis, Thye swellit the tyde and secretly surprised For a’ oor dour forebode, We maun concede. It’s Spring!’ [DH], ‘But we’re sweir into bed; we’re inclined for last looks at the gairden’ [DH], ‘He was sweir to bid them ben ...’ [WL], ‘...And belike they grasped whaur they couldna see, And the nits were sweir to faa’ [WL] (also written ‘sweer’).

sweir-drawn (sweer-drawn) adj., arch. reluctant, hesitant – ‘Bit sweirdrawn an laith tho A was ...’ [ECS] (referring to the game of ‘sweir-draw’ played by 2 people, sitting with feet together both holding a stick and trying to pull the other up; see also swir-draw).

the Sweirin Green (thu-swee-rin-green) n. nickname given to the part of the Common, also known as ‘the Green Gress’, being the old Tryst ground, which was used as a hang-out by youths at the end of the 19th century.

sweir-trei (sweer-tri) n., arch. an instrument for winding yarn (peculiar to Teviotdale).

sweit (swee’) n. sweet – ‘The sweet was duist hailin off iz till A was nerrhand swutten ti he was roused if she heard any sweerin be-...

swek (swek) v., arch. to fiddle, swindle – ‘Hei swekked his age ti join the Haim Guard’ [IWL].

swellet (swee-leet, -li’)* pp., poet.* swelled – ‘Recallinge alle her bytter greifs, Thye swellit the tyde of wo...’ [JTe].

swey (swi) v., arch. to sway.

swey (swi) n., arch. a horizontal bar swings across a fireplace, used for hanging pots etc. – ‘Come haste and mak’ a clean hearth-stane, Gar shine the crook and swey’ [DA].

Swin (swn) n. former farm in Kirkton Parish, where Robert Smith is recorded on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. It may be the same as the place recorded earlier as Swinsteid.
Swine Acre

Swine Acre (swín-ä-kur) n. lands once attached to the estate of Mangerton. ‘Swybe Acre’ was listed as a 3-shilling land in the c.1376 rental roll of Liddesdale (the name presumably relates to pigs).

Swingill (swin-gil) n. remote farmstead in Ewes Parish. It is located where the Swin Gill meets the Meikledale Burn. Henry Oliver and family were there in 1841.

swingle (swing-ul, -gul) v., arch. to beat lint or flax in order to separate the fibres from the woody parts (from Old English ‘swingle’, to beat or whip).

swingler (swing-lur) n., arch. a person who beats flax, or an instrument used for beating flax.

swingle-trei (swing-ul-tri) n., arch. the swinging part of a flail, particularly used for threshing flax.

swinglin (swing-lin) n., arch. the process of beating lint or flax, using a swingling-stock and swingling-hand to separate the flax from the stalk and to extract the finest fibres. The carrying out of this operation was formerly an occasion for social gathering in the countryside – ‘The next operation was the famous swingling, which broke up and enlivened the dullness of the winter nights so merrily in the generations by-gone’ [JAHM].

swinglin-haund (swing-lin-hawnd) n., arch. a sharp-edged wooden lath for dressing flax, also known as a ‘swinging sword’ – ‘...and beaten with a sword-shaped stick called a swingling-hand’ [JAHM], ‘They laid sae fast upon the boards, The swinglinds gaed like horseman’s swords’ [JoHo] (also ‘swinglind’ and ‘swinglint’).

swinglin-stock (swing-lin-stok) n., arch. an upright board, over which flax was held while it was beaten – ‘The operation was performed by means of a swingling-stock a board fastened uprightly to another piece upon which the foot was placed to keep it steady’ [JAHM].

swinglin-sword (swing-lin-sörd) n., arch. a sword-shaped, wooden lath used for dressing flax. There are some old local examples in the Museum.

Swinnie Moor (swi-nee-moor) n. moorland area between Boucher and Jedburgh, around the B6357, near the hamlet of Swinnie and Swinside Plantation. An area called Swinnie Dyke Nook was once the supposed haunting ground of a ‘bogle’ (the origin of the name is possibly from Old Norse ‘swithnings’, meaning ‘the place cleared by burning’ and first occurs as ‘Swynny’ in 1528).

Swinside (swín-säd) n. hamlet on the Oxnam Water south of Oxnam village, the area once being the seat of the Kers of Swinside. In 1468 Patrick and William Douglas were tenants there, and in 1579/80 George Douglas. Andrew Rutherford had residence for these lands in 1506. There were Hislops there in 1590 and Murrays and Douglases in 1623. The lands were held by Lord Jedburgh in the early 17th century. Simon Elliot of Swinside owned the lands in 1678, when they were valued at £1675. The Hearth Tax records list 13 householders on the estate in 1694. Alexander Lindsay paid tax on 31 windows there in 1748, while William Elliot paid tax for 10 windows. The farms there were run by Douglases in the mid-19th century (also written ‘Swineside’, ‘Swinesyde’, ‘Swinsyde’ and ‘Swinyside’; the origin is probably Old English ‘swin set’, meaning ‘place where pigs are kept’; the name may be first recorded as ‘Swyneshede’ in 1345, then is ‘Swynyshede’ in 1390 and ‘Swyynsyde’ in about 1390).

Swinsted (swin-steel) n. Swinstead, former lands in Kirkton Parish, once held by the Elliots. This could be the ‘Swintries’ held by the young Robert Elliot of Redheugh and managed for him (along with Skelfhill, Peelbrae and Priesthaugh) by his step-father Gavin Eliott of Stobs in about the 1560s. ‘Gawin Elliot of Swoinsteinid’ is listed in 1583/4 among Border Lairds who were summoned to appear before the Privy Council. It is probably the ‘Swoinsteinidis’ where the fugitive Martin Burn was tenant in 1606. In 1610 it was listed as part of the Lordship of Winnington, possessed by 3 sisters called Hamilton, heirs of their great-grandfather Patrick Hepburn. In 1622 Gilbert of Stobs purchased the 15 merk land of Over and Nether ‘Swoynsteid’ from Robert Elliot of Redheugh along with the rest of the lands of Winnington; it was described as ‘now commonly called the lands of Hilend Barnes and Newtoun’. It then formed part of the estate of the Elliots of Stobs in the 17th century. It may be the same as the farm of ‘Swin’ in Kirkton Parish where Robert Smith is recorded as farmer in 1797 (it is probably ‘Swinsteis’ in 1574, ‘Swintes’ in 1576, ‘Swoynsteid’ in 1610, ‘Over and Nether Swoynsteid’ in 1657, ‘Swoynsteide Ovir et Nethir’ in 1670 and ‘Over and Nether Swoynsteid’ in 1681).

Swinton (swin-’in, swin-’tin) n. village in Berwickshire on the Lect Water, set out around the green with its 18th century cross. It is the original home of the Swinton family, who claim the oldest charters of any family in Scotland. Swinton House was built around 1800 to replace its restaurant. The Wheatsheaf Hotel has won awards for its restaurant.

Swinton’s (swin-’inz) n. James Swinton & Co., Hawick-based building contractors, with premises in Noble Place.

swire (swI-ur, swir) n. a hollow between hills or flat area near the top of a hill, frequently having a road through it, a hill pass – ‘Ti the sooth, ayownt the sweire, stuide Black Law . . .’ [ECS] (existing in place names, such as ‘Priesthaugh Swire’, ‘Re-deswire’, ‘Swire Knowe’, the use of this word is mainly restricted to the Borders).

the Swire (thu-swI-ur) n. Swire Knowe, a hill between Cauldcleuch and Greatmoor, reaching a height of 459 m. Just to the west is Windy Swire and south-east is Swire Rig – ‘As I manage my steed on the slope of the Swire, I would sing thee a song of my heart’s desire’ [WHO].

Swirefoot (swI-ur-fI) n. Swirefoot, former name for lands on Hyndlee farm, at the foot of the ridge between the Jed Water and the Catlee Burn. The Hare Cairn once existed there and a shepherd’s cottage was built there later. A story is told about an old shepherd seeing fairies near here (also written ‘Swyrefoot’).

the Swires (thu-swI-urz) n. former name for the Borders, or perhaps some broad region within it. The phrase is used in the Register of the Privy Council in 1574 to refer to an area that certain local Croziers and others were to remove themselves from – ‘. . .they should be permittit to remove and transport thame selffis, thair wyffis, cornis and guidis outwith the Swyris,. . .on condition that they never returnit agane to dwell within the said Swyris theairefter, except befor thair returning and dulling thay fand responssall and sufficient suirteis, inlandis men . . .’.

Swire Sike (swI-ur-s k) n. stream in the headwaters of Singdean Burn. It rises on Fanna Swire and runs southwards.

swirly (swir-lee) adj., poet. curly, tangled, abstruse – ‘Then, swirly fortune, frown an’ fight’ [JR] (also written ‘swirlic’).

the Swiss Villa (thu-swIs-vi-la) n. house on the Canongate in Denholm, formerly the site of a stocking-shop.

swith (swith) interj., arch. away, be off – ‘Till swath! he’s turned to a moor, To herd some farmer’s nowt’ [JR].

swither (swi-thur) v. to be undecided, be uncertain, be unsure regarding a choice, hesitate – ‘. . .O, how sic conduct gars us swither Frae side to side . . . ’ [JR], ‘To wark they fell, what they could swither’ [JoHo], ‘... Won in fields where victory swithered – Won when Scotia’s laurels withered’ [JH], ‘... And a body swithered and thocht ‘What’s adae?’’ [DH], n. a state of indecision, hesitation over choice, anxious agitation – ‘... But whaur he got his lean Fair pits me in a swither’ [WL], ‘... But no alane for the love o’ his mither Did Wull gang reivin’ without a swither’ [WL] (cf. the locally more common swuthur).

swither (swi-thur) n., arch. a trial of strength, competitive effort – ‘Then we’ll at crambo hae a swither In hame-spun dress ... Or some auld aunt’s loquacious swither O’ wit an’ glee’ [JR], v., arch. to exert oneself in competition – ‘To wark they fell, what they could swither. The lint flew fast frae ane anither’ [JoHo].

swiz (swiz) n. a swindle, rip off, scam – ‘they grey hoonds it the shows er a right swiz’ v.? to swindle (from Old English).

Sword (sörd) n. Andrew (17th C.) Hawick’s first schoolmaster on record, according to deeds of about 1592 and also in 1616. Perhaps the same Andrew was also Hawick’s second recorded Town Clerk, from about 1620 until some time in the 1630s. He was also recorded as a notary public in Hawick in 1627 (for the Hawick Parish valuation).

James (1786/7–bef. 1861) born in Stichill Parish, he was a master carpenter at Brieryshaw in the Ewes valley. He was listed there in 1841 and 1851. His wife was Helen and they had children Jessie, James and Helen. His wife was a widow and ‘Fund Holder’ in 1861. John (17th C.) witness to the Hawick Parish valuation of 1627. It seems likely he was closely related to Andrew, who was notary for the document. John (b.c.1779) shepherd from Selkirkshire. He he was living at Ettrick House in 1841 and 1851. In 1801 at Gamescleuch he married Janet, daughter of Walter Lunn and Betty Turnbull, who lived at Colterscleuch. His children were born at Elrig, Nether Dalgleish and Ettrick House. In 1861 his widow was living with their daughter Margaret Anderson at Easter Alemoor, where she died a year later. Their children included: Elizabeth (Betty, 1802–82), who married Adam Beattie, and died in Annan, Ontario; John (1807–79), who married Jean Colthard and died at Easter Alemoor; Margaret (b.1804), who married James Anderson, farmer at Easter Alemoor; Walter (b.1810), who married Bella Hislop; James (b.1812), who married Helen Rieve; Janet (1813–19); William (b.1814), who married Isabella Hardie; and Robert (1821–84), who married Margaret Nichol and died in Annan, Ontario. Thomas (18th C.) recorded in 1743 as ‘Officer’, meaning that he was either Burgh Officer or Kirk Officer (probably the former). He was paid one shilling for guiding a troop of dragoons from Hawick to Langholm in 1740. He is also recorded in the Kirk Session records being paid for ‘for summoning the Parish’ about the same time. In 1743 he witnessed a baptism for workman William Noble. Probably the same Thomas is recorded in 1756 when the Council paid 1 shilling for his ‘sentence money’. He is probably the Thomas, married to Margaret Brown, whose children included John (b.1737) and Thomas (b.1739). Thomas (b.1813/4) born in Southdean Parish, he was shepherd at Tythehouse in 1861. His wife was Janet and their children included John and David B.D. (also spelled ‘Sowrd’ and ‘Sworde’).

sworn (swörn, so-rin) pp., arch. sworn, bound by oath – ‘... to be undecided (swuther is locally much more common).

swough (swowch) n., v., arch. sigh, especially of the wind (cf. souch).

swuf (swuf) adj., poet. swift, rapid – ‘... my tung is the pen o’ ane swuf writer’ [HSR].

swulky (swul-lee) adv., poet. swiftly, speedily – ‘... let thy tendir-mercies swultlie be afore an’ roun’ us ...’ [HSR], ‘... inclaine thine eear untill me; in the daye when I ca’, swultlie answir me’ [HSR].

swuir (swür) pp., arch. swore – ‘... whilk thou swuirist untill David in thy trough?’ [HSR], ‘Until whan I swuir in my frenn that thaye shudna entir intil my rest’ [HSR] (past tense of sweir, with ‘swore’ also used; the past participle is sworn or ‘sworn’).

swum (swun) pp. swam – ‘... she swum for Hawick in twae competetions’ (this is the past participle form in English, but sometimes used locally also for the past tense; cf. soom)d.

swul (swul-ruil) v. to swuril, curl, twist – ‘So away A huit eet gant, i swurlin cluds o stoor o its ain soppeen’ [ECS], ‘... And the keen blast songhin’ aroun’ the trees Has swurled awa my care’ [WL], n. a swirl.

swurl (swur-ruil) pp., arch. swirled – ‘... A pewl o reck fuelfelt abuin the gleed, an swurlt an ylleet away in a pirlin braith o wund’ [ECS].

swurn (swurn, swu-ruil) pp., arch. sworn – ‘... wha hethna liftet up his saul untill vainitie, nar swurn wrangoulsie’ [HSR], ‘I hae swurn, an’ wull stan’ til’t, that I wull keepe thy richeous judgementis [HSR] (this is the past participle of swieir; cf. the past tense swuir).

swush (swush) v., n. swish.

swuther (swu-thur) v. to be undecided, hesitate – ‘A’m still swutherin aboot whether or no ti gaun’, ‘...Oppression canne make it wuther’ [JEDM], to fluctuate, hover, move fitfully – ‘...a pickle blewe reek thre hoose-lums o Denum draigglet in a wutherin clud’ [ECS], n. a state of indecision – ‘she’s in a bit o a swuther aboot what ti weir’ (cf. the locally less common swither and swother).

swutten (swu-in) pp., arch. sweated – ‘The sweet was duist hailin off iz till A was nerrhand wutton ti deed’ [ECS] (past participle of sweit; cf. the past tense form swat).

Sybil Gentleman’s (si-bul-jen-ul-minz) n. former textiles factory on Green Lane, previously Bonsor’s and later Glenhowe, also known as Buccleuch Mills.

Sybil’s (si-bulz) n. popular name for Sybil Gentleman’s.

Sybil’s Well (si-bulz-wel) n. sculpted niche set in the rock of a natural spring on Flodden Hill.
The site is said to be where the Scots drank before the fateful battle. The existing structure was commissioned by Louisa, Marchioness of Waterford in the 1880s. It was popularised in Sir Walter Scott’s ‘Marmion’ – ‘Drink weary pilgrim and stay. Rest by the well of Sybil Grey’.

sybow (si-bi) n., arch. a young onion (from the French).

syke (sik) n., arch. the last drop, slightest hint – ‘No a sye = not the slightest sign or indication, etc.’ [ECS], ‘There’s no a sye o’ cream i’ the poorie’ [GW], ‘Every sye o’ milk’ [GW].

syke (sik) n., arch. the part of a dress at the armpit (noted by E.C. Smith, but obscure).

(from Anglo-Saxon; the word is still common in the names of small streams).

syke (sik) v. to drain – ‘wull ee syke thae tattis?’.

Sykefit (sik-fi) n. cottage near Harwood on Teviot, near where the Harwood Sike joins the River. James Elliot was there in 1797.

Syksett (sik-si) n. former lands in lower Liddes-dale, probably in the southern tip of Liddesdale.
It is uncertain exactly where it was, or whether the name has a different modern form. In 1541 it was tenanted by Alan Forester and valued at 2 merks.

syle see syle

born in Greenbank, near Edinburgh, son of William and Mary Thomson Pitcairn. He received his M.A. from Edinburgh University in 1881 and his B.D. in 1884. He was licensed by Edinburgh Presbytery that same year and became assistant minister at St. George’s Parish in Edinburgh. He was ordained at Lilliesleaf in 1888. In the period 1895–99 he was examiner for degress at Edinburgh University. He was Secretary of the Ministers’ Pension Fund Committee in 1907 and Clerk of the Presbytery in 1916. In 1900 he married Caroline Georgina, daughter of William Simson of the Bank of Scotland, and she died in 1938. He was awarded a doctorate by Edinburgh University in 1924. He demitted his charge at Lilliesleaf in 1928. He was also Convenor of the Committee on Admissions of Ministers of other Churches 1921–46 and Convenor of Committee on Proposed Scheme for Superannuation of Ministers 1933–37.
He wrote the book ‘The Parish of Lilliesleaf’ in 1913.
His religious writings included ‘Sermon on Temperance’ (1890), ‘St. Paul’s Last Letter’ (1900), ‘A Border Synod’ (published in Hawick, 1902), ‘Suggestions for a Pension Scheme’ (Hawick, 1906), ‘Studies in the Period of Elijah and Elisha’ (1915), ‘The Twenty-Third Psalm: an Anthology of Metrical Versions’ (1923), ‘Marriage in Scotland’ (1933, 1936, 1940, 1942, 1949). He also contributed to Hastings’ Dictionary of Christ and The Gospels’, was editor of ‘The Church of Scotland Year Book’ 1914–20 and edited Mair’s ‘Digest of Church Laws’ (1923).

Syme (sim) n., arch. Christian name, a former familiar form of Simon (also spelled ‘Symb’; cf. Sim and Simmie).

Syme’s see Sime’s

Symington (si-ming-tin) n. John (15th C.) one of the local Lairds who write ‘attestations’ to the transfer of the lands of Heap from James Lang-lands of that Ilk to Walter Scott of Buccleuch in 1431. He is recorded as ‘Richart off Symontoun’. Thomas (15th C.) witness to a charter for Thomas Cranston of Crailing in 1443. He is recorded as being of ‘Symondtoun’. Thomas (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when he was listed on the Hearth Tax roll among ‘ye poor’. His name appears to be written ‘fimmingtoun’.

Symonton (sl-mi-in) n. Robert (18th/19th C.) farmer at Tandlaw in Wilton according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls.

Symson see Simpson

synde (siind) v., arch. to rinse, wash out, wash perfunctorily, give a quick swill to – ‘Athens’ Senate chose the mountain: Ours prefer the running fountain, Sirpling down the shining cheerer, Sindic their ideas clearer’ [JH], ‘Weiceleike, A just tuik a toot – a sirple ti seind oot ma mooth’ [ECS], ‘That wumman’s claes ir no haaf seindet’ [ECS], ‘... Though they in Bowmont get a synd, ‘Tis for an honest leevin’’ [TCh], ‘They were weel-possed wi Carbolic saip, and weel syndit And hung-oot for a caller blaw ...’ [DH] (also spelled ‘seind’, ‘sinde’ and ‘synd’; cf. the more common syne).

syne (sin, sin) adv. then, afterward, thereupon, since, ago – ‘And he has kyssed her paunchy cheeke, And syne her nogly chinne’ [JTe], `I unsince, ago { `And he has kyssed her paunchy then, afterward, thereupon, since, ago – ‘And he has kyssed her paunchy

Synton (si-tin, siin-in) n. area just before Ashkirk, including several farms, formerly a large estate and separate barony, forming a disjoint part of Selkirkshire. The land was owned by the ‘de Sinton’ family for at east 4 generations. In the reign of William the Lion, Andrew de Sinton was appointed Sheriff of Selkirk, and gave up some lands in Roxburghshire, hence explaining why the estate became part of Selkirkshire. In the early 13th century the lands were described as marching with those of Lilliesleaf. In 1296 Marie de Sinton (probably widow of Alexander) signed the Ragman Rolls. In 1305 the lands were inherited by the ‘de Keith’ family through marriage to Isabella de Sinton. By the late 1400s the Barony was held by the Erskines, with some lands possessed by the Scotts in the 15th century, and with the Scotts being more or less permanent tenants from at least 1509. In 1494 the lands were valued at 40 merks, but in times of peace were worth £20; they were held for payment of a pair of gift spurs at Whitsunday, if asked. The Barony may at one point have included the lands of Whitslade and Dalglish, while part, owned by the Veitches, was annexed to the Barony of Dawyck. In 1502 the estate was attacked by David Scott ‘in Stirkshawis’ (i.e. Stirches) and some Armstrongs, as well as Adam Turnbull of Hornshole, when many sheep and cattle were stolen. In 1510 the Baron, Lord Robert Erskine, and his son Sir John Erskine, had an indenture with Ralph Ker of Primside Loch and Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst. Details are complicated, but basically for 400 ‘merks’ the Kerrs were sold for a 20 merk land in Synton Mains (adjacent to the 5 merk land of Walter Scott), and another piece of land of equivalent value within Synton, together with the option to take over the Scott lands after a few years. The lands were also raided in 1562, according to a decree made for Sir John Kerr of Ferniehirst. The Barony was granted to Walter, Earl of Buccleuch in 1621. George Scott, said to be 14th Laird of Synton sold the lands to Sir William Scott of Harden in about 1627. The Lairdship was revived by Sir William’s younger brother Francis. At some early time the lands were split into South and North Synton (on opposite sides of the Ale Water), as well as Synton Mill, Synton Parkhead and Syntonshiel farms. The main estate was South Synton, with North Synton owned by the Veitches from at least 1407 until 1641, when it was sold to Francis Scott of South Synton. The estate passed from Sir John Edmondston of that Ilk to John, Earl of Mar in 1593, and was bought outright by the Scotts of Buccleuch in 1619. The Barony and lands were listed among the possessions of the Scotts of Buccleuch in 1653, 1661, 1663, including ‘the toure, fortalice, manor-place, housis, bigingis, yairdis, mylnes, mylnelandis, multoris, and sequellis thairof’. The estate was valued at £946 in about 1663. In 1785 and 1803 the lands of Synton and Synton Mill were valued at £1600. The arms of the original Scotts of Synton have 2 stars and a crescent and their motto ‘Reparabit Cornua Phoebe’. The Harden-derived Scotts of Synton (and later the Corse Scotts) were important local lairds for many generations. Their arms are a ‘bend azure’ with a star and 2 crescents and their motto ‘Crescendo prosim’. Since the estate was the site for the hereditary sheriffdom of Selkirk, there must have once been at least a fortified house there, but its precise location is unknown. It seems likely to have been near to where the 18th century house was built, this having stones built into it dating from 1570. This house was demolished in the latter half of the 20th century (also spelled ‘Sinton’, ‘Sintone’, ‘Sintonne’, ‘Synoutn’, ‘Sintun’, ‘Suyntone’, ‘Suyntoun’, ‘Syntone’, ‘Syntoun’, ‘Sintone’, etc.; it is mentioned from at least the early 13th century; Blaeu’s 1654 map shows ‘South Syntount’ and ‘North Sintoun’, while Adair’s c. 1688 map shows ‘Sintoun’; an early connection with ‘Swinton’ is not impossible).
Syntoncorses

Syntoncorses (sin’in-kör-seez) n. farmstead between Synton and Synton Mains. About 140 m to the east are the remains of a ‘burnt mound’, at least 3 m in diameter. Robert Scott was shepherd there in 1851.

Synton Cottage (sin’in-ko’-ceej) n. cottage that is to the west of Synton farm. About 160 m to the north are the remains of a farmstead, with a building, 2 enclosures and traces of rig-and-furrow cultivation. About 190 m to the north-east are the remains of a plantation bank.

Synton Hoose (sin’in-hoos) n. house on the estate at Synton. It was rebuilt in about 1775 by Alexander Scott of Synton, probably on the site of the earlier house. It was located where modern maps mark ‘Synton’, although it was demolished after WWII and there is now little sign of where it was. The stables are inscribed with the date 1777, and it seems likely the main house was rebuilt at this time. Reset within the walls were 2 stones from the older house, which together read ‘GEORGE SCOT IN SYNTOWN AND MARG/RET EDMESTOWN HIS SP(OVS IN THE) / ZER OF GOD 1570 THE HEAR T(O WALTER SCOT)...’.

Synton Loch (sin’in-loch) n. small lake to the left of the A7 before coming to the main Synton area. It covers about 6 acres and is stocked for fishing. It is what is left of the much larger area of Synton Moss, which was largely drained in the 18th and 19th centuries. To the southwest some bones of an aurochs was discovered there in 1979. On a ridge about 300 m to the south lie the remains of a settlement, trapezoidal in shape, about 75 m by 65 m, with entrance near the east corner. It contains 2 sets of banks and inside are what might be 4 hut platforms. An Iron Age sword, as well as shards of pottery, found there are in the Royal Museum of Scotland. These suggest earlier occupation of the site.

Synton Mains (sin’in-mänz) n. farm just off the A7 opposite Ashkirk, with holiday cottages and a private loch. In 1510 the Barons of Synton, the Erskines, had an indenture with Ralph Ker of Primside Loch and Andrew Kerr of Ferniehirst over a 20 ‘merk’ land within this farm, adjacent to the lands held by Walter Scott, and another 20 merk land where they please. In 1609 Walter Veitch was served as heir to his grandfather in the lands of North Synton, including ‘lie Maynes’ there (presumably once the home farm for Synton; it is ‘the Manyes of Syntoun’ in 1510 and is marked ‘Mains’ on Ainslie’s 1773 map).

Synton Mill (sin’in-mil) n. farm and former corn mill on the south side of the Ale Water north of Synton. Isobel Scott was there in 1635, according to a court case at Ashkirk Session, with Thomas Nichol and Andrew Nichol also mentioned as tenants. Tax was paid for 6 hearths there in 1694. Robert Foster was miller there in 1703 and Thomas Scott was there in 1719. John Rutherford was tenant there in 1797, when there were 4 work horses on the farm. Adam Neil was miller there in 1851 (also written ‘Syntonmill’, it is ‘sintoune milne’ in 1694; it is marked as ‘Sin-toun Mill’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and ‘Sintown Mill’ on Ainslie’s 1773 map).

Synton Moss (sin’in-mos) n. land near Synton farm on the high ground just before Ashkirk. It was formerly a fairly extensive lake, but drained in the late 18th and early 19th centuries to obtain marl and peat. The remaining part is now called Synton Loch. Bones of several large extinct mammals were found there in the 19th century, including the skull of ‘bos primigenius’, donated by Henry Ewen in 1857.

Synton Mossend (sin’in-mos-end) n. farmstead at the northern end of the Synton Moss area, to the left of the A7 before Ashkirk. It may have been alternatively known as Syntonshiel or Ashkirkshiel. The name is also applied to Synton Loch. There are remains of a settlement in the woods to the south. A stone found on the farm had cup and ring markings and was moved to Whinfield Sawmills Yard in Selkirk before 1967. A cutting by the A7 near gives a good opportunity to view folding of the Silurian strata – ‘Past Ashkirk the exile feels that hame is nearly in sight Synton Mossend is left behind and it’s a climb tae the heights’ [GM] (see also Ashkirkshiel).

Synton Parkheid (sin’in-pawrk-heed) n. Synton Parkhead, farm on the road to Synton, off to the right of the A7. A bronze sundial there, on a modern pedestal, is inscribed ‘SEIZE THE PRESENT MOMENT THE EVENING HOUR IS NIGHT’, and ‘1705 / THOMAS GRICE’. A Bronze Age spearhead found there is in the Hunterian Museum, Glasgow.

Syntonshiel (sin’-in-sheel) n. former farmstead in the south part of Synton estate. It is marked on Ainslie’s 1773 map between the main road and Synton Loch, corresponding roughly to the position of Synton Mossend.

syre (si-ur) n., arch. an open drain, ditch, gutter.

’t (t) contr. enclitic, common after many specific words, e.g. ‘in’t’, ‘is’t’, ‘was’t’, etc., also used in a redundant sense with an extra ‘eet’ { ‘A thocht A wad send Tam’t eet’ [ECS] (see also ‘d). ta (taw) interj. thanks (used interchangeably with thanks).
taa see taw

tabber (taw-bur) n. a worker in the knitwear industry who hand sews labels (usually at the back of the neck) onto garments, traditionally a woman’s job.

the Tabernacle (thu-taw-bur-naw-kul) n. building on the Kirk Wynd built in 1805 for the Independent Church, and used by its congregation until about 1813. It was a plain building of 3 storeys, plus an attic. It saw additional use by the new Relief Church for a few months in 1810/11. The building was also used for dances, theatrical performances, etc. It later had many uses, being a carrier’s warehouse, hosiery mill (by the Co-operative Society 1874–81 and Peter Scott’s 1881–93), wool store and corn merchants. It became a billiard saloon in the early 20th century and was finally demolished in 1976 when the area was remodelled.

tablet (taw-bli’) n. a confection made from sugar, butter and condensed milk, like a firm sort of fudge, but extremely sweet – ‘ma granny aye makes tablet when oo’re comin’ (cf. tablet).

the Tablet (thu-taw-bli’) n. publication that ran for 3 issues in 1843.

tack (tawk) n., arch. a stitch, a loose tie – ‘A’ll gied a bit tack thegither, an that’ll keep eet threh comin’ loose’ [ECS], ‘Hingin be a tack = hanging by a thread’ [ECS], v. to stitch, sew lightly.

tack (tawk) n., arch. a lease, lease at nominal rent, customary payment, land that has been leased – ‘...with oyn of my landis, heretageis, takkis, stedegis, houssis, places, mylnis, woddis, fischeings, offices, cornes, cattel, insicht, airshiipe gudis, mailis, fermes, victualis, gres sumes, annuellis, cainis and vthiris gudis and geir ...’ [SB1569], ‘...and either the whole, or a certain part of the said Commonty, be allocated to the town as their undisputed property, the same cannot be set in tack, or disposed upon by them, or the rents thereof applied for the public uses, or benefit of the said town ...’ [BR1769], ‘...a tack of the vicarage tiends at Stirches’, ‘Rentall of ye Lands of Jedburgh forest conforme to the tacks yroff, 1669’ [GT], ‘He took a tack of the Green garden, containing upwards of a Scots acre, for a nineteen years lease’ [WNK].

tack-duty (tawk-joo’-ee) n., arch. duty payable on land held by lease – ‘Stousley with pertinents being formerly possesst by the deceast mr George Scott of Boonraw be ane 19 yeares tack Is now possesst by his aires & representa vives peying ththere conforme to the tack duety £100’ [Buc1692].

tacket (taw-ki’) n., arch. a small nail, stud for a shoe, hob-nail – ‘The new hew’s off that waxclaithe aready; its aa raet hee hee thee tacketts on eer shuin’[ECS], ‘Yonder’s David wi’ his een glentin’ like brass tacketts in his heid’ [RMi], ‘...A tacket stuck in Juist tae keep it frae wearin’’ [IJ], ‘Pies and peas at Bruciana’s and tacketts at Michael Graham’s ...’ [IJ], ‘...and the bash and batter o’ tacketts on a country dancin’ floor!’ [DH].

tackety (taw-ki’-ee) adj. hob-nailed, having studs on the soles – ‘deh merk ma flair wi yer tacketty bits’, ‘...a chaamp that turns foats an cuittiekins soappin-wat an lauchs at tacketty shuin’ [ECS], ‘A’ve ma bigcoat an ma nibbie an a guid perr o tacketty shuin, so it mae rain at, for ochits A care!’ [ECS].

tacksman (tawks-mun) n., arch. a chief tenant, lease holder, often a relative of the landowner who is sub-letting to other tenants, a taxman, person responsible for collecting customs and dues – ‘...the Earl’s bailie, officers, and tacksmen, when about to ride and set the fair ...’ [C&L1673], ‘Walter Eliot tacksman of ye milne and custome of Hawick, desired yt a part be found out in ye church ...’ [PR1712], ‘That the bailles, and all persons pretending to be tacksmen under them, ought to be discharged from molesting the burgesses ...’ [BR1778] (e.g. used to describe the collector of the Duke of Buccleuch’s levies at the markets and fairs in Hawick).

Taddei’s (taw-deez) n. cafe run by the Taddei family (brothers Ernie, Jimmie and Guido), located on North Bridge Street since before WWII. Ernesto Taddei turned it into Hawick’s premier billiard’s venue after the War, with 7 tables upstairs and 6 downstairs. It converted to a bingo tae

hall by the early 1970s, with an adjoining shop. The family also once ran a chip shop on Oliver Place and the Cadora Cafe on the High Street. The family once sponsored a football team, which played in black.

tae (tā) prep. to – ‘Ah’ll fetch Big Neal tae ee’ [BB], ‘When a’ the rest’s set tae the corn, Aw’rn sent oot tae the fog’ [JSB], ‘A horsemam stands guard wi’ flag tae the sky’ [JEDM], ‘...He’ll ne’er come back tae me’ [JEDM] (cf. teh and ti: earlier generations pronounced it more like tū).

tae (tā, tū) adv. too, also – ‘can A come tae?’, ‘An’ fegs, Aw’l gaun tae, the Gutterblude’s no deid in mei yet’ [JEDM], ‘An sic veeshyis feechten as it was, tui!’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘tui’ and formerly mei yet).

the tae (thū-tā) n., arch. the one – ‘The maist feck o the hooses cooer coothy on the tae hand ...’ [ECS], ‘Yow take the tae half an A’ll take the tother’ [GW].

tae-ei (tā-i) n., arch. someone who is doted on, a favourite – ‘Ye’re just your mammie’s lannie yet, And daddy’s tae e’ [JT], ‘The tae-ei = literally, the one eye; the idol; one who is doted upon; the herm’ [JAHM] (literally ‘one-eye’).

taen (tān) pp. taken – ‘he was taen inti custody’, ‘...to be tane, poynyt, distrenzit, and at the will of the said William ...’ [SB1470], ‘And when thow had tane away my three ky, Fala, &c. ...’ [CPM], ‘...He took the keys from the rusty lock, That never were ta’en before’ [JL], ‘And if I should be slain, Or a prisoner ta’en ...’ [JTe], ‘And when I shall nae ma’r remain, Yon sacred pile may next be ta’en ...’ [AD], ‘Thou hest taen a’ th’ wrath ...’ [HSR], ‘I ha hae taen serious thocht o’ the days o’ auld, the yeers o’ auldren times’ [HSR], ‘A was taen o’ mind as a laddie ...’ [??], ‘Oo’ve a flag that’s a’ oor ain, ‘After Flodden it was ta’en’ [TK], ‘Whae’s taen the Left Hand’s coat an’ worn it? A’m share ei’s never been a Cornet ...’ [MB], ‘...And sin’ they’ve aa taen their looks frae you, There’s nae that’ll come their gate to woo’ [WL], took – ‘she taen ower her fither’s shop’, ‘...the only day he taen off was the Sunday after the Common Ridin’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘ta’en’ and sometimes ‘tane’: this form can be the past tense or past participle; cf. tuik).

taen on (tān-ōn) adj. excited, worked up, extremely pleased – ‘Ah’m fair taen on wi ma praisent’, ‘hei seems taen on wi the new venue’.

taen the gate (tān-thū-gā) pp., arch. set off, run away, departed – ‘And whiles I think that muckle o’ life’s fun, The satisfaction kent langsyne, Has taen the gate, wi’ dear familiar folk That lit thae laddie days o’ mine’ [WL].

taen the gei (tān-thū-gi) pp., arch. taken offence, unmanageable, unfixable – ...machinery which has gone out of order and seems to defy attempts at repair is said to have taen the gei’ [ECS].

taen the guid o (tān-thū-gid-o) pp., arch. took the benefit of, took advantage of, enjoyed – ‘A hained that view an taen the guid o’d as lang’s A durst an cood’ [ECS].

taen the rue (tān-thū-roo) pp., arch. regretted, chenged one’s mind about a course of action – ‘A’m no gaun ti duid; A’ve taen the rewe’ [ECS] (also take the rue).”

taen ti the fair see fair taen up (tān-up) adj., arch. taken up, concerned with, enchanted – ‘Man, Aw was sae ta’en up; gie um a gude Hawick gill; it’ll dae um nae herm’ [JEDM].

taen wi (tān-wi) adj. taken with, infatuated with, unreasonably fond of – ‘she was fair taen wi the notion’.

taewards see tiwards

taffee see taffie

taffie (taw-fēe) n. toffee – ‘Did ee git a taffie aiple it the Shows?’, ‘There’s a sugar booll an taffy, tipenny pies, curney scones an’ Hawick bakes ...’ [JEDM], ‘Note that taffie generally signifiies the sticky variety, made of trykyl (treacle) or sayrup (syrup), in sticks or slabs ...’ [ECS], ‘And Jess McVeetie offered, up the Wynd, The grand-est sticky taffie in the town’ [WL] (also spelled ‘tafFee’ and ‘taffy’).

taffie-join (taw-fēe-join) n., arch. a social occasion for making taffie – ‘Taffie-join = a social evening, the principal feature of which was the making of a panful of treacle-toffee ... to defray the cost of which each guest had contributed a little’ [ECS] (sometimes ‘taffie-shine’; see also tam-trot join).

taffy see taffie
Taggart

Taggart (taw-gur′) n. Fr. Patrick (1809–95) born in County Tyrone, Ireland, he was ordained about 1846. He served in Dumfries and Edinburgh before becoming priest in Hawick in 1847, remaining for almost 50 years. Originally he ministered to Catholics in St. Boswells, Jedburgh, Kelso and Galashiels, as well as in Hawick. He was finally relieved of the responsibilities of Galashiels in 1853. He opened a Catholic school in Hawick in 1854. He also ran an evening school, since many of his pupils worked during the day. He had a house built for him in 1851, after living in the vestry for 2 years! He was known for regularly going walks with Rev. Dr. MacRae, and in general for being on good terms with the local protestant ministers. His services were used several times to try to quell riots that broke out during the building of the railway line, at St. Boswells and Shankend. It is also said that he helped get hosiery orders from the Admiralty directed towards Hawick firms in a time of very slack business. He later had a small cottage built behind the chapel to serve as his retirement home. In 1890 he was made a Domestic Prelate, with the title of Monsignor. He was buried in a vault at S.S. Mary & David’s and a stained glass window was erected in his memory.

taiblet (tā′-bi-lit′) n. a tablet, a sweet confection in general – ‘Note ...taiblet denotes the sugary or candy variety’ [ECS], ‘Thus coakih-nit taiblet = cocoanut candy’ [ECS], a particular confection like a hard fudge, made from condensed milk, sugar and butter (see also tablet).

taid (tā′d) n., arch. a toad – ‘The tade held up her auld dunne lufes, She lykit the sang sae weele’ [JTe] (also written ‘tade’).

taigle (tā′-gul′) v., arch. to tire, make weary – ‘An’ taigl’it age now totters in, Though he can scarcely hougel’ [JoHa], to detain, tarry – ‘...it didna molest them farther than it taiglet on about the buchte’ [LHTB], ‘...thou art my helpe an’ deliberer; mak’ nae taigglin, O my God’ [HSR], ‘I taiglettyna, but mde hste til keepe thy com-

Tailor’s Slack

the Tail (thū′-tāl′) n. former name for a piece of additional land farmed along with the tenancy of the Tower in Hawick (recorded in 1609).

the Tail Burn (thū′-tāl′-burn′) n. stream connecting Loch Skeen with the Grey Mare’s Tail – ‘The Tail Burn from the marshland leaps madcap down the brae, While Skene reflects in splendour, the late sun’s blinding ray’ [WL].

tail dam (tā′-dām) n. the part of a mill lade after the water wheels and the last sluice gate, where the water returns to the river.

tailegraph (tā′-lee-grāf′) n., arch. telegraph.

Tailfer see Telfer

tailit (tā′-lee′, lī′) adj. tailed, having a tail – ‘...having apprehendit ane for meir, quhyt mainet and quhyt taillit ...’ [BR1641].

Taillecleuch (tā′-lee′-kloo′ch) n. fortified house marked on Blaeu’s 1654 map, roughly near the modern Steelroad-end. The stream there is marked Taylor’s Cleuch on modern maps. There is no sign of where the house may have been. A circular enclosure near there, and close to the railway line, was excavated in 1977; it is about 40 m in diameter, and seems to be a prehistoric settlement with later occupation, probably unrelated to the tower-house. It may be associated with the ‘Tailside’ recorded in 1632, which was probably close to there.

Taillyard (tā′-lē′-ard) n. name for former lands within Crook, i.e. near the Kirkton Burn in Cavers Parish. It is recorded in 1581 as a ‘hortulo herbario vulgo vocat tailyzard’, i.e. a small herb garden commonly called Taillyard, on the west side of the lands of Crook (note that the transcription of the name is unclear; ‘Tail’ probably refers to a small piece of land attached to a larger area).

tailors (tā′-lurz) n. once one of the 7 incorporated trades in Hawick, which until 1861 had two representatives on the Town Council. They were probably incorporated towards the end of the 17th century. In 1679 their quartermasters were fined for ‘making an act not to work out of their own houses’. They are recorded taking the Test in 1684. In 1734 the Council allowed a petition from them ‘to convene at six o’clock to their work, and leave at eight o’clock at night’. The first female dressmaker in Hawick was in about 1793, with dresses before this period being made by the tailors.

Tailor’s Slack (tā′-lurz′-slawk′) n. short stream in Liddesdale, running into Greenshiel Sike, which becomes part of Ryedale Burn.
Tails Day

Tails Day (tālz-dā) n. former tradition on the day after ‘Huntie Gowk’, i.e. 2nd April, in which children (particularly at school) would try to pin paper tails on unsuspecting victims (this survived until around WWII).

Tailside (tāl-siíd) n. former farmstead in Liddesdale, probably close to Steeleroad-end. It is listed in 1632 among lands possessed by Hab Henderson, along with Todscleuch, Fairside and Cleuchside. It may be associated with the modern Taylor’s Cleuch and the fortified house of ‘Tailleycleuch’.

tailzie (tāl-yē) n., arch. term in Scots law, an entailment, whereby the legal succession of an estate is restricted to designated heirs – ‘Free the gates ye thouless bailies! Leave for once your wads and tailzies!’ [RSC], poet. a covenant – ‘Til sic as keepe his taylve, an’ til thae that bear in mind his commandements til do thame’ [HSR].
tain see the tane

taings (tāngz) n., pl., arch. tongs, fire-tongs (also tings and tyngs).
tiangle (tāng-ul, -gul) v. to tangle – ‘And ’tween thaim Aa let gaun, And the yins that got away, Lies a lang taingled story . . .’ [DH], n., arch. a tall lanky person { ‘A lang taingle o’ a chap’ [GW]. tairge (tārj) v., arch. to scold severely, to hurry, bustle.
tairget (tār-gi’) v. to target, n. a target, arch. a long narrow shred of cloth, a tatter – ‘. . .wui stoory claes aa tairgets an spatches an faizzent-ends, an skluiffin shuin wurn inti bauchels’ [ECS] (the English pronunciation is probably more common).
tairgets (tār-gits) n., pl., arch. long narrow shreds of cloth, tatters – ‘Hei’s stoory claes war aa tairgets an spatches an faizzent-ends’ [ECS].
tairgin (tār-jin) n., arch. a scolding.
tairglet (tārg-lit) n., arch. an icicle.
tairm (tārm, tā-rum) n. a term – ‘this ees ma last tairm it schuil’, ‘Oo thocht o’ gettin’ yin at the tairm’ [HNel1914], ‘Mebbe the tairm ‘discovery’ is the appropriate yin yin yin yin . . .’ [BW1938], ‘Yin comprehensive tairm Covers them a’ – Birth-pangs, rheumaties And deid-throw!’ [DH], ‘. . .wonderin. maybe, if he’d sellt his short bit tairm o’ time owre cheap . . .’ [DH].
tairse (tārs) adj., arch. terse.
tairt (tār) n., adj. tart – ‘I wadna swapt yin O’ her blackcurrant tairts For a’ the joys o’ heevin!’ [DH] (recorded in the Hawick News in 1954).
taisse (tā-sul) n., arch. a tassel.
tait (tait, tai’) n. a small amount, little piece – ‘. . .A tate o’ meal, a pickle coals, Will help their New Year’s Day’ [TCh], ‘A’l juist hev a wee tait o’d’, ‘The Cornet, a tait reed o’ face On the road tae Monday Chase’ [MB] (probably from Scandinavian).

Tait (tā) n. Adam (15th C.) on the panel for James Douglas of Drumlaurig inheriting the Barony of Hawick in 1484. Adam (17th C.) resident of Shielwood in 1694 when he was listed on the Hearth Tax roll among ‘ye poor’. Alexander (d.aft. 1595) recorded as ‘Vicar-pensioner and Reader’ at Traquair 1567–80. He was then deprived, living afterwards at St. Bride’s Kirk, Traquair. He became minister of Bedrule in 1585, but was ordered to demit this in 1591. He is mentioned as still living in 1595. Alexander (1782–1851) youngest son of miller George and Agnes Scott. In 1841 he was recorded as an agricultural labourer at Burnfoot Mill and his widow was living there in 1851. He died at Burnfoot in the 44th year of his service there. He married Margaret Younger, who died in 1858, aged 77. Their children included William and Margaret. They are buried in Wilton. Andrew (1778–1861) originally from Lauder, son of Andrew and Ann, he was a stockingmaker of the Green Wynd. He was one of the founders of the Relief Kirk. There is a record of him being granted money by the Board of Trustees for Manufactures in 1817 for a broad frame, after he had demonstrated that he had discovered how to make down tippets and muffs on the frame. He managed to make white feathered muffs, but when taste changed to coloured muffs, he was unable to get the feathers to dye properly. He was living on the Back Row in 1832, adjacent to where there were cholera victims. He is recorded as a widower living with the Kyle family on the Green Wynd in 1841 and 1851. Archibald (b.1705) farmer near Borthaugh. He was father of George, tenant of Borthaugh Mill. He is said to have lived into his late 90s, have married twice and had 19 children. He may be the tenant in Whitehillbrae whose wife Margaret Turnbull died in 1760, with her funeral recorded in Hobkirk Parish. His children probably included Archibald (b.1741) and George (b.1743), both baptised in Hobkirk Parish. Archibald (d.1824) agricultural labourer in the Hawick area. He is probably the Archibald, son of Archibald and Margaret Turnbull, who was baptised in Hobkirk Parish in 1741. He married Isabella Geddes, who died in 1822, aged 84. In her death record he is listed as ‘Egglar’, meaning a peddlar who collected eggs from outlying farms to sell at markets. Their children included: Janet (b.1773); Margaret (b.1777), who married carrier James Paterson; and William (b.1782), who was a carrier. His children were baptised in Hawick and Wilton Parishes; he was at Fenwick in 1777 and Borthaugh in 1782. The 1782 baptism was witnessed by George Tait (probably his brother) and Margaret Cowan; in an adjacent baptismal entry he was witness for George. He was probably son of the earlier Archibald and brother of George, tenant at Borthaugh Mill. He may be the Archibald who was charged with theft in Hawick in 1776. Archibald (1820–79) son of William and Elizabeth Forsyth. He was proprietor of the Ewe and Lamb Hotel in Melrose. He married Elizabeth Naylor. He died in Hawick. David (19th C.) shepherd near Addestoneshiel. In 1863 he presented to the Museum an otter that had been shot on Adderstoneshiel Moss. He is probably the ‘D. Tait’ recorded at Adderstonelee in 1868. Ernest E., O.B.E., J.P. (?– ) accountant in Pringle’s, he was President of the Callants’ Club in 1966. He became Secretary at Pringle’s in 1939, taking over from James Watherston. In 1947 he was made a Director of Pringle’s. George of Pirk (15th C.) on the panel to decide on the disputed lands of Kirkton Mains and the Flex in 1464/5. He is recorded as being ‘of the Pren’, his lands being in Tweeddale (near Stow). The David ‘de pryn’ recorded in the Justice-aire in Selkirk in 1494/5 is probably his son (and his son George is recorded in 1498). It is said that the Taits of Pirk died out in the male line and were continued by a daughter who married Horsburgh of that Ilk; they may be the oldest known Taits. George (d.c.1693) tenant in ‘Newtoun’ in 1689 when his will was recorded. It is unclear which Newton this may have been (in the counties of Peebles, Roxburgh and Selkirk). George (17th C.) resident of North Synton in 1693 when he was listed on the Hearth Tax roll there. George (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Robertson itself in 1731 and at Highchesters in 1742. Children baptised in Robertson who are probably his include Margaret (b.1731), Isobel (b.1738), Helen (b.1742), John (b.1748) and James (b.1754). George (1743–1812) son of Archibald, he was baptised in Hobkirk Parish. He was tenant at Borthaugh Mill, being the last miller there. He married Agnes Scott, who died in 1812, aged 70. Their children included: John; Isobel (b.1773); Archibald (b.1776); George (b.1778), builder in Hawick; William (b.1780); and Alexander (1782–1851). The 1782 baptism was witnessed by Archibald Tait (probably his brother), while he witnessed the baptism of William, son of Archibald Tait. He was buried in Wilton Old Kirkyard. George (1778–1853) son of George, who was tenant at Borthaugh Mill, he was born in Wilton Parish. He was a builder in Hawick, whose son (also a mason) had the same name. He served on the ‘Eternal Council’ as a representative of the hammermen; he was certainly there as early as 1827. He lived on the Punch Bowl Close at 27 High Street, owning the property there; his son George later rebuilt the front, while another son James ran a druggists in one of the 2 front shops and had a school in the back. He is probably the George listed as a builder on the Fore Row on Pigot’s 1825/6 directory and on the High Street in 1837. ‘Geo. Tait & Sons’ is listed on Punch Bowl Close in Slater’s 1852 directory. On the 1841 and 1851 censuses he is at Punch Bowl Close with his son James (druggist), with his other son George next door. He married Margaret Scott, who died in 1818, aged 38. Their children included: Margaret (b.1804); John (b.1808), also a builder; George (b.1812), who continued with his builder’s business; and James (b.1815). A portrait of him exists. The family (including 3 children who died in infancy) are buried in St. Mary’s. George (1812–97) son of builder George. He was also a mason and the 3rd George in a row in this family (his grandfather being miller at Borthaugh). Like his father before him, he was a member of the ‘Eternal Coonsul’, representing the hammermen for several years from 1846. The Tait builders (including his father and brother John) between them erected many of the Town’s buildings, including much of North Bridge Street and a large number of local mansions, including Silverbuthall, Mayfield, East Bank Meeting House, St. Andrew’s Church and Orrock Place Church. In 1841 he is recorded on Punch Bowl Close, listed at 76 High Street in 1851 and 1861, and still there in 1875. He rebuilt the front of the property that had been owned by his father; however, the building was later demolished (along with the one next door) to make way for the Pavillion Theatre. He was a nearly life-long member (and later an Elder) of Orrock Kirk. He donated some fossils to the Museum in 1863. He was described as having ‘a fine portly form’ and was latterly very deaf. In 1836 he married Beatrice Wilson, who died in 1862, aged 51. Their children included: Margaret (b.1838/9), who married James Turnbull.
of Galalaw; Beatrice (b.1839), who died in infancy; Beatrice (again, b.1845), who died young; George (b.1847), also died young; and Elizabeth (b.1851/2), who married Alexander Welsh from Coldstream. George (b.1829/30) son of grocer John. He was listed as a shoemaker at Wilton Place in Slater’s 1852 directory. In the 1851 census he was living with his parents on Wilton Kirkstyle and listed as ‘Deaf & Dumb’. Gilbert (b.1803/4) gamekeeper at Whitehaugh in Castleton Parish. His wife was Jane and their children included Christian and William. James (18th/19th C.) farmer at Eilrig. He is recorded there on the 1787–97 Horse Tax Rolls. In 1797 he was owner of 4 farm horses and 1 saddle horse. He also paid the dog tax there in the same year. He is recorded as ‘Mr James Tait’ at Eilrig in 1798 when his daughter was baptised in Roberton Parish. He married Janet Scott in 1795, the marriage being recorded in both Roberton and Ettrick Parishes. Their children included: Janet (b.1798); Helen (b.1803); Henry (b.1806); and Georgine (b.1810). James (18th/19th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. In 1797 he married Helen Leitch from Hawick Parish. James (b.1805/6) coal agent in Denholm. His wife was Helen. James (1815–63) son of builder George, he was a chemist at 27 High Street in the mid-19th century. He also had a school in the back premises. He was said to be a ‘cripple and walked very lame’. He married Catherine Anderson, from Jedburgh. James (19th C.) editor of the Kelso Chronicle. He wrote the 2 volume study ‘Two Centuries of Border Church Life: with Biographies of Leading Men and Sketches of the Social Conditions of the People’ (1889, 1891). It principally contains details of churches associated with Kelso Presbyterian, encompassing several areas around Hawick, including Lilliesleaf and Liddesdale. He also edited Walter Riddell Carre’s work ‘Border Memories, or, Sketches of Prominent men and women of the Border’ (1876) and ‘Wilson’s Tales of the Borders’ (1881, 1884). James (19th C.) local artist. His painting ‘Hawick Common Riding Procession at Tower Knowe 1890’ is in the Museum collection. He is probably also the James who painted a portrait of Provost George Wilson and possibly a picture of Minto Pond. John (17th C.) piper, named by the Hawick Bailie in 1627, among 15 other ‘idle and masterless men’ as fit to be sent to the wars in Germany. While in Edinburgh Tolbooth he was among 7 of them who complained that they were not in fact the sorts of men who should be pressed into military service, but nevertheless were transported to the wars in Germany. John (d.bef. 1721) gardener listed among those who subscribed to the fund for the new Kirk bell in Hawick in 1693/4. Probably the same John was resident of the west-side of Hawick, recorded on the Hearth Tax rolls in 1694. In 1715 he was fined ‘for breaking the marches between the Common and the property of the Dutchess of B. at the Wolllegate’. He was described as the deceased ‘some times gardner’ in 1721 when his daughter Isobel married flesher Robert Hardie in Hawick. John (17th/18th C.) tenant in Adderstoneshieil. In 1720 his ‘servitor’ John Scott had a child baptised in Kirkton Parish. John (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1724 he married Margaret Turnbull in Wilton Parish. He could be the John ‘Teat’ recorded at Boethwickshiel in 1725 when his son John was baptised and the John ‘Tat’ recorded in 1735 at Girnwood when his son John was baptised. John (18th C.) footman at Knowe in Minto Parish in 1778, when he was working for Thomas Turnbull. In 1779 he was listed as a house and riding servant. John (18th C.) tenant farmer in Fenwick in about the 1750s, when Robert Hobkirk was Town Herd. He was said to have ‘came and drunk with Bailie Ker’ in order to solve a dispute with the Town Herd over the use of the Common. John (18th C.) recorded at Winnimung Rig on the 1787 Horse Tax Rolls. John (1768/9–1812) road contractor who died at Abbotrule Lodge. His wife Elizabeth Bell died in Edinburgh in 1851, aged 82. Their youngest son Adam (born in Southdean Parish) died in Edinburgh, aged 30. The family were recorded on a tombstone in Abbotrule Kirkyard. John (1771–1851) son of George, he was born at Borthaugh Mill. In 1794 he married Agnes, daughter of Gilbert Amos, and she died in 1815. The marriage was against the wishes of her family, and so was carried off from Adderstonelee at midnight! He then moved to Cavers, where he acted as a forester on Cavers estate. Their children included: Gilbert, George (b.1796), John, James and Margaret. In 1819 he emigrated to New York state with 5 children. John (18th/19th C.) spinner in Hawick. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. John (b.1791/2) stone-cutter in Denholm, where he was a registered voter in the 1860s. In 1861 he lived at around the Canongate. He married Margaret Biggar and they had a son Thomas. John (19th C.) tenant farmer at Wolfehopelee and Braidhaugh in the mid-1800s. His daughter married farmer Thomas Grierson. John Tait (b.1801/2) from Watten in Caithness, he was a grocer in Wilton. In 1851 he was living at Wilton Kirkstyle and he was listed as a shopkeeper at Wilton Place in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1861 he was at Melburn Cottage in Wilton. His wife was Christina, and their children included George (shoemaker), Jessie, Magnus Sandison, Christina, John, Robert, William, Elizabeth and Georgina. John (b.1808) son of builder George, he was a mason on the Cross Wynd. Like his father and brother George, he sat on the ‘Eternal Councill’, representing the hammermen from 1848. He and his brother built a good fraction of North Bridge Street, as well as several large mansions in the Hawick area. In 1851 he is listed as a builder, with 2 partners, employing 12 people, and residing at about 13 Cross Wynd. His wife was Agnes Reid from Langholm, and their children included Margaret, Isabella, Agnes, John, Helen, George and James. John (b.1829) son of carrier William, who died when he was young. He probably served in the army during the Crimean War. In 1863 in Wilton Parish he married Helen, daughter of mason Walter Cranston; she died in 1913. He was at that time described as a frameworker and Chelsea Pensioner and the witnesses were Archibald Brown and Agnes Cranston. Their children included: William Walter (b.1865) and Walter (b.1866). He also appears to have had an illegitimate son George with Mary Smith (nee Middlemas) in 1860. John G. (b.1830/1) head gardener at Cavers. In 1861 he was living at ‘Cavers Garden’, which was presumably the gardener’s house on the estate. Rev. ?? (17th/18th C.) chaplain at Thorlleshope. He was one of the local clergymen who gave sermons in Hawick in 1721 when Rev. Cunningham was ill. Robert (17th C.) tenant in Honeyburn. In 1684 he was among men declared as a fugitive for attending field conventions. He is listed separately from Robert in Hagburn. Robert (17th C.) tenant in Hagburn (in Rulewater). He is listed in 1684 among men declared fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. Thomas (b.1801/2) born in Channellkirk Parish, he was a gardener at Wells and then farmer at Denholm Mill. He is still recorded as farmer at Denholm Mill in 1868. He married Isabella Gray, who was from Craeling. Their children included: James (b.1828); John Gray (b.1830); David (b.1832); Margaret (b.1834); William (b.1835); William (again, b.1837), who was a shepherd; Peter (b.1839); Robert (b.1840); Charles Anderson Gray (b.1846); and Thomas (b.1843). Their children were born in Jedburgh and Southdean Parishes. Thomas (1833/4–1923) son of stone-cutter John. He married Christina Black, who died in 1908, aged 70. Their children included Rule (1866/7–97). Probably the same Thomas was tenant at Denholm Mill, recorded in the 1860s. Walter (18th/19th C.) farmer at Adderstoneshiel, recorded on the 1788–92 Horse Tax Rolls. On the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls he was owner of 5 farm horses and 1 saddle horse. He also paid tax in 1797 on 3 non-working dogs. His son James was baptised in Kirkton Parish in 1786. Betty (b.1784), John Caverhill (b.1787), Caverhill (b.1788), Margaret (b.1790) and Susan (b.1792) were probably also his children. William (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when he was listed among the ‘Cottars’ on the Hearth Tax roll there. William (17th/18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick. In 1721 he married Margaret, daughter of William Hope, gardener. William (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1756 he married Agnes Hogg. William (18th C.) resident of Hawick. He married Jean Gordon and their daughter Ann was baptised in 1758, with Thomas Bunyan as witness. His occupation may read ‘tinclar’, i.e. a metal worker. William (1782–1832) son of Archibald and Isabel Geddes, he was baptised at Borthaugh in Wilton Parish. He was a carrier, operating between Hawick and Dumfries and Annan, according to Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He was listed as a carrier in the subscription list for Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. He is probably the carrier William who married Elizabeth (or ‘Betty’), daughter of William Forsyth, in Wilton Parish in 1813 and whose children included: Margaret (b.1812), who married James Daykins; Isabella (b.1814), who married John Lawrie; Elizabeth (b.1816), who married Peter Blair, miller at Hundalee and emigrated to Australia; Matilda (b.1818), who may have died in Dumfries in 1889; Archibald (b.1820), who married Elizabeth Naylor and was proprietor of the Ewe & Lamb in Melrose; Catherine (1823–64), who married farm steward Andrew Walker of Linton Parish; Williamina (1826–31); John (b.1829), who married Helen Cranston; and William (b.1831), confectioner. His wife died 2 days after him, leaving 8 children as orphans. In 1833 his former premises in the east end of Hawick were advertised for sale, including ‘dwelling-house, offices, garden, and pertinents’, with the house being built within the previous 20 years. William (b.c.1784) born in Hownan, son of David and Janet (or Jessie) Armstrong. He moved to Hyndlee as a shepherd and spent most of his working life at Wauchope Walls (also known as ‘Langhaughwalls’ or ‘the Waas’). He was recorded there in 1861 and 1868. He also acted as carrier between Hawick and Jedburgh and the Wauchope area. Along with his wife Rachel and daughter Rachel, he was a member of the original congregation of Wolfelee Free Kirk. He married Rachel Riddell in 1805. Their children were David (who married Mary Paterson), Betsy (who emigrated to America), Janet (who married T. Waugh), Mary (who married A. Elliot), Margaret (who married labourer Christopher Shakelton), Agnes Douglas (who emigrated to America), Rachel, Isabel (who married Will Bell), Helen (born at Hislop), Jane and James. William (b.1802/3) from Bowden, he was a baker on the Cross Wynd. On Pigot’s 1837 directory he was listed as a baker on the High Street. He was at about 4 Cross Wynd in 1841. He later lived on Backdamgate and Kirkwynd. He married Elizabeth Kerr, who was from Langholm. Their children included: Jessie, who married John Davidson; Elizabeth; Margaret; and Robert. William (c.1831–1913) youngest son of carrier William, who died shortly after he was born. In 1861 he was a frame-worker, living at 11 Teviot Crescent. He was later a confectioner in Hawick. In 1853 he married Elizabeth (or ‘Betsy’) Bell. Their children included William (greengrocer), Jane and Margaret. He died at 1 Glebe View. William (b.1836/7–1914) shepherd in Castleton Parish. He is probably the shepherd at Langburnshields whose daughter was mother of Peter Jardine, forester at Wolfelee. He married Thomasina Nichol in 1860 and she who died in 1889, aged 52. Their children included: Thomas (b.1863); Walter Nichol (b.1866); James (b.1867); William (b.1871); John (b.1873); and Isabel Grey (1892/3–1914). He died in Hawick and is buried at Ettleton. William (19th C.) son of William, he was a greengrocer. He was at 72 High Street in 1875. William (19th C.) farmer at Pin in Liddesdale in 1868. William (19th/20th C.) superintendent of St. George’s Sunday School from 1916 until WWII. He was a member of the Public Assistance Committee and Chairman of Drumlanrig Home Committee. He also represented Scotland at bowling (formerly ‘Tait’ and other variants).

Tait & Anderson (tāt-an-an-dur-sin) n. textile manufacturing firm of the late 19th and early 20th centuries. They were located in Waverley Mills, Mansfield Road.

Tait’s Close (tāt-klos) n. popular name for a close off the High Street in the mid-1800s, with uncertain position, probably at 29 High Street.

Tait’s Strip (tāt-z-strip) n. plantation to the east of Denholm, about mid-way between Garthside and Towerburn. Near there there are signs of a possible old enclosure.

tak (tak) v., arch., poet. to take – ‘Item, the clerk sal tak for every bill making twa shillings …’[BR1640], ‘But time will try, an’ I maun patient be, And tak the lot that heav’n ordains for me’[CPM], ‘New fashions tak’ the causa croon …’[JT], ‘If ye tak it tae hert then ye’ll niver gang wrang’[WAP], ‘… He wad tak the drove road a day sune: Syne he’d traiavel langs oors’[WL].

take (tāk) n., arch. a flirtation, companion of the opposite sex (also written ‘talk’; noted by E.C. Smith).

take a body ti the fair (tāk-a-bo-dee-ti-thu-fār) v., arch. to take an overconfident person aback.

take a len o (tāk-a-len-o) v. literally to take a loan of, to take advantage of, exploit, impose on, make a fool of – ‘Ti tak a len o = to impose upon; to deceive’[ECS], ‘Howt! c’way hymmn an never heed thum; thay’re duist taikin a len o ee’[ECS] (see also len).

takand (tā-kand) pres. part., arch. taking – … we, Robert Scot in Hawik, and James Scot his brother, for our selffis, and takand the burdene vpone ws, our mother …’[SB1581].

take a pick at (tāk-a-pik-i’) v., arch. to bear a grudge, harbour resentment towards – ‘An so it is that A heh thae thochtis ti faa back on gin Fortun takes a pick at iz …’[ECS] (see also pick).

take ower (tāk-ow-ur) v. to overtake – ‘if ee gaun fast enough ee’ll be able ti take is ower’.

tak tent see tent

Tak tent o time (tawk-ten-tō-tim) n. phrase inscribed on a panel attached to the top of 25 High Street. There is also a script letter ‘C’ on the building. A sundial, dated 1683, was found built into this house. The full inscription is ‘Tak tent o’ time, ere time be tint’, which is known on other sundials (e.g. at Stormontfield Church).

take the gate see taen the gate take the rue (tāk-thu-roo) v., arch. to change one’s mind, repent – ‘A hickeet an tuik the rewe, for the … look o’d wad heh gien a body the scunner[s]’[ECS], ‘A’m no gaun ti dui’d; A’ve taen the rewe’[ECS] (also spelled ‘rue’ and variants; also taen the rue).

tald see tauld

tale see wi thur tale tale-pyet

tale-pyet (tāl-pj-ē’) n., arch. a tell-tale, tattle – ‘Tale-pyet, tale-pyet, sits on the midden, Cleans my shoes, an’ diz my biddin’’ [T].

talli (ta-li, -la) n., arch. tallow – ‘The spelling is, in most cases phonetic, and shows that the local pronunciation has been then, as now, distinctive, … talaw, tarr, lickeras, musterd, lint, wax, oats, eggs, eaw skins and quey calves …’ [DMW].

the Tally Ho Stakes (thu-taw-lee-hō-stāks) n. race run on the Saturday of the Common Riding, beginning in 1894, for horses that have followed one of the local hunts.

Tam (tam) n. Christian name, usually a pet form of Thomas – ‘Thrice happy she who gets her will To marry Tam, or Dick, or Bill …’ [JR] (also Tammy).

Tam-a-Linkin (tam-a-ling-kin) n. nickname of Thomas Turnbull (also written ‘Tam-A-Lincoln’, Tam-o’Lincoln etc.).

Tam-a-Lincoln see Tam-a-Linkin

Tam Gray (tawm-grā) n., arch. a kind of bread given out at New Year – ‘A hunk of grey bread distributed at Minto House, as part of a Hogmanay gift to the village children, used to be called Tam Gray’ [JAHM].

Tamlane (tam-lān) n. famous Border ballad, and existing in several versions (and spellings), about a meeting with fairy folk at Carterhaugh, near Selkirk (spelled many different ways, including ‘Tam Lin’) – ‘O I forbid ye, maidens a’, That wear gowd on your hair, To come or gae by Carterhaugh; For young Tamlane is there’ [T].

Tamlane’s Well (tam-lān-wel) n. well by the roadside below Carterhaugh farm, restored by the Buccleuch Estates. This was supposedly the location for the ballad ‘The Young Tamlane’.

Tammas (taw-mis) n. a form of Thomas.

tammy (ta-mee) n. a tam-o’-shanter hat, a flat round woollen cap, usually with a bobble on top – ‘Hei aye wore his green tammy ti watch the Robbie Dyes’.

Tammy (ta-mee) n. a pet-name for Thomas (also spelled ‘Tammie’; cf. Tam).

Tammy Clarilee (ta-mee-klawr-n-lee) n. nickname for Thomas Oliver.

Tammy Graham (ta-mee-grā-un) n. Hawick character, probably of the 19th century – ‘Sally Machusky, Betty Johnny, Jamie Adams and Tammy Graham, The little Gover as smart as ony, Auld Mag Lamb and her penny krame’ [HI].

Tammy Lauder (ta-mee-law-dur) n. local nickname probably from the 19th century – ‘Kate the Cuddy Wife, Tammy Lauder, Willie Gorterson, Jockie Eye: Auld man Fox was never madder Than when the callants chased his kye’ [HI].

Tammy Mid (ta-mee-mid) n. nickname of Thomas Middlemas.

Tammy Mid’s (ta-mee-miiz) n. scrap metal and rag merchants at 55 High Street, with the yard in behind. It was a well-known site of the mid-20th century, run by Thomas Middlemas.

tammy noddy (taw-mee-no-dee) n. a large moth (probably not applying to any specific species, but particularly for the sort of large moth that flaps around lightbulbs in houses at night).

tammy noddy-heid (taw-mee-no-dee-heed) n., arch. a cranefly, a butterfly crysalis, a tadpole (this last meaning peculiar to the Borthwick Water), a dim-witted person – ‘Tammie-noddie-heed … is used in Hawick in the sense also of English noddy or noodle = simpleton’ [ECS].

Tammy Porritch (ta-mee-por-ich, -reech) n. local nickname, probably of the 19th century – ‘There goes Magenta (whose face is woe) – Whose tales wi’ simple fun are gay, And there’s Jock Buckham and Crosbie Bow, And Tammy Porritch and Uffie Rae’ [HI] (possibly related to Porritch Jock).

tammy-reekie (ta-mee-reek-kee) n., arch. the stalk of a cabbage, filled with flax fibres and used essentially as a cheap cigarette, a small tin filled with smouldering flax, used as a warmer for children in cold weather – ‘The children of Hawick formed a tammy-reekie by packing lint or tow (which had been ignited and was smouldering) into a small tin’ [ECS] (also ‘tammy-reekie’).

Tammy Robertson (ta-mee-ro-bur’in) n. nickname in use in the 19th century – ‘Black Andra’ and the Birsin’ Badger, Tammy Robertson, Deevil Bell; The Blue Laird and the Gallopin’ Cadger, Baillie Birsleton and the Mell’ [HI].

Tammy Rusk (ta-mee-rusk) n. nickname for baker Thomas Scott.

tammy-shanter (ta-mee-shawn-tur) n. a tam-o’-shanter.

Tammy Tudhope (ta-mee-tu-dup) n. former toy-trader at local fairs, see Thomas Tudhope.

Tam-o-Lincoln (tam-o-ling-kin) n. a variant of Tam-a-Linkin.

Tamshielhaugh (tawm-shiël-hawch) n. former farmstead in a remote part of Southdean Parish, on the Black Burn near Tamshiel Rig. The modern name for the area is ‘the Burns’. William Scott was tenant there in the mid-19th century. His daughter Isabella married racehorse trainer James Waugh.
Tamshiel Rig

Tamshiel Rig (tawn-sheel-rig) n. hill above the Black Burn, south of Southdean, reaching a height of 280 m, being the northern shoulder of Green Law to the south. It contains an Iron Age hill-fort, settlement and field system, remains of which were partially destroyed by forestry ploughing and planting in the 1950s. The site consists of a nearly circular fort of about 85 m diameter, together with a smaller (and presumably later) settlement built on the fort, as well as an extensive field system in the surrounding area. Parts of ‘beehive querns’ found there are in the National Museum of Antiquities. The area also features in Iain Biggs multi-media book ‘Between Carterhaugh and Tamshiel Rig: a borderline episode’ (2004).

Tamson see Thomson

Tam the Millman (tam-thu-nil-mawn) n. nickname, when ??.

tam-tit (tawn-ti’) n., arch. the wood warbler, wood-wren Phylloscopus sibilatrix – ‘The sma-quilled buskers are happed in sleep, Tam-tit’s gien owre his cuddy-ca …’ [DH].

tam-trot (tawn-tro’) n., arch. a kind of toffee – ‘…the poorest wretch who exposes for sale, on a wheel-barrow or an empty cask, a few fish-hooks, or thimbles, or sticks of tam-trot …’ [RW], ‘…and on Hopekirk Ba’ morning the krain-wives regularly took up their station in the kirkyard and exposed their wares of gingerbread, tam trot, and clagam on the old through stones’ [WaD], ‘…and then gone to Mary Wilkie’s and bought up all her stock of ‘tam-trot’” [WNK].

tam-trot join (tawn-tro’join) n., arch. a social gathering to make and eat toffee – ‘Taffy-shines, or, as they were locally called, ‘Tam Trot joins’” [HAST1909] (see also taffie-join).

Tam Wilson’s Cauld (tawn-wul-sinz-kawld) n. former weir in the Slitrig, associated with Thomas Wilson’s mill on Slitrig Crescent. In 1837, opposite here, part of the wall was taken down so that Tory supporters could be thrown into the water.

Tancred (tawng-kred) n. George (1831–1914) eldest son of George Cleghorn of Weens. He was born and raised at Weens, then educated in Edinburgh and at Leamington. When rowing on the Thames as a boy, he mangled his hand and lost part of a thumb. He joined the East India Company at age 19 and became an ensign in the 43rd Bengal Native Infantry, caught an almost fatal illness and was sent to Simla to recover. He then moved to Kashmir, when he became ill again with dysentery and returned to England in 1853. There he joined the West York Militia, purchased a commission with the 17th Lancers, and was transferred to the Scots Greys, where he became Captain, spending time in various parts of England and also Ireland. He retired from the army in 1866. He was a keen shooter, bragging that over a year he (and some friends) killed about 1000 patridges, 400 pheasants and 60 grouse. He succeeded his father in 1855, and was known as ‘Cleghorn of Weens’ for 30 years. However, he assumed the name and arms of Tancred in 1885 following the death of Charles Tancred of Arden Hall, Yorkshire, according to the conditions of succession to his estate. He substantially improved the house at Weens in the early years of the 20th century. He took possession of the ‘key of Gibraltar’ which had been taken from ‘the Rock’ by Lord Heathfield, who was born at Wells. He was a member of the Roxburghshire County Council, Chairman of Hobkirk Parish Council, Deputy-Lieutenant for Roxburghshire and Justice of the Peace for Roxburghshire, as well as the North Riding of Yorkshire. He joined the Jedforest Club in 1862. He was also a Vice-President of Rulewater Miniature Rifle Club from 1905. He wrote ‘Historical Record of Medals and Honorary Distinctions’ (1891), ‘The Annals of a Border Club, the Jedforest’ (1899) and ‘Rulewater and its People: an Account of the Valley of the Rule and its Inhabitants’ (1907, reprinted in facsimile 1992). This last book is an extremely valuable account of the histories of families the Rule valley (and neighbouring areas), particularly in the 18th and 19th centuries, and including ordinary people as well as the landed gentry. And the Jedforest Club book is actually an excuse for him to present the histories of a large fraction of the local land-owning families. He was said to be working on another book when he died, ‘Old Border Lairds and their Tenants’; it is not clear how far he had progressed and no manuscript survives. In 1862 he married Mary Anne Hay (who died in 1914), 3rd daughter of Col. Thomas Lumsden, from Aberdeenshire. They had 11 children: George Harry Lumsden (1863–1935), who served in South Africa, married Sarah Ann Gillespie and died in New Zealand; James Charles (b.1864), who was a Royal Navy Commander and married Cecile Margaret, only daughter of Walter Macmillan-Scott of Wauchope; Thomas Angus (b.1867), Major in the Royal Artillery; Richard Fairfax (b.1875), moved to Queensland; Edward Meynell (b.1877), also Queensland; John Yule (b.1879), with the Indian Staff Corps; Walter Cecil (b.1885), born at Tandlaw (tawnd-law) n. farm just out past the ‘Power Road Ends’, with a small loch nearby, Tandlaw Moss. It appears to have been part of the estate of Robert Scott of Alton in 1643. Robert Scott of Tandlaw paid the land tax on £40 in Hassendean Parish in 1678. It was contained within Hassendean Parish until 1690 when it fell within the new Wilton Parish boundaries. Robert Scott was recorded there in 1702 and mason William Gibson in 1708. Another Robert Scott was there in 1729, Walter Scott in 1758 and Adam Armstrong in 1791. Rev. Robert Scott of Innerleithen is recorded as owner in 1788 (continued in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls), when it was valued at £40 and recorded as ‘Tanlaw, or Tandlaw’. In 1851 it consisted of 200 acres. Robert Symington was farmer there in 1797 and Adam Nichol in 1841 and 1851 (also sometimes ‘Tandla’; it is ‘Tandla’ in 1673, ‘Taandlaw’ in 1682, ‘Tandla’ in 1702 and ‘Tanlaw or Tandlaw’ in 1813; not to be confused with ‘Tanlaw Naze’ near Teviothead or ‘Tanlawhill’ etc. near Eskdalemuir).
Tandlaw

Tandlaw Moss (tawnd-law-mos) n. marshy area and small loch to the west of Tandlaw farm. It is the source of the Boonraw Burn (also sometimes ‘Tanlaw Moss’).

tane see taen

the tane (thu-tän) n., arch. the one, that one, especially in the phrase ‘neither the tane nor the tother’, ‘…Waltir Scot of Branxhelm, knicht, on the tane part, and James Gledstanis …on the tuddyr part’ [SB1519], ‘…did they believe the Bible, ye micht as weel haes askit, for the tane just deserves as weel to be believed in as the tither’ [EM1820], ‘…whan A kennd feine naether the tain nor the tother cood be the richt oor …’ [ECS], also used elliptically for the whole of the phrase – ‘Hei’s unch la comin, A unk! Hei’s no weil or ei canna wun – the tain’ [ECS] (also spelled ‘the tain’; cf. the tother).

tang (tawng) n., arch. the tongue of a Jew’s harp – ‘The tang o’ the trump’ [GW].

tangel (tawng-ul) v., n. tangle (note no hard g sound).

tangs (tawngz) n., pl. arch. tongs – ‘…a near-do-weel cowherd callant made as if he wad grip it by the nose wi’ a pair o’ reid het tangs’ [LHTB].

tanker (tang-kur) n., arch. a tankard – ‘…an than A gaed inta a bit an slokent ma drooth (oot ov a tanker lippin-fowe …)’ [ECS].

Tanlaw Naze (tan-law-naż) n. hill between Falnash and Caerlenrig, reaching a height of 310 m, called ‘Tanlawnesse’ in earlier documents. Along with the lands of Falnash and ‘Cawsya’ it was confirmed by James IV in a 1511 charter to Simon Dalgleish, with the consent of his son Kentigern Dalgleish. Along with Falnash and ‘Cawsya’ it was inherited by Archibald Elliot of Falnash from his great-great-grandfather Archibald in 1647. It was inherited by Walter Scott of Langshaw from his father Francis in 1690 (the name probably derives from Scots ‘tandle’, meaning a bonfire, and Middle English ‘nese’ for a projecting nose of land; it is ‘Tandlines’ in 1511 and 1647, ‘Tanlawnis’ in 1675 and transcribed ‘Tabdinarser’ in 1690).

Tannage Close (taw-neej-klös) n. passageway off the middle of the west side of the High Street, between Nos. 61 and 63. It was named after the tanning pits at the bottom of the close, with the business carried out by John & Walter Wilson from 1800. In the early 1800s it was called Ewen’s Court, then was known as Moncrieff’s Close until Tannage Close was adopted about 1857 (although the 1858 Ordnance Survey map shows the bottom part called Tannage Close, with the upper part labelled Moncrieff’s Close). The Moncrieff family used to live on the east side of the close. The name ‘Guthrie’s Close’ has also been used (from the plumber and slater’s business on the west side). It was once an area of over-crowded housing, with re-development happening between the two world wars.

tanner (taw-nur) n., arch. a sixpenny coin, sixpence – ‘Ee got intae Stan Reid’s for a tanur …’ [AY], ‘Thrippences, tanners, bobs, florins, The odd halfcrown Come floatin’ doon’ [DH].

the Tanner’s Pool (thu-taw-nurz-pool) n. former name for a pool in the Teviot near the foot of Tannage Close, which was used for tanning. The base of the old Mercat Cross was once located here (and the iron ring in it used for securing skins), but removed when Teviot Road was built.

tannin (taw-nin) n. the act of converting hides into leather by soaking in an infusion of barks containing tannic acid. The tanning of leather and dressing of sheepskins was formerly an important trade in Hawick. Tanners would usually have open tanning vessels, producing a strong smell in the vicinity. Mactaggarts skinworks was a related modern business that successfully operated through much of the 20th century. The name ‘Tannage Close’ is one of the few remnants of this occupation.
Tantledie

Tantledie (tawnt-le-dee??) n. nickname for someone in the late 18th or early 19th centuries.

tap (tap) n., arch. top, summit, a spinning top – ‘I watche, an’ am as aere sparra alone upon the houn-tap’ [HSR], ‘Let thame be as the gerse apon the houn-taps . . .' [HSR], ‘A rountree bus’ oot o’er the tap o’t . . . ’ [JBS], ‘. . . and three to be in ambush at the tap o’ the plantin’ at Denholm Hill Quarry’ [BCM1881], ‘The wee birds sit on the tap o’ the sheafs, An’ twitter an’ sing i’ the mornin’ licht’ [FGS], ‘. . . Frea the tap o’ her heid tae her feet’ [WAP], a distaff-full of flax, ‘ti take yin’s tap in yin’s lap’ is to pack up before departing, particularly after marrying (from the former custom of spinning flax at a neighbour’s house) – ‘For the bride has her tap in her lap, And the bridegroom his tail in his riggin’ [ES] (not now particularly Hawick pronunciation; cf. top).

tapper off (tā-pur-of) v., arch. to sum up a person in a disparaging manner, verbally tear to shreds – ‘The expression is often used of two persons ‘scandalising’ a third person. Thae twae’s studden bletterin an oor thegither; A’ll baet ee some puir sowl’s geetin taiper off’ [ECS] (also ‘taiper’).

tapmaist (tap-maist) adj., arch. topmost – ‘Ae whow, Aw hardly ken what end o’ iz is tapmaist but Aw’ll gaun wi’ ma bairns’ [JEDM].

tap o tow (tap-ō-tow) n., arch. tuft of flax put on the distaff before spinning – ‘. . . But the graces o’ her mind, Wi’ sic purity combined, Has set my hert a low Like a blazing tap o’ tow’ [FL] (cf. tow).

tappit (taw-pec’, -pi’) pp., adj., arch. topped, crested, tufted – ‘A bet on the subject was made between the two parties to the extent of a tappit hen’ [HAST1868].

taretathers (tār-ta-thurs) n., pl., arch. tatters, shreds, rags – ‘Tam got naething for his fechtin’, but his coat into taretathers’ [JoJ].

target (tar-gat) n., poet. a medallion worn as an ornament on a hat – ‘There hang nine targent at Johnie’s hat, And ilka ane worth three hunder pound . . . ’ [CPM].

Target Field (tawr-, tār-gi-feeld) n. field at the foot of Target Hill, where butts were set up for rifle practice in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

the Target Hills see the Targets

Target Pond (tawr-, tār-gi-pōnd) n. small pond in the Target hills, behind the Braid Road and near Black Quarries, also known as Mosshills Loch.

the Targets (thu-tawr-gits, -tār-gits) n. hilly area above the Braid Road, named after the former Boozieburn Rifle Range on the northern slope. It is also known as ‘Target Hill’ or ‘Target Hills’, and was formerly ‘Moss Hill’. The area includes Target Pond and the disused Black Quarries, and was recently the site of a greyhound racing track – ‘The summer sun shines as I sit in the silence Looking doon on ma hame frae the Target Hill’s crest, Weel-kent are the streets and familiar the places Of this old mill town that I’ll aye like the best’ [IWL].

Tarras (taw-ris) n. lands lying between the Liddesdale and Eskdale. The farm was listed in the c.1376 rental roll of Liddesdale, in the section labelled ‘Foresta’. ‘The Laird’s Rowie’ (i.e. Roland) Armstrong was recorded dwelling at ‘Tarrassyde’ in 1583. The lands there passed to William Scott (son of ‘Auld Wat’ of Harden) in 1606 and later his descendant became the first and only Earl of Tarras. The lands and Barony of Tarras were listed among the possessions of the Scotts of Buccleuch according to the 1663 marriage contract of Anne, Countess of Buccleuch; the bounds of the lands at that time are describe therein. It was valued at £1100 in 1671 – ‘Was ne’er ane droon’d in Tarras, Nor yet in doot, For ere the heid can win doon, The harns are oot’ [T], ‘From mountains wrapt in purple shroudsm The Tarras pours her murky floods’ [WSB], ‘And sae, as the crying gangs up i’ the Border Bi Tarras and Hermitage, Ettrick and Yill . . . ’ [DH] (it is ‘Tarres’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey).

Tarras Moss (taw-ris-mos) n. high area near the Border in a side valley between the Liddel and the Esk, notorious in riving days. The lands were recorded as early as the late 14th century. The area was also known as ‘Black Tarras’ – ‘We stabed them sure on the Tarras muir We stabed them sure’, quoit he: ‘Before we could cross that quaking moss, They all were lost but me’’ [JL], ‘A stark moss-trooping Scott was he, As e’er couched’ Border lance by knee; Through Solway sands, through Tarras moss, Blindfold, he knew the paths to cross’ [WSW], ‘And sae, as the cryin’ gangs up i’ the Border Bi Tarras and Hermitage, Ettrick and Yill . . . ’ [DH].

Tarras Shank (taw-ris-shawngk) n. hill ridge lying between the Twislehope Burn and Tarras Sike, in the upper headwaters of the Hermitage valley (it is marked on the 1718 Buccleuch survey).
Tarras Sike

Tarras Sike (taw-ris-sik) n. small stream off the Twislehope Burn to the west of Twislehope Hope. A spur on its south side is Tarras Shank (it is marked on the 1718 Buccleuch survey).

tarry (taw-ree) v., arch. to remain, stay, absent oneself – ‘Henry Hardie, merchand, is fyned ... in prophaning the Sabbath-day yesterday by tarrying the tyne of Divine service in the house of Geo. Renwicke, who keips ane change’ [BR1702].

Tarset Castle (tawr-si-kaw-sul) n. ruined castle north of Bellingham, just over the Border into England, once the seat of the Comyn family.

tash (tawsh) n., poet. sass, impudence – ‘Guid help the man that has nae cash! He ... dares na well set up his tash’ [JR].

tasker (tas-kur) n., arch. a thresher – ‘Item, to the tasker in the barn now, thrie £’ [SB1574].

tastefae see tastefi

tastefi (tast-fi) adj. tasteful – ‘They boast o’ their servants sae tidy an’ braw Aye snuglike an’ tastefae’ an’ neat’ [WAP].

tata see tatti

tatae see tatti
tate see tait

Tathyhole Sike (taw-thee-hol-sik) n. small stream in Ashkirk Parish, running roughly northwards through Parson’s Hole, to join the Ale Water just north of Synton Mains.

tatter (ta-tur) n., poet. to tattle, chatter, scold – ‘When neebor meets neebor they tatter The neebor that isna there ...’ [FL].

tattery (ta-tu-ree) adj., arch. tattered, ragged, in shreds (recorded in the Hawick News in 1954).

tatti (ta’i) n. potato – ‘mince an tattis again!’, ‘there’s tatiss growin ahint they hugs!’, ‘Openin soop-kitchens or distributin yitmeal or again!’, ‘there’s tattis growin ahint they lugs!’, ‘Thae tattihs ir weel: they’re aa lup-’ [T], ‘A made ee look, A made ee look, A made ee inti tatti soup’ [T], ‘Thae tattis ir weel: they’re aa lappen – ee’d better dreep thum’ [ECS], ‘... though fine he kens that his tattas need settin up’ [DH], ‘Tattis an point (cf. peel an eats). The verrih tattih = the very thing. No the rael tattih, no the cleen (clean) tattih = not sincere, not genuine’ [ECS]. It should be remembered that this plant has not always formed part of the staple of the local diet. Potatoes are first noted in Scotland in a household book of the Duchess of Buccleuch in 1701. There is a record that Dickson of Hassisteadburn paid William Turnbull, a Denholm carrier, 1 shilling for a peck of potatoes in 1729; this may imply one of the earliest examples of potato cultivation in Scotland. They were still a relative rarity in the 1740s and there was apparently much opposition to eting them to begin with. In about 1760 William Scott of Woll was among the first to plant them far apart in drills. It did not become a staple of the local diet until the late 18th century (also spelled ‘taatih’, ‘tattih’, ‘tateth’, ‘tattie’, ‘tata’, ‘tatae’, etc.).

tatti-bloom (ta’i-blom) n., arch. the potato flower (noted by E.C. Smith).

tatti-brui (ta’i-bri, -bru) n., arch. potato broth – ‘Consider, for example, the long-drawn-out sound occurring at the end of certain words, e.g. tattih-brui (= potato-broth) ... ’[ECS] (see also brui).

tatti-champer (ta’-i-chawm-pur) n., arch. a potato masher (noted by E.C. Smith).

tatti-creel (ta’i-kreeel) n., arch. a basket for gathering potatoes – ‘A wand o’ Cain’s first tattecreel’ [JoHa].

tatti-drell (ta’i-dreel) n., arch. a potato drill, row of potato plants in a furrow – ‘... mizzerin taatih-dreels’ [ECS].

tattie see tatti

tattie-bogle (ta-teech-gul, ta’-ee-bog-gul) n. a scarecrow – ‘... he read that Walter Inglis could recommend the bearer as a ready-made ‘tata bogle’’ [WNK], ‘... he discovered to his great delight that it was nothing but a ‘tattie bogle’’ [RM] (also ‘tatti-bogle’, ‘taatih-boagl’, etc.).

Tattie Knowes (ta’-ee-nowz) n. hilly region just to the south of West Middle and east of old Cavers House.

tatti getherer (ta’i-ge-thur-ur) n. a potato gatherer (noted by E.C. Smith).

tatti howker (ta’i-how-kur) n. a potato gatherer (noted by E.C. Smith).

tatti howkin (ta’i-how-kin) n., v. digging potatoes out of the ground to harvest them. After the last War, local farmers used to have help from schoolchildren to get the harvest in – ‘Tattie Howkin’ – or potato harvesting ... was part and parcel of our school life in the years just after the war’ [GM].

tatti peelins (ta’i-pee-linz) n., pl., arch. the peelings of potatoes (noted by E.C. Smith; also ‘tatti peel’ and ‘tatti parins’).

tatti pit (ta’i-pi’) n., arch. a potato pit, trench in which potatoes are stored – ‘Some large wool-packet or tatta pit’ [HSR] (also noted by E.C. Smith).

tatti ploom (ta’i-ploom) n., arch. a potato (cf. ploom).
tatti-scone

tatti-scone (taˈɪ-skən) n. A potato scone, scone made with mashed potato, flour and fat, and cooked on a griddle (see also scone).

tatti shaws (taˈɪ-shɔːz) n., pl. The green tops of potato plants.

tatti-soup (taˈɪ-soʊp) n. Potato soup.

tatti-steppin (taˈɪ-stɛpɪn) adj., arch. Potato-stepping, having long springy steps, as if pacing out the rows of potatoes – ‘...that stapet alang the Jethart road wu a taatih-steppin streide’ [ECS].

tatti-stitch (taˈɪ-stɪtʃ) n., arch. A furrow for planting potatoes – ‘...Ower turnip drill or tatoe-stitch She ran wi' speed; But death's wun at her wi' a switch, For now she's dead' [JH].

tattih see tatti

Tatti Wullie (taˈɪ-wuˈlɛ) n. Nickname of William Scott, farmer at the Orchard.

taucht (tawt) n., poet. Tallow, fat – ‘Thaye ar kaset up thair ane tawd; wi’ thair mooth thaye speik prunulie’ [HSR], ‘...an’ the faes o’ the Lord sall be as the tawd o’ lams: thaye sall consumne ...’ [HSR] (also written ‘taugh’).

taucht (tawtʃt) pp., poet. Taught – ‘O God, thou hest taucht me frae my youthid ...’ [HSR], ‘...than thou hest taucht me thy staatutus’ [HSR].

tauld (tawld) pp., arch., poet. Told – ‘O death! thou wrek of young and auld, How slie, and O how dreadfu’ bald! Thou came unlook’d for, nor anes tald what was the crime ...’ [CPM], ‘Whilk we hae heererd, an’ kennet, an’ our faethers ha tauld us’ [HSR], ‘...we spen’ our yeers as an tacle that is tauld’ [HSR], ‘...aw had sent owre word aw was comin’ on sic a like nicht, an’ she had tauld her maister an’ mistress’ [BCM1880], ‘...And she had set, says the lang tauuld fable, The callant’s spurs on the kitchen table’ [WL] (also written ‘tald’; cf. the more usual telt).

taupie (taw-pie) n., arch. A careless or foolish person, particularly applied to women.

taw (taw) v., arch. To make hides soft by beating, to make pliable by kneading or pulling out, to draw out – ‘Tie taw roset or taffee’ [GW], to suck greedily – ‘The callant was bebbin an taain oot ov a bottl, an’ whumlinl’t i geet the verrih grunds’ [ECS], to tug at the breast while suckling – ‘The bairn was tawin’ an’ sookin’’’ [GW], n., arch. A leather thong, strap-tail (also written ‘taa’).

taws see tawse

tawse (taws) n. Official name for ‘the belt’, a strip of leather split into two or more sections at the end and formerly used to administer punishment in schools – ‘He laughs at switches, belts and tawse, And ne’er a bantam cock, Sae proudly struts sae crousyly craws, As our little Jock’ [JT], ‘...There’s nae result without a cause; The idle scholar gets the tawse’ [FL], ‘Wi’ taws o’ tremlin’ fricht I’ll flog ye. I’ll giff the sowl frae ye body’ [WP], ‘I thocht tae jouk my pains Weel hidden in the croud, But when he swung the tawse I didna craw sae proud’ [WL] (essentially plural of taw, sometimes spelled ‘taws’).

tattih see tatti

Taylor (təˈlɜr) n. Andrew (16th/17th C.) listed after Simon Armstrong of Calfield and his servant in a 1601 list of Armstrongs and others who were said by the English to be outlaws under the Laird of Buccleuch. He thus presumably lived in Liddesdale and was an associate of the Armstrongs. He could be the ‘Andro Tailliour’ listed in Schortburtholme among Liddesdale and Eskdale men declared as fugitives for not appearing in a court in Hawick in 1605. Archibald ‘Airchie’ (17th C.) recorded in 1632 as possessor of the lands of ‘Zairdhous’ in Liddesdale. Since this is listed by other farms near Newcastle, it could be that Yethouse is meant. Charles (19th C.) teacher, who was one of the three people who met in 1877 to plan the Hawick Golf Club. He was also part of the first committee and later Club Captain. He was conductor of the Hawick Choral Union in at least the 1870s. David (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. In 1706 he witnessed a baptism for a child of Thomas Barrie. His children included Helen (b.1704) and David (b.1707). The baptism in 1704 was witnessed by weavers John Taylor (surely related) and David Miller. In 1711 he was a weaver at Roughheugh when his son Walter was baptised in Wilton Parish. He is probably the David who witnessed baptisms in 1724 for John Scott from Brieryhill and John Miller from Roughheugh. David (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was living at Todshawhill in 1756 and 1762. His children included John (b.1754), William (b.1756), Isobel (b.1759) and Walter (b.1762). Agnes (b.1748 and Thomas (b.1749), baptised in Minto, may also have been his children. David (19th/20th C.) joiner at Damfoot, Newmill. He was responsible for the original wooden Lawson Bridge, as well as the ‘Joogly Brig’. Douglas (1823–87) son of John. He was an apprentice joiner with James Rutherford at Bonchester, and his first job was to remove the thatch from the 3 ‘Sclenty houses’ in 1839. He was then a joiner on the Weens estate at Bonchester Bridge. He was the first in the area to erect wire fences, and developed a business supplying these. Henry Anderson worked for him in the late 1870s. In 1882 his joiner’s business was taken over by Walter Turnbull. In 1846 he married Elizabeth (‘Betsy’), daughter of John Thorburn, farmer at Stonedge. They had several children, including Walter. He died at Wilton Hill in Hawick and was buried at Hobkirk. Elizabeth ‘Bessie’ (17th/18th C.) recorded receiving money from Ashkirk Parish in 1727. George (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish who married Margaret Hislop. Their son George was baptised in 1690, with witnesses Robert Taylor and William Hislop (who were surely related to the couple). James (15th C.) had a sasine for a merk land in ‘Betheruill’ (i.e. Bedrule) in 1473. It is unclear how long he held lands in Rulewater. James (18th C.) Hawick resident. He married Betty Turnbull and their children included: Margaret (b.1761); Margaret (again, b.1763); and Peter (b.1766). The 1766 witnesses were weaver Robert Turnbull and John ‘Kerswell’. James (18th/19th C.) fined in Cavers Parish in 1792 for an ‘irregular marriage’. James (b.1821/2) from Jedburgh, he was a spinner in Hawick. In 1842 he married Elizabeth Best, who was from Bedrule. Their children included: Margaret (b.1842); John (b.1845/6); Catherine (b.1848/9); Agnes A.J. (b.1854/5); and Elizabeth Jane Boston (b.1856). They were living at about 62 High Street in 1851. In 1861 his widow had remarried to grocer William Brown and the family were living on the Mid Raw. Janet (b.1780/1) born in Hawick Parish, she was recorded as ‘independent’ at Highend in Hobkirk Parish in 1841. She was listed there as farmer’s widow in 1851 and 1861 and was still recorded there in 1868. She had a daughter Margaret. John (16th C.) tenant in Alemoor. He is recorded in 1573 when he was to be entered at Edinburgh Tolbooth by David ‘of Ailmure’. John (17th C.) resident of Ashkirk Parish. He married Margaret Scott and their daughter Elizabeth was baptised in 1690. The witnesses were John [hard to read] and William Allan. John (17th C.) recorded on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls at Borthaugh. John (17th C.) cottar at Newton in Hassendean Parish according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. John (17th/18th C.) weaver in Hawick. In 1704 he witnessed a baptism for David, who was probably his son or brother. John (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. In 1725 and 1726 he was at Roberton Burnfoot and in 1729, 1733 and 1736 he was at Mains. His children included: David (b.1725); Bessie (b.1726); Helen (b.1729); Walter (b.1731); Bessie (again, b.1733); James (b.1736); Helen (again, b.1741); and Marion (b.1746). John (18th C.) farmer at Langraw in Rulewater. In 1771 he married Betty Amos and had a son, also John, later that year. John (b.1770s) tenant farmer at Unthank, brother of Walter. He may be the John who was recorded as tenant at Blackclenhemouth in 1797. He married Elizabeth Renwick of Forkins. In 1800 they had a daughter called Betty (who married Douglas Lillico), followed by a son. John. They then moved to Swanshiel, where they had sons Robert (farm steward at Wauchope, before emigrating to America) and Walter (who married Margaret Gow). In later life he moved to Blacklee farm with his eldest son John (where they were in 1841). A few years after his death the farmhouse at Blacklee was allowed to fall to ruin. Joshua Joseph Henry (1831–1910) composer of music for ‘The Banner Blue’. Born in the Huddersfield area, he came to Hawick in 1884 to work as a wrastler designer with the tweed manufacturers Blenkhorn & Richardson’s, and later became their mill manager. Musically talented, before coming to Hawick he wrote wrote several short choral anthems, including ‘Blow Ye the Trumpets in Zion’, ‘Come, Ye Children’ and ‘Rend Your Hearts’, as well as a full Church of England Service. While in Hawick he wrote a new ‘Te Deum’, performed in Wilton Church in 1891, as well as his last anthem ‘If, With All Your Hearts’. He was honorary organist at Wilton for about a year, after it installed a pipe organ in 1886. He was said to be ‘a modest, retiring man’. He died at 2 Wilton Hill and was buried in Wilton Cemetery. Neil (b.1812/3) from Dunoon in Argyll, he was schoolmaster at Chesters, Southdean Parish around the 1840s to 1860s. He is listed as master of Southdean Parish School in Slater’s 1852 directory. He married Mary Shiel, who was sister of Thomas, schoolmaster at Hobkirk, and they had a son Malcolm T.S. He is recorded in 1866 as Registrar, Session Clerk and Inspector of Poor and still Inspector of Poor for the Parish in 1868. He also acted as postmaster for Chesters. He was a Fellow of the Educational Institute of Scotland. Patrick (15th C.) recorded among many men from Liddesdale who did not appear at the Justice-aire in 1494/5. Peter (b.1766) son of James and Betty Turnbull. He was a mason in Hawick. He lived at 19 Howegate in 1841 and 1851. He was probably the Peter who was one of the founders of the Independent Kirk in about 1798. R.M. (20th C.) published ‘Teviot Reaches’ in 1951, containing sketches and etchings around the Teviot. Robert (15th/16th C.) recorded in 1502 as being once in Longnewton, then in Sansystanes. His surety was Archibald Heriot, Captain of Ancrum. Robert (17th C.) recorded in 1676 among a group of Hawick people found guilty of using faulty measures; along with John Scott of Wyndheid, he was specifically found to have a half-peck that was ‘ane half-fourpitt short’. He was presumably a merchant or shopkeeper of some sort. Robert (17th/18th C.) married Janet Oliver in Hawick Parish in 1702. Robert (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Isobel Brown and their children included Robert (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was a merchant in Hawick. He was involved in a court case in 1748, in which he had taken £29 from his aunt Jean Taylor, getting Robert Tudhope to pretend to have borrowed it, but in fact he used it to pay a bill to merchant Thomas Turnbull; there he was stated to be a ‘writer’ (but that may be in error). He was stated to be a tobacconist in the related court case brought by Turnbull against Tudhope, and so his profession is unclear. He may be the Robert, son of John, born in 1703 in Hawick. He is stated to be a merchant when he witnessed a baptism for Walter Turnbull (from Hawick Shiels) in 1745. He married Margaret Douglas (registered in Cavers and Wilton Parishes) in 1730, and their children included: Thomas (b.1739); Robert (b.1742); and Margaret (b.1745). The witnesses in 1745 were Walter Turnbull from Hawick Shiels (whose own baptism he had witnessed on the same day) and William Scoon, servant to Rev. Somerville. Robert (b.1847) emigrated from Hawick to Pennsylvania at age 18. He sheered sheep for a living in California, then moved to Wyoming and ended up with a 75,000 acre farm near Grand Island, Nebraska. Ronald ‘Ron’ (?–?) headmaster at Burnfoot Primary School who wrote the booklet ‘Hawick Common Riding’, with the help of the Callants’ Club in 1983. He was unfortunately to later become Headmaster at Dunblane Primary School and witness the terrible aftermath of the shootings in 1996. He returned to Hawick as Common Riding Chief Guest in 1997.
Taylor

Thomas (16th C.) witness in 1531 to a sasine for the lands of Harwood and Hawthornside being inherited by Hector Lorraine. He was probably local, like the other witnesses. Thomas (b.1829/30) born in Holywood, Dumfriesshire, he was a surgeon in Newcastle. In 1861 he was living on Douglas Square. His wife was Mary Ann and their children included John T.E., James Joseph and Mary. Walter (15th/16th C.) recorded as ‘Walterus Talzour Baron de Hassindene’ in 1493. He is otherwise unknown as Baron there, so perhaps the translation should be ‘of the Barony’. He was allowed to ‘compone’ for ‘communing with the English’, the Laird of Buccleuch serving as his surety. It is unclear how he might have been related to any other Taylors. Walter Noble (17th C.) tenant at Effledge who was among those declared as fugitives in 1684 for being a Covenantater. Walter (17th C.) resident in Ashkirk Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Walter (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was living at Orchard in 1733 when he married Bessie Blyth. Walter (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish who married Janet Nichols in 1758. He was at Whihope in 1761. His children included: John (b.1758); and Margaret (1761). Walter (b.1809) born at Swanshiel, he was a younger son of John, who had farmed at Unthank. He worked on the farm at Howahill, becoming tenant there. In 1849 he was listed on the original congregation of Wolfelee Free Kirk. He was still there in the 1860s, being listed as a widower in 1861. In 1834 he married Margaret Gow (whose mother was Margaret Barry). She was said to be a very beautiful woman, who died in childbirth in 1848. Their children were: John, who worked on the farm at Howahill; Isabella; George, who emigrated to new Zealand; Thomas, who lived at Howahill and died there from blood-poisoning, caused by an axe cut; William, who went to Australia, but returned to Howahill; Margaret; and Walter. Walter (18th/19th C.) brother of John. He farmed at Highend in Rulewater. His children were John (b.1805), Agnes (b.1806) and Betty (b.1809). Walter (19th/20th C.) son of William, with his mother being a daughter of Dr. Pringle. William (17th C.) tenant in Groundstone. He was mentioned in a session record in Ashkirk in 1635. William (17th C.) carter in Hawick, on the 1693/4 subscribers’ list for the new Kirk bell. He was listed as ‘Wm Tylzer’ on the Hearth Tax rolls for Hawick ‘eist the water’ in 1694. It is possible he is the William, son of James and Bessie Scott, born in Hawick in 1644. He could be the William, married to Isobel Scott, whose children baptised in Hawick were Bessie (b.1674), Elspeth (b.1677), Helen (b.1680), Marion (b.1682), Janet (b.1685).
Taylorcleuchheid

and Isobel (b.1687); the 1680 baptism was witnessed by Walter Purdom and William Haswell and the 1682 baptism by Walter Purdom and Andrew Hart. William (18th C.) resident of Roberton and Wilton Parishes. He was at Todshawhill in 1781. He married Betty Laidlaw in Roberton in 1778 and their children included: James (b.1781); Janet (b.1788); and Betty (b.1792). He is probably the son of David (who lived at Todshawhill) baptised in Roberton in 1756. William (b.c.1780) from England, he was a farmer at Newstead in Wilton Parish. He is recorded there in 1841. His wife was Margaret and they had a daughter Anne. He could be the William recorded as a labourer at Appletreehall in 1840 and 1841. William (b.1821) son of Walter (although one is unclear), he was born in Hobkirk Parish. He was a farm labourer living at Howahill Cottage (while Walter was farmer at Howahill itself). He married Mary Crozier in 1847. Their children included: Margaret; Janet; and Walter. In 1849 he was among the original congregation of Wolfe Free Kirk and was a trustee. William (b.1840s) son of Walter and Margaret Gow. He went to Australia in his early life, but returned to the family farm at Howahill. He was a County Councillor for Hobkirk Parish. In 1886 he married a daughter of Dr. Pringle in Dundee and they had 5 children. William (1847/8–1916) from the Newhouses family, he was farmer at Ashybank. He was also a cattle dealer in Hawick and owned 10 Teviot Crescent. He married Barbara, daughter of blacksmith James Murray, and she died in 1911, aged 62. Their children included: George B. (d.1917), killed at Mahiwa, British East Africa; Christian R. (d.1926); William (d.1954); James (d.1955); Isabella Murray (d.1955); Eliza Litster (d.1958); Robert (d.1959) The family are buried in Denholm. Rev. William minister of St. Mary’s, Cavers and Kirkton 1998–2004 (formerly ‘Tailyeour’, ‘Tailzeour’, ‘Talzor’, ‘Tylear’, ‘Tyler’ and variants).

Taylorcleuchheid (tā-hur-klooch-head) n. Taylorcleuchhead, former farm in Liddesdale, situated around the stream marked Taylor’s Cleuch on modern maps. It was surveyed in 1718 along with other properties of the Scotts of Buccleuch. It consisted of 217 acres, bounded by Riccarton, Cleuchhead, lands held by the Laird of Dunlabeyle and Roughley. The farmhouse was shown on the west side of a stream, possibly Todshaw Sike, and this could be the place where post-medieval remains were discovered in 1977 (see also Taylor’s Cleuch).

Taylor’s Cleuch (tā-hur-klooch) n. stream that runs roughly eastward to join the Liddel Water south of Larriston. There are remains of an enclosure between here and the old railway line. It was partly excavated in 1977 before being surrounded by forest. It appears to be prehistoric with later occupation. There are also some medieval and post-medieval remains a little to the east by Todshaw Sike. It may have been called ‘Tailorcleuchside’ or Taylorcleuchheid.

Tayot (tā-yō’, -yot) n. occasional spelling meant to denote the former pronunciation of ‘Teviot’.

TD9 (tee-dee-nūn) n. postcode district for Hawick. ‘TD’ is the area designation for Teviotdale, with ‘TD9’ being the district including Hawick, which is divided into sectors 0, 7, 8 and 9. The postcode system was introduced in 1966.

Teacher (tee-chur) n. Donald (19th/20th C.) tenant of Gatehousecote farm. He was on the Committee of Rulewater Miniature Rifle Club from 1905.

Teal (teel) n. Stephen (19th C.) from Yorkshire, he became the 2nd bandmaster for Hawick Saxhorn Band in early 1856.

teasel (tee-zul) n. plant with a spiny head, particularly Dipsacus fullonum, or fuller’s teasel, used to raise the nap in cloth after fulling.

teasel machine (tee-zul-naw-sheen) n. machine used in a knitwear factory for raising the surface fibres, particularly with fine wools like cashmere. Traditionally the teasles were the spiny heads of particular flowers.

teaser (tee-zur) n., arch. someone who teasers wool as part of the process of making woollen garments.

the Tech (thu-tek) n. the Henderson Technical College on Commercial Road, opened in 1971, later part of the Borders College and demolished in 2010. Also formerly the name for its predecessor, built in 1926, and now part of the High School.

Techie Drawin (te-kee-draw-in) n. the subject of Technical Drawing at school.

teckle (kul) n., poet. a weapon, especially an arrow (or perhaps a bow) – ‘The swallow-tail frae teckles flew, Five hundred flain into the flight . . .’[CPM].

tedisome (tee-dee-sum) adj., arch. tedious, tiresome – ‘Thereckly, as A hechult up that teedisome brae, the muckle Cairter . . .’ [ECS], ‘Teedisome brae’, quo A’[ECS] (also written ‘teedisome’).

teedly (teed-lee) n. a collection among workers made at regular intervals over an extended period and used to pay for an outing, Christmas party Teegar

Tee Kay (tee-kai) n. pen-name of Tom Ker, who wrote many poems and other works.

Teem (teem) n., arch. an outpouring – ‘The rain cam doon in a perfec’ teem’ [GW], v., arch. to empty out – ‘Teem oot the yill’ [GW], to pour – ‘And they teemed it down their grynny throats, To the healthe of their master true .’. [JTe]. It’s teemin’ o’ rain’ [GW]. ‘Whan I mind thae things, I teem owt my saul in me .’. [HSR], ‘He teems contemp apon princes, an’ causes thame til dander in the wildummus .’. [HSR].

Teemit (tee-mee, -mi) adj., pp., arch. emptied, drained, poured out – ‘…they name is as ainmint mint teemnet owt, therfor do the mays loe thee’ [HSR]. ‘She heth teemet this oyntment on my bodie’ [HSR].

Teenge (teenj) n., arch. a tinge.

Teenie Balmer’s (tee-nee-baw-mur) n. home-based tripe-seller in the Kirk Wynd (opposite the Tabernacle) in the early 20th century, with the area now a car park. The shop was famous for its tripe. The proprietor may have been Christine Elder (b.1864), wife of George Balmer – ‘Ee went tae Teenie Balmers for tripe Or got reekin’ newldre (b.c.1864), wife of George Balmer – ‘Ee went tae Teenie Balmers for tripe Or got reekin’ newldre (b.c.1864), wife of George Balmer { ‘Ee went tae Teenie Balmers for tripe Or got reekin’ newldre (b.c.1864), wife of George Balmer}. Teenie Elder’s (tee-nee-el-durz) n. tripe-seller near the Common Haugh in the early-to-mid 20th century – ‘…To fetch frae Teenie Elder’s by the Haugh, A can o’ tripe in piping breac’ [WL] (possibly the same as Teenie Balmer’s).

Teeny-weeny (tee-nee-see-nee) adj. very small (an example of ‘rhyming reduplication’).

Teep (teep) n., arch. type.

teer (teer) v. to tear – ‘did ee teer ma book?’, ‘…To a’ that’s guid they’re deef an’ blind, They only like to stab an’ teer’ [FL]. ‘Scots an Ingleesh in a fraineeshin, fidgin mad-keen ti teer the harrigals oot o other’ [ECS], ‘He comes in when he’s cried on, An’ never teers his claes’ [IJ] (also spelled ‘teer’).

teer (teer) v., arch. to perform with vigour, work strenuously – ‘Hei was in a teerin kip an wadna stoap a meenint’ [ECS], n., arch. a boisterous time, piece of fun (also spelled ‘tear’).

Teerie see Teri

teesh (teesh) interj., adj. great, terrific – ‘A hink the Bay City Rollers ur teesh, mei,’ ‘…A’ve fund ma niche and life is teesh A’m glad that a’ve come hame’ [IW L] (seems to have been around in Hawick at least since WWII; originally restricted mainly to use by children, it was re-popularised by the band Scocha in the 1990s; it is unclear how widespread it has been beyond Hawick; one theory of its origin is that it was a deliberate joke on being ‘sheet’ backwards).

Teethrife (teeth-riif, -rif) adj., arch. toothsome, palatable.

Teh (te) prep. to – ‘wull ee come teh ma bit the day?’ ‘Sae Aw’ll promise teh join the Total …’ [RM], ‘…though when lengthened as in the remark : Whae ti? (i.e. To whom?)’

Teh’d (ted) contr. to it – ‘ee could gaun right up teh’d’, ‘…bit ee can pit a variety o things teh’d an aa like’ [DaS] (variant of ti’d; note long e sound).

teh-teh (te-te) interj. ta-ta, used as a parting greeting – ‘teh-teh the now then’.

Tei (ti) n. tea, a hot beverage made using crushed leaves from the far corners of the Empire – ‘go’an make is a cup o tei wull ee?’ ‘coffee’s no ma cup o tei’, ‘Ee got pies and tei at the muckle tent …’ [AY], ‘Yin Common Ridin mornin Ma mother says ti mei ‘Ee’d better watch eer-sul, lass, Here’s a ‘stranger’ in eer tei’’ [DH].

Tei bag (ti-bawg) n. a tea bag.

Teicup (ti-kup) n. a teacup.

Tei leafs (ti-leefs) n., pl. tea leaves.

Teind (tünd) n., arch. Scottish equivalent of the English tithe, a tenth part of one’s income or produce from land, or a tenth of the value of the livestock born on a farm. This originally went to support the Church, but after the Reformation typically went to the local landowner. Such payments were split into ‘vicarage teinds’, which were minor tithes, often paid in kind – ‘The Earle Bukcleugh is patrone, who payis to ye minister 800 merks yeirle, and leidis ye teynd’ [PR1627] (and originally to the vicar rather than parson) and ‘parsonage teinds’ which were the more major tithes.

teind barn (tīnd-bawrn) n., arch. a barn used for storing the grain that was collected as a ‘teind’, called a ‘tithe-barn’ in England. The ruins of the old example in Spittal-on-Rule can still be seen.

the Teind Barn (thū-tīnd-bawrn) n. ruined building in Spittal-on-Rule. It was still thatched until the early 1900s, and was said by Tancred to be the oldest building in the parish.

the Teind Court (thū-tīnd-kōr’) n. court set up after the Reformation, to deal with the value and sale of teinds, and the adequate provision for local ministers. It was a court within the Court of Session, set up to decide on matters of valuation of teinds, stipends for ministers, etc. After 1707 its powers passed to the Court of Session.

teinder an thirder (tīnd-dur-an-thir-dur) n., arch. a person who occupies arable land at a rent equal to 2/30th of the produce (1 tenth and another 3 tenths) – ‘...the damage done to the corn at Whitlaw was comprised, and that Patrick Scott and John Gladstains paid the damage to the teinder and the thirder out of their own pocket ...’ [C&L].

Teinside (tīnd-, teend-sid) n. farm on the A7 south of Newmill, as well as the name for the general area, also referred to as ‘Teinside’. The lands were owned by a branch of the Abernethy family from at least the late 14th century, passing from Sir William to his older brother James in 1393; they were at that time described as lying in the Barony of Hawick, with Archibald, Earl of Douglas as superior. The Abernethys sold the lands to Patrick, Earl of Bothwell in 1494. In 1446/7 Oswald Abernethy appeared before William, Earl of Douglas at Newark and publicly asserted that his only superior of these lands was the Baron of Hawick. The lands were recorded belonging to Douglas of Drumlanrig in 1502. In 1511 the lands were listed among those held ‘in tenandry’ by the Baron of Hawick. However, in 1572 they were included among those held ‘in property’ by the Baron, Douglas of Drumlanrig. The Scotts of Buccleuch held lands there since at least the early 1500s, although Francis, Earl of Bothwell had the lands confirmed to him in 1585. It is listed among the property of the Baron of Hawick (Douglas of Drumlanrig) in 1594 and 1615. In 1627 they were listed as a ‘25 merk land’ producing ‘500 merks in stok, and to 100 merks in teynd’. The lands were listed in 1634, 1653 and 1663 among those owned by the Scotts of Buccleuch. James Grieve was tenant there in 1709. In 1724 Gideon Elliot purchased the lands from his brother Robert. Thomas Watson owned the lands in the early 18th century and sold them to Henry, Duke of Buccleuch in about 1750. There were Murrays living there in the mid-1700s to early 1800s. Thomas Barrie was there in 1788. By 1788 it was valued at £426 13s 4d and still the same in 1811, as part of the properties of the Duke of Buccleuch. Robert Elliot was farmer in 1841 and Robert Govenlock in the 1860s. There is a hill-fort on the Slaidhill, which lies above, near the source of the Teinside Burn, and 2 more on Teinside Hill. Ancient burial cists were found there in 1869, with an excavation carried out by Dr. Brydon and Lord Rosehall. And there are signs of ‘cord rig’ cultivation there also (also spelled ‘Tynside’, ‘Teinside’, etc., and possibly formerly pronounced tīnd-; the origin is possibly Old Welsh ‘din’ and Old English ‘side’, meaning ‘the slope by the hill with the fort’; it first occurs as ‘Theynsyde’ in 1393, is ‘Tenside’ in 1446/7, ‘Teynside’ in 1494, ‘Tynsyde’ in 1502, ‘Teneside’ in 1511, ‘Tenside’ in 1528/9, ‘Teneside’ and ‘Teneside’ in 1572, ‘Teynside’ in 1595, ‘Teynsye’ in 1627, ‘Tenysye’ in 1634, ‘Tynesyd’ in 1653 and 1663, ‘Teynysyd’ in 1661 and ‘Tein-side’ in 1839; it is ‘Teensydhall’ on both Blaeu’s 1654 map and Gordon’s c. 1650 map).

Teinside Brig (teend-sid-brig) n. bridge across the Teviot just after Teinside. It was built as part of the development of the toll road, which became the A7, perhaps around 1762. At the same time as it was built the road was improved from the bridge to Teinside farm, past the Horse Pool. A new bridge was built around the 1930s. A farm adjacent to the bridge was formerly known by the same name and also called ‘Teinsidebrae’. Alexander Miller was tenant there in 1797, when it is ‘Tiendside Bridge’. Hugh Johnstone and John Cairns and families lived there in 1841 and 1851.

Teinside Burn (tīnd-sid-burn) n. stream that joins the Teviot (from roughly the northwest) near Teinside. It forms part of the probable boundary line of the Catrail. The lands there are listed along with Teinside among the lands inherited by the Baron of Hawick in 1615. The lands there were purchased by the Scotts of Buccleuch about 1660. As it runs down from Slaidhills there is a waterfall in a ravine. A little further down there was once a cottage, marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map. Walter Hogg was farmer there in 1797 (it is ‘Tynessydburne’ in 1615, ‘Teyndsideburne’ in the mid-17th century, ‘Teindsideburn’ about 1755 and ‘Tiendsideburn’ in 1797; ‘Teindburnfoot’ is marked on Stobie’s map of 1770).

Teindside Hill (tǐnd-sīd-hil) n. hill lying on the north side of the upper Teviot valley, north of Teindside Lodge. Its contains the remains of 2 hill-forts, almost obliterated by cultivation. The one near the summit probably measured about 120 m by 65 m, while the one to the south sits on a rocky knoll, measuring about 60 m by 20 m, with a deep ditch on the north side. There were local excavations there by Mr. Govenlock in 1873, finding a ‘hut eight feet square’. There is a further fort just to the north-west near Slaidhill. Additionally, there is a modern cairn, called ‘Bert’s fort just to the north-west near Slaidhill. Additionally, there is a modern cairn, called ‘Bert’s fort’. There are many more, and part of the house has been let out for holiday accommodation. Just inside the entrance gate is a turf-covered cairn about 15 m in diameter.

Teindside Lodge (tǐnd-sīd-løj, -løj) n. house in Teviothead, also known as Commonside Cottage, situated on the side road to Commonside. It was once a farmhouse on the Buccleuch estate. Recently and part of the house has been let out for holiday accommodation. Just inside the entrance gate is a turf-covered cairn about 15 m in diameter.

Teindside Slope (tǐnd-sīd-slōp) n. former farmstead near Teindside. In the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls John Irvine is recorded as farmer there, with 3 working horses. David Cairns and Robert Walker lived there in 1841 and Constable Michael Oliver in 1851 (also written as ‘Teindside Slope’; it is ‘Teindside Slope’ in 1797).

teind yaird (tǐnd-yār’d) n., arch. a yard used to store the produce collected as tithes – ‘Item, to James Scott, servant, for keeping of the teind yaird of Hawik, bigging the dykes therof, and heiding the stakes of the samyn the said year, eighteine pundes’ [SB1633].

Teings see tyings

Teinside (tēn-sīd) n. alternative version of Teindside.

Tei’ot (tē-i’, tī-i’) n., arch. Teviot – ‘...an thegither oo turnt ti the richt for the Teiot an the coonty toon’ [ECS], ‘...And troots that i’ the Tei’ot tipple’ [DH], ‘As by his haugh the Tei’ot rumble’t’ [DH] (a contracted spelling to denote the older pronunciation; also written ‘Teiot’ and ‘Te’iot’).

teipot (tī-po’) n. a teapot.

teir see teer

Teisday (tīz-di’) n. Tuesday – ‘I got to Berwick on Monday afternoon, and was unco weel on Teisday morning ...’ [RW], ‘My friends, be thankfu’ that Sabbath is upon the day that its on, for had it been a Teisday ye wad haen been at Jeddart, or if a Tysday ye wad haen been at Hawick’ [JW] (also written ‘Tysday’; cf. the more modern Tuesdi).

teistrell (tī-strul) n., arch. a scoundrel.

teitim (tī-tim) n. teatime – ‘A’l seie the back o teitim’ (note the usual pronunciation of the second syllable; also tei-time).

tei-time (tī-tim) n. teatime – ‘A was verrih mensefi at tei-time: A duist tuik yeh cup’ [ECS].

tei towel (tī-tow-ul) n. a tea towel.

Teiwi (tee-vee) n. earliest known form of ‘Teviot’, recorded around the year 600.

Telfer (tel-fur, tāl-fur) n. Andrew (1734–1804) from Southdean Parish. In 1761 he married Christian Lillico (1736–1815) in Hobkirk Parish. His children, baptised in Southdean Parish, included: George (b.1762); James (b.1765); Marion (b.1767); William (b.1769); Elizabeth (b.1771); Isabel (b.1773); and John (b.1781), father of James ‘the poetic schoolmaster’ of Saughtree. Andrew (b.1784/5) from Crailing Parish, he was farmer at Roundabouts in Chesters in 1851. His wife was Euphemia and their children included Jessie and William (who took over running the farm). His widow was recorded at Roundabouts in 1861. Andrew (b.1808/9) from Hownam he was a shepherd at Jedhead in Southdean Parish. His wife was Mina and their children included John, Helen and Anne. Rev. Charles (1693–1731) minister of Hawick Parish 1723–31. He was the son of an Edinburgh Magistrate, also Charles, who was Captain of the Trained Band. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1712, was licensed by Edinburgh Presbytery in 1719 (after reluctantly signing the Confession of Faith) and came to Hawick in 1721 as an assistant to Robert Cunningham. He helped lead sermons in Hawick while the minister was in ill-health. He was presented as the new Minister by Anne, Duchess of Buccleuch at the end of 1722 and ordained early the following year (after the Hawick elders petitioned the Presbytery ‘for putting a quick end of Mr Talefer’s tryals’). He is said to have borrowed heavily from Shaftsbury’s ‘Characteristics’ and other essayists for his sermons, and to have had an ascetic temper and a high opinion of himself. In 1724 he complained about drunkenness at the Common Riding and in 1725 he proposed that 2 members of the Kirk Session should inspect ‘the families on this town who give ale or brandie, either at the outgoing or incoming of the horsemen and footmen’. But, surprisingly, he reported afterwards that ‘he was well pleased with the deportment and behaviour of those who were at the riding of the Common’. He is recorded preaching before the Lord High Commissioner in 1730 and was called before the Committee on Overttures the next day ‘for certain comparisons which he had used’, but the objections were dropped without censure. He married Katherine Elliot of Arkleton (widow of David Laing of Westerkirk) in 1727 in Hawick, and she lived until at least 1746. Christian Lillico (1835–1909) daughter of James, Schoolmaster at Saughtree. She ran a small school near Sandholm, at the junction of the Liddel and Hermitage Waters, also known as the ‘Brig End Schuil’. She was teacher there in at least the 1860s. Confusingly, she was known as ‘Catherine’, as well as ‘Christina’. She died in Newcastleton. Christina (b.1796/7) toll-house keeper at the Townhead Toll in Newcastleton.
She was a widow in 1861, with daughter Elspeth and grand-daughter Christina. David (b.1824/5) son of John, he was farmer at Braithvaugh in Hobkir Parish in the 1860s. In 1861 he was farmer of 500 acres there, employing 4 labourers.
David (1945/6–2010) from Hawick, he joined Aberdeen Journals in 1973, becoming motoring correspondent and business editor. He was theneditor of North of Scotland Publications, before returning to the position of business reporter. He married Moira and had children Ross, Robbie, Colin and Lesley. Elizabeth ‘Betsy’ (b.1828/9) born in Hawick Parish, she was daughter of Jane, who was teacher at the girls’ school set up in Cavers in the mid-19th century. By 1861 she was the main teacher at Cavers Cottages, with Margaret Grierson as assistant teacher. George (17th C.) tenant near Adderstounesheil listed in 1684 among those declared as fugitives for being a Covenanter. He could be the George ‘Telfoord’ listed as shepherd at Addeerstounesheil among the deficient’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. George (18th C.) herd at Nether Southfield. He married Mary Thomson and their daughter Elpan was baptised in Hawick Parish in 1740. George (18th C.) merchant in Hawick who subscribed to Caw’s ‘Poetical Museum’ in 1784. He is probably the George who witnessed a baptism for merchant James Ekron in 1758. George (18th/19th C.) master of the English School in Hawick until 1822. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at Wiltonburn in 1705. In 1724 he witnessed a baptism for Walter Veitch in Galalaw. His children included Agnes (b.1704) and Margaret (b.1705). The witnesses in 1705 were Adam and William Scott. He could be the James who married Bessie ‘Hutson’ in Ashkirk in 1696. James (17th/18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was at Lymiecleuch in 1716 when he married Jane Stewart. His children included: Jenet (b.1719); and Thoms (b.1722). James (18th C.) recorded in Chapelhill in 1726 when his daughter Christian was baptised in Roberton Parish. He may be the James who married Isobel Bell in Roberton in 1718. James (18th C.) recorded being in Southdean Parish in 1747 when his marriage to Anne Maxwell was announced in Melrose Parish, with John Young as cautioner.
James (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Dinlabyre. He was taxed for having 2 non-working dogs in 1797.
James (18th/19th C.) baker on the High Street, recorded in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. James (b.1797/8) from Langholm, he was an inn-keeper in Newcastleton. In the 1850s he was propr-eitor of the Buccleuch Arms on North Hermitage Street. His wife was Janet and they had a daughter Mary. In 1852 his name was given as ‘Telford’.
James (1800–62) son of shepherd John and Isabella Taylor, with his step-mother being Anne Davidson. He was born in Southdean Parish, although the census records of 1851 and 1861 state he was born in Oxnam Parish. He had 2 aunts who lived in a cottage near Battlingburn in Southdean Parish, and a story is told of one of them seeing a ‘spunkie’ (i.e. ‘will-o’-the-wisp’)n the night the other one died. He was a great admirer of the ‘Ettrick Shepherd’, who he got to know in his youth. He was self-taught, becoming schoolmaster in Castleton in 1827 and was at Saughtree from 1834 until he died. He was listed at Saughtree among heads of households in 1835–41. He was recorded as master of the auxiliary parochial school at Saughtree in Pigot’s 1837 directory and Slater’s 1852 directory. He was inspired to write through the encouragement of James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd. He was referred to as ‘the poetic schoolmaster’ of Saughttree in Liddesdale, since he wrote several ballads, including the long ‘The Gloamyne Buchte’ about an encounter between a shepherdess and a fairy.
A version of the ballad ‘The Death of Parcy Reed’ was transcribed by him from an old woman called Kitty Hall (who lived at Fairloans near the head of the Kale). He published poems in the Newcastle Magazine, among other places. His first book was ‘Border Ballads and other Miscellaneous Poems’ (1824, republished in 1852), which was dedicated to the Ettrick Shepherd; although it contains language that is rather pastoral (i.e. flowery), nevertheless it contains many dialect words that were probably common at the time and would otherwise be unrecorded. ‘The Gloamyne Buchte’ was published on its own in 1843 and was additionally contained within Vol. II of ‘Local Historian’s Tablebook’ in 1844. He also wrote a novel ‘Barbara Gray, or the Widow’s Daughter: A Narrative of Humble Life’ (1835). It is said that he never earned more than £20 per year, and so must have struggled to raise a family. His house was a simple ‘but and ben’, with the ‘but’ being where his family stayed, and the ‘ben’ being the schoolroom. It was described how he would sometimes tell his class ‘in a quiet, conversational way, and in the pure Border doric, of what he had been reading’, including treating them to ‘a captivating lecture on the tales and traditions of our Borderland’. He married Janet Beattie (1802–89); she is recorded living at Saughtree in 1841 along with their children Margaret, Christian and Janet (he himself being absent). In 1851 the family were at Saughtree Schoolhouse (with Margaret having moved away by then). In 1861 his daughter Christian was living with them and described as a teacher; she ran a small school near Sandholm, at the junction of the Liddel and Hermitage Waters. They also had a train driver lodging with them in 1861. His children included: Margaret (b.1833); Catherine Lillico (1835–1909); and Janet Armstrong Stavert (1839–1911), who died in Liverpool. One of his daughters had a son, Telfer John Telfer, who died in 1889, aged 25. His wife Janet died at Bankend. The family are buried in Old Castleton Cemetery. James (b.1821/2) shepherd at Wormsleuch in Castleton Parish. His wife was Christian and their children included Andrew, Margaret, John, James, Mary and Thomas. James ‘Jim’ (1941–) born between Gala and Melrose, he played rugby for Melrose and gained 25 caps for Scotland. He became Scottish Coach, leading the team to the 1984 Grand Slam. He trained as a teacher, eventually becoming Rector of the High School 1984–93. During some of this time the school was nicknamed ‘the Rugby Academy’. He left to become the Scottish Rugby Union’s Director of Rugby. Jane nee Bunyan (b.1805) daughter of Thomas, she was born in Cavers Parish, where she married James in 1827. By 1841 she was a widow, working as a dressmaker at West Middle. By 1851 she was teacher at a school for girls in Cavers. Her daughter Elizabeth (‘Betsy’) and Jemima assisted at the school, with another relative Catherine Rutherford also being an assistant teacher. She was presumably dead by 1861, when Elizabeth was the main teacher at the school. John (17th C.) resident of Peelbrae listed among the ‘deficient’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. John (17th C.) recorded as a householder at Branxholme Park on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. Perhaps the same John ‘Coater’ at Branxholme witnessed a baptism for Walter Cook (gardener at Branxholme) in 1740. John (18th C.) beadle at Hawick Kirk in the 1740s. He is recorded as ‘Kirk Officer’ when he witnessed baptisms in 1737 and 1745. He may also be the John who witnessed other baptisms in 1738 and 1746, and who is ‘Officer’ when he witnessed further baptisms in 1741 and 1743. John (18th C.) shepherd at Brairdlie on Hermitage Water in about 1750. He married Agnes Main and was recorded at Brairdlie in 1777 when his daughter Mary was baptised in Castleton Parish. John (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Howpasley in 1766 when his son George was baptised. He may be the John who married Janet Pringle in Roberton in 1765. His name is written ‘Telford’, although he is probably related to the earlier Telfers who were at Howpasley. John (18th C.) listed along with Thomas as owner of lands in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1788, valued at £10. These were among the lands formerly held by the feuars of Lilliesleaf. They were still recorded as owners in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. John (18th/19th C.) farmer at Whitehaugh in Castleton Parish, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls as owner of 2 horses. John (1781–60) shepherd from Southdean Parish, son of Andrew and Christian Lillico. He was shepherd at Carewoodrig in 1851, living there with his wife Ann, daughters Isabella and Mary, son-in-law John Scott and 2 grandchildren. He married Isabella Taylor and secondly married Anne Davidson (1784–1862). With his first wife he had James (1800–62), the ‘poetic schoolmaster’ of Saughtree. Later children (born in Hownam Parish) were: Andrew (1808–86); William (1810–82); Margaret (1812–71), who died at Flatt; Christian (b.1814); Thomas (1817–84); Isobel (b.1819); and John (1822–38), who died at Todlaw. He died at Dykeraw and the family are buried in Chesters Kirkyard. John (b.1789/90) from Westerkirk Parish, he was farmer at Brairdhaugh in Hobkirk Parish. In 1851 he was farmer there of 150 arable acres and 400 acres of pasture, employing 5 people. He was deceased by 1861, with his sons David and Walter taking over the farm. His wife was Isabella and their children included David, Walter, Betsy, Mina and Agnes. John (b.1834) son of William and Catherine Hume, he was born in Southdean Parish. In 1861 he was shepherd at Carewoodrig. He was living there with his wife Jane, daughter Janet, a domestic servant and 2 assistant shepherds. He was surely related to the earlier John who was at Carewoodrig. Mark (b.1826/7) from Nichol Forest in Cumberland, he was a carrier in Newcastle. In 1861 he was on Whitchester Street. His wife was Ann and he had a niece Betsy. Patrick (18th C.) tenant in Hassendean listed in 1684 among those declared as fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. Richard (19th C.) farmer at Gillbraehead in 1868. Robert (18th C.) blacksmith in Hawick. In 1760 he witnessed a baptism for shoemaker John Oliver. In 1766 he witnessed a baptism for wright Gideon Easton. He may be the Robert who was paid by the Council in 1755 for the use of his horse ‘to Kebo, pressed by Bailie Turnbull, with a shoulder [soldier] and his wife’. Robert (18th/19th C.) wright in Hawick. His unnamed child died in Hawick in 1797. He could be the same man as the blacksmith. Robert (b.1803/4) clogger living on North Hemitage Street in Newcastleton in 1851 and 1861. He was listed in Slater’s 1852 directory. His wife was Elizabeth and they had a son, John. Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at Appletreehall in 1696. He married Margaret Scott and their children included William (b.1696); and Walter (b.1699). The witnesses in 1696 were Adam Scott and William Turnbull. Thomas (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1708 he was a workman at Blackcleuch when his daughter Mary was baptised, with witnesses John Scott ‘Uncle John’ and Walter Elliot in Commonbrae. Thomas (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was at Earlside in 1733. His children included William (b.1731) and Helen (b.1733). Thomas (18th C.) listed along with John as owner of lands in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1788, valued at £10. These were among the lands formerly held by the feuars of Lilliesleaf. They were still recorded as owners in the 1811 Land Tax Rolls. Walter (17th C.) shepherd in Ormiston listed among the ‘deficient’ on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. His name is written ‘Telfoord’, but he was surely related to other Telfers living nearby. Walter (1800–57) born in Hawick, 2nd son of William. He trained as a silk merchant in Edinburgh and spent 2 years in Jamaica settling an uncle’s estate before training as a doctor in Edinburgh. In 1824 he emigrated to Stanford (Niagara Falls), Upper Canada. He established a medical practice at Niagara and moved to Toronto in 1835 and sat on several medical bodies. He became Superintendent of the Provisional Lunatic Asylum in 1845, but was dismissed in 1848 over charges that he vigorously denied. He then returned to private practice. He married Euphemia Denham and they had 1 daughter. Walter (b.1827/8) son of John, he was farmer at Braidhaugh near Bonchester in 1868. He was brother of David, who was farmer at Braidhaugh before him. William (17th C.) tenant in How-pasley. Along with Thomas Pott (also in How-pasley) and several other men from the upper Borthwick, he was charged in 1685 with being a Covenanter. However, all the men took the ‘Test’ and promised not to frequent conventicles. He could be the William in Stiches whose son William was baptised in Roberton Parish in 1683; the witnesses were George Scott and James Halliwell. William (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He received money from the Session in 1707. William (18th C.) living at Stobicote in 1723 when his daughter ‘Manny’ was baptised in Roberton Parish. It is unclear what his connection was to Roberton. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish, living at Borthaugh in 1721, 1729, 1735 and 1738. He married Margaret Scott in Wilton in 1719. Their children included: Margaret (b.1719); Thomas (b.1721); Janet (b.1723); Janet (again, b.1725); William (b.1729); Helen (b.1732); Janet (again, b.1735); and James (b.1738). The witnesses in 1721 were George Bell and William Turnbull, in 1729 were David Renwick and George (probably Bell), in 1735 were John and Robert Scott and in 1738 were Walter Scott and James Dryden. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. In 1758 he was at Borthaugh. He married Marjory Scott in 1757, the marriage recorded in both Hawick and Wilton Parishes. Their children included: Robert (b.1758); Margaret (b.1760); William (b.1763); Robert (again, b.1765); Marjory (b.1767); William (b.1771); and Beatrix (b.1775); John (b.1778); and John (again, b.1779). The last 3 children were baptised in Hawick Parish, the others in Wilton. The witnesses in 1758 were George Hart and Walter Ker. William (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Westshiels in Southdean Parish in 1797 according to the Dog Tax Rolls. William (18th/19th C.) hosiery manufacturer of the early 19th century, recorded Telford

William (b.1809/10) born in Hownam Parish, he was a shepherd in Southdean Parish. In 1851 and 1861 he was at Letham, also known as ‘Burns’. He married Catherine Hume and their children included: John (b.1834), who was shepherd at Carewoodrig; James (b.1836); George (b.1838); Jane (b.1840); Anne (b.1842); Andrew Hunter Cowan (b.1845); Margaret (b.1847); William (b.1849); and Thomas (b.1853). William (b.1813/4) from Cummertrees in Dumfriesshire. In 1851 he was shepherd at Dykeheads in Hobkirk Parish and in 1861 was living at Hallrule Cottages. He firstly married Helen Burnet and secondly married Isabella Scott. His children included Eliza (b.1846), Agnes Mitchell (b.1854), William (b.1855), Robert and Ann (b.1861). Rev. William (19th C.) said to be from Hawick. He was an arts and divinity student at Edinburgh University from 1819 to 1830 and was then at St. Mary’s College, St. Andrews for a year. He was minister at Eday in 1845 and South Yell from 1845. Rev. William (1818–86) born in Hawick, he became an evangelical preacher. He was assistant at Ryton in Durham, then at Queen Street Leeds 1857–60, Glossop, Derbyshire from 1860, Whittlesey (Independent Chapel), Cambridgeshire 1864–77 and Carlisle Chapel, Kennington from 1877. William (b.1824/5) son of Andrew. He is recorded as farmer at Roundabouts in Cheseters in 1861, farming 93 acres and employing 2 people. William (19th C.) shepherd at Pietsnest on Hyndlee farm. He was known as one of the best players at Hobkirk Baa. However, after shaking off his opponents in the river and carrying off the ball, he is said to have remained too long in his wet clothes and died in a shivering fit. He left a widow and children. William (19th C.) grocer at 1 Buccleuch Street from 1859 (spelled ‘Tailfer’, ‘Tailfort’, ‘Tailfour’, ‘Talfer’, ‘Talefert’, ‘Taylfor’, ‘Telfair’, ‘Telfere’, ‘Telfoord’, ‘Telfour’, ‘Telpher’, etc. in early records).

Telford (tel-, tål-furd) n. George (17th C.) resident of Birkwood in Ashkirk Parish in 1694 when he was listed on the Hearth Tax roll there. His name is given as ‘Tylfoord’. James (17th C.) herd at Bowanhill on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. Maxwell (b.1801/2) worked as a lime burner at Larriston Rigg. He was there in 1841, with his wife ‘Douglas’ (nee Hall, from Hawick) and daughters Isabella and Helen. By 1851 he was a labourer in Denholm, probably living on Kirkside, with a son Robert. Maxwell ‘Max’ (1914/15–91) born in Wilton Crescent, he worked at Lockie’s, then joined the L.N.E.R., where he was a porter, guard and ticket collector at Hawick Station. He served with the Border Regiment in WWII, transferring to the Manchester Regiment and then the R.O.A.C., where he became sergeant. He then served as High School Janitor 1950–80, being a familiar figure for 3 decades of pupils. Richard (1837–92) born in Canonbie Parish (as ‘Telfer’), son of John and Jane Bell. He became a policeman with the Borders Police, and was later Governor of the Hawick Poor House, starting some time after 1881. He married Margaret Jane Mathieson, who acted as matron at the Poor House. He died of a heart attack while working there. Thomas (16th C.) resident of Whithope recorded in 1549, among a list of the tenants and servants of Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme who complained about the Kers ravaging their farms. Thomas (18th/19th C.) farmer at Lymiecleuch, listed on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. Thomas (18th/19th C.) shepherd at Reidnoss in Castleton Parish on the 1797 Dog Tax Rolls. Thomas (1757–1834) engineer born at Glendinning on the Meggot Water, in Westerkirk Parish, not far from Langholm. He was famous for road, canal and bridge construction, including the Menai Suspension Bridge in Wales. He worked on the Langholm Bridge over the Esk as an apprentice stonemason, and gave a bequest to keep the Westerkirk Library going in Bentpath and another to establish a library in Langholm.
He was one of the first to suggest a Borders railway line, specifically a horse-drawn railway running from Berwick to Glasgow. He also published a poem ‘Eskdale’, which was printed in Hawick in the ‘Poetical Museum’ in 1874. Locally he was sometimes known as ‘Laughing Tom’. He was buried in Westminster Abbey. William (b.1810/1) from Langholm, he was recorded as steward at Todshawhill in Roberton Parish in 1861. His wife was Janet and they had a daughter, Mina. William (19th C.) recorded in Pigot’s 1837 directory as teacher at Castleton. It is unclear who he was or where exactly the school was located. It is possible this was an error for James Teller. William Pattison (1836–1922) son of William Pattison and Elizabeth Murray. He was born in Newcastle upon Tyne and educated in Dumfriesshire and then in Ontario, Canada. He worked as a stone-cutter and a teacher, later becoming a banker. He was elected a member of the Canadian House of Commons for Grey North in 1904, but was defeated in 1908. His son, William Pattison, Junior, was also a Canadian Member of Parliament (formerly spelled ‘Tailford’, ‘Tailfour’d’, ‘Talliefir’, ‘Tylfoord’, etc., and once probably the same as ‘Telfer’).

Telio’s (tee-lee-oz) n. cafe, chip shop, and ice-cream shop run by Telio Gonella (apparently he was named after the village the family came from) in the mid-20th century on the top of the Loan as a fish and chip shop.

teld (teld) pp. told – ‘A was teld that if A was for a richt denner A wad need ti todge on ti Jethart’ [ECS], ‘...A Wasna boass, { if the truith be teld, A was riftin-fowe!’ [ECS], (also written ‘telled’; this is a less common variant of told). tell (tel) v., poet. to count out money – ‘...Aye, and tell me the monie on my cloak lap; For there’s no ae fardin i’ll trust thee. Fala, &c.’ [CPM].
tellin (te-lin) n. a warning or scolding, usually in the phrase ‘to take a tellin’, meaning to heed an instruction – ‘wull ce no take a tellin laddie!’
tell ower (tol-ow-ur) v., arch. to recount, narrate, tell again – ‘Jethart Castle! A body was need ti ken’d off leike as Wattie Laidlaw kennd eet, for ti tell owre, off-luif, aa its dambrodd-need ti ken’d off leike as Wattie Laidlaw kennd.
tellt see telt
telt (tel’, telt) pp. told – ‘A’ve telt ee yince’, ‘whae telt ce?’, ‘dae is ee’re telt’, ‘ee telt mei’, ‘it’s better felt than telt’, ‘a wee birdie telt is’, ‘We shook his hand and o’ sic lore, Was telt, and he wad tell us a’...’ [JRE], ‘...an’ aw dinna believe aw ever telt the story to aboon half-a-dozen folk in ma life’ [BCM1880], ‘I telt ye sae, is aye his sang Wi’ doleful satisfaction’ [WP], ‘...But brash and brazent she raised her voice And telt’ her grim and deevilish choice’ [WL] (sometimes written ‘telt’ or ‘tell’t’; cf. the less common teld; it is always ‘told’ in standard English).

Tempest

Temple Hall (tem-pu-rins-hal, tem-prins-law) n. former meeting hall at 6 Croft Road, the site now occupied by the Salvation Army Citadel. It was constructed in 1879 and initially run by Miss Thomson, a daughter of the local minister. In about 1900 it was converted into a picture house, ‘The Theatre’.

Temperance Hotels (tem-pu-rins-hō-tel) n. alcohol-free hotels, which were popular in the latter 19th century, some lasting until WWII. In Hawick the Douglas Temperance Hotel was situated on the Tower Knowe, where the Office Bar is now, Gibson’s was on Bridge Street, Inglis’s on Teviot-side Terrace, Pringle’s on Union Street, and the Washington Hotel at the ‘Coffin End’. The Bucleuch and Victoria Hotels were also temperance for a time, and there were others, such as Blaikie’s Temperance Hotel.

the Temperance Movement (thu-tem-pu-rins-moov-min’) n. a social trend to recognise the evils of alcohol, which flourished towards the end of the 19th century, and died out between the Wars. The British Association for the Promotion of Temperance was formed in 1835 and, supported by some of the churches, it led to organised signing of teetotal declarations and the setting up of rigorously teetotal establishments. Locally the first such organisation was started in 1832, but still allowed the drinking of beers. The Hawick Total Abstinence Society was founded in 1838, with members pledging to avoid all intoxicating beverages. They lasted into the early 20th century, and had a popular annual soirée. There were also the Temperance Hotels (some lasting until WWII), the Temperance Burns Club, and even Temperance tents up the Muir. In 1920 a referendum to have alcohol banned in Hawick was opposed by a majority – ‘Ye’ve been the cause o’ muckle wa, O’ meikle saith and scorn; I’ll sign the pledge this very day! Fareweel, John Barleycorn!’ [JT].

Tempest (tem-pist) n. Sir John of Hertford (d.bef. 1379) son of Sir John of Bracewell, and younger brother of the next Sir John of Bracewell.
His brother Peter married Mary Douglas of Liddesdale. He was English Sheriff of Roxburgh and Berwick, as well as Governor of the Castles of Berwick, Roxburgh and Scarborough in the period 1351–75. He married 3 times. Sir Thomas (c.1476–1543/4) son of Robert of Holmside, he served in many positions in the north of England. He was in joint charge, along with Sir William Bulmer, of the force that burned Jedburgh in 1523. This raid led to his knighthood. His daughter Anne married Sir Ralph Bulmer. He was one of the English commissioners for negotiating peace with Scotland in 1528.

tempit (tem-pee’, -pi’) pp., poet. tempted – ‘Whan your faethers tempit me, pruvt me, an’ saw my wark’ [HSR].

the Templar’s Hall (thu-temp-plurz-hal, -haw) n. former name for the hall of the I.O.G.T. – ‘...We lairned oor bible in the Templar’s Hall Aback o’ Wattie Wulson’s Mill’ [WL].

Temple (tem-pul) n. James (18th C.) listed as owner of a House and Yard in Minto Parish in 1779, valued at £1 16s 7d. It was owned by Lord Minto in 1811. James (d.bef. 1841) joiner of the High Street, recorded on Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. In the 1841 census his wife Helen Oliver and 5 children were living at about 33 High Street, with his sons carrying on the cabinet-maker’s business. His children included: Helen (b.1805); James (b.1807); Robert (b.1810); Janet (b.1811); Alexander (b.1813); Marion (b.1815); and John. James (b.1807/8) son of James. He was listed as a High Street joiner in Slater’s 1852 directory. In 1851 he was a master joiner and cabinet-maker, employing 7 men, at about 55 High Street. His wife was Jane and their children included Margaret and Robert. R. (17th/18th C.) recorded being paid in 1722 for a ‘jist to the steeple’. He was thus probably a wright or joiner in Hawick. Robert (18th C.) resident of Cavers Parish. He was at Whitriggs in 1737. His children included: James (b.1733); and David (b.1737). Perhaps the same Robert had children William (b.1724), Isabel (b.1726) and Janet (b.1728) baptised in Jedburgh and a son Robert (b.1731) baptised in Ancrum. Robert (1771/2–1827) surgeon in Newcastleton. He subscribed to (to 2 copies of) William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He was also listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He married Elizabeth (or ‘Betty’) Elliot (1777/8–c.1858). She is recorded in 1841 as ‘Ind’ at about 2 South Hermitage Street; in 1851 she was listed as a grocer, maiden name Elliot, living with her widowed daughter Kitty Scott (nee Temple) and grand-daughter Helen Scott. His daughter Catherine (or ‘Kitty’) married Matthew Scott in 1836 and secondly married James Crosby in 1851. He was recorded as a surgeon at Nether Stone in Bewcastle Parish at the end of the 18th century, when he had children baptised there. His children included: Helen (b.1797), who married and moved to Canada; and Janet (b.1799), also known as ‘Jessie’, who married (probably a Robinson) in Newcastle. He was buried at Ettleston. Thomas (b.1805/6) born in Minto Parish, he was toll-keeper at Spittal. He was recorded at Spittal Bar in 1851 and in 1861 was a miller living at 10 Allars Crescent. His wife was Jane and their children included Alison, Betsy, William, Andrew, Thomas and James.

Temple Croft (tem-pul-kroft) n. former name for a piece of land on Minto estate. It was among lands whose liferent was held by Rev. Robert Elliot from 1779. It was listed in 1779 and 1811, along with ‘Notman-shot’, with a joint value of £76 16s 8d (it was ‘Templecroft’s’ in 1780).

Templehaa (tem-pul-haw, -hal) n. Templehall, farm east of Harwood, near Wauchope. David Crozier ‘at the Tempilhall’ is recorded among men of Liddesdale in 1494/5 and 1500, although whether this was the same place is uncertain. It was for a long time part of the Harwood estate. In 1538 and 1539 the lands were valued along with Wauchopebank at 40 shillings, and occupied by Patrick Turnbull. There is a 1567 charter of the lands, together with Brewlands, granted by James Sandilands (Lord Torphichen) to Andrew Turnbull (son of David of Wauchope). In 1605 there was an action by Jean and Beatrix, daughters of the deceased Walter Turnbull of Wauchope, to remove their mother Marion Lorraine and several Turnbuls from their lands of Templehall and Brewlands. They later passed to George Turnbull of Wauchope, then to Sir James Douglas of Mordington in 1627 and later to the Earl of Lothian. The Earl of Lothian paid tax on £300 for his lands there in about 1663. It was listed as a 4-pound land in 1678, when inherited by William Kerr of Abbotrule. At about that time it must have been valued at £229 15s 4d (based on Kerr of Abbotrules other lands). Adam Murray was tenant there in 1694. The farm then passed from William Kerr of Abbotrule to William Elliot of Wolfelee in 1751 and then immediately to Henry Elliot of Harwood. In 1794 and 1797 the tenants were John and Thomas Clerk. In 1788 the farm was listed among those owned by William Elliot of Harwood and valued at £229 15s 4d. In about 1811 it was still part of the Harwood estate and valued at £262 10s. John Elliot was there in the early part of the 19th century and James Smith was farmer there in the 1860s. It is also the name of a hill to the south-west, between the Lurgies Burn and the Wauchope Burn. Just north-west of the farm are the remains of a settlement, with the most visible feature being a 75-m long crescent-shaped ridge. On the slope to the south are the remains of an ancient cairn. There is also a place of the same name near Lilliesleaf that is suggested to have had connections with the Knight’s Templar, with a ‘Temple’ near St. Boswells perhaps having a similar origin (it is ‘Tempilhall’ in 1538, 1539 and 1604 and ‘Timpilhall’ in 1663; it is marked ‘Templ halt’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and has its modern spelling by Stobie’s 1770 map).
Templehaa Common

Templehaa Common (tem-pul-haw-ko-min) n. Templehall Common, the commonty associated with the neighbouring lands, with uncertain history. Its division was discussed at least as early as 1719, and in 1734 it was arranged by James, Lord Cranstoun, and William Kerr of Abbotrule. At that point it it was possessed by the tenants of Wauchope and Templehall. It could be the same place marked ‘Wauchope Common’ on the modern Ordnance Survey map, to the east of Templehall Hill.

Templehaa Hill (tem-pul-haw-hil) n. Templehall Hill, hill in the southern part of Hobkirk Parish, south-west of Templehall and to the east of Lurgiescleuch. It reaches a height of 342 m. Near the summit is an old cairn about 10 m across and on the southern ridge there is another almost twice as big, now quite denuded and within the forest.

Templehaashiel (tem-pul-haw-sheel) n. Templehallshiel, former farmstead in Hobkirk Parish, on the western banks of the Wauchope Burn, near Templehall Hill. William Elliot was shepherd there in the mid-to-late 18th century, Alexander Lillico shortly before 1788 and John Elliot lived there in the 1810s (it is marked on Stobie’s 1770 map).

Templelands (tem-pul-lawndz) n. former lands in Liddesdale, listed as ‘Tempyllandys’ in the c.1376 rental roll. They were part of the lands owned by the church, but their precise location is uncertain (there is a place of the same name in Oxnam Parish).

the Temple o the Muses (thu-tem-pul-ö-thu-new-zeez) n. monument in the form of a classical Greek pavillion, erected in 1817 by David Erskine as a memorial to the poet James Thomson (of ‘The Seasons’ and ‘Rule Britannia’ fame). It is situated on Bass Hill beside the Tweed, and near to Erskine’s house at Dryburgh. It contains a bust of Thomson, and the original statue of Apollo having long since disappeared a new statue by Siobhan O’Hehir replaced it.

tenand (te-nand) n., arch. a tenant – ‘...and to becum tennand to me and thain of the samyn’ [SB1470].

tenandry (te-nandree) n., arch. land that is leased from a superior, the condition of being a tenant, tenancy – ‘...tenandry of lande if Hardenwod with the pertenints lyande within the soyleze of Borthwicsheillis ...’ [DoR1445], ‘...with tenenttis, tenandrijs and servuce of frie tennenttis of the samin, with the pertenits, liand within the baronie of Branzhmelne ...’ [SB1569].

tenement (te-ne-min’) n., arch. a piece of land in a town held under some form of tenure and often built upon – ‘...upon ane tenement of land of his in Hawick, lyand betwixt the land of James Brown on the north part ...’ [JW1558].

Tennant (te-nin’) n. Rev. Joseph (c.1575–c.1633) from Listonshiel, he was son of John of Cairns, Mid-Calder. He graduated from Edinburgh University in 1595, was licensed in 1598 and ordained at Traquair in 1599. He was translated to Bedrule in 1601/2. He added responsibility for Abbotrule in 1605, when he is recorded being presented to the parsonage and vicarage on the death of Alexander Crichton. He appears to have been translated back to Bedrule again in 1608/9 and the reality appears to be that he held both benefices simultaneously for about 15 years. In 1616 he had a bond with Robert Turnbull in Bedrule. He witnessed a bond for Walter Turnbull of Bedrule in 1623 (also said by Tancred to have been witnessed by Thomas Tennant in Ruecastle, but this may be an error for Thomas Turnbull). He appears to have been deprived in about 1621, when Abbotrule was again disjoined from Bedrule. He is still recorded as a resident in Bedrule in mid-1632 (leasing ‘Roullis land’). He died before the end of 1633 (probably unmarried), when his brother John of Cairnes became heir to a tenement in Edinburgh and land at ‘Listounschellis’. Katharine see Katharine Elliot (also spelled ‘Tennent’).

Tennant’s Map (te-nints-map) n. map of Roxburghshire published in 1840 and surveyed by N. Tennant. It was the most detailed map of the county before the Ordnance Survey. This can also tennis refer to Walter Tennant’s ‘Plan of the Town of Hawick and Environs’, which was published in 1850, and again is the best record of the layout of Hawick streets and buildings before the large-scale Ordnance Survey maps.

tenis (ten-nis) n. raquet ball game traditionally played by people in white outfits near Langlands Bridge. The game was played informally in the mid-19th century, with later tournaments on the cricket field. Early enthusiasts included J.R. Carmichael, J.B. Sime, G.C. Glenny, C.J. Glenny, James Barrie, George Murray Wilson, Elliot Oliver, George Grier, James Locke, and T. Lindsay Watson. A club was formed in the 1880s, and cinder courts laid down at the site below the cottage hospital. The club wound up in 1893, with many of the members having switched allegiance to golf, and the courts were abandoned. George Heron Wilson gifted the courts beside the cricket field to the High School in the 1920s, and the courts in Wilton Lodge Park were built much more recently.

tent (ten’, tent) n., arch. heed, attention, care – ‘Tak tent o’ time, ere time be tint’ (inscription at 25 High Street), ‘I said, I wull tak tent til my wavys . . .’ [HSR], ‘Hear the richt, O Lord; tent weil my cyre’ [HSR], ‘A plantee mastel i the machine, takin tent no ti crack ma cantel as A claam in’ [ECS], ‘...only take tent! aw was as sober as aw am enow’ [BCM1880], v. to tend, attend, watch over – ‘Where tenting ewes is a’ the trade, The bravest dress the tartan plaids’ [DA] (from Middle English).

tenter (ten-tur) n., arch. a frame for stretching cloth, specifically rails with hooks set up outside to dry and evenly stretch cloth after fulling. Large tracts of land around the centre of Hawick were once used for this purpose, e.g. the Commercial Road, Laing Terrace and Rosaloe areas, as shown on the 1859 Ordnance Survey map – – ‘...with its tenter-field for the drying of blankets scoured at the Under Damside . . .’ [WAPJ] (this gave rise to the phrase ‘on tenterhooks’).

tentifi (ten-tifi) adj., poet. heedful, attentive – ‘...let thine ear be tentifi til the voyce o’ my supplications’ [HSR].

tentie see tenty

Tentifutie see Tentyfit

tenty (ten-ee, ten-tee) adj., arch. heedful, attentive, careful – ‘Mankind’s ways hae marked weel Wi’ tentie, watchfu’ e’e’ [JoHa], ‘Come awa’, my little lambie, Toddle tentie, come to me; Weel ye like to get a hobble On yer auld grandfaither’s knee’ [TCh], ‘Oh, cruel death! how could ye slay

The tentie herd, sae auld and grey . . .’ [TCh] (also written ‘tentie’).

Tentyfit (ten-tee-fi’) n. Tentyfoot, the local name for an old tower at Brauxholme. It is the only remaining part of the former courtyard of walls and buildings around the Castle, the fragment now standing being about 15 feet high. It is a grade A listed building (also spelled ‘Tentifutie’ and variants).

ter (ter) n. tar – ‘ee’ve got ter aa ower yer new breeks’, ‘...and in summer, whan the sunnies are warst an the pluifin ter froes up atween the causa-stanes’ [ECS], note that the English phrase ‘tarred with the same brush’ more often involved a stick in Scotland – ‘...the sister. who was ‘tarred with the same stick’ ...soon severed the troublesome foot from her leg’ [EM1820].

terce (ters) n., arch. the right of a widow to one third of the rents of her husband’s property, this right being by default until 1681. A document of 1553/4 shows a dispute over the right of ‘terce’ between Janet Ker, 2nd (and divorced) wife of the late Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme and Buccleuch and his grandson, the new Sir Walter.

Teri (tee-ree) n. someone from Hawick – ‘Then rally, Teries, yin and a’, ‘Let this year be the best o’ a’’ [RH], ‘Hark again the stirring strains! Rouse ye Teries from your slumbers’ [RH], ‘...They’ll wish that they had ne’er been born Or else been born a Teri’ [JT], ‘...For Teries the wide world over Are Teries ever-more’ [TK], ‘There’s a welcome and a greeting from the Teri in the street, And a gladness in the knowledge that old Hawick’s hard to beat’ [WFC] (also occasionally written ‘Teerie’; deriving from an abbreviation of the ancient Hawick slogan; the plural is Teries).

Teribus (tee-ree-bus) interj. short form of the Hawick slogan and battle-cry, ‘Teribus ye Teri-Odin’ – ‘O Teribus! thy magic spell, Thy sons shall own where’er they dwell’ [RH], ‘...And while the strains of Teribus float on the air Within each breast the life-blood proudly runs’ [JCG], ‘...For it still sticks close to us In the town of Teri-bus. Rally round, rally round, rally round!’ [AW], ‘Cry aloud, ‘Teribus’, conquering terror’ [IWS] (various spellings exist).

Teribus (tee-ree-bus) n. the main Common Riding song, written by James Hogg in 1819, to a tune that is surely much older and effectively replacing the slightly earlier words of Arthur Balmirnie. It was originally called ‘The Colour’, and is distinguished from Hogg’s other main song ‘Flodden Field’, which has the same chorus (and is about the events of 1513, rather than 1514). The words were reprinted in 1824, 1829 and 1836, with several changes. The melody bears some similarity with tunes derived from Border (or Northumbrian) pipe music (e.g. ‘Bobby Shaftoe’ and the essentially identical tune called ‘Brave Wully Forster’ that exists in a 1694 manuscript, as well as the beginning of a piece of music attributed to Praetorius, but believed to have been originally by Caroubel around 1600). However, it is unclear whether this gives any hint as to its age or origin. The version played by the Drums and Fifes also has several variations compared with the tune that is sung. An older version of the tune survives (on a manuscript page in the Museum), and said to be the one played by Walter Ballantyne, town piper in 1777; it is a variant of the better known tune, seeming more like a pipe tune, and perhaps fitting the words to Balbirnie’s song better. Hogg’s words were first published in Kelso (partly because of the two satirical verses): it is sometimes also referred to as ‘The New Common Riding Song’, to distinguish it from Balbirnie’s song (the ‘Auld Sang’) of perhaps a generation earlier, which had the same tune. Hogg’s words were clearly influenced by Balbirnie’s (although perhaps they were both using phrases from even older lyrics). A version preceding Balbirnie’s c.1800 verses had as the chorus ‘T for Teri, O for Odin, H for Hawick and C for Common’, but none of the rest survives. It may be that the song was also once called ‘Drumlanrig’s March’. Hogg’s words are not entirely historically accurate, but that has not dampened their popularity. There were at one time suggestions for ‘improving’ the words to make them more factually correct, but this never caught on (it is unclear who wrote these improved words in the latter part of the 19th century, but they are now lost). Hogg’s full version contains 24 verses, although only a subset of 14 of them are commonly sung, and 2 of the more controversial verses were not printed along with the rest until significantly later. There are also 2 additional verses attributed to Hogg that are never included: one referring to Henry Scott ‘the Hero of Quebec’; and the other commemorating the tricentenary of 1814. A shorter 5 verse version of the song is sung at each Ride-out by the ‘Big 4’, after they have mounted for the ride back to Hawick, as well as on other occasions, such as at the Overseas Night on the Wednesday and in the Avenue on the Saturday; these verses begin ‘Scotia felt . . .’, ‘After Flodden . . .’, ‘Down they threw . . .’, ‘Magistrates . . .’ and ‘Peace by thy portio...’. It is sung at St. Leonard’s after the Thursday night Chase, and in the same place after the Thursday and Friday morning Chases of Common Riding Week. Its singing also marks the end of the Colour Bussing on the Thursday. At the ‘Sang Singin’ on the Friday (after the return from the Mair) the Sang Singer sings the complete version. The verse beginning ‘Annual since our flag’s been carried . . .’ is used for toasts to the Cornet, ‘High the trump of fame did raise them’ for the Right- and Left-Hand Men (only relatively recently) and ‘Magistrates be faithful trustees . . ’ for the Acting Father. The Drums and Fifes also play the tune numerous times, such as when the Cornet is presented the letter on Pickin Night, on the site of the Auld Brig on the night of the Orderin o the Curds an Cream, at the Kirk Wynd at the start of proceedings on the Friday, as the official party march from the top of the Mill Path to the Song Singing, and on the Saturday when the mounted procession passes them at Drumlanrig Place, and at the Handing-Back ceremony – ‘Teerie buss and teerie heather, Aye the ewe lap o’er the heather’ [JR], ‘. . . Sings ‘Teribus’ wi’ right goodwill On pyramid or steeple’ [MG], ‘A’ man, if ye was to play ony other tune enow but ‘Teribus’, the toun o’ Hawick wad rise’ [RM].

2924
Teribus

Teribus (tee-ree-bus) n. pipe march (in 2/4 time and D Major), which is similar, although quite distinct from the traditional Hawick song. The tune is very similar to ‘Bobby Shaftoe’ (otherwise known as ‘In and out the dusty bluebells’), much moreso than the familiar Hawick song. Although it is a standard of many pipe tune compilations, it is not generally known to be associated with Hawick, although the name surely means there is some connection. It is unclear when it was first published, and hence it is possible that both it and the ‘Auld Sang’ derive from the same basic tune sometime pre-1800. However, the first definite appearance is in the ‘Scots Guards’ collection of 1954, and so it is also possible that this was merely a personal version from an unknown piper of the early 20th century, or simply an error in the naming of the tune. Note that some web-sites and published discussions erroneously assume this is exactly the same as the Common Riding tune. To further confuse matters there is an earlier version of the tune for the song ‘Teribus’ known, this being in 4/4 time and being a variant of the modern melody, but again with only a passing similarity to this pipe tune.

Teribus (te-ri-boos) n. Sir John (14th C.) listed as ‘Johne de Teribus’ when he witnessed a charter the Teribus Spitfire (thu-tee-ree-bus-spi'-fir) n. presentation Spitfire fighter aircraft, funded from £5,325 raised by townspeople during ‘Spitfire Week’ in August 1940. It was probably a Mark I Spitfire, identity number R7128, and possibly shot down on 8th July 1941.

Teribus ye Teri-Odin (tee-ree-bu-see-tee-ree-ö-din) interj. the Hawick slogan, whose origin is lost in the mists of time. A popular theory is that it derives from the Anglian ‘Tyr haeb us, ye Tyr ye Odin’ meaning ‘Thor keep us, both Thor and Odin’. However, there is no evidence that Norse gods were ever worshipped in the Borders, and moreover, the period in which the area around Hawick was under the dominance of the Anglians of Northumbria (and hence speaking a version of Anglo-Saxon) but before it was Christianised (and hence not worshipping Anglo-Saxon gods) was quite short. This theory appears to have first been suggested by Jamieson around 1825, and was accepted by Sir James Murray. However, it is not supported by normal phonological development either (where one would have started with the Old English forms ‘Tiw’ and ‘Widan’ and these could not have conceivably developed into the Old Norse forms for the gods). Another idea is that the slogan derives from the Celtic ‘Tir a buidh’s, tir a dion’ meaning ‘Land of Victory, Land of Defence’. This is perhaps more likely, since Hawick people spoke a version of ancient Northumbrian (related to other ‘Brythonic’ languages, like modern Welsh) until perhaps the 8th century. A third, and least romantic theory is that the phrase is essentially a set of nonsense syllables used to sing along to the song (analogous perhaps to ‘Hey tutti tatie’, the former name for the tune used by Burns for ‘Scots Wha Hae’, said to have been the march used by Robert the Bruce’s men at Bannockburn). However, it should be stressed that all of these ideas are based on guesswork, and the truth could be something else entirely. In any case it appears that Hawick’s slogan is quite ancient, perhaps over 1,000 years old, and it is intriguing that it has survived through the Reformation and other political and social changes. Its survival is even more curious when one realises that, although familiar to everyone from Hawick, no one knows its meaning!

Teridom (tee-ree-dum) n. the state of being a Teri, the area around Hawick – ‘He burns to clasp the callant’s hand That’s come from some far distant land, Aince mair in Teridom to stand clasp the callant’s hand That’s come from some far distant land, Aince mair in Teridom to stand.

Teri Oden (tee-ree-ö-din) n. another variant of part of the Hawick slogan – ‘Unfold the Teri Oden flag, To kiss the breeze o’ Summer . . . ’[JT].
Teriodin

Teriodin  (tee-ree-ô-din)  n. the second half of the Hawick town slogan – ‘...Join in the old refrain Shout Teri-odin again and again’ [JT], ‘They ha’e nae Teri-Odin flag ...’ [JT], ‘Teri Odin’s strain entrancing Through the air triumphant soared ...’ [TK], ‘Though names be forgotten, as time passes by, Teri-Odin for ever – united the cry’ [WFC].

The Teri-Optimists  (thu-tee-oo-op-ti-mists)  n. theatrical group who performed songs, dances and sketches in the Town Hall in the 1930s.

The Teri Stakes  (thu-tee-oo-stäks)  n. prize race at the Common Riding, held on the Saturday, but dropped in 1979.

term-days  (term-, te-rum-däz)  n., pl. the four days on which rents and other payments were traditionally due in Scotland, also known as quarter days. These days were once very prominent in the yearly calendar, particularly those in May and November; servants were hired by the year or half-year and leases by the year or longer, almost always on those days. The names, as well as the dates, were different in Scotland than in England. Called Candlemas, Whitsun, Lammas and Martinmas, they were originally on 2nd February, 26th May, 1st August and 11th November, respectively. However, Whitsun moved to 15th May when the Gregorian Calendar was formally adopted in 1752. But in 1886 the term days for hiring and renewing domestic and agricultural workers was changed in Scotland to 28th February, 28th May, 28th August and 28th November, and this was confirmed by an Act of 1990. Until well into the 20th century it was common to see the families of shepherds and other farm labourers moving from one farm to another on 28th May.

termigant  (ter-mi-gin)  n., arch. a violent, quarrelsome person – ‘Termigants have been rife in this same month ...’ [RM].

Term Thursdi  (term-thurz-di)  n. popular name for the first Thursday after Martinmas term, in November. It was formerly an important day in Hawick, which was treated as a fair day by the country residents. It was a day for settling accounts in Town, and for preparing for the Winter. The ‘mait’ (usually a fattened sheep) would be bought for the Winter’s meat supply and there would be a general festive atmosphere. The practice stopped towards the end of the 19th century.

The Terraces  (thu-te-ri-seez)  n. popular name for streets in the Wellogate, largely built through the Hawick Working Men’s Building & Investment Company starting in 1866 and continuing to roughly the end of the 19th century. The land was petitioned for from the Duke of Buccleuch, partly as a result of the 1849 cholera epidemic. The grid-like layout gives little concession to the contours of the land.

terrier  (te-ree-ur)  n. nickname for a Territorial Army soldier. The T.A. headquarters is on Union Street.

terrin  (te-rin)  n. the act of applying tar, particularly to sheep. This was formerly a common practice locally, used to prevent infection in cuts and for identifying the sheep from a distance. However, the benefits were never entirely clear and it became less common by the mid-19th century as the preference for white woollens grew.

The Territorial Kirk  (thu-te-ri-to-ree-ul-kirk)  n. name used in the early days of West Port Kirk.

Terrona  (te-ro-nu)  n. farm in Ewesdale, off the left-hand side of the A7 a couple of miles before Langholm. There are multiple spellings in older records. It was a 5-merk land when the superiority was inherited by Robert, Lord Maxwell, in 1550, by John, Lord Maxwell in 1604, by Robert Maxwell in 1619 and still held by John, Earl of Nithsdale in 1670 and William, Earl of Nithsdale in 1696. The farm was surveyed in 1718 along with other properties of the Duchess of Buccleuch, when it covered 457 acres and was bounded by Cooms, Whitsheils, Arkin, Nether Wrae and Flask. James Little was there in 1797. James Paterson was farmer there in 1841 until at least the 1860s. There are remains of an ancient walled settlement to the southeast of the farmhouse (there are many spelling variants; it is ‘Torronna’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map, ‘Toroun’ on Gordon’s c.1650 map and ‘Tareona’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey).

terry  (te-ree)  adj. tarry, covered with tar.

tersy-versy  (ter-see-ver-see)  adj., arch. topsyturvy, in a confused state.

tertan  (ter-‘in)  n. tartan, a distinctive pattern of coloured lines and bands for cloth, traditionally worn in the Highlands, with specific designs attached to clans, often spuriously. Hawick District Corporate tartan was launched in 1996, with a dress version in addition. There is no indication that locals historically wore tartan clothing – ‘There’s the spot where we were lyin’ Rowed within your tartan plaid!’ [JT].

The Test  (thu-test)  n. one of a number of oaths of allegiance introduced, particularly in the 17th century, to differentiate between Protestants and Catholics in England or adherence to Presbyterianism versus Episcopalianism in Scotland. The most important ‘test’ was probably that of the Test Act of 1681, which enforced episcopacy and attempted to suppress the Covenanters. In Hawick in that year it seems that the Bailies and Council subscribed to a specific text, stating that no one should ‘enter into covenants or leagues, or to convocate, convene, or assemble in any councils, conventions, or assemblies, to treat, consult, or determine in any matter of state, civil or ecclesiastical, without His Majesty’s special command’. The tailors and weavers took the Test in 1684.

testamentar (tes-ta-men-tar) adj., arch. pertaining to a testament, nominated in a will, especially in the phrase ‘testament testamentar’, meaning a testament in which the details are specified by the person whose testament it is — ‘The testament testamentar, and inventar of the gudis, geir, soumes of money, and dettis pertening to vmquhile Walter Scot of Branxholme the Teviot — the Teviot tethery-methery testificate (tes-ti-fee-ki’) n., arch. a testimonial, solemn declaration, evidence, specifically a document issued by a Kirk Session for someone moving to a new parish, describing whether they were married or unmarried and whether or not they were free of scandal; the requirement to produce such a document was prescribed in an Act of Assembly of 1648 — ‘...by reason of our being vagrant and vagabond persons wanting testificats ...’ [BR], ‘To a man that had a testificate’ [PR], ‘...and the beadle was further ordered to make inquiry ament the rest of the testificats’ [PR1713].

testit (tes-ti, -ta’) adj., arch. testate, mentioned as part of a will — ‘...nor pursue ...but before the Bailies of this Bruch in ther awin Court, except for testat geir, under the pane of £5, totes quotes’ [BR1640], ‘Freemen prohibited from instituting prosecution for debts in any other than the Bailie Court, except testat goods’ [JW1701] (also spelled ‘testat’).

tethert (te-thur’) pp., adj. tethered — ‘...and that nane keippe any in the day fra the 15th of April till harvest, except they be tethert, under the lyk pane’ [BR1640], ‘...The cranes stand oot at the Port o’ Leith Whaur the boats lie trigly tethert’ [WL].

tethery-methery (te-thu-ree-me-thu-ree) n., arch. an untidy mess, confused state (noted as ‘tetherie-metherie’ by E.C. Smith; related to the children’s counting rhyme, see eendy-teendy).

The most important ‘test’ was probably that of the Test Act of 1681, which enforced episcopacy and attempted to suppress the Covenanters. In Hawick in that year it seems that the Bailies and Council subscribed to a specific text, stating that no one should ‘enter into covenants or leagues, or to convocate, convene, or assemble in any councils, conventions, or assemblies, to treat, consult, or determine in any matter of state, civil or ecclesiastical, without His Majesty’s special command’. The tailors and weavers took the Test in 1684.

teuch (tewch) adj., arch. tough — ‘They’re teuch sauchs growin’ i’ the Reuch Heuch Hauch’ [JAHM], ‘...thin Than a robin’s leg And twice as teuch’ [DH], ‘Glooms and glints, sudden flashes of gold across the fields — teuch and smooth on grass ...’ [DH] (the pronunciation formerly had a long diphthong merging ŭ and oo).

teuchter (chooch-tur) n., ins. mildly derogatory lowland name for a Highlander.

Teueot (tee-ee-i’) n. another early spelling of ‘Teviot’ (e.g. on Mercator’s 1595 map of Scotland).

Teuiot (tee-ee-i’) n. early form of ‘Teviot’, recorded in 1160 (the pronunciation of the time is of course unknown, but it seems that the v sound may have come later).

Tevidalenses (tee-vee-da-len-seez) n. former name for the people of Teviotdale. At the Battle of the Standard in 1130 the second division of King David’s army consisted of them along with the Cumbreenses.

the Teviot (thu-tee-ee-i’, -teev-yyi’) n. major river running through Hawick, having its source at Teviot Stone and joining the Tweed 37 miles later. Its main tributaries are the Borthwick, Slitrig, Rule, Ale, Jed and Kale Waters. Other minor watercourses joining it include: Lang Grain; Rashie Grain; Rams Cleuch Burn; Mare Sike; Giddens Cleuch Burn; Commonbrae Sike; Hare Sike; Black Cleuch Burn; Frostlie Burn; Falnash Burn; Dryden Burn; Nest Burn; Weens Sike; Teindside Burn; Northhouse Burn; Howden Cleuch; Harwood Sike; Vales Burn; the Allan Water; Fenwick Burn; Wilton Burn; Dean Burn; Howden Burn; Boonraw Burn; Kirkton Burn; Hassendean Burn; Honey Burn; Dean Burn; Grinding Burn; Ale Water; Oxnam Water and Kale Water. The river has always played a significant role in the life of Hawick. In the town it used to be crossed by a ford at the foot of Walter’s Wynd, or by boat at the Coble, until the Teviot Bridge was built in 1741. The river was harnessed (and much polluted) by manufacturers in the 19th century. The river is prone to flooding, some historical floods being very dramatic. It also has the potential to dry up almost entirely in hot summers, and also sometimes in the winter (as in January 1748, March 1785, January 1787, winter of 1803/4 and November 1838), presumably due to blockage by ice. Some stone artefacts found around the river in Hawick are in the Museum — ‘...And Teviot’s banks, where flowers of fairy blow, – Couldst thou with cold unraptur’d eye survey, Nor wake to bardish notes the bosom-thrilling lay? ’[JL], ‘Ah! when shall I by Teviot’s stream The haunts of youth again explore? And muse in melancholy dream On days that shall return no more?’ [JL], ‘O swiftly gae speed the berry-brown steed That drinks o’ the Teviot clear’ [JL], ‘There’s ae auld toon by Teviot’s side, That’s famed in days o’ yore’ [JT], ‘There’s a toon, by hills surrounded, stands by bonnie Teviot’s side’ [TC], ‘River of dreams, you are dear to us ever, Dear where the broad haughs invite you to Tweed; Dear where the willows dip low to your crooning Songs that you murnmur through valley and mead’ [WL], ‘The Teviot babbles on its way; The clash of steel has passed away’ [IWS] (origin uncertain, although the name is very old, possibly Celtic, and perhaps even older, with a suggestion that it is derived from the Sanskrit root ‘tavass’, perhaps meaning ‘surging’, which curiously may also be the same root as for the Tweed; it seems that the pre-Celtic hydronym gained the Cumbric suffix ‘ed’, probably later than the 8th century; it is ‘Teuiet’ in charters around 1200, ‘aque de Teuyoth’ in 1279, ’aqua de Teveot’ in 1420 and ‘Theviot’ in 1547/8, with other spellings including ‘Teviot’, ‘Teiot’, etc.; it is ‘Tiot fl.’ on Gordon’s c.1650 map, and ‘Teatt fl.’ on Gordon’s map of Scotland in Blaeu’s 1654 atlas).

Teviot (tee-yi’) n. Ninian (16th C.) listed in 1579 among men accused by the Bailie of Hexham of stealing 2 horses from near there. He was ‘of the Hillhous’, and his lands were probably the Hillhouse near Newcastleton. The other men named were Mungo Armstrong ‘Flie the Gaist’, Alexander Bell ‘Crat Bell’ and Ninian Armstrong ‘Gawdie’.

Teviotbank (tee-vee-i’-bawngk) n. merchant ship, built in 1938 by J. Readhead & Sons Ltd. for the Bank Line (Andrew Weir Shipping & Trading Co. Ltd.) and sold off to a company registered in Panama in 1955. It may have been used to lay mines during WWII.

Teviot Bank (tee-vee-i’-bawngk) n. villa overlooking the north banks of the Teviot, about a mile before Denholm. A house was built there about 1791 for David Simpson, designed by Robert Burn. It was rebuilt in 1833 with designs by William Burn (son of the previous architect).
There was also a stable building to the west and a walled garden with gardener’s cottage to the east.
It was the residence of William Scott, grandson of William Scott of Woll, then J.S. Heron-Maxwell, followed by Edward Heron-Maxwell. To the north are cropmarks, indicating a possible ancient enclosure (sometimes written ‘Teviotbank’; possibly also known earlier as ‘The Knowes’).

Teviotbank Gairdens (tee-vee-i’-bawngk-gär-dinz) n. street in Denholm off the north end of Canongate.

Teviot Brig (tee-vee-i’-brig) n. bridge across the Teviot, connecting the Sandbed with Wilton, built 1738–1741 with stone from Spittal quarry.
This was the first bridge over the Teviot at Hawick, and it meant that traffic from the north no longer had to ford the river at Walter’s Wynd, or travel all the way down-river to Ancrum. There had been some debate about whether to put it at the Sandbed or the foot of Walter’s Wynd, the question being resolved by a group of local landowners. There was also a great deal of trouble raising the money (£450 total cost) and paying off the original bond (£250 from the Duke of Buccleuch’s commissioners), this being probably the largest municipal project undertaken by the town. The bridge was completed when ‘the ki-stone was perfected and close’ on 29th July 1741, but the debt took about 20 years to clear; this is despite other towns being asked to contribute (e.g. Glasgow contributed £5). During construction the animals used to transport materials were pastured on the Common Haugh and Myreslawgreen (with no other animals allowed there during that time). The original bridge was too narrow for carts to pass in the middle (sometimes causing arguments), and was very steep on each side.
The piers were strengthened around 1751 (along with drains being added) and after many other repairs it was removed in 1865 and replaced with a less steep and contracted bridge. The architect was Andrew Wilson and the builder was John Marshall. During excavations for the new bridge the trunk of an oak tree was found embedded in the gravel, presumably left there in some long ago flood. The original bridge can be seen in paintings of 1800, 1808 and 1812. The new bridge has 3 arches and was designed by A. Wilson. The bridge was also popularly known as ‘the Haugh Brig’ and has subsequently become known as the Albert Bridge, possibly because of an error in the Ordnance Survey map of 1898. The name ‘Teviot Brig’ is also used for other bridges across the river, including the one built at Denholm in 1864.

Teviot Brig Road (tee-vee-i’-brig-röd) n. name sometimes used for Albert Road, or the street between the Sandbed and the Teviot Bridge (i.e. Orrock Place).
Teviot Court

Teviot Court  (tee-vee-i’-kör) _n_. sheltered housing development built by Eildon Housing Association in 1989–91 on the Tannage Close property previously belonging to the Co-operative Store.

Teviot Crescent  (tee-vee-i’-kre-sin) _n_. street between the High Street and the river, originally part of the Common, with lands feued after the Division of 1777, and the Wee Haugh being the sole remaining piece of public land. The area was used as nurseries by Dickson’s. The houses were built around 1832 as skilled, middle-class workers’ residences, and are now listed for preservation. They are 2 storeys, but most have attic extensions with dormer windows. The street was obviously named after the river. William Laidlaw & Sons had their Teviot Crescent Mills here. A mill lade used to run from Laidlaw’s Cauld along the side of Teviot Crescent and through the Mills. It was filled in in 1914. The Drums and Fifes walk along this street as part of their march around the old tols on ‘the Nicht Afore the Morn’.

Teviot Crescent Mills  (tee-vee-i’-kre-sin’-milz) _n_. hosiery and tweed factory built by William Laidlaw in 1834 on Teviot Crescent and later extended. The suitability of the site (owing to the drop in the Teviot) was first suggested by millwright Gideon Scott. The factory was once very large, extending along the Teviot from the Little Haugh until almost the foot of Dovecote Street. The footpath along the riverside was popularly known as ‘the Back o the Mill’. The factory was also referred to as ‘Laidlaw’s’. It was eventually demolished.

Teviotdale  (tee-vee-i’-däl) _n_. the valley of the Teviot, in which Hawick is nestled. The word is sometimes synonymous with Roxburghshire, i.e. extending beyond the boundaries of the river valley itself. It was also the name used for the local arch-deaconry in early church organisation. This area was part of the Diocese of Durham in the 11th century, but was transferred to the See of Glasgow by the end of the 12th century. The region was occupied by the English in the 14th century, being recovered in 1383/4 – ‘My native stream, my native vale, And you green meads of Teviotdale …‘ [JL], ‘When morn’s first rays fall quivering on the strand, Then is the time to stretch the daring hand, And snatch it from the bending poplar pale, The magic harp of ancient Teviotdale’ [JL], ‘And for the world I wadna’ leave My Bonnie Teviotdale’ [JoHa], ‘Young Mary was the loveliest lass In all green Teviotdale; Her cheek outvied the budding rose, Her breath the rosy gale’ [JTe], ‘Oh, Teviotdale! loved land of song, What memories to thee belong’ [JCG], ‘…Where nature’s voices join to speak In praise of glorious Teviotdale’ [RHL], ‘O sing me songs of Teviotdale That tell an old familiar tale’ [IWS] (called ‘Teuidalia’ by the Romans; it was ‘Teuegetedale’ in about 1117, ‘Theiudall’ around 1147, ‘Thevidalida’ around 1165, ‘Tevitededale’ in about 1170, ‘Teuietesdale’ in the early 13th century, ‘Tevidiaall’ in Bagimond’s Roll of 1275, ‘Theviatat’ in a Scottish record of 1297, ‘Teyvdalle’ in an English document of 1391 and ‘Tevidalia’ in the 1407 charter for the Barony of Hawick; the early spelling varies wildly, e.g. ‘Theuydalia’ in about 1360, ‘Teuidalie’ in 1415, ‘Thevidalie’ in 1427, ‘Teuidaylle’ in 1431, ‘Tevidalie’ in 1433/4, ‘Tevidalie’ in 1448, ‘Tevidalia’ in 1453, ‘Theudalidie’ in about 1452, ‘tevidal’ in 1498, ‘Tewidall’ in 1501, ‘Tavidial’ in 1516, ‘Tevidiale’ in 1479, 1500 and 1525, ‘Tevydial’ in 1525, ‘Tevidall’ in 1530, ‘Tavidale’ about 1540, ‘Tewydayl’ in 1546, ‘Teviotdale’ in 1547/8, ‘Tevydell’ in 1566, ‘Tewydall’ in 1567, ‘Teviotdaill’ in 1583/4 and ‘Tenniotdaill’ in 1591).

Teviotdale  (tee-vee-i’-däl) _n_. song with words by Robert H. Laidlaw and music by Frank Simpson. The words were published in the Hawick Express in 1934 and reprinted in 1950 when the music had been written. It was first sung publically at the Glasgow Hawick Association’s Common Riding Night, the singer being Mrs. Margaret Turnbull (a niece of Francis George Scott). The original key of D major was later lowered to B flat major. It has no chorus, and is probably a little too complex to be sung regularly.

Teviotdale  (tee-vee-i’-däl) _n_. blend of pipe tobacco sold by D. Simpson Ltd., from about the War years until the 1960s.

Teviotdale  (tee-vee-i’-däl) _n_. blended whisky, formerly labelled and sold by John Turnbull of Hawick.

Teviotdale  (tee-vee-i’-däl) _n_.  Thomas (16th C.) Englishman, who was tenant in Ingram and had a local surname. He was recorded in 1590 as ‘Thomas Tevidaile’ when it is claimed that he was wounded by a group of Scottish raiders, specifically Burns, Youngs and others.

Teviotdale Bakery  (tee-vee-i’-däl-bā-ku-ree) _n_. former bakery at 2 Princes Street. It was run by Martin P. Baillie, father of singer Isobel.

the Teviotdale Club  (thu-tee-vee-i’-däl-klub) _n_. former social club near the foot of Beaconsfield Terrace, also known as ‘Hawick Billiard Club’. The building was constructed in 1877, and Teviotdale Court has had many subsequent uses, including as a milliners, the office for Bonsor’s factory and the Jehovah’s Witnesses Kingdom Hall.

Teviotdale Court (tee-vee-’i’-dål-kör’) n. part of the Meadows, built in 1964 and refurbished as luxury flats in 1986.

Teviotdale Crescent (tee-vee-’i’-dål-kre-sin’) n. ??.

Teviotdale Cyclin Club (tee-vee-’i’-dål-sī-klin-klub) n. cycling club based in Hawick in the late 19th century, co-existing for a while with Hawick Amateur Bicycle Club.

Teviotdale Dairy (tee-vee-’i’-dål-dā-ree’) n. former dairy at 49 North Bridge Street, next to the Buccleuch Memorial. The buildings were designed in about 1899 by J.P. Alison as a symmetrical, 2-stotey, 3-bay block in red sandstone, with Dutch influence in the detailing. The company was set up in the late 19th century and continued in the 1930s as ‘Honeyburn and Teviotdale Dairy Company’ by Andrew Haddon and his son Andrew. Other partners were Jimmy Taddei and Mr. Collier the grocer. The company delivered certified (i.e. Brucellosis and T.B. free) milk to the local region. It was later owned by the Buttermilk Dairy Company. It finally folded in 1982, with the building surviving (with monogrammed gable still visible) as a shop, although the bottling plant at the back was demolished.

Teviotdale Ferriers’ Club (tee-vee-’i’-dål-fer-murz-klub) n. organisation formed in 1859 to be a forum for discussion and to represent the interests of local farmers. The first President was William Aitchison from 1859–73, with James Oliver being secretary from 1859–1905. It used to meet in a room in the Tower Hotel, where portraits of several ex-Presidents hung through much of the 19th century. It grew out of the Agricultural society for the west of Teviotdale, formed by James Douglas of Cavers in 1835 (although both existed together for several decades). The Oliver family were Honorary Secretaries for the Club 1859–1994. The regular meeting time has been Thursday nights during the winter months. The club is still going strong.

Teviotdaleheid (tee-vee-’i’-dål-heed) n. name formerly used for the upper Teviot valley, particularly to refer to the Buccleuch estates there in the 17th and 18th centuries. It was once included in the lands formerly known as Ringwoodfield. It is referred to in 1551 as part of the bounds described when Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme was appointed Justiciar of Liddesdale (it is already ‘Teviotdaleheid’ in 1551 and ‘Teviotdailheid’ in 1633).

Teviotdale Herriers (tee-vee-’i’-dål-he-ree-urz’) n. Teviotdale Harriers, the local amateur running club. It was formed in 1889 as a cross-country club by several local merchants and professionals, including George Heron Wilson. It is said to be the third oldest in Scotland in continual existence. The inclusion of track competitions came a few years after the club started. The club’s Challenge Cup was first presented in 1894. Rob Barton was an early success for the club, representing Britain at 800 m in the 1908 Olympics. A Junior Section was formed in 1907 and a Ladies’ Section in 1930. Clubrooms were built on Bath Street in 1956, and moved to the former Citizens Advice Bureau at 1 Towerdyside in 2006. A history, ‘The First Hundred’ was written by John L. Colman in 1989.

Teviotdale Hockey Club (tee-vee-’i’-dål-ho-kee-klub) n. mixed hockey team existing before WWI, based in Hawick. The 4 Laing brothers all played for the team.

Teviotdale Leisure Centre (tee-vee-’i’-dål-lei-shur-sen’-ur’) n. official name for the Leisure Centre, also known as ‘T.L.C.’.

Teviotdale Ludge (tee-vee-’i’-dål-loj’) n. house in Commonside, just past Newmill, built in 1934 as a shooting lodge for the Duke of Buccleuch. It has been for many years run as a hotel, Teviotdale Lodge Country House. It has also been the site of Common Riding Ride-outs.

Teviotdale Ludge (tee-vee-’i’-dål-loj’) n. Ha-wick branch of the Royal Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, Lodge 10417. Sometimes known as ‘the Buffs’, this was one of two local branches of a fraternal and benevolent organisation founded in the 19th century. It folded in 1990.

Teviotdale Mills (tee-vee-’i’-dål-milz’) n. former factory at the corner of Commercial Road and Albert Road, being the main premises of Scoon & Hood, previously Scoon & Barrie. It was built in 1877 (or perhaps earlier) by Green-wood, Watt & Co., and sold to Scoon & Barrie in 1888. J.P. Alison designed a new yarn store there. It was later Scoon & Hood’s until about 1930. It may also have been owned by Innes & Henderson. The building more recently became a garage, with Croall Bryson.

the Teviotdale Regiment (thu-tee-vee-’i’-dål-re-jeen’mi’) n. foot regiment formed by Sir William Kerr, 3rd Earl of Lothian, in 1639, after the signing of the National Covenant. It was one of the armies raised to protect Scotland against Charles I, and also referred to as the Teviotdale Regiment.
‘Lothian’s Regiment’ (Buccleuch commanded a Tweeddale regiment, Hume a regiment from the Merse, etc.). The Regiment probably consisted of about 500 men, many of whom must have been local. They were part of the Covenanting force that crossed the Tweed with Montrose in 1640, capturing Newcastle. The Regiment was disbanded in 1641, but reformed in 1642 and sent to Ireland. About 1642 Lords Lothian, Buccleuch and Cranston were made Colonels of foot of a combined force, with Sir William Scott of Harden commanding the horse. They returned from Ireland in 1644, but mutinied for lack of pay in 1645 and then suffered huge losses at the Battle of Auldearn. The Regiment continued to exist for about the next 40 years.

the Teviotdale Rifles (thu-tee-vee-ı’-dāl-rı̄-fulz) n. alternative name for the Roxburghshire Rifle Volunteers, also known as the Border Rifles.

Teviotex (tee-vee-ō-teks) n. textile company based at 15 Commercial Road, weaving country tweeds and luxury cloths at Lovat Mill.

Teviot Grove Academy (tee-vee-ı’-gröv-awk-ka-du-mee) n. seminary run towards the end of the 19th century at 10 Union Street by James Brand, also known as ‘Brand’s Schuil’. It was taken over in 1895 by the School Board and run as the town’s Secondary School. Pupils were transferred to the new school from Buccleuch Street along with the teacher A.S. Williams. The Science and Art classes were held in the Buccleuch Memorial, and James Brand was the Rector. The secondary school transferred back to Buccleuch Street in the early 20th century. School Inspectors’ Reports from 1896–1904 are in the National Archives.

Teviothaugh (tee-vee-ı’-hawf) n. farm near Denholm, on the north side of the Teviot, just beyond the north end of Denholm and to the south of Minto. It was once part of the Minto estate. Nailer John Oliver was living there in 1815. Christopher Hislop was farmer there in 1841. It was farmed by James Young in the 1860s and by the Miller family in the late 19th century, until the 1920s.

Teviothead (tee-vee-ı’-heed, teev-yi’-heed) n. Teviothead, village about 9 miles south of Hawick, which is spread out along the A7, and was formerly called Caerlenrig. Prior to the opening of the Scots Dyke to Haremoss Turnpike, there was an alternative route from Langholm to Selkirk (skirting past Hawick) which diverged at Teviothead and crossed to the Borthwick valley.

The area was for many years the home of Henry Scott Riddell, with a plaque on his cottage there, his memorial cairn overlooking the area, and his burial place in the churchyard. The Chapel of St. Mary’s of Caerlenrig existed there from early times. There was a ‘chapel of ease’ there, for the outlying members of Hawick Parish from the early 18th century. The parish itself was formed in 1850 out of parts of Hawick and Cavers, and extends to the Dumfriesshire boundary. Prior to this time the area was generally known as Caerlenrig. The area was famous for the 1530 capture and hanging of Johnnie Armstrong and his men. His grave and commemorative plaque are there. The village long had its own primary school, but it was closed in 2004. It also had its own library from at least the 1830s. A stone war memorial (designed by J.P. Alsion) was erected after WWI – ‘There is no man of all the men in this grey troop of mine But blind might ride the Borderside from Teviothead to Tyne’ [WHO], ‘At Teviothead there stand three stones, If ever you’re that way, Take time to seek them out And read the words they have to say. One man was called to fight a fight And one to win a race And one to write a special song To mark his time and place’ [IWL] (the place name appears as ‘Teviotheid’ in 1623 and is used regularly from the 1660s).

Teviothead Cottage (tee-vee-ı’-heed-koo’-eej) n. home of Henry Scott Riddell at Teviothead, built for him about 1840 by the Duke of Buccleuch, and also known as Dryden Cottage, Caerlenrig Manse and Dryden Burnfoot. It still exists and has a commemorative plaque. About 100 yards to the east there were 2 ancient cairns that were excavated in 1869, an iron spearhead being found, which is now in Hawick Museum. The 1863 Ordnance Survey map shows an additional ruined building that is now gone.

Teviothead Haa (tee-vee-ı’-heed-haw) n. Teviothead Hall, village hall in Teviothead, used for various community events.

Teviotheid Kirk (tee-vee-ı’-heed-kirk) n. church in Teviothead Parish. The site of the ancient Chapel of St. Mary’s of Caerlenrig lies within the old churchyard, and contains an ancient stone, as well as the burial site of Johnnie Armstrong, with the memorial stone of 1897. ‘Mr' Thomas Hume was recorded witnessing baptisms in the area in 1713 and 1714, suggesting he was acting as preacher there. There was a ‘chapel of ease’ near there around 1715, as part of Hawick and Cavers Parishes, built on the Thuriothaugh by Falnash, with regular services commencing in about 1721. A collection was made in...
Teviothead Library

Hawick Parish to raise money to repair the masonry of the meeting house in 1722. A petition of 1725, signed by about 100 locals, requested the Duchess of Buccleuch to supply an allowance for a preacher. In the 1752 Hawick Parish records the church is referred to as ‘Meeting House at Thorny Hall’. A new building constructed on the other side of the stream in 1799 (later converted into the village school). The Parish was created in 1850 from the more distant parts of Hawick and Cavers, repaired in about 1821 when a new preacher was installed. The church was built in 1855/6, and designed by Mr. Cowan, the Duke of Buccleuch’s Clerk of Works. It is a plain rectangular building of whinstone, with freestone edges and buttresses. Some alterations were designed by J.P. Alison around 1900. The church was linked with Hawick Old Parish 1972–89 and with Wilton from 1989. It celebrated its 150th anniversary in 2005, with the present Duke of Buccleuch in attendance. A communion token exists from 1854, oval in shape. A roll of the ministry is: Thomas Hume, at least 1713–14; David Graham, from 1714; John Chisholme, from 1720; John Laurie 1738–c.45; Andrew Walker 1745–50; Robert Rutherford 1750–56; Patrick Kerr, from 1757; James Erskine 1763–64; John Riccarton 1764–65; Charles Paton, from 1780; James Sanson 1785–c.88; Thomas Dyce 1792–c.1804; Robert Shaw 1804–16; Joseph Thomson 1817–19; Gavin Turnbull 1821–c.31; John Dobbie, about 1831; Henry Scott Riddell, 1832–42; William Lamb 1843–44; Daniel MacNee, from 1847; James Duncan 1850–53; Robert Young 1854–84; Robert F. Colvin 1884–87; Archibald H. Dinwoodie 1887–1919; Arthur H. Dunnett 1920–24; David S. Steven 1925–29; James Livingston 1929–40; James Hill 1940–63; Robert McConnell 1966–72; David L. Wright 1972–86; George Watson 1989–91; Brian Hendrie 1992–97; John Shedden 1998–.

Teviothead Library (tee-vee-i’-heed-IL-bru-ree) n. former library in Teviothead Parish, also called the Caerlenrig Chapel Library. It was probably established in the early 1800s and mentioned in the New Statistical Account in 1839.

Teviothead Parish (tee-vee-i’-heed-pä-reesh) n. Teviothead Parish, formed in 1850 from the outlying parts of Hawick and Cavers parishes, centred on the village of the same name. It is bounded on the south by Dumfriesshire, and on the other sides by the parishes of Robertson, Hawick, Cavers and Castleton. There was a chapel at Caerlenrig from early times and a ‘Chapel of Ease’ here from long before the Parish was created. Parish records exist from 1824.

Teviothead Schuil (tee-vee-i’-heed-skil) n. primary school in Teviothead, which taught pupils up to the end of Primary 5. There was informal teaching there earlier, but the teacher’s salary was not established until 1803. Mr. Armstrong ‘the Tailor’ (brother of Hawick schoolmaster Christopher) was master there in the early 1800s. When the Presbytery refused to allow Tom Jenkins to take over as teacher, the smiddy was converted for his use (about 1815–18), with him having as many as 45 pupils and the official school just 4. The parish-appointed schoolmaster at that time was a Mr. Elliot. When Jenkins left, the new schoolmaster for the district was Simon Little, who was there until about 1861. It was referred to as a ‘side-parochial school’ in 1839 and was run by Hawick and Cavers Parishes together. There were more than 30 pupils in the 1830s. The school closed in 2004, with the pupils being transferred to Drumlanrig.

Teviot Kirk (tee-vee-i’-kirk) n. Teviot Parish Church, being a new name for St. George’s, adopted in 1988, and having links with Robertson.

Teviot Lodge (tee-vee-i’-loj, -huj) n. house that stood on the eastern part of the site of the present High School until shortly after WWII. It was built for the Dickson family, Miss Dickson being owner in 1824 and William Dickson living there in the mid-19th century. It was later the home of Col. William Scott Elliot. It was the first house in Hawick with electric lighting, installed by William Elliot (with the assistance of William Melrose), using 2 copper wires in porcelain insulators, running all the way from his factory at Tower Mill (across the roofs of houses, etc.). An ingenious mechanism allowed Elliot to operate a sluice at the mill so that the lights went off when he was ready for bed. And it was also arranged for signals to be sent by morse code between the house to the mill. A billiard room was added to designs by J.P. Alison in 1890. The daughters of Col. Elliot gifted the house and grounds to the school in 1933. It was used for a while as a nursery, and as the headquarters of the Women’s Voluntary Services Organisation during WWII, while the gardens became part of the ‘dig for victory campaign’ and the riverside lawn was used for games. The house was demolished in the 1950s to make way for the High School science buildings and gymnasium, built around 1960. Wood’s 1824 map shows its location and the lay-out of the grounds.
Teviot Mill

Teviot Mill (tee-vee-i’-mil) n. hosiery factory in Weensland, built by Walter Wilson in the 1850s, on a piece of ground that had formerly belonged to John Oliver & Sons. The premises of Walter Wilson & Sons there made hosiery and tweeds. It was later associated with Sime, Williamson & Co. and Kenway & Co. Part of the mill was used for a while as barracks during WWI (also sometimes plural ‘Mills’).

Teviot Pairish (tee-vee-i’-pā-reesh) n. Teviot Parish Church, being the name used for what was St. George’s Church, with a connection to Roberton.

Teviot Place (tee-vee-i’-plis) n. street name used in the mid-19th century, presumably the same as one of the other similarly named streets.

Teviot Raw (tee-vee-i’-raw) n. Teviot Row, street alongside the river in the Weensland area, previously named simply ‘Weensland’, renamed when houses were constructed in 1872 and demolished when considered unsafe in 1968.

Teviot Road (tee-vee-i’-röd) n. road along the Teviot, parallel to the High Street, leading from Teviot Crescent to the foot of the Mill Port. The houses were developed from 1824, and on Wood’s map of that year it is labelled ‘New Projected Street’. Previous to that it was a roughly 3 foot wide cobbledstone path, close to the water level, which was dangerous in high water, and connected the foot of Walter’s Wynd with the Round Close. In the 1830s there was a proposal to build a High Street bypass along the riverside here, together with a bridge to the Sandbed, linking with the New Road, but this never transpired. During the construction of Pringle’s Rodono Mills in the 1950s and 1960s there was extensive demolition of old buildings and closes around the bottom of the Round Close, with replacement by the path and steps. After Rodono was demolished the ground was cleared in 1980, part being grassed over and part being used as a car park. The Health Centre was built there in 1989.

Teviotside (tee-vee-i’-sīd) n. poetic name for the banks of the Teviot – ‘As I came in by Teviotside, And by the Braes of Branxholm, There I spied a bonny lass; She was both neat and handsome’ [CPM], ‘By Teviotside they took this Colour, A dear memorial of their valour’ [AB], ‘No place could be so dear to me As Bonnie Teviotside’ [RHL], ‘No pen or brush can e’er describe The beauty of the Teviotside’ [JCa], ‘A love ti walk be Teviotside And sei its ripplin witters glide’ [IWL].

Teviotstane see Teviot Stone

Teviot Tweed

Teviotside Foondry (tee-vee-i’-foon-dree) n. former premises of James Melrose & Sons on the east side of Commercial Road, adjacent to the Victoria Laundry.

Teviotside House (tee-vee-i’-sūd-hooz) n. former private school at 1 Teviotside Terrace (then a corner house on North Bridge Street), run by Mrs. Dumbreck from 1865 until the 1870s. It was a school for girls, but also took in small boys, one of them being Sir Thomas Henderson. It was continued by her daughters, Euphemia and Katherine, and perhaps also by the Misses Mitchell into the 1880s.

Teviotside Road (tee-vee-i’-sūd-rōd) n. name used for the south side of Commercial Road before it was officially named in 1884.

Teviotside Terrace (tee-vee-i’-sūd-te-ris) n. short one-sided street off North Bridge Street, being the back of some houses on Dovecote Street, built around 1875. The Dumbrecks had a school for girls here on the corner from about 1865, called ‘Teviotside House’, which was presumably the origin of the name.

Teviot Square (tee-vee-i’-skwār) n. former name for the Sandbed, or the western or central parts, in use between about 1847–57 (e.g. in Slater’s 1852 directory). The name had been officially changed by the Council, but was never very popular – ‘...An’ divots an’ rough-heads gotten where the modern’s now ca’ Teviot Square’ [WNK].

Teviot Stane (tee-vee-i’-stān) n. source of the Teviot, reached by walking about 21/2 miles over the moorland from where the road ends at Merrylaw farm. It was once the extremity of Cavers Parish, before being transferred to Teviothead in 1850. An inscribed boulder was erected there by the Callants’ Club in 1931 – ‘And Tei’ot Stane pinpointed wi a dab o’ jeely ... ’ [DH], ‘The waters o’ the Teviot Are drumlie at Trowmill But ootbye Rashiegrain Fresh sprung frae Teviotstane They’re clear as crystal rill’ [WL] (also sometimes ‘Teviotsane’; it is marked ‘Tiot-stane’ on Gordon’s map c. 1650 and ‘Tiot stain’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map).

Teviotsan see Teviot Stane

Teviot Tweed (tee-vee-i’-tweed) n. tweed merchants located at 17 High Street (or equivalently the Round Close) around 1906 (the name seems like an oxymoron).
Teviot Viaduct

Teviot Viaduct (tee-vee-i'-vi-a-dukt) n. another name for the Station Viaduct.

tew (tew) v., arch. to toughen leather, to toughen or shrivel in cooking, to tire, wear out – ‘Nor was A tewd or mauchless, bit limber an lither’ [ECS].
tewd (tewd) pp., adj., arch. shrivelled, toughened, worn out – ‘... an thairthrow’ [SB1500], ‘...that he had only the carrying of thame, and never promeiset to bring thame saif and sound to Hawick, and did thame na wrang be the way’ [BR1652], ‘...tobacco pypis, broken be him in carrying of thame out of Edinburgh’ [BR1652], ‘It was but awei that I gaed frae thame ...’ [HSR], ‘...let thame leede me, let thame bring me til thy haly hill’ ...’ [HSR], ‘Aw’ll no pit eet intae Queen’s English It’s for the benefit o’ thaim that ir Hawick’ [AY], ‘But thaim Aa forget (Aa’m thinkin, wi a ywan) Are thaim that Aa ett, No’ thaim Aa let gaun’ [DH], ‘Thaim alairms clatter and batter a hunder to the dizzen ...’ [DH], ‘...And A am yin o thaim’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘thaem’ and ‘thame’; cf. them and thum).

the Text Hoose (thu-tex-t-hoos) n. building at 3 Main Street, Denholm, bearing the inscriptions ‘All was others all will be others’ and ‘Tak tent in time ere time be tint’, just like houses on Hawick High Street. The house was apparently originally built in the 18th century by Thomas Turnbull, as one of 5 houses constructed for his 5 sons. It was demolished in 1910 and rebuilt by Dr. John Haddon, with the texts inspired by the ones in Hawick. textiles (tek-stils) n., pl. the industry that has been the mainstay in Hawick for more than 300 years. It began with hand knitting, while frame knitting was introduced around 1680; carpet weaving from the early 1750s and hosiery became commercialised by John Hardie in 1771. In 1728 the Board of Manufactures set up a person in Hawick (as well as 9 other towns), to sort, staple and wash coarse, tarred wool. In 1777 there were stated to be about 65 looms in the Town, manufacturing a range of linen and woollen products, and by 1820 Hawick had about half of Scotland’s frames. Cloth manufacturing began in about 1787. By the early 19th century there was also manufacturing of blankets and gloves. The first cloth to be made in Hawick was a coarse blue variety, which was sent to Leeds for finishing. Tweed grew to prominence from the 1830s, becoming the main sort of locally produced cloth.

Teviot Viaduct than thain (thain) pron. them, those – ‘thaim that were here yesterdi’, ‘...the said landis of Quhitchester beand made to be haldin of me and thaim’ [SB1470], ‘...and becaus I fande na redy byaris of thaim, I causit thaim to be prisit be Gorgis of Dowglas ...’ [SB1500], ‘...that he had only the carrying of thame, and never promeiset to bring thame saif and sound to Hawick, and did thame na wrang be the way’ [BR1652], ‘...tobacco pypis, broken be him in carrying of thame out of Edinburgh’ [BR1652], ‘It was but awei that I gaed frae thame ...’ [HSR], ‘...let thame leede me, let thame bring me til thy haly hill’ ...’ [HSR], ‘Aw’ll no pit eet intae Queen’s English It’s for the benefit o’ thaim that ir Hawick’ [AY], ‘But thaim Aa forget (Aa’m thinkin, wi a ywan) Are thaim that Aa ett, No’ thaim Aa let gaun’ [DH], ‘Thaim alairms clatter and batter a hunder to the dizzen ...’ [DH], ‘...And A am yin o thaim’ [IWL] (also spelled ‘thaem’ and ‘thame’; cf. them and thum).

thaimselfs (thaim-sels) pron., arch. themselves – ‘...quhilk council and communitie, removing thaimselfs apairt furth out of the said Tolbuith ...’ [BR1638] (cf. thaimselfs and the more modern thairselfs).

thaimsels (thaim-sels) pron., arch. themselves – ‘Thaye gether thamsel’s thegither; thaye hyde thaimsels orn’ in the multetud o’ their bussines’ [HSR] (also spelled ‘thamesel’s; see also thaimselfs and thairselfs).
thairafter (thar-ar-tur) adv., arch. thereafter, subsequently – ‘...and neuer to haiff fayth nor credit in the law, nor by the law, at na tyme thereafter, and neuer to haiff fayth nor credit in the law, nor by the law, at na tyme’ [SB1470], ‘Abide, abide and than as now, frely quiteclemis and dischar-gis the said Dauid ...’ [SB1508], ‘Immediatlie thairefter the said Robert Elliot ...plottit to haif murderit and slaine the said Erle of Buccleughe at Jedburgh ...’ [SB1624].
thairthrow see thairself thairthrow (thar-throw) adv., arch. thereby, through that action – ‘...with the said Roberte Scot of Alanehaucht, nor the personis that hes subsciuit this present band thairthrow ...’ [SB1585].

thain see thaim

Thamson see Thomson than (thai) adv., arch. then – ‘...I, for me, cynn aieris, executouris and assignais, now as than, and than as now, frely quiteclemis and dischar-gis the said Dauid ...’ [SB1470], ‘Abide, abide now Dickie than, Fala, &c. The day is come that thou maun die ...’ [CPM], ‘Than wull I gae un-till the altar o’ God ...’ [HSR], ‘Why hest thou than brokin doun hir hedjes ...’ [HSR], ‘...an’, aw wull confess that than, as he strided slowly up the brae . . .’ [BCM1880], ‘. . . an than yibbleens they’d think as muckle’ [ECS], ‘. . . an than back A speeld ti the road again’ [ECS], ‘Oo’ve been kens where aa sin than’ [ECS].

2935

thance (thans) adv., arch. else – ‘A fair durstna, or thance A micht never heh gotten off the bit aa day’ [ECS] (see also or than).

Thankless (thawngk-lis) n. location near Redden, close to the Border, recorded in a ‘retour’ of the 1600s (cf. Unthank as a place name).

that (tha) adv. so, to that extent, very – ‘it was that hot A felt like A wad melt’, ‘hei was that wee heid’ ti stand on a box’, ‘. . . the bonnie gerssy haugh – that weel-sortet a taen sic grand care o’’ [ECS], ‘But we often use ‘that’ in the adverbal sense of so, that o’f (= so often)’ [ECS], ‘We were that easy pleased when we were bairns . . .’ [WL], ‘They’re that efficient, it fair scunners’ [TH], ‘They’re that efficient, it fair scunners’ [JMI], ‘And sae it seems that every inhabitant within the brughle shall have liberty to tur and theik, and sett ane ladder in his neighbour’s close’ [BR1660].’ [n.], arch. theek (spelled ‘theik’ and variants; also thack).

theecker (thee-kur) n., arch. a Thatcher – ‘John Shiel theiker in Hawick had a son bapt: called John . . .’ [PR1704].

theekit (thee-kee, -ki) adj., arch. thatched – ‘. . . theekit yins an sklaitteet yins’ [ECS], ‘And wantin’ him I weary sair In this auld theekeet house’ [TCh], ‘Many will recall his shop and ‘theekit’ house on Victoria Road’ [AMA], ‘To reach my lass I had to pass Right up the theeikit-byre . . .’ [WaD].

thiefously (thef-tis-lee) adv., arch. thinly, clandestinely, by stealth – ‘. . . for the stealing and thiefuously away taken out of his craime in open market ane pair of single soled shoes’ [BR1680], ‘All and each or one or other of them . . . steal and thiefutely away take from Tower Knowe Mill . . .’ [HAd1868] (also thiftously).

thegether (thu-gith-ur) adv. together – ‘should oo gaun thegether or yin be yin’?, ‘If ee add everybody’s years in the Band thegether it comes tae a staggerin 184 years’ [CT], ‘Weel, gin ye’d meet wi’ ane anither, To hae a crack an’ dram thegether . . .’ [JoHa], ‘We’ll ablins sometime meet thegether, An’ taste the juice wi’ ane anither’ [JR], ‘For lo, the kings wer getheret, thaye gaed bye . . . And wantin’ him I weary sair In this auld hood for theiking, betwixt him and James Thorbrands’ [BR1660], ‘. . . that every inhabitant within the brughle shall have liberty to tur and theik, and sett ane ladder in his neighbour’s close’ [BR1660].’ [n., arch. thatched (spelled ‘theik’ and variants; also thack).

thack (thack) v., arch. to thatch, cover a roof with divots, slate or other watertight covering – ‘Walter Chisholme, bailie, took instruments . . . and the question of neighbour-of something in phrases such as ‘ee’re aa thoons thegither, yow’ or ‘they were aa smiles thegither after the game’ (also written ‘thegether’; cf. the older togedder).

theh (the) prep., arch. from – ‘For the English preposition ‘from’, the Hawick form is threh (= thrae) [ECS], ‘the initial the displacing the f of the common Scottish ‘frae’ and sometimes ‘hreh or thehl’ [ECS] (this is an older and more obscure form of threh).

thei (they) pron., arch. thee.

theik see theek

theirsel (ther-sel) pron., pl. themselves – ‘… at 7 and 1/2 each Ronnie and ‘J’ could cover that theirsel’ [CT], ‘… The rits theirsel were a fit long So it didnae tell a lie’ [AY] (also spelled ‘there-sel’, ‘there-sel’ and other variants; cf. theirsels and thersels).

thersels (thair-sels, thur-sels) pron., pl. themselves, often used emphatically – ‘they’ve only theirsels ti blame for bidin in Gala’, ‘The Borderers lang syne geh theirsels an awfie liefe o’d’ [ECS], ‘Some folk think to raise theirsels up By pushin’ other folk doon; It’s a great mistake { they’} themself (ur-selz, ur-sels), theirselves (their-selves, their-selz, theirsel, theirsels, theirs, themselves, often used emphatically { `they’ve only shown Theirsel’s the pest o’ the toon’ [FL], ‘other folk doon; It’s a great mistake { they’}.

thenk (thengk) v. to thank – ‘A’d like ti think ee aa for comin’, ‘yn day ee’ll thenk is for this’, ‘… And love and truth and thanksome praise’ [WL], ‘Thenk ee a the same, bit Aw think oo’ll juist gang on sufferin’ … ’[BW1961].

thenkfi (thengk-fi) adj. thankful.

thanks (thengks) interj. thanks – ‘thanks ti aa o ee’, ‘it was thanks to mei thit ee got ony at aa’, n., pl. ‘let’s gie oor thanks ti Thor an Odin’.

thanksgiving (thengks-gee-in) n., poet. thanksgiving – ‘An’ let thame sacrisfice the sacrisfics o’ thanksgiving’ … ’[HSR], ‘Aing until the Lord wi’ thanksgiving’ … ’[HSR].

the night (thu-nit) n., adv. tonight, this night – ‘er ee gaun oot the night?’, ‘Will ye no’ fa’ asleep the night, Ye restless little loon?’ [JT] (treated as one word; cf. the nicht).

thereabouts (there-a-boots) adv. whereabouts, whereabouts – ‘it’ll stert it there, or thereabouts’.

thereabout (there-a-nen) adv., arch. concerning that, relating to what has been said – ‘… in procognition taken thereabout before the Bailies of Hawick’ [BR], ‘...conform to the supplication given in by the craft to the Baillies and Council of this Burgh thereanent’ [BR1640], ‘...if ye find good advie for it, for I can not advise you thereanent’ [SB1670], ‘...acknowledged the trespass of their irregular marriage by using such a method contrar to ye Acts of parliament made thereanent’ [PR1724].

thereby (thær-bli) adv., arch. approximately, thereabouts – ‘...of ye whole householders both in ye town and landward parts of ye parish ... extending to ye number of Eleven Score and Nyne or thereby’ [PR1712].

thereckly (the-re-klee) adv., arch. directly, without delay, before long – ‘Thereckly, as A hechult up that teedisome brae, the muckle without delay, before long { ‘Thereckly, as A saw um, thereckly, hebbin an taain oot ov a bottle ...’} [ECS] (also written ‘the reckly’).

there’d (thurd) contr. there would, there had (note the pronunciation with u).

there’s (thurz) contr. there is, has – ‘There’s naewhere A wad rither be ...’ [IW], ‘there’s thesauries’ [HSR] (possibly an extra syllable in er-sauraries’ [HSR] (possibly an extra syllable in er-sauraries’ [HSR]), ‘...acknowledged the tres-saurer’ [HSR], ‘Whan they had openet their thesaurer’ [HSR], ‘...of the same trail. Note that ‘the Maiden’s Way’ to give advertisement to all Burgesses within the Burgh of Hawick that they have liberty and privilege to bake bakes in all the Mosses ...’ [BR1743] (used as a quasi-plural).

cairter { ‘kayr-toe’ pron.} – ‘if folk keeked inti the Hut, what wad they sei?’ (usually pronounced as in English, but in some contexts sometimes pronounced like ‘the’; also spelled ‘tha’ and ‘thay’).

dead (thid) contr. they’d, they had – ‘...naething To caa her bonny, { but she had mornings ...’} [AY], ‘By thae fause notions the lass had naething To caa her bonny, – but she had ae thing’ [WL], ‘...garin’ the lipps o’ thae that ar asleiphe speak’ [HSR], ‘...garin’ the lipps o’ thae that ar asleiphe speak’ [HSR], ‘Let a’ thae that seik thee rejoyce ...’ [HSR], ‘Can thae be the kirk bells ringin’? ...’ [RM], ‘Oh! Had thae rugged stanes a tongue ...’ [JT], ‘...of the same trail. Note that ‘the Maiden’s Way’ the sef see sef

the seftorin see this efternin they (thi, thā) pron. – ‘if folk keeked inti the Hut, what wad they sei?’ (usually pronounced as in English, but in some contexts sometimes pronounced like ‘the’; also spelled ‘tha’ and ‘thay’).

thirty (ther-tee) n. thirty – ‘...A snuived steevely on aboot therty yards ahint um’ [ECS] (note, always pronounced with the e and not i sound; cf. threty).

theresaure ( thee-sawr) n., poct. treasure – ‘...frae men o’ the world whilhic ha thair portione in this liffe, an’ whose kyte thon fillist wi’ thy hyddien thesaure’ [HSR], ‘Whan they had openet their thesaures’ [HSR].

thresaurer ( thee-sawr-ur) n., arch. a treasurer – ‘...should pay into the toom thesaurer for the said two bells for each burial above six-tein yeiers, four shillings scotts ...’ [BR1699], ‘...under the penalty of ten pounds scots money to be paid to the toom thesaurer by each contraveneir ...’ [BR1736] (also tresaurer).

thesaurie ( thee-saw-ree) n., poct. treasury – ‘...he brings the wund owt o’ his thesauraries’ [HSR] (possibly an extra syllable in error by Riddell).

these (theez) pron., poct. this, used to refer to the document itself – ‘These are to give advertisements to all burgesses within the Burgh and Town of Hawick ... to ride the marches of the Comonnty of Hawick ...’ [BR1733], ‘...of the same trail. Note that ‘the Maiden’s Way’

Thief’s Hole Sike (theefs-höl-sik) n. stream that rises to the west of Barnes Loch and joins the Gate Burn just before it crosses the road at the Troutlawford (the origin of the name is unclear; it is marked on the 1863 Ordnance Survey map).

the Thief’s Road (theefs-rød) n. popular name for an ancient hill track, part of which leads from Dod farm over to Hermitage Castle and was used by Mary Queen of Scots when she visited Boswell. It was also the name for the road leading across Woll Rig, perhaps a continuation of the same trail. Note that ‘the Maiden’s Way’ may have been essentially the same route from the Dod Burn to Liddesdale, and this was also used as a drove road – ‘The Thieves Road, and a route owre the hags o’ The Roan Scarrit in wi’ a pencil’ [DH] (also called the ‘Thief Road’; it may be the ‘Thewesrode’ mentioned in an English document of 1255 listing the boundary of lands in the Cheviots).
Thief’s Sike

Thief’s Sike (theef-sik) n. stream that rises on Thiefsike Head, to the south of Hermitage Castle, and flows near Hartsgarth to join the Hermitage Water. On the west bank there is a turf building with a knocking-stone. On the eastern side there are the remains of a township, containing about 10 buildings, along with field systems and rig lines. This is probably the settlement of ‘Brocol’ shown on Blaeu’s c.1654 atlas, which was abandoned by the early 17th century. A little higher up are the remains of shieling huts, as well as cairns and cultivation terraces (also written ‘Thief Sike’).

thieftous (theef-tis) adj., arch. thievous, furtive.
thieftously (theef-tis-lee) adv., arch. thievously, clandestinely, by stealth – ‘...and theifvouslie stealing and away taking out of her house ...’ [BR1640] (also theftously).
thift (thift) n., arch. theft – ‘...or that committs greitere thift, sal be banyshit the town, and lose thieftously clandesinelly, by stealth { `Thief Sike’).’

Thistle (thil-stain) n. former lands listed in the charter to James Scott, Earl of Dalkeith in 1693. It is listed among the lands in upper Teviotdale that were once part of the Lordship of Ringwoodfield, hence presumably this is not ‘Thirleslane’.

thill (thil) contr. they’ll, they will (note pronunciation).

thill’ve (thi-luv) contr. they’ll’ve, they will have.

Thim (thim) pron., arch. them (noted by E.C. Smith; thaim and thum are more common).

Thimble (thim-blur) n., arch. a thimblerigger, someone who runs a shell game – ‘A fiddler is here, and a thimble is there, Wi’ nut-men and spice-men at Copshawholm Fair’ [DA].

Thimble (thim-nul) n. a thimble (probably the more common local form; see also thimble).

Thimmel Haa (th-nul-haw) n. former name for a building in Hawick, also known as ‘Tummel Haa’ (noted by G. Watson).

Thimmele (thim-nul) n. a thimbleful – ‘No, no, just a thimbelfu’. It mauna gaun ta’ me heid or Aw’ll no’ can tell ma story’ [JEDM].

thin (thin) conj., prep. than – ‘she’s a faster rin-ner thin am er’, ‘yer een er bigger thin yer belly’, ... when ee wax lyrical ti yer less thin fortunate Gala auldies’ [IHS] (also spelled ‘than’, as in English; cf. then).

thin see then

ting-a-bee see thingubby

Thingubbed (thing-uh-beed) n. a thingum-abob, someone or something temporarily forgotten (thingubby and thingummy are also used, as well as the English ‘thingummy’).

Thingubby (thing-uh-bee) n. something whose name is not known or forgotten, a thingummy, thingumajig, whatsis – ‘A hink what’s ‘ei’s name din eet, thingubby, frae up the Loan’, ‘Thing-a-bee, thing-a-beet, thing-a-meet, etc., as well as the English ‘thingummy’.

Thingummy (thing-a-bee) n. something whose name is not known or temporarily forgotten. Cf. Gen. Scottish thingumbob, thingiment, etc.; English thingummy’ [ECS], ‘As ee get older ee yaise that a lot mair, thingubby, thingubby, thingubby!’ [ME] adj. whatchamacallit, descriptive word which temporarily cannot be recalled – ‘it was an thingubbby, ee ken?’ (also written ‘thing-a-bee’: perhaps used more frequently than ‘thingummy’ when referring to a person rather than a thing).

Thinside Hill (thin-sid-hil) n. hilly region in Liddesdale, just to the north of Hartsgarth. There are many enclosures and some springs marked there.

tha (thir) pron. there – ‘thir’s only the twae o’ oo left’, ‘thir must be somethin guid aboot Gala, shairly?’ (something closer to the standard English pronunciation is used for the adv., adj. and interj. forms).

Thir (thir) pron., arch. these – ‘...before yir witnesses, John Scot Bailzie, Robert Denis, surgeon, George Scot, James Morlaw, and Robert Nilhag’ [JW1558], ‘When ‘thir’ is used absolutely without a noun following, it generally becomes ‘thirs’; ‘Thirs is meyne’ [JAHM], ‘Boonjeddart, Hundlie, and Hunthill, Thir three they laid weil on at last’ [CPM], ‘Thirs is mine, thae’s yours, but whae’s aucht then yins?’ [GW], common in the legal phrase ‘thir presents’, meaning ‘the present document’ – ‘Be it kent til al men be thir present lettiris, me Dauid Scot of the Bukluch … ’ [SB1470], ‘… before thir witnes, Thomas Glendynwyn, Alexander Scot … ’ [SB1510/1], ‘… befoir thir witnessis, … Walter Scot of Gorelandis, Walter Scot of Tuschelaw, and John Watsoon, with vtheris disnerse’ [SB1574], ‘All thir 51 lands adjacent to ye toune are estimat to pay nyne scoir bolls in stok … ’ [PR1627], ‘I Thomas Henderson, smyth in Flex, grants me be thir presents … ’ [BR1701], ‘We by thir presents binds and obleisses us and our successors in the office of bayleyears and toune counsell of the said brughe of Hawicke … ’ [HAST1902], adj., arch. these – ‘Quo’ Johnie, I’d rather in England die, Ere thir sax sheep gae t’ Liddesdale wi’ me’ [CPM], ‘… thir braes hed seen unco sichts’ [ECS], ‘The wund and the rain’s been roarin’ Thir twae nichts and mair … ’ [DH], used specifically for foods – ‘… to which a collective significance is attached by the prefixing of a plural demonstrative or other adjective, as thir kail (= these kale)’ [ECS] (sometimes plural: there is more common).

2939

Thirat (thee-raw) n. M. (18th/19th C.) French Napoleonic prisoner of war located in Hawick. He painted ‘View of St. Mary’s’ (1813) among other local scenes (unclear whether this is ‘Monsieur’ or his first initial).

thirder see teinder an thirder thirl (thi-rul) v., arch. to bind in servitude, to be bound or under obligation – ‘they were thirled ti the mill, meanin they hed ti git their corn ground there’, ‘Langsyne, when mills were few, The district roon Was thirled to ane, an’ a’ within The legal boond … ’ [FL], thirl (thi-rul) v., n., arch. thrill.

thirlage (thir-leej) n., arch. the state of being thirled, usually applied by rule of the landowner to his tenants. It was part of the feudal structure which tied a farmer to a particular mill – ‘… whereby these Baillies created a sort of thirlage that drew all the drinking to their own houses’ [C&L1780].

Thirlstane (thi-rul-stän) n., ruined tower and surrounding area in the Ettrick valley, a mile or so north-east of the village of Ettrick. It was once the seat of the Scots of Thirlstane, who became the Lords Napier of Merchiston and Ettrick, which included the Lord Napier who once resided at Wilton Lodge. They gained the lands in the early 1500s from the Laird of Cranston-Riddell, although there is a John Scott of Thirlstane mentioned in 1483 (when he became Baron of the half barony of Wilton). There is a record in 1493 of cattle and horses being stolen from Thirlstain Mains. The lands were formerly held by Melrose Abbey; in 1524, when Sir Walter Scott of Branxholme was regranted the office of Bailie of the lands of Melrose Abbey, he was given this farm and that of Northhouse for his fee. This continued in the inheritance of the lands and titles of his grandfather by Walter Scott in 1553/4 (and at that time the lands were jointly valued with Northhouse at £20 Scots), as well as his grandson Sir Walter in 1564 and the next Sir Walter in 1574. These lands were raided by a group of 160 Armstrongs in 1543. The precedence of the Thirlstane branch of the Scotts and ownership of the lands has a complex (and debated) history through the 17th century; the designation ‘of Thirlstane’ was used by 3 separate families (one probably for the lands of the same name west of Yetholm). Sir Robert Scott of Thirlstane had a charter for these lands from the Commandador of Melrose in about 1620 and granted them to William Scott of Harden in about 1622. It was still listed as part of the Lordship of Melrose in 1634, 1653 and 1661, when held (perhaps just the superiority) by the Scotts of Buccleuch. The Laird of Thirlstane’s lands in Selkirkshire were valued at more than £3000 in 1678. The L-plan tower stood on the left-bank of the Thirlstane Burn, north-west of the later farmhouse. The tower was burned by the English in 1544, although rebuilt. It contains a lintel stone with the initials ‘R. S. M. C.’ for Robert Scott and Margaret Cranston. The nearby house was built by the Napiers, partly using stones from the tower; however, it was demolished in the 1960s to avoid death duties. The estate passed to George Walker in the late 18th century and then to Richard Brack. It should not be confused with the castle near Lauder of the same name, or the area near Yetholm – ‘Proud she looked round, applause to claim – Then lightened Thirlstane’s eye of flame: His bugle Watt of Harden blew, Pensils and pensoms wide were flung, To Heav’n the Border slogan rung, ‘Saint Mary for the young Buccleuch!’ [SWS], ‘Wher Ettrick wandirs down a plain, With lofty hills belay’t, The staitly towirs of Thirlstane With wundir bee surveyt’ [ES] (also written ‘Thirlstane’; ‘Thyrlestan maiori’ stream and ‘Thyrlestangate’ are recorded in a charter around 1236; it is ‘Thirlistane’ in 1524, ‘Thyrlistane’ in 1533, ‘Thirstane’ in 1550 and 1553/4, ‘Thirlistane’ in 1557, ‘Thirstane’ in 1564, ‘Thyrlistane’ in 1599, ‘Thirlistane’ in 1661, ‘Thirlistoun’ and ‘Thistlestoun’ in 1670, ‘Thirlistane’ in 1690 and ‘Thistlestoun’ in 1695; it is marked ‘Thirlistane’ on Blaeu’s 1654 map and is ‘Thirlistane’ on the 1718 Buccleuch survey; the origin is presumably a reference to the ‘mill-stone’ to which tenants were ‘thirled’, the lade there was still visible in the late 19th century.

Thirlestane (thi-rul-stän) n. Thirlestane Castle, a turreted edifice of red sandstone, near Lauder, overlooking the Leader Water. The central section was built about 1590, then rebuilt in the 17th century and enhanced around 1840. It was the seat of the Maitland family, Earls of Lauderdale, and is now owned by a charitable trust and open to the public (the only connection with ‘Thirlestane’ in the Ettrick valley was the origin of the name).

Thirwall (thi-rul-wal) n. John ‘the elder’ (14th C.) recorded as owner of the lands of Roughley and ‘Grenhowe’ (possibly Greenholm) in Liddesdale in 1365, when Edward III bestowed protection on his tenants there. The suggestion is that he had acquired lands that had once been part of the Comyn holdings in southern Scotland. His seat was at Thirwall Castle in Northumbria, near the eastern end of Hadrian’s Wall.

thirs see thir

thirsel (thir-sel) pron., pl. themselves – ‘Keep thum be thirsel’ [ECS] (used as a collective plural; cf. theirisel).

the Thirty Drifty Days (thu-ther-teen-drif-tee-dáz) n. popular name for a great snowstorm of early 1674 in which the snow fell continually for 13 days. In the higher parts of southern Scotland whole flocks of sheep were lost, as related by the Ettrick Shepherd. It is said that many shepherds made walls from piles up the dead sheep in order to give some shelter to the living. As much as 90/Scotland perished. The winter weather began in January, and never really let up until the end of March, with the 13 days themselves beginning on 20th February (although there is some confusion over the dates). The Duke of Monmouth and Buccleuch obtained a special licence in 1675 to import 4800 cattle and 200 horses from Ireland to restock their farms in southern Scotland.

the Thirty Shillin Haugh (thu-ther-ee-shi-lin-hawf) n. former name for an area of flat ground around the Hermitage Water near the old tower of Park.

this (this) adj. this, in distinction to ‘next’ (for example, on a Saturday, ‘this Mondi’ would be in 2 days, while ‘next Mondi’ would be 9 days away).

this day … (this-dá) pron., arch. phrases such as ‘this day ten days’ mean ‘10 days from today’ – ‘The minister told us that God willing he intended to administer the Sacrament of ye Supper of our Lord this day twentie dayes, being the thirs Sabbath of October … ’ [PR1720].

this efternin (thu-sef-tur-nin) n., adv. this afternoon – ‘where er oo gaun this efternin?’ (treated as though it is ‘the setternin’ in analogy with ‘the night’, ‘the day’, ‘the morn’, etc.; sometimes shortened to the sef).

This is no my ain Hoose (this-iz-nö-mI-än-hoo) n. tune that is in the repertoire of the Drums and Fifes, and sometimes played on picking night. The tune is also known as ‘Colonel David Stewart of Garth’s Reel’ and is played as a strathspey reel throughout Scotland. It is recorded from at least the early 18th century and Bonnie Prince Charlie is supposed to have danced to it before the Battle of Prestonpans (also called ‘Oh! This is no my ain Hoose!’).

this present see present

thistledoon (thi-sul-doon) n. thistledown, a soft fluffy yarn used for luxury knitwear garments, called after the silky down or pappus inside the head of a thistle – ‘... An’ oor cashmeres an’ angoras An’ oor thistledoon lambswool’ [WL], ‘... Her step as licht as the thistle-doon, Wi’ easy grace she gaed dancin’ roun’’ [WL].

Thistlesike (thi-sul-sik) n. farm in Liddesdale, just south of Mangerton, on the opposite bank of the Liddel. It is on the Trysting Sike, and with the forest there known as Thistlesike Plantation. It is probably associated with the place known as ‘Sisselscheillis’ on the 1541 rental roll, valued at 13 shillings and 4 pence and tenanted by Alexander Armstrong.

thit (thi, thit) pron. that – ‘it was efter that thit aa moved tî Hawick’, ‘...thit there’s nae where else on earth it that moment, they wud rither be’ [IHS] (only pronounced this way in certain contexts; see also that).

thits (thitz) contr. that’s – ‘...it’s that spirit thit’s instilled in oor bairns, the next generation o’ Teries, a love for song n’ poetry thit nae other toon can boast’ [IHS].

tho (tha, tho) prep. though – ‘A was right tho!’, ‘she’s a right affront tho’, ‘Hei cam tui, an relied, tho, an away ei birrlt ... ’ [ECS], ‘Note, too, thocht

that theh (or thoh) is used for although, though, notwithstanding, however, for which we use also for aa’ [ECS] (also written ‘thoh’; commonly used in conversation at the ends of sentences; note the short o and the common th instead of the standard English th).

thocht (thocht) n., arch. thought – ‘...That he heard Samuel Rutherford say, that he thocht nane had his purs but he ...’ [BR1642], ‘Sic a thocht! Na’ never fear ye ...’ [RH], ‘The thocht o’ what’ll Hawick folk say Aye strengthened heart and hand’ [RH], ‘Oh! mony a fond whisper and soul cheering thocht ...’ [JJ], ‘...Their thochts wull often backward stray Ti Hawick their Border hame’ [IWL], pp., arch. thought – ‘If onybody hed eyed iz, he’id heh thocht A was shuir ready for Bowden!!’ [ECS], ‘An’ aw thocht o’ a wumman, A’d kent a ma life ...’ [IJ], ‘But then oor luck began tae turn We thocht we’d try yon wee bit burn ...’ [DH], ‘He thocht, wi the fog, he’d better bide the nicht there ...’ [DH] (used for either the past tense or past participle; cf. thowt and thocht).

thochtfi (thocht-fi) adj., arch. thoughtful.

thochtish (thocht-shi) adj., arch. thoughtful.

thochtless (thocht-lis) adj., poet. thoughtless – ‘The thochtless heart, the careless fit, An’ hurts the chaps that has nae wit ...’ [FL].

thochtlessly (thocht-lis-lee) adv., poet. thoughtlessly – ‘Maist folk are apt to keep in shoals, An’ thochtlessly sail wi’ the stream ...’ [FL].

thochtly (thocht-ki) pp., poet. panted, breathed heavily with exertion – ‘His toothless gans they fell abreide, He thocht it and he blew’ [JTe].

Thocctosys (thocct-kots) n. former place name in the Borthwick valley, occurring in a document of 1410, when the Regent Albany conferred lands there and at ‘Borthwic’ on Sir William of Borthwick, on their resignation by Robert Scott. The lands are suggested to be at Hoscate, perhaps being an earlier version of the name, or just part of those lands (the name may be a rare local example of the Middle English root ‘toft’, meaning a homestead, unless it is the same as the earlier Yrosticotics; it seems likely that this was a variant of Hoscate, with the transcription of the ‘s’ for ‘f’).

thole (thöl) v., arch. to endure, tolerate, suffer, undergo, bear – ‘And O, for blessings, never threshe, If ye wadna the bryde thole ...’ [JTe], For she’ll ride ye post to the chutie deil, And he to the reikye hole’ [JTe] ‘Though hard to thole, there’s yet a hole, We aye get creepin’ out’ [DA], ‘I couldn’a thole the cauld hearth stane That dooryaw that is not’ [JEDM], ‘Tho’ hard tae thole, they seldom last, That’s a guid thing about them!’ [IJ], ‘...he sall nevir thole the richeous til be muvet’ [HSR], ‘...while I thole thy teryers I am distraucht’ [HSR], ‘...Thinks little o’ the friend- less form Maist thole the Winter’s cauld’ [JT], ‘...And set it in the sun to dry – The waiting o’ he scarce could thole’ [WFC], ‘He’d better hae thole wi’ a half toom wame ...’ [WL], ‘Nor can I thole their snatch-bar wit, Their bowlers and their brillaintine ...’ [DH], ‘...and that she’ll juist hev to thole, and hope it wadna be smittal’ [DH], to allow, suffer – ‘Jesus answirin’ said until him, Thole it til be see now’ [HSR] (from Old English).

tholemuiddy (thol-mi-dee) adj., arch. long-suffering, patient, pensive – ‘...thae thocht help iz ti cast ma dowth, thole-muiddy boot’ [ECS].

tholit (thol-le, -li) pp., arch. endured – ‘Becaus for thy sak I hae tholit reproch: shme heth kiveret my fece’ [HSR], ‘He tholit nae man til do thame wrang ...’ [HSR].

Thom (tōm, tom) n. James (d.1874) Superintendent of police in Hawick 1854–61. He was a founder member of the Hawick Archaeological Society, was also involved in the Hawick Volunteer Corps and helped found the Lodge St. James. He was appointed as Curator of the Society’s Museum collection in June 1957. Also in 1857 he read a paper at the Archeological Society on ‘the Noachian Deluge’ and donated a collection of coins. In 1861 he donated a large axe-head, found at Northhouse, to the Museum.

Thomas of Wilton see de Wilton

Thomas the Rhymers (to-mis-thu-re-mur) n. (c.1210–c.1290) Thomas Learmonth, Laird of Er-cildoun (an old name for Earlston). Although he certainly existed, little detail is known of his life, which has been heavily romanticised. He may have been born in Earlston, where a fragment of his tower remains. He possibly retired to the priory of Fail in Ayrshire, and his lands were transferred to the house of Soutra in 1294. He made many prophecies, often in rhyme, suppos- edly predicting the accidental death of Alexander III in 1285. He is also meant to have gone off to the Queen of the fairies for 7 years (but ac- tually seems to have been in Aberdeenshire!). His son Thomas is recorded resigning lands to Soutra Hospital in 1294. After his death his reputation as a prophet became legendary, with predictions of the defeat at Flodden, the Union of the Crowns, Bannockburn and the Jacobite risings all being attributed to him – ‘True Thomas lay on Huntlie bank, a ferlie he spied wi’ his ee; And there he saw a ladys bright come riding down by the Eil-don Tree’ [SWS]. ’... Where Rymour, long of yore, the nymph embrac’d, The first of men unearthly lips to taste’ [JL].
Thomline

Thomline (tom-lin) n. Alexander (1781–1827)

born in Wilton Parish, son of William and Jean Smith. He was a slater and glazier on the Cross Wynd, listed there in Pigot’s 1825/6 directory. He married Janet Crawford and their children included: William (d.1808); Robert (b.1806); Elizabeth (b.1808); William (again, b.1811); and Alexander (b.1812). His wife could be the widow ‘Tomline’ recorded keeping lodgings on the Cross Wynd according to Pigot’s 1837 directory. Alexander ‘Alex’ (19th C.) first Treasurer of the Hawick Home Mission when it was founded in 1873. Andrew (b.1792/3) stocking-maker in Wilton. On the 1841 census he was living on Underdamside with ‘Tibby’, who was probably his mother. James (19th C.) inspector of the poor in Hawick in the late 1800s. He also served as a student teacher in St. Mary’s School. He was also Registrar in Hawick in the early years of the 20th century. John (18th C.) woollen manufacturer of Hawick, in partnership with William. Since his name is given first he was presumably the older brother. They are described in David Loch’s 1778 book on Scottish trade as ‘dyers and clothiers’ who ‘have considerable business at present, and they have a brother in Glasgow instructing as to the making of cloths fit for that market, and how to use woad in dying of blues & c.’ There are records of help given to them in 1779 by the Board of Trade for Manufactures, instructing them how to use a woad vat. In 1780 he and William were witnesses for a baptism for John Clerk, who was at Roughheugh. The company operated as dyers and finishers in the old Roughheugh waulk mill until they sold it to the Inkle Company in 1797. In 1764 they loaned money to Francis Scott, with 9 High Street as collateral, in a sasine that still exists. In 1788 he was recorded as owner of ‘Waulkmill of Roughheugh’ in Wilton Parish, valued at £22 6s, and another piece of Roughheugh valued at £9. He and William were still recorded as owners of the ‘Waulkmill of Roughheugh, acquired from Langlands’ on the Land Tax Rolls of 1811. The family had been known as ‘Thomline of that Ilk’ and had long resided in Wilton, with their main residence near ‘the Nitton’. However, all trace of the family and its original home had disappeared by the 20th century. He is probably the John who married Mary Ekron in Wilton in 1772 and whose children included: Isabel (b.1773); Andrew (b.1775); James (b.1776); Jean (b.1778); John (b.1784); Andrew (again, b.1786); and William (b.1788). His wife was probably daughter of James Ekron and Isobel Betty Richardson. John (d.1849) Hawick stockingmaker who was presumably related to the old Wilton family. He is probably the John recorded on the 1841 census at the Cross Wynd, with wife Helen and children John and George. He may be the John who witnessed a baptism for James Murray (whose son was born at Damside) in 1810. Thomas (b.c.1815) shoemaker in Hawick. In 1841 he was at Kirkyard, on Silver Street in 1851 and by 1861 was at 48 Loan. His wife was Isobel and children included Jean (or Janet), James, Alexander, Robert, John, Ralph, Christian and James (again). Walter (b.c.1770) dyer in Wilton. He married Elizabeth (‘Betty’) Hinshelwood (or ‘Hanselwood’). In 1841 he was living at Underdamside with his wife Betty. Their children included: Jane (b.1793); and Nancy (b.1807). He is probably the ‘Walter Tomlin’ whose child died in Hawick in 1798. In 1851 his widow Betty and son William were living on Underdamside with the family of John Peacock, his son-in-law. William (18th C.) partner with John in an early wool dying business at the Waulk Mill in Wilton. He was probably younger brother of John. In 1780 he and John were witnesses for a baptism for John Clerk, who was at Roughheugh. He and John were recorded as owners of the ‘Waulkmill of Roughheugh, acquired from Langlands’ according to the Land Tax Rolls of 1811. He married Margaret Scott in Wilton in 1766. Their children included: Agnes (b.1767); Jean (b.1769); Andrew (b.1770); and Walter (b.1771). He was recorded at Roughheugh in 1770, with the witnesses being Gavin Turnbull and Thomas Turnbull (perhaps their employees in the mill). He may also be the William who married Jean Smith in 1778. William (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. In 1778 he married Jean Smith and their children included: Alison (b.1779); Alexander (b.1781); Robert (b.1786); William (b.1789); and Jane (b.1794). William (b.c.1800) born in Innerleithen, he was a stocking-maker in Wilton. He was probably son of Walter and Elizabeth. In 1841 he was living in the same residence as the Lockie family on Damside. In 1851 he was living with his brother-in-law, John Peacock, as well as his mother Betty (also formerly spelled ‘Thomlin’, ‘Thomlins’, ‘Tomlin’, ‘Tomlings’, etc.).
Thomson

Thomson  (tom-sin)  n.  John Riddle  (19th C.) married Jessie T., daughter of Walter Wilson and Isabella Richardson. He had sons Robert Riddle (b.1860) and Walter Wilson (b.1862).

Mark  Hawick-born power lifter. He won the British Weightlifting Association Bench Press Championship in the 110 kg division in 2005.

Robert Riddle  (19th C.)  son of John Riddle and Jessie Wilson. He was a baker and later insurance inspector in Hawick. He firstly married Margaret, daughter of baker Robert Young, and they had children Aggie Lamb Dryden, Jessie W., Walter W., Robert Young, Elizabeth Margaret and Thomas Dryden (who died in 1917 and is commemorated on the Mikra Memorial). He secondly married Annie, daughter of Joseph Smith, gas manager. Richard  (18th/19th C.)  from Hawick Parish. He is referred to as being at Woodfoot in 1808 when his sister Janet died. Thomas ‘Tommy’, ‘Tufty’ Cornet of 1955. He rode on foot in 1808 when his sister Janet died.

William Lindsay  (19th/20th C.)  from Allan Glen’s School in Glasgow, he became High School Rector in 1908, and remained in the position until 1919 (see also Thomson).

Thomson  (tom-, tam-sin)  n.  Adam  (15th C.) recorded as a resident of ‘est grange’ at the 1494/5 Justice-aire in Jedburgh. Thomas Clommell in Minto was charged with stealing a pig from him. He probably lived at Grange in Ancrum Parish.

Adam  (17th C.)  tenant in Singdean in Castleton Parish according to the Hearth Tax records of 1694. Rev. Adam  (1813–74)  born in Coldstream, he was son of Dr. Adam, minister there, who was instrumental in abolishing the monopoly on publication of the bible in Scotland. In 1833 he became assistant and successor of Rev. Henderson at the East Bank Church in Hawick, having also been called to Dunion. He was recorded living at the East Port in Pigot’s 1837 directory. He suffered from ill-health, spending 6 month periods in Europe in both 1852 and 1856. However, he remained as minister for 28 years, resigning in 1860 and leaving for Sydney, Australia the following year. There he became the first Moderator of the General Assembly of New South Wales. Before his departure there was a special soiree was held, attended by almost all the local ministers. He was there presented with an illuminated address bearing the Burgh Seal, signed by the Magistrates and about 800 others, as well as other gifts, including a copy of the Encyclopaedia Britannica from J.A.H. Murray on behalf of the citizens of Hawick. For the last 2 years of his life he was Principal of St. Andrew’s College in Sydney. He published several sermons while minister in Hawick, including ‘A pastoral memorial; discourses . . .’ (1860). His sister Elizabeth married John Wilson, manufacturer of Ladylaw, while another sister, Isabella, married Army Paymaster James M. Green and has a memorial obelisk in Wellogate Cemetery. He married Helen Ritchie Wilson (1819–53), daughter of hosiery manufacturer Peter. Their children were Adam, Mary (who married James Hogg) and Helen (who married James Fell). He later remarried. A memoir ‘Life and Ministry of Rev. Adam Thomson, D.D.’ was written by his son-in-law Rev. P. Landreth. A portrait of him exists. Alexander  (15th/16th C.) listed among the Borderers (led by the Homes and Walter Scott of Branxholme) pardoned in 1526 for an attack on the Earl of Arran. Alexander  (17th/18th C.) tenant farmer at Whitechers. He is listed there on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls and is also recorded there in the early 1700s. In 1706 he witnessed a baptism for William Scott, who was also tenant in Whitechers (as well as Robert Scott, the other witness). He was attested to be tenant in about 1710 in the evidence given regarding the state of Hawick’s Common in 1767. William Wilson was his servitor in 1712 when rebuked by the Hawick Parish Session. He witnessed a baptism for tailor John Wilson in 1713. He is probably the Alexander, married to Marion Armstrong, whose children born in Hawick included an unnamed son (b.1683) and John (b.1685). He is probably the Alexander whose daughter Agnes married John Scott (tenant in Hawickshiel) in 1719. Alexander  (d.bef. 1777) resident of Hawick. He married Agnes Cathrae, who died in hawick in 1777. Rev. Alexander McInroy  (d.1897) licensed by Edinburgh Presbytery in 1888, he was assistant at St. Clement’s in Dundee and then ordained as minister of St. John’s in Hawick in 1889. He resigned his position in 1894. Allan  (16th/17th C.) described as ‘in Clarelaw’ in a 1612 document, where a number of people were accused of over-charging interest on loans. Andrew  (b.1716/7) workman of Hawick, chosen as one of the 6 representative Burgessses in 1767 to define the boundaries of the Common. He may be the Andrew, son of John, born in Wilton Parish in 1715. Andrew  (18th C.) cottar at Ashkirk Mill. He married Bessie Riddell and their children included: Robert (b.1745); and James (b.1749). Andrew  (18th C.) recorded at Burnfoot in Ashkirk Parish on the 1794 Horse Tax Rolls. Andrew  (18th/19th C.) farmer at Bewlie, recorded on the 1787–97 Horse Tax Rolls. He also had 6 farm horses in 1797 and paid the dog tax at Bewlie in the same year. He was probably the Andrew recorded being in Lilliesleaf Parish in 1787 when his marriage to Christian Usher was announced in Melrose Parish, with Andrew ‘Heitton’ as cautioner. Either he or a son Andrew was at Bewlie on the subscription list for Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. Andrew (b.1763/4) farmer at Bewlie in Lilliesleaf Parish. He was there in 1841, along with children John, Jessie and Betsy. In 1851 he was a retired farmer at Bewlie Mains, where his son John was farmer. Andrew (b.c.1780) recorded as ‘Independent’ in 1841 when he was living in Lilliesleaf, probably on the north side of Main Street. He was there with his children Helen, George, Esther and Andrew. He married Jean Harvey and their children included: Helen (b.1810); George (b.1817); and Andrew (b.1826), who farmed at Billerwell. Andrew (1788/9–bef. 1861) born in Ashkirk Parish, he was a road surveyor in Ewesdale. He was living at Brieryshaw in 1841 and 1851. He was unmarried and lived with his sister Mary Riddell; she was a widow in 1851, and listed as ‘Fund Holder’ in 1861. Andrew (19th C.) architect who subscribed to Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. Probably the same Andrew was involved with the building of St. George’s Church in Hawick. Andrew (b.1826) born in Lilliesleaf Parish, son of Andrew and Jean Harvey. He was tenant of Billerwell farm for about 40 years in the latter part of the 19th century. He was at Billerwell in 1861 as farmer of 300 acres, employing 5 people. His wife was Janet and their children included Margaret, Jane, Andrew and Mina. He had a brother George and a sister Helen. Andrew (b.1834/5) son of shepherd Robert, he was born in Southdean Parish. He became shepherd at Wigg on Wauchope farm. Like his father he was a strong supporter of Wolfelee Free Kirk. His children included: William, who was also a shepherd at Wigg; and Marianne. His wife died in 1904. Andrew (19th C.) framesmith at Robert Ewen’s factory, who left for Nottingham. He was a popular local singer. He is probably the Andrew listed as a millwright journeyman at Melgund Place in 1841, with wife Agnes and children Walter and Elizabeth. Ann (18th C.) housemaid at Wells in 1785, when she was working for Gilbert Elliott. Archibald ‘Archie’ (16th C.) listed in 1576 as a servant of Sir Thomas Turnbull of Bedrule. There was a promise that he, as well as Martin Crozier in Bedrule, and Martin’s son Martin, should all refrain from theft. However, they were all declared rebels in 1578/9. Archibald (18th C.) foreman at Dickson’s Has sendeanburn nurseries around 1770. Rev. Charles (1795–1871) born in Dalserf in 1795, he was educated at Edinburgh University. He came to Hawick in 1821 to be assistant for Rev. James Arkle of Hawick Parish. There appears to have been some dispute with the Duke of Buccleuch about his appointment, and he did not become Arkle’s successor. He was ordained at North Shields in 1823 and became minister of Wick in 1840, then went to the Free Church at the Disruption of 1843, serving at Wick until his retirement. He subscribed to Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. In 1825 in Hawick he married Janet, daughter of merchant Francis Ballantyne, and had 11 children. He visited Hawick in 1837, during the contested election, and gave evidence at the later investigation. He was mentioned in a poem by David Waters, suggesting he was locally an unpopular anti-Reform minister, and also claiming that involvement in vote rigging was the reason he failed to get support from the local aristocracy for a living – ‘... Or, maybe for a daintie kirk, As did his Reverend Frien’ o’ Shielis. – (Thae Tory priests are very diels For mischief, roguery and cunnin’ ...)[RDW]. It was also said that by marrying the daughter of Ballantyne, he took some of the spoils that had been fraudulently extracted from Ballantyne’s former partner, ‘Auld Cash’ – ‘A black robed son of light – yclep’d a priest, Removed a load of guilt from off his breast, He wed his daughter and then shared the spoil Which half-way went to save Francisco’s soul’[RDW]. David L. son of Rev. Lyndsay, he was educated at Hawick High School. He then attended Aberdeen and Glasgow Universities. He is an evolutionary and environmental biologist and is Associate Professor at the University of Hong Kong. Elizabeth (15th C.) mentioned in 1494/5 when she was allowed to ‘compound’ for resetting ‘Jolfe Glenquin’ (possible Geoffrey Glenholm), who had been involved in the murder of the Laird of Alemoor. She is referred to as ‘in Corrisheuch’, which may be Corrie Sike in upper Teviotdale. However, it is unclear where she came from or how she may have been related to other Thomsons. She is recorded as ‘Besse Thomson’ in the Treasurer’s accounts for 1494/5 having obtained remission from the King. Elizabeth ‘Betty’ (17th/18th C.) Hawick parishioner who died in the early 1700s. She left a ‘mortification’ to help the poor. The Session decided to enter her name in gilt letters on a big black board in the church, as a way of encouraging other donations; unfortunately this project used up all the money she had left! Elizabeth ‘Betty’ (19th C.) baker in Newcastleton according to Pigot’s 1837 directory. She could be the Betty Thomson (or Little) who was a widow at about 17 North Hermitage Street in 1841 and 1851. Elizabeth ‘Betty’ (b.c.1800) baker on the Fore Raw, recorded on the 1841 census. George (15th/16th C.) resident of Spittal. In 1502 it is recorded that he had 2 pigs stolen from him there, by Adam Grahamslaw, son of the Laird of Little Newton. George (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish, when it included Hassendean. The baptism of his daughter Bessie is recorded in Roberton in 1680, ‘begotten in fornication with Isobel henderson’; the witnesses were Robert and James Thomson (presumably close relatives, perhaps his brothers). He married Isobel Turnbull in Roberton in 1684 and had children including Isobel (b.1685) and Robert (b.1688). The witnesses in 1688 were Robert and James. Along with Robert he witnessed a baptism for James in 1686. George (17th C.) resident of Bedrule Parish listed on the Hearth Tax records in 1694. He probably farmed near Newton. George of Fodderlee (18th C.) husband of Margaret Kerr, from whom he probably inherited the half lands of Fodderlee. In 1788 (and continued in 1811) he is recorded as owner of the lands of Easter Fodderlee, valued at £80. His son was Robert. George (18th C.) house servant at Weens in 1791, when he was working for William Oliver of Dinalbayre. Perhaps the same George was also listed as groom at Borthwickbrae in the same year. He was still a servants at Weens in 1792. In 1794 he was a house servant at Larriston, still working for William Oliver. George (18th/19th C.) farmer at Chaple in the 1787–1789 Horse Tax Rolls for Liliesleaf Parish. In 1797 he owned 5 farm horses and 1 saddle horse. George (b.1788/9) born in Cavers Parish. He was farmer at Cavers Knowes in 1841. In 1851 he was a gardener in Wilton, living at Wilton Kirk Style. He was a member of Al-lars Kirk in about the 1830s. His wife was Isabella (from Roberton) and their children included Helen, George, Walter, Margaret, Isabella and Elizabeth. Dr. George William (b.1818) son of Thomas and Anna Drummond from Midlothian. He was brother of Wyville Smith Thomson, who was minister at Cardross, Dunbartonshire. He became a doctor in Hawick with practice on the High Street. In Slater’s 1852 directory he is listed as a druggist on ‘Market pl’ and as part of the partnership of ‘Graham & Thomson’, physicians on Buccleuch Street. However, in 1861 he is recorded living at 10 Buccleuch Street. In 1841 he married Margaret Lang from Dumfriesshire. His children included: George William; Margaret Cadenhead, who married William Scott Elliot; Walter Gowdie; John Lang; Thomas Drummond; Anna Drummond, who married John Turnbull Laing; Emma M.; and Wyville Smyth. He lived at 10 Buccleuch Street and at Northville, Bridge Street. George (b.1820/1) from Lilliesleaf, he was farmer at Newhouses in Wilton Parish. He is recorded there in 1851 with his brother Andrew and sister Helen. George (19th C.) left Hawick in about 1869 and later became Provost in Johnstone in Renfrewshire. He was Provost there 1893–99. In 1897 he gifted to the Town an ornamental fountain, which was sited in Drum-lanrig Square, to be replaced about 1910 with the more elaborate Brown Fountain. He attended the 1899 Common Riding, but was reported being in ill health later that year. Helen ‘Nelly’ (18th C.) laundry maid at Minto in 1789 when she was working for Sir Gilbert Elliot. Isobel (17th/18th C.) recorded receiving money from Ashkirk Parish in 1727. J. (18th/19th C.) resident of Westburnflat. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. James (16th C.) recorded in 1541 on a list of tenants and other associates of James Douglas of Cavers when he complained about his farm of Whitriggs being burned by Walter Scott of Branxholme. James (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish (the part corresponding to Hassendean). He married Margaret Riddell and their children included: Robert (b.1679); James (b.1680); Christian (b.1683); Bessie (b.1686); and Andrew (b.1688). The witnesses in 1680 were William Gray and Robert Graham and in 1686 were Robert and George (who were probably related). He is probably the James who (along with Robert) witnessed baptisms for George in 1680 and 1688, who witnessed a baptism for Robert in 1687 and who witnessed another for Andrew Leyden in 1683. He is probably one of the Jameses recorded at Hassendean on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. James (17th C.) resident at Easter Highchesters according to the Hearth Tax records of 1694. James (17th C.) resident of ‘the netherend’ of Hassendean Parish on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. James (17th C.) resident at Hassendean Townhead according to the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls. James (17th/18th
Thomson

Thomson

C. resident of Hawick Parish, living at Weensland in 1704. He married Agnes Thorbrand and their children included: David (b.1789), baptised in Ashkirk; and Alexander (b.1704), baptised in Hawick. The witnesses in 1704 were David Miller and Walter Paisley. James (17th/18th C.) married Elspeth Scott in Bedrule in 1715. James (18th C.) married Jean Phaup in Minto in 1722. James (17th/18th C.) tenant at Midshiels. His daughter Christian married nursery-man Archibald Dickson. He could be the James who in 1729 married Helen Turnbull in Wilton in 1731. James (b.1718), William (b.1721), Walter (b.1723) and Margaret (b.1726). James (18th C.) resident of Midshiels. He married Isobel Deans and their children included Isobel (b.1726), George (b.1728), Robert (b.1730) and James (b.1732). James (18th C.) married Mary Elliot in Hawick in 1727. James (18th C.) married Rachel Douglas in Wilton in 1731. James (18th C.) married Helen Turnbull in Wilton in 1747. James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Jean Turnbull and their children included Andrew (b.1752). James (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Todshawhillshiel in 1721 and 1726. His children, baptised in Robertson, included: ‘Maury’ (b.1721); James (b.1724); and Jean (b.1726). James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Agnes Turnbull and their children included Christian (b.1718), William (b.1721), Walter (b.1723) and Margaret (b.1726). James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Isobel Deans and their children included Isobel (b.1726), George (b.1728), Robert (b.1730) and James (b.1732). James (18th C.) married Mary Elliot in Hawick in 1727. James (18th C.) married Rachel Douglas in Wilton in 1731. James (18th C.) married Helen Turnbull in Wilton in 1747. James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Jean Turnbull and their children included Andrew (b.1752). James (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Howcleuch in 1764. His children, baptised in Robertson, included Bettie (b.1750), Helen (b.1755), James (b.1758), John (b.1760) and Robert (b.1764). James (18th C.) tenant farmer at Nether Ancrum. In 1778 he had a sasine for the lands of Fodderlee, following a disposition by Robert of Fodderlee, who must have been a near relative. In 1784 East Fodderlee was sold to William Riddell, and along with Riddell he granted a disposition for the lands to John Thomson; this may have been the John born to a James Thomson in Minto Parish in 1783. He was surely related to George, who was recorded as owner of East Fodderlee in 1788 (unless there is an error in forenames). James (1752–1831) born in Hawick. In 1785 he emigrated to the Niagara district of what was then called Upper Canada. There he married Margaret Emerick and they had 10 children; this included David, who rose to the rank of Major in the Canadian militia, a founding member of the Grand River Navigation Company and owner of several mills and Canadian Member of Parliament. He and his sons built their brick house, baking the bricks to which Burns was invited but sent lines of apology – ‘So long, sweet poet of the year, Shall bloom that wreathe thou well hast sown While Scotia, with exulting tear Proclaims that Thomson was her son’. A bi-centenary celebration with speeches etc. was held at Southdean kirk in 1900 – ‘To thee, fair Jed! a holier wreath is due, Who gav’st thy Thomson all thy scenes to view, Bad’st forms of beauty on his vision roll, And mould to harmony his ductile soul’ [JL], ‘And Ednam’s Bard, whose moral strain, I ween, Shall run coeval with the tide of time, While love and taste and genius shall the soul sublime’ [JTe]. James (18th C.) resident of Robertson Parish. He was at Todshawhillshiel in 1721 and 1726. His children, baptised in Robertson, included: ‘Maury’ (b.1721); James (b.1724); and Jean (b.1726). James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Agnes Turnbull and their children included Christian (b.1718), William (b.1721), Walter (b.1723) and Margaret (b.1726). James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Isobel Deans and their children included Isobel (b.1726), George (b.1728), Robert (b.1730) and James (b.1732). James (8th C.) married Mary Elliot in Hawick in 1727. James (18th C.) married Rachel Douglas in Wilton in 1731. James (18th C.) married Helen Turnbull in Wilton in 1747. James (18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He married Jean Turnbull and their children included Andrew (b.1752). James (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Howcleuch in 1764. His children, baptised in Robertson, included Bettie (b.1750), Helen (b.1755), James (b.1758), John (b.1760) and Robert (b.1764). James (18th C.) tenant farmer at Nether Ancrum. In 1778 he had a sasine for the lands of Fodderlee, following a disposition by Robert of Fodderlee, who must have been a near relative. In 1784 East Fodderlee was sold to William Riddell, and along with Riddell he granted a disposition for the lands to John Thomson; this may have been the John born to a James Thomson in Minto Parish in 1783. He was surely related to George, who was recorded as owner of East Fodderlee in 1788 (unless there is an error in forenames). James (1752–1831) born in Hawick. In 1785 he emigrated to the Niagara district of what was then called Upper Canada. There he married Margaret Emerick and they had 10 children; this included David, who rose to the rank of Major in the Canadian militia, a founding member of the Grand River Navigation Company and owner of several mills and Canadian Member of Parliament. He and his sons built their brick house, baking the bricks themselves. He was described as ‘a stern old Presbyterian’. James (18th C.) resident of Castleton Parish. He was at Dinlabyre in 1778. He married Janet Shiel and their son Duncan was baptised in 1778. James (18th/19th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Outerside in 1793, in 1794 was ‘late in Broadlee’ and in 1798 was at Unthank in Ewes Parish. He married Isobel Graham in 1792 and their children included: Jane (b.1793), James (b.1794), Isobel (b.1796) and Janet (b.1799), all baptised in Roberton; and Mary (b.1802), John (b.1803), Edward Aitchison (b.1805), Robert (b.1807), William (b.1808), Christian Aitchison (b.1810) and Edward (b.1811), all born in Ewes. James (b.1776/7) born at Over Huntly, son of James and Mary Stirling. He was surveyor of roads on the Loan, listed in Pigot’s 1825/6 and 1837 directories. He may be the ‘Mr. Thomson’ whose land is marked on the left side of the Loan, just before the Moat, on Wood’s 1824 map. He was listed as a road-surveyor on the subscription list for Robert Wilson’s 1825 ‘History of Hawick’. In 1841 he was living on the Loan with his wife Rachel and children Robert, William, Mary and Rachel. He was still living on the Loan in 1851, as a retired surveyor. He married Rachel Wilkie from Midlem and their children (all born in Ashkirk Parish) included: Andrew (b.1800); John (b.1804); Robert (b.1806), grocer; Janet (b.1800); William (b.1810), hosier; Mary (b.1814); Rachel (b.1817); and Margaret (b.1821). James (b.1781) born in Minto Parish, son of James. He was a forester in Castleton Parish, living at Sandholm. He subscribed to William Scott’s ‘ Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He was listed as a ‘Woodforester’ at Sandholm in 1835–41. He married Margaret Common. Their children included: Janet (b.c.1816), who married Andrew Elliot; Richard (b.1817); Andrew (b.1819); Jane (b.c.1822) and Mary (b.c.1825). Either he or his father was recorded as forester for the Buccleuch estates in Liddesdale in at least the period 1798–1807. He is probably the Thomson from Sandholm who was on the Committee of the Proprietors of Castleton Library. James (18th/19th C.) listed at ‘Pingle’ on the subscription list for William Scott’s ‘ Beauties of the Border’ in 1821. He probably lived at Pingle south of Langholm, but it could have been Pinglehole. James (18th/19th C.) servant at Shaws in Castleton Parish. He was listed as male head of his family in 1835. He married Janet Jackson, but they were rebooked for ‘antemontual fornication’ in 1832. James (b.c.1805) born at Appletreehall. He was a joiner in Jedburgh. His wife was Jane and their children included Mary Ann, John, Elizabeth, Isabella, James and Thomasina. James ‘Jimmy’ or ‘Jamie Tamson’ (1827–1888) poet and song-writer, born in Bowden. He had a maternal uncle, Dr. Willkie of Innerleithen, who was an archaeologist and friend of Sir Walter Scott, James Hogg and Dr. Jamieson. He was also a cousin of poet Thomas Aird. He had a sister who became Mrs. Drummond of Tranent. He herded cows in the Eildons, where he got to know the poet Andrew Scott. From age 16 he served an apprenticeship as a wood-turner and cabinetmaker in Selkirk. He worked there for a while, before moving to Hawick, where he spent more than 30 years. His first compositions appeared in the Dumfries Herald. He was writer of ‘Up wi’ the banner’, ‘The Border Queen’, ‘Hawick Volunteers’ and ‘The Star o’ Robbie Burns’, as well as poems such as ‘The Auld Mid Raw’, ‘The Mither Tongue’, ‘The Wee Croodlin’ Doo’ and ‘Hairst’, many contained in his book ‘Doric Lays & Lyrics’ (1870). ‘Our Robin’ was one of his first poems, being published in the late 1850s, with his ‘Hogmanay’ sung at the New Year of 1860 at the Ewan’s Mill gathering. A great admirer of Burns, he helped found the Burns Club in Hawick; it is said that Burns’ ‘ Kilmarnock Edition’ was his constant companion while he was a herd. He was Masonic Provincial Grand Bard for Peebles and Selkirk, as well as Bard for Lodge 424. He was said to have lived in the auld Mid Raw and later at 54 High Street, where a commemorative plaque was erected in 1995. In the 1861 census he is listed on Wilton Terrace, living with a housekeeper Mary Riddell, and her children Mary and Catherine, as well as their children together, John and Helen. In poor health in later life, he moved back to Bowden in 1886, but returned to Hawick a few months later and was supported by his Masonic brethren. In 1887 he presented ‘Up wi’ the Banner’ to the Cornet, this being only about a year and a half before his death. He died in the Cottage Hospital and is buried in the Wellogate Cemetery, where Lodge 424 erected a memorial obelisk. A wooden cup he made from material salvaged from the Mid Raw is in the Museum. The Hawick Burns Club unveiled his portrait at their clubrooms in 1924. In 2005 the new bridge across the Teviot was named after him, and an adjacent statue (by Bill Landles) unveiled in 2006. James (d.1939) son of John, farmer at Synton Mains. He became a saddler of 6 High Street, taking over the butcher's premises of George Davies. His brothers William and John were both farmers. He was secretary of the Border Oddfellows for 30 years and was for many years Session Clerk for East Bank Church. Janet (b.c.1790) confectioner at the Sandbed. In Pigot's 1837 directory she is listed as a baker and confectioner on the High Street. She was recorded at about No. 12 Sandbed on the 1841 census. John (15th/16th C.) witnessed a sasine for the Erskines in their lands of Synton in 1508, where he is 'John Thomesoun'. Judging by the other witnesses, he may have been local. John (16th C.) servant to Walter Scott of Headshaw. In 1583/4 he was among a number of men from the area who were denounced for failing to appear to give evidence in a case against the Turnbulls of Bedrule. John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Margaret Caverhill and their children included James (b.1649). John (17th C.) tenant in 'Mabinslaw' on a 1684 list of Roxburghshire men declared as fugitives for refusing to conform to Episcopalianism. He probably farmed at Mabonlaw. John (d.c.1687) tenant in Flatt when his will was recorded in 1687. It is unclear if this was the Flatt in Castleton Parish. John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was Isobel Willians and their children included James (b.1674), Isobel (b.1684) and Bessie (b.1687). The baptism of Bessie was witnessed by Stephen Greenshields and Michael Turnbull. John (17th C.) tenant in Lethem in Southdean Parish according to the Hearth Tax rolls of 1694. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick, living near the East Port. In 1706 he was one of the people who were disturbed at night by a group who were involved in drunken revelry, and later charged. He was apparently forced to 'ryse naked out of his bed' and threatened with being taken away by the pretend officers. John (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was living at Drinkstone in 1722. He married Isobel Gray in 1714. Their children included: Andrew (b.1715); Andrew (again, b.1718); and Isobel (b.1722). The witnesses in 1722 were William Riddell and John Scott and in the same year he (along with John Scott) witnessed a baptism for William Riddell, who lived at Appletreehall. He may be the John in 'Brihool' (probably Brieryhill) whose funeral is recorded in 1750. John (18th C.) resident of Giddenscleuch. His son William was baptised in Cavers Parish in 1724. John (d.bef. 1776) grocer in Hawick, mentioned in an Edinburgh marriage record of 1776, when his daughter Christian married David Brown. John (18th C.) farmer at Wester Essenside. He was recorded there on the Horse Tax Rolls of 1789–94. He is probably the John who married Mary Gray and whose children included: Andrew (b.1759); Margaret (b.1760); Agnes (b.1761); Robert (b.1763), who probably took over the farm of Wester Essenside; Jane (b.1765); James (b.1768); Thomas (b.1774); and Mary (b.1776). John (17th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Betty Paterson and their children included Robert (b.1771). John (18th/19th C.) resident of Hawick Parish who married Margaret Boyd in 1789. Their children included: Thomas (b.1792); and John (b.1794). The 1794 baptism was witnessed by the Burgher Congregation. John (18th/19th C.) tailor in Robertson Parish. In 1795 he is recorded at Greenbank. He married Helen Chisholme in Roberton in 1794 and their children included William (b.1795). John (18th/19th C.) Hawick carrier who owned 2 horses according to the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. John (18th/19th C.) farmer at Deanbrae, recorded as owner of 4 horses on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. John (18th/19th C.) gardener at Teviotbank in 1797, when he was working for David Simpson. John (18th/19th C.) possibly son of James, who owned Fodderlee and farmed at Nether Ancrum. He was granted a disposition for East Fodderlee in 1784 and in 1802 sold the lands to Thomas Gregson, farmer at Whitchesters. John (18th/19th C.) tenant of Billerwell farm, in the Rule valley. After the Teviot flood swept away much of Hassendean churchyard (where his ancestors were buried) he moved the tombstone to Billerwell. John (18th/19th C.) farmer in the Hawick area. He married Agnes Lambert and their children included John (b.1834/5), who was a mason. John (b.1789) son of Andrew, who farmed at Bewlie. He himself is recorded in 1851 at Bewlie Mains, farming 1035 acres and employing 35 labourers. He was unmarried at that time and living with his retired father and sister Betsy. John (18th/19th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He married Rachel Scott and their son John was born in 1814, with witness appearing to be Jane Scott. Rev. John (1823–1889) born in Over-Roxburgh, son of farmer William and Margaret Shiel. He was educated at Ancrum School and Edinburgh University. He was licensed by Kelso Presbytery in 1854 and became assistant minister at Selkirk. He was ordained as minister of St. Mary's after it had become a ‘quoad sacra’ church in 1860. He lived at 9 Buccleuch Street and later built Rosalee when his wife inherited a small fortune. He also owned Allanshaws in Kelso. Together they founded St. John’s Church in 1880, and he formally became its first minister in 1881 (having resigned his position at St. Mary’s in 1879). He was Chaplain to the Cornet several times in the 1880s and supported the Common Riding at a time when many of the other local ministers railed against it. His acceptance of an invitation to the Cornet’s Breakfast in 1887 was the start of that event becoming a formal part of the proceedings, and his reciprocation to invite the supporters to his church the following Sunday was the beginning of the ‘Kirkin’. The lands that he purchased included some parts of what had previously been Roughheugh (and owned by Walter Scott). He was a member of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland from 1877. He also served as a Commissioner of Supply for Roxburghshire. His wife was Mary Ann, daughter of James Scott of Allanshaws and Mary Brown. Mrs. Thomson also paid for the new iron pump at the Verter Well (she later married William Ludovic Mair, Sheriff-Substitute of Lanarkshire, and died in 1891). Their children were Margaret Shiel (who married Robert Grierson Laidlaw of Hazeldow, Hawick), and 5 others who died young. He wrote several books including ‘Address to Ploughmen’ (also called ‘Address on the Evils of the Bondage System’, published in Hawick, 1866), ‘The art of weaving spiritualised’ (Hawick, 1869 and 1874). ‘Voices from the Plough’ (Hawick, 1869), ‘History of Peter Plough’ (Hawick, 1872), ‘Life and times of William Thomson’ (1875 and 1879), ‘Alexander Hope: a Hawick story’ (1878, perhaps with a 2nd part in 1879), ‘The Life of James Scott of Allanshaws’ (1879), ‘The Art of Ploughing Spiritualised’, plus at least one other sermon and ‘Speeches delivered on Different Occasions’ (Hawick, 1882). Although ‘Alexander Hope’ was a work of fiction (with a strong moralistic message, particularly against the evils of drink), it contains several local anecdotes that are still of interest. John (19th/20th C.) farmer at Greensidehall and later Sinton Mains. He was brother of saddler James and farmer William. His son John was Secretary of the Oddfellows. John (19th/20th C.) commercial traveller of Hawick, he served as Session Clerk for St. George’s Kirk 1915–24. Rev. John Archibald Glover (b.1883) son of John Cornwallis, minister in Edinburgh and Anne Dundas Glover. His brother was James C. He was born in Sanquhar, Dumfriesshire and educated at George Watson’s College, Glasgow Academy and Glasgow University. He was licensed to preach by Glasgow Presbytery in 1906, became an assistant at St. Andrew’s in Edinburgh, and in 1910 was ordained at Wallacetown, Ayr. He moved to the Tron Kirk, Edinburgh, in 1916 and served with the R.A. Chaplains’ Department 1917–18. He became minister of Hawick Parish in 1925. He also stepped in as ‘interim-moderator’ for St. George’s Kirk when it was without a minister in 1936/7. He wrote ‘Roll of the Parish Ministry of Hawick, A.D. 1183–1929’ (1936), which he had made into a fine manuscript volume, preserved in the church. He married Ethel Maud Richardson and they had a son Aiden (b.1911). Rev. Joseph (1791/2–65) son of John, the Town Clerk of Jedburgh. He was licensed by Jedburgh Presbytery in 1814 and appointed preacher at Caerlenrig (Teviothead) ‘chapel-of-ease’ in 1817. However, 2 years later he was ordained as minister at Ednam, then translated to Morebattle in 1844. He married Margaret (who died in 1844, aged 43), daughter of Thomas S. Hardie, minister of Ashkirk. He later married Elizabeth F. Robson. He wrote an account of Ednam Parish. Rev. Lindsay (1938–2014) born in Edinburgh and brought up in Stow, he studied at Edinburgh University and served as Assistant Minister at Palmerston Church in Edinburgh from 1962. He was ordained as Minister of Bahnornock North in Glasgow in 1964 and then moved to Hawick in 1972 as Minister of Trinity Kirk. He became a well-known and active member of the local community, growing to love its traditions and institutions. He acted as Callants’ Club Chaplain and was also involved with the Probus Club. He was Common Riding Chief Guest in 2008 and retired that year after 36 years of service. Despite being advised to move away from his charge in order to enjoy a peaceful retirement, he insisted on staying on in Hawick. He married Brenda Shanks and their children are Stuart, David and Helen. Patrick (15th C.) listed at the 1493 Justice-aire in Jedburgh when William Douglas of Cavers was fined for his non-appearance. He was recorded being ‘i denui’, which is probably an abbreviation for ‘in dennum’, i.e. he lived in Denholm. Richard (18th C.) shoemaker in Hawick Parish. He married Martha Norval and their children included: John (b.1758); and Margaret (b.1760). His wife was probably recorded in 1787 when ‘Martha Novels Grandchild’ died in Hawick. Richard (18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. In 1778 he married Eu- phan Cairns and their children included: James
Thomson Thomson

Thomson

(b.1779); Janet (b.1781); John (b.1783); and Archibald (b.1785). The witnesses in 1779 were ‘The Speciale Congregation’. Richard (18th/19th C.) recorded at Woodfoot in Hawick Parish on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls. He was probably farmer at Borthaugh Woodfoot, he is probably the Richard whose daughter Isabel died in Hawick in 1815. Robert (16th C.) farmer at Hawthornside ‘Newtown’. His barn and yard are recorded in 1562 in the document dealing with the Baronial land dispute in Feu-Rule. Robert (d.c.1606) minister of Ratho who was presented as minister of Castleton Parish at the end of 1604. He may have held both at the same time, but not for long, since he was dead within less than 2 years. Robert (17th C.) resident of Roberton Parish (the part corresponding to Hassendean). Along with James he witnessed baptisms for George in 1680 and 1688, and along with George he witnessed a baptism for James in 1686. It seems likely that he was father or brother of both George and James. He also witnessed a baptism for John Hope in 1681 and Andrew Leyden in 1683. He married Margaret Gray in Roberton Parish in 1679 and their children included: Helen (b.1680); Dand (b.1682); Robert (b.1684); and Janet (b.1687). He was probably also the Robert recorded in Burnfoot in 1697 when his son Robert was baptised in Wilton Parish. The witnesses in 1687 were James (perhaps his brother) and Thomas Caldwell. The witnesses in 1697 were Adam Scott of Burnfoot and James White. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. His wife was Janet Dickson. Their son George was born in 1687, with Gideon Scott of Outerside and Rev. Thomas Shiel as witnesses (suggesting he was from the countryside to the south of Hawick). His children included: Helen (b.1675); Gideon (b.1684); Isobel (b.1685), who married Robert Nichol in Hawick in 1720; and George (b.1687). He may be the Robert, tenant in Hawick Shiel mentioned in 1679 when Robert Wright was fined for destroying a load of peat that he had cut, and he himself was fined for ‘ane ryott committ upon the said Robert Wright’. He may be the Robert who witnessed a baptism for John Dryden in 1675. Robert (1668/9–1740) tenant in Greens in Castleton Parish. He married Betty Scott, who died in 1739, aged 73 years. He may have had a son William (also tenant in Greens), whose wife Isabella Armstrong died in 1748, aged 40. They are buried in Etterton. Robert (17th/18th C.) tenant at Castlehill (near Newmill) in 1690. He is listed as ‘Rot. Thomson officer’, but it is unclear what ‘officer’ meant. He is probably the same Robert listed as tenant at Newmill on Teviot on the 1694 Hearth Tax rolls, where he was ‘wt tuo kilns’ and paid tax for 4 hearths. He was in ‘Newmilne’ in 1696 when his son Walter was baptised. He may be the Robert who witnessed a baptism for James Storie in 1698 and for smith John Dryden in 1700. He was also in Newmill when he witnessed baptisms in 1700 for William Bell in Whitchesters and Walter Wilson in Castlehill, in 1701 for smith John Dryden (whose wife was a Thomson), in 1702 for Gilbert Elliot in Nether Southfield, in 1704 for Walter Wilson in Castlehill, in 1705 twice (one at Branxholmowntown), in 1706 for Robert Henderson, in 1707 for Walter Wilson again, in 1708 for James Stevenson in Harwood, in 1712 for Robert Scoon in Branxholme Town, for William Allan (in ‘Park’) and for James Scott in Stobicote (husband of his step-daughter), and in 1713 for John Riddell in Branxholme Town. Given all the baptisms that he witnessed, it is likely he was a Kirk Elder, acting for the Newmill area. He was recorded in Newmill in 1709 when his ‘servitor’ John Nichol had a child baptised. He may have been ancestor of the later Robert at Newmill on Slitrig (although maybe that is just a coincidence). He is probably the Robert who married Margaret Falside, and whose children baptised in Hawick included William (b.1694), Walter (b.1698) and Robert (b.1701). The witnesses in 1698 were John Dryden and Thomas Elliot. He is probably the Robert ‘in New milne’ whose step-daughters included: Margaret Scott, who married Walter Hume in 1707; and Anne Scott, who married James Scott (tenant in Stobicote) in 1712. It seems likely that his wife Margaret Falsye was widow of William Scott, and that he took her children into his family. Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Wilton Parish. He was recorded in Burnfoot in 1697. He married a Gray and their children included Robert (b.1697). Robert (17th/18th C.) resident of Hawick Parish. He was tenant at Newmill in 1709 when he witnessed a baptism for James Scott, tenant in Nether Southfield. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish who married Anna Henderson. Their children included: Isabel (b.1701); and William (b.1704). Robert (18th C.) ex-Bailie in 1738 when he was involved with the construction of the Teviot Bridge. Perhaps the same Robert was recorded as an elder of Hawick Parish in 1711. Robert (18th C.) resident of Roberton Parish. He was at Highchesters Mill in 1733. His children included: Robert (b.1733). Robert (18th C.) tenant of Billerwell farm in the Rule valley. His family came originally from the Hassendean area. He is recorded as tenant there on the 1797 Horse Tax Rolls, when he owned 4 horses. He also paid the dog tax in 1797. When he died (in the late 1700s) he left around £1200 to a distant relative called Boog, who spent it all within about a year. Robert (18th C.) only son of George and Margaret Kerr. In 1757 he had a sasine for the half lands of Fodderlee. He married Mary Dick. She and her son George had a sasine for the ‘liferent’ of Fodderlee in 1764. However, he had another sasine for these lands in 1766, along with Isobel Kerr. She was presumably either a second wife, or a relative of his mother. In 1778 the lands went to James, who presumably either a second wife, or a relative of his

